Youth Wants To Know - Where To Go?

Southern Illinois University receives its share of inquiries from the nation-wide, high school graduate population, debating the question, "Where shall I go to college?"

From his past experience, Wilbur R. Venerable, acting dean of admissions, said by the end of summer, about 10,000 will inquire.

Of this number, SIU will receive formal applications from at least 7,000. There will be between 700 and 900 who will not complete the applications, between 400 and 500 who are not eligible, and about 1,000 who will not show up.

New students, who have been accepted for admission to SIU, have been receiving personal letters written by upperclassmen, welcoming them to university life and suggesting the future students to the religious organizations for letters have been accepted by the dean of admissions, said by the end of summer, about 10,000 will inquire.

The packet contains a booklet, "Your Life Southern Illinois University," a pamphlet on the religious organizations for students, health examination information, and other papers.

City Schedule's Public Hearing On SIU's Rezoning Request

A public hearing has been scheduled Monday night for a review of SIU's request to have two sections of Carbondale rezoned for univer­sity purposes.

The hearing will be at 7:30 p.m. in the Carbondale City Hall and will be conducted by the Carbondale Plan Commission.

John Rendieman, SIU gen­eral counsel, said the Uni­versity is asking that the areas by rezoned into a new zoning classification - "University Zone." The areas are now classified as R-6 and R-5 and the Plan Commission will be asked about the change.

The R-6 and R-5 zones per­mit multi-family dwellings and dormitories as well as single-family dwellings.

Officials have stated that the University plans to ex­pand into the southeast and southwest sections of the city which it is requesting to be rezoned.

The request for rezoning in the southeast part of Carton­dale includes the area within the following boundaries: From the corner of Wall Street and Grand Avenue, north on Wall to Freeman Street, then west to Washing­ton Street, north to College Street, west to the Illinois Central right-of-way, south to the Mill Street extension, west to Illinois Avenue, south to Grand Avenue, and then east to Wall Street.

The request in the southwest part of town is for rezoning the rectangular area bounded by Oakland Avenue, Mill Street, Elizabeth Street and Chautauqua Street.

The first block of land the University seeks to have re­zoned includes the commer­cial area from Grand Avenue north to 719 S, Illinois Avenue, where the area is rezoned, the businesses could remain non-conforming uses.

After the Plan Commission hears discussion on the re­quest at the public hearing, it will make a recommenda­tion to the City Council, the Council then must decide on final action.

Good News Gals:

Men Outnumber Women During Summer School

Men students outnumber women at SIU this summer by a margin of about four to three, according to registra­tion records.

Preliminary enrollment figures released by Registrar Robert A. McGrath show 4,404 men and 3,310 women enrolled on all SIU campuses. The figures do not include registration for some credit-granting workshops to begin later in the term.

McGrath said summer ses­sion enrollment at the Carbon­dale campus consists of 3,150 men and 2,404 women. The Edwardsville campus has 1,254 men and 906 women.

Only in the Carbondale cam­pus sophomore class does the male sex hold supremacy in numbers, 368 to 355. In all other classes, the males dominate.

11-Week Exams Announced Later

The final examination schedule for the eight weeks summer session is now being distributed. Days for the finals are Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 7 and 8.

The eight-week exams are sched­uled for all three, four and five credit-hour classes. Examinations for one and two credit-hour courses will be given during the last regularly scheduled class period, prior to Aug. 7.

The three, four and five credit-hour classes meeting at 7:30 a.m. will be given the final on Wednesday at that time. The 10:20 classes will write the final starting at 10:20 on Wednesday; and 1:10 classes, will start writing at 1 p.m. on Wednesday.

Thursday exams will include the 9:35 classes starting at 9:35 a.m. and the 2:35 classes, starting at 1 p.m.

Information from the Office of the Registrar about depart­ments and students to the possibility of some conflict in room use because of the mixture of eight and 11 week programs.

In the event a dual use actually occurs, the class taking the final examination will have priority over the class missing the regular session.

Other ground rules released by the Registrar's Office, in cluding monitoring students who must miss a final when scheduled, may not take it ahead of time.

A student who attends the entire session but misses the final should be given a "W" allowed by the tentative grade he was earning.

The final may be taken at a later date for a valid reason provided the instructor is satisfied the student had a valid reason for missing the regularly scheduled final.

Far Eastern Dancer - A program featuring Chinese and Far Eastern dances will be presented at 8 p.m. Saturday in Farr Auditorium by Hazel Ching. The program will be sponsored by the SIU Asian Studies Committee and is open to the public without charge.
New Auditorium-Exhibition Hall Constructed By Design Students

A brick and board-jawed paste, sheltered by a sycamore tree, lies between the two arms of the U-shaped structure. To unify the indoors and the outdoors, sliding windows opening onto the patio are of "Mylar," a strong clear plastic.

A modular stage is composed of sturdy tables of various sizes which can be arranged in any desired shape—to be used as benches, as tables as a platform.

One corner of the structure has a touch of elegance in a wood-paneled wall. The corner is to serve as a library and reading room. Another corner is to be equipped as a social room with refreshment facilities.

