Prisoner tuition, women’s gym will head SIU Board agenda

Items ranging from the reaffirmation of tuition charges for inmates of Illinois prisons to naming the women’s gymnasium will be among the topics for consideration at the SIU Board of Trustees meeting Thursday.

The board will meet in open session at 11 a.m. in Student Center Ballroom B, following a closed executive session scheduled to start at 9 a.m. in the Student Center Vermilion Room.

Since June, 1961, prisoners taking college courses for credit offered by the Division of Continuing Education had been charged 25 per cent the normal tuition rate.

But in switching to the new semester system, the board passed a resolution April 12 ruling that tuition rates would apply to all courses of instruction offered for regular academic credit. whether such instruction be offered on the campus or at some other site.

Charles Helwig, coordinator of prison programs in the Division of Continuing Education, said this latest rate assessment was an apparent oversight by the board in the transition from a quarter to a semester system.

Helwig said the proposal for Thursday’s board meeting was offered by Division of Continuing Education Director Richard W. Bradley as soon as the oversight was caught.

Processing of inmates’ fees is being held up until the matter is resolved. Helwig said. "To date, this has not caused any problems, he said.

It is expected that the board will revert to the old policy of charging prisoners 25 per cent of the regular rate.

An ad hoc subcommittee of the University Senate has submitted a report recommending a 10-point policy for naming buildings on campus, and this amended report will be discussed before the trustees approve a resolution naming the women’s gymnasium.

Health Service to handle all cases

By Dave Wieczorek
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU’s Minor Care Clinic (MCC) has been abolished indefinitely and an intercampus transportation system is being proposed to aid persons in getting to the Health Service.

Until spring, the MCC was located in a house on East Stoker Street. The Human Sexuality Service was housed in the same building. However, construction of the recreational facilities began and the buildings in the area were torn down.

The MCC was serving as an extension to the Health Service. According to Mary Alexander, head nurse at the clinic, students on the east side of campus were complaining it was too far to go to the Health Service located in small group housing.

The purpose of the clinic was to treat minor injuries—cuts, insect bites, scrapes, bruises, strains and sprains—and minor illnesses—cold, sore throats and fevers as well as administering flu shots, tuberculosis tests and tetanus shots.

According to Alexander, the clinic was handling about 25 to 30 students daily in early 1973 and about 900 students per month. She said she would have liked to have seen more students taking advantage of the clinic.

"Sam McVay, Health Service director, said another location for the clinic is being sought, but a new site has not been found. Instead, McVay said he hopes an intercampus transportation system can be devised.

"There is current action to start such a system," McVay said. "The Student Health Advisory Commission is pushing the administration to provide a system. An intercampus transportation system would not only aid students in getting to the Health Service but would also help them get to other activities on campus."

McVay said it is an accessibility problem students are dealing with and the transportation system could solve that problem.

Publicity seemed to be another problem, Alexander related. She said not enough students were aware of the facilities available. She added that if the building had not been taken away from them the Health Service would have run the clinic this year.

Until the transportation system becomes a reality or another clinic can be set up, students will have to go to the Health Service for their needs. McVay said hours have been extended to 6 p.m.

To accommodate all the students who come to the Health Service.

Tom Engram, SIU electrical engineer in planning and development, said he does not expect the physical plant to meet the clean air standards and that SIU will be using the results and recommendations of the test to obtain a variance in the implementation of the standards.

Engram said the only way SIU can bring it physical plant within the new pollution standards is to build a separate pollution control plant which "would take two to two and a half years to build."

He estimated the cost of such a plant at about $7 million.

Norman Gordon, a chemical engineer for Consoer-Towland, was on hand Tuesday morning to supervise the testing procedures. He said he was favorably impressed by the facilities SIU has for steam production and pollution control.

Tests to determine the effectiveness of pollution control devices for SIU's steam plant will near completion Wednesday, according to engineers of the Aquasystems Corp. of Chicago.

The engineers began the tests at 5 a.m. Tuesday, and by mid afternoon had collected 48 samples of gas from the physical plant.

The tests will continue Thursday, if necessary, to obtain enough samples to determine if SIU will be able to meet all requirements of the new Clean Air Standards Act scheduled to go into effect May 30, 1975.

SIU requisitioned the tests, at a cost of $39,276, through Consoer-Towland & Associates of Chicago, the original designers of the steam production system. The firm subcontracted the actual testing to the Aquasystems Corp.

The results of the tests are scheduled to be turned over to Consoer-Towland & Associates within 30 days and will be evaluated for suggestions and recommendations for improvement of pollution control devices at the plant.

Student Senate to hear ideas on credit housing

Sen. Richard "Josh" Bragg will explain two resolutions concerning academic credit for student government officials and campus housing at the Student Senate meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Ballroom B of the Student Center.

At the last senate meeting, Bragg introduced the two resolutions, but they were tabled so senators could investigate the proposals.

In one resolution, Bragg recommends that the dean of general studies "initiate procedures allowing up to four hours credit for senators serving in the senate."

Bragg's second resolution recommends the abolition of housing regulations.

Current regulations require freshmen under 21 to live in on-campus housing. Sophomores, under twenty-one must live in University-approved approved

For retirement plan
Facility backs state funding

A resolution supporting full state funding for University faculty retirement benefits was unanimously approved at a Faculty Senate meeting Tuesday.

The resolution was moved by Robert S. Donow, associate professor of English and a member of the Senate, who said that the Senate recently voted to abolish state funding for university faculty retirement benefits.

Donow said he hopes the resolution will encourage appeals to state legislators to override Walker's veto.

The senate continues to support the 28 terminated faculty, and plans for a charity grievance.

