SIU Gets $1.2 Million to Launch Occupational Training Program

Project to Assist 1,000 Jobless
SIU soon will start a massive multi-occupational manpower training program under a $1,949,000 federal area re-development act fund allocation announced in Carbondale Wednesday.

It will provide testing and vocational training for about 1,000 unemployed persons in the 16 southern Illinois counties. SIU's allocation is part of $2,143,000 approved for the program.

The program provides $350,000 for an SIU project to test vocational aptitudes of the trainees and to provide pre-vocational training for an estimated 250 persons who may be listed as occupationally illiterate. Dr. William Westberg, SIU industrial psychologist, will supervise the testing program.

SIU Vocational Technical Institute has been named the training agency under the Illinois district of vocational education and will receive $9,000 from the allocation for this purpose.

When Angela Bagley, VT1 supervisor of ARA projects, said the institution is ready to provide vocational training for 44 different occupational categories as the persons have been screened, tested by the central research office, and referred by the Illinois Employment Service offices in Herrin and West Frankfort.

VTI's demonstrated experience in conducting manpower training programs under ARA since 1962, along with chronic unemployment and the county area is considered instrumental in allocating the project to this area, Bagley said. The program is a pilot project for about one year's duration.

Occupational fields in the training proposals include such categories as automotive, appliance, and machine repair and service; beauty operators, dental and hospital aides, office workers, office work of all kinds, restaurant steward and order cooks and waitresses; sales work, farm and forest work, custodial maintenance and others.

Local Officials of Southern Third of Illinois To Attend Hearing on Election Law Here

Local election officials of the southern third of Illinois will be invited to express their views on election procedure at an SIU meeting June 25.

The Illinois Election Law Commission will conduct a public hearing at the Ballroom of the University Center starting at 9 a.m. June 25.

County and township officials of Southern Illinois have been invited to attend.

Jackson County Clerk Delmar Ward said the commission conducts hearings in different parts of the state in order to obtain suggestions for improvements in election procedure.

According to President De­ lyte W. Morris, a request for help in arranging the meeting came from the commission chairman, Sen. Daniel Dougherty of Chicago. The public hearings will resume after luncheon if testimony has not been completed at the morning session.

Sen. Don Rispin told Mor­ proposals will be heard on this purpose.

The program provides an $1,500,000 project to test vocational aptitudes of the trainees and to provide pre-vocational training for an estimated 250 persons who may be listed as occupationally illiterate. Dr. William Westberg, SIU industrial psychologist, will supervise the testing program.

The bell system for starting and ending classes during the summer will operate the same as during the school year, according to the Registrar's Office. A spokesman for the office said that at this time bells would not be sounded for starting classes on the eight-week schedule or workshop classes.

It was pointed out that if enough cows were made for the sounding of bells at 7:30 a.m., 8:45 a.m. and other times, for the special courses, the system might be changed.

SiU's Production of 'My Fair Lady' To Be Finest Thing We've Done

By Roni Talcott

"Wouldn't it be lovely," to earn six quarter hours, taking part in Southern Illinois University's Music Theater production of the world famous "My Fair Lady?"

Forty-five to 50 students are expected to participate in the production for credit, if they wish just for the experience and fun.

Southern will be one of the first non-professional groups to produce Lerner and Loewe's musical, which has remained a universal favorite of theatergoers for more than nine years.

"The royalties were very high," William Taylor, director of the Music Theater, said. "If it hadn't been for the financial assistance of I. Clark Davis and the Office of Student Affairs, we would never be able to bring this play to Southern," he said. "Without a question," said Taylor, "this is the finest thing we have ever done.

"Props and backdrops will be generous and elaborate." said Taylor. "We want the student and the non-student to forget about art."

Karen B. Garrison is in charge of costumes, which are created in the theater's own costume shop. Garrison is in charge of lighting, Elliot Pugol is the stage manager. All three are majoring in theater.

Late-Entry Scranton

ST. LOUIS—Pennsylvania's William W. Scranton brought his uncommitted Republican presidential nominating campaign into the swing of things Wednesday and was greeted by a crowd of about 200 and a bouquet of roses from a 4-year-old girl.

The crowd cheered and chanted, "We want Scranton" when the governor and his wife, Mrs. Mary, stepped from a chautered airliner at Lambert-St. Louis Airport.

Tempo of War

In Viet Nam

Rises Again

DUC HOA, South Viet Nam—Vietnamese guerrillas blasted a Communist Viet Cong battalion from Duc Hoa after the Red guerrillas had all but captured this government stronghold Wednesday, 10 miles west of Saigon.

The war's tempo was rising after a relative lull for a month.

About 600 guerrillas hit Duc Hoa at 3:30 a.m., setting off a three-hour battle whose sights and sounds carried to Saigon like a thunderstorm. The Viet Cong troops were backed by mortars, recoilless rifles and machine guns. The defenders suffered 51 casualties, including 15 dead. Nineteen of the guerrillas were killed, and U.S. advisers estimated the toll may have reached 30 or 40.

