Phys Ed Majors To Hear Address

Thomas Kirk Cureton Jr., a noted physical education professor, will address students majoring in physical education at 10 a.m. today.

Cureton, described as "one of the most prominent persons in the history of physical education" by Edward J. Sheb, chairman of the Department of Physical Education for men at Southern, will report on the physical fitness status of American youth and adults in his talk at the SIU Arena.

Cureton, professor of physical education at the University of Illinois and major advisor in the school's Ph.D. program in physical education, has attended clinics in 200 cities in nine countries representing the President's Council on Physical Fitness.

At noon he will be a guest at a University Center lunchen to be attended by Dean Elmer J. Clark of the College of Education and members of both the men's and women's physical education staffs.

At 2:30 p.m. he will give a special clinical demonstration of exercises on the world's tourney of the SIU Arena.

Cureton, who has conducted research projects at a half dozen Olympic games, is the author of 40 books and 400 articles about sports and physical education. He has sponsored 40 master's theses and 50 doctoral dissertations.

The meeting, open to interested persons, will begin at 8 p.m. in the Seminar Room of the Agriculture Building. Boudart will discuss the topic, "Forty Years of Active Centers," dealing with what are described as "sites of catalytic action at solid surfaces."

A native of Brussels, Belgium, Boudart did his early study at the University of Louvain and then came to America where he obtained his doctorate from Princeton.

"What We Are For" U. S. Backs World Change, Former Head of USIA Says

By Ric Cox

The need for the United States to convey to the rest of the world "what we are for" was emphasized to a freshman convocation audience Thursday by Arthur Larson, a State Department consultant.

"What we are for," Larson said, "is an active force for change in the world."

Larson, formerly director of the U.S. Information Agency, said that among the foremost misconceptions about the United States is that it opposes change.

"To many people, Communism seems to be the active force and the United States appears as the counter force," Larson said.

He disagrees with those who would contend that the American system is too complicate to explain and contends that the United States needs to formulate a definite policy that would explain its principles.

Larson's idea of such a policy would be one that emphasizes the feeling of identification between the country and the rest of the world.

"We're not trying to get them to love us, but we need to discover our common elements and make the most of them," he said.

His problem is that we consider ourselves doers instead of explainers," and we have taken it for granted that our motives are obvious," Larson said.

"What we are for," he said, "is a demand for the green "spirit of the world, but the supply has long since run out. A spokesman for the art supply store said that they plan to paint the tournament scoreboards on their window in an attempt to revive some spirit, green hats to sell or give.

A spokesman for the Pawn Shop, another concern who did a brisk business in the "Green for Go" rush, said that demand for green hats and horns was slacking but wasn't sure if this indicated a slowing down of spirit or that everyone now had hats.

"If spirit is going down," he said, "something should be done about it. The spirit is down at Austin, Texas, but" he must be a work dropout.

It was once said that "Drink is the curse of the working class," to which Oscar Wilde countered, "Work is the curse of the drinking class."

At SIU the watchword seems to be simply "drink," and drink we do.

On campus alone, the students, faculty and staff manage to down liquid refreshments at the rate of 268,000 cups, bottles and glasses a month.

This figure does not take into account all of the types of drinks purchased off campus.

Karl Snepp, manager of the food service at the University Center, reports that the center serves 53,500 drinks per week. These are the over-the-counter sales and do not include the vending machines.

Coffee takes the honors as the biggest seller at 19,000 cups per week, followed closely by milk at 16,300 glasses every week.

The remaining numbers are distributed among fruit drink, ice tea, decaffeinated coffee, hot tea, hot chocolate and fountain drinks.

Neil L. Dillard of Auxiliary Enterprises reports that the vending machines on campus dispense 54,300 drinks per month. This includes both the bottle and cup machines.

Now that spring is almost upon us, one might think that both the center and the vending machine operation will gear up for warm weather. But strangely enough this is not the case. The students are very consistent drinkers. There is no great seasonal turnover.

Snepp said the food service buys on a day-to-day or week-to-week basis and that their turnover is very gradual.

Dillard says that one of the peaks for the vending machines is in May. This could be attributed to the warm weather. But the other high month for sales is October.

How is this explained? It isn't. Possibly the students have more money in October than in any other month, or maybe it's the influx of freshmen, or maybe everybody is simply thirstier.

Those that want something hot to drink usually go to the center. Hot drinks are not big sellers in the vending machines.