The senate remains in close contact with committees established by interim President Hiram L. Lesar for Faculty Programmatic and Personnel Review and for Budget Advisement.

The senate may pardon entire Watergate crew

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Ford is studying the possibility of pardoning all those convicted or accused of Watergate-related crimes, a spokesman said Tuesday.

The surprise disclosure, heightening the controversy touched off by Ford's pardon for Richard Nixon, was made by acting press secretary John Hushen, who said he spoke with Ford's express authorization.

Council to organize new citizen group

By Robert Mau

After hearing several viewpoints from representatives of various interest groups, the Carbondale City Council has begun to determine the nature of citizen participation in the allocation of $81 million of federal funds.

In Tuesday night's special meeting, the council agreed that a new citizens' advisory group be formed to help recognize the major needs of the funds.

Councilwoman Hans Fischer suggested that the new group have a maximum of 30 members.

Councilwoman Helen Westburg said the group should have "the broadest possible community support." She added that the plan "insure citizen participation from the grassroots level."

In Monday night's formal meeting, the council delayed action on the proposed bicycle ordinance because of differences between urban and city policies of all bicycles, conflicted with the present SIU ordinance, which requires registration of all bicycles only once.

According to the proposed city ordinance, the city would not recognize the legal access on city streets by bicycles registered by the university, according to John Huffman, SIU legal council.

City Manager Carrol Fray recommended that the city accept university registered bicycles within the ordinance. Huffman supported Fray's recommendation.

City Attorney John Womick said a "problem of equal protection" could arise if the city adopted this policy.

Mayor Neil Eckert recommended that only unregistered bikes be registered until "some agreement on periodic registration" be reached with SIU.

"The council apparently is going along, in effect, with what the university has done," Fray said Tuesday morning.

"It looks to me," it's the first step toward the abolition of the ordinance."

The proposed city ordinance, which would have required annual registration of all bicycles, was personally conducting the pardon study, this point but that he, Buchen, expected to be involved later.

Buchen said he believed Ford first disclosed his interest in possible broad scale Watergate pardons at a morning meeting with House Democrats and Assistant Attorney William J. Howard.

Hushen said a spokesman for the Watergate crew told reporters he understood the likely impact of the Ford-authorized statement on a narrow already exceeded over the merits of the Nixon pardon.

"I think those factors have been completed account," he said, adding that the launching of a study did not mean pardons actually would be granted.

Reaction from powerful congressmen was swift and critical. Senate Democratic whip Robert Byrd of West Virginia said the new pardons "would complete the cover-up of the cover-up." House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., said they "would be viewed as an abuse of presidential power.

'U of I expert says Ford violated powers

CHAMPAIGN, III. (AP) - A University of Illinois constitutional expert says President Ford has 'a complete absence of constitutional power' to pardon Richard Nixon.

Prof. Rubin said he would go beyond the argument that Nixon's pardon 'violates Article 2, Section 2, Clause 1 of the U.S. Constitution.'

The expert said the pardon process is simply a question if the president has any power while the impeachment process is continuing, to pardon Nixon, Cohn said.

"Now my theory is, and I think it is a reasonable theory, that the impeachment process is really an ongoing process in this case. It has not been concluded," he said.

Impeachment is a dead issue with Nixon's resignation, Cohn holds, because impeachment means not only removal from the office of the president, but is charged with not holding the executive powers of the U.S., exceptional in cases of impeachment.

Cohn said, "We are dealing with an inordinate amount that is inordinately important to the United States, except in cases of impeachment."

Cohn said, "We are dealing with an indisputably important fact that is inordinately important to the United States, except in cases of impeachment."

"We could continue the impeach," Cohn said, "but is a question if the president has any power while the impeachment process is continuing, to pardon Nixon."

The expert said, "Does the president have any constitutional power to pardon the president in the court."

Cohn said, "We are dealing with an inordinate amount that is inordinately important to the United States, except in cases of impeachment."
Nixon pardon makes common man the loser

However fragile the American system of justice has become, it was dealt a devastating blow Sunday when President Gerald R. Ford, former President Richard Nixon, a "full, free and absolute pardon for all offenses committed against the United States."

President Ford, who may someday be voted as President or Vice President, the man Nixon handed his Presidency over to, is getting a pass. I am ignoring the American system of justice and letting him go free. Richard Nixon does not need a pardon for his "crimes" as every other American must.

That paraphrase of Ford's statement is exactly right, but is far too accurate. The biggest mistake about it is the part about every other American having to pay for his crimes. Only those without pull, political know-how, or money have to pay for their crimes. The ones less powerful than Richard Nixon and Spiro Agnew, you and I, more are pawns of the system. The real culprits, of whom Nixon rules supreme, go down too easy. "Richard Nixon and his loved ones have suffered enough."

Ford said, realizing America has suffered more than enough. We have been witness to one of the most tragic blows ever dealt upon the system of democracy and justice. The phrase "equal justice under law" has been emptied out of its meaning.

President Ford said Nixon trial would take a long time. No doubt, it would. He also said Nixon would very likely be deprived of his due process rights. That too, could be. And, he said, this would not be fair or good for the former president.

For awhile things seemed to be working out fine, people felt the right moves were being made. But all became guilty with the by laws of our land, no one seemed to be sure. Wasn't a vindictive mass of democracy backtracking, or were they just being fools, with blood red-I told you so's in mind; instead, it was a confused mass of people wanting to know what is going on, where it is going.

I don't think the nation as a whole was out for blood in the Watergate hearings; but instead, they wanted to find out the truth about it. What actually happened, not that the tapes were all but guilty of the accusations leveled against them! A comment on the editorial by Bob Springer on the Nixon and Ford.

