A Committee of the Board shall be appointed by the Chairman which shall immediately process the request of the Board of Trustees for approval. The University Director shall be directed to take recommendations concerning his staff needs, actions to further implement and describe his position, and required as part of this University Statute, policies and procedures.

President Delyte W. Morris
...I'm the affected party.

Morris' power apparently reduced

By P.J. Holder and Terry Peters
Daily Egyptian Staff Writers

A new position of University Director, which appears to remove virtually all fiscal powers of President Delyte W. Morris, has been approved by the Board of Trustees. A resolution creating the position was read by Morris at the board's last night's meeting of the Board and passed unanimously with no discussion by board members.

The University Director "shall be the Chief Administrative Officer for the University," according to the resolution. (See text of the resolution at the top of this page.) The resolution also creates two positions—comptroller and board counsel. The interpretation of the resolution—whether an attempt to discipline Morris after recent criticism and investigations into the $975,648 University House or whether an attempt to "speed up handling of fiscal matters"—is not clear.

Morris was asked about the significance of the resolution Thursday.

"I can't answer that," Morris said. "No one could say until it is implemented by the Board of Trustees.

Until it would be inappropriate for me to comment, as I'm the affected party." Board chairman Lindell W. Sturgis of Metropolis appointed four members of the Board to immediately proceed to select an individual and to recommend his employment and salary to the Board of Trustees for appointment.

The four members appointed are Dr. Martin Van Brown and Eugene Samuels, both of Carbondale; Ivan Elliott, Jr. of Carlin, and Melvin Lockard of Murphysboro. It is felt this lessened the powers of Morris, Sturgis replied, "That is in the way I would interpret it.

"Yes, it's fair to say that powers have been taken away from President Morris, but he is still the chief officer," Elliott said. Elliott said he didn't see the move as disciplinary action against Morris, although "I see it as strong action. It could be interpreted as a reorganization of fiscal affairs."

Board member F. Gay Hitt said he did not feel it was a lessening of Morris' power.

"The resolution speaks for itself," Hitt repeatedly said. He declined further comment.

Brown also had no comment when asked about the interpretation of the resolution.

"I think it would be inappropriate because the resolution speaks for itself," Brown said, "We still have to face the Illinois Board of Higher Education."

The Board will meet at 11 a.m. Saturday in the Lasalle Hotel in Chicago. The meeting will be open to the press and the public.

The executive director of the higher board, Dr. James Holdteman, was unavailable for comment. An aide said that Holdteman would not make any personal response "until the issue was presented to the higher board Saturday." Morris was asked who originally proposed the move, whether it was discussed by the Board of Trustees at an unscheduled "informal session," and whether the initiative came from the higher board.

"It would be inappropriate for me to comment, as I'm the affected party," Morris replied to each question.

"I think I've taken the proper position on these questions," he said, "I hope you understand my position."

Sturgis claimed that the proposal was from a request of the higher board to set up an office in charge of fiscal matters.

The higher board request came at a meeting two weeks ago, Sturgis said, and was worked out between a joint committee which both approved of the proposal. Elliott, named as one of the drafters of the resolution, said the proposal had been discussed with other people.

"It is our Board's policy, not the policy of the higher board," he said, "The idea just developed. No one can claim authorship of it."

United Press International reported late Thursday that Elliott said the University Director would be appointed after the first of the year, and that he would be someone from outside the University community.

Teach-in turnout sparse

By Ingrid Javer
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Not many people paid attention to the November Action Day teach-in Thursday. Business went as usual.

Attendance at the Moratorium teach-in, sponsored by the Southern Illinois Peace Committee (SIPC), was considerably lower than at the Oct. 18 Moratorium, attended by an estimated 2,000 to 2,200 people.

Oct. 15 was a warm, sunny day. Nov. 13 was dark, wet and chilly.

The teach-in was held from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the University Center Ballroom.

"We had an extremely poor turnout," Hugh Maldonado, SIPC spokesman said.

Maldonado said there was a sparse crowd at the teach-in through the morning hours. "It was only about 2,300 that over 100 people attended," he said.

Meanwhile, the game room of the University Center was filled with students. Card tables, ping-pong tables and pool tables were all occupied Thursday afternoon. The Ballroom was not empty.

The Magnolia Lounge was crowded with snookers.

Several students bowed and others put in hours in the Roman Room, smoking and drinking coffee.

Human traffic around the campus appeared normal for a dreary rainy day.

Maldonado said the Moratorium was "in terms of the number of people—a failure, but in terms of the quality of speakers— it was a success."

Speakers at the teach-in included Milton McLean, Garrett Gullan and Douglas Allen, from the Department of Philosophy; the Rev. Darrell Rupple, a priest expelled from Brazil; Brea Chou of the Department of Government; C. Harvey Gardiner of the Department of History and John Sack, novelist and war correspondent.

Two films, "Night and Fog" and "Language of Faces" were shown. Folk singer, Arlene Mermard and a group, The Celebration Committee, entertained the small audience.

Activities included booths soliciting donations to subsidize the trip to Washington, for the March Against Death.

At other booths people solicited signatures for peace post cards and gave information concerning the Washington trip. Volunteers were sought to canvas the Carbondale community.

The Carbondale Head Start Center sponsored a booth and solicited volunteers to work in its community programs.

Today's activities in connection with November Action include a distribution of leaflets and canvassing of the community.

