Media policy may confront board

By Wes Smith
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A special meeting of representatives of both SIU-E and SIU-C and members of the Media Advertising Policy Committee resulted in a revised policy on commercial advertising for University-affiliated media which may be presented to the Board of Trustees meeting Thursday.

The Media Advertising Policy Committee was formed after campus radio station WIDB requested the right to solicit advertising to provide funding for its operation. The struggle to form an all-encompassing policy to approve WIDB's request has spanned four years. Thursday, Joel Presten, WIDB general manager, said the station is "considering the option of selling ads with or without permission," because appeared the issue would not come before the board at the November meeting.

"As of this morning we completed a proposal that contains the items under which advertising can exist and also spells out the rationale for the right to advertise for University media," Bruce Swinburne said Friday afternoon.

"Copies of the revised policy will be presented to James Brown, chief of board staff, SIU Interim President. We have asked Senator Swinburne to represent from the committee. We are going to say we feel that it was the board's wish that a policy be presented to them at the November board meeting," he said.

"We're hopeful and optimistic that they will give it consideration at the Nov. 14 meeting," Swinburne added.

Swinburne said the revised policy contains provisions stating that advertising must be sold by enrolled students, must be in compliance with state, federal and local laws, the station must be operated under some form of a board of trustees, must be fiscally responsible.

He also said University funding will be directed so the media does not become a money-making operation rather than an educational operation.

"We are on the track now and if this can go to the board and be given a hearing I think they'll find there is considerable logic in the thing and it will make a good institutional policy," Swinburne said.

Swinburne said he would be "very resistant" to any attempt by campus radio station WIDB to sell advertising without permission.

"I think WIDB would be taking quite a vote against themselves by throwing this back in the face of the board if they violated the cease and desist order now in effect," he said.

"If this policy doesn't come up for consideration at the November board meeting, I anticipate that I will present a letter to President Lesar asking him to revoke the cease and desist order and allow WIDB to sell advertising," Swinburne said.

Swinburne said he has already discussed the possibility of revoking the cease and desist order and Lesar has asked for a briefing on the budget before an action will be taken.

"I know this asks for special consideration by the board but I do feel personally that the board had the policy for the November meeting and they will give it consideration."

Care of home accident injuries

frequent at city's trauma center

By Nancy Landis
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Next to automobile accidents, home accidents are the most frequent trauma treated at the Carbondale Trauma center, according to Charles Loftis, coordinator of the center.

The Carbondale trauma center is part of a statewide trauma system which provides emergency medical care by using helicopters for quick transfers between hospitals, medically trained ambulance drivers and nurses.

The National Safety Council classifies home accidents as falling, fires, burns, poisoning by ingestion of objects, suffocation mechanically and accidental gunshot wounds.

Editor's Note: This is the third in a four-part series of articles dealing with trauma treated at the Carbondale trauma center at Doctor Memorial Hospital.

According to the National Safety Council, 390 deaths occurred in Illinois last year from home accidents, but the council does not have information on how many home accident victims were treated or how many that were not treated or reported.

Labels and most injuries from home accidents are broken bones and bruises. The 10 home accidents were treated at the trauma center in August and 21 were treated in September.

Loftis said treatment at the center for home accidents follows the same protocol as for other traumas. A trained medical ambulance driver arrives at the home of the accident. He treats the patient by splintering broken bones and applying bandages. He assesses the situation and calls the trauma center using a radio in the ambulance. The center then prepares for the injuries for the patient and calls the trauma center for the patient before the helicopter arrives.

Home accidents can be reduced by having a home evaluation. Removing objects from the lawn before the season begins, storing products in a safe place, using proper tools for jobs, keeping equipment in a safe place and properly repaired, and keeping snow off walkways. It gathers instead of waiting for the snow to accumulate are examples of precautions.

Day's good deed

Illinois Central Gulf railroad tracks cut through the heart of Carbondale, presenting hazards for everyone—including Mage Branch, assisted through the Main Street crossing by Mark Hallin, a resident. In order to get to the city plans to lower the tracks and throw bridges over the Gulf by the mid 1980's.

Communist Socialist candidates

claim they fared well at polls

By Gary Delyon
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Minority party candidates believe they did well in Illinois at the polls Tuesday, although they do not know of official returns. Candidates on the Socialist Workers ticket were Ed Heisler for senator, Susan Haig, for state treasurer, and Antonio De Leon, Brian Williams and Mary Wurz for University of Illinois Board of Trustees.