Although there are many criminal acts that a citizen can perform against the "Laws of the Land," three major categories Vietnam dodoers, marijuana smokers, and corrupt soldiers of John Doe Public.

History can show, that in wars declared by Congress, you may be judged by the laws of the United States of America, but if there was any more thought, a bill in the history of our nation, my gut says that our form of democratic government does work.

As well as many of us have heard, too many times before, "all good things must come to an end," and so it went with our system of justice. On September 8, 1974, President Ford made a complete and unconditional amnesty for any Watergate related crimes he may have committed. It now seems that everything our country has strived for in the past two centuries was completely meaningless; for with this move Ford truly showed the American people, that although justice may be blind, the scale of justice is apparently there to be swayed by the power and wealth of the man being judged.

Our dream of equality and justice for all now seems to be only a passing thought in the minds of many Americans. We are living in a land of crooks as many claim, they are everywhere, as CBS newscaster Dan Rather said, "Men of no principles, all deals." President Gerald Ford made a deal with Richard Nixon, the exact time of which would be another interesting consideration, and in the process has taken a tremendous burden upon himself. It is left to history for future historians to determine if each and individual American can reach his own conclusions.

No need to move stables

Tom the Daily Egyptian:

It was with great regret that I read of the Senate's resolution to "demonstrate community and sympathy" for Richard Nixon. My feelings on the issue relate to the following observations:

1. An individual who has utilized Saluki Stables in the past I believe I have witnessed animals being condemned for crimes committed by others, not only on the part of the staff and riders but also among students.

2. Saluki Stables have operated for the past few years without any mention of crimes committed by their staff or people associated with Saluki Stables. Horses are rented out to and ridden by as many as eight different people daily, most of whom people, students, and professional riders and are rich in a significant number of crimes and offenses. The main interest is cheap thrills at the expense of the horses, not the staff, riders or the students. The Saluki Stables something typical to most public riding stables and the American democratic system of management does not help any.

2. Saluki Stables has never been in a University...

The crazy spaceship

By Arthur Hoppe

In defense of women

Ms. Loewy’s editorial of 9-4 on “Women’s Lib”, while difficult to respond to because of its broad and intended generalizations and misconceptions, nonetheless requires a response. Her initial question “what does women’s liberation want to be liberated from?” is reminiscent of Freud’s “what do women want?” As aardvark feminist I can only speak for myself and answer—women want men already have: access and opportunity to pursue, for the most part, whatever lifestyle they choose. This means that certain traditions have to be challenged, especially in the area of employment and reproduction. But socially, where etiquette is concerned, it’s still “to each his or her own.” If a woman chooses to light her own cigarette or that of someone else, to open her own door or open it for another, to stand on a bus or offer her seat to someone, so she should. However, traditional social customs take a back seat to the more pressing needs of women. That is not to say they should be discarded, but rather extended to both sexes. It’s really a matter of preference and personal taste.

As for her statement on the way we women dress (excluding or including herself “I wonder?”), this sounds suspiciously like an argument that “women who dress like that deserve or at least are asking to be raped. Need more be said?” But treated in this context, it meant mean being treated the sane. And one final thought: feminism and feminity are not mutually exclusive.

No self-determination in Chile

Again the Congress has been misled and the Americans deceived.

It is indeed a shame that the U.S. secretly and illegally authorized an expenditure of $8 million hard currency for the purpose of overthrowing the legal government of then President Allende of Chile. Before this revelation, American people had been told that the U.S. government played no part in the coup d’etat. Henry Kissinger or secret agents of defense has denied any American involvement and so have his deputies and other high government officials under sworn testimonies. But, in today’s present operation was chaired by the secretary of state. Once the operation is commenced we should find some new fuel somewhere. Nobody has yet...

I’ll miss television. But what scares me most are these nuts with bombs. We’ve got a half dozen of them in First Class. A guy in Tourist even made one. He’s starving and he makes a bombs: “For prestige,” he says. How crazy can you get?

Each of these nuts in First Class says he’s got to have his bomb because these five other guys have got bombs and he doesn’t want to be left out. Each says with kind of a mad gleam in his eye, “because, if they do, I’ll blow them up.” And the spaceship along with them.

Yet each wants the other passengers to think he’s the smartest and the right guy to run the spaceship. Talk about fruitcakes!

But does anybody try to take the bombs away from these nuts? Nobody does anything. Nobody ever does anything on this crazy spaceship. And there’s no way to get off.

Everybody knows what we should do. Us guys in First Class should raise our food, have fewer kids, turn off our machines that are eating up our fuel and mucking up our air, and somehow get those crazies screw away their bombs. Everybody agrees to that. Trouble is, nobody wants to give up all the good things he’s got unless everybody does. So nobody does. Nobody ever does anything. I guess it’s because we’ve got it so good that we’re going to get it so bad.

Sometimes I think everybody aboard this crazy spaceship is crazy. How come nobody will face up to reality? After all, this crazy spaceship is the only one we’ve got. We’re trapped, all of us, with kind of a mad gleam in our eyes, “because, if they do, I’ll blow them up.” And the spaceship along with them.

Bayh hits pardon, credibility hurt

CHICAGO (AP) — Indiana Sen. Birch Bayh said Tuesday that granting of pardons by President Ford to all persons connected with Watergate would destroy the American tradition of equal justice for everyone and Ford's credibility.

"I think this whole pardon business has been handled in a very bad way," Bayh said. "This cannot be done without considering the impact on the country and, on the system of justice. I hate to see the President destroy 200 years of history and a tradition of equal justice for all."

