Kentucky Wesleyan Panthers Trounce Saluki Cagers 88-75

By Alan Goldfarb

Southern's basketball team itched to break the ball game last night at Owensboro, Ky., in an 88-75 defeat at the hands of a good Kentucky Wesleyan team.

The Salukis couldn't seem to hold on to the ball and lost to the Panthers close to a dozen times. Wesleyan capped the game with a 24-10 run in the second half.

\textit{Advice} Dates May Still Be Made

Appointments for academic counseling for freshmen by upperclassmen or General Studies students.

Jack W. Graham, academic adviser coordinator, said appointments may be arranged today in the Olympic Room of the University Center. Gen. Studies students with last names begin with A-K may make their appointments from 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and 1 to 4 p.m. Students with last names of L-Z may make their appointments starting Feb. 2 at the main office of the Admissions Center. Graham said, "All students are encouraged to take advantage of the registration session, too." He added that some activity will be possible on the Saluki campus for the last two outings, going to stop before the Saluki early this week. The drive will be going to stop before the Saluki early this week. The drive will be continued, the Student Activities Office, SIU.

Administration of the fund will be by either SIU Foundation or Financial Assistance.

\textbf{Drive for JFK Memorial Scholarship Award To Finance Senior Prize Begins Today}

The drive for an SIU living memorial honoring the late President John F. Kennedy opens today.

The faculty, staff, body and interested persons are invited to join the John Fitzgerald Kennedy Scholarship Campaign, scheduled for Jan. 14-25 on the SIU campus.

Dick Moore, student body president, has proclaimed this period for the program. Student government has organized the drive whose theme was adopted in the week following the late President's assassination in Dallas last November.

"A genuine interest was expressed to memorialize him and his works, by creating a living memorial scholarship fund," according to Kenneth Boden, student government communications commissioner.

"The money raised in the campaign will be earmarked for the John Fitzgerald Kennedy Living Memorial Award, which will be presented annually at honors assembly to a senior going on to graduate school. The award will be made to a person who has demonstrated superior academic achievement reflecting the late President's interest in education," Boden said.

"The purpose of the scholarship will be determined by the support given the campaign," he continued. "The objective is to continue funding the scholarship in the future, to assure its growth over the years."

Several students participating in the drive were Boden. First, students who are competing in their organized student units, and in addition, a donation box will be in the Admissions Center.

Checks should be made payable to "JFK Living Memorial," and may be mailed to the Student Activities Office, SIU.

\textbf{Students Feel Smoking Report Has Little Effect on Them}

With evidence linking cancer, smoking to lung cancer and other diseases continually piling up, the 65-member government and private citizens are now scrambling to fight the epidemic.

The latest in a long line of reports on the effects of smoking, a recent study by the National Cancer Institute and the American Cancer Society, is the most comprehensive to date. The 18-member committee, in a 150,000 word report covering every aspect of smoking, as a significant cause of lung cancer and other diseases.

How is this latest evidence going to affect the general public? "To smoke, or not to smoke?" now seems to be the major subject of conversation in cafes and on street corners throughout the country.

What about SIU? What is the one major topic of conversation wherever students congregate? You guessed it—whether or not to continue smoking.

How do SIU students feel about the government report and how do they think it will affect the student body? Here are some comments a Daily Egyptian reporter got when he asked these questions to students early this week.

"I don't think many of the smokers are going to quit," said Ron Labuda, a junior from Des Plaines, III, "You've got to get some people out of life."

"I don't think the matter is going to change much," replied Mike Minkler, another smoker. "Most people know the effects before this report came out and they didn't quit."

"A few people may quit, but not many," noted Bob Prout, a junior from Kewanee. "I plan to cut down myself."

"I think the report was real good, but most smokers aren't going to quit. Once you're hooked, you're hooked, and it's too tempting to throw it out of life," said Eric Franklin, a freshman from Oak Lawn.

