Senate Will Back Union With Court Action, Funds

By Charles Springer

Student Government officials stated last night that they would take action to protect students who would lose their jobs as the result of the proposed sale of the University Theater.

The action was apparently taken as a result of a recent Senate investigation which reportedly cleared Free School of any questionable activities.

If the question had been brought before the students, they could have voted either to 1) allow the organization to operate in any way the participants wish; 2) operate only as an alternate education opportunity or 3) abolish Free School altogether.

No Student Referendum Vote on Free School Squelched by Senate

Members of the Student Senate last night chose to by-pass an opportunity to put the future of Free School in the hands of the Student Body.

The action was apparently taken as the result of a recent Senate investigation which reportedly cleared Free School of any questionable activities.

If the question had been brought before the students, they could have voted either to 1) allow the organization to operate in any way the participants wish; 2) operate only as an alternate education opportunity or 3) abolish Free School altogether.

Gus Bode

Gus says SIU grad Dick Gregory, who says he is running for President, is assured of one vote: his own.

Wheeler who drew up the referendum said Free School had been omitted because "the Senate felt that the issue had been thoroughly discussed and that the organization had apparently been investigated to its satisfaction."

"If there is a feeling among students," Wheeler said, "that Free School should be re-investigated, they should make their wishes known to the Senate."

Also deleted from the referendum was a question of whether the Student Government should retain its membership in the controversial National Student Association.

Students will, however, be able to voice their support or non-support of the National Student Association's resolutions concerning black power, drugs, the draft and minority draft reports.

The referendum will ask a "yes" or "no" as to whether SIU students should be allowed to form additional fraternities and sororities on the Carbondale campus.

Also appearing will be four choices dealing with women's closing hours. Should the hours remain as they are at present? Should closing hours apply only to freshman women? Freshmen and sophomore women? or should there be no closing hours for any female students?

There are 101 ways you can work against progress," he added, "and I'm afraid that the meeting was only a complacent, complished by the meeting."

"But it is not the purpose of the program to help a student to grow up, but to help support a family," Adams said. "The program began only to aid students in getting an education."

DeJarnett added that most students interviewed in a recent survey had indicated participation in the work program primarily for its educational value. Presumably, not for the financial benefits.

Adams pledged his assistance to Student Government officials to allow them in obtaining necessary information concerning student wages. The Student Senate last night established a Special Committee on Student Wages. The committee was entrusted with the power of establishing a minimum student wage.

The committee, headed by Foote, will presumably issue questionnaires and conduct surveys from which they will make recommendations. Its members will also collect and publish wage data drawn from comparisons with other universities.

Nixon Snaps Lead In Republican Voting

In a close race, Richard Nixon, in a mock election held Wednesday in the University Center.

Nixon tallied 146 of more than 400 votes counted. His nearest competitor was Illinois' Charles Percy who was supported by 110 votes. Percy narrowly beat Nelson Rockefeller who had 78 supporters.

Governor Ronald Reagan of California got 54 of the votes. Last in total votes of the candidates listed as Gov. George Romney of Michigan who had 21 votes.

Barry Goldwater received 6 votes as a write-in candidate.

Votes were also cast for Mark Hatfield, John Lindsay, Shirley Temple Black, Thu- rial Helms and John Eastland as write-in candidates.

The election was sponsored by the Young Republican Club of SIU. Officials of the organization say that another election may be held in the near future.

Traffic Problems Discussed Today

Illinois Central Railroad officials are expected to make several announcements here this morning which will have an effect on downtown traffic problems caused by IC operations.

The announcements will be made by two Chicago-based IC vice-presidents at a meeting in Carbondale Monday night. From Commerce representatives will be attended by the Greene 9.30 in the Carbondale IC office building.

According to Harry Koone, IC division superintendent, the statements will concern station operations here and the crossing at Main and Walnut.

Sts, which are frequently blocked by IC trains during switching operations, Koone declined to elaborate further on the subject matter of the announcements.

A story in another newspaper reported that the annoucements would concern passenger service changes. However, Washington-based David Keene said that he hopes for statements of a more significant nature.

Keene's biggest concern are the major traffic t i rups caused by local IC operations. Keene said he would like to see some important announcement involving plans by the IC to ease the traffic caused by having the railroad's operations centered in the heart of the downtown area.

"I want to see the announcements," said that he does not expect the announcements to concern plans for a new passenger depot to be located at the north end of the railroad tracks. He said he had received a call that the station problems considerably.