If the average drink is about eight ounces, then in the course of a nine-month school year more than 150,849 gallons of refreshment are consumed on campus alone.

If you add in the off-campus housing, restaurants, stores, shops, and bars then this figure could possibly be doubled or tripled.

On the Cambodian Plan

by Joe K. Beer

I would like to take this opportunity, in Ka, to make a few observations.* In a plan for student government at Southern Illinois University, the Cambodian Campus Student Council recently recommended to the Ad Hoc Committee on Student Government. Partly this is herein said appeared in my article on Monday's edition of the Thompson Point Poem.

The plan proposes four areas which are to be considered of a university-wide nature. In these four areas the University Student Council would have the right to refuse to serve in no other student government office. In conclusion, I would like to say that it appears to me that this plan is an "I would resist on the part of the Cambodian Campus Student Council to the American Student Government. It appears to be a reactionary endeavor to rerun the "good old days" when the Campus Student Council was sovereign in this matter. I would support the Ad Hoc Committee to reject the plan of the Council and the hope that it is not too late to make such a recommendation.

A Reply to the Cambodian Ambassador

In the March 3 issue of Ka, I noticed a letter from the Cambodian Student to the Model United Nations. This letter indicated that the student body in refuting to receive as a member the "People's Republic of China" as a part of the United Nations. I believe the letter was written by the student who is interested in the Cambodian Student Council, and is an attempt to circumvent the spirit, if not the letter of the new resolution. I am afraid that this is an attempt to change the resolution and the spirit of the new resolution in a way that I disagree. I am afraid that this is an attempt to make the Cambodian Student Council a body that is not the true Cambodian Student Council in clear contradiction to the intent of the new resolution of the University Student Council.

Another interesting part of the resolution is the approval with representation on the University Student Council. First, the plan recommends that the President and Vice-President of the University student body serve as two of that campus representatives on the University Student Council. The remaining three representatives will be elected by the Campus Student Council, from among its membership. This is a good step, which would indicate that the president of the University student body is interested in the campus. Each campus should be elected by an at-large election, and the number of representatives should be during their term of office to serve in no other student government office.

The Word, Southern Style

by D.O. Volente

Book X

And the faithful will recall that last week, the tale was told of the arrival of Sheba Bird and her husband, King Solomon. Many gifts bore she, among them gold, frankincense, and myrrh. But when King Solomon accepted these with abundance, it angered the queen. But, more was yet to flow from the cornucopia—Sheba Bird and her husband knew what was coming. (XXXVI - XXIV - XXXVII, (Cube, this is it.) And King Solomon saw the queen's joy at such a sight, and spake thus to the queen: "Wholly, call them the Angel Flight.

Then it was that Sheba un­ happily and herself sighed, and King Solomon said, "This is almost as good as the Congolese plan;" section of The Word has been based on "Hertz, as has "Pogo."

And as the climax, Sheba made her way to the Lord of the Ganges. In her father's war (in peace) she is contradicted to the feeling of her countrymen, she is crowned by the nation that, in accordance to the nation which, by virtue of her initiation of military action, cannot be called "peace-loving." The Chinese Communists (via their North Vietnamese pro­ lots) excluded themselves from qualification as a peace­

loving nation on the first occasion they crossed the border into South Viet Nam. The Cambodian Student Council, I believe, is a body that is not the true Cambodian Student Council, from among its membership. Each campus should be elected by an at-large election, and the number of representatives should be during their term of office to serve in no other student government office. Thirty-one graduate students selected to work on doctorates in 17 states, and from Australia, Canada, New Zealand and India have been accepted for doctoral assistantships at Southern Illinois University.

David T. Kenney, acting dean of the Graduate School, said this two-year program, in which selected students at SIU may work toward their Ph.D. degrees, has been in effect at Southern for the past five years. The program is designed, he said, to encourage first-class students with master's degrees.

The students selected will work on doctorates in higher education, zoology, English, chemistry, botany, speech, philosophy, economics, journalism, sociology, geography and anthropology. Sitlupends received by the assistants vary according to the departments in which they will work.

The following is the list of students, the subject of doctoral study chosen for each from which each received his master's degree:

How to Get Grants

Educational Bureau Aids Researchers

The Educational Research Bureau now can provide researchers with information on obtaining grant funds for educational research projects. This and other available services have been listed by Robert J. Kibler, head of the bureau, which is a unit of the College of Education.

