Arthur Larson
To Address Convocation

Arthur Larson, author of "What We Are For," "A Republican Looks at His Party," and "When Nations Disagree," and director of the World Rule of Law Center, has scheduled a talk for tonight at 4:50 p.m. in the Student Union Auditorium as part of the regular freshman convocation program.

Larson has been acclaimed for his effective speaking style in such publications as Variety, who said "Rarely has there been a speaker so per­sonable and articulate a personality."

In some recent lectures Larson has been trying to show the importance of telling people all over the world what the United States stands for, as well as pointing out that the period the United Nations is now in will probably be its period of greatest strength, maturity, and effectiveness.

Other topics have been a discussion of the need for specific goals in our government and how the "outlawing of war" by the United Nations has failed to end the international dispute settling techniques.

Larson attended Oxford University as a Rhodes Scholar and holds four degrees from that institution. He is a Fel­low of the Brookings Institution, and associate to President Ford who also was a Rhodes Scholar.

He left Pittsburgh to be­come Under Secretary of Labor in 1965. In 1956 he was appointed director of the United States Information Agency. Later he became special assistant to President Eisenhower and continued as part-time special assistant after leaving Washington. Currently he is director of the Old Rule of Law Center at Duke University and consultant to the State De­partment on United Nations matters.

PREPARATION CAN SET STAGE FOR JOB INTERVIEW

By Ron Geskey
Second of Two Articles

Thirty minutes is not a very long time. But it can often determine the future course of your life.

Thirty minutes is the average amount of time spent in a job interview. Knowing how to prepare and how to conduct yourself at the interview can easily determine whether you will be considered for a position.

The number of applicants who drift into job interviews without any apparent prepara­tion and only the vaguest idea of what they are going to say is often amazing. Their man­ner says, "Well here I am." (So what.)

Others, although they undoubtedly do not intend to do so, create an impression of indifference by being bored despite what they had brought in as an interview packet. The young­est man who reports to an inter­view wearing torn jeans and a sports coat, leans back and lights up a cigarette seems to be saying, "What can you do for me?"

Of­fers are in an extremely tenuous case of fright, and unable to do much except gulp and an­swer in monosyllables.

Much of this can be elimi­nated by just knowing actually what the interviewer expects and making a few simple prepara­tions before the interview.

First, find out the exact time and place of the inter­view. And then write it down. Don't rely on your memory. Keep a list of important names and call­ing cards.

Second, read up on the company interviewing you. Try to find out how old the company is, what products it produces and how the company has grown, and how its products may fit into the company's future plans.

This will give you something to talk about during the inter­view and help form questions you should ask.

Weekend night's game with Washington University was described as one of the SIU's toughest for the Salukis. Early in the second half, the Bears made their way to 41-29 and SIU went score­less for three minutes. Ralph Johnson broke the drought, and the Salukis cut the lead to 44-29. When Washing­ton was leading 40-40, the Bears went on another spurt and took the lead, 47-44, in 1.2 minutes left in the game.

This was the first time in the second half that SIU led, and at this point, the lead started to change hands again. Washington led 49-47 at the 10:40 mark. After that the Bears led 53-54, but the Salukis broke loose to go ahead for good. With about five min­utes remaining, they led 62-57.

Johnson led SIU with 22 points as he shot 8 of 11 from the field and 2 of 3 from the free-throw line. Walt Frazier contrib­uted 14 points and his 15 rebounds were highest for either team. Joe Ramsey picked up 14 points for Coach Jack Harri­man & Co.

George Kramer scored 17 for Washington and his ef­fort was closely followed by George Spencer's 16 point performance, Ron Jackson's 15, and Wayne Williams' 13. Saturday's game will be the 33rd meeting between the two teams to lead the Bears in that distinction.

SIU scored on 30 of 60 field-goal attempts and hit on 23 free-throw shots. The Bears shot 459 on field goals (28 of 61), and hit on 19 of 23 free-throw attempts. Washington led at halftime, 36-33, and at the end of the game, St. Michael's, the Vermont school with a 20-5 season record, defeated Akron, 101-87, and North Dakota (24-5) posted a 73-54 victory over Seattle-Pacific (22-6). These were Games 9 and 10. Two of the opening round games of the NCAA college division basketball tournament.

McNeill led the Salukis in scoring in the first half, with 11 points.

Health Service Might Provide Psychiatric Help to Students

Do college students need their own psychiatrists?