"If we had had more people at the teach-in, we could have gotten more volunteers to canvass," Maldonado said.

"As it now stands," he continued, "we will probably only be able to canvas in shopping centers and where a large number of people congregate."

Maldonado said only about 20 people signed up to help canvass the Carbondale community.

McCoy gets citation for bibliography

Ralph E. McCoy, director of libraries at SIU, has received his third citation for publication of his book, "Freedom of The Press: An Annotated Bibliography."

The Intellectual Freedom Award has been presented to him by the Illinois Library Association at its annual conference held in Peoria in late October.

Previous honors he received in recognition of the book were the $500 Scarecrow Press Award from the American Library Association and the Joseph L. Andrew's Bibliography Award from the American Association of Law Libraries.

Alpha Gamma Delta was second and Sigma Sigma Sigma took third place in the sorority division. LEAC and Phi Sigma Kappa took second and third, respectively, in the fraternity division.

Ron Willis, a member of Theta Xi fraternity, was chairman for this year's event.

To the Daily Egyptian:

It appears the 1969-70 student government is as ineffective as the 1968-69 group. Last year student government played "patay" to the University administration one source much that nothing was accomplished. This year student government has lost much of it's fight the world that nothing is likely to be accomplished. Both groups apparently focus too intensely on the process of playing political games that the content of the issues is relatively unimportant.

The problem with the current student government aside from an acute case of foot-in-mouth disease is the nature of the windmills they choose to attack. Their concern for the immediate problems of the community is noble, although their handout smash of the "Christmas basket" approach used by fundamentalist sects. They concern themselves with Homecoming queen, hardly a worthy opponent; a police chief, who appears to be running for department in accordance to the principles accepted by those who pay his salary, and peace, which should be eliminated by the powerful altruists who allow them to have breeding places.

It seems to me that student government should look for more important issues and for the real causes of the illnesses in Carbondale and the campus. The real problems in the Northeast section of town, only the symptoms of the disease are real problems in Carbondale are to be found in the South-west and North-west.

The power of this student body, in relation to the community of Carbondale, is even being ignored. The patience that student government puts out to buy patch and products hardly affects the problems at all. Local merchants could bring about all kinds of results.

Why isn't student government concerning itself with worthy opponents like ROEVT Why doesn't this student body have access to one decent book store? (Think of how many worthwhile books that a book store with a book store that actually stocks books.) Why doesn't the student body have access to a published evaluation of each teacher and course? (It would undoubtedly improve the quality of instruction.)

It appears that Dwight Campbell, student body president, and his crew in student government took their lessons in governing from Mayor Daley, it doesn't matter what you do. You just so you make a lot of noise seems to be their motto.

Opposing Poles are not attracted to planned use of Morris' house

To the Daily Egyptian:

We, the undersigned, have come to the realization that in all of the years of our educational experience, we have been deprived, degraded, cheated, stepped upon trodden on, not to mention having been laughed at and morally insulted. We would like to express this matter to the attention of this institution of higher education.

We are entitled to be enlightened as to the real culture and heritage of our noble and profound Polish ancestry; a topic that has long since been distorted if not ignored by university curriculums. We suggest, as an alternate function, Morris' new dwelling, that the home be the new Center for Polish Studies.

1. Even a Polek would have sufficient space to maneuver a vehicle in front without being molested by immobile objects.
2. It follows in the tradition of Polish logic to have saved a house of our own for the Polek in which one can save time, money and considerable work by finding quite a convenient house.

The people who allowed the erection of this structure are not the same. We do not believe all different students and sub-cultural minorities, had to have been Polish.

A petition to the effect of accomplishing our goal is in circulation and can be signed by any Polek of the University, no matter what his background of age, sex, political lacks or any other interested parties or minority groups sympathizing with correcting the injustices perpetrated upon us by our leaders.

Committee helped plan Center

To the Daily Egyptian:

On Nov. 6 there appeared in the Daily Egyptian an article summarizing critics' opinions of the Center for Vietnamese Studies. While I feel that each person's opinion, political or otherwise, is to be respected, and that a university is the most appropriate place for public debate over differences in opinion, much of the text of the article quoted the critics as though their remarks were based on facts rather than on opinion.

As a result, the article presented itself as a series of half-truths, misinterpretation of facts, and on occasion, plain falsehoods. Since most of the issues have been discussed by Prof. Jacobini in articles appearing in that same issue and the one of the following day, I will limit my discussion here to one issue, that of the involvement of the SUI Committee on Asian Studies in the planning of the Center.

Both Lyman Baker and Doug Allen insist that the Committee of Asian Studies had no part in the planning nor ever discussed the possibility of such a Center among its membership. They further insist that there had been such discussion there might possibly have been no Vietnamese Center. From these statements, it is quite apparent that these two men are wandering around in some kind of self-imposed delusion.

Where Baker gets his information is quite beyond me, and what information does Allen, Baker is not a member of the Asian Studies Committee nor has he ever sought out the chairman of that committee for information. As for Allen, he has twice made public statements that the Asian Studies Committee has publicly opposed the Center or ever expressed a double about the Center. These statements are in fact, and I can only surmise that Allen knew Reminding his audience of his membership on the Committee only to give prestige to his position.

