International Gesture

Dr. H. B. Lang, chairman of the department of dramatic at Northwestern University, is about to embark on a new American theater flag to Majors B. H. Pratt Beamer, president of the North American Drama Society. Dr. Lang's address, delivered Thursday night at the Carlisle Elks Club, was marked at the week's end by a daylong conference, Thursday's banquet was the annual banquet of the National Drama League, an international group of students and professors in the field of the performing arts. The conference was held at the University of Minnesota, and the banquet was held at the hotel.

Students Face Fall Housing Difficulties

Students wishing to enroll in UIU for the fall term have found that housing is scarce. "It's not a problem," says UIU coordinator of housing, Miss B. J. P. Voles. "It's all over the place."

Voles said all extra-campus housing facilities are full, and the only available housing is off-campus.

Voles also said that there are "all the usual housing problems" for students who are looking for housing. "The problem is that the housing is so expensive," she said. "It's not a problem," she added, "but it is difficult to find housing that is available for students and suitable for students.

The Student Housing Office at UIU recommends that students who are looking for housing should contact the UIU Housing Office, 1230 S. State St., or the UIU Housing Board, 1234 S. State St., for assistance.

"Desire Under Elm's"

Gripping New England Drama Begins Tomorrow Evening

"Desire Under Elm's," Eugene O'Neill's gripping New England drama, will open Wednesday, July 27, at 8 p.m. in the Union Center for the Performing Arts. The play, directed by Miss B. J. P. Voles, is based on the life of the artist, who was a native of New England.

Six performances of "Desire Under Elm's" will be held this week. The play is being presented by the Union Center for the Performing Arts, a non-profit organization, and the Union Center for the Performing Arts, a private, not-for-profit organization.

"Desire Under Elm's" is the first of three plays presented by the Union Center for the Performing Arts this year. The other two are "The Importance of Being Earnest," by Oscar Wilde, and "Cyrano de Bergerac," by Edmond Rostand.

"Desire Under Elm's" is being presented as part of the Union Center for the Performing Arts' summer season. The season includes "The Importance of Being Earnest," "Cyrano de Bergerac," and "The Importance of Being Earnest: A New Romantic Comedy."
Let’s Grow Up!

For the past few years, a common theme in college life has been the pursuit of adult responsibilities. The stress of gaining an education, finding employment, and establishing one’s career can be overwhelming. However, it is important to remember that these challenges are part of growing up.

One way to cope with these pressures is to focus on the present and the future, rather than dwelling on past mistakes or worrying about the future. By setting realistic goals and working hard to achieve them, you can take control of your life and create a path to success.

It is also important to maintain a healthy balance between work and leisure. Taking time to relax and enjoy hobbies and interests can help you recharge and stay motivated.

Remember, growing up is an ongoing process. By staying focused, taking care of yourself, and celebrating your successes along the way, you can continue to grow and thrive in your personal and professional life.

The Artist

What Sort of Creature?

By John O’Neal

(Editors Note: The following article was contributed to the Egyptian by John O’Neal, a student at Illinois State University. It is representative of the thought processes of many students who are trying to find their place in the world."

The Artist

The question of what sort of creature the artist is, has been a subject of much debate. Some believe that the artist is a divine being, while others see the artist as a mere mortal.

But what is the artist? Is it a creature of the imagination, or a creature of necessity? And is it a creature of the past, or a creature of the future?

The answer to these questions may lie in the very essence of the creative act itself. For the artist, the act of creation is a process of discovery, a journey into the unknown. And it is in this process of discovery that the artist finds its true nature.

And so, we must ask ourselves: What sort of creature is the artist? And what is the nature of the creative act?

Conclusion

The artist is a creature of the imagination, a creature of necessity, and a creature of the past and future. And it is in this process of discovery that the artist finds its true nature.

From the beginnings of Gold Rush days to the end of the era of the Mississippi River steamboats, Illinois has been a land of promise and plenty. But to the west of the Ohio River, south of the Mississippi, the Illinois Country has always been a region of opportunity and adventure.

OLD LAVE HOUSE

The house was built in 1821 and is one of the oldest structures in Illinois. It was built by John Lave, an early pioneer who settled in the area.
