Students sign for Nixon impeachment

More than 1,100 students signed an American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) petition Monday urging Congress to impeach President Richard M. Nixon, ACLU's Southern Illinois chapter, in special sessions Sunday morning, opposed to "backhanded and more enthusiastically than ever the (ACLU) national statement" supporting impeachment proceedings, said C. Harvey Gardiner, executive council member and research professor of history.

Gardiner said the local chapter's concern is to transmit the "seriousness of conditions and the desirability of impeachment proceedings" to the area population.

A table staffed by Fred Whitehead, assistant professor in English, and some students will be set up in the Student Center throughout the week to collect signatures on the petitions. Whitehead, who reported that 1,100 students had signed petitions late Monday night, said petitions will be sent to Rep. Kenneth Gray (D-West Frankfort) and copies forwarded to Sen. Adlai Stevenson and Charles Percy and to the House Judiciary Committee.

The petitions were drawn up by ACLU after its National Board passed a resolution in March calling for "impeachment" public evidence of President Nixon's participation in high crimes and misdemeanors and resulting violations of the law and individual civil liberties.

Whitehead said he decided to set up the tables in the name of the Committee to Defend the Right to Speak of which he is faculty advisor. Larry Roth, a CRES member, acted surprised when asked about the petition-signing effort, but later said Whitehead had told him Sunday night that the table would be set up.

Roth said he "personally doesn't care" if Nixon is impeached because he doesn't see it as the real solution to government corruption.

Lynn Batker, a junior, helped at the table Monday afternoon and reported most students are enthusiastic about signing. "I hope this will give Rep. Gray an idea of how many students are behind him," she said.

Typical of students signing the petition was Jim Sueta, an unclassified grad student. He believes Nixon overplayed his hand in the firings of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, and wants the "political chicanery" stopped.

Stuart, like most students questioned, didn't know much about successors to the President should Nixon be impeached.

"But I think he should be kicked out," he said. "It would be better to get somebody in there with a clean slate.

Creator said the chapter's decision is not "automatic a priori endorsement of him (Cox) or his operation," but concern is with Nixon's behavior.

Cox's firing, Garden said, was the latest example of Nixon's "willingness to distort the channels of justice."

Parade highlights Homecoming activities

"Loud" is the best description for the Homecoming parade which will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday, Bob Saleg, Homecoming advisor, said Monday. "We expect 25 marching bands this year," Saleg said. "Last year we had five.

In addition to bands, stunts and baton twirlers, at least 10 floats have been entered in the parade, Saleg said. October 23 is the deadline for all parade entries.

The parade, corresponding with the 1973 Homecoming theme, "Houses of the Horoscope," will begin at the corner of Illinois Avenue and Walnut Street, proceed south on Illinois past Grand Avenue, west at McAndrew Stadium, continue past the Student Center and end at the Arena.

In addition to the parade and football game (SIU vs. Akron at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in McAndrew Stadium), Homecoming activities include:
- Thursday: "All Star Frogs" will play from 7:30 to 11:30 p.m. at a dance in the Roman Rooms of the Student Center.
- Thursday: Mentalist Mark Longord's deadline predictions for the Oct. 25 Daily Egyptian and Southern Illinoisan will be revealed at 5 p.m. in the Student Center Ballrooms.
- Friday: "The Signal" and "Mother Goose" will play from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the Roman Rooms.
- Friday: Joe Stains and the Medallions will play from 8 p.m. to midnight in the International Lounge of the Student Center.
- Friday: Booths featuring fortune tellers, free fortune cookies, and appearances by Merlin the Magician will be open in the Student Center Ballrooms all evening.

- Saturday: Paul Simon will perform in the SIU Arena at 8 p.m.
- Sunday: Recovery and recreation.

Local Nixon poll shows concern

By David C. Miller Jr. and Marcia Bullard
Daily Egyptian Staff Writers

A telephone poll of 20 Carbondale-Murphysboro homes Monday showed a lot of local concern but little action regarding recent national political developments.

Only one of the 20 had written letters to area congressmen. The majority said they had considered it seriously but had not yet gotten around to writing or calling. One person indicated he would wait two days for further developments.

The poll asked opinions about the firing of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, the resignation of Spiro Agnew as vice president, Nixon's leadership ability and his future as president. Questions and sampling techniques were not scientifically designed.

One person refused any comment at all, saying she had not heard or read enough about the situations.

Evaluations of Nixon's leadership ability since 1972 varied among respondents. Various persons claimed Nixon is "high-handed," some merely displayed skepticism of his present effectiveness as a leader.

One man who identified himself as a "dyed-in-the-wool Republican" said he had lost all respect for Nixon as president, but not in the presidency itself.

Most knew Speaker of the House Carl Albert is next in line for the presidency should Nixon resign or be removed from office. However, Albert's background and character is a puzzle to most of those polled. A few said they are aware that Albert is a Oklahoma Democrat with a reputation for being "solid," but beyond that, know little about him.
Plan to vote anyway

Trustee referendum unknown to students

Joel Preston, a student in charge of public relations for the referendum, said at the time of the Thompson Point canvass, most of the 730 respondents were either unfamiliar or vaguely familiar with the referendum.

"During the survey, most canvassers informed the residents about the referendum and provided detailed information on it," Preston said. The vast majority of respondents, after this process, indicated interest in the referendum and a desire to vote.

Preston said, "Our ads this week were tailor-made to answer the questions posed by the people interviewed.

Contenfts by canvassers on the returned tally sheets ranged from skepticism to optimism.

Egil Olaf Dobranzans, canvasser at Pierce Hall, wrote "As for those that I got across to, they were very grateful that someone actually took the time to explain the whole procedure to them."

"As for some others, I doubt if I even got the point across." Dobranzans said. There are just not people to answer and out the other.

Warren Hall Canvasser Thomas Ret-zinger wrote "This type of thing is totally irrelevant to the inhabitants of high halls. Halls are everly autonomous and or apathetic and the students will be in Springfield in June." Warren Hall is comprised of graduate students. Ret-zinger said.

Eager to vote once I explained

er.

Sue Crumey, canvasser at Bowyer Hall wrote.

Barb Bentfeile, coordinator of the canvassing procedure at Thompson Point, said "most who had read the leaflet were skeptical about a student on the board without voting power."

Reacting to the survey canvass, Preston said he was not surprised at the numbers who were not familiar with the student Trustee Referendum.

"This canvass was specifically designed to inform the student body about the Board seat," he said.

Preston added that the east site campus canvassers were tabulated and said a special canvass of the Triads (the men's dorms in University Park) was held Tuesday night. Leaflets, posters, more door-to-door canvassing, canvassing by phone and on-air canvassing on the days of the referendum are still being utilized, Preston said.