The facts concerning the involvement of the Asian Studies Committee are these: On April 23, 1969, the subject of the Vietnam Center was discussed at the spring quarter meeting of the Asian Studies Committee. Prior to that time six members of the Committee, acting in the name of the Committee, had been involved with several in early planning discussions about the Center. At that spring meeting, the Asian Studies Committee endorsed the proposed Center and agreed that those members already represented on the Center's planning committee should continue in their work.

Now, as the Center begins its actual operation, Prof. Jacobini, a person from our own academic ranks and a former chairman of the Asian Studies Committee, serves as director of the Center. Prof. Kuo, chairman of the Department of History and also a former chairman of the Asian Studies Committee, serves as chairman of the committee which planning the curriculum in Vietnamese Studies. Oliver Caldwell, Clarence Hengdorfer, Daryle Keefer and myself (all members of the Asian Studies Committee) serve in other capacities in the planning and operation of the Center.

So much for the question of the involvement of the Asian Studies Committee in the planning of the Vietnam Center except for two final remarks: Allen was absent from the spring meeting of the Asian Studies Committee. As for Allen, he has twice made public statements that the Asian Studies Committee has publicly opposed the Center or ever expressed a double about the Center. The Asian Studies Committee was not adequately represented.

Robin Hood' forgets whites

We take note that just because a black student became president of the student government on this campus that white students think all students on campus are black professors. We want to make the point that the student government is made up of black and white students. We think that if a black student can become president of the student government, then a white student can be president as well.

Hansen says read 'Bucky's book'
To the Daily Egyptian:

All SIU students should, without exception, concern themselves with the comprehensive thinking of R. Buckminster Fuller. For "Bucky," as he is affectionately called, is a legend in his own time and has brought pride and recognition to SIU in many different ways.

Bucky seems to be so much more significant than all the athletic events, social events, and, even, many of the trivial academic events that students bother themselves with. It is unfortunate, but a huge percentage of our campus, not only doesn't know Bucky, but likewise feel no pride in Southern because they don't know Bucky and others like him that make Southern great.

To solve this problem I recommend that every SIU student read and talk about Bucky's latest book, "Operating Manual for Spaceship Earth." Last month I recommended that everyone read a month and feel free to discuss it with any and all other SIU students, using a slick book "Popula tion Bomb" for conversation openers.

The issue Bucky develops throughout this eminently enlightening little book is that man is really on a spherical spaceship. The spaceship Earth. Recognizing that earth is, indeed, a spaceship and represents a closed system with resources and astronauts (every human being) it places a different perspective on our ways of interacting with our environment which represents everything but the "right way."

Let's be good astronauts and make earth grow richer by some means. By growing smarter Bucky means we understand the long term evolutionary patterns of earth and get in harmony with them. Our wealth is physical and metaphysical and is ineradicable and multiplying if we only can understand how to use it.

Sign of times
To the Daily Egyptian:

Dear Editor:

I'm a faculty member who is often asked the question: "What is a sign of the times?"

A sign of the times is the growing attitude among students, especially the minority students, that all of us fail to conform to our ideals. When we are rebuked, the black man will always be struggling.

If Dwight Campbell wants to help the community, he should come to the point and tell him to run for mayor. He does not have to stand for anything other than himself; he has to stand for his people. He just has to remove his shades for awhile and see that white students still want to attend this campus.

This non-sense of a black Robin Hood just doesn't make it.

Illegal scalping still practiced but not all scalpers Indians

By Tom Guelter
Student Writer

Scalpers beware! Ticket scalping is against the law.

According to a statute passed in 1923 with an addition to that statute passed in 1935, it is against the law for anyone, including operators of entertainment and patrons, to sell a ticket for more than the price printed on the ticket or at the box office.

It is unlawful for any place of entertainment to sell tickets at any place other than the box office or on the premises unless it is sold for the same price as the box office price.

The penalty for anyone convicted of ticket scalping is a fine of $5,000 for each offense. The penalty for any place selling tickets at a different location for an increase in price is a fine of $500 and a year imprisonment, plus the loss of their license. A person who feels wronged by paying a higher price than advertised has a right to recover $20 for each ticket for which an overcharge was made in civil action before any court.

All of this information is contained in chapter 121 1/2 of the 1967 Illinois Revised Statutes, section 157.31-157.34. All reports of ticket scalping on campus before the Simax and Gershkirt concert are "hereby knowledge," according to Leroy Fehrenkamp, assistant manager of the Arena. There are no definite instances reported.

Fehrenkamp said that they had reason to believe that some people were purchasing more tickets than they needed but the information on this instance was indefinite. The reason they do not hear about the scalping is that people do not report it when it happens, Fehrenkamp said.

SLU's student chapter of the American Chemical Society has been cited by the parent group as one of the outstanding units in the U.S.

Noise harmful to man’s environment

By Frank Moseman
Coplay News Service
Noise is an annoying and dangerous pollutant to man’s environment, as dirty air or water, in the view of scientists, engineers and government officials trying to muffle it.

The automobile, in the role of the villain which contributes heavily to air pollution, often is just as much of an offender in the noise department, says Ross Little of the Department of California Highway Patrol.

The subsonic jetliner is a noisemaker, too, which influences zoning, architecture and building standards in most large American cities. Unfortunately, admits Charles B. Foster, of the Department of Transportation’s Office of Noise Abatement, neither federal nor state laws have managed to ease the economic and community impact of the racket-making airliner.

Foster predicts the oncoming era of jumbo jets will surprise the American public by making less noise than their smaller predecessors.