"I don't want to quit. I'm going to smoke."

"If it affects a person's health, I think he should quit," said another student. "I don't want to quit. I smoke from Alto Fann. I don't think most of the girls are going to quit."

\textit{Icy Blasts Stall Work On Campus}

Winter's icy blasts have taken their toll at several construction projects currently under way on campus.

William A. Volk, University construction supervisor, said Monday that all work on outside projects has been stalled by the cold weather and snow. He added that freezing temperatures will not hinder work on inside jobs.

The new Classroom, Communication and University Park Dormitory buildings will not be touched by workmen until conditions improve. All work on these projects was stopped Monday.

Volk said that some activity will be possible on the SIU campus for the next two outings, going to stop before the Saluki early this week. The drive will be continued, the Student Activities Office, SIU.

Millions in Damage in Stake
In SIU Research on Carpet Bug

Trouble is breeding in the laboratory of Roso Poggiot, a chairman of the Clothing and Textiles Department in the School of Home Economics. The SIU textile specialist is breeding black carpet beetles. Miss Poggiot reports this scourge of stored garments, blankets and other fabrics is more destructive than the clothes moth.

Her purpose is to find the best possible method of treating fabrics — particularly wool and synthetic blends — to reduce the annual damage from this insect, estimated to run between $200 million and $1 billion a year.

Comparatively little research has been reported on the breeding of the black carpet beetle on the new man-made fibers and blends of wool and synthetic, Miss Poggiot says.

During the Christmas holidays she started a every experiment with larger, including 100 per cent wool and blends of wool and dacron, in both white and black. Some of the samples are untreated, others have been home- laundered, others cleaned professionally, and still others cleaned at coin-operated establishments.

Work Tests Offered

Student employment tests are given at 1 p.m., every Thursday for interested students.

These tests are used as tools to help vocational counselors in the Student Work Office place students in various clerical and secretarial jobs on campus.

Students interested in taking a test may sign up at the employment office.

Quacks Are Fair Game on TV

An experimental film by Frank Paine of SIU Film Production was the only U.S. entry to receive an award at the International Film Study Festival held in Amersfoord, Holland.

"Melon, Picture," an abstract travel film, was one of seven films which received recognition. The jury's comments on Paine's work praised "the pure pleasures of its rhythms of light, color and sound."

The festival, under the patronage of H.R.H., Prince Bernhard, is sponsored by the Netherlands International Bureau for Cultural Activities. This year there were films entered from 18 countries.

At the formal presentation ceremony which closed the week's activities, the U.S. cultural affairs officer to the Netherlands accepted the bronze medal for the film in behalf of the United States and the University.

"Melon Picture" has previously won honors at a number of film festivals in the U.S. and U.S. film events, and was recently selected for showing at the San Francisco Film Festival.

U.S., Panama Agree On Joint Authority

PANAMA -- The United States and Panama agreed Monday on the creation of a joint authority to keep the peace in the Canal Zone and President Johnson's trouble-shooter expressed cautious optimism on the progress of talks before returning to Washington.

"I am grateful for the progress we made in restoring peace and law in Panama and the Canal Zone," said Asst. Secretary of State Thomas C. Mann, Johnson's special envoy.

Mr. Mann talked with reporters before leaving for a farewell call on President Roberto Chiari. It was Mann's second meeting with Chari since his arrival Friday.

The meetings were held despite the fact that the Panamanian president broke diplomatic relations because of the bloody fighting that broke out Thursday after a dispute between Panamanian and U.S. students over displaying their flags in the Canal Zone.

Informed sources said no substantive agreement had been reached during the conference but that substantial groundwork was laid.

The agreement on the creation of a joint peace-keeping authority provides for cooperation with the Organization of American States.

Baker Got $5,600 In Coin Machine Deal, Probe Told

WASHINGTON -- A Washington businessman swore Monday that former Senate aide Robert G. Baker demanded and received $5,600 in cash-mostly in bills of small denomination--after helping him obtain a vending machine contract in a defense plant.