Bayh said that any additional pardons on the heels of his pardon on Sunday for former President Richard Nixon would destroy Ford's own credibility, which he said already seems damaged.

He cited Ford's congressional testimony last year that he would not pardon President Nixon, and a late-August statement that he would not grant a pardon before the normal judicial process was followed. Bayh said he was deeply concerned about the Nixon pardon creating a double standard of justice — one for the poor and another for the not-so-poor — which would only increase cynicism throughout the country.

"The people of this country are demanding political leaders who will speak with one voice," Bayh said.

Bayh was in Chicago to address a convention of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine workers.

Calipre puppet show

to use children in act

Children will get into the act of the puppet show, "Animal Crackers" this Saturday.

Unlike most puppet shows, the children do not sit and watch "Animal Crackers." They take part in the performance. The show uses creative dramatics, oral interpretation and large and small hand puppets to get the children involved.

Bruce Potts is the creator and sole puppeteer of the children's show to be presented in the Calipre Stage. Potts will share the bill with such fantasy friends as "Gowerville," Elmer the Crow, Gumdrop and Peanut Butter, and a blue elephant.

Potts began giving puppet shows while in the navy stationed at San Diego. For two years he gave shows for the San Diego Public Library System. As a result he became a complimentary member of the San Diego Puppet Guild.

When Potts was transferred to Hawaii, he gave puppet shows at the Hawaii School for the Deaf and Blind and the Easter Seal Camp for Crippled Children. "I found out at the Easter Seal Camp that many of the children that laughed and smiled had never reacted to anything before," Potts said.

Potts also performed at elementary schools on the island of Oahu for audiences ranging from 300 to 400 children.

"Animal Crackers" will be presented at 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. General admission is $2 each. For reservations call 455-2351 between 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

First meeting set for GSC

Goals and objectives of the Graduate Student Council (GSC) for the coming year will be discussed at the council's first fall semester meeting Thursday, according to Kathy Jones, president.

The meeting will be held at 8:30 p.m. in the Mississippi Room of the Student Center.

Jones said the objectives include increasing the number of graduate students and having more student involvement in the council. She said, "We're trying to get away from a student government of only a few. We want more involvement."

The results of orientation will be known two weeks ago and a general restructuring of the organization also will be discussed Jones said.

Beg your pardon

In the article about the student council discussed in Thursday's Daily Egyptian, Kathy Jones was incorrectly identified as Kathy Harris.

Vocational counselors needed to fill positions

In recent weeks the number of available openings for vocational counselors in the handicapped exploded, says John Grenfell, professor of rehabilitation.

Grenfell said about 30 jobs are open at sheltered workshops in Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky and Missouri. Positions available include vocational evaluators, training positions and mental retardation nurses.

The first two positions require a master's degree and a bachelor's degree is required for the latter position.

The workshops provide job training for the physically and mentally handicapped in an effort to provide available skills in a competitive labor market, Grenfell said.

The majority of the clientele are retarded adults who participate as students rather than patients. The individuals are funded by the Department of Vocational Rehabilitation, the Department of Mental Health and sometimes by Security. The workshops are supported by local government.

Grenfell said the opening of new workshops apparently has created a demand in other places.

We invited a few friends for dinner and they helped clean up the Genesee River.

With the aid of a few thousand pounds of microorganisms, we're helping to solve the water pollution problem in Rochester. Maybe the solution can help others.

What we did was to combine two processes in a way that gives us one of the most efficient water-purifying systems private industry has ever developed.

One process is called "activated sludge," developed by man to accelerate nature's microorganism adsorption. What this means is that for the majority of wastes we can produce, there is an organism waiting somewhere that will happily assimilate it. And thrive on it.

The breakthrough came when Kodak scientists found a way to combine the activated sludge process with a trickling filter process and optimized the combination.

We tested our system in a pilot plant for five years. At Kodak, we were working on environmental improvement long before it made headlines. And the pilot project worked so well, we built a ten-million-dollar plant that can purify 36-million gallons of water a day.

Governor Rockefeller called this "the biggest voluntary project undertaken by private industry in support of New York State's pure-water program."

Why did we do it? Partly because we're in business to make a profit and clean water is vital to our business. But in furthering our own needs, we have helped further society's. And our business depends on society.

We hope our efforts to cope with water pollution will inspire others to do the same. And, we'd be happy to share our water-purifying information with them. We all need clean water. So we all have to work together.

The Student Affairs Office is distributing a student handbook for the first time since 1970.

Bruce Swinburne, dean of student affairs, said the handbook was compiled to help acquaint students with the “little things you must know to survive the system.”

Swinburne said the handbooks are being distributed to residence halls, offices on campus, the Student Center, and on the third floor, Anthony Hall.

Features of the handbook include reports on university departments and activities.

Friends of library need donations for book sale

Donations of books, magazines, or records are needed for the third annual Friends of Morris Library Book Sale, to be held Oct. 11.

The sale will be held in Ballroom D of the Student Center and will include novels, biographies, histories, encyclopedias, foreign language books, philosophy books and textbooks.

Besides a wide range of hard and paperbacked books, a variety of magazines and records will be offered. This year’s book sale also offers children’s books and SIU Press Books.

According to Mrs. John E. King, secretary of the Friends of Morris Library, the sale’s objective is to raise money for the continued publication of Warts, a magazine devoted to scholarly articles derived from the research collections at Morris Library.

The magazine was first published in 1924 and describes the library’s research holdings, publicizes the library in general.

Those wishing to donate to the sale may do so at the west loading dock of Morris Library, or call the book room at 413-2164.

