Crowning of Miss Southern Tonight

Council Sets Extra Election For May 21

The Student Council has designated May 21 for a special election to fill three more posts on the Council.

Both Thompson Point students and those living in town will be allowed to pick a second senator for the Council because each group cast more than 500 votes in Wednesday’s election.

A senator to represent married students will also be voted on at the same time because James E. Bell, the person elected last Wednesday, is ineligible. He will graduate in June, election officials said.

In other action Thursday night, the Council voted to immediately seat Ric Cox, who was elected Thompson Point senator Wednesday. He will fill the vacancy on the Council created when Judy Wolfe, P-10 senator, resigned earlier this term.

Dil Moore, student body president, allocated $120 to pay the expenses of Miss Southern and chaperone to the Miss Illinois contest.

The proposal was rejected because Councilors said it ran against principles of free government.

The Council planned to require that petitions in future elections be submitted at least two weeks in advance to allow more adequate campaigning.

Council members discussed plans for an annual picnic later this term. No definite date was decided upon.

Dusty Ride Proves Costly For 6 SIU-Bound Hobos

A 125-mile ride in a dusty railcar for six young men cost the young men $45 Friday — and they still didn’t make it to their destination.

The six, covered with black dust, stepped from an Illinois Central coal car into the arms of policemen at Centralia, according to the Associated Press.

They said they were University of Illinois students intending to pay a visit to SIU. But they explained they changed their mind after 125 miles, and they missed the southbound train.

They got off at Centralia and planned to catch a ride back to Champaign, they told police.

Police released them after they paid $45 to an IC ticket agent who said the same represented the fare due the IC.

An IC spokesman in Carbondale said the fare from Centralia to Champaign is only $1.80 a person.

Music Under Stars’ Will Resound at Stadium

The voices and instruments of over 2,500 young musicians will be heard at 7:30 tonight in Memorial Stadium.

They will participate in the 15th annual “Music Under the Star.” The event will be held in Shryock Auditorium in Case of rain.

The performers will include a 1,200-voice grade school chorus, a massed high school chorus of 1,000 voices, a 180-piece high school band drawn from high schools and a 100-piece high school orchestra.

The Kinsman Trio of SIU will be guest artists, Philip Maxwell, founder of the Chil- cagoland Music Festival, will be a special guest.

Yolande Peterson of Mar- done will conduct the elemen- tary school chorus, and John Schorr, choral director at Harrisburg, will direct the high school chorus.

The band will be directed by Norman Hanes of Salem, and the orchestra by Lloyd Wilson.

Morris to Entertain Music Event Guests

President and Mrs. Delyto W. Morris will entertain music directors and guests at a dinner at 5:30 p.m. tonight in the University Center Ballroom.

Later they will attend “Music Under the Star.”

Winners of the Southern Illi- nois Regional competition in piano and voice will be presented. They will compete in the Chicago round, the winner being a mass performance of voices and piano.

Jeffrey Gillam of Dwight, a junior at SIU, is the winner of the preliminary voice competition. He has been selected to compete at the Illinois competition.

In the pianists’ division, many groups on campus and sang and the lead in “Eternity in Love,” a selection of music from earlier this year.

Karen Carpenter, a student in Saline Community High School, won the regional preliminary competition. She will be presented in a piano solo tonight.

Bush to Lecture On Shakespeare

Douglas Bush, professor of English at Harvard University, will speak on “The Relevance of Shakespeare to the Culture of Our Time” in a lecture Wednesday sponsored by the English Department.

Bush’s talk, part of SIU’s year-long celebration of the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare’s birth, is scheduled for 8 p.m. in Davis Auditorium.

It will be free to the public.

Bush, who has received an honorary doctorate of humane letters degree from Southern in 1962, has taught at Harvard since 1937 and previously served as chairman of the English Department at the University of California, Los Angeles.

In 1955, he received his doctorate from the University of Michigan’s Graduate School.