The auditorium section is equipped with seats designed and manufactured as a class project by sophomore design students. Built of slotted plywood, the chairs have no glueing or mechanical fastenings, and may be assembled or disassembled easily. Seats and backs are covered with foam cushioning and upholstered with fabric.

Design students unveiled the new project last Friday night at a "Blue Owl," an all-campus party featuring a take-off on the pleasure play, an orchestra and dancing.

The new code number, ISU Post Office Zip Code, 62903 was written out "ZIP" or "ZIPPY" on the mail, and the number is supposed to speed up mail handling and delivery.

Whatever else you do, don't write out "ZIP" or "ZIPPY.", the post office spokesman said.

In the early stages problems cropped up daily, she added, mentioning that a notice in her office almost charged a postage due package to a "ZIP Code" number, thinking it was an account number.

SIU Prof Visits Rome, Tanganyika

Ronald I. Beazley, SIU professor of forest and land resources, traveled to Rome, Italy, and Tanganyika, Africa, as team leader for research on the economic development of forests, forest industries, and lands in Tanganyika.

This is a continuation of research begun last summer. The research is a joint program of the government of Tanganyika and the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations.

Beazley left July 7th for Rome, headquarters of the UN Food and Agriculture Organization, and from there he will travel to Tanganyika to continue research and direct the work of others in the Tanganyika forestry department.

Benson will also judge dairy cattle entries at the Menard County Fair, Jerseyville, Ill., July 26th.
Drama Review:

'The Servant Of Two Masters'

When there is no spontaneity there is little entertainment; and this appears to be the problem with Southern Players' production of Carlo Goldoni's "The Servant of Two Masters." Intended as a rollicking rowdy comedy it emerges as a lumbering stage piece. Goldoni's 18th century play, which relies on pantomime and stage business, is not possible today, but it is also due to insensitive directing and some heavy-handed performances by the actors.

Director Roy Weidman has paced the production as crisply as the scenes permit, but it all seems diffuse and labored when acted like a five-finger exercise.

The actors race on and off stage at a frenzied pace from start to finish. There would be no reason to object to this if they didn't tread quite so heavily or if they raced to any purpose.

The acting is from routine to downright incompetent. Eileen Konecni plays one of the pantalone scenes by gliding around the stage in a sort of musing position with an occasional bounce, speaking his lines in a raspy voice that is extremely irritating.

As Clarice, Barbara Alesia passes the time by ponting, weeping bitterly and delivering her lines in a thin monotonous voice.

Frank Alesia as Silvio plays to the audience instead of his fellow actors and jumps about the stage like a jack out of the box. He smiles constantly while speaking his lines and one wonders why.

Eileen Konecni seems not to know where she is and it shows in her lack of vibrancy. Charles Fischer has some success in the characterization of Doctor Lombardi; he screams, he yells, but all to no avail.

James Symons is still playing the role of "the actor" in "The Guardsman." And the actor, upon whom the success of the play rests, Richard Spiegel, plays the part of Truffaldino with such weariness that he frequently seems in desperate need of a couple of weeks in an oxygen tent or a hefty stick of Germanium.

"The Servant of Two Masters" wallows along in a modest style, but never gets very far.

It is an uneven piece of work which never manages to fuse itself into anything resembling a cohesive whole.

Civil Disobedience

Our nation was born of civil disobedience, and this Fourth of July there is again much talk of the philosophy behind the practice.

Civil disobedience is indeed an ancient and honorable form of seeking redress of grievances, and it is not undemonstrated or misapplied. The signs of the Declaration understood the conditions which must precede it, if society is not to be a constant shambles, and they stated them more lucidly than before or since.

In the first place, the grievances must not only be just but great—even monumental—and widespread. In their case the whole proposition was afflicted by the opposition of the Kings, acting as though he were a foreign power.

"He has refused his assent to laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good...He has abdicated government here by declaring us out of his Protection and waging War against us, He has plundered our seas, ravished our Coasts, burnt our towns and destroyed the lives of our people."

Yet under the lash of such injuries, our people do not lightly turn to the path of violence. "...all experience hath shown, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are surfees, as to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed,"

Before turning against the institutions of government, wise men seek every possible legal redress. "In every stage of these Oppressions We have..."
Young, Energetic Varsity Coaching Staff
Makes SIU Felt In College Sports World

by Tom McNamara

In recent years SIU has compiled an almost unbelievable athletic record. One of the biggest reasons for the improvement in athletics here has been the coaching changes which Donald Boydston made after assuming the reins in 1957.

At the time of Boydston's appointment as athletic director, only Glenn Martin, Dick LeFevre, Lynn Helder and Jim Wilkinson were on the coaching staff.

Bill Meade came to Southern in the same year of Boydston's appointment. Several of Boydston's first moves then were to hire several more young, energetic and personable coaches.

He hired Ralph Casey as swimming coach and the quality of swimming here has improved each year to the point now that SIU has many of the Midwest schools.

