Neil Hooley, chairman of the Forestry Department, announced selection of nine SIU forestry majors to receive Sahara Coal Company scholarships for the 1963-64 school year.

The scholarships are for $325, one third being distributed to the recipients each quarter to pay tuition and fees.

Under provisions of the grant, selections for awards are made to promising students interested in forestry careers. Pennington Survey Reveals All... Woody Hall Attitudes About Men

The long-awaited Pennington survey of attitudes of Woody Hall women toward the men of SIU has been released. This is the work of Jo Ann Pennington, who talked to about two dozen Woody women. The interviews included questions like these:

Are SIU males gentlemanly? Are they polite? Are they tight with their money? Are they forward? Are they dull?

Miss Pennington's survey disclosed these opinions:

On politeness: Most of the girls said the majority of SIU males were very polite and mannerly.

"Two informed me there were extremists on this campus, the very polite and the very rude," Miss Pennington said. "One girl replied with an emphatic "no" when asked if she thought the men were polite. They don't open a door for me; if anything, they try to beat me to it."

On money: "Boy, I'll say," one respondent answered. "One guy even wanted me to buy him a Coke. At first I thought he was joking, but the guy was really serious."

This adverse comment was balanced by this judgment: "Well, if they have the money to spend, then they will spend it. If they don't, then you can't expect them to spend much."

On balance, Miss Pennington found that most of those interviewed thought SIU males were not too tight considering the income levels of their families and the fact that many girls said the majority of SIU males are working their way through college.

On forwardness: One small-town girl answered in the affirmative when asked about the forwardness of SIU males. "Some are very polite and the others are very forward. They don't beat me to anything."

The survey also disclosed that most of those who were interviewed thought SIU males were not as forward as their counterparts in the Empire State, but that some small-town SIU males might seem "rather fast."

"It really depends on who you talk to," another respondent replied.

Dull or imaginative: "Yes, they're imaginative. They don't have the excepti..."

Council Aims Annexation, ROTC, More Library Hours, Flag Usage

The Student Council Thursday discussed annexation to Carbondale, library hours, ROTC, NSA and desecration of the American flag.

A bill was introduced which would express the council's approval of a proposal to annex the university to the city of Carbondale. The SIU Board of Trustees is now considering the measure.

The bill was referred to Campus Community and Student Welfare committees, for joint study.

Some student senators would like to see Morris library remain open additional hours,-specifically, on Saturdays from 3 to 7 p.m., on Sundays during the summer term and next Dec. 1, the last day of Thanksgiving vacation.

Micki Goldfeather, School of Liberal Arts and Sciences senator, said the question of library hours has come up in the past and the basic problem remains a lack of money to pay for keeping the library open additional hours.

She said the two-hour closing period on Saturday evenings is to enable student workers to do cleaning and washing in the library, which would otherwise have to be done late Sunday nights.

The bill was sent to the Campus Development and Services Committee.

A council committee to study student attitudes toward ROTC will be composed of Howard Benson, Ron Centanni and William Carol. The bill authorizing the committee notes that, "The joint amount of the student opinion space in the Daily Egyptian has lately been devoted to the question of compulsory ROTC." The committee was directed to "make recommendations to the council, the administration, and other interested parties if deemed advisable.

The council approved a $100 contingency fund for the National Student Association campus coordinator for the year. One use of the money will be to publicize the activities and purposes of the organization. The council in currently studying a proposal to discontinue SIU affiliation with the NSA.

Howard Benson introduced a bill concerning alleged misuse of the national flag by a student organization last week.

The bill states that "signs appeared on this campus that were a representation of the American flag and on which information was printed regarding a meeting of a campus organization."

"According to federal statute," the bill continues, "no advertising or other writing is to be written on the flag of the United States or any representation thereof."

The bill would mandate the student body president to write a letter to the editor of the Daily Egyptian explaining "proper procedures" in respect to use of signs on campus and use of the flag. The bill went to the Campus Development and Services Committee.

The signs in question were used to give notice of a meeting of the Young Democrats Club.

The Finance Committee was given a bill which would appropriate $169.25 to send a delegate of the University to the United World Federalistic conference on World Law and International Action. The conference will be held the last week of this month.

Robin Moore, of the ad hoc Daily Egyptian Committee, reported to the council on progress in plans for the Daily Egyptian insert which has been authorized by the council.

Selection of an editor and adviser for the insert should be made in about a week, committee members said.

New Viet Nam Regime Faces Uncertain Future

Compiled From Associated Press

One of the places in the world with the biggest question mark concerning the future in South Viet Nam, where a military coup d'etat overthrow the regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem, is Saigon.

The southeast Asian nation—a recipient of massive military and economic aid from the United States and a battleground against the Communists—now atop Viet Nam—appeared relieved to be rid of the old government. The Diem administra-tion's stormy recent history included clashes with the Buddhists and charges it allowed state tactics to suppress freedom and dissent.

RECOGNITION GRANTED

During the week U.S. officials consistently pressed the Diem government in Saigon, the capital city, and on Thursday granted recognition to the new military-backed regime.

The move followed by one day a request from the new military-backed regime for a continuation and strengthening of relations between the two countries.

U.S. officials said that consulta-tions on all aid programs to South Viet Nam will take place in Saigon with the appropriate officials of the new government. Important aid programs had been negotiated during the last month of Diem's regime.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., in Saigon, over the formal note replying to the Viet Nam request for recognition, said the U.S. action followed by a few hours Britain's recogni-tion of the military regime in Saigon.