The four options available to students on the two-day referendum are:

1. The Student Body President applicates with ratification by the student Senate and the Graduate Student Council (GSC).

2. A joint Student Government-GSC

commitee would develop a list of can-dides for submission to the student body in a general election.

3. A joint Student Government-GSC

committee would develop a list of can-dides with the Student Senate and GSC to vote from that list.

4. General student body election.

Demands increase for impeachment

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Demands for President Nixon's resignation or impeachment mounted Monday even as the new acting attorney general pledged vigorous pursuit of the Watergate investigation.

House Speaker Carl Albert and other congressional leaders worked on plans for how to proceed with impeachment resolutions promised by angry

members in the wake of Nixon's firing Sat-day night of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox.

Nixon, first at the White House and then at his Camp David, Md., retreat, considered using a televised speech to present his side of the case to the nation.

U.S. Solicitor General Robert H. Bork

said the staff and evidence assembled by Cox would be used to pursue the Watergate probe. Bork became acting attorney general when Atty. Gen. Elliot

William D. Ruckelshaus was dismissed Saturday night over Cox's firing.

He put the investigation under the supervision of Henry E. Petersen, the assistant attorney general in charge of the criminal division.

Petersen said he retains "ultimate authority and responsibility" for the investigation. When Nixon fired Cox, he also abolished the office of special prosecutor, which had handled the case since May.

While White House aides sought to mollify critical senators and congressmen with explanations of Nixon's action, criticism of the move continued to pile up -- a significant amount of it from Republicans.

The AFL-CIO's national convention in Miami Beach, Fla., shouted approval to a resolution calling for Nixon to resign or be impeached if he didn't.

Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, a member of the Senate Watergate committee, told the convention Nixon should resign because Americans "have suffered enough" and "must be spared this new pain and trauma."

The public flocked Western Union with telegrams to Washington. Some 8,000 were sent to Cox's former office.

The president of the American Bar Association urged Congress to reestablish the office of the special prosecutor, a move a number of senators and representatives also admitted.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.,

urged the Senate Judiciary Committee to investigate what he called ac-culating evidence that last week's tapes battle was a pretext to fire Cox for "too hot on the White House trail."

Kennedy said Nixon should consider resigning to spare the country the anguish of impeachment proceedings.

Coal purifier to be tested at SIU

SPRINGFIELD (AP) - Gov. Daniel

Walker announced Monday that new equipment designed to scrub impurities out of high-sulfur Illinois coal will be tested at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

If the scrubber works, Walker said, it will serve as a model to encourage public utilities and private industries to use coal. As the sulfur from lbe burning high-sulfur coal violates air pollution standards proposed by federal and state Environmental Protection Agencies for as early as 1975.

Changes in the standards have been urged, however, because of the current shortage of other energy sources and because of the impact of the state's coal industry.

"We are caught in a vise," Walker said.

"On the one side is the fact that Illinois has one of the largest coal reserves in the nation. But it is also a fact that the high-sulfur content of Illinois coal poses some health hazards," he said.

The Senate Judiciary Committee

not to override his amendatory veto and pass a bill ending the state EPA ban on the use of Illinois coal.

Such action, he said, would bring an immediate ban on coal burning from the federal government.

Walker said his amendments to the bill, if supported by the legislature, would allow state and local governments to ban while hearings are held on air pollution standards.

He said he was hopeful that by the time the hearings were completed the environmental problem as it relates to coal would be tested and be generally available.

Egypt and Israel ordered their troops to silence their guns Monday after 17 days of bloody talk, infantry and aerial confrontations.

But a U.N. Security Council cease-fire decree that called for an immediate stop to hostilities was ready to halt its part in the two-front Middle East war.

There was no cease-fire on the Syrian front, declared a high-ranking Israeli official.

Damasus said it was studying the U.N. appeal and the major Arab nation fighting with the Syrians, rejected it.

After the cease-fire deadline the Israeli command said firing was continuing in some areas of the Egyptian sector of the Sinai.

"There is no clear picture," a command source said.

Cairo and Tel Aviv announced they had handed down orders to their troops to keep their fire unless fired upon along the Suez Canal front that has been hit by artillery barrages since Oct. 6.

The Israeli state radio reported Egyptian artillery was still shelling Israel's beachhead on the western side of the Suez Canal several minutes after the cease-fire officially went into effect at 5:30 p.m. - 11:30 a.m. CDT.

But their radio's correspondents said later the central sector of the battlefield was quiet and Egypt's Middle East Secretary of State on Thursday rejected claims that authorities "reopened" Cairo airport for the first time since the war began.

The truce was jointly presented by the Soviet Union and the United States, the two superpowers behind the warring parties. It was voted in the Security Council early Monday after an agreement worked out in Moscow over the weekend by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger with Yississippian Prime Minister Leonid I. Brezhnev.

In addition to the cease-fire in place, in addition to the cease-fire in place, President Richard M. Nixon's special envoy to the Arab world, John A. M. Hammarskjold from Sweden and Israel and Syria, held urgent negotiations aimed at a lasting peace agreement for the Middle East, site of four wars since the Jewish state was declared in 1948.

The Middle East war is in play in accepting the cease-fire, if it continues, could undermine efforts to carry out the post-cease-fire negotiations.

Kissinger stopped in Israel briefly Monday before leaving for Cairo from Moscow to confer with Premier Golda Meir and other Israeli leaders, presumably to fill them in on the subsequent steps intended in the cease-fire agreement.

The top U.S. diplomat, again playing the negotiating role that won him a share of the 1975 Nobel Peace Prize, flew to London for a stopover there on his way back to Washington.

The cease-fire came with the Israelis claiming a net gain of about 1,130 square miles of Arab land over the truce lines settled on at the close of the 1967 Middle East War.

This additional occupation constituted the United States' main reason for calling for in the Security Council resolution.

Kissinger officials said their forces held 745 square miles of territory in a middle sector of the Sinai which the Israeli army was rendering Egypt proper, west of the Suez Canal. The Israeli retreat is the cease-fire line since Israel seized the Sinai peninsula from Egypt in the 1967 war.

Motorcycle skid fatally injures SIU student

An SIU student was injured fatally Sunday afternoon when his motorcycle hit a truck on Rt. 51 South. Jackson County Sheriff's deputies reported.

Donald R. Stahl, 22, of Ceder Lawn trailer court was rushed to Doctors Hospital, ill an SIU student, he had died some 45 minutes later police said.

Senate to announce criteria for funding

The Student Senate Finance Committee met at 7:15 p.m. Tuesday in the Student Government Office third floor of the Student Center to announce the criteria for funding third priority groups.

Jim Adams, committee chairman, said the meeting should also determine what will be done with the fourth priority groups requesting funds from the Student Senate.

Intercollegiate athletic groups are included in fourth priority while student organizations are in the third priority.

The meeting is open to the public.