The Communist party candidates on the state ballot were: Ismail Flori for senator, Lorraine Ashby for treasurer, and John Lumpkin, Jay Schaffner and Valerie Witkowski for University of Illinois board of Trustees.

De Leon received 6,500 and 10,000 for senator and state treasurer, respectively, in Cook County. Heisler had 148 Jackson County votes with 342 being cast for Haig. Lumpkin received approximately 20,000 Cook County votes. These figures, however, are not official.

The Communists did not fare as well as the socialists. Flori, a senatorial candidate, had 4,700 votes in Cook County and 108 in Jackson County. Ashby, treasurer candidate, had 8,600 in Cook County and 96 in Jackson County.

Figures were not available for Communist party tallies, state-wide, or in Cook County for U of I trustees. In Jackson County, trustee candidate Lumpkin received 322 votes, Schaffner received 302 votes, Wietkoski received 210, and De Leon, 108. These figures may seem insignificant when compared to major party figures but, according to Communist Party Chairman Ted Eygount, they indicate a growing dissatisfaction with the two major parties and show that the desire for radical change has gone up since 1970.

The recent results are not as much an indication of total acceptance of the Democratic Party, as it was a dissatisfac- tion with the Republicans and (President) Ford, Pearson said.

Pearson also said the media gives no coverage to the party election results when it should because "one vote for the Communists should mean as much as 1,000 for the Democrats. It is a vote of protest."

Heisler said his party did well and is in good position for 1978. Since Richard Daley has been mayor, Heisler said no third party candidate has gotten on the ballot for general elections.

"We are launching a petition drive and they need 25,000 votes to get on the ballot," Heisler asserted.

He said Willie Reid of Chicago will be the candidate. Heisler said the party will hold a press conference in Chicago next week to announce Reid's candidacy. Mayoral elections are in April.
CCHS says no to paddles

By Laura Coleman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Paddles will swing no more at Carbondale Community High School following a decision by the Board of Education to order a revision of the student discipline code to eliminate corporal punishment.

The move came after discussion Thursday night about a recommendation from Michael Bakalis, superintendent of public instruction, for the schools to go along with his ruling that students not be paddled unless permission is obtained from parents.

Board President Charles Hindersman queried attending teachers on their feelings about corporal punishment and they all indicated their opposition to it. Supt. William Holder stated that in the seven years he's been at CCHS, he's never heard of an incident in corporal punishment being implemented.

Hindersman also directed the school principals to form a committee to revise the code and the section on corporal punishment in particular, to emphasize that parents should have input in the revision.

The board also considered a report about the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 which permits parents of students to "inspect and review all official records, files, and data directly related to their children, including all material that is incorporated into each student's cumulative record folder."

Hindersman strongly objected to the act saying, "The intent of the act is good, but I'd find it's difficult to write an honest evaluation (of a student). I could only give a glowing report."

He cited a "necessity of calling a spade a spade" and labeled the act "a dangerous piece of legislation."

The law, signed last August, becomes effective Nov. 20.

In other business, the board —heard a report from Holder regarding a request to the city for a walk light at Springville and Main Sts. He said he was told a survey would be taken and the board received another report at the next meeting.

—approved the rental of Bowen Gymnasium to the Illinois Democratic Fund for a fund-raising country-western show Dec. 3.

Career talks set daily

Presentations on career opportunities will be given by several SIU departments in the Student Center, according to Mike Raczynski, graduate assistant and adviser to Student Government Activities Council.

Fifteen-minute presentations will be given daily at 2 p.m. followed by a question and answer session, he said.

Raczynski said the lectures, which will be held until the semesters end, are aimed at general studies students who have not decided on a major and upperclass students who are thinking of changing majors.

On Monday, Charles Lynch, of the radio and tv dept., will present a lecture in the Mississippi room.

Raczynski said 35 departments responded to a newsletter sent out by SGAC requesting presentations by departments. He said he was only able to schedule 17 lectures for this semester. Additional lectures will be presented next semester if this series is successful and is decided to be added.

Other speakers scheduled for the next week are Robert Mohlenbrock of the Botany and Biology dept. on Tuesday in Activity Rooms A and B; James Aaron of the Missouri State Museum on Wednesday in Activity rooms A and B on Wednesday; and Harold Hodson, of industrial arts will speak in the Thebes Room on Thursday.

