IN A protest meeting Monday morning near Browne Auditorium, about 250 students attended. The picketing is to take place Thursday night. Another proposal was that the Housing Office be picketed, in protest of the more stringent regulations concerning housing and vehicles.

The demonstration was called "Black Monday," because "chaos and disgust" have resulted from "ill-timed and ill-planned actions by the administration," according to Bob Wenc, a student senator and member of the Action Party.

Black armbands were passed out, and "God Bless Our Cycle" was written on the back of one student's black sweatshirt.

Wenc said "the citizens in the area are being shuffled around like pawns by the University," and added that $100 had been received by his party from some householders to continue support and the demonstrations.

Ray Lensi, also a student senator and Action Party member, outlined plans for demonstrations this week.

First, he called for a continuing boycott of the University Center cafeteria and bookstore.

It was claimed that the cafeteria lost $500 as a result of last Friday's boycott. The reason for the boycott, Lensi said, was because of increased food prices there this year.

It was announced that a caravan of buses would travel to Springfield sometime next week to seek to air grievances to Gov. Otto Kerner. Wenc added that student representatives from other state universities were being encouraged to attend the meeting with Kerner, since they have problems similar to Southern's.

A suggestion box was placed on the steps of Browne for students to give their ideas on the housing-vehicle controversy.

The suggestion box was the idea of Ralph W. Ruffner, vice president for student and area services.

"Black Monday" began with the playing of taps at the cannon in front of Old Main. The students later moved to the area in front of Browne Auditorium.

Phase 2 of the Master Plan: Each senior campus in the systems, shall become a free standing independent institution with its own president. (It is understood that this includes both the Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses in the Southern Illinois University system.)

Phase 2 of the proposed Master Plan for higher education recommends that all campuses in Illinois have their own presidents, who will report to a chancellor of the system.

John Roark, a field representative of the American Federation of Teachers, advocated independent administration for the Edwardsville campus to combat "shortcomings in graduate offerings."

He said the shortcomings are due "primarily to the lack of direction and the lack of administration impetus.

... Paul Gunther of the Humanities Division, called the common campus concept employed at Edwardsville an "educational supermarket, where students shop, dash in for their commodity, and leave."

Warren Joseph, professor of fine arts, said a commuter college and "the crowded, unhealthy social shocks by allowing the student to retreat back to his home and his high school associations.

Roark warned the hearing of the Higher Board that a "frightening number" of the present faculty at SIU may leave. Transitional faculty, he said, tend to deteriorate the effectiveness of any educational institution.

John H. Schnabel, registrar for the Edwardsville campus, told the hearing that in his opinion 1,000 to 1,500 more students would be enrolled if on-campus housing were provided.

Success of Student Protests Depends On Orderly Action

The plan has been presented. A strong case for student action at SIU administration was presented Thursday night at a rally which reflected the political climate on the school campus. The challenge outlined to students was one of action and not apathy. Both the genuine and the apathy of the student body by the administration.

An orderly plan has been developed by the administration leaders for students to follow, rather than chances as during the spring, if student apathy prevails. The power of the student voice is evident in the current wave of mass protests. If students expect to receive adult consideration, they themselves should shoulder a little responsibility by supporting the movement.

Whether or not students on the SIU campus are poised further with the apathy may well stand on perspectives of the current rising tide. In the event that apathy does exist and student have no interest in rules governing them, Black Monday will serve a dual purpose for SIU and its students.

Teachers' Corps Is Necessity

Even more inspired than John P. Kennedy's call for a Peace Corps was his recommendation of a Teachers' Corps to serve abroad but for the reformation of slums at home.

It was to recruit competent volunteers, people eager to attend to the neglected and mislead education which have so much to do with the perpetuation of youthful delinquency and adult poverty.

Considering the burden and threat which slums are to the community, it seems very important.

Vehicle Rules But One Hurdle

To the editor:

When I went to register for this semester, the last thing I expected was to pay $24.45 for a parking permit, but notice how efficient the whole registration had become.

Not only is the Parking Office staff highly trained and well organized, but it seems to be very well versed in the art of dealing with students.

I couldn't help but wonder if the University had put these people through an administration program similar to that of the Athletic Department.

From the first moment I entered the office on Harvard Avenue, I felt at home and completely relaxed.

