Legal Question Raised on '66 Election

By David E. Marshall

A peaceful political coup—unrecognized by most Carbondale citizens—may have taken place here when the form of government was changed in 1966.

A question centers on the change to city government from the old, commissioner form to the present manager-council form.

Was the change legal?

Recent investigation shows that the basis for calling the election may not have adhered strictly to state law.

However, it doesn't seem to disturb the citizenry nor those concerned specifically with questions of legality.

The coup was the product of the past City Council which accepted the advice of the Corporation Counsel E. Edward Helton.

The people were permitted to voice their approval and the change was made.

Helton said he gave his advice after consulting Waldo Ackerman, a representative of the Municipal League, whose office is in Springfield.

Former Mayor D. Blaney Miller said the idea for the change originated with the former council which called the referendum election and made the changes.

M. M. Sappenfield and John H. Baker, associate professors in SIU's Department of Government, said that the change raises several academic questions.

Was the referendum election called in accordance with Illinois State Municipal Statutes? If not, why not?

According to the municipal codes, a city with a population of less than 500,000 a change in the form of government must be initiated by a petition to the Circuit Court.

But there was no petition.

After receiving the petition, the court is then directed to schedule a hearing on the sufficiency for an election. That is, if the petition contains sufficient names to warrant an election.

The hearing must be called for not less than 10 days nor more than 30 days after the petition is received.

After the hearing, the court must set a date for the election not less than 30 days nor more than 120 days from the date of the petition.

Baker says this procedure is in line with the codes of most states. "Usually specified here as such," he said, "are called after the petition is received by the Circuit Court, County Court or by a Board of Supervisors or Commissions.

Helton, who at that time was legal counsel to the City Council, was instructed by the council to draw up an ordinance calling for the election.

After checking with the Municipal League, he did.

The ordinance, number 1326, established the election for May 24, 1966.

The voters answered the proposition: "Shall the City of Carbondale, Illinois, adopt the Managerial form of municipal government?"

The results were 1,901 affirmative votes and 959 negative votes. There were 54 spoiled ballots.

Two days later Mayor Miller issued a proclamation that themanagerial form of government was officially adopted.

At this point another question arises: What would happen now if a committee of citizens attempted to instigate a suit on the grounds that the election did not conform to the state statutes?

Most of the principal legal persons involved in the change were interviewed. All agreed that the Circuit Court would uphold the new system as a de facto government.

Sappenfield and Baker said they both are of the opinion the Circuit Court favor a suit contest then a regional state representative could get legislation through the General Assembly quickly to substantiate the election and proclamation.

Sappenfield believes the Circuit Court would uphold the new manager-government of Carbondale.

"I'm sure the court would rule the change as within normal procedures. The election was passed," he said.

The petition method of changing the form of municipal government is provided in the state statutes to permit any citizen to investigate a change when the council is opposed or divided on the issue, Sappenfield said.

Delay of Footbridge

Blamed on 'Red Tape'

"A pile of red tape" has delayed the long-delayed beginning of construction of a footbridge over the IC railroad tracks at U.S. 51 and Harwood Avenue, according to an official at the company which contracted to do the work.

Gus Bode

A representative of the Simons Construction Co., De- catur, told the Daily Egyptian Thursday that construction has been held up by the IC office and the Highway Department approved the project's plans.

"The railroad required that we include protective glass reflector screens on the portion of the overpass crossing their tracks," the office said.

He said inclusion of this provision in the plans accounted for the major portion of the delay.

The final set of plans was submitted to John Longeron, associate professor of architecture, earlier this week, the official said.

He said all remains before construction can begin is the form of the bridge and approval from Longeron was out of town Thursday and unavailable for comment.

An announcement from the architect's office, Sept. 20, said construction would begin within two or three weeks.

Gus says it really is necessary to use a computer to house up the University.

The Chamber of Commerce-sponsored Housing Study Committee took its first step last night at tackling local problems arising from SIU's current housing and motor vehicle regulations.

At an organizational meeting Thursday night, the newly formed committee agreed its first move would be to send a letter to SIU President De- pepper and the other members of the committee's plans for the study.

The committee is the offspring of President Morris' request to local leaders that the Chamber of Commerce conduct an independent survey on the effects of SIU rules on the local community.

In the letter, which will be drafted this week, the committee is expected to inform Morris of the policy as well as the administration of University housing and motor vehicle rules should be included in the study.