Jackson County voter drive to help students register

By Gary Delosh
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"If you're serious about change, register to vote."

That's the motto of the Student Voter Registration Project, and it is trying to make it easy for students to register and vote.

The student registration effort, along with the Jackson County Clerk's drive, plan to register many new voters for the November elections.

Bill Wesley, coordinator for the student registration drive, said "We're trying to make it as easy and convenient as possible for students to register to vote."

The Jackson County Clerk is also trying to make it easy for people in the precincts to register. Clerk Robert R. Harrell said he is in the process of appointing "registration deputies" for each of Jackson County's 61 precincts. There will be a democratic and republican deputy in each precinct, he said.

The registrars will be accessible to potential voters and have the authority to register anyone meeting the qualifications. "Each deputy will decide how he wants to go about it," Harrell said.

To register one must be a U.S. citizen, 18-19 years-of-age before the election (Nov. 5) and a resident of Illinois for six months in the precinct one wishes to vote in.

Harrell said there is going to be a drive sponsored by The League of Women Voters and student government Sept. 30-Oct. 4. Students can register at that time in the registration rooms on the third floor of the Student Center. Normally they would have to go to the County Courthouse in Murphysboro, student coordinator, Wesley said.

Wesley also said there will be a drive conducted in the dorms Sept. 30-Oct. 4 and students living there can register without leaving.

Wesley said last year there were 18,000 students at SIUC and 99.5 percent were eligible to vote. "We are going to try and get as many registered as possible and show that students can have a lot to say about county elections," Wesley explained.

Wesley said students from out of town can register for absentee ballots or for Jackson County, which would automatically cancel the student's home registration.

Duke Koech, a coordinator for the student effort, said it is practical for students to register for the November elections, saying that students are going to be effected more by what happens here than in some place they live for only a few months. "Wesley said the project is strictly non-partisan, interested only in getting voters registered. Volunteers are needed and should call 549-9228.

The "St. Louis Ragtimers," a three piece ragtime and rhythms band, will open the Convocation series with a jazz concert at 8:00 p.m. Wednesday. The trio features Don Franz on the tuba, Trebor Jay Tichenor at the piano and Al Strickr, the band's vocalist and banjo player. Ragtime music has experienced a revival in popularity since the release of the film, "The Sting."

Leader of the trio is tuba player Don Franz. Franz is a research associate in computer science at Washington University. He earned the Master of Science degree there in 1960. Franz' tuba is a basic ingredient in all of the band's renditions.

A release from the office of Special Meetings and Speakers, claims "Al Stricker combines a flair for showmanship with old-time vocalizing and banjo-picking. His vivid presentations make the ragtime era come alive. A real performer, Stricker rounds out the group of three very accomplished musicians."

This performance is the first of six free Convocation programs to be offered this fall by Special Meetings and Speakers.

The concert will be followed by a free coffee hour sponsored by the Student Government Activities Council. Held in the backstage of Shryock Auditorium, the coffee hour will give the audience a chance to meet and talk with members of the "St. Louis Ragtimers."

That good 'ol ragtime rhythm has taken this country by storm SIU will become part of the action at 8 p.m. Wednesday, when the "St. Louis Ragtimers" come to town in Shryock Auditorium.

Whether it is nostalgia or classical music that turns students on, ragtime music meets the demands. With music that can be traced back to the late 19th century to Scott Joplin, ragtime is totally American in nature.

Described as a "musical language in which you cannot say a mean or sarcastic thing," ragtime precedes blues and jazz as an American art form. Joplin's music is considered classical, and some of his work is compared with short pieces by the masters — Chopin, Schubert, Brahms and Mozart.

Neglected until recently, ragtime enjoys a revival partially due to the success of the film, "The Sting." At a recent ragtime festival, the first of its kind, all of the top names in the field turned out. Among the names mentioned were those of SIU graduate student Juan Dugas and the "St. Louis Ragtimers."

An agile piano player is needed to play ragtime. He must contrast complex right-hand melodies with an accented, steady bass played by the left hand. "Professor," Trebor Jay Tichenor, pianist with the "St. Louis Ragtimers," fills the bill. His style reportedly bears evidence of the influence of Jelly Roll Morton and Scott Joplin.

Walker vetoes 'drink' bill

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. (AP) - Gov. Daniel Walker sent legislation making drunkenness and alcoholism a community health problem instead of a crime back to the General Assembly Tuesday.

The legislation would have created a division of alcoholism within the Department of Mental Health and Developmental Disabilities and would have prohibited local ordinances or rules making drunkenness a crime or a punishable civil offense.

Walker said he approved the concept of the bill but vetoed it because the General Assembly failed to appropriate funds for detoxification programs to be established under the new program.

Albert speaks out

WASHINGTON (AP) - The pardoning of Watergate figures beyond former President Richard M. Nixon could plunge President Ford into deeper trouble with Congress, House Speaker Carl Albert said Tuesday.

"I think it would be viewed as an abuse of presidential power," said Albert after a White House spokesman announced that Ford was studying the possibility of granting pardons.

"Where would be stop?" said Albert in an interview. "Would it mean that all politicians in trouble would be pardoned?"

Amtrak to spend millions

WASHINGTON (AP) - Amtrak plans to spend $600 million improving passenger train routes that serve Chicago and downstate Illinois.

The national rail passenger service says it hopes to spend $65 million on three routes that serve wholesale state control of key industries including oil. It proposed public spending be cut back and wages and prices be subjected to tight control by law if necessary.

Utilities argue rate hikes

WASHINGTON (AP) - Nearly 100 state public utility commissioners will meet in Washington Wednesday to hear federal officials argue for higher rates for electrical utilities.