Ralph L. Hill, former president of the Capitol Vending Co., Inc., told the Senate Rules Committee Wednesday that Baker had demanded $1,000-a-month payoffs from him, but settled for $250 a month and later for $500 a month.

The committee is investigating whether Baker, former secretary to the Senate Democratic majority, or other Senate employees have engaged in outside business which conflicted with their official duties or committed any other improper acts.

Castro Visits Khrushchev

MOSCOW -- Fidel Castro was welcomed to Moscow with a hug from Premier Khrushchev and a promise of unfettering support for his Cuban regime.

Then they met in the Kremlin, where the Soviet leader in expected to hear a request for more aid for Cuba.

Castro's unannounced visit Monday caught Western embassies by surprise, but diplomats were sure the Cuban prime minister came to seek more help for his ailing economy.

Castro insisted as much in an arrival speech in thanking the Soviet Union for the help it has given Cuba so far.

The impact of the U.S. economic blockade of the Caribbean island, poor sugar harvests, and the ravages of a hurricane last year all have dealt blows to Cuba's economy.

The Soviet economy, however, is having its own troubles, particularly in agriculture, and Castro may find it difficult to get the big increase in Soviet aid he so badly needs.

Castro was cheered on his arrival by crowds and fanned the Kremlin by Khrushchev, it was the same red carpet treatment Castro received last April, Khrushchev, President Leonid Brezhnev and other Soviet leaders were at Moscow's airport to welcome Castro.

In an airport speech, the Kremlin leader reaffirmed his nation's support for the Cuban regime.

Khrushchev gave Castro the classic Russian bear-hug, and in the Kremlin later, they hugged again.

It was considered almost certain that Castro and Khrushchev would discuss the biggest single worry facing the Kremlin leadership--relations with Communist China.

SAC Jet Crashes in Maryland

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- The swept-wing SAC bomber crashed in Georgia from a bomber staging area and landed at Westover before it crashed.

It took the troopers from Cumberland five hours to reach the rugged, isolated area at the foot of the 2,788-foot匡ick mountains.

"There is no danger of nuclear explosion," said Air Force officials, adding that the explosive experts were en route to the scene.

The eight-engine B-52 fell to earth in a blinding snowstorm at the foot of Big Savage Mountain in western Maryland, about 20 miles west of Cumberland. It was on route from Westover Air Force Base, Mass., to its home station, at Turner Air Force Base, Ga.

"There is no need of evacuation," said the Air Force announcement from Westover Air Force Base.

The Air Force explained that an unarmed nuclear weapon contains nuclear material but cannot explode until a crewman takes action to activate it.

WASHINGTON -- The United States is evacuating 61 of the 63 Americans in Zanzibar, where a rebellion Sunday overthrew the government and proclaimed a new republic.

The State Department, announcing this, said it received word from Zanzibar that the new government approved the evacuation of the Americans.

Only the U.S. charged d'affaires, Frederick P. Pinchot, and a third secretary of the embassy will remain.

The decision to evacuate was taken after talks in Zanzibar with representatives of the new government.

They added that latest reports indicate the situation in Zanzibar is "very unstable." Shooting is still going on.

The Manley was on a goodwill trip in the Arabian Gulf and to Zanzibar. The destroyer Manley of the United States is in Zanzibar on its goodwill mission.

The Manley's mission is to continue the station until the agreement could be reached.

SIU Delinquency Study Project Aiding East St. Louis Program

The Delinquency Study Project at the Edwardsville based University of Illinois agencies and organizations in East St. Louis in planning a delinquency prevention program for that city.

The Delinquency Study Project was established as a Federal Training Center in December of 1963 under the sponsorship of the Center for the Study of Crime, Delinquency and Corrections of the Carbondale campus of SIU, and the President's Committee on Juvenile Delinquency and Youth Crime. This project, to cover a three-year period of July, 1962, through June 1965, was made possible by a Federal grant of $146,000 which is matched by an SIU grant of $83,000.