Keene said it would be very unlikely for the railroad to construct a new passenger depot in view of the fact that the IC loses close to $50 million annually on passenger service.

Why Fall into Step?

To the Editor:

Tim Ayers, whose article “War Protests Americas” appeared in the Tuesday edition of the Daily Egyptian, must be a truly amazing fellow.

He tells readers that the “recent results of the Campus Senate poll on war indicates that students strongly support a military solution”, then continues that “efforts must be made to bring the student body into line with the attitudes held by growing numbers of Americans, as reflected in the most recent Gallup Poll, and almost all the rest of the world.”

So, according to Mr. Ayers, all SIU students must fall in step with him, and his desires and beliefs must be ours. We must, he writes, bring our attitudes about the Vietnam conflict into line with those that the Gallup Poll says are the attitudes of “growing numbers of Americans”. Who comprises these growing numbers, Mr. Ayers? How many are there? Must SIU students agree with the attitudes of the students of Berkeley, with the hippies of Haight-Ashbury, with the marchers in Washington, D.C.? Are SIU students somehow “wrong” to form their own opinions about the Vietnam War?

His phrase “almost all the rest of the world” is also something Ayers is fond of bandying. Has Mr. Ayers information about the attitudes of “almost all the rest of the world”?

Has he access to a “Super Gallup Poll” which has sampled the attitudes of “almost all the rest of the world”? How does he know these amazing “facts”?

If he, somehow, does know all this, then perhaps he is a Messiah whose banner we must follow. I would submit, however, that Mr. Ayers is merely a young man who feels the war in Vietnam is wrong—in this he is, of course, perfectly entitled to his own opinion.

But to desire “to bring the student body into line”—that, is too much! He is the first student I have heard of in some time to advocate conformity, to write, in fact, “Conform! You Must Conform!” Has Mr. Ayers ever asked some how strange they are to the current setting? “Support Mental Health or I’ll Kill you!”

Ernest Fluckey

Rapping Coercion

A democratic vote was taken by students of SIU in which it was decided that students strongly favor a military solution to the war in Vietnam.

Tim Ayers, in the Oct. 31 issue of the Daily Egyptian, disagrees with this stand and further asserts that SIU students must be made to bring the student body into line with the attitudes held by growing numbers of Americans, as reflected in the most recent Gallup Poll, and almost all the rest of the world. My only question to Mr. Ayers is...

A person is justified in having strong feelings regarding a topic which he holds to be right or wrong. He, like any other individual, has the right to express his ideas and opinions to those who read or listen to him. He, like any other individual, has the right to determine the views of the majority, just as he must respect and abide by our laws.

Why Fall into Step?

To the Editor:

"Man has a moral obligation to oppose laws that conflict with his moral beliefs," I seem to be hearing this statement quite often lately, and I have yet to hear anyone try to debate the truth of it. A great many Americans, however, will argue about the means that some people have chosen to use in voicing their opposition to our laws and policies.

Democrats have come to the forefront lately as a means for minority groups to air their opinions. The right of these people to use these means is guaranteed under our laws of free speech. It is evident, however, that these groups have liberty confused with license.

These groups have chosen a course of lawlessness. They have "if a law or policy doesn't agree with their ideas or views, agree with the law or policy that they will use their governmental try to disrupt the government to carry out the policy. They claim that all other channels are "closed and closed right." They state that "the presidential election will probably offer no alternatives."

Why do they keep forgetting the majority of people in this country? It is this majority that has the power to correct the laws and change national policy. If these groups think they can win the majority to their side by flouting the law, they are badly mistaken.

This country is dedicated to carrying out the dictates of the majority and, although the minority groups have the right to be heard, if they are not in favor of a law or policy, they have no right to break the laws that the majority deem necessary for society's sake. They can cajole and try to persuade, but until their views become the views of the majority, they must respect and abide by our laws.

The magazine further states that “Commissars in the Jewish" and "the Jews control the Civil Rights movement," Other literature furnished by the self-styled nazis include the “White Power News" and “The Melting Pot - America". The “other found copies of these inflammatory publications in the Student Union and throughout many of our classrooms. Several of my friends have even seen this hate-material in several of the stores in town.

As a student of this University, I feel urged to warn my fellow students against what could prove to be very dangerous activity on the part of a few bigots. Let me mention that it is my hope that the administration will completely disregard the mad, racist ravings of a few students. I wish to seek only to spread the seeds of discontent and hate on our campus.

