THE BAREHEADED AND THE BRAVE—A six-hour vigil kept by Daily Egyptian reporters revealed that only six of the 132 motorcyclists driving in front of the Technology Building between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Tuesday wore protective headgear. During the same period, the score for passengers was none with 36 without helmets. The station was located on Campus Drive northwest of the Technology Building.

The helmet and the cyclist are staying apart in great numbers. This SIU campus these days, leaving persons concerned with motorcycle safety both puzzled and concerned.

A survey by Daily Egyptian staff conducted from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday showed that of 132 motorcycle or scooter drivers passing the Technology Building on Campus Drive, only six wore helmets. This is about 4.7 per cent.

Of the 126 passengers checked, none of the 36 wore safety helmets. People in the motorcycle trade prefer that term to the also-used crash helmet.

Thus approximately one out of twenty SIU cycle drivers takes advantage of the protection offered by the safety helmet. Why? J. Pennington, a sophomore riding a Honda Super 90, said:

Teaching Phonics
To Be Discussed

A leading writer and research worker in the field of reading will be a guest speaker at SIU this month.

Amber Heilman, director of the Reading Center at Pennsylvania State University, will speak on the subject, "Common Sense in Teaching Phonics," at an annual dinner meeting May 16 sponsored by the Southern Illinois Reading Council and the Lectures and Entertainment Committee at SIU. Heilman is author of "Phonics in Proper Perspective," "Improve Your Reading Ability," and "Working Phonics." The 6:30 p.m. meeting will be held in the University Center. Reservations should be made by Thursday with the Reading Center, Southern Illinois University. Cost is $3 per plate.

Some of the alphabet, he said, is being taught in incorrect order, with the letter "A" taught before the "B". Heilman feels that the "short-sighted" order of teaching is causing "virtually all" of the current reading problems.

With the filing deadline Thursday, only one slate is in sight for the student body presidency at SIU.

Ray Lemon is the Action Party candidate for student body president and Richard Kart is running mate.

Before the applications are complete, all those students who wish to run for office under a party must acquire the approval of the party chairman. The results of the nomination petition will be made public after the Thursday noon filing deadline.

The following week this spring will proceed under the same petitioning process used for the fall 1966 campus elections.

Jeff Yates, Senate election commissioner, announced Tuesday that the totals in November will be kept in the Senate office to pose the number of seats open on the Campus Senate this spring.

The total seats open, according to the new figures, are 16 full-year terms and two half-year terms. The proposal will be presented to the Campus Senate tonight for approval. According to Yates, the total figure of senate seats will remain the same.

The Administration And Freedom of Dissent

A few evenings ago I heard Dean Rusk on a news film expressing his hope that those persons disagreeing with the Administration's war policy would cease their criticism. He then continued to criticise the war policy would lengthen the war, since it might make the Dissent as a division in the American stand, and, therefore, continue fighting in hope of winning the war. Mr. Rusk explained that possibly because it is not sophisticated enough to realize that "this is not the way we make decisions."

The Secretary's statement seems to be based on the belief that freedom of speech is not vital to a democracy, as well as it is vital in the present political system. If the Administration of this nation is having difficulty in its request for the critics to remain silent, then there is no greater enemy to the United States and mankind than that Administration. Secretary Rusk attempted to shift the guilt for a prolonged war on the American people, and the present policy. He felt that critics are responsible for the war and the war can die, with little hardship for all concerned. This is a criticism of the Administration's policy which is responsible for the increased influence in the war, not the advocates of peace. Although the war has clearly been established in finding world peace there is little comfort to be found in the Administration; therefore, there may be some light flickering among the warring faction as evidenced by the guilt they possess. If there is continuance of the President and his followers may admit that the guilt for U.S. involvement in this immoral war, and the recent escalation of it, rests with them, not with the people who are attempting to convince the nation of its error.