The director of the project is Charles V. Matthews, he is assisted by John J. O'Dell, chairman of the book, "Growing Up in River City,"

Influence of Doctors

"Tenney says 'Ph.D., Loosing Its Dignity"

Each year a bumper crop of Ph.D's is harvested from American universities and colleges. And in some quarters there are warnings that the "doctorate" is becoming a drug on the educational market.

Has this influx changed the status of the Ph.D on the college campus? No, what one of SIU's top Ph.D's has to say on the subject of time,

"The term 'Doctor' is not the title of dignity it used to be," stated Dr. Charles V. Tenney, vice president of instruction.

"Today it is used essentially as a matter of formality on a ceremonial occasion," he added.

As the congenial gentleman settled back in his chair and began to polish his glasses, he continued.

"The doctoral degree is almost required for an academic position in the universities and colleges today.

Thus, it is not a mark of distinction, but simply an official document related to the assignment of teacher or administrator."

"It is usually in the non-profit people who are trained and qualified for a 'Doctor' degree, one from death.' He smiled as he twirled his glasses. "Actually, 'Mr.' is good enough for anybody, be it professor, faculty..."

Settling deeper into his chair, Dr. Tenney commented, "Of course, the real degree is not to be slighted, it is a real accomplishment. However, it is in the beginning--the basic training for the scholar."

"However, if one wishes to use a real title of distinction, one should use the title 'Professor' which denotes a doctoral rank. A person who holds this title is not merely beginning, but has reached the legitimate, legitimate title 'Professor' recognizes the scholar's true worth.

"Perhaps I shouldn't state my view so definitely," Dr. Tenney said, leaning back in his chair and putting his fingers together. "Today there are two schools of thought. One is European in origin. This is where the doctorate is truly a highly prized, and scholars are more highly respected. It is somewhat aristocratic in manner. The other school is more typically American. This is where the doctoral degree is somewhat of a necessity for teaching, and the title is not at all tacked onto everything. Both are used--both are respected," he concluded.

Approval Granted for Plan A Minor

Plan A Minor curriculum has been approved as a minor, according to Robert L. Caoe, Faculty Chairman. .

Claude Coleman, Plan A Director, said, "It is anticipated students will have a stronger reason for staying in the program.

"I think the benefits of Plan A are obvious. One is in the educational field, and not in any one quarter's work," he added.

A person who wishes to use a real title of distinction, one should use the title 'Professor' which denotes a doctoral rank. A person who holds this title is not merely beginning, but has reached the legitimate, legitimate title 'Professor' recognizes the scholar's true worth.

SIU Studying Regulations
For Bike, Scooter Traffic

Coping with increasing bicycle and motor scooter traffic at SIU, Joseph Zalecki, assistant dean of student affairs, and Thomas Leffler, security officer—and they have appealed for student action on how to ease the situation.

Their study, jointly sponsored by the Office of Student Affairs and the Security Office, may produce changes in regulations.

Zalecki said he expected to see many suggestions on how to cope with the increasing motor scooter traffic and with the accompanying parking problems.

Statistics indicate the size of the problem. Now, I figures show students own 200 bicycles and 50 motor scooters on campus.

Currently 937 bicycles are registered under the Security Office. If figures from other years are added, the total on campus probably is "four times and a half". This compares with an estimated 300 bicycles on campus two years ago and an estimated 100 "about two" registered scooter owners.

"We're at the point where we have to regulate," Leffler said. "We're at the saturation point now—and every year will be worse,"

Bicycle codes at campus streets are designed to avoid traffic confusion on a campus where academic and residential facilities and crowded sidewalks occur in a one-mile loop around the university.

Leffler said the campus street traffic is crowded because of the increasing use of bicycles desirable for both sports and transportation and also could be used for bicycle and scooter operators, as well as provision of parking facilities, are the main problems.