The band will be directed by a conductor from the English Department at the University of California, Los Angeles.

The annual Miss Southern contest will be held at 7 p.m. Saturday in Memorial Stadium.

LAKE Wisconsin Resort, near Old Varsity Loma is increasing each year. the number of men seeking the high school dip­

In connection with the high school credit program, SIU is behind another program designed to give prisoners the opportunity to take beginning college courses, Southern recently gave a battery of college entrance tests to 61 Menard inmates, Oliver said. Dean Raymond K. Dey of the University Extension Ser­vice and a key man in the cooperative program between Menard and Southern, said the scores from these tests, the sentence left to serve and the record are all used to decide if a prisoner should be al­lowed to take the college courses.

If approved, the prisoner can get a background in college courses that he may use toward requirements for a college degree, Dey said. Many of the men who have gone through the SIU college courses at Menard and have fin­ished their sentences, have successfully continued their education after prison.

Dey said Gov. Otto Kerner has personally made an ex­tensive study into the need for more and better programs for rehabilitation of prison­ers. The Governor asked Dey to make a report on the progress being made by the SIU-Menard venture.

SIU's program with Menard had its beginnings with work done for the prison by Charles C. Clayton, professor of journalism at SIU. In 1956, the prison asked Southern to send someone to teach courses in newspaper writing to prisoners who then formed the staff of the Menard Times, the prison newspaper.

After Clayton's courses, the prison paper grew into one of the nation's foremost prison newspapers and has won sev­eral journalism honors. Clayton delights in reflect­ing upon the fact that his prison students were so eager that he had to double the work he normally assigns SIU journalists in his classes.

Last year, Governor Ker­ner proclaimed a "Menard Times Day" in honor of the widely circulated paper.

Followed by the success of the first cooperative venture between the university and the prison, the courses in other fields were begun and eventually a program of three courses each term—for the "college gang" at Menard—was set up.

Some results are already known although it is still too early to predict the long­range success of the program. Several prisoners have com­pleted their sentences and are attending colleges and univer­sities to receive their degrees. According to Dean Dey, some have gone one more step and are working toward their master's degree.

Harry Truman Takes a Walk, Visits Senate on 80th Birthday

WASHINGTON -- Harry S. Truman got a thunderous welcome back to the Senate on his 80th birthday Friday as the Demo­cratic majority tried to overcome with emotion he could not make a speech.

The former president helped make history, however, by the few remarks he did make. He became the first ex-president to address a Senate during an official session in the chamber, under a rule change adopted last year.

"I'm a little overcome," he said, which was echoed, "This is one of the greatest things that has happened to me in my whole life." But he said, because of his emotion, he couldn't take ad­vantage of the opportunity to make a speech.

However, he said, the rule adopted last October entitling ex-presidents to address the chamber on "grave national problems" is "a great one."

He spoke from the same spot that his work and ours is not finished," he added, as he presented a box of pecan pralines to give Mrs. Truman.

"I made them myself last night," he said. "It was the Louisiana cooking specialist of Senate on his 80th birthday.

Later the ex-president was escorted into the Senate cham­ber by Missouri's Democratic senators Stuart Symington and Edward V. Long.

The senators rose to give Truman an ovation in which visitors in the spectator galleries joined.

The earlier informal session with senators took place right in the middle of Far­nagut Square, three blocks from the White House, and cut short Truman's traditional before-breakfast walk.

Truman set out with the intention of strolling about two miles but found himself so surrounded by cameras, microphones and throngs of electronic wire­less that he came to a halt to field the questions of the accompanying newsmen.

The Trinity College Piano Marathon To Cover Bach to 'Sing-Alone'

HARTFORD, Conn. -- None of that panto­mime of craning a neck to catch a glimpse of plastering students for telephone booths for the students of Trinity College, at least not this weekend.

Noon tomorrow will start the 70-hour recital involving 70 agile fingers, a piano in Trinity's Seabury Hall, some Bach, some Beethoven and perhaps some rousing marches.