Convoys Testing Russian Intent

The wcelicular testing conducted recently by U.S., British and French forces on the West and Russian troops at East German checkpoints on the other hand bolstered this week like a thrill-a-day war of nerves. Soviet Premier Khrushchev said yesterday at a point the situa-tion was dangerously close to a threat that was eased only because the Americans backed down. U.S. officials denied that the Berlin-bound troops flinched from their mission, but added that they were not ready to write which established anything less than the right of unrestricted access.

For this reason he chose to work out access and other arrangements.

Conferences Working Wall Street Hours?

12-To-5 Shift Touches Off Wrangle

WASHINGTON—A charge that Congress is considering Wall Street hours of 12 to 5 while legis-lators sit at the dawn and dusk of legislation has touched off a lively row Thursday. It began even before the regular 12-o'clock convening time, when Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., accused Sen. Thomas A. Dodd, D-Conn., who volved the complaint against short hours and cerebral incoherence.

"If you want night sessions, we'll keep you here and then you will know what's going on!" Dirksen shouted at Dodd when the two met on the Senate floor.

Dodd, who started the verbal bat-tle Wednesday night replied that he was not frightened by Dirksen's "menacing words and insinuations."

Dodd was a little late reaching the chamber and before he arrived Dirksen noted that he was the brave crusader from the Natmeg State who, he said, "has such zeal for being here that he never gets on with the business."

Shortly before the Senate recessed at 7:15Wednesday night, Dodd hit into both the Democratic and Republican leader's wall of fire for longer sessions.

"I see no sense in recessing every night at a convenient hour for the benefit of senators who wish to have dinner, go to em-barrasses, or be entertained."

"The job is not a 12-hour job. Dodd added. "We are being frivolous with the people's business," referred spe-cifically to Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the Democratic leader, and Sen. John S. Cooper of North Carolina, who de-fended the "right of the majority to have the law of the Senate have longer sessions."

"It is not the headlines but the results which count," Mansfield said, adding that the results to date require no apologies."

Busts Fall Back to the House Rules Committee...

In calling Clay's words, U.S. officials do not blame the general. But the fact remains that lack of a firm, written agreement was the source of much trouble, culminating in the Berlin blockade.

U.S. officials always emphasize this fundamental doctrine, but con-cede they would be happier if the thesis had a firmer basis—a written agreement with the Soviet.

There were "verbal understandings" and "gentlemen's agree­ments" with the Soviets on Berlin, but little is written. The reasoning still is obscure.

CHICAGO—Gov. Otto Kerner said Thursday he is confident the U.S. will re-elect him in November to any candidate the Republicans put up.

The Democratic candidate, who returned to Illinois Wednesday from a three-week trade mission to Europe, termed his poll which reportedly showed he would be defeated next year by either of two front-running GOP candidates, "J'm an announced candidate, I'm running and I'll defeat any candidate the Republicans put up," Kerner told a news conference.

Kerner Confident

CHICAGO—Gov. Otto Kerner said Thursday he is confident the U.S. will re-elect him in November to any candidate the Republicans put up.

The Democratic candidate, who returned to Illinois Wednesday from a three-week trade mission to Europe, termed his poll which reportedly showed he would be defeated next year by either of two front-running GOP candidates, "J'm an announced candidate, I'm running and I'll defeat any candidate the Republicans put up," Kerner told a news conference.

Last Home Game:

Four Key Men To Spark Bisons' Wing T Offense

The Salukis will have what might be considered a "weight advantage" in the interior line when they take on North Dakota State's Bisons tonight, because one pound per man will likely to stimulate fear or heroism in any of the veterans. At any rate, the Bisons are still expected to show up at 8 p.m. tonight in McAndrew Stadium.

Southern's five offensive interior linemen collectively tip the scales at 1,075 pounds, while the Bison quater at an entity carries just five pounds less -- an average difference of one pound per man.

There's one difference, however, that could turn the odds in Southern's favor. Much of the Bison's tonnage is located in one spot, while the Salukis can field a crew that spreads weight around more evenly.

Anchoring the North Dakota State interior line is right tackle Tom Holgren, whose 6-foot-3, 235-pound muscle comes to 245 pounds.

Holgren will provide an invading avenue through which the Bison ball carriers will attempt to find the Saluki secondary.

According to a scouring report by Southern's Frank Svoch, there are four key men that make the Dakota's wing T and pro defenses move, one each of them on each paw.

The left-handed slinger, Ed Pfaffan, is a twin threat as a running back. He's the third leading ground gainer in his team's conference. He's the best runner that the Bisons have to offer, though. Bill Sturdevant, a 5-foot-10, 180-pound junior, weighing 190 pounds, paces the Bison running attack. He has the lead in the conference race for individual rushing yards and will be ready to show his skill to a Southern Illinois audience.

At fullback, coach Darrell Mudra, has a choice between two consistent workhorses in Dan Thesing, 5 feet 8 and 190 pounds, a junior, and Rich Mischke, 6 feet and 195 pounds, a redshirt sophomore.

Their guiding hand is junior quarterback Frank Henges, a field general who is also a "better-than-average passer.

North Dakota State closes out its eight-game schedule tomorrow against the Salukis, a team Southern is also expected to show up at.

SIU scored 77 points to runnerup Indiana State's 65, Evansville's 43 1/2 and Southeast Missouri State's 24 1/2. The locals failed to place in only one event while winning four first places, five seconds and seven thirds.
