Jose Limon to Give Concert in Ballet
At SIU Wednesday

The university entertainment and lecture committee is bringing Jose Limon and his company of ballet dancers here to Southern for a concert Wednesday, March 5, at 8 p.m. in Shryock auditorium.

Limon, who was born in Mexico, grew up in California. He began his professional dancing career as a member of the Doris Humphrey-Charles Weidman dance group. As a soloist with the group, he gave performances in such dances as "Candide." "Passacaglia," and "Races of Life."

On Broadway he danced in "Americanization" and "As Someone's Other."

José Limon's teaching career includes Bennington and Sarah Lawrence Colleges, New York University, Columbia University, the University of Pittsburgh, the Universities of California and Connecticut college, where he participates in the American Dance Festival each year.

Last year Limon and his company spent several months in Mexico, producing new works at the Palacio de Belles Artes. Limon and his company make yearly coast-to-coast tours in the United States. Limon's company includes Pauline Koner, former Joos Ballet star Lucas Hoving, Betty Jones, Ruth Currier, and concert pianist Simon Safarle, music director of the company. Arthur director is choreographer Doris Humphrey.

Give Southern Service Awards to Hamp, Trtnaj

Dolores Hamp, senior from Marion, and Ai Trtnaj, senior from Madison, were presented the Service to Southern awards by President D. W. Morris at the conclusion of the Theta Xi Variety Show Wednesday night. The awards were gold watches.

Columbus Boychoir to Present Concert Registration Day

The Columbus Boychoir, an organization of singing boys, will be featured attraction at the next Community Concert here on March 17, registration day for the spring quarter. The concert will be given in Shryock auditorium beginning at 8 p.m. Admission for students will be granted upon the presentation of their activity tickets, and for others upon the presentation of Community Concert tickets.

The Columbus Boychoir is an organization of boys who possess qualifications of musical aptitude and the innate possibility of a good voice for entrance into the Columbus Boychoir School. The boys are accepted without regard to their ability to pay. Requirements are a natural voice, musical aptitude and willingness to work.

Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America said, "Their choral work is really outstanding and easily superior to any comparable group I have ever heard."

AL TRTNAJ, who was presented the Service to Southern award for men at the conclusion of the Theta Xi Variety show, Trtnaj, senior from Madison, has been president of the Theta Xi fraternity during the past year.
The Last Word

Traditionally, the retiring editor writes the "-30-" mark on his college journalistic efforts with the last Egyptian of his year in office. The regret we feel in leaving the Egyptian is tempered by the knowledge that we are leaving it in very capable hands.

At this time we would like to say that we have enjoyed meeting and working with so many of you during the past year. Best wishes to you all.-V.M.

Semesters for Southern—Yes or No?

On spring term registration day, Southern students will once again experience the many forms necessary for finding in a new series of courses. That day, an additional form will be handed to all students by Student Council members—this form will be a student opinion poll questionnaire on the subject of the adoption of the semester plan for SIU.

The Student Council is conducting the poll in an effort to aid the administration in finding out if the semester plan would be suitable in this school.

Perhaps the results of this single questionnaire will change the entire future of the university. If such a plan were to be adopted by Southern, each and every student (with the exception of those who graduate this year) would be affected.

Thus, the filling out of this questionnaire on registration day is worthy of more than a few hurried chicken tracks. Every student who has a future at the university must seriously consider this one of the most important issues that can affect any person's personal welfare or career

The Egyptian is not interested in taking a stand on the issue as yet, but it is interested in seeing that the problem is given proper attention by the student body.

1. The benefit of those who did not read the arguments for and against the semester plan as they appeared in the last issue, the Egyptian is reprinting the arguments as follows:

ARGUMENTS FOR THE SEMESTER PLAN:

1. Time spent in registration and on final examinations is less, since both occasions would be held only twice in a regular school year in place of three times in a year.

2. There would be less confusion in subject matter since courses are not spread as long and stopped as often.

3. In those cases in which the present four or five hour courses are changed to three semester hours, the student will have more time to get a better grasp of the same subject material.

4. It provides a student teaching plan which is more in co-ordination with elementary and secondary schools, which are on the semester basis.

5. It allows more time for students to meet requirements within the course, such as term papers, observations, reports, etc.