Other functions announced by Kibler to SIU faculty members and regional school administrators and teachers include:

- Originating, conducting and reporting on educational research projects at SIU and in the Southern Illinois area.
- Collecting and disseminating information about educational research needs, opportunities, and findings.
- Providing counseling service, at present on a limited basis, for SIU faculty, students, and to educators in Southern Illinois regarding formulation of research projects, research planning, collecting and analyzing data, and preparing reports.

Providing an opportunity for staff and students at SIU to learn about and engage in educational research.

The bureau will meet in Room 223, Wham Education Building.

Kibler also announced the bureau in sponsoring a series of educational research seminars to inform the staff and graduate students about educational research projects conducted by the SIU faculty and give faculty members the opportunity to report on their research projects.

First of the series was March 3, when Charles V. Mathews, associate professor of delinquency study on the SIU Edwardsville campus, was the speaker. Thomas E. Jordan, chairman of the Department of Guidance, will speak on "The Developmental Basis of Learning Disability" at 4 p.m., March 17 in the faculty lounge, Wham Building.

California Regents in Special Session

BERKELY, Calif. (AP)—The University of California at Berkeley, shaken for six months by student disorders, faculty dissension and administrative temporizing, confronts a showdown Saturday at a special meeting of the Board of Regents.

Chairman Edward W. Carter late Thursday summoned the 26-member board into an emergency session Saturday afternoon "to discuss appropriate control of student conduct" and "problems relating to principal university officers."

At the same time a top California legislator called the present campus situation "a state of anarchy."

President Clark Kerr, who presides over the university's nine campuses, and Berkeley Chancellor Martin Meyerson resigned Tuesday in a statewide argument over discipline in student demonstrations at Berkeley. They made their resignations effective at the next regular meeting of the regents, scheduled for March 25-26.

At a news conference in the state capital at Sacramento with Hugh M. Burns, Senate president pro tem, said: "There is no discipline at UC. They are running loose. Disciplinary action must be taken now."

He was referring to discipline against three students who were among nine persons arrested on the Berkeley campus last week for publicly displaying or speaking a four-letter sex word, commonly scrawled on public lavatory walls.

Spectators Applaud
Stratton Is Found Innocent Of Tax Evasion Charges

CHICAGO (AP)—A beaming, silver-haired William G. Stratton, former two-term Republican governor of Illinois, was acquitted of federal income tax evasion today amid applause of courtroom spectators.

The issue resolved by a jury of six men and six women before Judge Hubert L. Will in U.S. District Court was whether Stratton failed to report taxable income of $83,000 during his second term, 1957-1960, the prosecution said he evaded nearly $41,000 in taxes.

Stratton, 51, contended that wherever income he didn't report came from political campaign contributions and was therefore untaxable. He was supported during the two-month trial by top Republican leaders of Illinois including U.S. Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, who appeared as his witnesses.

Dirksen, the minority leader of the Senate, was a telling factor for the defense when he asserted his opinion on the nature of political contributions:

"I think it is a matter of donative intent," he asserted.

"If he (the donor) places no interdiction has been placed on their expenditures, then the recipient is free to use them as he sees fit. It's a matter of individual judgment."

He cited an opinion on use restrictions on them, then the recipient is free to use them as he sees fit. It's a matter of individual judgment.

2 U.S. Planes Lost in Action Over Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The United States lost two aircraft Thursday in support of government's campaign against Viet Cong battalions infesting the central highlands.

A U.S. Air Force B57 Canberra jet bomber crashed from an undetermined cause in Binh Dinh Province, about 260 miles north of Saigon, after loosing the jettied gasoline, called napalm, on a guerrilla target area.

The two crewmen were reported to have bailed out. Ground patrols and airmen hunted them.

Farther north, a U.S. Marine helicopter crashed and burned on a supply mission, presumably from Viet Cong fire. Four crewmen were injured. Three were moved to the field hospital at Nha Trang and the fourth to Da Nang.

Da Nang is the site of the Maritime-guarded airbase from which U.S. Air Force F100 and F105 jet fighters-bombers now are making almost daily forays against Communist bases and supply lines through eastern Laos.

Viet Cong Units Reported On Riase

WASHINGTON (AP)—Increasing concentration of enemy battle units in South Viet Nam was reported Thursday with hints that the United States may apply more pressure on the Viet Cong and their North Vietnamese partner.

