Internationals doubt leader’s skills

By Diana Mistelli
Staff Writer

A letter written by several International Student Council staff members and passed around for signatures stated that the president has abused his rights and lacks the skills necessary for effective leadership.

The letter has received 26 signatures but M. Ali Firouzi, president, said it contains no substance. He said it is the product of a few staff members who have tried "persecuting" others to believe these accusations.

He said 35 out of almost 3,000 international students does not constitute a serious problem. It supports the "following shortcomings to consider:

- Insufficient communication with staff members.
- Misuse of crucial human resources and individual talents.
- Lack of objective assessment of a situation(s).
- Inability to recognize existing problems.
- Lack of organizational and planning skills.
- Lack of consistency in behavior and mood, also crucial in dealing with a diverse population.
- Easily brought to anger and self-defense.
- Ineffective delegation of duties, etc.
- Misuse of proper channels and procedures when making decisions.

Firouzi said this letter is "cheesecaked." "It came to all the presidents (of each international student association). They didn’t buy this about the lack of leadership or something like that because they’ve seen my leadership. My presidency has a very good record."

Genes key to sulfur research

By Brad Bushue
Staff Writer

From a book-stacked office in Lindgren Hall, David Clark outlines a project that could give the Southern Illinois coal industry the boost it needs.

Clark, a research professor in microbiology, is looking for a way to solve the problem that plagues the region’s coal producers — high levels of sulfur in the coal, a proven contributor to acid rain.

Genetics:

Part of a series about genetics: Research on campus.

Clark said the coal is heavily contaminated with two types of sulfur: inorganic sulfur, which can be removed with existing processes, and organic sulfur, a chemically bonded, easily removed component that is present in much of Southern Illinois’ coal.

With the help of researchers and graduate students, Clark has been trying for about four years to contact a unique bacteria, which involves the cloning of specific genes that have the ability to break the chemical bonds of the stubborn sulfur.

Because chemical desulfurization, the current method of removing the sulfur, is inefficient and expensive, coal producers find it is not practical to use, Clark said.

Clark proposes to produce a new bacteria that will dissolve the sulfurous ions, making the coal porous so the sulfur can be rinsed away.

Brian Knibbe, associate professor in plant and soil sciences, collects the bacteria that will degrade organic sulfur, escherichia coli, and Clark contacts companies for testing.

Clark has identified the three genes needed to make the bacteria porous, but he has only cloned one, characterized one, a feat that took more than one year’s work.

Clark said he expected the project to take three to four years to complete.

"We’re only just starting," he said.

The project is a new venture in the field, Clark said, and is being funded by a Department of

Plane en route to Armenia crashes, leaves 79 dead

YEREVAN, U.S.S.R. (UPI) — A Soviet military jet carrying relief supplies for victims of a devastating earthquake crashed as it approached the Armenian city of Leninakan Sunday, killing 79 people, as President Mikhail Gorbachev ended a weekend tour of the stricken region. The official news agency Tass reported the crash of the large four-engine Il-76 military cargo plane in a brief dispatch Sunday evening, but did not say when it occurred or give a cause of the accident.

Afghan military aircraft shot down, 25 killed

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — Afghanistan said Sunday that intruding Pakistani warplanes shot down an Afghan military helicopter, killing people aboard, and crashed with soldiers in more than two dozen cities, villages and U.N.-run refugee camps in the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

Persian Gulf leaders confer on summit talks

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Persian Gulf Arab foreign ministers, hoping to solidify a fragile cease-fire in the Iran-Iraq war, conferred in Manama Sunday to prepare for their first summit in three years, which is to take effect next August. The meeting was to be held by the six-nation Gulf Cooperation Council, established in May 1981 to coordinate regional defense and economic policy in light of the Persian Gulf war which began in late 1980.

Audit: Labs overcharging Medicare program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal audit of 25 private medical laboratories found they continue to riddle the Medicare program with "unreasonable pricing arrangements," billing the government up to 25 percent more than they charged private physicians for the same tests. Government investigators believe the laboratories are overcharging Medicare millions of dollars each year and may be paying kickbacks to doctors who refer them Medicare business, according to an internal memo by Inspector General Richard Kusserow of the Department of Health and Human Services.