Robert House will give his lecture in Activity rooms A and B on Friday, Nov. 15.

All lectures begin at 2 p.m.

Sculptress Fredda Brilliant of Carbondale works to complete a bust of House speaker Carl Albert. Albert passed for the sculpture in the Capitol Building.

Sculpture creates Brilliant bust of House speaker Carl Albert

By Nancy Landis
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Carl Albert, speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives, has a Brilliant bust.

Working at the Capitol building in Washington, D.C. during the summer, Fredda Brilliant, Carbondale sculptress, created a bust of Albert.

Brilliant said Tuesday she completed the bust in eight days but put the equivalent of three months worth of work into it in that short time. The bust will be placed in St. Peter's College at Oxford, England, where Albert went to school.

Brilliant said Albert seemed to be an honest, straightforward, powerful man. He worked conscientiously, posing for the bust at every possible opportunity, she said.

"If something happens to this president (heaven forbid!), America is going to have a great president in him," Brilliant said.

Brilliant is now working on a bust of Melvin Price, representative from Illinois 23rd District. She said she hadn't finished Price's bust before Congress recessed but will resume work Nov. 12 in Washington.

Brilliant said she has been creating sculptures for 40 years.

Among her works, is the head of Buckingham Fuller, which is displayed in Morris Library. She also made a statue of Delvyte Morris, but the statue has remained in the foundry for years.

She said a committee has recently reopened the subject of placing the statue of Morris near the library.

A statue of Mahatma Gandhi, which was unveiled in 1968, sits in Tavistock Square, London. She also has sculptures displayed in England, U.S.S.R., Australia, Canada and India.

Brilliant emigrated from Poland to Australia in 1924 and started a career as an actress in Melbourne. She came to the United States in 1927 to pursue her career in acting and singing and began sculpting in England in 1933.

Brilliant is married to Herbert Marshall, professor performing arts and director of the center for soviet and east european studies at SIU.

Crab Orchard home for deer, geese

Wildlife refuge sets open house

Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge has scheduled open house from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday to allow visitors to see deer and migrating geese.

Crab Orchard Refuge is a major winter feeding grounds for Canadian geese because it is on the Mississippi Flyway and is between the Ohio and Mississippi rivers.

"More geese will be coming in next month when the weather changes," Karen Smith, Public Use Specialist of Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge, said. "About 40,000 geese were counted last week using an aerial photograph."

During the open house, several non-public roads will be opened to the public, Smith said. The reason roads will be opened to allow visitors to see the geese and deer and to let them see the inside of the refuge. The refuge is now feeding between 3,000 white tail deer.

The route open for visitors starts at Wolf Creek road south and runs past the water plant to the first "T" road. Smith said directions will be posted.

Information on the area is available at the fire station. Smith said.

All cars must stay on the marked route and stay on the roads," she said.

Smith estimated the average visitor would take about two hours to view the geese and deer and see the area.

Times set are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day. Gates in the refuge will be closed before and after the scheduled times, Smith said.

The open house was also scheduled for Nov. 4 because, Smith explained, "too many people were touring the area in just two days." Visitors numbered 2,000 last week and the same number are expected this week. "This may vary with the weather and with other community events planned," she said.

Crab Orchard has been sponsoring open houses of this type for four or five years, Smith said. For the last two years, the event has been scheduled for two weekends.

Smith has been a Public Use Specialist at Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge for a little over a year.

The weather

Saturday: Partly sunny and mild. High in the 60s. Saturday night: Partly cloudy and mild. Low in the lower 40s.

Sunday: Mostly cloudy with a chance of showers and thunderstorms. High 57 to 62.

Should rental properties be licensed?

While Carbondale landlords complain that they have been singled out and discriminated against by the City Council's proposed licensing of rental properties, the city's code enforcement division receives originate from the landlord's tenants or from people who want to see the landlord's property treated as mercifully in someone. A proposal to license the landlords of residential property is being considered by the Carbondale City Council. This proposal is an attempt to upgrade the dilapidated rented housing in the city. The proposal, if accepted, would be a waste of resources.

A fee will be charged for each building a landlord has up for rent. This will be passed directly to the tenant as he signs to pay the rent. The fee will be used to pay building inspectors and to maintain files of material relevant to each of the 370 rental units in the city. Each unit will be inspected every two years.