Alcohol on campus recommendation sought

Students interested in drawing up a resolution to allow alcohol on campus for meetings meet from 3 to 5 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday in Activities Room C of the Student Center.

Kamm, student senator from the west side non-dorms, said these present at the meeting will try to come up with a proposal on alcohol to give to the Student Senate Wednesday night. If approved by the senate, a recommendation will be sent to President David R. Derge, Kamm said.

Derge has asked for opinions about proposals made from the Student, Faculty and University Senates.

A roommate helped locate police where he spotted the truck driver heading north when he noticed the appropriate two-front committee to sign a curve. He said he swerved his truck into the road to avoid a potential collision. The driver skidded across the road and hit the front of the truck landing over ten feet behind. Stahl slid under the truck.

The truck driver escaped injury and was not ticketed, police reported.

Mrs. Derge to speak on recent visit to mainland China

A mid-day jaunt to the other side of the world will be served at Wednesday night when Mrs. David R. Derge speaks on: "A Feminine View of Mainland China."

Mr. Derge's wife, the president of SIU last June when he escorted two U.S. basketball teams to the People's Republic of China, will relate her impressions of the trip later this week. She was one of the first U.S. women to go to China this year.

A roundtable program in the Mississippi Room of the Student Center will start at 12:35 p.m. Reservations for the $1 a place meal and Learning session must be placed by noon Monday. Mrs. Derge, a graduate of the Miller of the Division of Continuing Education is coordinator of the program.

Free seats, without lunch, will be available on a limited basis for those who wish to listen.
Does less tuition equal more students?

The latest bandwagon rumbling around SIU is labeled " tuition cap." It is being readily endorsed by several campus groups.

It's about the first sensible budget talk in a long time.

There are laws of supply and demand in this society which cannot be rescued for too long. No matter how it insults the ideological instructor, education is a product. And just as you would not be selling at a loss, you are selling at a loss if the enrollment falls.

The Faculty Senate's most exciting turn of the night was the resolution to be seconded by Marcia Bullard, the current Student Senate and University to draw up resolutions asking President Derge to consider a tuition drop. He's also fingering out the Illinois Board of Higher Education about a tuition cut for fiscal 1976.

There are some very serious considerations to lowering tuition which must be weighed carefully. If the fee is reduced, SIU assumes more students really want a college education but can't afford it. As price goes down, SIU expects enrollment to go up. This seems reasonable. It may also be one of the other state universities, pulling students away from them and to Southern Illinois.

If SIU is to get away from school for reasons other than financial ones, SIU might be in for a most interesting year.

The school takes chances any way it goes. Other methods of attracting students have been tried in the last few years with mixed results. Lowering tuition may be the bid that will win the numbers game.

Letters to the Daily Egyptian

Offices define Faculty Senate responsibilities

To the Daily Egyptian:

There are many things that Diane Miziaklo doesn't know, and no end of things she doesn't understand, about the most important thing of all, the work of the Faculty Senate. This being the case, her editorial comments (October 16) on the Senate's action on alcohol are quite unrealistic. The Senate makes every effort, of course, to maintain good relations with the student body. The impact of alcohol on our teaching, research, and served environment is very real and cannot be hidden.

A few points for Ms. Miziaklo's edification:

1. President Derge does not determine the Faculty Senate's agenda, and the Senate is not bound by the debate on this topic when, and if, it happens, unless it is unreal. The Senate makes every effort, of course, to maintain good relations with the student body. The impact of alcohol on our teaching, research, and served environment is very real and cannot be hidden.

2. The Faculty Senate has a very heavy load of work, and we are not at all easy, why the question of alcohol on campus should have over-riding priority. After all, we have had for years numerous and cumbersome rules and regulations regarding this issue.

3. The Senate has a very heavy load of work, and it is not at all easy, why the question of alcohol on campus should have over-riding priority. After all, we have had for years numerous and cumbersome rules and regulations regarding this issue.

Diane Miziaklo says she knows lots more than she tells. Editor.

After the above material was set in type Professor Hardenbergh, secretary of the Faculty Senate, provided this statement to the Daily Egyptian:

"I agree with the editor's letter indicating disagreement with a portion of the text contained in Paragraph 3. This paragraph of the Hardenbergh et version is appended. Editor.

3. The Faculty Senate worked hard and long during the summer on many important, if not always very exciting issues. These included admission policies, honors requirements, General Studies revision, grievance procedures, and a large number of matters related to the transition to the semester system. Most important, actions by the Faculty Senate contributed substantially to persuading President Derge to attempt (belatedly, perhaps inadequately, but still important) to amend the administration's behavior. The Faculty Senate owes every student its very little apology."

Carbondale pharmacist answers IPJRG

To the Daily Egyptian:

For the past few weeks, I have been reading articles in the Daily Egyptian concerning the Pharmacist of Carbondale. It is time for someone to speak on behalf of the Pharmacist and present his side of the issue.

At the onset, I would like to say that I do not know of any pharmacist in Carbondale, regardless of the approval upon presentation of a prescription, give a price, I personally also at the pharmacist.

Competition in Carbondale is very great among drugs. As any student of elementary economics knows, the basic law of supply and demand will cause price to be self-limiting. All one has to do is look down the street. There are many pharmacists in Carbondale. There is quite a supply of drug stores. In addition to the Carbondale drug stores, SIU gets its drugs from a pharmacy which provides the student with all the drugs he may need. SIU gets special state or institution prices on many drugs. SIU does not pay anybody a commission with the pharmacist. In was said that the pharmacist has not complied with his wishes "as if they had something to hide."

I think this is unfair. One would wonder if he or she would file a complaint with the IRS which was subsequently done.

I don't see how it is fair. I did not object so much to giving him the prices as I did to his attitude and the fact, I believe, that he was not in compliance to Mr. Stevenson in compliance with their demands. He did not take it, rather he gave another list and said the first one was not the correct one. He gave thorough examination and a detailed discussion with several other pharmacists in Carbondale, I remarked that the conclusion that no research at all had been done toward the preparation of the list. As an article in the Daily Egyptian stated that a doctor and a pharmacist from Carbondale had prepared it. I find it incredible that such a list could have been prepared by anyone from Carbondale. It is far from being representative of the most commonly used drugs in Carbondale as any Carbondale pharmacist can tell you.

Not only is it not representative, there are such drugs as aspirin and ibuprofen which do not exist, some are listed without strengths and several for which there exist no generic equivalents in any pharmacy. I believe if IPJRG is concerned that the student gets a "fair price," no or he would file a complaint with the IRS which was subsequently done.

May I please state again that I prised the first list in compliance with the list of approved drugs as directed by the directive of the IRS, I priced the second list to the best of my ability.

When the IPJRG representatives were questioned as to who funds their operation, who their officers are, who funds it, no money, no answer was given. Yet the pharmacist is expected to answer questions which apparently were originally for the purpose of compiling a list for publication in a newspaper. Since they have not done so, I have an opinion that it would appear that their organization is self-serving and is out for recognition and possible monetary gain.