The outcome of the meeting and others scheduled in the near future may be higher electric bills to the consumer.

There was not a general announcement of the meeting until after several consumer groups alleged it was being held in secrecy.

New scale measures patient perceptions

By Dave Wanczuk
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

After more than two years of research, an SIU School of Medicine research team has come up with the "Patient Satisfaction Scale." A scale that will measure the perceptions of medical care services. According to the research team of Dr. Russell Wright, and John E. Ware Jr., Mary Kay Snyder and Gary S. P. Nagel, the scale will ultimately help in assessing the needs of existing medical services and help in the planning of medical services in the future. He said that the research began in July of '78 the first objective was to devise a scale for measuring patient perceptions of medical care services.

"The scale we have worked out is a logical result of what doctors need improving, if a doctor is in a certain area, if the patients can afford a certain level of care, and if people are able to get the services needed, the doctor said. The scale is made up of 10 questions, each question is answered on a 1 to 5 scale. The scale will be published along with a manual explaining how to use the scale and interpret the material.

"We don't want to publish the PSI any earlier because we don't want to put the public using the information prematurely. We are going to have to plan all the material properly," he said. In order to gather the material for the scale, Ware said, self- administered questionnaires were sent out. When all the questionnaires were returned, the information was analyzed by a computer and the scale drawn up.

The research the SIU team is conducting is confined to central southern Illinois, St. Louis, southern Indiana and Madison, Wis. Ware said that the main goal of the research is to study patient perceptions on a national scale. He said they want to get a bigger sampling of America. The whole project should be completed in three to five years, he added.

Currently, the team is working on its third grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW). HEW granted the School of Medicine $156,000 on July 1, 1979 for use in studying patient perceptions.

According to Ware, there were two other grants before the current year.

"On July 1, 1979 we were granted $70,000 to get the research under way. Then one year later we were granted another $70,000, and the grant this past July brought the total to $210,000.

The total amount that was granted is also for the study of patient perceived health status, perceived value of health, perceived quality of care and perceived efficiency of care. According to Ware, measuring scales are to be developed for these also be said.

Ware said that SIU is not the only school working on the project. He said originally HEW saw a need for research to help those looking for people to do the research. The research is among several institutions to cooperate.

Big loan company beginning to dissuade consumer loans

CHICAGO (AP) — Household Finance Corp., which traditionally concentrated on lower-income, lower-class borrowers, is beginning to tell more and more prospective customers they're better off not borrowing.

HFC says its rate of approving new customers is off by 25 percent from a year ago. Three of eight in one of the nation's largest consumer loan industries are being rejected.

HFC executives say the consumer is paying too much attention to lower-interest-rate advertisements and getting too involved in credit problems.

"The trend throughout the $4 billion-a-year consumer loan industry is this," he said. "It seems to have the disaster for the loan companies, the consumer can make a lot tougher decisions in lower-income, lower-class families, who are particular averse to consumer loans, to get through economic tight spots."

While officials of HFC, one of the largest firms in the industry, are quick to point out they have no specific policy to constrain credit to new customers, the approval rate of loans to new customers has gone down from 37 to 30 percent.

One of the reasons, says HFC vice chairman P.C. Nagel, is that "our standards, because of money costs, have tightened up a bit."

The problem lies in the interest rates financed companies have to pay for money they themselves loan.

The short term rates have risen to the point where the interest rate is left in sharply lower first-half profits.

There are more than 1,000 big and small finance companies operating out of more than 50,000 offices across the country. Borrowers who need extra cash to meet emergency expenses are finding that high rates and charged interest rates of up to 36 percent.

That rate depends on the size of the loan and the regulations which vary from state to state.

More than half of the loan go to finance companies have annual incomes under $6,000 and 40 per cent are under $12,000, industry statistics show.

Much of their business is with high-risk customers. Delinquent loans are routinely considered as their overhead.

If a person can't get a loan through a finance company, he probably can't get a commercial loan through any legitimate means, said Robert Gibson, head of the National Foundation for Consumer Credit in Washington.

"When the interest rate is one percent of the money borrowed, perchance 75 percent of the money borrowed, the loan is much too high in the consumer," he said. He predicts that he will be on the floor of the Senate in two years.

"Obviously, the industry is hurt very badly," said Carl Haver, executive vice president of the National Consumer Credit Association—the industry's trade organization.

He said it interest rates stay high for an extended time, it will cut back until states allow them to pass interest rates on consumer loans.

Gibson said most loan companies have already begun to cut back and he worries about the possible social implications.

HFC Chairman G.F. Ellis says, for example, that unlike last year, loans might be denied by a family that had depended on two incomes where one was lost because of unemployment.

Nagel says persons with low seniority in the automotive and related industries are more likely to be rejected this year because of possible layoffs.

"Maybe after a discussion we'd find the smart thing today is for the particular customer not to borrow. We don't want people to take the loan unless the loan will be repaid," says Ellis.

Another example of tighter credit is given by Gibson, who says his agency offers financial council to about 100,000 families out of 162 offices around the country.

"Take the case, let's say, of a skilled worker who moves from one state to another. He's not known locally and may not currently be on the payroll. He may be trying to get a credit rating in the community for establishing fairly good credit back home and needs some money to buy furniture and dishes or something."

"This is the kind of person a small loan company would be willing and want to work with. Last year, such a person would have little trouble getting a loan. He can't do it now," says Gibson.

"One of our fears is that if a family member is able to obtain credit through a legitimate finance company that he is going to look to alternative or is a loan from a loan shark. There are too many people out there who are not too interested in security, or to some form of credit such as a legal loan.