Not only have more Red battalions been observed in the north and central portions of South Viet Nam over the last two or three months, but increasing numbers of soldiers who are natives of Red North Viet Nam have been found among prisoners captured from Viet Cong outfits.

What these developments might portend so official here would say.

But the official U.S. position on South Viet Nam was restated Thursday by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara in testimony before the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Investigation of Police Brutality Is Under Way in Alabama

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach pledged Thursday swift federal prosecution of Alabama police officers responsible for Sunday's violence against marching Negroes in Selma, Ala., and said he will submit to President Johnson on Friday a draft of a message to Congress urging new legislation to secure voting rights for all Americans.

Katzenbach, 43, said his department is working around the clock to bring charges against local law enforcement officers he said are responsible for Sunday's bloodshed in Selma.

He said there may be as many as 100 state and local police involved and he doubts that it would be possible to implicate all in charges violating the marchers' constitutional guarantees.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A youthful band of civil rights demonstrators spent seven hours sitting in a White House hallway Thursday, demanding a talk with President Johnson. Police took them away at nightfall.

Four boys and eight girls, nine of them Negroes and three white, staged the demonstration after walking into the White House amid a stream of late-morning tourists. They told them the rest of the day camped in a basement corridor, threatening to stay there and stage a hunger strike until they saw Johnson and presented a demand for federal intervention in Selma, Ala.

Shortly after 6 p.m., unmarked police cars rolled out from the iron-fenced White House grounds, carrying the demonstrators. As they went, two girls in one of the cars stuck their heads out the windows.

King Asks Judge For March Permit

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. took his spreading Negro voter registration movement to Alabama's State Capitol Thursday and told the judge that unless his people could march, a racial explosion would result.

King said he led a massive street march in Selma two days ago in the face of a court ban ordering an end to the march. He said his people would not be deterred.

King himself was on Capitol Hill when the final march came, helping to dedicate a gymnasiuim in the new Rayburn House Office Building.

Outside the White House, meanwhile, Negro pickets caught in a swirl of self-styled storm troopers of the American Nazi party. A shoving match broke out after a Negro tore from a Nazi automobile a sign reading “Who Needs Niggers?”

Athlete Disciplined for Dorm Fight

A judicial board's fear of intimidation by a student involved in a fist fight at Thompson Point resulted in the student's being placed on disciplinary probation for the fight.

A spokesman for the Office of the Dean of Students said the student involved in the incident from Berkley Heights, N. J. had provoked the incident at Decatur, also was reprimanded.

The spokesman said the judicial board of the dormitory where the fight occurred could have taken action in the case, but that it "was afraid" of the senior, a member of the SIU football team.

Is Chivalry Chilling?

SIU Coeds Freeze and Frown
When Sir Galahads Go Gallant

By Ron Geskey

Chivalry is dead.

Let's face facts. The Sir Walter Raleigh's, the Cyrano de Bergerac's—in all their gentlemanly glory—are gone.

And so are the fair damsels they were trying to impress.

What happens when you try to make the grand gesture in this day and age?

For several days I tried to find out. I held open as many doors as humanly possible, lit cigarettes, pulled chairs out—even going out of my way to do so.

I'm sure most males even with moderate manners have held a door open for a "lady in distress" at least once. And what happens?

She rushes by with nary a "thank you," followed by several of her "feminine" colleagues. And there you wait. The door is open, people are rushing through, and the only way to get to class yourself is to let the door slam in somebody's face.

Girls expect this type of gallant treatment, but when they are too wrapped up in themselves or where they are going to class themselves or where they are going to class, they are the impolite ones.

As I held the door open for one girl, she smiled graciously—and then asked me if I was from the South. I smiled right back, and said no. She walked off in wondering. Talk about ethnocentrism.

And when you really want to feel like an idiot, try getting up before 8 o'clock in the morning, coffee, walking a few tables down the row, and pulling a chair cut for a girl. Granted, you've never seen her before—and in all likelihood you'll never see her again—even if you wanted to.

Escaping without an umbrella best over your head might be quite an achievement. An icy "thank you" or an equally frigid "I can manage myself" are examples of the gratitude most often shown.

But you always get that glare like you're some kind of nut, or a masher looking for a date that weekend. Or giggles—some girls like to giggle.

It's feminine, you know.

Lighting cigarettes is not quite so hazardous, but not without an air of coolness even doing that. A feeble "thank you" or a nod is about all you can expect. And always there is a look of suspicion.

