SIU’s ‘unique role’ key to budget

By David C. Miller Jr.
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Convincing the Governor, the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) and the General Assembly that SIU holds a unique educational role is the key to SIU’s being budgeted at the appropriate level of importance, said State Sen. Kenneth V. Buzbee.

Buzbee, D-Carbondale, admitted getting funds restored to SIU’s 1974-75 budget is “a real long shot.” But long-term funding to permit SIU to maintain its educational and service roles hinges on publicity of SIU’s “uniqueness,” he stressed in an interview Saturday.

Buzbee said he will meet with Gov. Dan Walker in the next few weeks to tell Walker “the whole SIU story.” Since the governor makes initial budget priorities, Buzbee explained SIU’s special situation and educational role may not be recognized, and it may take budgetary “allowances” for SIU.

IBHE’s “considered abandonment” of SIU’s area service roles (under phase I of the master development plan) must be reversed, Buzbee said.

“No other University-served area has the same need of services like Southern Illinois does,” he continued. The IBHE and Walker do not know of SIU’s effects on the area’s economy, the University’s cultural impact and the various programs which have helped “hundreds of little towns over the years,” Buzbee said.

Having SIU granted the same area service mission under an uncompleted phase four of SIU’s master plan is one of the goals of Buzbee’s recently formed Save SIU Committee. The committee is composed of campus constituencies and area businessmen.

The committee is giving “serious consideration” to having a “Thank You, SIU” dinner to play up SIU’s position in Southern Illinois, Buzbee said. Walker and IBHE officials would be among those invited.

A “Southern Declaration” would be read at the dinner, to be held near the end of the quarter, Buzbee said. This testimonial would contain endorsements of SIU from area city councilmen and chambers of commerce, professional associations and other groups, he explained.

“There are more things to a university than just generating credit-hours...and especially this University,” Buzbee said. Once state officials come to understand the importance of SIU to the area they may, be persuaded to budget SIU to continue these programs, he said.

The programs include those by SIU’s Community Development Services, which was hard hit by IBHE’s proposal to cut $2.7 million from SIU’s 1974-75 budget. Ten area consultants in the service’s “shop service” unit were terminated.

SIU may have special problems, Buzbee said, but the governor is aware of them. Buzbee referred to Walker’s statements last year calling for SIU to be the “second jewel” in the crown of Illinois higher education.

“I intend to remind the governor of that,” Buzbee said.

The Save SIU Committee’s goals include reinstating area services, but Buzbee said the committee has not discussed the 104 terminations...While necessary to retain personnel to offer the services, Buzbee said he can “only assume they’re (SIU-C administration) thinking about going a different route.”

“There are a lot of recipients of the good things this University can do,” Buzbee said. Additionally, he added, area legislators are all convinced of SIU’s uniqueness. These supports, as well as those from other groups, add to Buzbee’s optimism about successfully pleading SIU’s case to Walker.

Voter drive set for SIU Wednesday

By Randall R. von Lisky
Daily Egyptian Special Writer

A voter registration drive will begin Wednesday at the Student Center and continue through Saturday.

The drive is being conducted by the Jackson County clerk’s office and Student Government. The master development plan will be conducted between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. in Activities Room C, 3rd floor.

Persons must register to vote before Feb. 19 in order to be eligible to cast ballots in the March 19 state Democratic or Republican primary election, April 2 county board election, and April 13 school board elections.

To be eligible to register, a person must be a U.S. citizen 18 or older on or before March 19, and have lived in Illinois 30 days.

Bill Wesley, executive assistant to Student Government Vice President Jim Rasia, urged students to register in Jackson County “because they live here nine months out of the year.” A lot of things that go on in county and city government effect them, Wesley said.

He stressed that the purpose of the drive was to not only register students but also to encourage potential voters. County Clerk Delmar Ward estimated that 2,000 to 2,500 students registered to vote here during the last drive before the 1972 election. Wesley said he expected to have reached this time that he also stressed that the drive is being conducted on a “non-partisan” basis.

Under a new state law, voters may declare their party affiliation at the time they vote by simply asking for aRepublican or aDemocrat ballot. However, Wesley said, voters must declare for one of the parties since crossover voting is not allowed.

The exception to this procedure will be in the referendum on consolidation of Jackson County townships. Voters may cast a ballot in the referendum without declaring a party affiliation if the promoters of the drive is that the March 19 election falls on the last day of the term funding to permit SIU to maintain its educational and service roles hinges on publicity of SIU’s “uniqueness,” he stressed in an interview Saturday.

A breather

Police forget to begin ticketing non-registered bikes as planned

By David Kernblith
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Bicyclers who have failed to register their two-wheelers got a breather Monday as Carbondale police forgot to issue tickets. Larry Hill of the police department said.

Carbondale police were supposed to have started issuing tickets starting Monday morning but because of a failure in communications at the station they did not start until 5 p.m., Hill said.

The city police have registered 2,311 bikes since the registration drive began in early January, Jim Rossiter of the Carbondale police reported.

Siu police have registered more than 1,600 bikes since the drive began, said Mike Nixonton of the security office.

“People will start coming in to register when the word gets around that tickets are being issued,” Rossiter said. Forty bikes which is considered a large amount were registered Monday. People were afraid of being ticketed, he added.

The registration program was implemented to cut down on the number of stolen bikes and facilitate in the recovery of bikes that are stolen, according to police.

Serial, license plate and tag numbers are issued to each registrant, Rossiter said. If a bike is stolen and found, it can be returned to the owner by looking up the name corresponding with the numbers.

If police are suspicious that somebody is riding stolen bike they run a manual check to see if the bike is hot, Rossiter said. A policeman can go headquarters where all names and numbers of registrants are located, and determine who owns what.

Serial numbers and descriptions of stolen bikes valued not more than $150 are relayed to computers in Washington called the fingerprint determination system. If a bike is stolen, the information is sent from Carbondale on one of two computer terminals located at the Carbondale Police Station or the SIU campus.

