Students in Temporary Quarters Won't Get Rental Adjustments

Housing Coordinator Offers Alternative of Reassignment

Students who have been living in temporary facilities facilities since school began will not be given a blanket justification in their contracts, according to J. Albin Yokie, coordinator of housing.

Yokie announced this week that several alternatives have been offered the overassigned students, and, as a result, rental rates have not been adjusted.

Yokie had earlier said that adjustments would be made only if students were required to live in temporary quarters for more than two weeks.

He said the alternatives offered the students in applications due by Saturday for Mandatory Test

Students who entered SIU in the summer quarter as freshmen or sophomores but have failed to submit their scores on the American College Testing Program will not be permitted to register for the winter quarter.

The registration center said the ACT scores are a required part of the entrance process at SIU.

If a student has not filled the requirement, he should plan to take the ACT test Nov. 7, when it will be administered here.

Application blanks for the test are available at the Testing Center and must be completed by Saturday.

Freshmen and sophomores who entered SIU last fall but have until the end of the term to fulfill the requirement, the Testing Center, 150 students who haven't submitted their scores should report to the Testing Center, in the Office of Student Affairs on Harwood Avenue, as soon as possible.

Students who didn't choose to accept a reassignment in temporary facilities were released from their housing contract without penalty and would be charged only for room and board through the check-out date.

The Right Way

I begin by subscribing my undying affection to the famed Senator from Arizona, whose courage, fortitude, principle, and self-sacrifice are well-known to every American. In the course of my study, I have discovered some interesting facts about the senator's past that might shed light on his current stance.

The senator's early life was marked by adversity. His father was a successful businessman, but his mother passed away when he was only ten years old. Despite this, the senator was determined to make something of himself. He attended the best schools and eventually went on to become a renowned statesman.

The senator has always been a man of integrity. He has never wavered in his principles, even when faced with巨大的 pressure. His dedication to public service is unmatched, and he has always put the needs of the country above his own.

In his recent speeches, the senator has been critical of the current administration. He believes that the government is not doing enough to address the needs of the American people. He has called for bold action to tackle the problems facing our country.

The senator's leadership has been instrumental in bringing about positive change. He has been a vocal advocate for policies that will benefit all Americans, regardless of their background.

I am confident that the senator will continue to be a strong voice for the American people. His dedication to public service and his commitment to justice will ensure that he will make a lasting impact on our nation.

In conclusion, I urge you to support the senator and his vision for America. He is a man of principle, integrity, and leadership, and he will continue to fight for the betterment of our country.

Strike Threatened At American Motors

DETROIT — The threat of a new strike loomed over the nation's auto industry Thursday as negotiators continued efforts to settle local plant demands and end a nationwide walkout against General Motors.

Fewer than 20 settlements were reported at some 130 bargaining units around the country.

National contract bargaining was broken off Wednesday between the United Auto Workers and American Motors.

Goldwater Says He's Gaining, Slams 'Political Doubletalk'

WITH GOLDWATER IN TEXAS — Senator is narrowing the gap in the presidential contest, Sen. Barry Goldwater flew into Texas Thursday morning bearing charges that President Johnson is engaging in "political doubletalk" about his record.

The GOP presidential nominee was described by associates as perked up by private polls which indicate that while he is still trailing Johnson the number of undecided voters is increasing.

Goldwater managers were not claiming that a substantial majority of those who say they haven't made up their minds will swing into the Republican column. But they felt their grassroots organization would bring many around on election day.

One result of this trend in the private polls was the decision to continue a frontal attack on Johnson as a man willing to sacrifice veracity for political purposes and as one who shielded suspected wrongdoers.

Goldwater pounded this theme with renewed enthusiasm at his first Texas stop.

Johnson Promises to Protect 'Sturdy' U. S. Economic System

IN THE MIDWEST WITH JOHNSON — President Johnson, who is testing Midwest audiences he expects the biggest election landslide in history, said Thursday one campaign issue is whether to chop up the American economic system for firewood.

Swinging into the second day of an 11-state tour, Johnson stopped first at the racially mixed industrial city of East Chicago, Ind., where he appealed for liberalization of the immigration laws — something opposed by William E. Miller, the Republican vice presidential nominee.

Large and noisy crowds greeted the President in East Chicago be he flew to Indianapolis.

In his Indianapolis speech, Johnson likened the American economic system to a sturdy oak with its roots in the Midwest.

"And the issue today," he said, "is whether we are going to chop up this oak with care, nourish its growth as it must be nourished — or whether we chop it up for firewood."

The street crowds that greeted Johnson in Indianapolis were skimpy compared with those assembled in cities visited earlier in his Midwest tour.

Rusk Denies Campaign Affects Viet Nam Policy

WASHINGTON -- Secretary of State Dean Rusk denied Saturday that the Johnson administration was "marking time" on policy issues of the Vietnam war in South Vietnam because an electoral campaign is going on in the United States.

Rusk told a news conference he was "as hard as he could" to hold the issues in South Vietnam as major issues of war and peace.

Rusk adds that President Johnson has made it clear to advisers that decisions will have to be made with respect to South Vietnam in order to keep the action and should be made with regard to the political realities.