Since the writing of the main body of this article, a united front among the Administration has been evident in evidence, because Mr. Rusk's and the President's stand on the war without its criticism. The Administration defended himself by saying that the reason for a prolonged war is not found in the Vietnam War, yet the people of the United States went on to say that since North Vietnam does not understand or entertain freedom of speech, we should not exercise our freedom. Among others responding to the alarm over criticism was Ambassador to South Viet Nam, Dunker, who also suggested that Americans should take on the values of a totalitarian state and not disagree. The impassive barrage of intolerant soundings has begun to show critics as terrorists. If there be reason in this country, it lives within the man repeating the human right to freedom of speech.

Reflections on Vietnam

When at long last I come to rest
I think of Vietnam
I think of all the protests,
Among a student's point of view
And of America's fighting men,
Their super human crew
I cannot force it from my mind
The Death, the war, the loss.
Which from time immemorial
Has been the sad refrain
I think of the dead and dying
Of those who have met their fate
And of war's helpeless refugees
For whom victory comes too late.
Must we stutter and stammer
While our enemies forge ahead?
Shall we be divided
Is it "Better Red Than Dead"?
Shall we stand and quiver
Is there time enough to clown?
Shall we let our enemies beat us?
Or shall we beat them down?
You say to me "What Victory In A Divided Land?"
A friend of mine, I say to you
On which side do you stand.
That we could be so happy
As to see the whole wide world free!
I'd gladly give my life today
If that is how it would be.
But I feel that the cost is greater
Than one man could ever pay.
Yet I know that someone knows the price
And shall tell us one fine day.

Dissent Over Vietnam

The following is an open statement to the university community. I was a member from Jan. '63 to Oct. '66. I was the only non-Vietnamese to publish in the DAILY EGYPTIAN.

I have to try to explain my reasons for dodging the draft by registering for the Selective Service. I would hope that this statement will stimulate thought, not in the United States or in Vietnam, but in the world regarding foreign policy, in general.

In late 1964, I was to report for induction into the Armed Forces of the United States. I did not report, and I did not report, and I am naive to imagine that the U.S. Government would want to send me into an induction center. I have no guilt over my action.

The simple fact is that the U.S. is no longer fighting for the sake of the South Vietnamese people. The U.S. is in Vietnam for the benefit of the U.S. population. This is a majority group not interested in the Philippines being completely destroyed. Nor does it mean that the United States is acting under the influence of evil hostage people who will not rest until they have en- sured a U.S. victory in "World War IV."

The U.S. is not defending the South Vietnamese people; it is defending a political faction within the government. This faction is a minority group that has not even been appointed to the government. The government does not exist, or ever existed, as a political faction.

What the U.S. has done is interfere with the full force of its military might (non-nuclear) into a civil war in a country that does not want it. The U.S. has attacked another country, and in so doing, has taken the actions the U.S. has taken in Vietnam, and has defomed hurt, and defilied hundreds of thousands of innocent civilians, and it is not justified. It has caused an immeasurable loss of human resources.

It has done all this with the justification that the U.S. is acting to protect the "Free World. This is one of the world." To me, this was the policy makers of the U.S. Government know that this is a world in which the free world is acting, they have misjudged the situation, they have decided to proceed with their policies. They have decided to try and change the world, by force, by thinking rather than change their thinking to adapt to the world. No country has the right to do this, and it was for the purpose of the physical education departmental meeting at Nuerlenberg found men guilty of that war will take a swift reversal and become guided by an attitude of understanding and open-mindedness. (I say "our dealings" because I was born and raised in U.S. and good for nightmare than war in still a U.S. citizen.)

The first possible outcome is that our attempt to mold the real world into our immature, and selfish world would be eventually be met with enough friction and that disrupt that society will be a blend of war and humbile attitudes.

The real and possible outcome is that the U.S. will be successful and manage by some other means, the war. If the war is over the threat of force) would be acceptable to the public. (Either the world will conform to the comic book

KA-MENT

A University society could not exist if composed entirely of individuals such as Steve Wilson, L. E. Johnson, and Mike Harris - but if it did possess them it would never advance.

We are trying to do this day by day. I read about a fashion, young, leather-clad fly-boy who was that even the smallest of them will be a small humble but proud country. By his side is his shapely girl companion who is also decked out in a black leather flying suit. Both sport side-arms.