Priorities: a defense of academic elitism

James A. Perkins, chairman of International Council for Educational Development and former president of Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching

After six years of work and the expenditure of several millions of dollars, the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education has published its 22nd and final report. This report, released in Washington by the Carnegie Corporation of New York, is the apex of a series of the preceding 21 reports, an assessment of the state of higher education in the United States and a look to the future.

In the opening sections of the report, the Commission notes that higher education in the United States is in crisis—"a crisis of poverty in one generation," from unprecedented growth in the 1960's to a slowing down of rising enrollments in the 1970's and a probable decline in the number of "traditional" students on campuses in the 1980's and beyond. Other problems are pointed out: the political crisis ("...new confrontations on campus and off are just as possible in the future as the potentialities for such future confrontations are blindly, ignored in the present."); the burdens of the students, who have prospered and to have lost never to have prospered at all, and the transition to the new universities (which was the adjustment to the new prosperity); the demographic change that this represents (there now marks a first descent into a strange world where all the old certainties seem thought to be limitless); the adjustment to universal access ("the current transition is a transformation of such magnitude that we cannot label it as College capacity to train students has expanded only very slightly or even to provide places for graduates at the level of their training."); and expectations ("Women and men, in one form or another, want their hope for faculty positions at a time when the system is not ready, and the result of these difficulties, a confidence crisis."

The report accuses the higher education community of having failed to deal with these issues, and states that four strong reasons why higher education will, and must, resume its forward motion.

The report states unequivocally that new directions are needed, that traditional standards of excellence must not be lost, and that the public must be involved in defining what higher education is all about. The Commission set forth in the report a call for "Critical Change," separate from its previous publication on the subject.

Noting that its "priorities for action are for the present time and that they will be supplanted in the future by new goals when the country becomes more pressing, the Commission discusses in detail three additional priorities: "Preservation and Enhancement of Quality," "Flexibility and Diversity," and "Reconciliation of Social Justice," "Enhancement of Constructive Change," "Achievement of More Effective Governance," and "Assurance of Resources and Their More Efficient Use."

In addition to its 22 commission reports, the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education has undertaken 68 sponsored research reports, of which 22 "report have not been completed but will be forthcoming with the publication of this report. A number of which are yet to be published. The six year study represents a new level of investigation into the most complex facets of higher education. Established and funded in 1967 by the Carnegie Corporation for the Advancement of Teaching, the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education consists of 19 members representing foundations, industry, law, and government. The sheer magnitude of its work and the combined prestige of its distinguished membership assures that the publications of the Commission will have an impact on higher education thought and direction. The simple fact that the commission reports, including "Priorities for Action," contain good ideas, and occasionally great ideas, bears witness to the enormous impact that the Commission's work may have on higher education more than "considerable.

In addition, the Commission notes that its reports have added a new dimension to the conduct of higher education, that its reports are as specific as feasible so that the recommendations can be put into operation, and are directed to those who can do something about the issues discussed in the reports. The money invested by the Foundation has been well spent for their publication. As a result, however, a latent danger in this strength and clarity of purpose is that the recommendations of the Commission will be taken uncritically. Unquestionably the work of the Commission has drawn, will draw, and must draw its information from educators. All, however, the focus has been upon higher education. Occasionally the Commission has been led to certain assumptions, as in the press, for example, the Gallup Poll, and has made conclusions drawn from other non-educational sources. In general, this is good. Perhaps, the Commission has given too long in turn to Mr. grassroots American.

The fact that the Commission members are, after all, human beings, and as such may occasionally be wrong. For example, in the discussion of the priorities in this final report, the Commission states, "Students should be involved in the evaluation of teaching," and at another point, "we are opposed to students' membership on boards of trustees and faculty senates at their own institutions." Both proposals are somewhat ridiculous. The former is a result of being too close to a more ridiculous attempt to influence students' priorities, and the latter seems to have been made in a clunky attempt to force the student to become an active participant in their own education. Both proposals were less successful than would have been a more responsible attempt to shape the student's life.
Theater will present Coward’s ‘Hay Fever’

Noel Coward’s comedy “Hay Fever” will be presented on the University Theater stage at 8 p.m. on Nov. 2, 3 and 4. “Hay Fever” (1925) is typical of Coward’s comic style and is characterized by a spirit of fun. In the play, each member of the Bolterman Bliss family (father, mother, son, daughter) invites a member of the opposite sex to be a guest at the Bliss manor for the weekend. Confusion reigns throughout the play, and witty dialogue prevails.

Christian H. Mee, professor of theater, is director of the nine-member cast composed of Jeanne and Steve Drukulic, Amy Sunshine, Margaret Richards, Rich McCormick, Larry Luchtel, Monica Migliorin, John Ramik and Margaret Fones. On Nov. 30, Dec. 1 and 2 the Southern Players will feature the University Theater production of “Tartuffe” by Moliere, a powerful drama that portrays the corrosive influence of a decadent religion upon society. The humor of William Shakespeare’s will take the stage on Feb. 1, 2 and 3 in “All’s Well That Ends Well.” The comic plot features the clever maneuverings of the daughter of a deceased physician as she schemes to win the love of her choice.

Luis Pinedo’s drama of appearance and reality, “Six Characters in Search of An Author,” will be performed on May 17, 18 and 19. Six characters from a play assume their own life and invade a rehearsal from another play.

The University Theater will conclude its 1973-74 billing on May 3, 4 and 5 with a performance by the SU Repertory Dance Theater in a concert of original dances entitled “Dances from the Boats.” Admission to all plays is $1.75 for students and $2.50 for general public. Season coupon books are available for $7.50 which include a coupon for each production exchangeable for a reserved seat. Tickets may be purchased either at the University Theatre Box Office or the Central Ticket Office. Further information is available at 453-3941.

Carbondale Police Chief Joe Dakin was offered an arrest Monday afternoon, and he couldn't resist.

Returning from the shooting range behind the Carbondale wastewater treatment plant off Old Rt. 13 east, Dakin joked about his one-month marksmanship classes with Tom McNamara, his administrative assistant, and Bob Trentacosta, supervisor of services for the Carbondale police.

Several hundred yards ahead, an old, black sedan with two large dogs as passengers and a young man driving down the sundial main.

"What the hell is he doing?" McNamara exclaimed.

Peace concert for Israel fund set for Sunday

A "Concert for Peace," featuring 15 students from the Southern Illinois Symphony Orchestra and three noted soloists, will be held in Carbondale Sunday to raise funds for the Unna Jewish Appeal. Time and place for the concert have not yet been determined.

Chuck Dunn, member of SIU Hillel Foundation, said the concert is being organized by Bob Chamberlin, an SIU alumnus. Admission is free, but donations will be asked for the Israel Emergency Fund. Ms. Dunn and SIU Hillel have raised $2,371 for the Fund so far.