One girl even went so far as to look up, except for a brief glance, when I was three inches from her nose.

Invariably, girls accuse the typical college male of being an insconsiderate, unmannerly slob. And well be might be, but I think some of our little critical feminies ought to re-examine their own manners. If they're going to criticise, that is.

Work Office Honor Roll Cites 107 SIU Workers With 4.25

The Student Work Office has cited 107 student workers, out of a total of 3,000, for their ability to work 120 hours or more per month as well as earning at least a 4.25 grade average last fall quarter.

According to Frank C. Adams, director of the Student Work Program, in addition to recognizing the achievements of these students the "Student Work Office Honor Roll" also helps to show prospective students attending SIU that a student can earn a good deal of his school money while maintaining an academic average to excel academically at the same time.

The 107 students on the list, their high schools and parents, are:
- Donald J. Karsen, General Library, Michael C. Coyle, Physical Education.
- Sherry J. Davis, Disbursements.
- Jerry J. Davis, Southern Acres Cafeteria.
- Stephen D. Edwards, Registrar.
- Roger J. Ellithorpe, Thompson Point.

Key to SIU Team Efforts
Gail Daley and Irene Haworth to Compete
In National Collegiate Gymnastics Meet
By Joe Cook
Although both girls are just freshmen, they are no strangers to SIU's gymnastics page. Both competed on the team last year while just seniors at Carbondale Community High School.
Miss Daley and Miss Haworth, who are both from Sackville, Sask., have been competing against each other since they were both 10.
Miss Daley, only 18, has won numerous championships. Besides being the only woman on Canada's Olympic Gymnastics Team, which earned for her Canada's "women athlete of the year award," she is currently the No. 1 ranked all-around performer on Vogel's team.
She also accomplished include three-time national all-around championship in Canada, and participation in the World Games in 1962 and the Pan American Games in 1963. In both games she competed for Canada.
Miss Haworth is also 18 and has also distinguished herself in gymnastics. She, like Daley, competed for Canada in the World Games in 1962 and the Pan American Games in 1963. She is currently the second ranked Canadian all-around performer.
"Miss Haworth is the most improved performer on the team," Vogel said. "She was the sixth ranked performer on the team last year, but is currently battling Donna Schaefer for the second spot behind Miss Daley."
The three all-around American women performers will be featured in the next issue.
 Theta Sigma Phi
Initiates 3 Coeds
Theta Sigma Phi, national honorary fraternity for women in journalism, recently initiated three women students.
Those initiated included Leonor O. Wall, Carbondale; Charlotte K. Thompson, Mount Vernon; and Beatrice Y. Allen, Carolina. The group also pledged two students, Jo Ann Pennington, Carbondale; and Jill G. Schmidt, Chicago.

Five Salukis to Race Top Collegiate Stars

A five-man SU track contingent goes against the best collegiate stars in the nation today at Saturday's conference, and is competing in the first NCAA indoor championships at Detroit, Michigan.

More than 360 athletes from 84 schools have entered the competition along with the Salukis at Cobo Arena on a brand new $30,000 expenditure.

SU will have only two entries in the big meet—hill-Cornell and its speedy mile contingent goes against the best in the nation. Only the University of Illinois with a 3:15.2 effort has a better time.

The Saluki best effort came a month ago in the Michigan State Relays when the Robin Lingle, Lingle has a 2:08:9 this season while Cornell's best was 2:09.6 in the Central Collegiate Championships last weekend.

The two distance aces have tagged each other. Lingle won the duel edging Cornell in the Milwaukee Invitational Meet last weekend. Harzog said Cornell looked like he would be in the thick of things in Saturday afternoon's finals.

Cornell's mile relay quartet will have the second best time in the nation. The team includes 12 of the fastest teams in the nation. Only the University of Illinois with a 3:56.4 effort has a better time.

The time stood as the best in the country and in the world until the Illinois Illini team set a world record this week and appears to set to go.

"They're in better shape than last week," Harzog said.

It's Mad, Mad, Mad World

When Evansville Plays Host

By Bob Reincke

If you don't like basketball, this Saturday is a day to stay out of Evansville this time of year. The Indiana City is getting a double dose of both basketball right now.

Hundreds of college students have poured into town to cheer their teams on in the Big Ten Conference Basketball Finals, and the usual fanatic throng of basketball fans is in hand to add to the chaos. No city outdo Evansville when it comes to basketball enthusiasm. The fans say they tried to build a town the basketball world can be proud of, and this seems to be the case.