If a unit does not meet building code standards, the landlord will have to meet standards before he is able to rent it.

Aside from making several jobs for building inspectors and secretaries, the plan has its problem. It makes it possible for substandard rental housing, and it has not been shown that this plan will serve to improve the substandard housing that exists. But, it has been shown that the plan will inconvenience landlords and cost tenants and taxpayers money. At this time the city's conservative estimate of the cost of the program is $28,500.

As John Yow, director of code enforcement, said: "Rental property is lived in by people who don't necessarily take care of it. This ordinance isn't going to do anything about these problems. The adequate existing ordinances will have to be relied on in such situations. The newly implemented inspections will only force rents to be raised and open buildings to inspection where none is necessary.

Most landlords find it beneficial to keep their property up to code standards. Most homeowners, likewise, keep their property in good shape. But, just as there are bad landlords, there are irresponsible homeowners. The proposal does not attempt to deal with the problem of substandard housing occupied by its owner. Landlords are singled out in this attempt to improve the face of the city. The shortcoming will have to be dealt with by using the existing ordinances.

If there is a need to improve the standard of housing in Carbondale the existing ordinances hold the answer. Inspectors can presently make landlords comply with codes. Where there is substandard housing, the inspection and the stiffed voice of the citizenry will cure the problem of unkempt lawns and neighborhood junkyards if it is unleashed by those who are holding themselves back, and answered by a prompt inspection from the city.

What this city needs less of is an unwieldy addition to an already cluttered bureaucracy. This is an addition which would increase the already inflated cost of living for tenants. The purpose of licensing landlords will only serve to channel the tenant's funds and the city's time into a program without any benefits.

Now that the Democrats have the ball...

As we all sensationalize the devastating Democratic victory of Tuesday, we might slow down a bit with thepace of screaming rhetoric and come to the blunt realization that it doesn't matter much, at least when it comes to the mammoth task of getting America back on its feet again.

Democrats have controlled Congress since 1956. They were in majority when the inflationary policies of Congress were bred, hatched and put out to rot. The economy for the past quarter of America's economy cannot be dumped solery in the Republicans' corner. In actuality, our economic wags have been at fault. Affluency and efficiency by shortighted poverty, poor policy making and uncontrollable natural disasters. We must also not forget the Arab embargo, which, of course, was not masterminded by the Republican Party. It is simply dumb to blame one party for the mess we are in and expect another to save us.

Equally as stupid is the public's equation of Watergate with the Republican party, as if espionage and 'dirty tricks' were the party's trademarks. Nixon and his men are the cause of Watergate, unfortunately he was a Republican. The Watergate syndrome, from break-in, to cover-up, to pardon, is not a Republican phenomenon. It was the city's nightmare that could easily have befallen either party.

Another thing we should realize is that the pressure is really on the Democrats if they don't come up quickly with good, strong, anti-inflation, anti-recession measures, they will be treated as unmercifully in 1976 as the Republicans were Tuesday, leaving us to seek the Republican keen标签 to our speculator.

America's problems will not be solved overnight by a man who needs the support of history, a man who can deal honestly and effectively with the issues at hand. If the apathetic voters that Page 4, Daily Egyptian, November 9, 1974 them to carry it home. Whether they succeed or fail will only be told in time, something we might not be willing to give anyone the month of these days.

That was a great fight. Now I’ll try something else, like kicking the fluff off a dandelion.

Marching band hits ‘pro circuit’

Making three appearances in nine days, SIU’s Marching Salukis begin their busiest time of the year Saturday when they perform during the half-time portion of the SIU-Northern Michigan football battle. After Saturday’s show, the Salukis hit the “pro circuit” as they travel to St. Louis Monday night to make their 30th anniversary performance for the St. Louis Cardinal-Minnesota Vikings football game. Then on November 17, the Salukis travel downtown to New Orleans to perform for the Saints.

The St. Louis performance will be televised nationally by ABC. Mike Hanes, director of the Salukis, is hopeful that the Salukis will be seen by a nationwide audience.

“During the last couple of years, television has just about totally ignored the marching bands,” Hanes remarked. “I hope that the Saluki Salute to the Nation,” featuring the “Star Spangled Banner” will be televised, but I wasn’t really sure till the time came.”