The concert is scheduled to include:

- The Webster College Choral Ensemble singing "Magnificat" by di Laus and medieval Hebrew chants.
- Organ recital by Bob Chamberlin, with Professor Will Botbie, Department of Music, on flute.
- St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.
- Harpsichord recital by Bob Chamberlin, including the "Trio Sonata.

Further information, maybe obtained by contacting Hillel at 637-7729.

Gus 'the Greek' is pinball wizard

By David Korbilith
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

After 102 glueling games of man against the silver ball, Gus (the Greek) Papellis emerged as this year's pinball wizard.

Papellis, 29, a Carbondale resident and SIU student, outplayed 18 other red-eye and raw-handed pinball enthusiasts Sunday at the second annual "Wizard's Tourney" at the Downstairs Arcade.

The tournament, which started Friday, played host to a total of 45 pinballers from as far away as Greenville, Tenn. In all, the contesttants played at total of 2,000 games.

Papellis, who received the first prize of 2,000 dimes, is not the most scientific player, but he gets the job done, he explained. "Just try and do the best I can."

"I think I'm pretty good," Papellis said. "I have coordination and concentration. Those are important assets to have when playing pinball."

Papellis was playing pinball since he was tall enough to look over the glass on a machine," he said. Papellis said he does not play a lot, but he does hold a world's record on one of the machines.

Pete (Plunger) Brown, the pinball enthusiast from Greenville and this year's second place winner, was wary of Papellis and the other local competition, he said Friday.

Brown, the co-author of a partially written manual on pinball technique, knew he would place in the finals. However, he did not know enough about the local competition to predict what place he would finish in.

Glen Deitell, 17, another contestant, did not really care about the competition. As his sister Monica, 19, an SIU student said, "He's just having a good time."

Deitell decided to make the trip from Chicago despite his broken leg. "He really likes playing pinball," Ms. Deitell added.

Deitell, who finished in third place, has had a broken eardrum. "He's also 'really blind'," Ms. Deitell said, so he has to wear contact lenses. "He's probably the closest thing here to the original pinball wizard."

Ms. Deitell was referring to the legendary "deaf, dumb and blind kid" who played pinball, portrayed by the rock group "Who" in the first rock opera.

"During qualifications the atmosphere in the arcade was relaxed," Mike Murphy, manager of the Downstairs Arcade said. "But, the finals where different."

"The tension was high when the contestants started the last few rounds of competition," Murphy said. "They weren't playing for fun anymore on Sunday."

Although many of the opponents of the many contestants, the stuffy, smoky atmosphere and the continual noise of the "ding" encluded many of the pinballers.

Even though they were worn out, the pinballers all played as though their energy was saved for the final ball. The next ball meant the difference between winning and losing.

Directory to be sent Tuesday

The new edition of Southern Illinois University-Carbondale's office and staff directory will be distributed Tuesday, according to Keith Connelly, superintendent of the SIU-C Printing Service.

Distribution will be to faculty and staff offices on the basis of one per telephone installation.

Listings include faculty and staff employees, home and office addresses and telephone numbers, spouse's name, title and highest degree earned.

Copies for individual sales will be available later in the week at the Student Center bookstore, according to A. B. Muffin, director of University Graphics. No price has been set as yet.

Board rejects four for Miss Southern

By Debby Baerlmann
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Ten women were approved to compete in the Miss Southern pageant, at 8 p.m. Friday in the Student Center Assembly Hall.

Fourteen persons entered, but four did not meet entrance requirements. Bill Wesley, member of the Miss Southern executive board, said Monday.

"The fact that only 14 people entered the contest, while 700 have signed petitions against it, shows that more students are against the contest than are for it," Larry Ruth, co-sponsor of the student body, said by condemning the contest as "sexist," said Monday.

Both, a member of the People's Committee for a Man Without Alternative, said the group plans to "lead people attending the pageant so they'll know what type of contest they are going to see.

Wesley said the People's Committee's charge that the contest may be illegal is "unfounded." Neither the presentation of the tuition waiver nor the sponsorship of the event is in violation of any currently existing laws.

The pageant is open free of charge to the public, Wesley said, and will include talent presentations by all ten entrants.

The girls will be judged on "personality, attractiveness, interest, activities, scholastic achievement, and knowledge of the Southern represented," Wesley said.

The winner will receive a one-year tuition waiver ("provided the tuition waiver may be denied any other student receiving a tuition waiver from the Office of Student Work and lists and listens for the sounds of love. Derge to host faculty coffee

President David H. Derge will host a faculty coffee open house from 10 a.m. to noon Monday in the south wing of Anthony Hall.

The open house is designed to give faculty members a chance to meet and talk with Derge and other SIU administrators. Coffee and tea will be served in the afternoon of the President's office.

The first faculty coffee was held Oct. 12 and was attended by many faculty members. Derge started the monthly coffee hours as part of big program to renew communications between faculty and administrators.

Theater meeting

A new theater group, the Southern Laboratory Theater company, will hold a meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the International Lounge of the Student Center.

The Laboratory Theater has yet to stage a performance, but it consists of an improvisatory street theater. "You bring in the script, you bring in the idea and goof off with us," Gary Williams, group member said.

Why should anyone be a priest?

Why study for the priesthood? Why be part of a dying institution? Why commit yourself to celibacy? Indeed, why get closer to misery in a world that is getting further away from us?

There are no easy answers to these questions—even for a Paulist. But he knows that today, more than ever, desperate people need who are committed to ideals and beliefs. In our world of change of mind and heart, country, happiness, love and brotherhood, we are really something— a reason for being.

The Paulists don't feel the world is dying, they rejoice in the sign of hope around them.

Dear Students:

In behalf of the many students, faculty, and staff who are homosexuals, I would like to ask the following question which all should answer publicly.

What is the OFFICIAL POLICY OF SIU toward the hiring, firing, and promoting of homosexual faculty and staff?

In short, do SIU discriminate against homosexual people because of their sexual preference or orientation?

Obviously, SIU does hire homosexuals. Obviously, homosexuals have been passing for "straight" for centuries. Does this mean that a supposedly teacher/worker pass as "straight" to the SIU student and that SIU refuse to hire a person because he/she is "obviously" homosexual?

SIU cannot decide the focus on this issue. Either there is a policy of discrimination, or there is a policy of no discrimination. SIU should post a letter of understanding, job applications with three different let-

It is requested that you include your name, address, phone number, class year, and major with all inquiries. I am sure that Klail will respond directly every time. It is hoped in checking the authenticity of your inquiries if your letter is selected for printing in the Daily Egyptian.

Continuing Education director practices what he preaches

By Brenda Fenland
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Richard Bradley, director of the Division of Continuing Education, practices what he preaches.