The sharp action lent extiments to developments else-

vious reference to the fact that the Arizona senator has won backing from various types of people in Missouri's 24 delegates to the GOP National Convention.

Little Peggy Mehan, whose father, Richard, is chairman of the Greater St. Louis Scranton for President Committee, presented the governor with a kiss and some yellow roses. The Scrantonites broke into wide grins, and left for a rally downtown.

The latest Associated Press poll shows Sen. Barry Goldwater has 18 of Missouri's 24 delegates. Five more favor the Arizonaan and one delegate is uncommitted.

Scranton made a luncheon speech to St. Louis area businessmen and at least 8 of the delegates Goldwater claims, Scranton's backers say 12 of the state's 24 delegates have "open minds" about the governor.

After spending about three hours in St. Louis, Scranton was on his way to St. Charles and Columbia.

Scranton added Louisville and Soft Lake City to his flying campaign tour Wed-

Of Peking in U.N.

LONDON—Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home said Wednesday the British government should be admitted to the United Nations so the West can persuade Peking away from the use of force in world affairs.

Douglas-Home based his argument on the idea that the Soviet Union had modified its doctrines in the use of force.

"Far better that China should be included in the Community than to have Peking persuaded away from the use of force in world affairs," the prime minister said.

The proposal applies to some 30 products, made by something like 25 distributors including the manufacturers.

The proposal would affect only three troches containing antibiotics, for which certification was required before the products could be marketed.

Some of Goldwater's best political friends have been urg-ing him to support the bill on the final passage showdown.

One morning about two weeks from now Marion Kleinau will wake up and find herself the mother of 140 bright-eyed, bustling and perhaps even brash teenagers.

"I guess I'll just be the traffic cop," she said.

Kleinau is the new coordinator of the SIU Communication Workshops for high school students which opens July 5. And as such she will be something like another father, counselor, coach, teacher and at times perhaps even ore igre to the kids.

"The thought of it all is kind of scary," Kleinau said. "I expect that to be true. But I'm looking forward to it, too."

This will be the first ex­perience of its kind for Mrs. Kleinau who has no children of her own.

"I'm trying to prepare for any eventual child," she said.

To help prepare herself, she's arranged for one full-time person to arrange a recreation program for the te­enagers and another to handle school activities.

"I won't do any teaching," she said.

"I think I'll be back to the traffic cop.

"But to be truthful, I'm looking forward to it, too. That's the way it is," she said.

German Will Speak
To Math Teachers

Hans-Georg Steiners, lec­turer at the University of Munster, West Germany, will visit SIU June 26-July 2 to speak at meetings of a Na­tional Science Foundation­sponsored summer institute for mathematics teachers.

Steiner, who served as an instructor in a similar ins­titute at Columbus University in the summer of 1968, is one of 13 noted foreign scientists brought to the United States by the NSF to serve as guest lecturers in various summer programs.

The eight-week math­ematics institute at SIU, directed by Prof. Marvin D. McDaniel, is sponsored by a $64,000 NSF grant. Fifty-six teachers from the area will attend, with stipends and allowances provided by the grant.

Mother Nature and Shorts

In Southern Illinois in the summer, Mother Nature is a tall girl in shorts. She becomes a thing of many moods, sometimes baking the land, sometimes cooling it, sometimes covering it with water, but always making us aware of her presence in the world.

Life continues in spite of her. In many places it pace slows down, but not at SIU. With the extension of the eight-week summer term to a full twelve-week quarter, SIU is now on a four-quarter basis, giving summer term much the hustle and bustle of the other three terms of the school year.

Differences exist, however. In the summer, the scarce commodity is students. Summer enrollment is only about half that of the regular year. Seats in the Roman Room are easier to find. Lines are not as long. Yet when work is good, students may elect to go to summer school and work in the winter instead. More students from other universities can be expected to transfer here for a summer's study.

After all, fat Mother Nature is not really as ominous as she might seem.

History of a Barrier
Escapes Over Berlin Wall
Show Freedom Is Cherished

The Wall of Shame, by Willard A. Hoopy, New-

York, Duell, Sloan and Pearce, 1964.

175 pp. $3.95.

From newspaper and magazine articles and official docu-tements, the author has gathered the history of the Berlin Wall and of the people who have continuously tried to overcome the barrier of barbed wire and concrete blocks.

In a desperate attempt to keep East Germany from leaving the country, the Communist regime spent millions of dollars to erect a stone and concrete wall cutting through the city of Berlin and making escape from the East almost impossible. About 6,000 miles of wire and 200,000 concrete blocks were used to build the 28-mile wall which has become the symbol of the divided Germany and a testimony to the Communist failure in East Germany.

The author tells the story of escapes over, through, and under the wall into freedom. And although the escape routes are limited and the stories are almost the same, each one contributes to our understanding of the people who risked their lives in an attempt to cross the border.

For a few thousand East Germans the flight through dark tunnels, in armored cars, across water, and over rooftops was the beginning of a new life. For about fifty people the desperate process ended under a shower of machine gun bullets only a few feet away from the border.