Once again, let me make it clear that SIU is dedicated to liberal arts institution to ignore the principles on which this institution stands.
An Editor's Outlook

Academic Freedoms Which Impede Learning

by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

American college presidents, confused by demands for "academic freedom" that are producing academic chaos, would do well to sit at the feet of Dr. Jaime Benitez, president of the University of Puerto Rico.

On Oct. 19 Dr. Benitez described to members of the Inter-American Press Association the process of destroying a university in the Holy name of intellectual liberty. The system is old, it has been employed in Latin America for many years. It is a process by which activist groups, usually Communist-led, have disrupted classes, driven away professors, made an academic program difficult or impossible and eventually turned the campuses into seedbeds of revolution.

The purpose of destroying the teaching ability of institutions in fact, he could argue, of universities is both simple and logical. Universities that are permitted to function as universities are dangerous to the promoters of violent upheaval. Freedom to teach as opposed to freedom to riot, eventually produces a stable middle class and progress toward reform and justice under the framework of law. This is no help to a Communist program.

The little Puerto Rican educator has watched the progress of the Vietnamese war rioters, the draft card burners, the free love advocates, the partisans of "pot" and such on American campuses with rare understanding. For it was 50 years ago at the University of Cordoba in Argentina when the theory that students (or at least the most vocal, violent and reckless students) must be permitted to control universities in the name of reform was first elaborated.

Therefore, what many bewildered American college educators are imagining is a new phenomenon. Possibly solely related to the "agony" in the Orient, it is in fact an old ploy polished in the political philosophy that has all the regard for human freedom that is found in East Asia today.

Quoting Dr. Benitez:

"The deteriorating impact of political agitation is well known to my Latin-American friends who have suffered in their countries the educational disadvantage of highly politicized institutions. But it is a new, perplexing and at points fascinating experience in the United States, where some spokesmen for progressive education seem entranced by the new vision of 'total freedom.'"

"Clever arguments allow the New Left to disguise their attack on the task of preserving and spreading the noble, creative and civilized life that is identified with the highest achievements of the university. Thus we see Jean Jacques Rousseau in new garb, preaching a return to nature and the triumph of emotion over intelligence; John Dewey's rule—that one learns by doing—is transformed into the thesis that the school is the best place to experience everything, including material and intellectual vices. Henry David Thoreau's civil disobedience is turned into the right to make one's own laws, even if it means returning to the Hobbesian times where no obligations of the social contract existed and life was raw, nasty, brutish and short."

Dr. Benitez runs a successful university. In 20 years it has grown from 6,000 to 30,000 students. Its 20,000 graduates have made an immense difference in the economy of the island. And this has been accomplished under its president's dictum that his university is "a house of study."

The only kind of a revolution that pays genuine social dividends, he says, is achieved as a result of free inquiry, devotion to learning and quiet contemplation as opposed to incessant soapboxing and endless campus commotion.

It seems fantastic that so many American college presidents are so frightened of being accused of thought-control that they do not care if their students any more of good manners and self-restraint. Yet anyone with brains enough to get a Ph.D. ought not to have much trouble in finding out how there can be both a wide area of free inquiry within a climate of calmness and good manners.

The discussion in a campus hall of a far-out or even idiotic idea by its perspiring proponents does not disrupt the right of disinterested students to pursue their own interests. But the picket lines around the administration building, the lie-down on the campus street or the mob surrounding around the orator on the student union steps are efforts to impose antiaademic conditions upon the whole academic community.

No freedom lies in that direction. As Howard Mumford Jones of Harvard has said:

"The college is neither a mental hospital nor an auditorium for loud debate. It demands sternness and more dedicated allegiance. Its life is the life of the mind, not of the subconscious; its contribution to social welfare is appraisal, not crusading, Health and sanity are its requisites and a proper understanding of what intellectual liberty truly means."

Our Man Hoppe

By Arthur Hoppe

Once upon a time there was a young Negro lad named Horatio Alger, who used to hang around Catfish Kelly's Pool Hall leading an idle, dissolute, unproductive sort of radical life. In fact, he could argue, he was a snooker very well.