Every Tuesday at 7 a.m., Bradley can be found attending an Adult Education course called Terrarium and Dahlia Garden Construction and Care.

Richard Bradley

"I think education should go on indefinitely," Bradley said. "Even though a person is a professional, he should still continue his education."

Bradley described the Division of Continuing Education as a broad umbrella that could include any activity concerning education...

He listed four main areas—conferences and short courses, adult education, continuing education for women and extension work.

Bradley said he believes American people are very education oriented and that his department benefits people by allowing for continuing education in less formal settings.

He said an extension course is important because it's like an arm that brings formal education into the world outside the university.

"We are cognizant that our mission is to serve," Bradley said. "I think we have done well and will continue to improve. My job is to innovate and coordinate. I work with some very effective people and I think we're in a position to offer better services.

In addition to holding the position of director of the Division of Continuing Education, Bradley is an associate professor of Guidance and Educational Psychology.

A book he wrote with Bruce R. Ambable, "Pupils as Persons: Case Studies in Pupil Personnel work," was released in July.

Bradley graduated from Thornton Township High School, Harvey, in 1956. In 1962 he received a B.S. in Education from Bowling Green State University. He received his M.S. from Indiana University in 1966 and his Ph.D in 1969 at the University of Wisconsin.

Bradley has some very definite ideas about happiness. "I think a person experiences happiness by doing things with others," he said. Bradley read part of a quote from W. Beran Wolfe whom he said describes his personal philosophy of life: "If you're genuinely happy, man you will find him educating his son, growing double dahlias in his garden or looking for dinosaur eggs in the Gobi Desert. To find happiness we must seek for it in a focus outside ourselves."

"Happiness isn't something a person can find by searching for it," Bradley said. "Happiness is a byproduct of life."

This attitude seems to carry over into his profession. Bradley said he is very excited about his new position and is enjoying it immensely.
This libretto provided the composer with a dramatic vehicle for some lovely and electrifying music with an expressiveness that comes only from the Italians. It would be hard not to enjoy any production of "Tosca" even one that is flawed.

And the Goldovsky production had its shortcomings. The orchestra played without enthusiasm, cohesiveness, and at times, there was a con- tinual clicking of the conductor's metronome. They had their dramatic peaks, but the orchestra as a whole seemed to lack and seemed in need of vitamins.

Alexandra-von-vienna (or perhaps No-Diesel) was Mario, who was astoundingly played by Alexander Stevenson. Stevenson displayed a pleasant baritone voice and a well controlled vibrato. But he merely walked through his role as if he could do it in his sleep.

Tosca, played by Pamela Hebert, emerged in the first act looking like a young Gloria Swanson—garish costume and attitude. She acted and sang the role of Tosca well, with her voice strong and her passion volatile. Ms. Herbert was at her best in the second act when she murdered Scarpia and in the Act One love duet with Mario—a haunting and lyrical piece of music.

James Javore was despicably good as the evil Scarpia. His aria at the end of the first act was one of the highpoints of the evening. But the powdered wig he wore looked as authentic as a Barye Doll.

Javore and Ms. Herbert redeemed the production, even though they were surrounded by ugly sets that looked like they had been left out in a rainstorm.

Unfortunately, the clearly emulated English translation of the opera—which the Goldovsky company is noted for in their productions—was lost somewhere up in Shroock's stage rigging. In other words, the lack of acoustical reverberation, in the auditorium hampered the vocalists' projection. Consequently, it couldn't have mattered if the opera had been sung in English or the original Italian, for from my fifth row seat, only every other word was discernable.

The orchestra didn't help the singers' projection either, for their voices tended to be drowned out, especially in the dramatic scenes when they were at their best. But as mentioned earlier, it's hard to run a great opera like "Tosca," and through all the flaws of the Goldovsky production, it was a quite enjoyable evening. After all, we just don't get much live opera around here.

"The Day After Veterans Day"

The Southern Illinois Veterans Association recognizes the personal involvement and sacrifice of SIU/Carbondale community Veterans.

Now that Veterans Day is past, the speeches made, and the salutes given, The Southern Illinois Veterans Associations would like to take a moment to remind veterans that they have a responsibility to educate those around them, in the hope that we will be the last veterans.

It is the hope of the Veterans Association that the people of Carbondale, the USA, and the World come to the realization that there has never been a just war. Nor has there ever been a conflict successfully resolved by combat. It is time now for those with first hand knowledge of war to dissuade others from its use.

The Veterans Association wishes all people a peaceful and prosperous future, without any new veterans.
The collection contains history essays, newspapers, books, periodicals, and poems by black writers dating from the late 17th century.

Broadcast students may reactivate local chapter of Alpha Epsilon Rho

Radio-TV students soon may gain even more broadcasting experience outside of the classroom.

A group of students met Thursday night at the SIU Radio and Television to discuss the possibility of reactivating the local chapter of Alpha Epsilon Rho (AER).

AER is a national organization for students in broadcasting which concentrates mainly on broadcasting production.

No break ahead, trailer tax rise coming next year.

Trailer owners can expect to pay a 12 1/2 cent per square foot tax this year and 15 cents per square foot next year.

Jim Parrott, Superintendent of Assessments for Carbondale Township, reported that this privilege tax was passed by the Illinois State Legislature and signed by the governor in August. Parrott said that there are about 1000 to 3000 trailers in Carbondale township and approximately three-fourths of these are lived in or owned by students.

The case of Lowell G. Heller, Supervisor of Assessments for Jackson County, reported that the tax/makes no allowance for the age of the trailer. "A ten-year-old trailer is taxed the same amount as a brand new one of the same size." The tax does give a break to persons 65 years old with an income less than $4,600 per year. They receive a 20 percent tax break. Heller's office also reported that if a person owns the land upon which his trailer sits, he can then have his property taxed as real estate. This would provide for the age of the trailer to be taken into consideration.

Creature sighted

VANCOUVER (AP)—Whatever it was, it wasn't your average beachcomber. Three Vancouver fishermen may have spotted the latest sighting of the legendary Sasquatch, the Colossal Man, this week, which roams the mountains. Nick Fiscare, one of the fishermen, said he spotted the thing walking slowly along the beach. "It stood about 8 feet tall and was sort of lightish gray," he said.

Radio-TV students may reactivate local chapter of Alpha Epsilon Rho

Eric Bugalet, temporary chair- man of AER, explained, "SIU's local chapter has been inactive for two years due to lack of interest and other production problems within the department."

The group's main concern is to be formally reactivated by the Radio-TV department. However, it was explained, "After being formally accepted at SIU, we must apply nationally," he explained.

"The specific long range goal of AER is to offer assistance to the Radio-TV department," he explained, "and to maintain a service organization to the department and as a lifetime to faculty members and students."