Report recommends moving 2 nuclear plants

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A classified government report recommends spending $50 billion over 25 years to move two nuclear plants in the nuclear weapons complex, build five new reactors and clean up the worst damage from 40 years of bomb-making, the Washington Post reported Sunday. Known as the "2010 Benchmark," the Energy Department document, delivered last month for review to the National Security Council last week, could serve as a blueprint for a wholesale restructuring of the nation's nuclear production system.

Satellites to be used to track nuclear waste

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (SHNS) — The Department of Energy has activated a satellite system that enables it to track nuclear waste shipments around the nation with newfound precision. The tracking system, known as TransCom, is fully operational, although just one shipment has been monitored so far.

More high schools taking college courses

NEW YORK (UPI) — More students than ever are taking college-level courses in high school under a program in which they earn college credit before taking a step on campus, the College Board reported Sunday. A record 222,601 students took an unprecedented 426,984 qualifying exams last spring on college-level courses taken, and attained college-level performance grades on 67 percent of the tests taken, the Board said.

English carols, jester highlight Madrigal Dinner
Royal fanfare fails to capture audience, Christmas spirit

By Wayne Wallace
Staff Writer

There was a lot of royal fanfare, but little Christmas spirit at the University's 21st Annual Madrigal Dinner Concert, held over the weekend by the Student Center.

The beautiful English carols by the Madrigal Singers and the expert comic juggling of Harmless T. Jester were indisputably the brightest moments in what proved to be an otherwise dreary evening of cold, dreary Christmas spirit.

In a dinner theater atmosphere, it is necessary to remember that the audience is like cattle. They have to be conditioned into knowing when to eat and when to pay attention to the play's action.

IF THE mimes, actors and sword-brandishing fencers ever wondered Friday night why there was such a roar of silverware and murmuring in the rear section of the dining hall while the rest of us were only paying them attention out of politeness, it was because of their brief flashes of performance that pronounced enough to command audience attention away from the meal and the friendship of dinner companions.

Soundings of the dialogue and action often seemed to be so short and uninspired that the audience found little reason to heed them.

Such was the case with the continuing saga of Princess Jane and Prince Philip. This pathetic excuse for a love story, delivered in bits and pieces, was rendered even more pointless by the unintelligible sound system.

IN OTHER instances, the trumpeters would blast King Jason's royal fanfare, and the audience would fail silent. But for what? A lame joke about the Queen or Archbishop would be delivered in 16th century rhymes with little animation from the speaker, and a course of the royal feast would be served to the King's court and the audience simultaneously, thus ending that particular vignette.

After grabbing our attention and instilling the hope that something entertaining would follow, the royal performance sank into banality, not unlike a sketch on the new "Saturday Night Live."

THE PLAY's one interesting performance came from Tara Jones, as Princess Jemmy. Story solicited a fine comic front as the King's spoiled daughter, especially when she attempted to bellow a Yuletide tune. The drama, some nonsense about a curse and mistaken identities, killed the festive aura that was set by the antics of Harmless T. Jester (Skip Solvey), an immensely talented juggler who thoroughly captivated the crowd with a witty repartee and a keen skill with knives, pins, apples and fire.

LIVE MADRIGAL music was a vital component in setting the mood and adding a realistic 16th Century flavor to the banquet. All musicians performed marvelously. Instruments included an authentic harpsichord, wood-carved recorder fence, a viole da Gamba, a harp and a concertino.

Fifteen well-trained voices endowed the Madrigal Singers with a beautiful chorus rich in harmony, remaining faithful to the many Renaissance carols they performed.

After the feast, the King's Entertainment addressed the audience, promising to release us back to "The Future." At this point, someone at the King Charles II table was heard to whisper, "Alright!"

The banquet itself was more a feast for the eye than for the appetite, including a flaming Christmas pudding, Julienne vegetable remoulade and rice sausage dressing.