I read that to the north of this country exists an evil, war-like people by led by a cruel, white-bearded man who will not rest until he conquers his freedom loving neighbors to the south.

It would seem that all were lost until I go on to read about the many handsome young soldiers from a land far away who also love peace.

These brave lads have come to rescue the small country, and drive off its foreign invaders.

But who are these peace lovers, who are these friends from the north not fight like civilized people but sneak about like wild beasts, hunting for good cover of darkness and sleep under the bed. Many do not wear uniforms in an effort to disguise themselves, they are incorruptible good country to the south. It is bad people are killed.

Now I read war comic books. I read the world tak e a swift reversal and become guided by an attitude of understanding and open-mindedness. (I say "our dealings" because I was born and raised in U.S. and good for nightmare than war in still a U.S. citizen.)

The first possible outcome is that our attempt to mold the real world into our immature, and selfish world would be eventually be met with enough friction and that disrupt that society will be a blend of war and humbile attitudes.

The real and possible outcome is that the U.S. will be successful and manage by some other means, the war. If the war is over the threat of force) would be acceptable to the public. (Either the world will conform to the comic book

Tennis, Anyone?

To the Editor:

It has frequently disturbed me that SIU, a school of 12,000 students and 1,650 faculty members, provides only 16 tennis courts and no lighted backboards for recreational use.

I find it a sorry condition, indeed, for a university purporting to be a world leader in the arts and sciences over Vietnam.

In the country.

Anachronism, Charlie Brown, and You!

To the Local Anachronism

The following is in relation to your article appearing in the April 26 edition of KA. Your article "KA Anachronism, Charlie Brown, and You!" was one of the most interesting and thought-provoking articles I have read in a long time. I would like to express my appreciation for your efforts.

I realize that this is a bit of a departure from the usual format of your articles, but I believe that it is an important topic that needs to be addressed. Anachronism is a term that is often used to describe the act of putting something out of its proper time or place. In your article, you examine the ways in which Charlie Brown's antics reflect this concept. I believe that your analysis is both insightful and entertaining.

For example, you discuss how Charlie Brown's activities often seem to be out of sync with the events of his time. You mention how, despite being surrounded by modern technology, Charlie Brown continues to use outdated methods of communication, such as writing letters instead of using email. You also note how his relationships with others often seem to be out of sync with society's expectations, as he continues to chase after Lucy even though she has clearly demonstrated that she is not interested in him.

I also appreciated your discussion of the ways in which Charlie Brown's behavior reflects a broader societal trend. You note how, in a world that is constantly moving forward, Charlie Brown's antics serve as a reminder of the importance of introspection and reflection. Your analysis is both thought-provoking and timely.

Thank you for your continued efforts to bring interesting and thought-provoking articles to our attention. I look forward to reading more of your work in the future.

Sincerely,

Commencement Calls for Planning

By Kristine Nelson

In about five weeks, some two thousand SIU students will don the traditional mortar board and gown and participate in graduation exercises, the final university function for many of them.

In addition to years of academic preparation, several formal administrative graduation requirements must be fulfilled before a student is allowed to receive his degree.

Those requirements start with "senior check," a procedure which originates in the office of the registrar when an undergraduate has accumulated 130 hours, usually after fall or winter term of his junior year. Senior check involves the compilation of both requirements and electives and is more of a process of elimination. Academic advisors are notified as to which courses their advisees are lacking in order to fulfill the courses necessary to attain a specific degree.

The process of senior check may originate from the student himself. Requests for graduation checkup are available in the registrar's office.

Upon graduation, each student applying for a degree must fill out an official "application for graduation," also available in the registrar's office. This relatively brief form is short and well suited for parents', names, home addresses, etc. The student also lists one or more of the exact name he wishes to appear on his diploma. Graduate students and associate degree students must complete two forms—one to be submitted to the registrar's office and one to the Graduate School or the Vocational-Technical Institute Office. A student is not an official candidate for a degree until he has filled out the form and submitted it to the proper office or offices.

