Six Design Department Majors May Spend Winter In Ghana

Stay At Nkrumah University To Include Research Jobs

The purpose of the trip is to do independent research there, working with Prof. Benjamin Fuller, professor in design at SIU, at Nkrumah University.

The trip is not yet definite, but the six postgraduate travelers are awaiting a cable from the African nation to determine whether their applications have been approved.

Meanwhile, in addition to the accruing of oxen week and the approach of Christmas, they have the added burden of getting passport applications, visas, immunizations, and initiating financing plans for the trip.

The spokesman for the group in Victor P. Seper of Chicago, he and the other members of the group are seniors in the Department of Design. They include Wayne Comstock of Geneva, Gerald Collins of Litchfield, a son of Democratic Oversee of Lombard, and Roger Karrak of Pecatonica. Two others are listed as "possibiles", John Bis of Chicago and Larry Richards of Peoria.

Seper said the group considers the trip to Ghana as a possibility of getting educational research, with the Department of Design encouraging.

Puller was approached by Ghanaian representatives at an international architectural meeting and agreed to teach art work with the school of architecture at Nkrumah University for six weeks. If the plans of the SIU students materialize, they will meet him in Ghana.

They plan to fly from New York to London, which they expect to reach no later than Jan. 2.

Variety Show Set For Feb. 28-29

The leap year dates of Feb. 28-29 have been selected for the 17th annual Theta Xi Alpha School Variety Show at SIU.

A wide range of talent will be invited to participate in the show, according to Jim Rogers, chairman with Ned Coslin.

The show is designed to encourage students at SIU, especially with comedian Dick Gregory as one of the winners who was at SIU last year.

County Problems To Be Discussed Here

A public hearing on problems of government in the south 18 counties of the state will be held Thursday by the Illinois County Problems Commission.

In addition, the funds from ticket sales finance three scholarship awards and the addition to the SIU campus such as the oil paintings in Morris Library and the announcement case at the Home Economics Building, Rogers said.

A long-range project object is a large, permanent welcoming sign for the SIU campus, he added.

Application for auditions will be available about mid-January. Auditions will be conducted in February. The precise time will be announced later.

Rogers said the auditions are open to any student or group at SIU, and three classifications of acts have been established. They are individual, intermediate (small groups), and large groups.

A winner will be selected in each group and will be awarded a trophy, small trophies will be presented to all entrants.

Rochman is chairman of the Service to Southern Illinois committee and part of the proceeds of the show will finance three scholarship awards for the Sudanese woman and one to a senior male selected for service to SIU in its betterment, and the Leo Kaplan Memorial Scholarship awarded to junior or senior in science.

Rogers announced these committee chairmen: Public Relations, Larry Baldwin, publicity; Bob Satoz, tickets, Jim Merz, trophies; Bill Hamer; and stage crew: Jack Daltanek. Other committees will be announced later.

Rogers is a junior from Oakwood and Coslin is a senior from Wood River.

Each winning group will be awarded a trophy and small trophies will be presented to all entrants.
Incarcerated SIU Student:

Complaint Of Jail Conditions
Sets Off Council Discussion

City commissioners and Carbondale citizens agreed at Tuesday’s City Council meeting that the city jail is a mess. But they also agreed that there is little hope for improvement in the near future.

The jail entered the spotlight of local publicity this past weekend when an SIU sophomore, David Voland, spent 48 hours in the lockup as his punishment for running a stop sign on a bicycle. (Voland said he couldn’t afford to pay the $10 fine or to spend the time working if off at $2 1/2 cents an hour.) Voland described the jail as the "filthiest, smallest, and most unsanitary room in Carbondale, if not all Illinois."

At the Council meeting, the Rev. C.E.F. Howe, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, suggested that the mayor authorize a study of a possible remodeling of the jail.

"The jail is becoming a sore point with some of our citizens," Rev. Howe said. Mayor D. Blane Miller said he didn’t think the city “should get upset about one student’s complaint.”

Rev. Howe replied that in his 11 years in Carbondale he has visited people in the jail on a number of occasions and the jail “is not something this city can be proud of.”

But he said there has been no money available for remodeling the jail. "The jail is used as a drunk tank most of the time and the drunks contribute to the odor," Eaton said. He added that much effort is made to keep the jail clean and remove the odor, but the number of drunks going in and out of the jail makes the cleanup job almost impossible.