Once the computer has determined where the bike was stolen from, officers work to determine the whereabouts of the stolen bike, Rossiter said.

When the owner of the bike is told that his vehicle has been found he can retrieve the bike if he has not received
Derge leases Maverick to conserve fuel

By Leah Yates
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Consequences of the energy crisis recently showed up at SIU when President David R. Derge started driving a leased pastel blue Maverick compact and parked his University-owned Oldsmobile 98 sedan at the physical plant.

Though Derge is driving a compact, other administrators are still wheeling standard-size Fords, said Harry Wirth, director of Transit Services.

The compact car Derge is driving is the first for the SIU fleet. Orders were submitted the last of December to lease three compact cars, which are scheduled to be in operation before the start of March.

The transit service has also submitted orders to buy three compact cars and three mini-compact cars. These mini-compact cars would include Gremlin, Pinion, and Vegas.

"These small cars are special program to determine the feasibility of entering them into the fleet. If they work out, more small cars will gradually be entered into the fleet," Wirth said.

SIU's "fleet" of vehicles, all cars and trucks owned by the University, is 431 at the closest estimate, Wirth said.

The price of gas the University must purchase to operate the vehicles has risen 40 cents per gallon over the cost of gas at the start of fall quarter, Wirth said.

He said another reason for leasing the smaller cars was that leased cars can be put into operation faster than buying cars. There are fewer time-consuming procedures involved, he said.

"In operating the smaller cars, we are making an effort to minimize our energy consumption," Wirth said.

In cooperating with the national effort, Wirth said stickers were installed in the windows of each University automobile about six weeks ago.

The red and white stickers say, "Drivers of this vehicle: In cooperation with the national effort to conserve energy, trips in this vehicle will be kept to a minimum and spaced to a maximum of 56 m.p.h." It is signed by Derge and contains the SIU emblem.

Constitution is approved by feminists

By Delby Rasterman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Feminists at SIU met for the second time Monday night and voted to call their group the Feminist Action Coalition (FAC).

The group also approved a constitution to be presented at the Student Senate meeting Wednesday. The FAC hopes to be recognized by the Senate as an official campus organization.

The 20 women present voted not to have a president or vice president. Instead, FAC will have a rotating chairman so that "a different member leads each meeting," a treasurer and secretary will be chosen each term.

"A rotating leader divides the power equally among the group," one woman said. "When you have only one president, it becomes an ego trip for that person. With rotation, we'll all feel the pressure but we'll all feel the gratification.

Another woman said, "It's in the tradition of feminism theory to have a collective group in which we share responsibility.

Other women said, "It'll give the group more solidarity," and, "We can get the best out of every person in the group.

The FAC constitution says the group will reaffirm the search for a public way to realize women's full potential. It was created to foster a heightened sense of women's identity and self-awareness, to encourage the open sharing of women's experiences, and to provide an atmosphere that will invest women with confidence and a sense of purpose.

Recommends executive session

Ervin says Watergate investigation complete

By Dan Hall
Associated Press Writer

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — U.S. Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. said Monday that the Watergate investigation by his select committee is complete except for "one or two aspects.

Ervin said he would recommend that the committee go into executive session to explore Republican campaign contributions involving milk dealers and presidential friend Charles "Bebe" Rebozo.

A U.S. District Court ruling against the committee's request for five presidential tapes is "extremely unfortunate," the North Carolina Democrat said.

"The tapes we are asking for are tapes between President Nixon and John Dean in which Dean and President Nixon knew of the break-in and concealed it," Ervin said.

"Ervin said the tapes were the only way to prove that Dean and Nixon knew of the break-in and concealed it.

The senator, visiting Yale University, said further action by the committee would depend on the outcome of the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment investigation and other proceedings, including court action.

Ervin's committee, which has requested 500 tapes from the White House, would eventually make them public if they gained access to them, he said a news conference.

Service stations in nation's capital, 4 other states begin gas rationing

By Dudley Lebow
Associated Press Writer

Service stations in the nation's capital and four states started rationing gasoline Oregon-style Monday. Pennsylvania will go to a similar plan later this week, sources said.

Motorists appeared to be adapting well to rationing plans launched in Washington, Massachusetts, New Jersey and the District of Columbia. But New York State had a few problems.

"We were exactly the way they were last week — about 65 cars long," said Mike Savage, an attendant at an Albany, N.Y., Mobil station. "I'm not going to stand out there and direct traffic. If he wants to do it, he should make it a law," he said of Gov. Malcolm Wilson and the state's voluntary plan.

The rationing plan is mandatory in

New Jersey and Hawaii.

The plan originated in Oregon. It restricts gasoline sales on even-numbered days to motorists whose license plates end in even-numbered digits, and vice versa. Generally, motorists whose plates bear letters instead of digits can get gasoline on odd days and out-of-state motorists are exempted.

Maryland will be the next state to implement gas rationing. The odd-even plan goes into effect there Tuesday. And sources said Gov. Milton Shapp of Pennsylvania was set to announce he had approved rationing and it would become effective later this week.

A check of 65 stations across Massachusetts found the usual long lines of gas-hungry motorists cut about in half. Supplies continued to be a problem. In Fitchfield, only one of five stations surveyed was selling gas.

Most Massachusetts station operators were turning away people with even-numbered plates. Some said they were selling 31 worth of gasoline to even-numbered cars if they were almost empty.

The weather:

Mostly sunny

Tuesday: Mostly sunny and warm with the high temperature in the upper 40s to lower 50s. Precipitation probabilities will be slight 1006 cent. The wind will be from the W at 12-13 mph. Relative humidity 896 cent.

Wednesday: Partly cloudy. High temperature in the middle 30s. Probability for precipitation will be increasing also to 78 per cent by tonight.

Monday's high on campus 40, 4 p.m., low 26, 4 a.m.

DE writer learns a few 'hard' facts on horse transfer

By Eric Schuster
Student Writer

Since my experience with horses was limited to watching "Mr. Ed" reruns on television, I accepted an invitation to a horse show Saturday afternoon in the last weekend with some misgivings.