A $17 graduation fee is required of all candidates for the microfilming of dissertations. Each dissertation must be microfilmed, but editing, and copying, writing, etc. carrying an additional $5 fee, are optional, according to Mrs. Harlan Reeder, of the graduate school.

She also explained that a process similar to the undergraduate check exists for graduate students.

Candidates for the master's degree are checked for the English requirement, thesis deadline and number of course hours necessary in each curriculum.

Doctoral candidates must receive official departmental clearance and a dissertation check to be sure that all requirements have been fulfilled.

At the time he applies for graduation, each student must be measured for his cap and gown at the University Center Bookstore. If a student is not in residence during the term immediately preceding his graduation, his cap and gown may be ordered through the mail.

Ordinarily the cap and gown may be picked up on Friday before Commencement and must be returned to the bookstore following the ceremony. Each graduate is entitled to five copies of the graduation invitation, which are secured at the bookstore about two weeks before Commencement.

Attendance at graduation is compulsory, and students not able to attend must petition at least five weeks before the ceremony to be graduated a degree in absentia. A student who does not appear at graduation exercises and has not formally petitioned for permission to be absent is disqualified from graduation.

According to Mr. George Criminger of the Registrar's Office, final course grades of undergraduate seniors are not required to be submitted by instructors before those of other classes members. Because the student receives an empty diploma folder at commencement exercises, he must participate in the function and not be officially graduated in the same term.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Public Health Service official warned Tuesday that the heavy plane and ship traffic from South Vietnam has boosted the chances of bubonic plague outbreak in the United States.

Dr. David J. Sencer, director of the Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, said no known cases of plague among the general public have been reported thus far, presumably because the Public Health Service and the military have increased their surveillance of all cargo traffic from South Vietnam.

The plague, carried to man primarily by rats and other rodents, has reached epidemic proportions in many parts of South Vietnam, where hundreds of civilians have been treated for the usually fatal disease.

The health service’s inspection teams are chiefly concerned with finding plague-infected rats that have crawled aboard a U.S.-bound ship or plane in Vietnam and escaped detection, Sencer said in an interview.

“We do know that there are attempts at rodent control at all Air Force bases, but we also know there are civilian ports and bases where rat control is less than ideal,” he added.

“The fact that rats are getting aboard ships and planes is an indication that work to date is not completely effective,” the doctor said that so far the service’s inspection teams “haven’t had a plague-infected rat get out without detection, but we have found rats aboard ships and aboard aircraft.”

“We don’t think any of them have escaped but we don’t know,” Sencer said. Once a rat does escape, he said, it could threaten not only the occupants of the military base but nearby civilian areas.

“It’s kind of hard to keep a rat on base,” Sencer explained. Besides boosting the manpower spent inspecting military cargoes, the Public Health Service’s 523-man surveillance team also is helping the armed forces train their own inspection crews, the doctor said.

Sencer’s warning came after he confirmed that a Vietnam veteran was hospitalized in Texas for 16 days last fall before doctors realized he was suffering from bubonic plague.

The victim, a 21-year-old serviceman on furlough, recovered with no complications and there was no apparent spread of the disease to other patients at the veterans hospital in Dallas, Sencer said.

“It was the first bubonic plague case imported into the United States in 42 years.

House Committee Amends Conciliatory Housing Bill

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — An open housing bill, considered a conciliatory offer to advocates and opponents of the controversial subject, was amended Tuesday by the Illinois House Public Welfare Committee.

Submitted by Republican Speaker Ralph Smith of Alton, the bill would ban discrimination in sale or rental of property on the basis of race, national origin, or creed for more than six families.

By the exemption would be lowered to two-family units if none was occupied by the owner.

No further action was taken after the committee adopted an amendment placing enforcement powers in the Illinois attorney general, instead of state’s attorneys as originally proposed.

Robert E. Cook of Springfield, executive vice president of the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards, said he favored the amendment to require that persons alleging discrimination be bonafide buyers.

Democratic Rep. Lewis Caldwell, Chicago Negro, termed the bill “so weak it’s like water in the milk.”