Edward M. Ross, chairman of the Noise Abatement Committee of the California Environmental Quality Study Council, says it is easy for him to talk about community noise control because it is relatively nonexistent everywhere in the nation.

He is less optimistic than Foster about the noise which may be generated by the jumbo airliners and the follow-on supersonic transport of the mid-1970s.

He envisions a new flood of public protests over the sound and fury of the huge supersonic jets and the supersonic gliders which will follow.

Most states, Ross said, so far have failed to recognize that there is a national problem called noise. The California Legislature, however, he adds, has designated noise as "a form of pollution affecting the environment and health and welfare of the citizenry."

The greatest obstacle in the way of enacting and enforcing workable noise abatement laws, Ross said, is the lack of public agreement on where to start and where to finish.

As in the case of air or water pollution, he explains, those who profit by an activity which makes noise do not seem to mind the racket. But those downtown who get the full impact demand that the government do something to stop it.

Dr. Floyd A. Van Ards, scientist in the Bureau of Labor Standards’ Office of Occupational Safety, Department of Labor, says the government since 1938 has sought to govern-
Two SIU educators named to Benjamin memorial staff

Two SIU educators and a former SIU vice-president have been appointed to the national committee for a memorial to the late Harold K. W. Benjamin, nationally known in the field of education. Benjamin died last February.

Named were Arthur E. Lean, professor of educational administration and foundations, and Malvin Moore, associate professor of higher education. Also on the committee is John E. Grammell, a former College of Education dean here who retired from the post of vice-president for operations on the Carbondale Campus.

Lean was dean of the College of Education when Benjamin, probably best-known for his satirical book, "Shake-Teach Curriculum," was at SIU as a visiting professor in 1959 and 1963. Moore was a student of Benjamin's at George Peabody College at Nashville, Tenn.

Lean said the group was an advisory committee to develop the memorial project. He said it was hoped that a Harold Benjamin chair could be established at the University of Maryland, where Benjamin spent most of his career as an educator.

Trip to penitentiary planned

A trip to Menard Penitentiary at Chester on Tuesday is offered to GSB-200 students, according to Thomas D. McDonald, graduate assistant in the Center for the study of Crime, Delinquency and Corrections.

The trip is designed to give the student more insight on how a prison works. McDonald said. Seeing the prison is more meaningful to the student than just hearing a lecture about it, he added.

McDonald said about one-half of the class will make the trip. The cost of the trip is $1 and is scheduled from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. No extra credit is given, but a student may do a paper on the penitentiary, he stated.

At the prison the students will see the cell blocks, workshops, auditorium and the execution chamber, McDonald stated. The students will not see the solitary confinement section of the prison, he added.
Foundation to give advice

Black veterans may receive advice concerning graduate and professional school opportunities at no cost or obligation from the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, the Foundation has announced.

The service is also available for those still in military service who plan to attend graduate or professional schools in 1970.

University geologists to present two papers

Southern Illinois University geologists will present two research papers at the annual meeting of the Geological Society of America. The meeting will be in Atlantic City, N.J., Saturday to Wednesday, Arthur D. Cohen, who joined the SIU faculty last fall, will report on "Early Stages in the Coalification of Plant Fragments in Southern Florida Peats." Cohen's research interests are in the geological processes of coal formation. He spent four years studying the characteristics of peat formation in the Florida Everglades.

J.H. Fang and Paul Robinson, crystallographers in the geology department, are co-authors of a paper, "Crystal Structure of Coquiambit," a Hydrous Ferric Sulfate, "which Fang will present. All three faculty members will attend the meetings.

The research work reported in both papers has been partly supported by grants from the National Science Foundation Division of Environmental Sciences.

Grad students rap confidential files

By Terry Peters
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The SIU Graduate Student Council has recommended that "The Dean of Students' Office cease the collection of confidential and non-academic information and destroy the files of information collected hereafter." The file is a collection of information kept on every student at the University, said James Hanson, council president, at the Wednesday night meeting. The council also passed two motions pertaining to the Center for Vietnamese Studies and Programs, and a motion opposing the recall of elected student government executive officials. Hanson distributed copies of a letter he wrote to Dean of Students Wilbur Moulton on the student information files. The letter will be published in the Daily Egyptian next week. Hanson said he had spoken with both Chancellor Robert W. MacVicar and Moulton on the issue, and had concluded that the files were a violation of the students' right to privacy. "Of the students I've talked to, about nine out of ten didn't even know such a file was kept," Hanson said. In an interview Thursday, Moulton said the files are "the only official comparable confidential records kept in the collection of information necessary for the purposes of student advisement, counseling, and students' right to privacy." The final question bad been put to the student in the form of a referendum by the student council. The council decided not to name graduate students to fill vacancies on the Dean of Students' Advisory Board and the Chancellor's Review Board, both advisory judicial boards, until the student information file issue is settled.

The SIU Vietnam Studies Center "deems the 30-50 graduate fellowships which are provided for in the contract between SIU and the agency for International Development establishing the Vietnam Studies Center," the motion said. The monetary discrepancy between such awards and other graduate awards "constitutes an intolerable moral situation for the great majority of students at SIU." The motion expressed the hope that SIU will not take over the financing of such fellowships in the indicated pay raise, "as seems implied in the SIU-AD contract." The council considered and voted down 14-2 a bill opposing the Vietnam Studies Center which was passed by the Student Senate Wednesday night. (See story, page 21) After the resolution was voted down, Steve Blackham, graduate representative from philosophy, introduced a motion calling on the Vietnam Studies Center officials "to show their positive intent to soon bring to the Carbondale campus a scholar from North Vietnam and/or one representing the National Liberation Front." The motion, which passed, was intended to call attention to the statement made by Chancellor MacVicar that "the University is clearly committed to work with the entire Vietnamese area." The geese are coming . . .