Several persons warned me that it would be cold, that I wouldn't get sore, or that my noble steed might try to throw me. Though it was cold and I was sore the next day, I managed to stay on the horse and enjoy some beautiful scenery about Carbondale and the Little Grassly Outdoor Laboratory.

The occasion was the transfer of 19 University-owned horses from the SIU Saluki Stables, which will be officially closed on Feb. 10. The stables have operated at a deficit since their establishment in 1969. The move to the Outdoor Laboratory is a compromise between completely phasing out the stables or leaving the stables open.

Volunteers from the Saluki Saddle Club and this reluctant reporter rode the horses to their new home on Saturday.

The riders gathered at the stables, located one mile west of campus on Chautauqua Road, in the first light of a December morning. The horses were shaved and saddled as they marched on their breakfast of hay. Then we bridled the horses and led them from their stalls to a corral where last-minute adjustments of stirrups, clothing and backpacks were made.

Some of the riders' spirits were as low as the 20-degree temperatures.

The Saluki Stables have been a unique feature of SIU since they were established in 1969. For many SIU students, the stables represented the only practical place to board a horse. They were close to campus, provided full-time supervision and were comparatively inexpensive. Some students will be forced to sell their horses with the closing of the stables.

But when the clouds broke up and the sun came out, most of the riders forgot the problems and enjoyed the ride.

The caravan of horses must have conjured up images of a cavalry unit moving across the Southern Illinois terrain to the local residents-who witnessed parts of the journey from their cars or front porches. The route began on the old stable trails to McLaugherty Lane, then followed Pleasant Hill Road across Route 51 to Springer Ridge Road, and out to the Little Grassly Outdoor Laboratory, 12 miles from Carbondale.

Jack Leggett, director of the Outdoor Laboratory, called it "Touch of Nature." Said Leggett, the horses would be completed by the middle of March. A total of 20 elected officers are Darlene Cipich, president; Lyn Fleetwood, vice president; Chris Curtis, secretary, and Rich Lange, public relations director.

The proposal from the Saluki Saddle Club and this reluctant reporter rode the horses to their new home on Saturday.

Police forget unregistered bike ticketing

SIU police will not start issuing tickets until next Monday Norrington said. The become effective Jan. 1, police have a chance to have plenty of time to register.

A ticket from the Carbondale police will carry a fine of $5 for unregistered bikes and $1 for the current University regulation on safety.

SIU police also will chain up any bike that is unregistered, Norrington said. Attached to the Security Office's chain will be a note notifying the owner to come into office, pay the fine and register the bike. Carbondale police said they have no provisions for impounding.

Council discusses bond payoff reduction plan

By Dan Haar
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Carbondale City Council members discussed a proposal Monday night which would decrease the overall cost of paying back revenue bonds for city water and sewer projects.

The proposal from UMIC, Inc., a finance corporation from Memphis, Tenn., would provide the city with a discussed proposal Monday night which would decrease the overall cost of paying back revenue bonds for city water and sewer projects.

The proposal from UMIC, Inc., a finance corporation from Memphis, Tenn., would provide the city with a detailed refunding schedule.

Under the schedule, a $30 million bond issue would be held and invested. The profits from the investments would be utilized to reduce the amount to be paid back on the bond and the water and sewer debt.

The purpose of the proposal is to stretch out the payment schedule of the water and sewer revenue bonds thereby lowering the overall cost of the bonds. The savings to the city will help minimize increased water and sewer rates.

Under the present system of paying back the bonds, the city makes annual payments to end in the year 2030. The cost of paying back the bonds under this system would be about $280 million.

Under UMIC's proposal, there are four plans which the city can choose. Each plan involves a decrease in the cost of the bond payments. A decision on which plan would be best for the city would be made once UMIC is contracted for services by the city. UMIC's fees would include 25 percent of the profits from the investments once the bonds have been paid.

The firm would also get one-half of per cent of the first $2 million of the $9.18 revenue bond and one-fourth of one percent of the remaining amount.

The remaining 75 percent of the profits of the investments after payment of the bonds would go to whomever the city chooses. Under federal law, the recipient cannot be a governmental body but may be a charity or some other firm.

Future plans include sending a junior majoring in special education, died Thursday at Doctors Memorial Hospital.

Dr. Courtland Monroe of Doctors said he had "signed the death certificate and could not release the cause of death without consent of Frantz's parents. Frantz was admitted to the SIU Health Service Thursday morning and then transferred to Doctors where he died that afternoon.

Dr. Don Knapp, medical director of the Health Service, said Frantz was seen by a doctor there. Knapp said Frantz was 'moderately ill' but 'not in any danger at that time.'

Knapp said no prospective diagnosis was made at the Health Service.

Frantz is survived by his parents, Howard Lee and Earline Frantz; a sister, Jeraldine Bird, and a brother, William Coumas.

Funeral services will be Thursday at Oakwood Cemetery in Chicago.

Board outdoes Solomon

To the Daily Egyptian:

After having watched with growing concern the antics of the judicial board I was not surprised to see that Ms. Mary Day has surpassed the wisdom of Solomon.

In the old testament two mothers were fighting over a babe and came to Solomon to see if he would decide whose the babe was. He ordered one of the women to cut it in half. Before the order could be carried out one of the women cried out to let the other have the babe.

I'm sure most Christians and Jews know the rest of the story and feel that this story appropriately demonstrates thanks to the action of the Judicial board and the candidates involved the students will not have a representative on the board of trustees.

The leaders of student government tell us that their three time money to hold an election. The candidates say that they are not sure that they want to go through with another election.

So we are left with the question of just who is going to represent student rights down here in Carbondale.

All that student government seems to be doing so far is running 'in circles like a dog chasing it's tail.'

One is led to believe that the students here are mature enough to handle their own affairs. We must be responsible for ourselves. I'm not always a dirty word. Earlier in the century the unemployed were not so concerned with whether smoke blackened the outsides of buildings and the insides of lungs. They were told, "Smoke makes work." And it did.