In 1959 Boydston appointed Carmen Piccone as head football coach and the football fortunes began picking up. Piccone's first year the Salukis compiled a 5-4 record, SIU's records for the next two years were 8-2 and 7-3. Then last year Piccone's charges dropped off to a 4-6 finish.

Harry Gallatin was appointed SIU's head basketball coach in 1958 and the Salukis began making themselves felt in the basketball world.

In Gallatin's last year as coach SIU finished third in the NCAA College-Division tournament. He was replaced by Jack Hartman, who formerly coached at Coffeyville (Kan.) Junior College.

Hartman inherited the hot spot on SIU's coaching staff. SIU the year before had finished third in the NCAA and several lettermen were returning from that team which put the pressure on Hartman.

Hartman responded with a 20-10 season and a fourth place finish in the NCAA tournament. His team deserved a better fate than that. The tournament came during final examinations and the boys commuted back and forth from Evansville.

In the summer of 1960 Boydston hired Lew Hartzog to replace the retired Leland (Doc) Lingle as track and cross-country coach.

Hartzog's track accomplishments since then read like a page stolen from Robert Ripley's Believe-It-Or-Not series.

SIU competed for the first time in the NCAA track and field championships in 1962 and finished fourth in what Hartzog called "my greatest thrill." This year the Salukis finished eighth.

SIU's coaching staff features youth, energy, personality and love for the sport they coach. They have the necessary ability to push the athletes in practice to get the most out of them but at the same time never lose sight of the ultimate education goals.

Boydston calls the present coaching staff "one of the best in the country." Apparently he is right by judging the recent records and also the recruiting ability of the present coaches, SIU gets some of the nation's top athletes through the personality and reputation of the coaches. SIU's athletics looks bright at this time.

Agronomy Field Day
Scheduled for August 1

The latest information on crop fertility, soil moisture, weed control and crop variety will be explained during the annual Agronomy Field Day Aug. 1.

Tours of the many experimental plots on the Southern Illinois University Agronomy Research Center will be emphasized during the afternoon program.

The Center, located jointly by SIU and the University of Illinois, is one of four fourth miles west of Highway 51 on the City Lake Road southwest of the SIU campus.

Insects and crop specialists from SIU and the University of Illinois will discuss the experiments during the tour. Some of the studies include minimum and deep tillage for corn, irrigation and soil moisture tests, herbicide usage for weed control, fertility and also the forage mixtures and management practices for southern Illinois, soybean and corn varieties.

Snacks Win Partial Okay

—Snacks—the bane of mother’s existence—have received at least a partial whitewashing by a former SIU nutritionist.

In a study of teenagers’ diets, conducted in the spring of 1956, 1957 and 1958, Marion A. Wharton of the College of Home Economics, University of Rhode Island, found snacks slightly improved the adolescent diet.

Dr. Wharton, formerly chairman of the food and nutrition department at SIU’s School of Home Economics, reported in a research paper published in the Journal of the American Dietetic Association.

Her samples totaled 421 students—one group from a high school in a university town, another in an industrial and coal mining town, and another from a high school attended largely by Negro students.
MOSCOW

Soviet and Chinese Communist delegates have run into such trouble trying to patch up their ideological differences that some informants said Thursday they were just looking for a face-saving way to end the talks.

Neither the Russians nor the Chinese showed up at the villa in the Lenin Hills. Apparently they had agreed on another recess.

Premier Khrushchev continued his policy of displaying his ties with other Communist parties and the West.

When Chinese delegates picked up their evening newspaper they would see most of the front page devoted to stories and pictures of a Kremlin luncheon honoring Hungarian Premier Janos Kadar.

The stories pointedly said that Hungarians and Soviets congratulated one another on their friendly, fraternal relations as true followers of Lenin.

The Chinese contend that they are the genuine Leninists and that Khrushchev has led his own and allied parties away from the true Leninist path.

With France agreeing, West Germany proposed yesterday that the Common Market nations meet with Britain once every three months to discuss economic and political problems.

The blue ribbon panel chosen by President Kennedy to support his latest effort to solve the railroad workers' rules dilemma defined its mission Thursday as primarily fact finding.

Members of the six-man body agreed that if a chance to mediate arises, they will do that too. But there was no indication that this would occur, particularly since no plans have been made for further negotiations by the

Passenger Steals

THOUSANDS IN JEWELS

PEORIA, III.

A St. Louis jewelry salesman was robbed today in an airline limousine on route to the Greater Peoria Airport. He estimated his loss at several thousand dollars.

Arthur Fleiss, 74, told police he removed his jewelry cases from the safe in a hotel where he had spent the night, then boarded the limousine driven by Morton Carlson, who had another man as a passenger.

Near the airport, Fleiss said, the other passenger drew a gun and demanded Fleiss' jewelry case. He also ordered Carlson to bring the car to a stop.

When the car halted, another vehicle pulled up behind it and two men leaped out. They boarded the limousine, tore out a two-way radio and departed with their accomplice and the jewelry.

Carlson ran to a nearby farm house and called police.