"I don't know for certain if the remainder of the same piano will be a world record," said Dr. Clarence Barber, director of music at Trinity, "but it will be a collegiate record anyway."

Johnson Given Big Welcome By Atlantans

ATLANTA -- President Johnson got a massive public reception Friday in the streets of Atlanta after making a formal call on Mayor Richard M. Lee, "Justice among the races."

Johnson's 8-mile motorcade was delayed by the largest city in the Deep South drew cheering crowds estimated by police at more than 500,000.

The President constantly stopped by men and womenpeo­ple, "who seek to stir old hostilities and kindle old hatreds."

Johnson's call for racial justice sent a wave of applause from a broadcast audience that included members of the Georgia Legislature.

In his prepared text, John­son had urged southern leaders of the South would find racial peace "before the end of ra­ce."

He spoke from the same steps of Freedom Hall, where Franklin D. Roosevelt occupied 26 years ago in Atlanta and Gaines­ville after it was rebuilt from the ruin of a tornado.

"Today-- with Franklin Roosevelt's son by my side-- I have come to Gainesville to say that his work and ours is not finished," he said. He referred to the speech of F.D. Roose­velt Jr.

Roosevelt, he said, was the champion of the poor and of the aged, the forgotten farmer and neglected worker. John­son pledged to carry forward his father's work and push for equal rights.

Where Were the Real Issues In Candidates' Platforms?

I have just finished reading the platforms of the various candidates for student president or vice-president of the student body. A strong stand on either of the two most important issues is possible, yet spurious by its absence. Nei­ther civil rights nor the most pressing civil rights was mentioned explicitly. What? You thought the word "civil" was in the closed circuit TV were the most important issues? Tak, tak.

Ideas—perhaps ideals—and personal political problems in human relations must be addressed. There are more of these groups: the oppressed minority, the disillusioned and intelligent young Americans, the military and the politicians. Why? suspecting that the dandelions which grow in profusion on SIU campus are of the same type as the ones I used to play with 25 years ago.

From the dandelions my attention wandered to the delicate little leaves appearing almost simultaneously on hundreds of trees all around campus and all around town. Here in Ireland, but it comes quite late here and begins to be afraid that those little leaves will be barren before I have had my fill of admiring them.

My mother's favorite flower was the primrose. I don't know if it was my father's favorite but he always brought home the first primroses, and as I look back it seems they were little unrewarded moments of pride and happiness in our family. Later when I had a boy, 0. whose favorite pastime was walking through fields and groves... Dandelions will happily be made.

The end of my interest in primroses for the season was when my mother could spot them for herself as she cycled along the road. Then my interest ran to cowslips. Cowslips are like mush­rooms. You never can tell where you will find them growing.

On May 1st we had to decide our doorsteps to honor Our Lady. The centerpiece was the May-bush, a black­thorn bush which flowers delicately in spring. You could jump a good many times before you came on a satis­factorily May-bush. If you can caught they fell off. Even carrying it home and jumping on them wouldn't make them for herself as she cycled along the road. Then my interest ran to cowslips. Cowslips are like mush­rooms. You never can tell where you will find them growing.

We students at SIU have always felt that Mr. Anton lacks or objective correlatives, but I suggest that he show proof—idea—perhaps ideals—and personal political problems in human relations must be addressed. If Mr. Anton feels this is an act which the Communists feel they are accomplishing, I suggest that he show proof that his word is "communistic" and stop playing campus politics and start taking stands on impor­

Goldwater Within 100 Votes of the Magic Number

Compiled From Associated Press

By Jack Harrison

Sen. Barry Goldwater has the Republican presidential nomination almost within his grasp, his campaign aides maintain.

Other candidates say they'll still be able to reverse the trend for Goldwater.

Several unofficial counts of convention delegates this week revealed that the Arizona conservative has nearly enough votes committed to him already.

The tabulators say Goldwater can claim about 560 probable votes. This is within 100 votes of the 655 needed to nominate.