They suggested that I risk a little of the student topic, "Why Haven't We Seen Your Parking Permit?" He seemed they were very concerned about me. I didn't know they were worried about me.

Another kind and thoughtful service which this office renders is a courteous information service--which I was soon to learn. I came into the office thinking that I had to register at all-registered vehicles with the University, I had a pink card to register my Volkswagen white car to register my car, and I asked one of the secretaries where I should go for registration.

She looked at me with a sweet smiling smile and said, "Are you dreaming? I had to register her at her desk. I knew that I wasn't dreaming. She was such a kind of lady.

And funny, too.

Next I had the pleasure of speaking with an old man, who, by the way, was most skilled in the art of dealing with students. He reminded me of a partially reformed hardened jewel who is most anxious to answer any and all of my questions.

And he wanted to make sure I heard his answers, too. He shouted at me:

Jules Feiffer

"If you have the right to make any policy that is necessary, and the recent policies on cycles and hours are in the long run necessary and beneficial to the majority of students. They may not bring joy into the hearts of any, but they are valid none the less.

It seems that every time the administration does something to displeasure a few students there is a big stir raised. Has anyone ever thought of showing appreciation or thanking them for all of the positive improvements they have brought about? Try it sometime and see how much further you will get."

Student Bill of Rights and Responsibilities

(Editor's note: This is a condensed version of a bill under study by the Students Rights Committee of the Campus Senate. It was presented to students at an open session last week.)

STUDENT BILL OF RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES

PREAMBLE:
Campus Senate recognizes the rights and responsibilities of students to participate equally with faculty and administration in the dialogue concerning the purpose of the university.

We recognize the right of every student to:
1. Admission respecting the student's capacity and his specific academic requirements, with the understanding that non-coeducational schools and religious schools may require membership in their denomination as a basis for admission, No institutional pressure.
2. Clear statements of regulations pertaining to educational and curricular policies from the university.
3. The fullest extent of due process by law.
4. Free research, and publication, and exchange of findings and recommendations, without regard to their supposed tendency to disturb the religious or political status quo.
5. Determination of his own social rules and code of conduct.
6. Establishment of student government with the power to make and enforce laws within its constitutional jurisdiction.

1. Participation through student government in activity funds.
2. Recognition through student organizations, provided that they do not discriminate on the basis of race or religion or creed where the dominant purpose of the organization is to bring together members of one specific group.
3. Selection of their own faculty advisers in student organizations.
4. Use of campus facilities subject to uniform regulations required for regularly funded facilities.

Ombudsman Is Swedish Government Watchdog

Citizens Can Get Relief for Injustices

By Bob Baer Moua

The ombudsman in Sweden means a government consultant or ombudsman by parliament to supervise the activities of various public servants and authorities. Supervision covers the comprehensive roles and duties of the civil service, including some restrictions exist to prevent the ombudsman from interfering in the principle of local self-government. How does the ombudsman work? Matters are brought to his attention through complaints. Going to the ombudsman with a matter may be a compulsory procedure. But the people will generally require the hiring of a lawyer. The citizen may feel inclined to do so for economic reasons or because he does not think the injunction he has suffered by the bureaucracy or by a judge is quite worth that trouble. Writing to the ombudsman is very different. There is no letter and no form to be filled in. The citizen himself writes and the ombudsman goes by what he believes is the intention of the complainant.

Another ombudsman in which matters come before the ombudsman is through inspections. Local offices and large local agencies may be sure to have inspectors but also to acknowledge the ombudsman's own right to come in, although they do not know when—or in 10 years. Attention then turns to the ombudsman as insuring that there is no backlog of work and that cases that have been decided without undue delay.

The other ombudsman called military ombudsman with a jurisdiction in the military forces, is much more like the ombudsman in the civil field, although military ombudsmen and ombudsmen are elected to office for four years by the parliament from persons of outstanding integrity. They then appoint their own staff—those who are permanent officials. The institution of ombudsman as it was formed 150 years ago, still appears useful and necessary for the protection of the citizen's lawful interest in the new situation created by the rapid development of society. However, it is amazing that the government and constitution of 1800 were able to institute the office in such a way that, after 150 years and in spite of the fundamental changes in society, it is still possible to find it in an efficient manner.

Through no conscious effort on the part of Sweden the ombudsman has become a fact of life. Ombudsman offices have been introduced in Finland, Denmark, Norway, Germany, New Zealand, England and Canada.