Ch. Helton, President Ber- hard Ross, who met with Morris when the request for a study was brought to the committee members that the president wanted to look not only into the impact of the policies, but the policy surrounding them.

"If we can't review the Board of Trustees regulations, " Committee Chairman Sidney Schen said, "we're wasting our time."

Ross and the other members of the committee agreed that in order to look in at inequities in the administration of University regulations, the present administrative structure must be studied.

The letter will also include sample questionnaires which the committee plans to distribute to students, faculty members, parents, local businessmen and property owners.

In addition the letter will ask Morris if University funds would be made available to conduct the study.

Presently the committee is operating with operating funds.

The purpose of the letter, Schen explained, is to solicit President Morris' opinion on the scope of the committee's study. "I want to know how to agree to the spirit of the study," said one committee member.

Schen would not speculate as to whether the committee would be working under Morris' ground rules. "We want to see how Morrise feels about the procedures," he said.

Restaurant Owner Complains

Meeting on Beer License Refused

A Carbondale restaurant owner who was denied a beer license has charged that he was refused a meeting with the advisory committee on beer licenses.

Dan Irwin, owner of the Sir-Loon Room in the Campus Shopping Center, said that he was not granted the meeting before it made its license recommendations Wednesday to Mayor David Keene.

Irwin said Mayor David Keene had okayed the meeting with the committee. Since the state regulation does not forbid beer to be sold within 1,500 feet of the nearest classroom of a state university, Irwin said, he was seeking a chance to plead his case before the committee.

According to Mayor Keene, Irwin only "thought" he was to have an opportunity to go before the committee. Keene said that "the committee does not want people pleading their cases."

The mayor said he has been "more than satisfied" with the work the committee has been doing. He went on to say that although the state regulation does not forbid the sale of beer within 1,500 feet of the university, the committee has advised that licensees not be given to such establishments.

Irwin has applied for a beer license three times and was refused twice. After the second refusal he went to State's Attorney, Richard Richmond of Murphysboro who got a ruling from the Attorney General of Illinois. The ruling handed down, according to Irwin, said that the city attorney's office interpreted the law wrong in disallowing him a beer license.

The owner then reapplied for a license and was awaiting its committee's decision when the recommendations were submitted to the mayor.

Peace Committee

To Walk for Dead

The Southern Illinois Peace Committee will walk Sunday to mourn the dead in Vietnam.

William Moffitt, chairman for the Peace Committee, said that Richard Wilburney, Carbondale director of public safety, has approved a walk from Grand Avenue to Main Street to mourn the men and women who have died in the Vietnam conflict.

Moffitt said the walk will begin at 2 p.m. "The walkers will gather on the Morris Library lawn and will proceed down Grand Avenue to Main Street. They will then return to the campus and congregate at the arena forum."

At the arena the walkers will be entertained during a "musical happening," according to Moffitt.

Conditions for the walk, according to Moffitt, include no obstructions of traffic or pedestrians. Walkers will walk only on sidewalks -- two abreast. No signs or insignias will be displayed and there is to be no noise. If the walkers will be led by local clergymen, Moffitt said.

"This is not intended to be a protest march," Moffitt said. "only to mourn those who have died in Vietnam."

Letters to the Editor

Housing Needs Changes

To the Editor:

After reading David Marshall's editorial in the Daily Egyptian entitled "Approved Housing May Be Only A Fleabag," I felt I had to comment.

Mr. Marshall stated that something should be done about the deplorable housing conditions and I heartily agree. My first year at SIU, with its single room, was terrible. The eleven bedroom condition house held 28 girls, four two-person rooms and seven four-person rooms.

The rooms housed one bed per person with two 12-inch drawers, half of a desk, and 22 inches of closet space for each. The bathrooms (combined) consisted of five showers, washbasin, and toilet. By spring term one washbasin had fallen off the wall and only one toilet and one sink was in working order.

The rooms rested for approximately $95 a quarter (for the four-person rooms) and $120 a quarter (for the two-person rooms). This price included "cooking privileges" which consisted of one eating table and four chairs (for about 28 girls), two stoves (only one worked) and the pilot-light kept going out sending gas fumes throughout the house.