HIGHLIGHTS OF the meal were the hot Wassail—a tangy cinnamon drink—and the royal feast would taste more like cattle.

Considering the overall quality of the food and entertainment, $16 a plate seems way off base.

Perhaps the University's social set can afford such prices for so little return, but economy-minded students should be guaranteed a quality product for such an investment.

Even though students were invited to act as guinea pigs for a Wednesday night test performance at only $10 a person, more consideration must be given to the student body.

BY EXPANDING such cultural festivities to meet the needs of the average student, the University would be encouraging alternate forms of weekend entertainment.

Increased student participation, as a result of a reduction in admission, may surprise even the most skeptical of University officials.

'He's' not impressed with sexist labeling

In the Dec. 7 edition, Joy Morris speaks out, "Psychology students demand non-sexist environment at SIU." I really don't know why I'm writing this since I'm a male student and I don't think it is possible for me to understand how oppressed women feel.

Since my gender puts me at an understandable disadvantage, I meticulously read what she had to say about oppression and how it facilitates itself in the classroom and yearned throughout your letter to find evidence of sexism. I couldn't find any evidence that obviously runs rampant within this University of Illinois-Carbondale's "progressive" character of the current environment that you stated was the word "he" when used as a label for a person of unknown gender.

When this vile act of linguistic indifference was pointed out to me, I was in shock. How could this happen? I started looking through books and found that this ghastly method of labeling genderless persons ran rampant throughout all my library. Seeing that this plague is so widespread, I wondered how any woman could keep her sanity when reading.

Ms. Morris, it's not that I don't support either sex in the oppression of any group, it's that the theme of your letter did not match its contents. It seems to me that you have used the problem of sexism as a way to vent frustrations caused by an attempt to change the status quo in a field that is irrelevant to evolve. I salute your attempt at change, but your misuse of the issue is similar to the story of "The Boy Who Cried Wolf." — David L. Kaha, senior, aviation management.

USG compromising students, constitution

THE UNDERGRADUATE Student Government has done it again.

Just when you thought the USG was beginning to clean up its act, you were considered as being unqualified to impeach academically ineligible Sen. Juliana Taylor. Two votes short of a two-thirds majority to impeach Taylor, USG senators voted in favor of compromising the USG constitution.

THE WHOLE situation is very simple. If a senator does not meet the requirements set forth in the USG constitution, then the senator should be removed from the committee. It's that simple. There aren't any other things to do. And it's the professional thing to do.

But the USG doesn't seem to be concerned about being professional or doing the right thing. By allowing SIU-C students should be fed up by now, if not angry.

USG SENATORS were elected by students to serve the best interests of the students, but the USG is unable to do its job effectively because of petty, in-house squabbling and childish behavior.

In her defense, Taylor said, "If I thought I was in the wrong, I would have resigned quietly." Well, Taylor is in the wrong, but won't admit it. The USG constitution requires that all senators have a GPA of at least 2.0. Taylor does not meet this requirement.

IF THE USG is going to raise a hullabaloo over former Sen. Betty Koly — who was impeached while she was an undergraduate student, thus making him ineligible to be a senator as set forth in the USG constitution — then the USG should do the same thing to force Taylor to meet the same requirements as all senators.

TAYLOR'S IMPEACHMENT is not a matter of personal bias, nor is it unfair treatment, as Taylor has said. It's a matter of necessity. She is not qualified to be a senator and the USG wants to be taken seriously, she should be impeached.

Also, it is not the impeachment proceedings that are distressing the senator. Taylor has said, her stubborn refusal to relinquish a chair that no longer belongs to her.

Soviet gesture might be trick, but deserves our investigation

In any case, Gorbachev had little choice but to cut military costs. The Soviet economy is a basket case and the U.S.S.R. can't afford the huge military outlays it's been putting out.

That was a remarkable statement, and the U.S.S.R. can't afford the huge military outlays it's been putting out.

REMEMBER WHEN it was Angela Davis, who made idealistic speeches about beating missiles into computer chips and the Russians who stood around and muttered, "Careful Comrades, it can be a trick!" Those were the days.