“Just having a psychiatrist on the staff is not enough,” said Dr. Richard V. Lee, director of the Health Service, in discussing the possibility of providing psychiatric services through his office for SIU students.

“Southern is definitely considering providing such a service,” he said, “but to make it worthwhile a number of problems must be worked out.” A university of this size definitely needs a psychiatrist, he added.

The biggest problem, he pointed out, is that a psychiatrist without a good place to work would not be very effective considering the cost.

“He must be placed where he has the resources handy which he will need to accomplish his task,” Lee said.

“We are working on the concept that it is best to have the psychiatrist in close contact with such services as the Counseling and Testing and Clinical Research Centers,” he said. “He can’t do any good if he is put off in a corner.”

Lee said that a long-term plan is under consideration for providing a building which might house Clinical Psychology, the Health Service, Counseling and Testing and other connected services. This, he felt, would provide a good place for the psychiatrist.

David Ehrenfreund, chairman of the Department of Psychology, agreed that a psychiatrist is needed at Southern. “However,” he pointed out, “such a service is already available to a degree in the Counseling and Testing Center and the Cooperative Clinic.” The clinic, he said, includes numerous services, including psychiatry, speech, reading and hearing. Much could be done to expand these services and make them more available to the students as well as in providing a psychiatrist at the Health Service, he felt.

Students seem to be, on the whole, in favor of such a service.

“With 15,000 students here there are bound to be some problems which would need the help of a psychiatrist,” said David L. Brown, a junior majoring in agriculture from Decatur.

Sue Harrison, a junior majoring in history from Lombard, thought it would be “a very beneficial service to the students as a whole.” She added “I think a lot of students would use the service if they were sure it had competent personnel.”

Lana L. Heninger, a freshman majoring in sociology from Springfield, agreed that they should provide a psychiatrist, adding that “there were probably numerous minor problems he could solve, and he could find major ones which

Library Catalogues To Be Duplicated

Approval has been given to duplicate the catalogues of the Morris and Edwardsville campus libraries. The catalogue duplication, designed to limit duplication of books in the two libraries, is expected to be put in book form, provided the cost of this is no greater than that of reproducing each card.

According to Frierdich Randall, head librarian of Morris Library, duplication of the library’s 700,000 cards in the author-title catalogue will fill about 33 volumes of 1,000 pages each.

Duplication of the Edwardsville author-title catalogue will involve close to 125,000 cards.

Sizable Tax Hike Foreseen

By Sen. Paul Simon

The unpleasant fact is that there will be some sizable tax increases before this session of the legislature is completed.

The increasing costs of education and police protection will force up the total expenditure of this session. The most common middle ground will recognize that there must be a tax increase. As the Chicago Tribune points out, the most important one is in the gasoline tax.

In addition to more money for the state's education and police needs, and cities are facing difficulties in the ways will have to be provided to enable those who need more money to get it. This will not be a state tax, but it comes out of a citizen's pocket just as surely as if it were a state tax.

For increases in the state tax we face several possibilities.

Choice 1: A state income tax of one or two percent with a reduction in the property tax and elimination of the personal property tax, perhaps up the total expenditure in the gasoline tax.

Choice 2: A number of smaller, more tax increases before the state is completed.

In my opinion the tax is the fairest approach to the problem. And the progressive solution followed by most states—but will not take place for this session.

The governor has announced his opposition and it is doubtful that even if he favored it, both houses would record against a state income tax.

Choice 3: Several smaller taxes, plus an increase in the sales tax. There appears to be some danger that this will be the course followed as the path of least resistance. Of the three possibilities, this last is certainly the most unfair for it increases the taxes on the necessities of life: food, clothing, etc. It also harasses the taxes on those least able to pay.

I hope I am wrong. I have already indicated that the policy that I cannot support an increase in the state sales tax. We already pay the highest tax of any state on a loaf of bread and a pound of hamburger.

There are also some who look to the revenue article in our state constitution as a means of solving a long-range problem. This does not, of course, bring any revenue in during the next two years. In addition, I see no disposition at this stage of the legislature to present to the voters a major revenue article.

That it is needed all admit. But there is a great variety of opinion as to how it should be achieved.

All of this means that revenue negotiations and the long-range plans, will be major items in this session.

Next to reapportionment, revenue is an important area in which we must act.

Vie!n Is Much Like Hollywood, With a Weekly Jungle Premier

Whoopee! There went another one. We keep setting up these artificial governments in Viet-nam. But these Generals keep toppling them over. Clearly, we should stop sending military aid to these countries. We should send civilian advisors instead. Preferably from our Civil Service Commission.