This price was more than the basement-study area, four refrigerators (two in working condition, but only one had a listen which closed tightly) and one sink (inner which the the sewer backed up). What did I live there? Because there was nothing else available. There were worse places, and all of them "approved." Approved for what? I've known of nice, clean housing not approved because there weren't two main exits in case of fire.

Well, there weren't two main exits where I lived, and that was "approved." I stood and watched one cardboard house of approximately three or four apartments in a row and all the time taking the students' belonging with it. Oh, it had two main exits, but it was so run down that the fire leveled the ground taking the students' belongings with it. The fire didn't even burn the wood floors. It is a sad thing that these decisions lifted under the University, and the fellows on the board...but that is all.

Congratulations From Without

To the Editor:

Congratulations to you, the University, and the fellows on the Daily Egyptian for its undying coverage on the housing story in your issue on September 21.

I am so glad that you give you and the administration some anxious moments, but students aren't the only ones. We won't waste the professionalism of journalism and certainly other media to prove responsibility that a real journalist must have if the student presses the newspaper covers up stories like this.

Students are politically and surely by example. Certainly every one of your students-- and the university--will re-approve this example for a long time, in another sense congratulate you and the University for understanding that a story like this is really enlightened public relations. It puts the students and faculty on notice, and with that it is no longer necessary to get attention: The students have already seen a hearing for any valid problem even a story critical of the University. It promotes the image of a University that seeks the truth, even when the truth hurts a little.

I see a tremendous image, and this is the beginning of your relation. You and the University are keen to recognize it. All this is such good public relations, it is surprising and said that most university officials have never tried to kill a story like this.

Congratulations, You can be proud of the Daily Egyptian, and of the University--and of the job that both are doing.

Is Free School Worthwhile?

To the Editor:

Why is my student activity fee being used to finance the programs of certain radical, left wing fanatic revolutionaries?

Stuart Sweetow and his associates in the Free School have been trying to get the student activities fee money to finance their crazy programs for years.

It's a fact that the student activities fee gives them the money to carry on the Free School. They have always used this money for their own pet projects and programs.

For instance, the Free School was a camp for the revolutionaries, then it was a movement for democracy, and now it is a camp for the revolutionaries again.

The Free School is to be a haven for the revolutionaries, then it is a haven for the students, then it is a haven for all students, then it is a haven for revolutionaries, then it is a haven for the students, and now it is a haven for revolutionaries again.

I am sure that stories about the Free School have been printed in the Daily Egyptian, but I am sure that I am not the only one that is tired of hearing about it all the time.

The Free School is to be a haven for everyone, then it is a haven for the students, then it is a haven for revolutionaries, then it is a haven for the students, then it is a haven for revolutionaries again.

But even though the Free School is to be a haven for everyone, the Free School is not going to be a haven for everyone, the Free School is going to be a haven for revolutionaries, the Free School is going to be a haven for the students, the Free School is going to be a haven for revolutionaries again, and the Free School is going to be a haven for the students again.

But even though the Free School is to be a haven for everyone, the Free School is not going to be a haven for everyone, the Free School is going to be a haven for revolutionaries, the Free School is going to be a haven for the students, the Free School is going to be a haven for revolutionaries again, and the Free School is going to be a haven for the students again.

But even though the Free School is to be a haven for everyone, the Free School is not going to be a haven for everyone, the Free School is going to be a haven for revolutionaries, the Free School is going to be a haven for the students, the Free School is going to be a haven for revolutionaries again, and the Free School is going to be a haven for the students again.

But even though the Free School is to be a haven for everyone, the Free School is not going to be a haven for everyone, the Free School is going to be a haven for revolutionaries, the Free School is going to be a haven for the students, the Free School is going to be a haven for revolutionaries again, and the Free School is going to be a haven for the students again.

Middle East Conflict

A New Year, An Old Problem

By Anetro Pietila

The unmusical sound of shofar, a ram's horn, was the world's most beautiful music for Israelis last week as the country celebrated Rosh HaShanah in Jerusalem. The Jewish New Year, in Cairo, was marked by Arab slippery tactics. The year 1965 saw the birth of a new superpower in the Middle East: Egypt. The Israelis know this, too. So as the Middle East talks are deadlocked and as Jews prepare for the festival of Yom Kippur this Friday, it is hard to say which group is more eager, reading Deuteronomy 30:19 (reproduced in Hebrew the heading): "I, and none shall make them afraid."