6. Most colleges and universities are on the semester basis, thus transfer to another college or university would be less difficult.

7. It would give a student a full year to prove his ability before or after he is placed on probation.

8. There would probably be very few fifteen semester hour courses, thus classes would meet every day in the week.

9. Towards the end of the fall term final exams immediately after Thanksgiving vacation and you wish to change a course, however, you must have your advisor's approval. Be sure that you have been given the correct class' card for each course. Check to be sure that your card has your name, the number, and section are MACHINE PRINTED (not by hand written) on the class card. In the event that you have not received your class card, you should ask your advisor and secure his signature on your work sheet before you sign the class card. Students obtain work sheets from the Dean of the Graduate School, and obtain signatures on all your required courses from that source. They sign the back of the card. You should turn in for all your classes and get your schedule in the timetable office before or after he is placed on probation. hour classes, scheduling difficulties may arise

ARGUMENTS FOR THE QUARTER PLAN:

1. It would be difficult to change credits, loads, class schedules, etc., to fit the semester plan.

2. The quarter system increases opportunity for rapid progress of students since they may graduate at three times during the year, thus in place of three courses in two years.

3. The quarter system provides greater variety in subject matter and instructors during the year.

4. The quarter system provides better opportunity for students to change their majors.

5. Under the semester plan, there will be many more than three courses to consider, thus the average student will have to carry more courses at one time.

6. In the event that most courses will be three semester hour classes, scheduling difficulties may arise if some Tuesday classes are not scheduled.

7. It is easier for students to finance school for three months at a time rather than for four and a half months.

Coleman Enters Naperville Meet

Southern's track distance star, Phil Coleman, will enter the two-mile race in the North Central Athletic Indoor meet at Naperville Saturday, Coach Leland (Doc) Johnson has announced. He is the favorite in two events.

Defending meet champion is Bob Kelly of Lovelace University of Chicago. Kelly set a new meet record for the two mile last year in 9:42. Coleman holds the SIU record of 9:44.2, but that of course was on an outdoor track.

Coleman and Kelly met once before, that was in the Chicago Lovelace cross country invitational last November when Coleman finished ahead of Kelly in the three and a half mile run.

It will be offered at 11 a.m. on Wednesdays and Fridays during the course term.

Oldfield Coaches Illini's Bredar On Cage Techniques

A Southern Illinois University student with coaching ambitions is gaining first-hand experience as a personal coach for a University of Illinois basketball player.

Jim (Barney) Oldfield, an English major and physical education minor at SIU, first got acquainted with Jim Bredar when Bredar was a promising high school star three years ago. Oldfield is from Centralia and Bredar from nearby Salem.

OLDFIELD KNEW that Bredar, a center in high school, would have to learn a guard's game because of his small stature to play college ball. "My idea was to build Jim a game, modeled after the style of play used at Illinois," Oldfield told him tips on how he might improve and then left it up to him which ones to choose.

Oldfield started out in college studying geology but decided on a career partly through his friendship with Stan Chagnon, Jr., son of the Mt. Vernon high school coach. Never an athlete himself, Oldfield made up for it by seeing every game and reading every book on basketball techniques he could find and by studying movies of games in years for hours at a stretch.

OLDFIELD BELIEVES one of his greatest aids to Bredar was in helping him standardize his playing style. "I studied Jim's game, saw what he did easily and what some of his shortcomings were. Then we would work together, going through step-by-step, the kind of ball he wanted to play. We worked particularly on shooting and on the necessary footwork and taking him to have to learn to get easier shots." Oldfield worked out in detail 15 distinct steps of both hands and nearly 20 steps in getting off a running jump shot.

He would go through his shooting form slowly and over and over until he could do it without thinking, Oldfield had stressed on perfecting Bredar's long, hard-to-block jump-shot that has helped make him one of the Illini's most valuable players, despite his comparatively small size for college ball.

MOST OF THEIR practicing was done in the summer time. "I would drive over to Salem two or three times a week and Jim would come to Centralia once or twice a week," Oldfield explained. Often they worked together with Harvey Welch, former Centralia high school star now playing at Southern. In addition to summer workouts, Oldfield makes frequent trips to Champaign and Bredar often sends postcards telling Oldfield of his newest accomplishments.