In the mid sixties, largely through the efforts of a few people and a sympathetic press, ecology and the protection of the environment became something new. We are left with a childish irresponsibility when aboard their machines.

There were many open meetings wherein public opinion, and suggestions regarding bicycle regulations were sought. The majority of responsible cyclists were favorable toward the present plan, and were consulted in its formation. I sincerely hope Ms.
Psamin and all other area cyclists will accept the legal responsibilities they are subject to, and realize that some privileges are also attached—mainly use of the roads and highways. Bicycles are to be accepted as legitimate road users, equal to motorized vehicles, we must try to overcome the toy stigma the bicycle has acquired.

Positive benefits

To the Daily Egyptian:

While in general sympathy with many of Ms.
Psamin's statements in her Feb. 8th letter condemning bicycle registration, I wish to take issue with her overall position. I believe in the long run, the positive benefits will outweigh the negatives. I quite agree that the professed intentions of the registration program, such as theft prevention and parking problems, will not be realized; nor do I appreciate hauling about a clanking license plate.

But is the licensing program which hopefully will help bicycling more than hurt it. If this licensing program succeeds in nothing other than impressing upon the thousands of bike-riders in Carbondale that they are operating legally defined vehicles and are accountable to legally reasonable traffic regulations, then I would count the program successful. Probably one of the biggest obstacles cycling has to overcome is the toy-mentality, which prevents fuller use of this form of transportation. Not only do motorists and legislators weigh the negative factors, but cyclists also regard bicycles as a toy which little kids ride, but, some so many bicyclists seem too revert to a childish irresponsibility when aboard
their machines.

Smoke makes work

There's a very real danger that the energy crisis will undo much that has been done in the last few years to clean up the environment.

Smoke was not always a dirty word. Earlier in the century the unemployed were not so concerned with whether smoke blackened the outsides of buildings and the insides of lungs. They were told, "Smoke makes work." And it did.

In the mid sixties, largely through the efforts of a few people and a sympathetic press, ecology and
the protection of the environment became something new. America was slowly becoming aware of the dangers involved with fouling its own nest, and this new awareness was reflected by lawmakers.

Laws were passed to make industry more socially responsible by setting limits on how much poison it could spew into the atmosphere and dump into the lakes and streams. Standards were placed on the effluent of municipal sewage disposal plants, and funds were allocated to help cities and towns to meet these standards. Emmission controls were placed on automobiles to help reduce the amount of hydrocarbons in the air. These and similar laws may not have solved the problem, but they represented a beginning.

To imibe and not imibe

Now that the University has approved the regulation of possession and consumption of beer and wine in campus housing, several pertinent questions come to mind. Will the academic atmosphere deteriorate and create a diverse problems within the dorms? Will study habits decrease with the possibility of rampant weekend parties? Will non-drinking students be bothered with excessive noise and rowdy people?

The answers to these questions depend on the manner in which housing residents react to the new revision. If students take advantage of the policy and cause numerous problems, the revision will be re-evaluated and possibly withdrawn. At present, the drinking revision is in an experimental stage.

Although it has indeed been sanctioned by University officials, the policy can be changed back if significant difficulties do result.

The drinking regulation is a privilege to all students residing in University housing. Bending or breaking the rules will not mark the maturity of campus residents, since it is their responsibility to adhere to the stated and written principles of the revision.

Drinking in the dorm can truly be maintained successfully, if housing residents comply to the rules governing the policy. The success of the revision lies in their hands.

Spooky Tooth acknowledged with three standing ovations

By Dave Sears
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

One of the oldest rock and roll stage tricks is to walk off the stage just as the audience reaches the point where they are organically screaming for more.

Then the group tosses back on-stage, plays another number, and scrambles off into the arms of their favorite groups.

Well, Spooky Tooth began this well-worn procedure Friday night at Shryock Auditorium. But organist Gary Wright said after the first encore, "C'mon, let's play another one," thus dropping this tantalizing manipulation. And it's a good thing, for some of Spooky Tooth's best music came during the three encores, including "Sunshine of My Mind" and Stevie Wonder's "Livin' for the City." However, people in the balcony commented after the concert that "Livin' for the City" nearly fell apart. But sitting in the second row with a ten foot stack of speakers staring me in the face, it sounded just fine.

But other than this strike against basic rock conformity, there wasn't much else that distinguished Spooky Tooth from other live shows by professional rock groups. Like Badfinger, Spooky Tooth loses their individuality and depth in live performances, for the polished arrangements on their albums are not feasible in the concert hall.

The result was an enjoyable but not memorable concert.

Built around fairly simple chord progressions (with a respectable amount of variation), Spooky Tooth's music, like Traffic's early work, is quite palatable for the abrasive edges of their sound was tastefully rounded out by Wright's organ and pipes to our many tortured rock groups who try to blast their masochistic audiences into a coma. None of the musicians have virtuosic talents, which gives their music a cohesion, making it even more satisfying but at the same time, not particularly exciting.

Consequently most of their songs run together in a blur of similarity, with a few, such as "Fragile" and "Sunshine" standing out above the others. And, of course, "I Am the Walrus" — a Beatles song to which Spooky Tooth gives a whole different slant of grotesqueness.

Quite warranting a warm reception, Frama also built their music around simple ideas—although they showed their lack of focus and professionalism by abruptly switching from riff to riff without developing any of them adequately. However, Frama did have a few moments of brilliance (yes, brilliance) in their untempered free flowing passages — synthesizer and all.

But returning to Spooky Tooth, their lead singer, Mike Harrison must be mentioned, for his giant stage presence was indeed bizarre in its stiff nervoussness — like a dead tree trying to fit its advanced case of the crabs.

Which makes me wonder, why does he act like that? Well, the audience gave the group three standing ovations—they had a good time watching him.

Oh well... "yellow matter custard dripping from a dead dog's eye..."

Michael Harrison

Waltergate effects focus of student voter survey

By John Russell
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The effects of the Watergate scandal on the voters of Perry County in Illinois, and how it might affect the Congressional District in that county, should be known soon, according to Morris Peterson, SIU journalism professor.