Canada 'honker' - a wary creature

Phot Nelson
One of the grandest spectacles of autumn is underway. Millions of waterfowl are migrating from their nesting grounds in Canada and the Dakotas to the wintering grounds of Southern Illinois and other states on the Mississippi Waterfowl Flyway.

Of the numerous wintering grounds, one of the best-known is the Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge—five miles east of Carbondale.

The refuge is a popular place for waterfowl. The aerial goose census conducted this week by refuge officials indicates that over 58,000 (58,000—count 'em) geese are present at Crab Orchard. In addition, a large number of ducks—mallards, wood ducks, redheads and bluebills—are in the refuge. But it's the geese—those magnificent birds of the Canadian blue and snow varieties—that make Crab Orchard famous.

The refuge was established in 1947 for the express purpose of providing wintering areas for the geese. Before the establishment of Crab Orchard, Horsehoe Lake Conservation Area, near Cairo, was the favorite Illinois wintering ground of the "hokkers." All told, about 240,000 geese migrate to Southern Illinois in the autumn. About 60-65,000 spend the winter at Crab Orchard. Some of the geese use the refuge as a "stop-over" area before migrating further south.

Over 5,000 acres of refuge cropland are farmed to feed the geese. Grazing creatures, they feed on corn, milo, clover, green wheat and rice raised by share-croppers.

Their stay is Southern Illinois isn't a wholly pleasant one, however.

Goose hunting season in Illinois began Nov. 1. But, for the four counties of the state where the geese concentration in heaviest—Williamson, Jackson, Union and Alexander—the season will begin Monday.

The goose hunting season will remain in effect until an estimated 25,000 geese are killed in Illinois. Two Canada geese—the most common variety wintering in Illinois—is the daily limit for hunters.

For their smaller-winged, more-abled cousins, the ducks, the "bad season" began on Nov. 1. Duck wild America,

Crab Orchard Open House

Officials of the Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge have announced an open house for the general public from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sunday.

Many of the refuge's roads which are usually closed to public travel will be open. Visitors may spend as much time as they wish on the 44,000-acre refuge without special supervision. Refuge personnel will be present to answer questions, discuss wildlife and direct and assist visitors.

All visitors are cautioned that they must stay on the roads, refuge officials said. Visitors are free to stop their automobiles, get out, look around, take photographs and "take all the time they wish." Visitors may not, however, walk off the refuge's roadside into the refuge areas.

In addition to observing Crab Orchard's famous geese, visitors will have the opportunity to see white-tailed deer, ducks, quail, turkey and even bobwhite.

Early morning or late evening is the best time for observing deer and most other wildlife. At these times geese may be seen making their "feeding" flights into surrounding grain fields. Other interesting aspects of the massive refuge which the visitor may see include farm timber, industrial and farm pond management programs.

The tour route will start at Crab Orchard Lake on Wolf Creek Road, south of SIU's Vocational-Technical Institute, Wolf Creek Road is off Old Route 13, about two miles west of Illinois Route 148. Signs will be posted to direct visitors through the refuge.

An information sheet will be presented to visitors which will relate to various points of interest along the tour route.

Visitors are asked to observe directional signals and be careful of passing traffic.

Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge is under the jurisdiction of the U.S. Department of the Interior, Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife.

Statement required by law

Demonstrations approved

The policy statement as required by House Bill 1994, was drawn up by existing sources approved for campuses. Professor N. Morris reviewed the pertinent provisions of existing policies and brought them together into a single statement.

The Daily Egyptian will publish the complete text next week.

In effect, fundamental standards of conduct were specified by the University. Disruptive activities interfering with University functions, activities which are destructive to public or private property and those activities which interfere with the safety, welfare and rights of others, either in the University or in the community will be appropriately dealt with, the statement said.

East Side results

end Senate race

Difficulty in finalizing results of the East Side Dorm primaries election ended Thursday after Cynthia McAlpin, the top vote-getter, withdrew her candidacy.

The new East Side Dorm senators are Susan Mayer and Terry McEwen, both Unity party members.

The total for all candidates in the election are:

Bradt Towers: Frank Blanka, 156; Henry Burney, 159; Nicholas Campbell, 205; Allen Gaddis, 179; and William Moy, 28.

University Park: Leslie Trotter, 67; Sandra Jones, 340; Claire Tate, 230; Murray Mc., 450.

Communist party -- David Peifer, 63; Rico Gonsa, 54; Sue Wieland, 13.

East Side Dorm: Dennis Kosinski, 67; Howard Hancock, 50; Archie Lawrence, 29; Marvell Reid, 84.

East Side Nov-Dorm: Patricia D. Welsh, 56.

East Side Dorm: Susan Mayer, 48; Terry McEwen, 52.

During the discussion of policy, the Board also took up the issue of faculty conduct in regard to protests. "I would suggest that any faculty member who fails to meet with his class for demonstration purposes—that his name be given to the Board," said Board member Arthur Van Brown.