The followers of the Aces jam into the 13,000-seat stadium, the stadium is packed to the rafters, the crowd is electric. The fans have never had a complete waterfront unless it consists of two or more red margens. It is a fairly quiet town until late fall, when the basketball enthusiasm begins. Then all through the winter, send the select group through a light workout this morning and then let them jog on the hill-Cornell track later this afternoon in preparation for to-night's qualifications.

If Cornell and the relay team survive tonight's dust, they'll be back into action Sunday afternoon at 2:30 in the finals, Villanova, Oklahoma State, Ohio State, Wisconsin, and Michigan, besides the Illini, appear to be the big stumbling blocks in the Saluki relay's way.

Cornell's chief competition in the 1,000 yards is expected to come from Missouri's Robin Lingle. Lingle has posted a 2:08.9 this season while Cornell's best was 2:09.6 in the Central Collegiate Championships last weekend.

Schollander Wins Grand Award of Sports for 1964

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Schollander, 18-year-old winner of four Olympic gold medals in swimming, was selected Wednesday night for the first "Grand Award of Sports." The presentation of a 15-inch bronze and gold figure to the last from Lake Oswego, Ore., was made by Col. John Glenn, the former astronaut, in a national television show by ABC.

Schollander, who was re-elected in January as the "Male Athlete of the Year" for the 1959, in the Associated Press' 36th annual poll, was chosen in the final poll of 14 votes over Jimmy Brown of the Cleveland Browns, who last season was Olympic running champion Peter Snell of New Zealand, 20, Bill Bradley, Princeton's All-America basketballer, 14, and Notre Dame quarterback John Huarte, 7.

A computer was supposed to dig up the results of former selections and write out the name of the winner of the overall "Grand Award of Sports."

Distributes Booklets

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — The Evansville College Purple Aces, a small-time basketball team that plays like it belongs in the big time, is trying to prove a point.

Could an NCAA college division team stand a chance against the NCAA university bracket?

This probably will never be decided, but the Aces stack up as one of the best of them all. And their Little All-America players, Jerry Sloan and Larry Humes, could play with any team in the country.

The Aces have been No. 1 in the Associated Press college poll all season, and they carry a 37-0 record into the semifinals of the NCAA college division tourney Thursday night against unranked St. Michael's of Winoski, Vt.

The Aces are bidding for their second straight NCAA college championship and an unprecedented fourth in the tournament which started here in 1957.

They also won in 1960 and 1959.

Wesley Foundation Distributes Booklets

The Wesley Foundation at SIU has mailed 9,000 copies of a Lenten devotional booklet to families in Methodist churches in Illinois for use during Lent.

The Rev. Ronald Seibert, Foundation director, said the Lenten devotional booklet is an annual service project of the Methodist students at SIU.

Each devotional includes a suggested Bible reading, a short personal testimony or discussion, and a prayer.

Students planning the booklet chose the words of the Rev. Francis J. Gillespie, Artletta Nobbe of Staunton, Ray Lenzi of Farmington, Janie Meador of Lake, Sherrie McMeen of Pontiac and Jane Eubanks of Shawneetown. A former member of the Wesley Foundation, Archie Scott of Springfield, designed the cover.

Humes scored 30 points and Sloan 27 in a 92-76 victory over 10th-ranked Philadelphia Textile in the quarter-finals Wednesday night. The card drew a crowd of 9,866 at Robert's Stadium, and all attendance records for the tournament are expected to fall before the windup Friday night.

THE GREAT DEBATE — Students continued to plan the Lenten devotional Area of the University Center Thursday to debate the U.S. policy in South Viet Nam. The table was set up by the SUI chapter of the Student Peace Union to distribute literature urging the U.S. to negotiate a settlement in South Viet Nam. Students have been debating the issue, informally but often heatedly, for two days.

Mowry to Speak At Rutgers Meeting

James B. Mowry, superintendent of the Illinois Horticultural Experiment Station at SIU, will present a paper on the "Problems of Peach Varieties in the Breeding Objectives in the Midwest" at the National Peach Conference. Rutgers University in New Brunswick will host the meeting Thursday and Friday.

Mowry came to SIU in 1951 to head the experiment station when it was moved to Carbondale from Olney, to be operated by SIU and the University of Illinois.