Another Negro, Rep. Cornelius Davis of Chicago, agreed with Caldwell but added: "We’re going to have to take what the Senate gives us."

Mrs. Marge Sherman of Chicago, who attacked the measure, said, "The Jewish, the Irish and the Polish and other groups want to live with their own kind."

Mrs. Sherman represented the Lithuanian Homeowners, Southwest Homeowners Protective Association and the Chicago Lawn Civic Association.

“Cheer up, No. 51. Anyone can trip over 3rd base. But thanks to your close Norelo shave, you looked marvelous doing it.”

Officials Differ
Over Issue of Vice Problems

NEW YORK (AP) — State and city officials differed sharply Tuesday with some aspects of a report by the President’s crime commission urging a lessened emphasis on the enforcement of “vice laws.”

An across-the-country survey indicated a general feeling on the part of prosecutors and police that relaxation of legal curbs on gambling and prostitution would be unwise.

Some of those interviewed agreed with the commission, however, that in the light of present-day U.S. social attitudes it may be time for a new look at the laws on drunkenness, fornication, adultery, sodomy, homosexuality and abortion.

Clarence Kelley, police chief of Kansas City, Mo., declared that easing laws against gambling and prostitution would “provide fertile ground for organized crime.”

“When you say we need a little crime, how much is a little?” he asked. “Organized crime has a way of moving in.”

A spokesman for the San Francisco Police Department said he would go along with the commission’s recommendation that drunkenness be treated as a social problem rather than a crime, remarking “we make some 20,000 arrests a year and most of them are for no other charge than drunkenness.

“But as far as gambling is concerned, the fact that people like to gamble is no reason to legalize it,” the spokesman said.

Fred L. Inbau, professor of criminal law at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., opposed liberalizing the laws on gambling.

“Gambling is impossible to keep in proper bounds,” said Inbau. “It’s inherently attractive to hoodlum elements, who manage to get into it some way.”

Inbau said there was a case for repealing laws against certain sexual acts involving consenting adults and that abortions should be legalized.

3-Man Apollo Orbit
Slated Early in ’68

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first three-man Apollo orbit of the earth has been rescheduled for early next year, space chief James E. Webb said Tuesday, but late 1969 is still the goal of a manned lunar landing despite the year’s delay.

At the same time, Webb announced that the crew will be the backup trio for the astronauts killed in the spacecraft fire last January.

They are Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra, 44, a veteran of the Mercury and Gemini programs, and two who have never been in space: Air Force Maj. Don F. Eisele, 36, and Walter Cunningham, 35, a civilian.

Webb and his aides told the Senate Space Committee of numerous steps taken to fireproof both the spacecraft and the astronauts’ suits and to provide speedier escape in an emergency.

Webb said a 100 per cent oxygen atmosphere will be used, although there have been suggestions that a less flammable mixture be substituted in view of the January tragedy at Cape Kennedy.

Dance Club to Hold Annual Concert
At 8 p.m. Saturday
"Cat's Feet and Sticky Fingers..." "Swingin' Chairs..." "Born Free..." "String Song..." these are a few of the dances students in the Modern Dance Club have created and will perform at the group's annual concert at 8 p.m. Saturday in Shryock Auditorium.

The public is invited to attend the concert, and there will be no admission charge, according to Mrs. Jane Dukak, the club's faculty adviser.

"Swingin' Chairs" is an unusual number which "grew out of consideration of how to take an everyday object and incorporate it into a dance study," she said. "Explorations into the potentials of chairs and movements reveals that chairs can be "worn" and can even walk."

Suzanne Oliver is president of the club and Sandy Nuger is vice president.

Happy Stay in Florida

SIU Students’ Conduct Praised

Don’t mention anything about nasty college students in hearing distance of Mrs. Ambrose E. Mueller of Plantation, Fla., Mrs. Mueller provided lodging for four SIU students during spring vacation.

Mrs. Mueller, who was happy to provide the services of her home free of charge, just can’t say enough in praise of the four collegians – Joe Holder, Stephen Jegel, Chandler Roche and Roy Gene Hess. The four went to church on Sunday, played with her children at an Easter egg hunt and even stayed away from the beach when word spread of a “rumble” one evening.