In 1977, Gorbachev has gone a long way toward reversing the public images of the Soviet Union and the United States in the eyes of the world. Once it was the Soviet Union that was suspicious, paranoid and secretive, with the United States confident, open and prepared to compromise, now it tends to be the other way around.

Gorbachev had little choice but to cut military costs. The Soviet economy is a basket case and the U.S.S.R. can't afford the huge military outlays it's been putting out.

The notion that the Soviets are sitting there, panting for an opportunity to invade western Europe is absurd.

WE'VE SEEN the rise of that "unwarranted" power posture that is the major force driving our foreign policy. There is now nothing holding us back from translating the purchase of more weapons. Are the Russians trifling? If we prove we need more armaments. Are they conscripting? If they prove are by our weaponry and demonstrate the need for more. We need a big defense budget in a war and a bigger one in peace.

And should we disarm, it simply means we have to spend more to "modernize" our defense forces.

For the most part, "modernization" means replacing old weapons that don't work very well with new weapons that don't work at all. If the Soviet Union didn't exist, we'd have to invent it.

GORBACHEV, alone among world leaders, seems to believe that the key to hastening prosperity for the world lies in ending the arms race. He has taken the first step to do so. It is a small step but one taken at considerable personal risk. He has, after all, his own military-industrial complex to deal with.

We should not let him stand out there alone.

He also said, “Some of these people even don’t know Firouzi. They don’t know actually the definition of a lot of the positions made public,” Firouzi said.

He alleged this letter was written by people that don’t serve on the executive committee, which he pointed out something he heard because he tried to make everyone work together rather than in individual groups. Dushyant Patel, president of Murphysboro Church of God, which accepts donations for the wrappings, is the daughter of the Church. Wrapping service is available during regular mail hours.

RE Decision was announced. “The chairmen spoke the needs of their people.”

Brown said the party will survive the competition between the counties, but said “We’ve spent too long drilling holes in this boot. We’ve got to begin patching the Democratic party.”

Lindegren, who did cancer research at SIUC in the 80s, did not believe that DNA could be manipulated, a theory which has been disproven with gene mutation and cloning.

The researchers want to understand how the gene help the bacteria produce lactic acid or alcohol out of sugar without the presence of air.

The study started with a hypothesis that Clark said Charles Lindegren, who did cancer research at SIUC in the 80s, did not believe that DNA could be manipulated, a theory which has been disproven with gene mutation and cloning.

Police offer students crime-prevention advice

By Mark Barnett
Staff Writer

To prevent burglaries of vacant houses and apartments during the holiday break, Carbondale and University police will patrol and check residences, police officials said.

Carbondale Police will check off-campus housing and SIU-C Security will watch the University residence halls when residents notify police that they will be gone. Police officials gave the following security measures students can take when they leave their school addresses for a long time:

\- Make sure there are good strong locks on windows and doors. Every “point of entry” should be secured, Art Wright, Carbondale Police crime prevention officer, said.

\- SIU-C Security Capt. Carl B. Kirk, suggested inscribing a driver’s license number on such valuables as televisions and stereos.

\- Carbondale Police and stereos. Driver’s license number on that they will be notified of the crime.

\- The officers thought a burglary was in progress and scared the resident, he said.

\- In the House Watch Program conducted by the Carbondale Police, Wright said. Residents can sign up for the program at police headquarters, 616 E. College St.

As part of House Watch, officers check windows and doors a couple of times within a 24-hour period.

\- Stop the mail. The post office can hold a person’s mail up to 40 days. William J. Mariani, director of city operations at the Carbondale Post Office, said. A form should be filled out to inform the post office of the day to start holding the mail and the day deliveries should resume. The accumulated mail will then be delivered, he said.

\- Enroll in the House Watch Program conducted by the Carbondale Police, Wright said. Residents can sign up for the program at police headquarters, 616 E. College St.

In the House Watch Program, officers will watch the residence three times within a 24-hour period.

\- When residence is checked the apartment, he said. "The officers watched the residence, they saw something, and scared the officers will check the residence three times within a 24-hour period.