For obviously, their governmental machinery is appallingly rudimentary. Look how eager these Generals are to become Premier. Look how easily they switch jobs. But if only we can install a model system of government such as ours. These change-overers would, of course, become impossible.

Take, for example the case of General Houghton Don Dar, who served as the 14th, 23rd and 39th Premier of the Republic. This year, he is now joined by another General again. But one evening he comes bursting in the door of his modest 80-room villa beaming with pride.

"Dear," he says to Mrs. Houghton, "I'm in line for a promotion. The fellows down at the Office are talking about putting me up for Premier. Again. And this time, if you want to be Premier, dear, I can do it. For

I, passed the orals and filled in the proper application blanks, in says the General, and as long as our bureaucrats don't do it. For I change my classific"ation from GS-1 (General to GS-2), I will have to receive 82 per cent of all hospital bills over 17 days (less 1,000 plasters deductible), plus 43 per cent of all drug bills and 59 per cent of the cost of surgery is a must fill in the required forms.

"Oh," says Mrs. Houghton, but she adds brashly: "I know you want to be Premier, dear, I can do it."

He takes her in his arms and happily promises to do the same, but he promises to do the proper procedures the next day. He does. And he becomes Premier.

"Oh," they pass the orals and filled in the proper application forms, but he says, striking his brow, "I relinquished my vacation seniority and my accumulated sick leave. But, farewell vacation ambition! I can't do it. For I change my classific"ation from GS-1 (General to GS-2), I will have to receive 82 per cent of all accrued retirement benefits.

So there’s the problem: we're trying to export our democratic system without its essential ingredient: the week. For it's a lot of maligned bureaucracy that gives us our blessedly-stable government. And as long as our bureaucratic endures, no one can possibly overthrow our government. Truly, it's bigger than all of us.
Preparation Can Set the Stage For Vital 30-Minute Interview

Bluebook: "Standard and Poor's Corporation, Poor's "Register of Directors and Executives," "Don & Bradstreet Reference Book" and company annual reports.

You should bring a pen, pencil and note paper with you, but keep it out of sight. You may be asked to take something down. If not, take a few notes after you leave the interview.

Plan to arrive for your interview at least 15 minutes early. Your interviewer may be a little short on time. Or a few extra minutes will help take care of unexpected emergencies.

How should you dress? Consider carefully. Perfume or shaving lotion should be applied at minimum. Small rooms are usually stuffy. Neatly combed hair, clean shirts, shoes, and pressed clothing is in order. And, of course, be friendly, honest and sincere; then you will make a good impression.

Your best guide during the job interview is your own native courtesy and common sense. There are some basic rules and situations common to most interviews. Here are a few that don't surprise your interviewer.

DO dry a damp bow or clammy hand just before meeting your interviewer.

DO greet the interviewer by name as you enter his or office. Then ask: "What can I do for you?" "Tell me about yourself," or "Why are you interested in coming to our company?" Think about your answers before you appear at the interview.

DO be prepared for personal questions such as: "Is this your home life happy?" "Tell me about your family." "What are your hobbies?" "Why do you think you'd like to work for our company?" "What interests you about our product or service?" "What are your future vocational plans?" "What is your salary and family?"

DON'T be too personal. The purpose of an interview is to learn about the qualifications and work habits of the applicant.

DON'T appear too nervous. Your interviewer will be aware of your anxiety and may feel it himself. And will you be able to recall your answers to his questions?

DON'T allow your answers to be interrupted or cut off. You should not discuss the facts of your case in too much detail. Keep your answers to the point.

DON'T show the interviewer that you have come in to look over the possibilities and you are not yet sure what you want. DON'T answer questions in a generally unfriendly or curt manner.

DON'T fidget or pick your nose. This makes it difficult for the interviewer to communicate with his own interviewer.

DON'T forget to thank the interviewer and DON'T forget to smile.

Here are some questions frequently asked by interviewers:

"How do you spend your spare time? What are your hobbies?"
"Why do you think you'd like to work for our company?"
"What interests you about our product or service?"
"What are your future vocational plans?"
"What is your salary and family?"
"What is your major weakness?"
"What type of cooperation?
"What types of people rub you the wrong way?"
"Are you looking for a job to keep you busy, or are you looking for something more challenging?"