St. Louis has become an annual trip for the Salukis, but this year, New Orleans is an added bonus. The Salukis are making the trip through the cooperation of the New Orleans Saints, the SIU School of Music, and SIU’s Office of Development and Services. Dick Mager, vice-president of Development and Services, the Salukis will be the first band ever from out-of-state to perform for the Saints.

The Salukis will leave Saturday, November 16, for their New Orleans debut. The band will leave Carbondale at 5 p.m. and will spend the night on the road. Sunday, the Salukis will arrive in New Orleans during the morning hours, in time for a practice session before the Saints is introduced to the “swinging sound of the Salukis.” The band will spend Sunday evening in New Orleans, returning to SIU late Monday night.

“Entertainment-Saluki Style” will be the topic for both guest appearances. Opening the show will be Alfred Newman’s stirring march “Conquist,” specially re-arranged for the Salukis by Gene Graham, assistant professor of music at SIU. Next, the “Saluki Twirling Corps” will be featured as the band plays Newman’s arrangement of “Take the Train.” Again, a complete change of style for the band will take place during the next number when the band displays another one of their trademarks: “Saluki Spirit,” with a medley of college tunes and cheers. Climaxing the Saluki half-time show, the band will join forces with the twirlers and move to the custom stagings of Bill Cosby and Quincy Jones’ “Chump Change” arranged by student trombonist Jerry Rodig.

The season doesn’t end for the Salukis after the New Orleans trip. ‘After we get back from New Orleans we have three days to put together a new show for the last home football game,” Hanes laughed.

BILLY GRAHAM says about the new motion picture

“Time to Run”...

There is no doubt that today we see the family unit being attacked from every side. Torn apart and fragmented TIME TO RUN is a motion picture about a family about listening about the differences between people, the unspoken moments and the moments of anger that don’t really accomplish anything. TIME TO RUN openly offers the reality of Jesus Christ as an answer to the human dilemma.

I feel that thousands of people will see a part of themselves in the film. Hopefully, families seeing it will be brought closer together in real understanding and communication.

I urge you to take your children or your parents to see TIME TO RUN when it comes to your community. You may find it more of a mirror than a motion picture.

Chamber gets set for elections

The Carbondale Chamber of Commerce will elect six members to the Board of Directors Tuesday, at the noon board meeting and luncheon at the Ramada Inn on Ill. 13.

Six board members are elected every year and serve a three-year term. Members elected Tuesday will be up for re-election in 1978, Marvin E. Van Metre, executive vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce, said.

Nominations for open board positions include four incumbents and two new nominees. Included on the ballot as first-time nominees are: Boyd Butler, field representative for Area Services at SIUC; and David Emerson, executive vice-president of the University Bank.

Incumbents listed on the ballot are: Ruth Altekruse, owner and manager of Car's; Gene Demidick, president of Air Illinois; Paris Brauning, program and budget officer, office of Human Resources, Carbondale; and Melvin Lipe, cashier at the Carbondale National Bank.

Six nominations have been accepted for the six vacancies on the board and, although nominations can be taken from the floor during the meeting, Van Metre said they "don't anticipate any new nominations."

The new board will elect a board president, two vice-presidents, a secretary, a treasurer and any other officers "the new board needs for their programs," Van Metre said. New board members take office in January.

Six years is the maximum term served, he said.

Events scheduled for November include a breakfast at the Ramada Jr. president of the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce. Board will be in Carbondale Nov. 25 and 26.

Quail count down in region

Southern Illinois quail populations appear to be down slightly from last year on the eve of the 1974-75 quail hunting season.

That's a tentative opinion from the SIU Cooperative Wildlife Research Laboratory, which has conducted a down state quail census for more than 20 years.

With all but 10 per cent of the laboratory's 2,300-acre study area covered by dogs and census-takers as of Thursday, Nov. 7, the study indicates that quail aren't quite as numerous as last year, which was a population "comeback" season.

This last population explosion for quail were for 1967-68, according to the SIU laboratory.

John Roseberry, lab researcher, said pre-census signs would have been made for a sound prediction of good quail populations. The breeding population was healthy and the winter wasn't too bad. But he thinks there's a big reduction to be expected later on, as winter and July drought could have hampered reproduction in Illinois.