Israel, on the other hand, has taken new steps toward the establishment of her rule in the new territories. Palestinian-born sabra youth have been rebuilding the kibbutzim (collective farms) in the West Bank, Beit Ha'arava (Jordanian frontier-Dead Sea); and Anbaysa (Israeli side of the frontier with Syria). Officials in Jerusalem have underlined that this rebuilding has nothing to do with the status of the new territories. However, it is becoming clear for everyone who has seen frontier kibbutzim, which in fact are effective military strongholds, is clear that Israelis hardly are rebuilding them just to hear grass growing. And if one recalls the public opinion in Tel Aviv and Jerusalem in the past war days, it seems undeniable that no longer the status of those territories remains dim, the bigger the possibility that Arab Jews may settle there.

In the barren desert of Sinai, Israelis captured a major part of Egypt's petroleum wells. There has been sardonically little talk about that oil and 6-cylinder, when asked by this writer why there was no effort to extinguish the sabotaged oil tanks, tried to ensure that the Israelis could not care less about that oil.

For a nation whose annual oil production has for years stayed at 200,000 metric tons, additional (approx.) 1,200,000 metric tons, for military reasons alone, this cannot be of minor importance. The Israelis know this, the Arabs know this, too. So as the Middle East talks are deadlocked and as Jews prepare for the festival of Yom Kippur this Friday, it is hard to say which group is more eager, reading Deuteronomy 30:19 (reproduced in Hebrew the heading): "I, and none shall make them afraid."

Unrest in Greece

The Cost May Be Liberty

Robin Moore, author of "The Green Berets," is playing a small role in a movie based on his book and directed by John Wayne "so that he can write magazine articles about Israel," as Chicago Daily News puts it. In the same paper (Panorama, Oct. 7) Moore reveals his philosophy on the Vietnam war to Joseph Hask. As his is a new upheawkhish dimension to the Domino theory, it is worth quoting:

"Each time we retreat, Mao will follow us. If we retreat from Vietnam, he will follow us through Cambodia, through Laos, through Thailand, through the Pacific, Japan, the Philippines, to Central America.

"We'll have to fight China someday, so let's spare our grandchildren that war. Do it now, while we can win. My personal fear is that Russia will do nothing if we fight China, except to let us know where to drop bombs on China where they will do the most good.

"We can win in Vietnam, no doubt about it. Let our men make an Inchon-type landing in North Vietnam, establish enclaves, bomb Hanoi, and Hanoi. I don't think China will make a noise if we do these things."

Bruce Barnes, co-owner of the Logan House in Murphysboro, said Wednesday he will lease the entire first floor of the hotel to “graduate and senior students only,” beginning winter quarter.

“At the present, I don’t plan on renting to anyone under 21 years old,” said Barnes. “With the bar here, I don’t want any underage students getting involved in liquor charges.”

Only the first floor of the hotel has been approved by the University housing officials. The first floor is directly above the bar and dining room area. There is also a bar in the basement.

Barnes, who along with Everett Jefferson, purchased the Logan House four months ago, said the second floor of the hotel would remain closed.

According to Dennis Balsam, off-campus housing administrator, the second floor of the hotel would require extensive remodeling before being accepted as approved University housing.

“I don’t know what we’re going to do with the second floor at this time, said Barnes, “but if we remodeled, it probably won’t be in the near future.”

The dining room and bar areas will remain open to the public, but none of the hotel rooms will be available to overnight guests.

All the student rooms are air-conditioned and contain television sets, desks, and private baths and other furniture.

Barnes, an SIU junior, said five students are currently living at the hotel.

Rusk Attacks War Critics

WASHINGTON (AP)—Abandoning his usual calm, Secretary of State Dean Rusk turned vigorously Thursday on critics of the administration’s Vietnam policy—particularly Sen. J.W. Fulbright.

“I would say that it is not true,” Rusk said of one contention by the Arkansas Democrat and a supporter of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that the United States is not really trying very hard to get the United Nations into a Vietnam peacemaking role.

Rusk said the Communists are barring a U.N. role and that Hanoi is not interested in negotiating. Nonetheless, Rusk pronounced himself “encouraged by progress toward peace in South Vietnam” through military operations, pacification and internal political advances.

The secretary of state fired defensive volleys in an unusually long new conference—nearly an hour—beginning with a prepared 900-word “brief comment on the current public discussion of Vietnam.”