Eaton said a new jail will probably be built when a new city hall is constructed. But there are no plans for building a new city hall at this time.

"I’d rather see what money we have go for the benefit of more citizens than the few law-breakers in the jail," Eaton said.

"I am ashamed of our jail," Eaton said, "but I don’t see what can be done about it."

Cadets Receive Military Honors
Six cadets, advanced AFROTC cadets received honors last week as Distinguished Military Cadets.
This is an award bestowed upon a relatively small number of distinguished senior cadets who are chosen each year by Col. George H. Blase, professor of Air Science, on the basis of grades, summer camp ratings, and, generally, on their display of outstanding leadership qualities as ROTC cadets.
Discount Coupons Offered For Plays
The Student Government office has 150 discount coupons for two plays being presented in Chicago during the Christmas holidays.
The coupons enable students to buy tickets to the productions at a reduced rate, according to Ken Boden, communications officer for the Student Council.
Fifty discount coupons are for "Black Nativity," by Langston Hughes, at the Civic Theatre, and tickets may be ordered. The other 100 tickets are for "Seedsman and Sons," by Ebliss Muli, at the Studebaker Theater, Sam Levine stars in the latter play.
Boden said the coupons will be distributed on a first come, first serve basis at the Student Government office through the end of finals.
Prof. Sharp Praised By Council Of 100
The late Lloy B. Sharp, professor of outdoor education, who died Dec. 4, was eulogized Tuesday night at the monthly board meeting of the Educational Council of 100 held at Southern. Speaking about Sharp and his philosophy were William J. Tudor, director of Area Services, Loren Taylor of the department of recreation and outdoor education, and Mary Stoelske, a graduate assistant in outdoor education.
Sharp, who came to Southern in 1960 from New York University, this fall established the first SIU outdoor education center near Little Greasy Lake near Carbondale.
AFROTC Schedules Holiday In Blue
Plans are now in progress for the annual AFROTC "Holiday In Blue" which will be held Jan. 31 and Feb. 1.

Hollywood -- Frank Sinatra's 19-year-old singer-son, kidnapped at Lake Tahoe and held blithedeed 54 hours, was released unharmed on a street Wednesday after secret maneuvers in which his father paid a gang $240,000 ransom.

The FBI and police in California and Nevada cities were reported to have launched a massive manhunt for the kidnappers. The hunt had been relaxed during delicate ransom talks.

"Now they're on their own," Sinatra said of the abductors. "No deal was made to protect them."

Sinatra said the payoff point was on Wilshire Boulevard in West Los Angeles and no deal was made to protect the abductors after they received the ransom.

Young Sinatra apparently was driven the 485 miles from the Lake Tahoe area to Hollywood in the trunk of a car. California and Nevada authorities released certain roadblocks in the area, presumably after the ransom demand.

Frank Sinatra Jr., whose goal is to duplicate his famous father's entertainment success, was taken at gunpoint Sunday night from a motel on the California-Nevada border just before a casino singing engagement.

A private policeman patrolling the exclusive Bel-Air district picked him up -- the blindfold still dangling from his neck -- after he heard a shout of "Hey!" from darkness behind his car.

The patrolman drove him to the nearby home of the boy's mother, Mrs. Nancy Sinatra, long divorced from the actor-singer, There came a dramatic reunion.

The elder Sinatra, who had been negotiating with the gang since Monday and flew here Tuesday night for the payoff, lost his look of haggard tenseness as he greeted his son.

"Father, I'm sorry," the youth said.

Young Frank then embraced his mother, who broke down and wept.

"Don't cry, mother, I'm well. I'm in good shape," Young Sinatra went to bed without talking to newsmen but a spokesman said he probably would do so later in the day.

Airline Strike Threat Blocked

60 Days By Presidential Order

WASHINGTON -- President Johnson blocked Wednesday for at least 60 days a threatened strike against six airlines by the International Association of Machinists.

He ordered the creation of an emergency board to investigate disputes between the Machinists Union and Braniff, Continental, Eastern, American, National Airlines, Northwest Airlines and Trans World Airlines.