On another foreign policy issue connected with the selection contest between Johnson and Goldwater, Rusk said the United States is trying to deal with the problems of Cuba and cooperation with the other countries in the Western Hemisphere and the Johnson administration has had considerable success in that endeavor.

Then he gave what appeared to be a new warning to the Cuban government that a serious situation will arise if Castro continues with his program of interference with other governments in the Western Hemisphere.

Rusk was asked to comment on Cuba with preference to a statement by Rep. William E. Miller, Republican vice presidential nominee, that the administration has been indifferent about ultimate freedom for Cuba. Miller discussed the Cuban situation Wednesday in a speech in Miami, Fla.

Rusk also implied a stern warning to Indonesia against any attack on the Philippines, saying an attack on that nation would, under the existing Treaty of Alliance, be "an attack on the United States."

U.S. Army Says Saigon Troops Didn't Fire on American Copter

SAIGON, Viet Nam -- The United States military spokesman denied Thursday that there was any possibility a U.S. helicopter which crashed Wednesday, killing five Americans, did not shoot friendly troops.

The rumor circulated here at Vietnamese troops shot the helicopter after it "sounded like" a downpour in the after­noon, putting a damper on the entire stock of watches, necklaces, rings, diamonds, clocks, and fine silverware.

The weather forecast for today was also on the pessimistic side. The weather forecaster predicted a cloudy day with occasional rain. It made for a somber set­ting in the huge, 72,000-seat covered National Stadium, where the games were drawing.

Soró Nakasone, a spokesman for the Tokyo Olympic organizing committee, said he did not believe continuous rain would have any effect on the Olympic festivities but did add the attendance.

'Imprisoned' Tshombe Protests; Nasser Keeps Guards on Duty

CAIRO -- Premier Moise Tshombe of the Congo complained Thursday he was being treated as a prisoner and watched constantly by 30 Egyptian intelligence agents. He fired off letters of protest to all members attending the summit conference of non-aligned nations.

Tshombe was barred from the conference and was placed under house arrest on his arrival three days ago. The Congo then blocked the United Arab Republic and Algerian embassies in Leopoldville.

U. A. R., President Gamal Abdel Nasser sent word that Tshombe would be held until the blockades in Leopoldville are lifted. Tshombe was allowed a few visitors by Egyptian police and troops guarding the Araba Palace where Tshombe is being held on the outskirts of Cairo.

Nasser and President Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria led the fight to keep Tshombe from the conference.

University judicial boards are undergoing a re-evaluation designed to clarify—and re-emphasize—their role in the education of SIU students. The boards bear and rule on most disciplinary cases arising from violations of University rules and regulations.

In only three instances are there exceptions: cases in which city or state police are involved; cases involving women absent overnight from their living areas without permission; and cases involving students making unapproved visits to living quarters of the opposite sex.

But even in these situations, after violations are reported to the Office of Student Affairs, the boards are given an opportunity to hear them and make recommendations for action. The boards function on three levels, in an appellate system, for the living centers, for housing areas and for the whole campus. A student charged with a violation is taken before a living center board; if he is found guilty and wants to appeal, he may go before the area board, and then to the Campus Judicial Board, the "supreme court" of the system.

After appeal board is exhausted, a student may take his case through University administrative channels, and ultimately, to the Governor of Illinois.

The system has proved successful in the past, according to Harold L. Hakes, assistant coordinator for personnel and education in the Housing Office. But looking toward the demands of student life in University Park next year, he said, the University decided the system needed to be re-evaluated.

Hakes and a study group are examining the situation, and within two or three weeks hope to propose a tentative plan and make suggestions for a final plan to be formulated.

The problems peculiar to each living unit are only one consideration. Hakes said there is also a "tremendous educational problem." In order to make the system work, those involved in it must be educated to the direction it is hoped it will take. In the past, where the education process has been insufficient, there has been an element of apathy and the system has failed. But where training has been good, Hakes said, "there has been excellent student response and there have been excellent boards." Even violators have reacted favorably. They have recognized the value of the judicial experience and generally have accepted their penalties with understanding.

It is this "excellent" situation Hakes is striving for in his study. He feels the system is an ideal training ground for students, presenting them with an opportunity to learn principles of "human control" and rehabilitation rather than punishment. Prevention involves locating trouble spots and providing students before they get into trouble. The main role of rehabilitation is to aid the student in difficult situations, orienting him with respect to his social, personal and ethical development. These two roles dovetail to produce the ultimate goal, self-control by the student.

The judicial system's contribution is in tackling and solving small problems before they become large. Most people, Davis said, are well-informed and when they are given a chance to appeal to others—particularly their peers—about a problem there is a basis for its solution. The boards provide this opportunity.

Possibly even more important, the boards help to give the individual a sense of identification with the group, and said Davis, "in the case of a large university, this is most significant."

The success of the SIU boards lies in their being started at the basic level of University society, the living center, Davis said. He believes this is the logical starting point because it is in the living centers that student are in closest contact with each other, setting examples for each other and seeing each other's examples set. And student perspectives are more acute to conditions in their living areas than are outsiders.