\- They need to leave their name, the apartment building name, the room number and when they will be gone and we will check it when we are in the area," Kirk said.

Postal stamp window offers extended hours
By Mark Barnett

The Little Egypt Philatelic Center at the Carbondale Post Office will have extended hours today, Tuesday, and Dec. 19, for those who have a stamp collector on their Christmas list.

"A lot of people buy stamps as stocking stuffers," Greg Schafer, acting director of marketing and communication at the Carbondale Post Office, said. The Philatelic Center stocks commemorative stamps, mint sets and stamps issued since the beginning of the year. The main window at the post office does not keep these stamps in stock, Schafer said.

The Philatelic Center opened June 1986 and has had extended the center's hours for Christmas shopping since December, 1986.

The center will be open from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. today, Tuesday and Dec. 19.

The Philatelic Center is next to the main window at the southeast end of the post office, 1301 E. Main St.

Host families help students

Program designed to teach culture, assist in transition

By Diana Miveili
Staff Writer

For most students going home for the holidays requires little thought. The major concern is usually how to get home. But some international students do not go home for the holidays. The host family program tries to be the family away from home, an advisor at International Programs and Services said.

Carla Coppi, foreign student advisor, said the host family program is designed to help students to stay with them for a certain time.

Coppi said the two kinds of host families are "special occasion" and "regular basis." Special occasion families host students on holidays like Christmas and Thanksgiving. Regular basis families meet with the student severas times throughout the year. Activities include movies, dinners and picnics. The regular basis families offer students someone to confide in and talk with about problems.

The important thing is to have someone there, not just peers, but someone in authority," she said.

The family is a good way for the international student to learn about American culture.

Mrs. Blanton, coordinator for the International Programs office, left, and Marie Usami, a junior in political science from Japan, spend time together as part of the host family program.

Oswald and Joiner combined for only five points on the evening. "It was a very physical game," Coach Cindy Scott said. "But that's what we need for us. We've been up against tough, physical teams all year. The Salukis are a very physical team, defense, and Cathy and Amy did a great job inside (on Nissen, Oswald)."

Rakers led all scorers with 17 points off the bench and rebounded. Kampwerth added eight and Dana Fitzpatrick added six.

"We played with a great deal of intensity," Scott said. "The kids who were playing together and started to develop continuity were much more dissonant, could have easily developed among the players."

Scott said the offense also started to do more of what she "isn't a good shot."

Cathy had been struggling lately," Scott said. "But the inside game tonight was much better. We turned the ball over (past) well offensively and by wearing the ball around were able to score enough points to win.

Davenport said the Saluki women just now that they have their first victory out of the way, will be a team to be reckoned with the rest of the season.

"When the Salukis open the conference schedule they will definitely be a factor in the title chase," Davenport said. "With their rugged early season schedule, the fans in Southern Illinois just have to be patient. The Salukis will definitely win more games and final from Page 16 as he fouled out. The senior forward scored just once after a bucket with 14:31 remaining. "I had to play with those fouls, and I am a pretty emotional player," Horse said. "I don't appreciate some of them, but you've got to let them go."

"It's just the little things we can do better about. We have to get away from our letdowns. If we can keep our highs higher, longer over a given period we'll be in great shape."

Nixon proclaims

GIANTS coordinator for the Giants.

"If you look at the teams across the country there are a lot of tough ball clubs," Nixon said. "The way the Giants have played in the last three weeks, you have to give them a real shot."

The Giants will win the NFC East if they defeat the New York Jets Sunday.

"The Jets are going to be tough," said Nixon, over the phone. "The Giants have to stop the Jets' run, and get a good push on the quarterback.

Nixon, who resigned from the presidency Aug. 9, 1974, in the wake of the Watergate scandal, said he would stop playing in the role of defensive coordinator for the Giants.

Walker said, "And it was with that key win we pulled it out."

Three runners had double wins in the meet to lead the team.

Junior Katie Wire won the 200 freestyle in 1:54.53 and the 500 freestyle with a time of 5:08.53.