Speeding bicycles or crowded sidewalks occasionally hit pedestrians, and have many near-misses. Limited vision on narrow and curving paths in Thompson Woods makes bicycling there especially dangerous.

We have the wheelchair and blind students who are not conscious of vehicles in the road. And some bicyclists say, "With all those cross paths we can't be alert for bicycles."

During fall term Saluki parking citations for bicyclists daily for riding on paths and for injuries, Leffler said.

A possible solution would be to allow cars to drive on the streets and on bicycle paths during class changes, but guided by the 15-30 mph limit. It also triggered the city crackdown on stop sign and light violations for $10 fines for several SIU bicyclists.

The ordinance requires bicyclists to ride dark after dark to avoid "right of way" light and other signs. It also triggered the city crackdown on stop sign and light violations for $10 fines for several SIU bicyclists.

An ordinance requires bicyclists to ride dark after dark to avoid "right of way" light and other signs. It also triggered the city crackdown on stop sign and light violations for $10 fines for several SIU bicyclists.

Police might execute the ordinance on the day of a campus event, the city crackdown on stop sign and light violations for $10 fines for several SIU bicyclists.

Textbook Service could use education on the effective with every student and suggest "Go" would receive one of his books. At least it would be fun.

While a police officer or a line could be erected with dangers of hard and soft, running, sliding floors, snakes, etc., with those who were unaccustomed to self-capitalization.

What would cause an officer or an officer on the single line to paint on every student and send him home with his book? It would be fun.

Since there are too many possibilities to go into here, perhaps a student committee could make suggestions and publish them in the form of a pamphlet entitled "What to do While Standing in Line."

A Few Other Things Police Might Do

Don't the Carbondale police have anything better to do than arrest students who run stop signs on their bicycles? For instance, they could hand out a few speeding tickets on University Avenue or University Street or Mill Street or University Avenue. The speeding is no objective of the University, but it is something that crossing is dangerous.

Also, could a ticket be written on cars and bicycles according to the direction the car was traveling whether or not the person had a license or not because of the poor protection given by them to people. A Higher Education

Recently, when I stood in line for 90 minutes to get textbooks, it occurred to me that this is a dreadful waste of time. So often we hear a cry from the college student that there is not enough time, and I think from 11 to 100 minutes or more during classes is too unacademic than an agonizingly slow toward an objective is useless.

Since it seems hardly likely that so basic an institution as "standing in line" could be abolished, we must explore possibilities for enriching the student during this period. There are several with immediately spring to mind.

The University could establish a Colleague of Linear Education in which the faculty would station themselves at such places as the front entrance to Morris Library, outside Advisement Center and Sectioning Center, and lecture on various subjects. This would go far in solving the classroom shortage.

I think the inevitable conclusion could be stated as say, four or five miles from the subjective. The students readily race to get what they need, and the physical education requirement could be dropped.

The Service Committee could use education with every student and suggest "Go," would receive one of his books. At least it would be fun.

Gus says there is not much he can do to assist you, he sympathizes but he has studied a college student with his accommodation problem quickly, thanks to new Wham Building.

Housing Discrimination Listing Asked

Despite the fact that the Housing Office is very effective and helpful in the housing discrimination policy, there is a vital function in which this policy leads to frustration, resulting in harm that may be overshadowed by the refusal to release the Housing Office listing indicating housing, apartments or housing discrimination.

It is understood that landlords on this carefully compiled list do not discriminate; they rent without prejudice based on race and color. This sounds good.

A black student contacts a landlord and, if he is lucky, he signs a contract. He has solved the all-important accommodation problem. He is lucky if after a few attempts he meets a landlord who adheres to the Housing Office's principles.

What if he is unlucky? He meets landlords who, although on the Housing Office list, tell familiar stories: "Those men won't pay rent on time," "We maintain our own properties, we don't give money to poor treachery."

