Tony Curtis Good, Horrid; In Latest, Not The Same

By Bill Childs

How Tony Curtis can be so very, very, very good in some pictures and so horrid in others is indeed one of the most disturbing and frustrating phenomena of our times. The boy, as we all know, is a "Darling of the Downtown," a "Sweet Smell of Success" and as he waltzes again in "Miss Liberty," he’s not making any apologies even if he’s not wearing some of the most expensive clothes in the world. He’s no less a figure in the world of fashion than he was in the world of acting, and both he and his wife, sagely, are doing their utmost to keep him so.

In this latest release, "Miss Liberty," Mr. Curtis is as good as he’s ever been. He’s a natural, he’s a born actor, and he’s a born lover, too. He knows how to make a woman feel good and he knows how to make her feel bad. He’s got that rare combination of talent and charm that makes him one of the most desirable men in Hollywood.

But there’s another side to Mr. Curtis that we don’t know so well. He’s a man of many moods, and he’s not afraid to show them. Sometimes he’s happy and free, and other times he’s sad and melancholy. Sometimes he’s happy and free, and other times he’s sad and melancholy. Sometimes he’s happy and free, and other times he’s sad and melancholy.

The other side of Mr. Curtis is the side that we don’t know so well. He’s a man of many moods, and he’s not afraid to show them. Sometimes he’s happy and free, and other times he’s sad and melancholy. Sometimes he’s happy and free, and other times he’s sad and melancholy. Sometimes he’s happy and free, and other times he’s sad and melancholy.

And there’s one more side to Mr. Curtis that we don’t know so well. He’s a man of many moods, and he’s not afraid to show them. Sometimes he’s happy and free, and other times he’s sad and melancholy. SIU Chemistry One Of Best
Because Of Staff - Green

"The chemistry department at Southern is as good as any department around," says Dave Green. "It ranks in the top ten in the nation, primarily because of the staff." Dave, a sophomore majoring in chemistry, is a student at Southern Illinois University. He is studying to enter medical school.

"I visited several colleges before coming to Southern," says Dave. "I decided on this college because of the good education I can get here."

"When I first began, I planned on transferring to the University of Illinois after two years. Then I decided to stay at SIU. Now, after spending two years here, I plan on graduating. The friendly atmosphere impressed me quite a bit and the chemical staff is so good I have decided to remain here."

As Head Of SIU Staff

"I have been here much more after being here for a while, than I expected. The chemistry department is much more impressive as is the University of Illinois in any way. The staff is very good, the department is extremely high in the nation, and the instructors are excellent. The staff can put across their ideas in excellent form."

"If a person flunks a chemistry course here, it's only because he doesn't study."

"Dave plans to go into graduate work after receiving his B.A. degree, and will then enter the radioisotope work."

The conversation changed abruptly at this point, as Dave launched into a discussion of the University of Illinois and its attractions. He stated that Southern is not a party school, as is the University of Illinois.

"SIU is easier than some schools because of the friendly atmosphere," Dave said. "However, I love the work that is being done here. I would rather be a post-school student than attend the University of Illinois for two years."

"However, you can get as much education here as you could at any school; the social functions are excellent, and there are many beautiful women who go to the university."

"In general, the girls are very nice, except that some times they are a bit too busy in making money when they don't want to get married.

"The girls at SIU don't have to be a back-bone to any dull, depressed person. They are a joy to be around."