"The trouble with me," said young Horatio gluimly, "is that I am an uneducated, untrained, ill-equipped good for nothing, "Relax man," his little friends would advise him "and rack 'em up again,"

But ambition burned with a germ-like flame in Horatio's breast. And one day the Government Man dropped into Catfish Kelly's,

"Fear not, Horatio, " said the Government Man, "the government your welfare at heart. We are spending 16 million dollars to make little lads like you upward mobile,"

"Sign up here," said the Government man, "and we shall educate, train and equip you for a productive job so that some day you can have 1.7 television sets, 1.4 automobiles, 1.6 martabas before dinner and be $77,483.3 in debt,"

"I will work hard, persevere and become upward mobile," vowed young Horatio, thrusting forth his jaw and signing up. So young Horatio enlisted in the Job Corps, moonlighted in VISTA, got himself a Head Start and attended every Neighborhood Youth Program program (cq) in his neighborhood.

By dint of hard work and perseverance he finally became a well-educated, highly trained, thoroughly equipped tool and die puncher. In fact, everyone agreed he was one of the best young tool and die punchers (with either hand) to come along in years.

He got a good-paying job in a tool and die factory where he kept on punching. In six months he had had 1.2 television sets, 1.3 automobiles, 1.4 martabas before dinner and was $13,783.34 in debt.

"At last," cried Horatio happily, "I am upward mobile."

That's when the tool and die factory was automated and Horatio lost his job.

Not only was his factory automated, but so were all the other factories in the land, just as everybody, including the Government, always knew they would be. And there wasn't enough of Horatio to go around, particularly for young punchers with no seniority.

So Horatio wound up back at Catfish Kelly's where he chucked up his cue, called for the eight ball in the side pocket and ripped a three-inch hole in the table's felt surface.

"You're the same good-for-nothing you always were," said his friends.

"That's not so," said Horatio thoughtfully. "Thank to the Government, I am now a well-educated, highly-trained, thoroughly equipped good-for-nothing."

Gardner Read Slates Special Music Lecture

Gardner Read, composer-in-residence at Southern Illinois University, will be presented by the Department of Music in a lecture at 8 p.m., Nov. 15 in Davis Auditorium.

Read will also conduct master classes for SIU music students the following day, according to George Niefi, chairman of the visiting artists series.

While still in high school, Read studied composition at Northwestern University and received his bachelor's and master's degrees in music at Eastman School of Music.

Renowned musicians with whom he has studied include Vladimir Bakhleinskoff, Howard Hanson, Bernard Rogers, Paul White, Aaron Copland, Jan Sibellius, and Ilebrando Pizzetti.

Read has been the recipient of numerous prizes and honors such as the New York Philharmonic award for his First Symphony, two Juilliard School of Music publication awards, the Crownwell Traveling Fellowship, and commissions from the Cleveland, Indianapolis, and Cleveland orchestras. He also won the coveted Paderewski Fund Competition for his Second Symphony.

Foreign Students Receive Invitations For Thanksgiving

International students at SIU will spend Thanksgiving holidays, Nov. 21-27, in six communities.

A number of international students will visit Chicago, St. Louis, Carbondale, Marion, and Mt. Carmel, through the arrangement of SIU International Student Services with cooperation of local organizations.

Invitations have been extended by several students by the International Visitors Center in Chicago, Baptist churches in St. Louis, Jefferson County Homemakers at Mt. Vernon, Robinson, Association of Churches, Church Women United of Marion, and the Community Club's Office in Mt. Carmel. The United Church Women in Carbondale will invite foreign students as dinner guests on Thanksgiving.

Students wishing to participate in the hospitality program can contact the International Student Services, 508 S. Wall.

SIU Land Proposed

Power Line Dispute Besets City Council

The Carbondale City Council, with representatives of SIU and Central Illinois Public Service Co. have failed for the second time in two weeks to come to an agreement over the relocation of a CIPS power transmission line.

Presently the line, which is the main source of power for the Carbondale area, runs across the site of an SIU family housing project at the southern edge of the campus near the Federal Housing Administration, will not allow a high voltage wire to run over the project, the line must be moved.

The CIPS proposed relocation would bring the wire along the shore line of the reservoir and then would continue diagonally across city-owned Evergreen Park.

Although the Carbondale Park Board has granted its approval to the proposed relocation, the City Council is reluctant to give final okay to the plans.

At last week's meeting and again at Tuesday night's session, several councilmen felt that running the power line and its unlighted poles through the park would present an "eyesore" and would restrict any plans for future development of the park.