Mr. Hoopy's book will serve as a reminder to many people who take the word "freedom" for granted. It will leave them with a deeper appreciation of freedom and liberty and of our democratic institutions. The book is supplemented by photographs of the wall and with a map of the city.

Kennedy's Civil Rights Fight
Recounted in Book of Photos

The Kennedy Years and the

Saunders. Chicago: Johnson

1964. $2.95 paperback.

"And because President

Kennedy had come to be so known East Germans, even for equality and justice, his death was more than the loss of our head of state. It was a deep and personal loss for each of us.

These words, from the editor's note of The Kennedy

our President's intent to compile a photographic record of President Kennedy's struggle for freedom.

Dispersed among the pictures are excerpts of speeches and references made by Kennedy on civil rights and other subjects of importance to minority groups.

Lengthy texts, photographs of poor quality and the inclusion of pages filled with typographical errors detract from the book's purpose and tend to make it more a record of a period in the life of a great man than a true account of the struggle for freedom in the Negro community.

Sports Fans Hoping George Can Do It at NCAA Meet

Will George do it?

That's the question being asked around the SIU Athletic Department this week.

George, of course, is SIU's standout shot-putter, George Woods. And what local sports fans are wondering about is whether his performance this weekend will win another NCAA title for SIU.

Already, Southern's teams have claimed national titles in gymnastics, tennis and golf and a regional blue ribbon in baseball this year as well as individual honors in swimming and wrestling.

As a result, more than 70 SIU athletes have received NCAA plaques or medals for excelling in national competition. Latest to gain awards were Coach Lynn Holder's golfer and Coach Carl Sexton's tennis players who claimed top team honors in college — division meets at Springfield, Mo., and Green castle, Ill., respectively, last weekend.

Woods, a Siloan, Missouri junior who is intent on redeeming himself this year after failing to place in the 1963 NCAA meet, is considered one of the top contenders at Eugene, Ore., and "has a real good shot at the title," according to track coach Lew Hartog.

The 6-2, 230-pounder gained his second straight championship in the U.S. Track and Field Federation meet at Corvallis, Ore., last week when he tossed the steel ball 59 feet, 9 inches. Hartog, however, is looking for Woods to go well over the 60-foot mark and feels it will be necessary in order to claim the NCAA title won by New York University's Gary Gubeer at 62-5 last year.

"We know Gubeer is capable of throwing around 62, even through he has been bothered by injuries this season," Hartog said. "But George is also capable and was over 62 twice while warming up last week.

SIU Chess Team Places High

Two SIU students scored high at the Fall City Open Chess Tournament in Louisville on June 13 and 14.

Frank Fleming, a graduate student in psychology, and Owen Harris, a senior in microbiology, played against some of the strongest chess players in Kentucky.

With seven experts among the 22 players, Fleming started as the 12th strongest player. Harris started in 14th place.

In the first round Fleming had a tight game with an international chess master from Canada, Theodorovitch. Fleming lost the game, but finished the match in 11th place with a 2 1/2-2 1/2 record.

The most tense moment of Harris's match came in the last round when he defeated the University of Kentucky's champion, Gene Lawsor. Later, a near-expert, opened the game with the complex Benoni System. Harris mastered the move to get a slight advantage. Winning the four-hour game, Harris finished in seventh place with a 3-2 record.

Mr. Robert C. Steck, hospital superintendent, said many students are there because they have withdrawn into themselves. Those patients refuse to cope with the problems of life and pull away from its realities. Activity therapy plays a big part in getting them out of the shell.

Efforts during the years to improve this type of patient treatment have been successful. At one time there were 2,600 patients at Anna. The total now is 1,900, and Dr. Steck expects it to drop lower as patients receive more help from the institution in former homes. Improved treatment and therapy methods are credited.

To augment the existing therapy program, the hospital will draw on the ability of SIU students, seniors, and graduate students from a dozen fields of study including recreation, physical education, industrial education, art, music, nursing, psychology, home economics, rehabilitation and health education.

Their study load at the institution is that the patient regards the employee as just somebody who tells him when to do something. The aides toward psychiatric patients. It might be changed if they lived together, worked together and played together in a different environment, and the hospital situation."}

He explained that too often the relationship at the hospital is that the patient regards the employee as just somebody who tells him when to do something. The aides toward psychiatric patients. It might be changed if they lived together, worked together and played together in a different environment, and the hospital situation.

"Some will not be able to take part, especially those with severe brain damage, but it will be available," Steck said. "We owe a great deal to the ideas of people like William Freeiew and Guy Renegarn of the Rehabilitation Institute," he said. "In fact, we couldn't have con­ceived the program without assurances from them that the resources of the University would be available."

The Anna institution is now studying the results of a unique experiment involving SIU that took place early in May. For two weeks 30 patients and 15 of the hospital staff lived together in the camping area of SIU's Little Crazy Camp, with SIU staff members and students helping with the camp activities.

"We wanted to see what changes would occur when the environment toward psychiatric patients, might be changed if they lived together, worked together and played together in a different environment, and the hospital situation."