China's Bases May Face Attack If It Intervenes in Viet Nam

By Fred S. Hoffman

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States is keeping its hands free to allow U.S. warships and warplanes to strike at Red Chinese and Communist Việt Nam bases if the Chinese should intervene directly in Southeast Asia.

U.S. officials will not discuss the "rules of engagement." But it is likely that Red China would not enjoy any "privileged sanctuary," as it did in the Korean War when American planes were barred from pursuing Chinese aircraft beyond the Yalu River boundary.

Government authorities carefully have avoided making any statements indicating the United States would observe any such sanctuary this time. Actually, the problem of "privileged sanctuary" has not yet arisen in the Southeast Asian war. The Communist Chinese have about 30 MIG fighters on bases in Viet Nam, they have not tried to challenge American and South Viet Nam bombers and fighter bombers during raids on infiltration bases and other military installations in North Viet Nam recently.

U.S. fighters flew combat patrols over the striking aircraft, but in case the Chinese should come out - but they didn't.

Ministries Greeted By Religious Strife

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) - Revived religious friction flared again as an anti-Catholic demonstration on Sunday.

Vietnamese protesters burned the homes of four Roman Catholics in a reprisal Wednesday for the fatal stabbing of a Buddhist soldier by a Catholic, in a card game Sunday.

Vietnamese soldiers raged into the air to break up a crowd of Buddhist demonstrators shouting anti-Catholic slogans. They arrested 16 persons. No Americans were involved.

Tensions Mount

Alabama Civil Rights Drive Spreads to State's Capital

SELMIA, Ala. (AP) - Alabama's mushrooming civil rights drive sent demonstrators into the streets of two cities Wednesday.

Nearly 300 marchers were turned back in Selma, but about 1,000 marched on the state capitol in Montgomery. Marchers poured into churches in both cities as Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. called for nationwide demonstrations.

Tensions mounted and the spreading civil rights drive - centered on Negro voting power - took on the proportions of 1963's turbulent summer of racial demonstrations.

Selma officials backed by a large force of police officers halted the marchers here half a block from the church where they began. After many demonstrators voiced their grievances, Selma, the town turned back without incident.

At Montgomery, the nearly 1,000 marchers - including a f ew white persons - walked to the white-dominated capitol. Carrying a civil rights petition for the governor, the marchers lined up and sang "Freedom songs."

They sat on the street. But after a few minutes, the placard-waving demonstrators got up.

House Votes Tax Boost For Cities

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Legislation to permit cities to double the half-cent city sales tax sailed through the Illinois House Wednesday on the strength of overwhelming Democratic majorities.

The House also forwarded to the Senate bills to permit cities to triple the penny-per-pack tax on cigarettes, and to place new taxes on beer, liquor, wine, and cigarettes. The new bill permits both sales and cigarette tax levies simultaneously.

Under the proposed legislation, the tax on cigarettes would be 10 cents for a box of 25.

The liquor tax calls for 2 cents a gallon on beer, 8 cents a gallon on out-of-state wines, 4 per cent or less alcohol, 20 cents a gallon on out-of-state wine over 1 per cent alcohol, 3 cents a gallon on Illinois wine of 15 per cent or less alcohol, 8 cents a gallon on Illinois wine of 15 per cent or more alcohol, and 50 cents a gallon whisky and other alcoholic drinks.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A Boston white minister who came South to help Alabama Negroes win voting rights lay in critical condition Wednesday after he was beaten by a gang of white men.

Twice Wednesday morning his heart stopped, the hospi­tal said. “Both times he was resuscitated immediately.”

GOP Backs Federal Action For Negroes’ Voting Rights

Flying Submarine Declared Possible

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A submersible seaplane is being studied by the firm’s Convair Division under a $50,000 Navy contract.

The recommended design calls for a plane with a sub­plane-stylie hull, a conven­tional tail and wing, and three jet engines.

It would approach its target area with the speed of a water-based aircraft, then dive and pursue the target with the stealth of a submar­ine. Submersion would be ac­complished by flooding sec­tions of the wings, tail and hull.

A city could levy any, or all, of the taxes.

Illinois has a 3 1/2 per cent sales tax and most cit­ies have the one-half cent tax they were permitted to levy under 1955 legislation. Cities now have the author­ity to levy a penny-per-pack tax on cigarettes, but not if they levy the city sales tax. The new bill permits both sales and cigarette tax levies simultaneously.