Other possible goals for AER were discussed by the group. These include: an advertising campaign for SIU's radio and television station, WSIU. The club would also assist the department in setting up seminars, updating the Radio-TV library and publishing the department graduate bulletin. A field trip to Paducah in November has been tentatively scheduled so that club members may tour other radio and television stations.

Professor Charles Lynch and professor John Kurtz, both from the Radio-TV department, will serve as advisors. Lynch explained his interest in the group is a result of finding so many people expressing interest is get AER reactivated.

Students that have taken a course in broadcasting and have a 3.75 GPA in broadcasting are eligible for membership in the local Alpha Epsilon Rho chapter. Anyone interested may contact Lynch or Kurtz in the Radio-TV department.

Viet Center gets study grant

By Bill Layne
Student Writer

A grant to the Center for Vietnamese studies at SIU is allowing a team of historians to research Vietnamese history.

Dan Whitfield, assistant director of the center, explained that a $8,000 grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities was awarded to the center last June to underwrite the costs of gathering and translating the different versions of Vietnamese history.

“Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bryant of Chicago, Parents-of-the-Day, received gifts from Dr. of Students Bruce Swinburne during a half-time presentation at the Saluki-Tampa Football Game Saturday night. The Bryants were chosen to reign over Parents’ Day in a random drawing of 300 applicants. About 1,500 parents registered for the annual event. The Bryants’ daughter, Mary, a freshman residing at Thompson Point, looks on. (Staff photo by Dennis Makel.)

Vietnamese history is difficult to translate. Different writers, with differing views, wrote on the various dynasties which ruled the country.

“Since most of these records were written in classical Chinese,” Whitfield said, “Chen will be analyzing and comparing all these versions. He’ll be editing, revising and trying to reconcile the differences.”

Chen will send his translations to three scholars on Vietnamese history so they can review and revise his findings.

Chen will be assisted by four Vietnamese historians from the University of Hong Kong.

Language professor working on bibliography of criticism

An anthology of criticism of Latin American literature is being compiled by Warren L. Meinhardt, an assistant professor in the Foreign Languages Department. The project, to be titled “Contemporary Latin American Fiction: An annotated bibliography of criticism,” was begun last spring to fill a gap during the different periods.

Meinhardt said that he is working on the bibliography with his friend and colleague, Richard Reave, of UCLA. The two men will utilize the most valuable criticisms of the Latin American novel, with the intention of creating a good bibliographical source of reference on the works and criticism of Latin American literature.

Meinhardt, who taught for 10 years at the University of Illinois in Champaign before coming to SIU five years ago, said that virtually all of the information he has gathered has come from sources at Mertz Library.

The work is expected to be completed in about a year and a half.

Labor convention calls for impeachment

By Robert A. Dobkin
AP Labor Writer
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Delegates to the AFL-CIO convention approved a resolution-Monday urging President Jimmy Carter to resign and said Congress should impeach him if he does not leave office voluntarily.

Soon after the 2,000 delegates acted, Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, told the group that Nixon should quit, to spare the nation a major constitutional crisis of impeachment which "seems im-mensurable."

Jeff Kolp, SEC president, said the group also will present a proposal Wednesday night at the public hearing on policies for operating Ceder Lake. He said members of the Sierra Club and the Audubon Society will attend.

The public hearing will be held at 7:30 Wednesday in the University City Cafeteria.

Kolp said he hopes the television interview will help publicize SEC and "tell people who we are and what we're going to do."

Tickets for the November 9 Three Dog Night Concert will go on sale Wednesday at 7:30 a.m. at the Student Center Central Ticket Office, Bill Searcy, assistant manager of the arena, announced.

Remaining tickets will go on sale at the SIU Arena, Pemex, Sav Mart, Tempo, Wards in Mur-

The group was formed almost six months ago, with singers Danny Hutton, Chuck Negron, and Cory Wells.

The musicians are Mike Allsup, guitar; Jimmy Greenpeace, keyboards; Jack Ryland, bass; and Floyd Skye, drums.

Harriers race past grounded Air Force; Craig takes first

By John Marrinay
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

SIU’s cross country squad ended its dual season Saturday at Midland Hills with a victory over Air Force that was even closer than the 35-20 final score indicated.

The Salukis broke away to a comfortable lead in the early going but a mid-race surge by Air Force threatened to turn the contest around. It took an inspirational last-mile effort by SIU’s Pat Cook to cap the win.

Senior Gary Craig closed out his home-town track career with a first-rate effort. Winning time of 20:42.5 placed him second, 19 seconds off Dave Hill’s course record, but Craig was still pulling back for teammates Tom Fulton and Jerry George.

“We were running 1-2-3 at the mile mark and I thought we had it sewed up,” said the re-banded runner in his fresh brown uniform, “but we just couldn’t seem to finish together.

Actually, we still hold the lead after two miles, opening a 30-yard gap on the three Air Force runners trailing them. Gary Mandele hung in seventh position and Richard Bracey held down ninth.

But early prospects of an easy victory dissolved all at once when Air Force began to invade SIU’s rear flank. And to no sooner was Mandele and Bracey passed when Cudet Jim Koster sprinted past George and Fulton.

Luckily Craig looked around for his teammates with about a mile and a half to go, or he might have waited up for the wrong side. He said he was surprised to see Koster instead of Fulton and George.

“I had to run it in from there,” he recalled, “we were caught napping...” he said with a smile he could afford now, as he won the race by six seconds. At the finish SIU’s Craig, Fulton and George had respectively nailed down 1:34, but Air Force had 5:54-5, hiking the race’s outcome on the next few places. Bracey seemed canned and Madison had fallen off the pace.

Enter Pat Cook. After spending most of the last mile in the lead, the freshman from Belleville suddenly took off after an army of Air-Force runners with a mile to go. Assistant coach Rick Smith said Cook made up speed to 100 yards in that last mile.

Cook gave a modest shrug when asked what accounted for his surprising performance. “Everyone was yelling at me that we needed the place,” he remembered.

Coach Lee Hartung admitted he was thoroughly surprised to see Cook come out of nowhere. In prior meets Cook had never broken into SIU’s top five.

Cook ended up finishing eighth; after holding off a challenge by Cudet Gary Sheppard and passing Bracey in the final stretch. Bracey then managed to put together one last sprint, but she fell to the race to finish ninth.

SIU got a breakthrough his week after Mike St. John reached a challenge but the final result was a 10-7 victory over Illinois Normal. Air Force’s fourth man strayed into a ditch with 1/2 miles to go and ended his tour of the course early. SIU coaches admitted the middling might have cost Air Force the meet.

At any rate, the Salukis bring a 5-4 record and a lot of momentum into next Saturday’s Illinois Intercollegiate Meet at Normal. Air Force’s dual since dropping to 2-2.