In Tuesday's Indiana primary, Goldwater captured the state's 32 convention votes. He also picked up several definite votes in the Washington, D.C., primary the same day.

Other primaries and state conventions this week provided increases in the ever-growing body of Goldwater delegates.

With 85 votes at stake in the June 2 California primary, Goldwater might sew up the nomination there.

Of course, the official selection of the GOP standard-bearer will be made at the national convention in Miami later this summer in September.

A lot can happen between now and then.

It kept getting in.

Of course, the official selection to nominate.

Fall of Outpost Ended Indochina War

By Jack Harrison

HUNDREDS of Frenchmen have settled in Saigon. They say: Saigon can be used to control much of Indo-China and to launch an offensive against the new Viet Minh government.

But the French have already lost their hold on the Indochina peninsula.

The French dropped the ball in Indochina when Dien Bien Phu fell May 7, 1954, after 55 days and nights of fierce fighting.

The 10,000-man French force defending the outpost in high mountain valley along the north Vietnamese border with Laos was captured.

It was just a matter of time until the Communists gained North Viet Nam on the bargaining tables in Geneva.

The French dropped the ball. But the United States picked it up and is still fighting with it.

Southern's Battered Track Squad
Will Face Goliath 'at Kalamazoo

For the second week in a row, Southern's track team takes on one of the strongest powers in the country. The Salukis go to Kalamazoo for a dual meet at 1 p.m. and will try to meet Western Michigan in the fall.

The Salukis were clobbered by Kansas last week in Memorial Stadium and they are just going through the motions today against the Broncos with no hopes of winning. The Broncos, who are defending Mid-American Conference champs, are and a strong bet to repeat it this year. They were successful in the Salukis last year in Memorial Stadium.

In the two teams' most recent outing, SIU finished a decisive second behind the Broncos in an indoor meet at Kalamazoo earlier in the year.

Only one Saluki from last year's track quartet returns, George Woods, who set a new school and SIU record with a toss of 58 feet 3 inches in the shot put event, is the lone returning student.

Since that time, Bob Green who tied the school record in 60-yard high hurdles, Ed Houston, John Saunders, Tommy Brown and Al Pulliam have all departed for one reason or another. Bill Cornell was on the winning mile relay quartet but is out for the season with a leg injury at Jack Peters who placed second in the half-mile against the Broncos last year.

Western's distance medley quartet won at the recent SIU-Fence club meet.

SIU Netters to Face Indiana
In Tough Dual Meet Today

SIU’s tennis team travels to Bloomington, Ind., today to defend its perfect record against Big Ten powerhouse Indiana.

The Salukis have run over 13 straight opponents so far this year, and with the defending Big Ten Champs they will have the advantage of playing on their home courts in the upcoming match.

Although the matches with Indiana and Northwestern take the spotlight, the Salukis cannot overlook Notre Dame. The Irish are not known as a perennial power in tennis as they are in other sports, but the record shows that they have beaten Southern six times in seven meetings. The Salukis’ lone win over the Irish came early last year when SIU won 9-0, but the Irish came back to win last year’s second match, 5-4.

After the first 13 matches, the Salukis have taken 97 of 109 match points, and have three players with perfect records in singles competition: Bob Sprengelmeyer and Al Pena have each won 13 straight this spring while Roy Sprengelmeyer is 11-0.

Bob Sprengelmeyer, who was 18-0 last year, will be trying to complete his Singles/Doubles career with two perfect seasons.

The Dubuque, Iowa, senior also teams with Lance Lusmel to form the number one doubles team for Coach Sexton. The pair has taken nine of 12 matches this season.

Roy Sprengelmeyer will also be trying to end his collegiate career with a perfect season after coming close last year with a 17-1 mark.

Pena, a sophomore from Bogota, Colombia, has not only won all of his singles matches, but also has teamed with three other squad members to post a perfect 10-0 mark in doubles.