An alternate plan suggested by one council member would be to run the power line through the presently vacant SIU property just north of the park. However, SIU's representative, Bill Hughes, made it clear that the University would oppose such a move because of its plans to build in the area.

Final consideration of the relocation is expected to come before the Council next week.

As it stands now, the city doesn't want the power line in Evergreen Park, the University doesn't want it to run across SIU property; and the power company is not willing to bear expenses of relocating the line to the satisfaction of both the University and the city.

In other business the Council decided to give further consideration to a money-saving proposal to reduce the lighting at Carbondale's industrial park.

The proposal brought before the Council by Public Safety Director Richard Wilhelmy, would save the city $864 per month by shutting off alternate street lights in the nearly vacant industrial park.

Wilhelmy suggested that the money the city saved could be used to light streets in Carbondale that are presently without street lamps.

The Council also approved a request by Carbondale merchants to allow free meter parking during their annual shopping sale, Friday and Saturday.

The city will use Friday to repair parking meters. Because Saturday, Veterans Day, is an observed holiday, paid parking at meters is not in effect.

Southern Illinois Young Republicans will meet at 9 p.m. Thursday in Davis Auditorium of the Wham Education Building.

Doctoral Students Plan Study Of Exceptional Child Program

SIU doctoral students this month will study what their department chairman terms one of the nation's finest programs for the exceptional child.

James B. Crowner, chairman of the SIU Department of Special Education, who will accompany the group, said the study would be made Nov. 16-19 of the Tucson, Ariz., school program directed by Mrs. Laura Ganong. It includes projects for the behaviorally disordered child, the trainable retarded child, and a program of cross-country camping for the exceptional child.

The object will be to combine the best elements of a field trip, a conference of experts, and an intensive, in-depth examination of an exemplary program, according to Crowner.

Songs Arouse Listener's 'Inner Self'

Psychedelic Rated Top Sound

What ever happened to the "Psychedelic" sound, the one that Polka-Dot Bikini" and "Hound Dog" represented, the sound that "Kicks" and "Psychedelic" songs came together to form the "psychedelic" sound? What is this "psychedelic" sound, and where did it come from?

Kathy Simeur, a former SIU student, now employed at a local record shop, described it as, "a sound appealing to all your senses (come to think of it, the word is 'psychedelic')." She also talked about the "psychedelic" sound in another way and offered a possible explanation as to where it came from.

"Psychedelic is the big escape thing now. You're getting into the psychological inner being. Only a handful of groups playing this type of music are saying anything, the rest are just imitators who have jumped on the bandwagon." That's the word that the Illinois's Steven Little, a sophomore majoring in music from Carbondale, looked at the "psychedelic" sound in another way and offered a possible explanation as to where it came from.

The concert with the performance of "Brandenburg Concerto No. 1 in F Major" by J.S. Bach, a work entitled "Concerto in C Major for Violoncello" by Joseph Haydn will feature SIU faculty member Peter Spurbeck. The final work on the program will be "Symphony No. 1 in C Major" by Ludwig van Beethoven.

University Orchestra Slates Concert Friday

Myron Kartman, conductor of the University Orchestra, has announced the program for the first performance of the ensemble to be held Friday at 8 p.m. in Shryock Auditorium.

The orchestra will open the concert with the performance of "Brandenburg Concerto No. 1 in F Major" by J.S. Bach. The work will be "Concerto in C Major for Violoncello" by Joseph Haydn. The final work on the program will be "Symphony No. 1 in C Major" by Ludwig van Beethoven.

The University Orchestra is one of several organizations to which University students may become members. For information about membership contact Robert House, chair of the Department of Music.

Eileen E. Quigley, dean of the School of Home Economics at SIU, will attend a meeting of home economics administrators of the North Central Region of the National Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities in Chicago Nov. 9-10.

Ball State Seeking Rice Bowl Action

By George Nsmeyer

Ray Norhern, Ball State football coach, is continuing a winning pattern that started six years ago when he took over the Big Ten's healest head coach.

The most successful coach in Ball State's history, as far as percentage goes, Northern has a 37-12-3 record, including the Cardinals' 7-2 record this year.

In those six years, he has also coached Ball State to four Indiana Collogeate Conference championships.

The title this year should be especially gratifying to Northern since this is the last year Ball State will be in the conference.