Edwardsville Chancellor John S. Rendleman replied that it was an individual matter and that questions were handled by the department chairman. It is a part of academic freedom, Rendleman said, and arrangements can be made to have another instructor teach the class, Board member E. T. Simonds asked what the policy was for this weekend concerning the Moratorium.

There is no change, Morris replied. Students have the option to be absent if they please. "What is the size of the problem, if there is a problem?" asked F. Guy Hirt, board member from Benton.

Rendleman replied "I have absolutely no complaint from the students."

Carbondale Chancellor Robert W. MacVicar concurred with Rendleman. "These complaints have been registered at the Chancellor's Office," he said.

The Board then agreed to a motion that faculty members who are derelict in holding classes for the purpose of taking part in demonstrations will be recorded and handled by the department chairmen. It is a part of academic freedom, Rendleman said, and arrangements can be made to have another instructor teach the class, Board member E. T. Simonds asked what the policy was for this weekend concerning the Moratorium.

There is no change, Morris replied. Students have the option to be absent if they please. "What is the size of the problem, if there is a problem?" asked F. Guy Hirt, board member from Benton.

Tonight's program is sponsored by the Afro-American Student Union. The public is invited.

Approval of University House

A correction to the minutes of the Board of Trustees meeting of April 19, 1968, was approved at the Wednesday night meeting of the Board regarding the approval of University House in excess of 120.

During that meeting, the initial plans for the house were approved in an executive session which followed the open meeting, as stated in the official minutes. The minutes will now officially read "An executive session followed, thereafter, the open meeting resumed..."
School of Home Econ reorganized

Reorganization of the SRU School of Home Economics into six departments from four has been approved by the State Board of Higher Education.

Equal opportunity for the sexes is provided as two new departments have men as chairmen, joining one appointed several years ago. Furthermore, during the interim when a search is on for a new dean to replace Efrem E. Quigley, who retired in August, a man is serving as acting dean, and it is rumored that at least one man has applied for the deanship.

Roy K. Bryant, who retired as long-time director of the Placement Services and has been serving on the staff of Chancellor Robert W. MacVicar, currently is in charge of the school.

The new departments have been formed from other departments. A child and family department has been detached from the former department of home and family, now renamed the department of family economics and management, while the interior design program, taught in the department of clothing and textiles for the past ten years, has become a separate department.

Michael Kunish, formerly associate professor in the home and family department, has been promoted to full professorship and named chairman of the new department of child and family. Walker J. Moran, formerly on the faculty of the University of North Carolina, Ohio University, and the University of Wisconsin, is now chairman of the interior design department.

Betty Johnston, chairman of the former home and family department, retains the chairmanship of the department of family economics and management, while Rose Pedlock, promoted to full professorship, continues as chairman of the clothing and textiles department.

Other departments in the School remain unchanged—food and nutrition, with Frank Koshiishi as chairman, and home economics education with Alma Parks as chairman. Koshiishi was on sabbatical leave during 1968-69 teaching and doing research at the University of Hawaii.

The School of Home Economics appointed its first full-time departmental chairman in 1959 and has had one or more male on its staff each year since then. Male students in home economics have become numerous in recent years, the great majority specializing in interior design but some turning to such fields as institution management. This year more than 40 men have majored in the school.
Correspondent talks on war from soldier's point of view

By Henry Presnall
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

John Sack, war correspondent for Esquire magazine, gave a rousing and emotional speech at Thursday's convocation in the SIU Arena. Sack, who has written about the Army and the Vietnam war for Esquire, Life, CBS News, Stars & Stripes and the New Yorker, gave an unusual speech about the war from the point of view of the American soldier.

"We all have an idea about what Vietnam is like," Sack told the audience. "But after having been with both soldiers in the jungles and officials at the Pentagon, I can tell you what it's like in Vietnam."

Sack said that the average American soldier from basic training with all its trials such as 24-hour reveille, and shirks hung only facing left, to the soldier entering a seemingly deserted Vietnam village for the first time, Sack revealed a new viewpoint on Vietnam and the many incidents which occur there.

Telling several stories about what many Americans would call savage acts by soldiers, Sack said, "The only thing that worries me is that everyone is trying to stay alive." "Calling the war "un-American,"' Sack said "The American soldier does what he has to do and then later thinks up reasons for justifying his actions."

"One reason for why the United States is in Vietnam, Sack very cynically said "The South Vietnamese will not fight the Communists, so we have to fight them so they won't take over South Vietnam. Lance, the Philippines, Hawaii, California and Illinois and so that the same things happen to Vietnam right now won't happen in America."

Sack pointed out that this is the reasoning of the average American soldier who is in Vietnam. Turning to the returning American soldier, Sack said that instead of having trouble adjusting to American society, the Vietnam soldier is "over-adjusted." According to a Gallup Poll, two-thirds of returning soldiers said the United States was a wonderland and their return had given a real appreciation of it during their time in Vietnam.

Concluding, Sack said that instead of helping soldiers re-adjust, everyone should "take society and twist it, and adjust it so that it can change itself and adjust to the color of human society."

'Amigo' is topic of discussion

"Amigo," an experimental and intercultural exchange program in special education and psychology between SIU and the University of Vera Cruz, will be the topic of a program at 7 p.m. Monday in the Home Economics Lounge.