All this talk about the college beach boys being a menace just doesn’t go with Mrs. Mueller. “They’re like the kind of boys I want my own to be. I’m all for students, especially students like them.”

The four students all sort letters of appreciation to Mrs. Mueller, and gave her a beautiful mahogany lace Susan. President Morris wrote Mrs. Mueller thanking her for the hospitality shown to the four.

Flying Instruction Offered

By ROTC Program at SIU

The Air Force ROTC program offers flying instruction to all seniors eligible, according to Major R.W. Propst.

Propst said that out of 15 men eligible only eight are flying at the time. He said that the rest of the candidates will waive the flying because of academic requirement or they will fly next fall.

All the candidates for the program must complete 36 ½ hours of which 15 are solo, 20 duo, and 1 ½ check rides. The checks are made after nine hours, 19 ½ hours and on the final flight, according to Propst.

Propst is in charge of the program and teaches the ground school. The prospective pilots actually do their flying at Southern Illinois Airport in Carbondale, Illinois.

Instructor at the airport teaches the actually flying, under the FAA flight instruction program.

Propst said that about two or three of the cadets will receive their pilot’s license after completion of the written exam this spring.

Propst and Col. Edward C. Murphy are the only two pilots in AFROTC. Capt. John Stenck and Major William Schenk are navigators.

Major Propst has flown about 4000 hours. The senior pilot said that he flies about two or three times a month, or 10 hours at Scott Air Force Base at Belleville, Ill. He flies at U-3A, which is a military version of the Cessna 310.

Colonel Murphy does no flying any more but has logged about 3000 hours.

The flying program at SIU is handled through the AFROTC/FAA contract, according to Propst.

Major William Schenk said there are several requirements to be met by seniors.

The prospective pilot must pass an Air Force aptitude test, be physically fit, a senior in AFROTC, and he must have had a two-hour academic course in flight regulation, navigation, and weather. The FAA test must be passed before the seniors can solo fly.

SIU students, Mrs. Mueller replied: “I just thought you might like to know that four of the finest men around are right there at your university.”

Five Illinois Preps Signed

Essick Happy Over Saluki Swimming Recruiting

By Bill Kindt

Recruiting is an integral part of intercollegiate athletics. Without a steady recruiting program it would be impossible for college teams to have winning records. And, in football, to compete for Ray Essick, the Saluki swimming coach, Essick is in his first year of college coaching, having made the transition from New Trier High School to SIU last fall.

Essick's recruiting is more demanding than that which he first realized.

"Recruiting is the life-line of coaching. It is a lot of work with traveling every weekend, telephone calls and letters, but I enjoy it," Essick said.

The rookie coach hasn't done too badly for himself in getting new talent to fill the gaps that are always created. Southern will lose at least six top swimmers from last year's squad through graduation.

Essick has received seven signed letters of intent from high school swimmers—five of which are from Illinois products and another who just recently moved out of the state.

The five Illinois boys, are all from Northern Illinois, where Essick spent his high school coaching career and has some weight.

The list of letters of intent signers includes three high school All-Americans, Bruce Steiner, Flossmoor; Bob Schoos, Morton Grove; and Greg Dapanja, Parnold Beach, Fla., have all expressed desire to attend SIU.

Steiner is the state 400-yard freestyle champion and has a career low of 3:52.6. Schoos was the runner-up of the 200-yard freestyle at the state meet this season and earned All-American qualifications in the 400-yard freestyle as well. His time at the 200 is 1:47.7. Casch is also a freestyler with a low of 1:48.7 at 200 yards.

Others who have signed SIU tenders include: Jim McNaughton, Palos Heights; Craig Antonow, formerly of Glenview; Peter Dahlberg, Chicago; Chip Avery, Deerfield, John Curran, Chicago and Don Dahlstrom, Deerfield.

Dahlberg is the state AA breaststroke champion from Lane Tech High School, Avery and Dahlstrom are freestylers from Deerfield High School and Curran prep's at Loyola Academy, the National Catholic championship team.