Since there are too many possibilities to go into here, perhaps a student committee could make suggestions and publish them in the form of a pamphlet entitled "What to do While Standing in Line."

Traffic Gluts New Wham Building

This letter is concerning the new Wham Education Building. Since I have three classes in the building, the necessary passes are somewhat elimination, The building is a hub of modern engineering.

The structure is extremely high and modern, and constructed, it contains many classrooms which are well-lit, furnished, adequately lighted, and some that are also spacious, however, the hall and stairways are impassable.

Student traffic up and down stairs is almost standstill, and the auditorium on the first floor these last term, it is almost impossible to enter or leave the main entrance for classes. The halls of the building are similar in construction too narrow.

The new Wham Building has altogether higher buildings and stairways could be compared to having a two-story highway for commuter traffic into a large city such as St. Louis or Chicago, in place of the expressways we need.

The fact that the building cannot accommodate student traffic is really nothing more than an inconvenience to students (and tax-payer), but a real tragedy could result if a fire alarm over sounded.
Rusty Mitchell should go swimming everyday instead of just on Thursdays when he teaches a swim-ming class at the University Swimming pool. After capturing all four events at the SIU meet, and guiding Southern's gymnasts to a 77-29 victory over Navy Pier, the SIU co-captain walked over to his coach, Bill Meade, and, with a smile, exclaimed, "I feel great."

When Meade was asked what Mitchell was referring to, the coach explained that his top performer was swimming regularly every week and that the extra workouts apparently made Mitchell stronger.

Mitchell had little trouble taking the top honors in the event, but was edged teammate Steve Pas- ternak, though many in the capacity crowd thought the result should have been reversed.

In coating to their 19th straight dual meet victory, Navy Pier's SIU took first and second place honors in both the 3- and 5-point third place finishes, Bill Wolf, who completely overwhelmed Mitchell and Paster¬nak, was the only one in which his sprints were not perfect, but only divided.

The Salukis travel to Ames, Iowa, on Saturday in their second dual meet of the season against Iowa State.

Results of Saturday's meet:
Free Exercise-Mitchell (SIU), 93.5; 2-B, Wolf, SIU, 93.5; 3-D, Wolf, SIU-85.3; 4-Iarl- ry Bjorkman, UC-78; 5-McAneney, UC-74.5.

Trampoline-L-Probeck, SIU-86; 2-Jerry Ditter, UC-85; 3-Gene Kelber, SIU-80.5; 4-Mitchell, SIU-91.5; 5-Pasternak, SIU-85.3.

Sprint-1-Wolf, SIU-1:50.1; 2-Jim Lee, UC-2:01.6; 3-Para belled Tripp, SIU-2:05.9.

Jackets: Men-1-Earl Hollohead, UC-2:04.5; 2-Denny Wolf and Probeck apiece.

The Indoor track season opened Saturday as the Salukis took three firsts, four seconds and three thirds in the annual Chicago Track Club meet in Chicago.

Nearly 100 Films
Added to Library

Money and its uses, how sound travels, an imaginary trip to the planets, and painting a portrait are only four of the subjects covered in almost 100 new educational films that have been added to the 3,000-plus "core" in the Audio-Visual Library.

A supplementary catalogue listing its new educational films has been issued by the Audio-Visual Service, together with a relisting of the Paul Hoefler teaching films on the Spanish language, social and natural science and physical education.

The SIU films are available to schools, civic organizations and other agencies at nominal rental charges, and most of the films are accompanied by study guides to assist teacher or program director in stimulating discussion, according to Donald A. Inglis, director of the service.

Class in Persian
Begins Wednesday

The new Persian language class will meet at 6 p.m. Wednesday in Room E of the University Center.

According to Abbas Amirie, a graduate student who will teach the course, there is still room for students in the class but they should sign up Wednesday night at the class meeting.

The course is non-credit this term. However, Amirie said he hopes it can be made a credit course in the future.