Peterson's "Basic Research in Journalism" class should finish its survey of the district by Tuesday, and he expects to have the final computer analysis of the survey completed by Feb. 22.

The survey, conducted in the area asking voters in the eighth precinct in Du Quoin and the sixth precinct in Pinckneyville to fill out a questionnaire dealing with the voter's feelings on upcoming elections, Peterson said.

Perry County was chosen to represent the district. Peterson explained, because voting in that county has come closer to predicting final election results in all elections held since 1962. He said the Du Quoin and Pinckneyville precincts were chosen because they are the most predictive precincts in the county.

Peterson said the survey is "trying to get at the question of how cynical the voter is about the political process."

The survey will try to determine what the voter thinks his effect on the political system is, whether or not people will be seeking information about the candidates, and if so, what information they will be seeking, Peterson said.

The reliability of the survey procedure has been proven in similar surveys in the past, Peterson said. He said the television networks and newspapers use the same questionnaire and technique that his students are using.

Peterson said voter's response to the student survey teams has been spotty.

He said many of the voters are suspicious of strangers coming to their doors, since most strangers try to sell them something or to convert them.

Many older persons questioned so far have said their opinions are not important, Peterson said.

He said researchers must first convince voters that their opinions are important before they are willing to take part in the survey.

The survey idea grew out of his search to find a relevant project for all the members of his class, Peterson said. He said the class is made up of news-editorial and advertising sequence majors. Peterson said he felt the survey would be useful to both groups.

He said it would be of help to news-editorial students who could do political reports on the way the voters are thinking. The survey could help advertising students, he said.

He said it would be of help to news-editorial students who could do political reports on the way the voters are thinking. The survey could help advertising students, he said, by viewing the candidates as products, and seeing how the voters identify and feel about the candidates.

Duke Ellington returns for Washington concert

WASHINGTON (AP) - Duke Ellington returned Monday to the midtown Washington area where he grew up and played some of his famous songs for inner city schoolchildren and Julie Nixon Eisenhower.

Mrs. Eisenhower hailed him as "one of my heroes" and brought a letter from her father, President Nixon, addressed to "his excellence the Duke of Ellington." and saying in part, "There'll never be another You.

Duke and Julie were on hand to fire a plug for the series of performances, a part of the artists-in-the-schools program, by pianist Marian McPartland in Washington Public Schools. It is supported by a matching basis by the National Endowment for the Arts and the U.S. Office of Education.

Miss McPartland started things off by playing Billy Strayhorn's "Take the A Train," the Ellington standard, with four members of the way politics have been conducted in the past.

He said researchers must first convince voters that their opinions are important before they are willing to take part in the survey.

Ticket refunds begin today

Ticket refunds for the Fleetwood Mac concert will be offered from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the Student Center Central Ticket Office. The entire ticket must be presented to obtain any refund, and ticket holders who cannot get to the ticket office on the three days must present their case to the Student Government Activities Council.

The cancellation of the concert was announced Friday, when it was confirmed that the group now touring the United States calling themselves Fleetwood Mac bears no resemblance to the group that recorded the latest Fleetwood Mac album.

Legal assistance sought for terminated faculty

The Faculty Senate will hear a resolution urging it to seek legal assistance for the tenured faculty who were terminated at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Student Center’s Missouri Room.

The undergraduate education policy committee will present a resolution outlining a plan for a teacher evaluation program. Student evaluations would be made yearly for each course taught in the University.

The senate will also hear a resolution asking tenure at SIU to be made transferable between academic units.

A report from the Ombudsman is scheduled, as well as consideration of the University Senate’s revised governance paper.

Walker releases Illinois Guard

By The Associated Press

National Guard troops in Illinois were deactivated Monday as traffic returned to near normal following a wide-spread strike by independent truckers.

"I made the decision to release the guardsmen after reports this morning from all over the state indicated highways and truck stops are back in normal," Gov. Dan Walker told a news conference.

Concert tickets on sale Wednesday for J. Geils Band

Ticket lines for the March 9 J. Geils Band concert at the Arena will be formed Wednesday at 8 a.m. at the Student Center Central Ticket Office.

Students who wish to hold a place in the ticket line will be required to check in at the ticket counter once a day on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Tuesday.

Tickets will go on sale at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 10 at prices of $3.50, $4 and $4.50 for SIU students and $3.50, $4.50 and $5 for the general public.

School closings to honor Lincoln

Carbondale schools will be closed Tuesday in honor of Lincoln’s birthday.

The schools will be open on Feb. 18, the legal holiday date set for Washington’s birthday.

According to Rolling Stone magazine, Fleetwood Mac’s manager, Clifford Davis, formed a new group and put them on tour because the original group wanted to take a vacation. The original Fleetwood Mac intends to take legal action against their manager.

Ford to be honored

James L. C. Ford professor emeritus of journalism, will be honored Saturday for 40 years of service to journalism and journalism education.

Ford, who retired Aug. 31, 1973, from teaching duties at SIU, will be guest of honor at a noon luncheon at the Carbondale Holiday Inn sponsored by the School of Journalism Program and Awards Committee.

The luncheon will honor Ford at the conclusion of a career in journalism which began in 1928 as a reporter in the New York office of the Chicago Tribune. Since then, he has been cable editor for United Press in New York, cable editor for Associated Press in San Francisco, assistant editor of Fairchild Publications, and has written extensively for mass circulation, and professional journalism magazines.

Ford came to SIU in 1955 as professor of journalism, following a 15-year stint as dean of the Montana State University School of Journalism. While at SIU-C, Ford directed the magazine sequence in the journalism school.

Several present and former SIU professors and administrators who have worked with Ford will give short testimonials during the luncheon session.

The entire ticket must be presented to receive refunds

DE KALB (AP)—Townspople feared that the war-galvanized student activism of the 1960's would carry over into the municipal politics of the 1970's when students at Northern Illinois University got the vote.