The ombudsman institution left Sweden on the first trip in 1919, when Finland adopted it because it had believed in it; Denmark, Norway, and Sweden followed. Recently voices were raised for the introduction of an ombudsman in the Australian states of Victoria and New South Wales. In Canada there has been agitation at the federal level, and a bill has been under study in the provinces of British Columbia and Saskatchewan. On Jan. 1, a somewhat modified version of the ombudsman system was introduced in New Zealand.

In Britain last October the Labor Party established a limited ombudsman, complaints must go through a number of parliamenters who will then bring them to the parliamentary commissioners. In Britain the ombudsman the police, nationalized industries and local government authorities are outside his jurisdiction. Interest in ombudsman has been expressed in India, Holland, Pakistan and the United States.

Professor K. Davis of the University of Pennsylvania, as a strong advocate of this institution, urges that it be adopted both at federal and state levels. He feels that it may not be possible to establish ombudsmen in a large country like the United States. Many others think it could be adapted to some degree in state and municipalities.

W. Gellhorn, of Yale University, believes the success of this system outside Sweden depends on the availability of other means such as traditions and political institutions of a country. It may work well in Sweden, but be invalid elsewhere.

Proposed Service Act Evokes Questions of Motive

By Robert M. Hutchins

Rumblings in Washington give warning that something big may be in the making, a National Service Act.

The statements coming out of the capital have a considerable ambiguity about them. It is impossible to tell whether young people are to be conscripted for service or whether they are merely to be encouraged to do so, and this makes all the difference.

The only one of all the young being urged and assisted to devote some time in their lives to improving the lot of others, at home and abroad has a kind of nobility about it. The vision of all our youth being urged and compelled to serve is without nobility. If, however, it has, indeed, some terrifying aspects.

Such a system would put into the hands of business, the real power to decide what young Americans should do with a slice of their lives. In practice, of course, the computer would make the decision. Perhaps I am unduly suspicious. All I can say is that this administration has a record of dishonesty, to put it mildly, that seems to justify a request for clarification of its statements.

The impression those statements make is that the administration will take all it can get. It will try for universal conscription, military or non-military. If it cannot get this it will fall back on a voluntary plan, formulated, endorsed and aided by the government.

In short, a voluntary plan is regarded as second best or as a step toward a scheme of universal compulsion.

If this is so, the real issue is whether we want a system of universal compulsion.

Why should such a suggestion be advanced at this time?

For one thing, the Supreme Court has expanded the range of conscientious objection by enunciating a definition of belief in a Supreme Being to which even a hardened atheist might subscribe. There is no doubt that the number of conscientious objects is disturbing to the Pentagon.

For another thing, the war in Viet Nam is unpopular, so much so that Gen. Lewis Hershey, the administrator of the Selective Service, has demanded that unfriendly critics of the war be silenced—or, presumably, be silenced.

The problem today, however, is the need to repackage the old demand to do something for the people who riot on campuses, demonstrate against the war and who do not give a damn whether it goes the war or not. They are becoming acutely annoying to many of their elders.

Universal compulsory service is a kind of all-encompassing philosophy, the real problem is bothering anybody about the younger generation. Selective service, as they would like it to do, juvenile delinquents would be disciplined. The whole problem of turning young people into adults would become manageable at last. The war between the generations would be settled by putting the younger one away.

This may be unfair to the planners in the government, I hope it is. I hope they will assure us that they have in mind is encouraging and assisting voluntary service.

McNamara Holds Meeting With Officials in Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara had a round of top-level meetings with American officials Monday on the part the United States is playing in the Viet Nam war.

Within an hour of his arrival at Saigon's airport, McNamara met with Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. commander in Viet Nam. Much of the rest of the day was spent in secret intelligence briefings, McNamara's findings on over-all capabilities, concepts and goals of the allies during his four-day visit—his eighth to Viet Nam—were expected to weigh heavily on future U.S. commitments in man, money and matériel.

Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge was host at a private luncheon for McNamara and Nicholas Katzenbach, the newly appointed undersecretary of state who made the trip with McNamara.

The defense secretary is to meet Tuesday with Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and the chief of state, Nguyen Van Thieu. After two days at Saigon, McNamara is to visit U.S. forces near the embattled demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam.