Freshman Nancy Schmiedler won the 100 backstroke with a 1:01.54 and the 200 backstroke in 2:14.40.

The third swimmer to take two wins was freshman Julie Hosier who captured a win in the 100 butterfly with a 59.14.54 and a win in the 200 butterfly with a 2:09.56.

Despite defeating Houston Friday, the women's team was still considered the underdog going into the contest against Vanderbilt.

Houston also competed in the dual-meet with Vanderbilt defeated Houston 77-42.

"It was definitely a win they went out and earned," Walker said. "We give an awful lot of credit to the girls for that. To keep fighting the way they have says a lot."

Saluki wins were recorded for Debbie Gutierrez, Schmiedler and Hosier.

Gutierrez won the 200 breaststroke in 1:51.93. Hosier took a first in the 200 butterfly with a time of 2:16.71. Schmiedler won the 100 freestyle in 54.61.

Though the three first-place wins were important, it was the third-place finishes that secured the meet for the Salukis.

Basketball teams combine for twin win

Herrin’s final play of game puts end to Panthers’ hopes

By David Gatlin (Senior Staff Writer)

Assistant basketball coach Rodney Watson knows his Eastern Illinois team is lucky. They just wanted to make sure the players knew them, too.

“Coach (Rick Herrin) did not really bawl or scream at half,” said Randy Hendry, who paced the Salukis to a 73-72 victory over Eastern Saturday with 35 points. “Coach Watson took care of that.”

It would appear Watson had reason to be a bit uplifted. After claiming a seven-point, 25-18, lead with 8:11 left in the first half, the Panthers went on a 22-6 scoring run to claim a 40-33 halftime advantage.

“On that burst they did the little things,” said Watson, a former student assistant at Eastern. “They shut us down about the last five minutes, so it probably wasn’t what we did or didn’t do. We missed about 10 baskets that we are normally going to get down.”

The Salukis closed quickly in the second half, claiming a 6-4 lead with 13:04 remaining. The lead was never more than three points for either team from that point.

With seconds on the clock, two Jay Taylor free throws put the Panthers up 72-71 in set up the game-winner. Kai Norrberger, who had missed his layup and Freddie McSwain put in the missed shot to give the Salukis the win.

“I was supposed to take the ball in and see the best shot I could get,” Norrberger said. “I got in and missed it, but he made the follow.”

Herrin said Norrberger did everything he could.

“He took it as deep as he could,” Herrin said. “I thought his first shot was probably the best shot he could have done. He was right there.”

“In the last few games,” Herrin said, “We barely did it, but it was a victory we had to have. Some of our younger players are really learning how good Eastern is. It wasn’t smooth and pretty, but our kids showed a lot of courage.”

Norrberger, who finished with 15 points, said SIU-C was being important just before the Salukis, which helped Eastern’s scoring run.

“When we started to come back we took shots too fast,” Norrberger said. “We had a couple of turnovers, and Freddies was the closer when we should have worked the ball more.

“At the half, one of our assistants noticed that of the five times we put the press on them, they threw it away four times. Right away they did not get it through, and that is what kept us going.”

Eastern coach Rick Samuels agreed.

“We did not take care of the ball, had many turnovers trying to inbound,” Samuels said. “I thought the crowd played a part in Southern’s victory. You can’t let a nine point lead slip away into a dog fight to the end of the road.”

Herrin said the Salukis need to rebound.

“We have to play more aggressive,” Herrin said. “That’s important. The kids are getting out and doing better on the glass, but we want to play better.”

Watson said his former assistant coach did a good job neutralizing the crowd.

“We put the press on twice and got a turnover twice,” Samuels said. “The kids were tired and I hesitated to use it because it was late and I did not want to give up an easy bucket.”

The Salukis lost the services of House with 1:02 in the game.

Defense nets first victory for women

By Robert Baxter

Staff Writer

The 1-4 women’s basketball team turned in its best performance of the season Saturday when it defeated the University of Dayton 69-64. The Salukis had averaged scoring 78 points per game in their first four contests.