"The apathy on campus is so thick you can cut it with a knife... the students gained the right to vote but not the interest," says Martin Dubin, a professor of political science at NIU who is also the DeKalb County Democratic chairman and a candidate for Congress this year.

Dubin, like many others maintain that students are interested only in issues that directly affect them. When the war ended and the draft was abolished, so did student interest in politics.

But this did not prevent townspeople from fearing that the 26th Amendment, which permitted 18-year-olds to vote, would leave 17,000 DeKalb townspople fearing they would be lined up against 16,000 student residents.

"People were very concerned, very upset, almost bitter," says Mayor Carroll Van Patter, who says Ex-police officer fined, imprisoned

CHICAGO (AP)—Former police Capt. Mark C. Thanassouras was sentenced Monday by two federal judges to serve three and half years in prison and was fined a total of $30,000 for shaking down tavern owners.

Judge William J. Bauer of U.S. District Court sentenced Thanassouras to 48 months in prison terms and imposed a $20,000 fine on two assorted corruption charges dealing with the shake down of 29 tavern owners.

"The two words populatd almost entirely by students produced only 140 and 154 votes respectively, and the conservative Van Pater carried both over two younger, more liberal opponents. An estimated 4,000 students were registered to vote in DeKalb at the time."

It was from those two wards that the student aldermen—David Jaffe, 20, and Chuck Stowe, 22—were elected.

"Two wards populated almost entirely by students produced only 140 and 154 votes respectively, and the conservative Van Pater carried both over two younger, more liberal opponents. An estimated 4,000 students were registered to vote in DeKalb at the time."

It was from those two wards that the student aldermen—David Jaffe, 20, and Chuck Stowe, 22—were elected.

"These two have been bending over backwards to be responsible," says Van Pater, who says they have gone out of their way to determ the feelings of townspople before voting.

Van Pater notes that city council business is much too technical to allow ideological stands on anything. It would be absurd, the students say, to hold a radical position on the issue of new sidewalks for Main Street.

DeKalb is the only town in the state that permits bars to sell hard liquor to 18-year-olds. They are working on another ordinance that will set up a liquor-tender relations board.

Jury Clark, executive director of the Chamber of Commerce, says there was some talk about setting stricter residential requirements for students before allowing them to register to vote. But nothing came of it as fears of a student takeover abated.

"The students live here 365 days a year and we consider them part of us," Clark says.

Nobody could think of an issue that might divide town and students sharply.

"The glamor of the 18-year-old vote is gone," says lumberman Conrad Hallgren, chairman of the DeKalb County Republican committee, "We have a hell of a time getting interest at all up here."

Dubin is trying to drum up student support in his campaign to fill Leslie Weidens seat in Congress.

He feels students can be mobilized only when their vital conditions are involved, but with city and county elections, they don't feel vitally affected.

Otherwise, he said, the student vote for those who hoped to capitalize on it is in "a dream, a dream, a wish that's never been realized."
Campus Briefs

The January, 1974, issue of Business Education Forum contains an article entitled "Instruction in Use of Media for Beginning Typewriting Teachers." It was written by Marcia A. Anderson, instructor, Department of Business Education, and F. Dale Brown, instructional designer, Learning Resources Service.

J. Charles Kelley, coordinator of the University Museum's Nuclear American Research, has gone to Mexico to spend the next six months in archaeological research under a $26,000 National Science Foundation grant.

This is Kelley's fifth grant from NSF but the foundation's first for his work in Mexico, although he has been engaged in archaeological studies in various states since 1961.

He plans excavations at the ceremonial ruin at Alta Vista, near Chalchiuhitan in the state of Zacatecas, as well as at some peripheral sites. The initial stages of this ceremonial center date to approximately 300 B.C.

"There is evidence that the ceremonial site was precisely situated by the use of astronomical coordinates." Kelley said.

Scheduling to join Kelley's expedition is Dr. Betty Bell, a research archaeologist and writer, in Ajjic, Jalisco, Mexico, who serves as adjunct professor in the SIUE Museum without pay. A staff archaeologist from the Mexican National Institute of Anthropology and History will also participate in the project.

Other members of the expedition include Tom Reihm, who recently completed his Ph. D. in archaeology at SIUC, and his wife, Elaine, Robert Pickering of Lawrenceville, a master's graduate in anthropology; and a graduate student in anthropology from Mexico's National School of Anthropology.

Ronald Thomas, assistant to the director of admissions, has had an article accepted by the Journal of the National Association of College Admissions Counselors. The article, entitled "So You Want to Recruit Foreign Students," is expected to appear in the spring or summer issue of the quarterly publication.

Answering Letters with

David R. Derge

Dear Dr. Derge:

On January 22, I injured my knee in an intramural basketball game, sustaining a broken fibula and ligament damage. I was referred to an orthopedic surgeon by the Health Service. Since this injury two questions have come to my mind. First, on several occasions I have been barred from use of the Arena and other areas merely for the lack of a supervisor, even when no other activity was scheduled. On the evening in question, a supervisor was present. His action in the matter was to take my name, address, ID number, and a few details. The occurrence of the accident. He also provided me with an icebag at my request, and nothing else. Why make such a big deal over having a supervisor in the same function? Could this be provided by posting a list on a bulletin board where accident victims could sign in and out?

The second question is much more important. Facing probable surgery, I find there is no health insurance for students at SIU. In polling my acquaintances, I was amazed to find that the large majority of them think the Health Service fee pays for an insurance program. The persons who know there is no insurance are either unfortunate like myself, or they know someone who has had a similar problem. The student body should be made publicly aware that they have no insurance through the University. The real question here is why there is not an insurance program, optional or as part of the Health Service fee? Are there not insurance programs similar to the old $5.00 a year high school policies that could be implemented at this level? I have heard that there used to be one, but it was discontinued. Somehow, I think I would have rather paid an extra $10 a quarter for a health insurance policy, optional or not, than to receive knee surgery for my long awaited graduation present.