Under the Railway Labor Act, which also applies to airlines, the strike scheduled for Dec. 1 cannot be called until 30 days after the emergency board reports its findings to the President.

The board has 30 days to make its findings and may take longer if both parties agree.

The dispute involves wages and changes in work rules.

The White House said it had received some reports that the union might advance the deadline for its strike.

Johnson's order creating the board said that in the judgment of the National Mediation Board, the dispute "threatens substantially to interfere with interstate commerce to a degree such as to deprive a section of the country of essential transportation service."

Navy Board Asks Shipyard Closing

In Three States

WASHINGTON -- The Navy has informed Congressmen from Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and California that a survey board has recommended immediate closing of naval shipyards at Boston, Philadelphia and San Francisco in an economy move.

Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., said Anac. Secretary of the Navy Kenneth E. Jentschfield told him the board said it had recommended phasing out shipyard facilities six yards by October 1966 but later said the board had asked for immediate action on the Boston, Philadelphia and San Francisco facilities.

He said the Massachusetts delegation was preparing a joint formal protest.

Approximately 50 persons have registered for the SIU-Oxford summer study program and there is room for at least 10 more.

According to Douglas Rennie, assistant professor of Sociology who is in charge of the program, there will be at least an additional 48 spaces on the charter plane which will be open to any qualified individual in the program.

"The special round-trip fare fare to and from Europe is only $300," Rennie said.

The plane will leave St. Louis June 17 for Glasgow Scotland and will depart from Paris August 27 for St. Louis.

Rennie said that there is no definite deadline at this time for signing up for the Oxford program or the plane trip.

However, the sooner we know the better for then we can make the necessary final arrangements.

He urged persons who don't sign up for the Oxford summer study program but who want to take advantage of the special plane fare to notify him by February.

"But we could take anyone up to the last moment if the plane is not full," he added.

Rennie said that Raymond Dey, dean of the SIU Extension Service, is attempting to make arrangements for persons not enrolling in the Oxford program to take summer courses for credit at other British Universities.

Rennie released the following letter from Ann Preston, a junior in elementary education at Western Michigan University, who took part in the program last summer.

"When Queen Elizabeth was in the process of choosing a new Prime Minister recently, I found myself anxiously waiting for the results and letters from my English friends to see how they felt about the choice.

A year ago, I wouldn't have been concerned about this turnover in the Conservative party, but as the result of a Social Studies seminar in which I participated last summer, I have developed a keen interest in the English people and now try to keep up with the events taking place in their country.

The course I enrolled in was called "Contemporary Britain." Instead of sitting in a classroom for six weeks, we actually went to England and became students at one of the oldest universities in the world, Oxford.

Prior to our residence at Oxford, we toured Britain for two weeks, beginning in Scotland with Edinburgh's historic castle, beautiful lochs, the Trossachs and Stirling.

We cruised the Lake District in England and proceeded east through the densely populated industrial area to the ancient Roman town of York and from there went on to visit our "Rival" university at Cambridge. We then spent several days sight-seeing in London.

Our free time here was spent at the theatres, the British museum, shops, Thames excursion boats and many points of interest.

We drove on a Sunday down across Sussex to the resort town of Brighton on the English Channel and stopped at Portsmouth (also where Caesar first set foot in Britain).

University life at Oxford was a sharp contrast to what we, American students, had been accustomed.

The monastic style of architecture provided for a quiet, learning atmosphere even though High Street was filled with traffic just a few feet away. Within the halls all the needs of the student can be met. There is the chandelier, dining area, library, housing and lecture and diacension rooms.

Our course included lectures on various phases of British life given by forty of the top lecturers to be found in the colleges of Oxford and from various walks of life. Each was a leading expert in his field. It became our turn to raise questions and discuss the lectures further when we met with our tutors in tutorial sessions interspersed throughout the course.

Visits to English schools, courts, libraries, and local government councils were along with the tutorials and the lectures. Many of us were invited to the homes of the college dons, and we had tea one afternoon with the Mayor of Windsor and on another afternoon with the Mayor of Asheton.

Other side trips included the modern cathedral city of Coventry, the ancient Roman city of Bath and the still older monastic "temple" of Stonehenge. The drive through the Cotswolds and the performance of "The Tempest" by the Royal Shakespeare Company gave the summertime the "P"rience.