However, the industry representatives say they are using every upsurge in illegal loan racketeers.

A year ago, HFC was paying about 15.5 per cent interest on the laws. In March it was 15 per cent. At the peak last year it was 19 per cent.

All loans from HFC average an average of 25 per cent, said Nagel. The company's overhead, less interest charged to pay, runs to about 15 per cent. According including the interest in this more than short-term money, many finance companies may be operating near the break-even point.

Traffic deaths show decline

SPRINGFIELD, III. (AP) — Fewer people died in traffic accidents on Illinois highways last month than in August 1974, state officials reported Tuesday.

August fatalities totaled 183 compared with 222 last year, a decline of 18 percent, the Department of Transportation and Illinois State Police said.

During the first eight months of 1974, there were 1,213 traffic deaths compared with 1,553 for the same period in 1973, a 22 per cent decrease, officials said.

The decrease in fatalities this year has been attributed in part to the use of 55-mile-per-hour speed limit, which went into effect in Illinois in March.

White rebel movement falls in African colony

By Associated Press

A white rebel movement to take over power in Portugal's southeast African colony of Mozambique appears to be crumbling Tuesday after its leaders handed over control of the radio station they held for three days in the capital of Lourenco Marques.

The atmosphere in the capital, and in Beira and other centers, remained uneasy, however, and heavy police patrols were in evidence after five days of chaos and unofficial 10 deaths. For the third consecutive day, demonstrators occupied the main square at Beira. The troubles were sparked by an agreement Saturday which gives the black movement Fretilin a major role in the provisonal government promised for an independent Mozambique in July.

Gulma Bissoo, another of the African colonies, Portugal is freeing in dismantling the remnants of its empire, officially became the first to receive its independence Tuesday as President Antonio de Spindola signed the documents in a ceremony in Lisbon. Independence for the third colony, Angola, has been promised by December.

The Movement for Free Mozambique, MFM, leaders who held the radio station said they capitulated because of widespread violence in the capital's suburbs. Portuguese army officials said they had been moving troops to seize the station by force when MFM gave in because of broadside support for the armed forces to help restore order in the black shantytowns which ring the capital on three sides.

A police colonel and another officer arrived at the radio station Tuesday and were greeted warmly by MFM supporters, police said. A brief consultation followed by announcement of the immediate surrender, a broadcast said.

While said the transfer was made quietly and without bloodshed.

A government spokesman in Lisbon said the end of the MFM siege came before dawn when Portuguese troops took over Lourenco Marques Airport from armed white civilians.

It was not immediately clear whether surrender of the broadcasting post signaled the end of the movement. The rebels have said they will hold independence for Mozambique, but did not want Portuguese help.

Without the radio voice, the dissidents said they saw the ineffectual gesture of rallying support.

Gulma Bissoo, previously known as Portuguese Guinea, was an economic drain on Portugal for years.
Water polo squad starts second year

The Salukis have gained entrance into a league—the water polo Salukis, that is.

The SIU team, entering only its second year of competition, has entered the Mid-West League, including such formidable opponents as Kentucky, Loyola, Michigan and Indiana.

Since we are still in the formative and skill-development stages of a water polo program, our entry into the Mid-West League may be premature, "admitted Coach Bob Steely. "However, we are only as good as the competition we face."

Last year, Steely guided the team through its first full schedule to a .54 record in his first year as coach. Two key members are gone from that squad, however, including the team’s top scorer, Pat Sullivan, and top goalie, Randy Gofer, both All-Americans.

Battling for the two openings in the starting lineup are three newcomers and five returnees from last year.

Junior Paul Schultz of Riverside and freshman Jeff Parlan of Hazelhurst will vie for the goalie job vacated by Gofer.

Sullivan’s spot is up for grabs between sophomores Ken Morton and Steve O’Dowd of Belleville, Ken Meyer of Park Ridge and Sergio Gonzales of Lima, Peru, and newcomers Jamie Powell of Parkway, Mo., and Jorge Delgado of East St. Louis.

Returning to fill the remaining five positions are Dave Steenman and Tony Wickham of Tacoma, Wash., Mike Salvores of Chicago, Coach Dennis Roberts of Muncie, Ind., and Rick Fox of Mount Prospect.

With Sullivan gone, the Salukis will have to turn to a more balanced attack, but Steely sees this as an advantage.

This should spread out our opponents and force an open, fast-moving game," he said.

Considering the strong competition in the Mid-West League and the Hendricks College Tournament which the Salukis are entered in, Steely has limited his team’s goals to winning the Illinois state championship.

We will be able to swim with any team," commented Steely. "If we can pick up the ball and pass it, we’ll win plenty of games."

The Salukis’ 1972 schedule appears as follows:

Sept. 14 Indiana, Western Illinois at Principia

Sept. 21 intrasquad

Sept. 27 Southeast Missouri

Sept. 28 at Illinois

Oct. 4 Missouri Rolla

Oct. 5 at Kentucky, at Indiana

Oct. 11 at Southeast Missouri

Oct. 18 at Hendricks College Tournament.

Nov. 2 Illinois

Nov. 3 Mid-West Conference at George Williams.

Saluki defense will be quick

By Bruce Shapin
Daily Egyptian Sports Editor

Second of a series

Quickness and size are two of the most important attributes one must have when putting together a winning defensive team. That year the Saluki defense lacks size, but they hope to overcome this drawback with their quickness.

"If your going to have a good defense you either have size or quickness," said head coach Doug Strom. "We're not going to be big, so we better be quick if we're going to be good."

During the last few days the Saluki defense has welcomed back junior Primus Jones, who missed part of fall workouts from a knee operation. Jones will start at the right tackle position when the Salukis open the season Saturday night at New Mexico State.