Black Power Called 'Menace' By Negro Leader Randolph

NEW YORK (AP)—Negro leaders in the moderate wing of the civil rights movement say they may soon issue a manifesto disowning proponents of "black power." Confirming that talks with this aim are going on, A. Philip Randolph, president of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, said Monday:

"Black power is a menace to racial peace and prosperity, so Negro who is fighting for civil rights can support black power, which is opposed to civil rights and integration."

Guilt of Contempt

NEW YORK (AP)—Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., was found guilty of willful contempt Monday in a three-year-old libel case against him. The maximum penalty under a jury's verdict is 30 days in jail.

Powell and his lawyers had boycotted the trial in State Supreme Court, claiming the court lacked jurisdiction in the case. The all-white jury's verdict is expected to be appealed on that basis.

McNamara's schedule calls for tours of Maritime unions near Danang and a flight to a Navy carrier off North Viet Nam before he returns to Washington Thursday night.

Reports on the fighting just below the zone—heaviness of the war so far—were studied by McNamara, American sources said. The question of moving U.S. soldiers into the Mekong River delta, now manned almost exclusively by Vietnamese units, did not come up, these sources said.

Katzenbach had a separate meeting with Lodge. He is making his first visit here since moving into the State Department from the post of attorney general.

Some 321,500 U.S. military men are in Viet Nam now and more are on the way. When McNamara was here last November, the roll was about 170,000. The total is expected to be between 350,000 and 450,000 by the end of the year.

McNamara told newsmen on arrival that the United States and South Viet Nam are anxious to assure conditions in the demilitarized zone in which the "International Control Commission can inspect the area and document infringements by the North Vietnamese" of the 1954 Geneva Treaty barring armed activity there.

That was an aim of the United States in halting bombing Sept. 27 of the 26 square miles between Highway 1 and the sea that make up the eastern sector of the zone.

We sailed the seven seas to bring you this swashbuckling new event. What should we call it? SEVEN SEAS.

Weathermen Predict Inez Will Die Out in Mexico

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Hurricane Inez, erratic to the west, the storm that spanned the Texas-Mexico border, is expected to die out in Mexico by Friday, according to the National Hurricane Center.

The hurricane, which struck the Texas coast on Sept. 15, had been downgraded to a Category 1 storm with winds of 75-90 miles per hour. However, as it moved inland, it absorbed moisture from the Gulf of Mexico and Texas, resulting in heavy rains and flash flooding in parts of the state.

Resident F. H. S. S. Dodson, a resident of Brownsville, said he had never seen such a storm in his 50 years in the city. He estimated that 90% of the city was flooded and that many homes and businesses were damaged.

Communication with the National Hurricane Center in Miami, which is responsible for monitoring tropical storms and hurricanes, was lost at times due to the heavy rains and flooding.

Powell Says Vehicle Hearing Will Refute Porcaro's Charges

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Secretary of State Paul Powell said Monday that a transcript of the hearing that took place in Powell's office will be available to the public.

The hearing was held in response to a request from state's attorney's bureau, who wanted to review the transcripts of the hearing to determine if there was sufficient evidence to support Porcaro's charges.

Powell said the hearing was conducted in accordance with the law and that the transcripts would be made available to the public.

Black Charlie's Nephew Killed

FAIRFIELD (AP) — The murder of Leo Bell, 47, nephew of gangland figure Charles (Black Charlie) Harris, was found Monday in his home, Wayne County authorities said.

The Wayne County sheriff's office said Bell died of an apparent self-inflicted gunshot wound. A .16-gauge shotgun was found lying across his pajama-clad body. He had been shot in the head.

Bell's wife, Lucille, found the body at their home, 21/2 miles southeast of Fairfield, after her husband failed to keep an appointment with her.

Bell testified for the state in the trial of his uncle, which ended in Harris' conviction for the 1964 murder-arson deaths of a former girl friend and her male companion.

Home Rule for Washington Defeated

WASHINGTON (AP) — An adjournment-minded Senate refused Monday to block a filibuster that never began, then quietly and quietly stopped a proposal to grant self-government to the District of Columbia.

For the fifth time in the 89th Congress, the Senate refused to invoke its debate-stopping cloture rule — a procedure which requires a two-thirds majority vote.

A 41-37 roll call — 11 votes short — rejected Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's attempt to block in advance a filibuster he said threatened to demoralize the legislative process and was a precedent which would "destroy the Senate."