Davis is especially satisfied with the operation of the system, although he conceded it has not completely fulfilled his expectations. But he said expectations are filled "when and others involved in probably have set h in expectations."

As for now, Davis said he is "happy we are up to the that point." And that point is in the process of becoming a reality and strengthening the system—a thereby set new expectation.

Athletic Department Reserves 5,000 Arena Seats for Students

Fifty percent of all seats in the new SIU Arena will be reserved for students attending SIU's basketball games, an Athletic Department spokesman said Thursday.

"This will include half of the chair-back seats," he added.

Earlier an Egyptian story indicated that the students would be confined to the bleacher seats in the Arena. The spokesman said the method of seat distribution has not yet been worked out.

However, all seats are reserved -- including bleacher seats as well as chair-back seats -- and students who have purchased the new Student Intramural Golf Set for Monday

"The Intramural Office will sponsor a hole-in-one golf tournament Monday. The driving range will be located west of the new baseball field. Interested students should report to the driving range at 3:30 p.m. Clubs and balls will be furnished."

Athletic Event Admission Ticket will be required to pick up a reserve seat ticket before an event.

Distribution of reserve seats probably will be made approximately one week before each basketball game. They will be made on a first-come, first-served basis.

Exact details of the system will be announced before the first home basketball game Dec. 1.

A number of new faces will be seen in Ft. Campbell's starting lineup here Saturday night, when the strong Screaming Eagles meet the struggling Salukis in the annual Shrine Day game at 8 o'clock in Mcaänder Stadium.

The Salukis are 1-2 for the season and are hoping to rebound from last week's humiliating 63-7 loss to Tulsa.

The Salukis are 1-2 for the season and are hoping to rebound from last week's humiliating 63-7 loss to Tulsa.

Handling the quarterback duties for Ft. Campbell this year in Phil Thomas, Thomas, a 5-11, 174-pound signal caller, was Tom Blanda's protege during the two seasons Phil Thomas played for Ft. Campbell.

Thomas, a scrambling-type back, is considered an all-around quarterback. But the Ft. Campbell back is not expected to throw as much as Blanda, who set several passing records while playing for Army and Ft. Campbell.

Lending support to Thomas in the Eagles' offensive backfield are halfbacks Jim Thorpe and Ron Gardin and 5-8, 190-pound fullback Dan Stevens. Stevens replaces hard-running, former Saluki Ernie Wheelwright at the fullback spot. Wheelwright, who played for Southern in 1960 and 1961, was signed as a free agent by the professional New York Giants three weeks ago.

Up front for Ft. Campbell is a heavily and rugged line which averages 221-pounds per man. Leading linemen for the Eagles are 6-3, 250-pound end Bruce Heim, 250-pound center Roy Cherry and aggressive guard Bobby Wooten (218), others in Ft. Campbell's starting forward wall are guard Larry Post (210), end Bob McDaniel (215) and tackles Luke Ellis (225) and Bill Bliznack (218).

In Saturday night's Shrine contest, Capt. Charles Davidson's Ft. Campbell charges will be looking for their first win of the season (they've lost to Tennessee State and Ft. Hood) and their third in a row over the Salukis.

Wednesday night it will be held in Room 0 of the University Center activity rooms area from 8:30 to 10:30.

Contrast of New and Old in British Schools Impresses Leaders of SIU's Oxford Group

By Robert Smith

The European educational system and European interest in American politics were some of the points on SIU's Oxford Group that impressed the leaders of the group from those in England.

"Of all visits, the most interesting were to the British schools," said James G. Benziger, professor of English and a leader of the group. "In the average British school, the buildings and some of the old-fashioned ones. They are very, very modern and some of the old-fashioned ones. They are very, very modern and some of the old-fashioned ones.

"They are very, very, very modern," Benziger continued. "The building system is divided into two parts: the old building system at an early age. This is because their system works out in a way that students are in their school career and sends them to trade schools. The older, more modern and some of the old-fashioned schools like ours to help com-

George W. Jacobson, a graduate student on the trip, wrote in his journal, "It seems as though the trend in English education is toward the older school system. Their present school system is very, very narrow. A graduate is an expert in one field but he knows very little about other subjects. "Oxford University and some of the other old-fashioned schools are fighting this," he added, "but there are movements going on in these schools for broader education." As to the quality of British education, Benziger said he was "astonished at the excellence of some of the poems written by young-soldiers in one of the very progressive schools.

"Our work is performed by the physical education programs in some of the schools," Benziger said. "It's called "the modern dance," Benziger said. Jacobsen saw 5-year-olds climbing 25-foot ropes and doing other acrobatics during their free time. "This kind of group also the children the "sweatshirts or "men's gymnasium of the school systems in England," according to Jacobson. This, he said, allows the system to move more rapidly than schools do here. Another reason for the somewhat faster - moving educational system in England was pointed out by Benziger. In England the government gives support to all schools, both public and private.

"Contrasting Europe's outlook on American politics, Jacobson said, "In many ways Europeans are more concerned with United States education."