SIU wildlife researchers will know more about the quail population when they examine wings of killed birds sent in by hunters throughout the region. The sample usually includes 4,000 to 5,000 wings and laboratory workers can determine from them the percentage of juveniles, time of hatch and other factors relating to breeding success.

The season opens Saturday, Nov. 9.

Channel 6 to air telethon Saturday

By Nancy Landu
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Scheduled for airing from 10 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 11, to 5 p.m. Sunday on WPSD-TV channel six in Paducah will be the 17th annual Lion's Club Telethon of Stars for Handicapped Children.

According to George H. Jessop, Carbondale Lion's Club treasurer, about 13 members will take pledge calls at the home of Joe Moore, a Carbondale member of the club. Moore's telephone number is 457-1675.

Leslie Pappas, coordinator of public relations and fund raising of the Easter Seal Society in the Carbondale area said. Stars of the show will be Bill Hayes and Susan Seaforth, who play the characters Doug and Julie in a daytime TV program — "Days of Our Lives." Dorothy Olsen, the singing school teacher and Johnny Whaler, who played Jody on "Family Affair" and who now plays on "Signy and the Sea Monster," a Saturday morning program.

Pappas said money donated to the telethon from Illinois residents will come back to Illinois, except for money deducted for telethon production costs.

Pappas said last year $57,000 returned $15,000 from a gross income of $71,000 from Illinois. Money from all states cooperating in Offices to close Veterans' Day

According to Charles E. Furhop, Jackson and Union county service officer for the Illinois Veterans Commission, telephones and offices will be closed Monday, in observance of Veterans' Day.

Carbondale and Murphysboro banks will also be closed Monday along with some businesses.

Several offices, including post offices, will be open Monday but will close on the fourth Monday in November, Furhop said.

SIUWildlife researchers will know more about the quail population when they examine wings of killed birds sent in by hunters throughout the region. The sample usually includes 4,000 to 5,000 wings and laboratory workers can determine from them the percentage of juveniles, time of hatch and other factors relating to breeding success.

Saluki offence suffers Major loss

By Bruce Shapin
Daily Egyptian Sports Editor

Northern Michigan leads its series with SIU four games to one. The teams met annually with one interruption (1960) in the mid-sixties. SIU won the last meeting between the two schools, 23-20 in 1968. Originally, SIU was scheduled to play Buffalo Saturday, but the New York team decided against playing football.

Fred McAlley will once again call the offensive signals for the Salukis, with coach Paratore commending, "Right now we're four top defensive tackles, Prumus Jones, James Roberts, Chris Miller and Lamont Morgan. We will all miss Saturday's game due to injuries.

Coach Doug Weaver will use linebacker Tom Ippoliti and freshmen Chuck Urban and Ron Brinson at defensive tackle.

"This weekend's game is a battle of two desperate teams," Weaver remarked. "It would be an interesting game for our fans."

Tickets for Saturday's game will go on sale from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the athletic ticket office located in the Arena. Beginning at noon, tickets will go on sale at McAndrew Stadium.

"If he had been offered a big bonus to sign professionally, we might have thought about it," the burly coach said. "We wanted him to go to college, though, because of the football team."

"The college coaching is much improved today, anyway. We went to Hobart College, and Bobby Yancey was a secondbaseman, at South Carolina for a year, but he went back to Alabama because he had a girlfriend."

The college coaching ranks are dotted with several former major league players besides Worthington and Richardson. Former Indiana secondbaseman Jerry Kindall guided Arizona to the number one ranking for most of last season, while Eddie Stanky has built a solid program at Southern Illinois. Former Cardinal outfielder Enos Snodgrass has fared well at Duke, and Dick Siebert has done even better at Minnesota.

Worthington has a unique summer baseball program at the University of Alabama. Former SIU assistant track coach, Worthington has participated in this program for the past three years. He had a story in our college baseball column.

"He has a tremendous summer program," Worthington said. "He selects four teams from about 265 guys who try out. But the guys who try out, then plays those teams against each other. They play five days a week, 36 games in all.

He estimated the cost of the league at $15,000, split among the Minnesota Towns. Worthington has a unique summer baseball program.

Still, Worthington feels there is no way that baseball prospects can be prepared to step into the majors when they emerge from college.

"It's a question for guys to go right into because you've got to be able to do a lot of things," the coach said. "There was a story in our paper the other day about a kid that started in baseball in high school in California."