Center Head Keeps Mum On Boycott

Clarence G. Dougbery, director of the University Center, declined comment Monday on the accuracy or source of the leaflets being distributed at the entrance of the center.

The leaflets, claiming to describe the effects of the attempted student boycott of the center, were being handed out by an independent group of students, according to the student government office.

The figures on the sheet claimed to compare the operation of the center before and after the boycott began. Dougbery said he had no idea where the figures came from.

The leaflets that рецепта for the cafeteria in the center were off 49 percent.

Friday, that the number of meals served fell from 750 to 390 and that the resulting loss totaled nearly $500.

Presenting The Drinking Song for Sprite:
"ROAR, SOFT-DRINK, ROAR!"
(To the tune of "Barbara Fritchie")

Traditionally, a lusty, rousing fight song is performed for every worthy cause and institution.

But we wrote a song for Sprite anyway. We'd like you to sing it while drinking Sprite, though this may cause some choking and coughing. So what? It's all in good fun, and speaking of good things, what about the taste of Sprite? It's good.

Clean. However, good clean things may not exactly be your idea of jollies. In that case, remember that Sprite is also very refreshing. "Fat and tingly," in fact. And very collegiate. And maybe we'll better quit while we're ahead. So here it is. The Drinking Song for Sprite. And if you can get a group together to sing it--we'd be very surprised.

Roar, soft drink, roar!

You're the loudest soft drink we ever saw!

So sing tingly, they couldn't keep you quiet:

The perfect drink, guy.

To sit and think by;

To bring instant refreshment

To any campus riot! Goooooooh-

Roar, soft drink, roar!

Flip your cap, hiss and bubble,

And gasp! Oh we can't think

Of any drink that we would rather sit with:

Or if we feel like loitering

To hang out in the strip with;

Or sleep through English lit with;

Roar! Soft drink! Roar!

SINGING PIANIST EMMIE KEMP

To Appear at Convocations

Emme Kemp, singer-pianist-composer-lyricist, will perform at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Thursday in Shryock Auditorium in the University Convocations Series.

Miss Kemp, who has been described as a "kaleidoscope of color and sound," has had enthusiasm for music since her childhood, and while high school, she played violin and cello.

She has made appearances in supper and nightclubs, concerts and on radio and television.

During her service as a WAC, Miss Kemp received training in choral directing. Her innate "feel" for rhythm transports one into a vibrant world of the "beat," said one critic after hearing her perform.

Backed by a guitarist and a pianist, she will perform selections from "Stop the World," "West Side Story," "Golden Boy" and "Kismet.

Also included will be spirituals and music from the international set.

The University Convocations Series is open to all students. The required attendance for both is six.

A coffee hour will follow the program in the River Rooms of the University Center.

Roger Price, editor of "Grump magazine," will be featured Oct. 20 in the University Convocations Series.

POLICE STOP FIGHT.—University and Carbondale police were needed Saturday to break up a fight which erupted near the end of the SIU-Youngstown football game in McAndrew Stadium. The fight lasted about three minutes. (Photo by Ed Bomberger.)

Police Needed To Break Up Short Fight

A fight which lasted three minutes and involved members of both the SIU and Youngstown University football teams erupted suddenly with about two minutes remaining in Saturday's game here.

A few spectators also joined in before the scrap was broken up by University and Carbondale police.

With 1:50 remaining in the game, SIU scored a touchdown to tie the score, The Salukis then tried an on-side kick with the fight starting on the play. Tempers were short apparently because of the closeness of the game and because of personal fouls called by officials.

The personal fouls included one against SIU for which coach John Fieke was ejected from the game and one against the Youngstown coach for unsportsmanlike conduct.

Hole-in-One Golf Tourney Is Scheduled

A “hole-in-one” golf tournament will be held from 3-5:30 p.m., Wednesday, Thursday, Friday at the SIU Arena and at VTG, Glenn (Abe) Martin, director of intramural athletics, announced.

Martin said each student will use either a 4, 5 or 6 iron to hit five balls from a tee to a hole about 150 yards away. The winner will be the student whose ball comes closest to the hole, said Martin.

Last year’s winner was Frank Schmitz, SIU gymnast, who was killed in a private plane crash last month.

Kickoffs Returned Well

Six collegians ran back kick-offs 100 yards during the 1963 football season. Three others covered 99 yards.