The liquor tax calls for 2 cents a gallon on beer, 8 cents a gallon on out-of-state wines, 4 per cent or less alcohol, 20 cents a gallon on out-of-state wine over 1 per cent alcohol, 3 cents a gallon on Illinois wine of 15 per cent or less alcohol, 8 cents a gallon on Illinois wine of 15 per cent or more alcohol, and 50 cents a gallon whisky and other alcoholic drinks.

Bill Meade is a coach with a problem that most coaches never have to worry about: How does one improve on perfection?

Meade has just guided the Saluki gymnasts to their third straight undefeated season. The victories this season stretched the team’s consecutive dual meet victory streak to 38.

Since he began coaching gymnastics at Southern in 1956, his teams have won 70 of 92 meets for a winning percentage of .761.

Winning is nothing new for Meade. Ever since his undergraduate days at Pennsylvania State University where he was the Eastern Intercollegiate Champion in tumbling in 1948-49 and running in the National Collegiates the same year, Meade has been associated with winning teams.

His tumbling and parallel bar performances helped Penn State to three Eastern Collegiate Championships, two National AAU Championships and one NCAA Championship.

As a coach at the University of North Carolina for eight years, Meade’s team always had winning seasons. The only exception was his 1956 Southern team. The school’s gymnastics program was down, but Meade set out to improve it. Since 1953 Southern had had a team, but it was run on a club basis.

The coach’s formula for success is simple. He recruits only the top ten high school gymnasts from all over the country and then proceeds to work them hard in practice.

Heading the list of top performers Meade has recruited and coached are Fred Orlofsky and Rusty Mitchell. Both have been members of the United State’s Olympic teams and Orlofsky was a Pan American Champion in 1962. Meade has also coached six national champions, 30 conference champions, seven national collegiate individual champions, four national AAU individual champions and one national AUU team champion.

SIU's Walt Frazier Makes All-American

SIU basketball forward Walt Frazier was named a second team of 1965 All-American college basketball selections Wednesday. The team was selected by the Associated Press on the basis of votes by 77 sports writers and broadcasters.

Frazier joined Larry Barnert of Chattanooga, Thales McNealy of Miles, Ala., Barry Clemens of Ohio Wesleyan and Wilbur Frazier of Grambling on the second team. Two familiar names to SIU sports followers, Jerry Sloan, 6-6, and Larry Humes, 6-4, Evansville College, led the first eight selections. Also named to the first squad were Jerry Rock, 6-5, Arkansas State, Richie Tarrant, 6-5, St. Michael's and Dean Church, 6-3, St. John's.

The third team was composed of Wayne Grigg of Washington University of St. Louis, Don Carlos of Otterbein, Al Lawason of Northern Dakota, Al Lawson of Gonzans and Dan Anderson of Augsburg.

Hot Viet Nam Debate Flares At Peace Desk in U. Center

What started out as a quiet effort to distribute literature urging the United States to seek a negotiated peace in South Vietnam turned into a stormy open debate Wednesday.

At its peak more than 100 students had gathered in Room H of the University Center and were arguing the issue without the niceties of formal debate.

Ed Clark, vice chairman of the SPU chapter of the Student Peace Union, said his group set up the table in Room H about 10 a.m. Wednesday to distribute the literature in conjunction with National Peace Week.

Immediately students began asking questions and debating the issue. But the discussion reached its loudest and stormiest moment shortly after 1 p.m. when an unidentified student attacked the Student Peace Union’s stand.

Clark named the debaters defending the Student Peace Union position as Robert G. Gorden, Bill Knapp, Linda Martin, and himself.

Clark said, “Many students were defending the SPU position despite the fact that as far as we know they were not SPU members.”

More than 2,000 pieces of literature have been distributed as a result of the debate today, Clark estimated.

“We are trying to gain popular support for our position, which is withdrawal of the United States’ military forces in South Vietnam,” Clark stated. “We feel that the United States should initiate negotiation in South Vietnam.”

A bystander commented that she did not even know where Vietnam was.

Ann Arbor, Mich. (AP) — Just as they did in the pre-season poll, the Michigan Wolverines beat out the UCLA Bruins for the No. 1 spot in the final Associated Press college basketball poll of the season.

The Wolverines, although upset by Ohio State in their last regular-season game Monday, polled 409 points in the final poll to 378 for UCLA.

“It is a great tribute to this team,” said Michigan Coach Dave Strack. Referring to the pre-season poll he added “I think it shows we had a team worthy of this confidence.”