Little Grassy Sets Summer Interviews

A representative of the SIU's Little Grassy facility is piloting a student this week for camp workers at Little Grassy this summer.

Deaver Bennett, an instructor at Little Grassy, said he will be in the Student Work Office all day during finals to interview students interested in summer jobs.

Bennett said some 100 jobs are open for the summer. They range from nine to 12 weeks long and pay scale will be worked out on individual basis, he said.

What Salukis Need: Is History Repeated

In his sophomore season as SIU's head basketball mentor, Jack Hanman probably would like nothing better than to see his current squad shake its early-season jitters and turn in a repeat performance of last year's campaign, which produced 20 victories and only 10 losses.

The place to finish in the NCAA's college - division tourney was frosting on the cake.

Hanman, a former Oklahoma State wrestler, expected to have difficulties arise this year after losing his top two scorers. His job this season is one of the toughest rebuilding chores that may be undertaken.

A disciple of controlled-type wrestling, Hanman insists on mistakes with a sound defensive philosophy that doesn't count out his squad's running game.

"We'll run when the occasion presents itself," Hanman said before the season opened. "But we won't force it."

The Salukis haven't had much opportunity to employ the fast break in their first four games, coming up against some hot-shooting clubs who have their own scoring eyes have yet to mark the squad completely.

Hanman, a native of Shil- der, Okla., enrolled at Oklahoma State in 1943 and earned varsity letters in football and basketball as a freshman and sophomore, although a tour of duty with the armed forces separated the two years. He was urged to concentrate on one sport as a junior and chose football, playing quarterback.

Hanman was named to the All-Missouri Valley Conference first-team to play one season of professional ball in Canada, where he also was a league star.

Launching his coaching career in 1951, Hanman piloted football and basketball programs at Plainville, Kan., Shidler and Wagoner, Okla., before returning to Oklahoma State as a graduate assistant. He is now full-time to work for his master's degree.

Wrestling Meet Postponed 2nd

SIU wrestling coach Jim Wilkinson announced Wednesday that the meet scheduled here this Saturday against Florida Southern College has been postponed indefinitely.

It was the second year in a row that a scheduled match with Findlay had been called off. Last year the Findlay team couldn't fill the date when a blizzard covered Ohio and Wisconsin in all movement in the Findlay area.

One reason the match apparently had been called off due to a personnel change in the Findlay coaching ranks, but he didn't know the exact reason for the postponement. The possibility still exists that the match will be rescheduled.

Wilkinson expressed great satisfaction with his squad's performance in the Illinois Invitational last Saturday, where his wrestlers won six of a possible 10 individual titles.

Don Di Vita, 147-pound runner-up at nationals, was also impressive, "I don't think he was second, but he beat a German boy from Normal who was a two-time member of the German Olympic team. He lost to Northwestern's Ron Rieker, who was also last year's Dark Lectures At Beloit

Swedish Gymnast Sets
Hopes On '64 Games

A 22-year-old blond freshman from Swedish hopes to improve her gymnastic form at SIU, with an eye to making her country's Olympic team to compete in the 1964 Games at Tokyo.

Birgitta Gullberg has a problem, though. Sometimes last July the sciatic nerve in her right thigh became inflamed. The pain at times is so great she can barely walk, but she still works out and has begun competing again.

"When it is really bad I lose feeling in my right leg," she said. "It just gets used to the pain. It's always worse when I start, but I get used to it."

Miss Gullberg said that the injury has caused her much disappointment because it has delayed her progress. She has high praise for Herb Vogel, SIU gymnastics coach.

"It's hard to be so close but so far away," she said.

Prof Proposes Naming Street
Kennedy Drive

An SIU professor has suggested to the Carbondale City Council that a city street be renamed in memory of the late President John F. Kennedy.

E. C. Coleman, director of the Plan A Curriculum, wrote the Council a letter, which was read at Tuesday night's meeting.

Coleman said that streets named for local persons should not be renamed, but that one Carbonale street—Glenmore Drive—has an "insipid and colorless" name, and would be better designated Kennedy Drive.

"We'll give it some thought," said Mayor Dr. Blaney Miller. "It might be a good idea," he added.

City Attorney J. Edward Helton said the Council can legally rename the street by passing an ordinance.