Donations accepted for Betterton fund

Money is still being collected by the Department of Music to develop a student loan fund in honor of Mr. and Mrs. E.E. Betterton, who were killed last June.

At the time of his death, Betterton was coordinator of the Dennis Studios program in music at SIU.

According to Robert House, chairman of the Department of Music, when the loan fund reaches a large enough amount, it will be given to the Student, Work and Financial Aid Committee, which will administer it.

New black group will hold meeting

Blacks interested in discussing and finding proper organization at SIU, will meet at 9:30 p.m., Sunday in Room 24 of the Dyer Administration Building.

The discussion of the economic activity of the United States will take place. Interested persons are asked to attend.

Black job program started

A program to recruit black students as a means of reaching drop-out students in the Detroit area has been initiated by the State University of New York Placement Service.

Ralph W. Sullifer, director of the Placement Service, announced that the program, which was started in March, is designed to help black students find employment after graduation.

The program is aimed at students who are not interested in college and have dropped out of school.

It is hoped that the program will help these students find employment after graduation.

Missionaries must face man’s physical needs

"We must look for physical as well as mental needs of people," Steve Collier, president of the State University Student Union, told the State BSU convention last week.

"It’s a matter of having faith in the person, not in the Church, but in the person as a whole," Collier said.

A group of 34 BSU students attended the convention, Collier said.

It's not a 'pill or no pill' problem

Science causes overpopulation crisis

By Brent Borch Current Press Service

Our is a link of unprecedented problems. When have other people had to figure out how to hold tight a way because to fight is fully might endanger the whole world and in what other times has human futility blazed as a worldwide catastrophe?

The first of these problems, initiated by the holocaust of Hiroshima, was quickly understood. The second has taken longer and today the overpopulation menace is to talk Sunday

An SRU graduate student who spent two years in Vietnam will oppose America's involvement in the 'War there in an address before the Unitarian Fellowship at 10:30 a.m. Sunday.

The talk, by Jeffrey Long of the Community Development Department, is the second in a three-Sunday series, "Problems and Prospects in Vietnam," devoted to pro and con discussion of the Vietnam War.

Long will reply to Wesley Fishel, professor of government, who spoke last Sunday. The following Sunday will be devoted to a congregational give-and-take on the subject.

Long's talk will take note of the forthcoming Mora torpium and march on the na tion's capital tomorrow. He has served with the International Voluntary Services for two years.

The growth of the welfare state in Europe, began in the last century, is needed to save for families an insurance against poverty in old age.

In the nations of Asia, Africa and South America, where industrialization lags, these influences did not appear. Surplus children remained "spare" against the almost certain loss of many remaining through disease.

It is not surprising that these vast populations, all with low literacy rates, have been slow to adjust to the new facts of collective life. For all of preceding time their ancestors had nourished the sentiment that large families were a national, as well as a familial, blessing. Wanting many children was a part of the culture.

The population problem cannot be simplified into a "pill or no pill" problem. The need is to bring a new attitude, a new system of values, that, at the same time, is both revolutionary and appropriate to the current world environment.

Extra bonus
Never tip freely but...

'Tis cheaper to tip your hat

Poker, dice, Russian roulette—a typical game of chance. There's another game in which players have no chance—and no choice. Everybody plays and everybody loses.

The name of the game? Tipping.

Once a bonus for quick service, patience or friendly smile, tipping is now expected regardless of service, or lack of it.

Alaska oil rush means big money, but no jobs

FAIRBANKS, Alaska — The Great Oil Rush to the North Slope of this state is fast producing the Great Unemployment Crisis.

Workers flocking here are finding no work.

The Sept. 11 state lease sale of $900 million to oil companies made headlines all around the country. The reaction was reminiscent of the day George Carmack discovered gold almost 70 years ago in the Klondike Creek and ignited the feverish Gold Rush of '98.

At the turn of the century over 30,000 dreamers of the pot of gold struggled over the Chilkoot Pass to this far north country.

Nearly all of them found more gold wasn't where it was. The great claims were already staked out before their arrival.

SIU to host seminars for state funeral directors

Nearly 60 funeral directors from throughout the state will attend funeral service seminars presented by Fred SR. in Carbondale and Chicago next week.

Identical two-day seminars are scheduled at the Carbondale Holiday Inn Thursday and Friday, according to SR. Adult Education Coordinator Harold F. Engelsing said. The seminar is being offered in split sessions to cut down travel time and distance for participants.

Practical approaches to solutions of day-to-day problems in areas of management and human relations and personal development for the funeral service practitioner will be offered at the seminar.

Speakers will include Charles H. Nichols, director of the National Foundation of Funeral Service, who will cover mortuary management, and Glenn Drake, a human relations specialist.

Student Senate: close Vietnam Center

By P. E. Heins
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Meeting in a special session Wednesday afternoon, the Student Senate called for the immediate termination of the Government Studies and Programs on campus.

A resolution, submitted by Pat Gilchristy, was adopted, calling for an immediate and immediate action to end the center.

The resolution states, "The action shall commence Wednesday, Nov. 18 in the form of demonstration and protest outside the Chancellor's Office and related locations." A resolution not to collect signatures but rather to involve every individual to actively participate," will also be circulated.

The petition claims that Wesley Propson, visiting research in a CIA official at Michigan State University trained his police and that in the past eight years, the university has helped to "speculate and advanced training to more than 4,000 SIVU professors," including over 200 provincial chiefs. It is evident that these provincial chiefs carry out the oppression of the people in the villages and strategic elements.