"It's a compliment to Primus that he is able to play," said Weaver. "He has played very well in our practices, but he is not in shape yet. We do not know if he can go the whole game at New Mexico State."

Backing up Jones will be Laron Marks. Marks did not see action last year, but he has impressed Weaver and his staff this spring as a backup player.

Seth Kirkpatrick, a starting linebacker a year ago, moves to the front line this year as the starting left end. Kirkpatrick is the second leading tackler on last year's team with 98 unassisted and 27 assisted tackles. Mark Hailey will back up Kirkpatrick and right defensive end Maitray Bailey.

Bailey had an outstanding spring and is considered a "hard worker" by the Saluki coaching staff. Bailey is a 238 pound sophomore from East St. Louis. The Saluki linebackers may be small but they're hitters according to Weaver. Valdrew Rodgers stands 5'9, 195 pounds, and has been called the hardest hitter on the team. He'll need to be a hard hitter as he patrols the middle.

"Rodgers is the type of player that turns games around with his hitting," said Weaver. Rodgers, because of his size, has difficulty playing up off the defensive blocks, but his speed has improved this weakness. Rodgers will be backed by freshmen Dan Brown.

The defensive signals will be called by starting left linebacker Jack Wise. Wise, a senior, had a fine spring to open the way for his starting assignment. Steve Angrum will be backing up Wise. Angrum is a talented sophomore who plans to figure highly in the Saluki defensive plans.

Tom Ippolito was named by Weaver as the starting right linebacker. Ippolito, considered a very "coachable individual" by Weaver, started several games last year at linebacker. Frank Busker, one of 17 seniors on this year's squad, will travel as the second line backer.

At this point starting defensive secondary will be handled by Gary Powell, John Justus, and Joe Howard. Powell, a senior from Glenview, was a starter on last year's 3-7 team. Powell has been working on the left corner and will be backed up John Rende. Rende will share the punt returning duties with Ken Seaman.

"I have an aggressive ball player, will protect the left side against the long run and the pass. John Forys will fill in for Flowers when called on by Weaver. Forys started several games last year.

Gary Mann, one of four freshmen on the varsity, will back up Byas. Joe Houston, a walk-on who earned a spot on the varsity this spring, has earned the right.

Dwight Simmons, who saw considering action last year, will be waiting on the sidelines Saturday night as Simmons's back-up.

This year the defense will handle the punting assignments, according to Weaver. Doug Kirkpatrick will handle most of the punting assignments, said Weaver.

When it comes to scoring the Salukis have field goal kicker Ken Seaman on this team. He'll handle most of the punting assignments.

Seaman, a sophomore soccer specialist, is one of the best field goal and point after touchdown men in the country.

Last year Seaman ranked eleventh nationally in field goal kicking. Seaman is a major threat when the Salukis threaten inside the opposing team's 40 yard line.

"My fingers got caught in his shoulder pads," says Paterno. "As he ran on the field, he broke my finger."

"I guess you could say, Paterno shouldered the blame."

WJPF will broadcast all road football games

By Ron Sutton
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

"Saluki football is on the air!" This season will see the local radio station once again Saturday night on WJPF, 1060 KUM, Channel 13, Carbondale television.

The SIU station announced the decision Tuesday after finalizing plans to transmit the play-by-play from WJPF of Herrin via a telephone hook-up.

"We feel that WJPF should be available to carry local programming of local interest," said station general manager Ronn Davis, in announcing the decision.

Saturday's broadcast will begin at 8 p.m. with a pre-game show called "The Doug Weaver Pre-game Show," to be aired by WJPF. Game time is 8:15 p.m.

"We didn't ask for any assurances that we be the only station broadcasting through the fall," said SIU station news director, "but, unless something happens Wednesday, I doubt that any station could get it together."

WJPF asked only for assurances that it would be the only campus station broadcasting the games. After it became apparent that WSIU-AM would not pick up the Herrin broadcasts, WJPF checked out the situation. When the idea came up that WSIU would not be having the broadcasts, we started checking around," said Strom. "The first stations we checked were place yesterday and today with Ron Hitte, sports director and station manager of WJPF."

WJFP will not charge the campus station for the broadcasts, leaving telephone line costs as the only budgetary problem for WJDF. Line charges vary with the use of the line.

The station, supported by student activity fees for the most part, is planning only to broadcast the road games presently, but is still considering home games.

"We're still in negotiations on that," said Strom. "A lot depends on what happens after the first broadcast. Student opinion will prevail."

"We felt that the students could at least see the games at home," he continued, "but we felt that they should have the opportunity to hear the road games also."

Both WJPF and WJDF checked out the technicalities with their respective lawyers before the decision was made.

The campus station has not seriously checked into the question of joining the Saluki network, expected to be established in February or March.

"We will be in touch with the university at that time, seeing what possibilities are involved," said Strom.

The Maroon team defeated the White team yesterday in the first intersquad scrimmage of the year for the SIU Rugby Club.

Kevin Conway, Mike Wade and Toby Peters scored goals for the Maroon, with Ed Will making two points after attempts. Scott McClain got the lone score for the White, as the ruggers concluded their scrimmage, held on the rugby field, south of the Arena.

Will, who is the Rugby Club president, said "There were many shining individual, but team unity was still a problem. Saturday's scrimmage showed us how much we really need to do, including defense against injuries." Will referred to ruggers Bob Janura and Steve Flowers who just suffered shoulder injuries at Saturday's scrimmage.

The Saluki team, will hold another scrimmage Tuesday at 5 p.m. on Saturday, on the Rugby Field.