Steel Truckers’ Strike Settlement in Doubt

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Attempts to end a violent strike of steel truck drivers in seven eastern states staggered toward collapse Thursday.

Walter Mantho, a spokesman for the 68,000-strong National Steel Carriers Association, said: “Proposed settlement is ‘not worth the paper it’s written on.’ We will meet Friday to take a decision, but I’m sure it will not be accepted.”

Robert Exzer, speaking for 80 steel hauling firms in the Pittsburgh area, said the drivers will have to compromise on an agreement drafted by a seven-state mediation panel. “Tuesday or face the prospect of a long strike,” he said.

But the drivers didn’t seem in a mood for compromise.

Russian Youths to Get Military Training

MOSCOW (AP) -- The Soviet Parliament (Supreme Soviet) unanimously passed Thursday a new draft law starting military training at 16 after Defense Minister Andrei A. Grechko charged the United States is "stepping up military preparations" against this country.

The new law also reduces the regular draft age from 19 to 18 and cuts the length of service for ordinary draftees from 3 to 2 years.

Marshel Grechko said the shortened period of service made it necessary to give boys still in school two years of part-time military training. The Soviet Union had not previously involved schoolboys in its defense program since World War II.

Parliament passed the draft law at the end of a three-day session during which it also approved a 13 per cent increase in the published defense budget. That will be $18.56 billion in 1968.

The marshal described to parliament a world in which the United States and other "imperialist powers" are threatening communism and risking the outbreak of another world war.

He accused the United States of using a "screen of talk on peace and cooperation" while in fact "creating dangerous hotbeds in various parts of the world."

The defense minister maintained that Washington is increasingly escalating the war in Vietnam and backing Israel, which he blamed for the Middle East war and its troubled aftermath.

Grechko warned that this had "aggravated the international situation" and is "increasing the danger of a new world war."

The defense minister assured parliament that the Soviet armed forces are ready for any contingency. He said they have "Everything needed to discharge their duty in defense of the homeland."

Grechko boasted of increases in the mechanization and fire-power of regular troops. He stressed that strategic rocket units and aircraft defense units have "colonial" and "incomparable" power.

This appeared to be a warning to the United States that its cities could be blasted in case of another world war, while targets in this country would be protected.

The marshal noted that true Communists "have never been pacifists, they have always supported just wars."

The new draft law is the first general overhaul of the Soviet military service system since 1939.

A shortening of the period of service had been predicted because of the baby boom which started after World War II. This is providing extensive manpower now for the Soviet armed forces to draw on.

The reintroduction of schoolboy training came as a surprise. Grechko's speech indicated the Kremlin considers the international situation too tense to introduce the shorter period of service without offsetting that somehow.

Another sign of this thinking appeared to be the decision to keep officers on active duty longer so as not to waste valuable military experience.

Scheduling Changes, Signs Affect Campus Bus Service

Changes in the present bus service time schedule will go into effect starting Monday morning.

According to Don Ball, campus bus supervisor, new bus signs are now being installed to indicate where students will be picked up and let off.

Red and green buses will arrive at all Group Housing buildings five minutes earlier to enable students to get to class on time.

The red bus will then continue on to Old Main Gate, Old Main Gate, and back to the University Center. The green bus will go to the Technology Building and then back to the center.

The new arrival time at South Wall Street and College St. will be on the half hour for both red and blue buses, then again at 48 minutes after the hour the blue bus will arrive. After pickup these buses will go directly to the Center.

The green bus will now arrive at the Quadrangles at 18 minutes after the hour, and arrive at Oak St. and Poplar, the Northwest section of Carbondale, at 32 minutes after the hour.

Changes in night and Saturday schedules are as follows: one bus will run five minutes past the hour, from 505 to 1005, it will service the Northeast section of Carbondale starting at Danny St., then over to University City, Southern Hills, the Quadrangles and back to the center.

At 34 minutes past the hour it will again leave to serve Small Group Housing and the Northwest section of Carbondale.

All changes mentioned above will be posted by next week in the glass case of the University Center across the hall from the Information Desk.

45 Future Home Economics Instructors Start Area Work

Seven of the 45 home economics teachers-to-be who are signed up for student teaching this year have started their assignments in area high schools, according to Anna Carol Fults, Department of Home Economics chairman.

Each senior in the department is required to spend nine weeks actually teaching full-time in a public school home economics department under supervision of a professional teacher. The student lives in the community in which she teaches and participates in school and community activities.