Paul R. Holland
Senior, Zoology

Dear Mr. Holland:

The Arena is to be used only when scheduled through the Arena Manager's office. This avoids scheduling conflicts, assures proper utilization, and satisfies insurance liability responsibility. This policy also assures that an injured student will be referred to the proper medical resource.

The Student Fee Priorities Board has prepared a recommendation that would reallocate $10 of present fees paid to the Student Medical Benefits fee for a health insurance program. A resolution of this question and action by the Board of Trustees should be forth coming in the near future.

Dear Dr. Derge:

I am writing you so you may explain to me and some interested fellow students about your rumor. The rumor deals with student activity fees and the supposed surgery. If this is true, we would expect to hear a G.A. in the Health Service. This is just one rumor deals with student activity fees. Other dialogs may be heard recently. We are in favor of abolishing the Student Activity Fee, if this is true. We would expect to hear a G.A. in the Health Service.

The real question here is why there is not an insurance program, optional or as part of the Health Service fee? Are there not insurance programs similar to the old $5.00 a year high school policies that could be implemented at this level? I have heard that there used to be one, but it was discontinued. Somehow, I think I would have rather paid an extra $10 a quarter for a health insurance policy, optional or not, than to receive knee surgery for my long awaited graduation present.

Shelia Thompson
Senior, Art

Dear Miss Thompson:

There are no plans to abolish the Student Activity Fee. In fact, Dean of Students Bruce R. Swinburne, says the Graduate Student Council and the Student Government are considering Student Fee Allocation Boards to consider budget allocation for fiscal year 1975 from Student Activity Fees for student organizations and activities. Instructions for submitting budget requests will be mailed soon.

If you have any questions, ideas, suggestions or problems write to me. I will be happy to respond.

International Festival to host history professor as speaker

C. Harvey Gardiner, research professor of history, will be the main speaker for the International Festival. Events around, chairman of the International Student Council, said Monday.

He said Gardiner will speak on "Panama—a Bridge to a New World" from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Friday in the Student Center Ballroom C and D.

"He (Gardiner) will explore the nature of nationalism in third world (Latin America, Africa and Asia)," Arroba said. Gardiner is quite knowledgeable on international and political affairs, he said.

The Coffee Hours of the International Festival will continue from 3 to 4 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday in the International Lobby of Woody Hall.

A different country will be featured at the coffee hours each day.

Columbia will be featured on Tuesday, Brazil on Wednesday and Austria on Thursday.

Arroba said he encourages anyone who wants to learn more about foreign countries to attend the coffee hours.

The International Film Festival will continue from Tuesday to Thursday in Davis Auditorium, Williams Hall and Currey Hall.

The films scheduled for Tuesday are:
7 p.m.—"Suez"

IC train derails near Makanda

MAKANDA (AP)—Eighteen cars of an Illinois Central Gulf freight train on route from Kansas City, to Montgomery, Ala., derailed Monday near Makanda south of Carbondale.

A few minutes later, a diesel locomotive and seven cars of another train were derailed on a main line just south of Paducah, Ill., by an IC spokesman in Chicago.

Society to hear math professor

Carl G. Townsend, associate professor, will address Pi Mu Epsilon, the honorary mathematics fraternity, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Neckers A, Room 258.

Townsend will discuss his experiences as a math teacher in Bangladesh, Burma and Taiwan. His lecture will be illustrated with slides.

Obelisk not scheduled for 1974 publication

The Obelisk, SIU's yearbook since 1914, will not be published in 1974. Keith Leasure, vice-president for academic affairs, announced last week.

His announcement came after a conference with the interim Obelisk editor, Cindy Elliott, and the fiscal sponsor, W. Mansu Rice.

"Due to several unforeseen difficulties, the last two yearbooks have appeared later than planned. With the 1973 book not arriving until Dec. 14, the interim staff has been occupied with distributing last year's book and it has become almost impossible to produce the next one in time for late May delivery," Leasure said.

He said a survey will be taken in the next two months to see what interest exists in having a 1975 yearbook.

The films scheduled for Thursday are:
7:22 p.m.—"Fidel Castro"
7:30 p.m.—"Hunger City Bureau" 8:35 p.m.—"Disolation: Thailand"

The films scheduled for Wednesday are:
7 p.m.—"China Under Communism"
7:27 p.m.—"Thailand—Land of Rice"
8:46 p.m.—"Spain—Land of Tradition and Promise"
8:55 p.m.—"And You thought it was Only a Canal!"

Community to share ideas with prisoners

A Community-Prisoner Idea Exchange (CPIE) has been formed to provide a correspondence list between community people and prisoners. Randy Donath, chairman of the Free School risen Project, said:

"The idea behind it is to have people learn about one another such as personal interest, problems and the like," Donath said.

He said one of the main problems in prison life is that many prisoners have no correspondence with the outside which leads to a feeling of despair, helplessness and insecurity.

"It is our intention to help diminish this problematic aspect of prison life as much as possible," Donath said.

Any person interested in writing to a prisoner may contact Donath at the Free School, 3rd floor of the Student Center, 506-3393.

Saddle Club slates speaker

Lesie Strack, assistant professor in animal industries, will address the Saluki Saddle Club at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Wham. Room 309. A formal meeting will follow Strack's discussion.
James Brown, SIU System Council chairman, will speak at the Graduate Student Council (GSC) at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Student Center Ballroom A.

Brown will speak on his role as chairman, the effect of his position on SIU and its function in the SIU system. Sharon Yeargin, GSC executive secretary said Monday:

In other business, the council will discuss the report of the student trustee judicial board concerning the position of student trustee. Ms. Yeargin said the council will consider proposals in favor of appointing a new trustee or leaving the seat open until elections in April. Effective commissioiners for the April election will be appointed by the GSC executive committee.

The council will also discuss the reaction from school deans concerning the administration's "five per cent" pay increase plan for graduate assistants which will go into effect next year. The council requested an explanation of the plan from Keith Leasure, vice-president for academic affairs and provost, which will also be discussed.