Ball State backed into the conference title last weekend with a 5-3 victory over St. Joseph's of Indiana, 7-2, because Indiana State, who had a chance to tie Ball State for the crown, lost to Depauw, 17-13.

Ball State's loss to St. Joseph's, while not costing the team the conference title, may have cost a trip to the Rice Bowl, one of the top small college post-season bowls in the country.

About the only way that Ball State players could get an invitation to the bowl now would be if they won their final game of the season against SIU.

Couple this to the fact that it will be the last game for 18 Ball State seniors and a home game for the Cardinals and you then realize that the Salukis have quite a task cut out for them this Saturday.

Saluki Coach Dick Towers has said, for the fourth week, the Salukis' passing total may not participate without examination and approval by the Health Service.

Intrasquad Games

Preview Season

Area sports fans can get a good idea of what to expect from SIU's winter sports teams by attending four intrasquad matches scheduled this month.

Delta Chi Wins Flag Football Crown

Nearly 150 spectators braved rapidly falling temperatures to see Delta Chi take to the field near the Tomato Bowl to play the Abbott Rabbits 37-0 in the championship game of a Monday intramural flag football season Wednesday afternoon. The game was all Delta Chi, Tom Grady at quarterback, guiding his team to four third-down touchdowns and two tallies in the second half.

Grady was in the middle of another scoring play in the second half when he was spotted by Bob Schiffbauer and Jim Dougherty. Each man caught two passes from Grady on the way to touchdown passes to Schiffbauer and Dougherty. The halftime score was Delta Chi 19, the Abbott Rabbits 0.

The second half was a car-nival of points for the Gales and a near-copy of the first. A pass from Grady to Sam Zue put the ball close to the Rabbits’ goal line, and Grady scored on a fourth-down pass to Dougherty in the end zone to make the score 25-0.

Midway in the second half in near darkness, Delta Chi scored again on another double forward pass from Zue to Grady to Strell, making the score 31-0.

The last tally of the game came on a 70-yard pass play from Grady to Schiffbauer.

Three Year Contract

UAW, Chrysler Reach Agreement

"DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers and Chrysler Corp. reached tentative agreement Wednesday night on a new three-year contract covering 95,000 hourly rated workers. The agreement came only hours before a midnight strike deadline, but too late to avert widespread local walkouts that cripple the company's production.

The UAW announced the agreement after a 34-hour bargaining session in telegrams to local presidents. It said talks were being broken off without agreement on a contract covering 8,000 salaried workers because bargainers were "too exhausted to go on.

A new deadline was set for local at-the-plant agreements, but the union did not immediately disclose when it would be.

The tentative contract was almost identical to the industry pact won at Ford Motor Co. through a 40-day strike that ended two weeks ago, but included one major benefit not gained there — wage parity for Canadian workers.

Draft Deferment Revocation Outlined by Director Hershey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey said Wednesday his order applies to persons legally enrolled, since 1941, to leadership of protests against the draft or the war.

Hershey, an Army lieutenant general and draft director since 1941, told a news conference his order applies only to those violating a 1967 law.

The law provides for jail sentences of up to five years and fines of $10,000 for those convicted of interfering with the administration of the draft law or regulations issued under it.

Hershey contended such violations are a failure to perform duties required under the Selective Service Act which permits draft boards to remove deferments and place the violator at the top of the draft list.

Hershey said deferments are granted in the national interest.

The company said Canadian workers, now some 40 cents an hour behind their American counterparts, would draw even with the U.S. workers over the three-year life of the pact.

The Ford pact gave some 160,000 auto workers at that company wage and benefit increases over three years of roughly $1 an hour over the current scale of $4.70.

That pact was valued at 6 per cent. With wage parity the Chrysler pact likely will be somewhat higher—there are 12,000 Chrysler workers in Canada—but neither side placed an estimate on it.

There were also rumblings of discontent within the union even as bargainers remained locked behind the negotiating rooms at the Chrysler head office.

Johnson Will Tour U.S. Bases

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson undertakes what may be his widest ranging U.S. tour of the year this weekend, visiting military bases in observance of Veteran's Day.

The White House declined to say in its announcement Wednesday how many states Johnson would visit or how long he might be on the road. But it seems possible the trip might cover more than the Saturday holiday.

Johnson has not made a multi-country trip around the country since October 1966 when he stumped the campaign trail for President.

Johnson has faced some protests against him at the UAW convention next spring, making the first opposition Reuther has faced since 1955.