The first two weeks of each quarter, the student teachers spend full-time preparing lesson plans which they will use, and after completing the teaching assignment they spend the final two weeks evaluating and reporting on their experience.

Students on teaching assignments this fall are:
- Herma Barclay of Chicago at Carbondale Community High School, supervised by Mrs. Arnolia Boone.
- Suzuko Mita of Tokyo, Japan at Carbondale Community High School, supervised by Mrs. Alma Todd.
- Martha Beggs of Joppa, at Waterloo, supervised by Mrs. Violet Kuecker.

Oxford, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi coach John Vaught said Wednesday Alabama gained 38 of the 42 yards in its first touchdown drive against the Rebels from illegal formations.

The Ole Miss coach said he can not accept Paul "Bear" Bryant's claim that he didn't know the plays were illegal.

"I have no idea why he made such a statement," said Vaught in a telephone interview with the Associated Press.

"I'm not accusing Alabama of cheating," added Vaught, whose team was beaten 21-7 last Saturday at Birmingham, Ala., in a nationally televised game.

"I'm not accusing Bryant of anything. But I want very badly for people to know about this."

Bryant disclosed Tuesday he had been advised that his team used an illegal formation..."that each time we were into an unbalanced line or had two tight ends in the game at the same time, . . . we were unknowingly using an illegal formation."

Vaught, who is a member of the NCAA's Football Rules Committee said the illegal formation resulted from a violation of a new rule "put in making it mandatory that the five interior linemen be numbered 50 through 79 for the purpose of being able to detect the tackle eligible play."

"And we had an interpretation of that rule, which means that a tackle can be eligible only if he is not out-flanked by anyone."

Vaught said he himself discussed this rule, as a member of the rules committee, at the Southeastern Conference's annual meeting in New Orleans last winter. Bryant attended the annual meeting.

"The Bear denies his knowledge of this rule," continued Vaught. "The game officials did not call the violation but Vaught said he didn't think "an official should suspect" an intentional violation."

"Bear told me he was sorry, that he didn't know the plays were illegal," said Vaught. "I cannot accept that."

NEW YORK (AP) — No. 1 rankings were made to be punctured and so the number comes up this week for mighty Southern California.

Notre Dame, knocked off the pedestal itself by Purdue two weeks ago, gets a chance to return to the plateau in kind and does. And No. 2 Purdue gets caught in the same avalanche.

Notre Dame 18, Southern California 14: Even the biting memory of last year's 31-0 defeat fails to generate enough fire for the Trojans.

Ohio State 10, Purdue 8: Woody Hayes will have his Buckeyes clawing dirt in the Big Ten opener at Columbus. The Ohioans, like Cornels, this is the one that sends every red-blooded Texan and Oklahomans into orbit—The Longhorns through habit.

Syracuse 23, Navy 20: The Midshipmen should appreciate this. They've fooled us all season.

Southern Methodist 19, Army 10: Remember halfback Inez Perez? He should find Jerry Lovins a good target, although Army is favored. UCLA 25, California 7:

Tennis Tournament

The Intramural tennis tournament will be held next week and is open to both men and women.

Pairings for the tournament will be determined Monday at 9 a.m., in the Intramural Athletic Office at the Arena. Anyone interested in competing in the tournament should sign up at the office before noon Saturday. Participants should then return to the office Monday to find out their opponents. All matches must be completed within 48 hours after that time.

The Intramural Department will furnish all officials for the tournament.

Tommy Prothro's athletes wake up from last week's siesta.

North Carolina State 20, Maryland 0: Middle guard Terry Brookshire and his mates provide a defensive wall of pure pigiron.

Air Force 10, North Carolina 7: The Tarheels will need extra oxygen and extra punch at Colorado Springs.

Georgia 18, Mississippi 8: The Bulldogs may well be the best team in the Southeastern Conference.

Princeton 28, Cornell 21: The cold guys like Cornellers; three but they haven't seen Bob Salad, a left-handed, ball-faking Houdini as Tide quarterbacks.

Tennessee 10, Georgia Tech 7: One of the most any the battles of the day but don't look for too much scoring.

Don't just sit there, Wallace Middendorp.

Make a noise. Or drink Sprite, the noisy soft drink.