Saluki comeback caught from behind

By Mark Tupper
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

A 24-yard field goal and, a tenacious last minute pass rush sacked away a hopeful Saluki comeback Saturday night at McAndrew Stadium, as SIU dropped its fifth game of the season 25-23 to the Tampa Spartans.

Down 22-3 with less than seven minutes left in the third quarter, SIU began an effective comeback drive that eventually gave the Salukis a one point advantage 25-23 with 9:19 left in the game.

Tampa moved well in the first quarter, but couldn't manage to put points on the board. Spartan quarterback Fred Solomon used his speedy back Ken Moore and line and Alex Pittman well, marking Tampa's first series to the Saluki 11. The drive stalled when Valved Redmond caught Solomon for a 12-yard loss, forcing a field goal attempt. Freshman style kicker Kinsey Jordan's boot failed from the 29, and the Salukis took over.

A clumping penalty put SIU in a deep hole on its own eight yard line. On third down and 18, Jim Sullivan kicked a 34-yard quick kick giving Tampa the ball back on its own 34.

Again Solomon guided his team down the field, throwing over-the-middle passes to his tight end Vin Hoover. This time Tampa penetrated to the SIU four. On fourth down, fullback Morris LeGrand was stood up at the two-yard line, and the Saluki defense held. SIU running back Melvin Moncrief and Pat Forsy started pounding out yardage as the first quarter ended. The Saluki defense held the Spartans march setting up a 34-yard Ken Seaman field goal. Salukis' Seaman's kick was short and Tampa returned it to its own 50. The Spartan's were forced to punt and the Salukis took over in good field position on the Tampa 44. Three runs and a 36-yard completion to Ivory Moore in heavy traffic put the ball on the 15. A third down pass to Bruce Puffer was incomplete at the goal line, and SIU settled for a 13-yard Saluman field goal making the score 3-3 with 8:26 left in the first half.

On the first play after the ensuing kickoff, Pittman slipped past the Saluki line and sprinted 53 yards before SIU's Phil Jett caught him at the SIU eight.

From the eight, Pittman carried to the one, and then slanted over for the touchdown. Johnson's conversation was good plus one for the good field position, and the only foe Larry Perkins returned Tampa's kick off to the 33, but the punt was fumbled and the ball rolled into SIU's own end zone for a safety.

With 6:11 left in the half, Tampa generated one last drive. Jordan booted a 27-yard field goal only 20 seconds before halftime, and the score stood 6-3 with a 12:33 halftime lead.

As the second half opened, it was Jordan again who got things going for Tampa. He capped the Spartans first drive of the third quarter with a 24-yard field goal, increasing Tampa's lead to 9-3.

The Salukis started back quickly, with Perkins keeping his balance and dodging tacklers for a 21-yard gain. But as soon as SIU got into Spartan territory, Forsy fumbled the ball away.

Solomon struck back immediately leveling at no. a gain to receiver Mark Weikfield that was good for a 36-yard pickup at the Tampa 16 yard line. Three plays later, Pittman slammed over for the score and a 22-3 Tampa lead.

Tampa appeared to fizzle again, and SIU Coach Dick Seaman sent in the Cowley forery. On the next play, the hike went to Melvin Moncrief who breezed around the unguarded right side of the SIU line for 41 yards and a first down.

On the drive sputtered, but a powerful fourth down run by Forsy picked up 25 tough yards and a first down. Tampa was left with a 1st down on the Tampa 39. Forsy duplicated his effort two plays later, taking the ball into the end zone as the touchdown. Seaman's kick narrowed the gap.

The SIU line up to kick off and Seaman dubbed an onside kick attempt. Off the Saluki beach, Senior Edwin Bell grabbed the ball before it rolled out of bounds, and the Salukis had the ball back at the Spartan 41.

McAlley began working the ball to Tampa. After another Saluki scoring run, Tampa putchar passing and passing to Moore. All night the Tampa secondary was on Moore's back picking passing up Tampa's defensive penalties in the process. The third quarter ended on an eight-yard pass from the Tampa one-yard line.

From the one, Moncrief slammed in for the score, his eighth touchdown of the year, and tightened the score to 22-17. Again the effort failed, but the defense held on for the safety. From the Saluki 28 yard line, SIU moved close to the goal line, then McAlley whipped a 38-yard pass to Moore after which the Salukis were the only ones left to make the catch. Perkins then darted 17 yards for another SIU first down. On fourth down and away to go from the Tampa 18, Perkins took a McAlley pitch 13 yards to the Tampa five. A facemask penalty on the play moved the ball to the three, where Perkins catapaulted himself over the linemen and into the endzone, Seaman shanked his extra point try leaving the Salukis with a one point advantage 23-22.

The SIU defense, faced with its biggest task of the night, now had to stop a Tampa drive that began on its own 17 with nine minutes left in the game. They brought the read, and eluded tacklers, moving the ball quickly into the end zone. With just over 30 seconds left in the game, Larry Perkins slammed in from the Tampa 42, McAlley's last desperation pass was picked off when Tampa defender Buddy Ralston hope for a come-from-behind Saluki.

Tampa's ball control tactics hurt Salukis

If the SIU offense could have gotten its hands on the football more often than it did last Saturday, the Salukis probably would have won the contest.

Quaterback Fred McAlley's playtime generally played good clutch football. In fact, his conversion attempt down plays into drive-sustaining 1st downs. But they failed to wrest the ball away from the clock-wasting Tampa offense until they were too far behind.

Statistics attest to the importance ball control played in the outcome of the SIU-Tampa contest. Tampa controlled the ball nearly 26 minutes to SIU's 12 in piling up an intriguing 22-3 lead.

SIU roared back to score three touch downs, using Tampa's keep-away tactics. But the ball for 16 out of the game's remaining 22 minutes, and the only foe to challenge them successfully was the clock at the south end of the stadium.

In one stretch SIU was faced with eight third down situations and converted every one of them. On the other hand, the Spartans converted only four of their seven.

On the other hand, the Salukis scored all three of their touchdowns.

Pat Forsy turned a fourth-down situation into a 20-yard gain to Tampa's six and SIU's first touchdown. McAlley then produced another clutch effort, breaking a 3rd-and-5 run for eight yards to set up the Salukis' second score.

Larry Perkins came through with a 13-yard burst to Tampa's five on fourth down to position SIU for its third touchdown.

But the Salukis' yardage attack went for naught when Tampa's ace drive went for nothing more than time. Everytime the Tampa offense seemed headed toward Seaman's feet, the Tampa pass rush would blow through the SIU line and dump McAlley for a pair of losses and turned the ball over when the Tampa 42. McAlley's last desperation pass was picked off when Tampa defender Buddy Ralston hope for a come-from-behind Saluki.

Unfortunately Tampa needed only three points to pull ahead, an easy chere for any kicker's toe inside the ten. And SIU fell victim to that relentless time consuming Tampa drive, from them from its perch on McAndrew's south side.