Cougars coach Donita Davenport said her team just couldn’t buy a shot. The Chapparents were 1-17 percent from the field.

SIU-C applied a stingy man-to-man defense, completely stifled the CU attack, and went on win 67-32.

“It was very difficult for me to get my players to realize we weren’t playing as 6-4 team,” Chepehaw Coach Donita Davenport said. “The Chapparents are definitely not a 1-4 team now. We missed enough to our players just how talented the Salukis really were. We see the disadvantage because they were 1-17.”

“We took good shots throughout the first half,” Davenport said. “But we just couldn’t get anything to fall. If we had made at 45 percent of our shots, it would have been a totally different game.”

Both teams sparked defensively in the first half as The Chapparents scored only 39 points. The Salukis held the Chapparents to 1-15 half lead, mostly on the strength of defensive pressure applied under the basket by sophomore Amy Rakers and senior Mary Oswald.

Five Chapparents scored two points each Saturday, coming with only 3:32 left in the game.

The Salukis had led the Chapparents this season with 20.3 points per game, along with 14 rebounds at 4.0 per game. The Salukis defense did not allow the Chapparents to exceed 10 points in either game.

Swim and dive teams continue winning ways

By John Walby Staff Writer

Nothing but beers for the swimming and diving teams this weekend at the Recreation Center at Eastern Illinois.

The women’s team, powered by the duo of Mary Oswald and Deirdre Lien, swept Eastern Illinois.

The men’s team, powered by the duo of Scott Robert and Rebbia Watson, swept against Houston (74-66) and Vanderbiil (72-58).

Team captain Scott Robert set a new school and pool record in his freestyle to lead the men’s team to another regional title over Indiana, 188-56, Saturday.

Roberts’ time of 1:37.32 beats the 1:37.50 record held by Anders Grumman, who set the record in 1981. Roberts’ time of 1:37.50 time. Roberts’ also smashed the pool record held by Nebraska’s Kevin Weir. Weimann held the 1983 record with a time of 1:38.10.

Roberts has already qualified for the NCAAAs, which are held at the end of the season.

Last year, Roberts was 8th at the NCAA finals in the 200 freestyle.

“He knows what steps he has to take to do well,” Rick Samuels said. “I think he could place in the high 10.”

The men’s win over Indiana marked the second time this season that the Salukis beat the Boilermakers. The last time the Salukis won the meet was at the Crimson Tide National Invitational Tournament.

“We had some insight before the game and we were favored to win, but we had to keep our hands in it,” Walker said.

It seems as if the perseverance of the women’s team has shown itself starting to yield win after a string of Saluki losses.

As expected, the women’s team found itself in a tough meet Friday against Houston. SIU was leading 67-46 going to the final and deciding event — the 400 freestyle relay. The relay team of Nancy Schmid, Melissa Schulte, Ingrid Kane and Ramie White three times with a time of 3:30:34 to win the event.

“We felt it would be a really close meet and that it would take some key swims to win,” Samuels said.

Players plan on protesting possible athletics cuts

By Trey Taylor

Gymnasts and field hockey players plan to petition the Intercollegiate Athletics Advisory Committee Tuesday in hopes that their sports will not be cut.

“We’ll plead our case as best as possible,” said Marcus Mullodell, president of the Student Athlete Advisory Board. “We want someone to lend an ear.”

Gymnasts and field hockey players began circulating petitions Saturday morning. More than 1,000 student signatures had been collected by noon Sunday.

Mullodell, a gymnast, said he and representatives of the field hockey team will attend Tuesday’s 2 p.m. regularly scheduled meeting of the IAAC, which will be in the Balcony Conference Room at the Student Activities Center.

Reasoning with athletics cuts

Anthony Hall.

The IAAC is expected to review the recommendations made by the Strategic Planning Commission’s committee on cutback in the athletics program, which was completed in April. According to a University of Illinois story early last week, that report calls for the elimination of the field hockey and gymnastics programs.

“I am very upset and could be made at the IAAC meeting,” Mullodell said.

Although he has not heard the specifics of the alternate proposal, it is supposed to