Essick has hopes of signing Vince Capriles from Caracas, Venezuela. Capriles is the best breaststroker and individual medalist in Central America and has expressed a desire to attend SIU, he must first pass a stiff English test, which every foreign student must pass before he can be enrolled at SIU.

The results of Essick's recruiting will not take effect for two years when the新鲜 are eligible for varsity competition, but Essick already has prophesized the largest freshman team in Saluki history next year, that is if all those who have signed letters of intent decide to sign NCAA letters.

A letter of intent doesn't obligate an individual to attend a school. Any one of the boys who have signed these letters can decide to go elsewhere. But should these boys sign NCAA letters then they must attend SIU or wait two years before they can compete for any other school.

"We are actively competing with Indiana, Southern California for top quality swimmers. This is very significant for the University. We are beating the Big Ten and Big Eight schools for talent in some instances," Essick concluded.

Frazier, Knickerbockers Meet, Negotiate Possible Contract

Walt Frazier and New York Knickerbockers General Manager Eddie Donovan have met twice for the purpose of contract negotiations during the last three days. The most recent meeting was learned from Frazier's attorney, James R. Zimmer, Tuesday.

Frazier was drafted by the Knicks of the National Basketball Association a week ago and his drafting has prompted speculation and rumors regarding contract negotiations.

Donovan came to Carbon- monday announced, a conference between Donovan, Frazier and Zimmer was held late that afternoon.

Zimmer said, "a general discussion of the matter took place, culminating in presentment of Frazier's position, which matter was concluded under advisement by Mr. Donovan."

Zimmer said he received a telephone call from Donovan Tuesday morning and a second meeting was set at 4 p.m. Tuesday at Zimmer's office.

At the meeting a counter proposal was made by Donovan, offering to negotiate a contract for $41,000 for the Knicks. Money offers were made by both parties; however, no agreement was reached, according to Zimmer.

The amount of these money offers was not made known. Speculation on the terms of contract has generally started at $40,000. Frazier has also been offered a draft by the Chicago American Basketball Association and has one year of eligibility left at Southern.

If he decides to stay at SIU for that final season both clubs lose rights to him and he goes back into the pool for the 1968 player draft.

Evidence points toward the fact that Frazier is considering turning pro next season if the Knicks meet his terms or come close enough to suit him and his attorney.

Henry Accepts NCAA Rule

CHAMPAIGN, III. (AP) — The president of the University of Illinois expressed disappointment over the NCAA punishment added to Big Ten reprisals against the University of Illinois for the fudging of its basketball conference standing.

However, Dr. David D. Henry said "as a member of the NCAA, the university respects its authority and the principles under which it has acted," the NCAA's Council of Illini on two years probation Saturday, barring the Illini from Rose Bowl, NCAA basketball tourney play, and from participation in the NCAA's football television program for two years after this fall.

In the stricter Big Ten enforced resignation of three Illini coaches and five of five fist athletes permanently ineligible in connection with a $21,000 Bush fund disclosed by President Henry last December.

Long Baseball Layoff Ends Friday

The Saluki baseball team—with hopes that winter has finally left—will play St. Joseph’s University in Collegeville, Ind., Friday and Kentucky Wesleyan on Saturday, all Saturday night. In an attempt to start some of the rustiness out of his team, Lutz may schedule a double header with St. Joseph’s Friday.

Southern has played more games already this season than most of the colleges in the United States. The extra week of rest may help the team for the NCAA regionals which will be coming up short.

After this weekend, SIU has only five more scheduled games and three of those may be canceled if the Salukis are extended an invitation to play in an NCAA regional. This is a probability because Southern has one of the best records in college baseball circles to date. The NCAA regional would cut off a three-game series with Parsons College May 27 and 28 at Fairfield, Ia.

Don Kirkland is the likely starting pitcher for the game with St. Joseph’s. Kirkland, 6-3 for the season, was forced to stand in a game unless one of the pair is scheduled to start in a game two of a potential doubleheader with St. Joseph’s.