What did you do when Joe (Kingfish) Brackenlaj was kicked off the football team just because he flushed six out of four of his majors? What did you do, Wallace Middendorp? Let the school newspaper's editors try to protest because The Chancellor wouldn't allow the publication of certain malicious portion of "High in a Girl's Dormitory" you just sat, didn't you? You made a mockery of your life, Wallace Middendorp! You're a vegetable.

Protest, Wallace Middendorp. The boys in blue need a noise. Or drink Sprite, the noisy soft drink. That's all.

Open a bottle of Sprite at each and every momement. Let it rim and bubble to the men.

Let its tiny carbonation shock the heroes of the day. Let the little, tiny bubbles infect the great air molecules.

BOSTON (AP) — Beautiful!

That was the word heard coming from the St. Louis clubhouse Thursday when the Cardinals celebrated their 7-2 victory over Boston in the seventh and decisive game of the World Series.

Dal Maxwell, whose triple started the Redbird scoring, sipped champagne and said: "When we get the hammer on a ball club, we're going to win most of the time."

The National League

champions got the hammer on the Red Sox with two runs in the third inning. Big Bob Gibson, who got the third and what proved to be the final out, ran for home with a self with a home run at the flagpole in left center field.

The pitcher, who erased a 38-year-old record when he slapped second in the ninth inning, said he was aware that he could set a record. "When you can do that, you try if you get the chance," he said.

"Boo kept bouncing back in the Series," Brock explained. "He must win today."

We have a pressure game since July 24 when Chicago briefly tied the Cards for the National League lead. Brock said. "This is the first time since then that we had a must win situation."

Julian Javier, the St. Louis second baseman, put the team out of reach with a homer to left field in the sixth inning, knocking in three runs. "I wasn't trying to hit the ball that far," said Javier, who hit it and went up there," Javier said that had the Reds' big two-bag—Orlando Cedeno and Tim McClellan—had not batted in the series, "we could have beat them in five games."

"But we win like this all year—someone picks up the slack elsewhere," Javier explained.

Red Schoendienst, who has had a solid championship tie in his third season as manager, said he never was close to taking Gibson out of the game.

"But if he had walked Ken Harrelson in the ninth, I would have seriously considered it," Schoendienst said. Harrelson hit into a double play and Gibson struck out George Scott to end the game.

"He was great," Schoendienst continued, "and I had Nelson to come in and do a good job in the bullpen. Gibson wasn't as sharp this time as in the first game—but he didn't have to be."

When asked what he said to the team before the game, the St. Louis skipper replied: "Nothing. I gave the ball to Gibson."

Schoendienst said that he felt the difference between the two clubs was pitching. "Good pitching will beat good hitting every time," he said.

Maxvill, who made the final out in the 1964 World Series in which Cards beat the Yankees, was asked if he wanted to make the final out this time. Maxvill thought a minute and said: "I think I wanted it. I didn't think like it did—Bob Gibson striking out the last batter."

North Carolina's Brookside

Named Grid Lineman of Week

By The Associated Press

Sports Writer

Terry Brookville gave little thought to his performance before last Saturday's football game against Houston, but both he and the Cougars are looking back on it now with pleasure, the Cougars with anguish.

The 5-foot-10, 210-pound middle guard snared North Carolina's defense that led the Wolfpack to a 16-6 upset over Houston, then the top-seeded ranked college football team.

One of his tackles caused a fumble that opened the way to a field goal. He blocked an extra point attempt and made it all tackles as State stopped Houston's 40-point game offensive machine.

For his performance, Brookville has been selected as the Associated Press College Football Lineman of the Week.

"I didn't think anything about my performance before the game," said the 22-year-old senior, "but I realized afterward that I had a pretty good game. I was in on more tackles than usual for a lineman."
Committee to Send Letter

Although the committee plans to look into the entire realm of housing and motor vehicle problems, there were indications during the meeting that the committee would pay particular attention to financial problems resulting from low-occupancy of off-campus housing.

Ross told the committee that the Chamber of Commerce "basically represents businesses interested," emphasizing that his organization is "considerably concerned over low occupancy in local off-campus dormitories" and "the financial strains some businessmen are in because of vacant dorms." Ross pointed out that because some local businessmen were having difficulty repaying building loans, the "entire credit of the community" has been jeopardized.

According to Schoen, the date of the committee's next meeting will not be set until Morris replies to the committee's letter.