Propson was former chief of the SIVU's advisory group on Vietnam from 1956-85 and an original consultant to the SIVU center.

He currently heads the subcommittee working on the development of a scholarly journal and belongs to the advisory committee.

As chief of the Vietnam Studies Mission for the SIVU Group in 1956, Propson was allegedly involved in a CIA scandal reported in Ramparts Magazine.

The resolution called by SIVU Chancellor Robert W. MacVicar agreed with Propson.

"The only purpose of the center as set up by the grant (one million dollars) is academic, there are no provisions for training of any sort. We will not send anyone over from the Center or from SIVU if anyone is sent, he will be sent by the federal government," MacVicar said.

In other Senate business, a resolution calling for continued investigations into the funding of University House was passed.

The bill claimed that "no matter how the palace is paid for, it still inevitably comes out of the pocket of the working class people of this nation." The issue, according to the resolution submitted by Mike Bowman and Linda John, is whether a $1 million palace should be constructed at all when students and many other people are living in sub-standard housing.

Other facilities are needed, the bill claimed, including the long delayed overpass at Route 18 and Harwood Avenue.

In other student government news, Allan Keith Jr., residence hall communications officer of the "Serve the People" newsletter, Keith said he will continue to assist with the paper.

He’s never ‘safe’

SIU umpire dodges raw-eggs, rocks

An SIU student was pulled with rocks, had raw eggs thrown, at his home and came within a quarter of an inch of losing his life. He was not pursuing the sport of umpiring, but was running for president of the Student Union. Tom Romenecko, a graduate student from Appleton, Wis., has been a professional umpire since 1966. He started in the Midwest League, and has been umpiring in the Florida State League of the Class A minor league system since 1967.

"It was last July 14, when I must have gotten pulled with about 20 rocks," Romenecko jokingly recalled. "I was Arena will be open for men’s rec use

The SIU Arena will be open to male students from 8-10:30 p.m. this Saturday and Sunday for recreational use.

All participants are required to come dressed-wearing rubber soled

Facilities will be available, for basketball, volleyball and badminton. Admission requires an SIU identification card and a current fee statement.

"The fans were really angry," Romenecko said. "When we got to our car after the game, it was covered with broken raw eggs. The local police had to escort us out of town. We drove all night to Cape Kennedy, about 700 miles, the location of our next assignment, to avoid any further confrontation," Romenecko said.

Bob Hesl, umpire in a 25-inning game between the West Palm Beach Braves and the Leesburg Athletics," Romenecko said. "The game took from 6 p.m. to 12:05 a.m. I was so stiff that night I couldn’t sleep.

Also during the 1967 season Romenecko came within a quarter of an inch of losing his life. While he was a plate umpire, he was hit on the side of the head by a bat with a back swing. Luckily the ball struck the quarter-inch strip which holds the face mask to the head. Doctors told Romenecko that if it wasn’t for this strap he might not have lived.

Romenecko related an incident that occurred while he was umpiring the bases during a Tampa Tarpons game in 1967. "There was a large promotion going into Third Base," Romenecko said. "The fans were very angry, and the scene was really wild. They were throwing things at Third Base, but there wasn’t a single call at second base," Romenecko remembered. "I called the rundown from the home team out and the fans went pretty angry.

"George Sugar, manager of the Tampa Tarpons, came running out of the dugout," Romenecko said. "Sugar said he knew the runner was out, but he had to get out and swear if he was disputing the call because the fans were excited," Romenecko said. Romenecko plans to leave SIU, following winter quarter, for spring training with a minor league affiliate of the St. Louis Cardinals. He will be running his graduate wrestling. He hopes to eventually become a major league umpire. Next season he plans to move into a Class A position. "Umpires don’t advance as fast as baseballers," Romenecko said. "There’s more to learn.

Though mosquitoes are only one part of the planet, the females of many species feed blood to mature their eggs. Some mosquitoes feed on reptiles and frogs, but the favorite victims are warm-blooded prey.

On line Saturday:

winning SIU year,

Drake's bowl bid

By Mike Klein
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A winning football season and a post-season bowl bid are on the line Saturday when the Salukis take on Drake University in McAndrew Stadium.

By virtue of their 48-27 victory over Ball State University last weekend, the Salukis will have their first opportunity since the Youngstown University game early in the season to go over the .500 mark when they host the Drake Bulldogs.

Drake will bring in a 3-4-2 record and must be victorious over the Salukis to remain in contention for a bid to the Pecan Bowl, played in Arlington, Texas.

The Bulldogs' only loss was against Northern Illinois, a traditional rivalry, with ties against the University of Louisville, 24-24, and Arkansas State, 21-21.

Drake scored eight points last week against Arkansas State with no time remaining in the game. The Salukis had ended with a penalty and according to rules, must be continued for one play.

The Bulldogs scored a touchdown and then made a two-point conversion to take the lead.

The Saluki defensive secondary will see a lot of action Saturday as Drake is basically a passing team with little ground game.

Sophomore quarterback Mike Grejowski of Skokie, Ill., is leading the team with 802 yards, followed by John Howard with 703 yards, and Jerome Howard with 694 yards.

Drake's leading receiver in senior Duane Miller, a converted defensive back, has 42 catches for 420 yards.

The Salukis could be a key to the win.