A committee headed by Anthony Wahner of the chemistry department is scheduled to present the deans' reactions to the council.

Another committee, headed by Bill Faulhaber of the English department, is scheduled to present details of the graduate council's microfilming policy to the council meeting.

Professor to talk on Latin America

Arnold Uliner, assistant professor in the Department of Foreign Languages and Literature, will speak to the Interdisciplinary Seminar on Latin America at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Communications Building lounge.

Uliner will discuss Las Casas and Ramon Menendez Pidal. All interested students and faculty are invited to attend.

Club sets furniture talk

The SIU Women's Club Newcomers will sponsor "How to Make Those Bargains Look Great" furniture refinishing discussion and cookie exchange at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Carbondale Savings and Loan Community Room.

Col. James H. Finn will discuss furniture refinishing, with the aid of a replica of "before" and "after" chairs. There will be a question and answer session with Col. Finn.

Flying Club to complete plans for Kentucky trip

The Saluki Flying Club will complete plans for its flying trip to the Kentucky Dam at a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Southern Illinois Airport.

The movie "Silver Skies" will also be shown. It was shot during the 25th annual air meet sponsored by the National Intercollegiate Flying Association and hosted by the Saluki Flying Club and Alph Eta Rho.

DID YOU KNOW...

By Moses Robbines

Here is an amazing fact that shows how high place values are in sports. The term in pro basketball report, lists is showing the top ten cities in terms of home attendance of every game every season.

And that's the fact that I'm playing on.

Was there ever a fantastic basketball game where the box scores were called? It happened one game last year in the 15 games between Redstock and Paul Branch high schools. No one knew how well they were playing, the box score was called, and they tied for the season in their respective class. That's the way to look at it when we play basketball.

Did you know that College Graduates live longer? It's a longer live span than those who did not graduate. College graduates make possible broader horizons and greater life values. See your College Dime Bookstore.

SIU gymnasts topple NIU, all in contest with Iowa

By John Morrisey
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

SIU's gymnasts breezed through their first easy meet of the season Friday night, 130.35-135.4 over Northern Illinois.

The easy living was brief, however, because the Salukis fell to Iowa on Saturday afternoon. The Hawkeyes high bar show broke open a tight contest and led Iowa to a 168.75-157.55 victory.

SIU started slow against NIU as the Salukies moved to an early lead in free exercise, 26.25-25.50. But the deficit did not last long for the Salukis. They took advantage of a 0.25 point penalty made by NIU and scored 26.40 in the event to put their first out front to stay. Ed Remble led the way with a winning 9.65 score.

The Salukis scored 17.85 points in parallel bars in this event, the highest team score in any event this season. Glenn Lambert scored 9.45, Jack Laurie contributed 9.35 and Wall Hallberg followed closely with 9.50.

SIU did almost as well in high bar, compiling 21.35 points as Tidwell and Kim Wall tied for the best event score at 9.1. Lane Garrett contributed fine backup effort with a 9.05.

Hurt by fouls

Cagers lose Detroit squaquer

By Mark Tupper
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The SIU basketball team could find only a few minutes of play without 6-11 center Joe C. Mewes and a high-scoring offense to win a seventh-place finish in冈狂y's tourney.

With the Salukis leading 70-63 and 5:10 remaining on the clock, the Salukies took every hope out of SIU. Detroit chipped away at the lead and tied the game 70-70 with 22.4 seconds on the clock.

Lambert was called for his personal foul and was replaced in the middle by Abrams. But Abrams was also called for his second foul and was replaced with 12.2 left on the clock. Detroit put the game out of SIU's reach as Detroit won 73-70 at the 11.4 second mark of the game.

The loss dropped SIU's record to 9-5 and 3-3 in the OVC. The Salukies were ranked sixth in the OVC.

Without the rebounding and scoring skills of Mewes and Decons, SIU could manage only one overtime basket as Detroit went ahead 80-78 and sealed the game out.

The Salukies led most of the game, holding leads of 10 points in the first half and 11 points in the second half. Much of the Salukas' offensive success has come from the hot Tim Ricci and Mike Glenn.

Ricci, who was removed from the starting lineup after a combined one for 16 shooting performance against Illinois State, scored 19 of his career high 26 points to lead all scorers. Ricci opened up the 10-point lead with a three point shot in the first 42 seconds of the game and continued to hit shots.

Decons had 18 points on an 8-for-12 shooting night. Ricci hit 11 of 18 shots for his 23 points. Again the Salukas let the-opposition take advantage of the penalty situation as Detroit out- scored SIU 12-2 at the free throw line.

Winning streak at three

Saluki swimmers sink Wildcats, 83-30

By Kenneth Pilarski

Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The Saluki swimmers ended their home dual season in style with an 83-30 throttling of the Northwestern Wildcats Saturday at Puhl Pool.

The victory stretched the Saluki winning streak to three and improved their dual record to 8-5.

The meet was all SIU as they racked up their highest point total of the season with first place finishes in every event. The victory was marred slightly by the news that sophomore Mark Henry's swimming career has come to an un- timelky end due to a kidney ailment. Out of respect for their teammate the Salukis dedicated the meet to Henry. Saluki swimming coach Bob Steele, who coached at Northwestern for three seasons, was in attendance to see his old squad overwhelmed with the results of the meet.

"It meant a lot for me personally to beat Northwestern," Steele said. "I recruited many of their swimmers when I was there and I wanted to show them what SIU has to offer in swimming."

Trackmen take Illinois Intercollège

By John Morrissey

Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

There's something about the University of Illinois that brings out the best in SIU track.

The Salukis went into Saturday's Illinois Intercollège Indoor Track Championship with a supporting ground. But before it was over, SIU ambushed Champaign and ran away with the state championship by piling up 170 points to the Illini's 125. Eastern Illinois finished a distant third with 75 points and Illinois State was fourth with 63.

Illinois captured 16 places out of a possible 18, while SIU came away with only three individual titles. But the Salukis crowded placers behind the winner in every event after event, and actually led the Illini all day by the long jump and triple jump, where
