Princeton Professor Will Deliver
Elijah P. Lovejoy Lecture Today

By Irving Dilliard

Irving Dilliard, columnist and professor of journalism at Princeton University, will deliver the annual Elijah Parish Lovejoy Lecture at 7 p.m. today at Muckelroy Auditorium in the girard building.

The lecture is one of the highlights of Journalism Week, which began Wednesday and will continue through Friday.

Dilliard writes a nationally syndicated column of social-political content.

He began his newspaper carreer in 1925 on the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and worked his way up to editor of the editorial page in 1949. He held that position until his re-irement in 1957.

During his career he has received honorary degrees from at least six universitites, held numerous civic and educational offices and contributed articles to more than half a dozen encyclopedias and dictionaries.

He served as national president of Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalistic society, in 1940-41 and was named a fellow of that organization in 1951.

He currently is a member of the Board of Trustees of the University of Illinois.

The Lovejoy Lecture is presented each year in memory of Elijah Parish Lovejoy's efforts to establish a free press in Southern Illinois during the days of slavery. He overcame many obstacles to print-ning the news, including having his newspaper press dumped in a river. He was killed by a mob in 1857 in Alton.

Journalism Week activities for today will get under way at 9:15 with "Communications Building Laboratory."

Talks at that library during the morning will include a discussion of "The Press and the Courts" by Richard E. Richards, Jackson County state's attorney, at 9:30 and "Privacy and the Press" by Capt. Joseph C.
Long, Judge Advocate Gener-

The fifth annual open house at SIU's Vocational-Technical Institute will be held April 22 and 23. Students and staff members of the 26 major fields of study at VTI, located on its own campus nine miles east of Carbondale, are prepping exhibits and demonstrations for the event, according to Open House Chairman Harry Soderstrom. The open house will also be observed for the new two-year aviation technology program, housed at Southern Illinois Airport west of Carbondale on Illinois 13.

Soderstrom said about 1,500 people are expected to take part in guided tours and observe activities and special displays. Invitations have been sent to high schools and industries in the southern half of the state.

With an enrollment of nearly 1,500 students this year in one and two-year programs, VTI offers training in such fields as dental technology and hygiene, architecture, electronics, data processing, commercial art, mortuary science, wood technology and aviation.

Today's Weather
Cloudy with a period of two of light rain and a high around 50. The record high for this date is 84 set in 1919 and the record low of 24 was set in 1950, according to the SIU Climatology Laboratory.

"I CAN'T SEE WORKING SO HARD TO IMPROVE MY MIND WHEN IT'S NOT GONNA SHOW."
Killing Viet Cong Is Costly Chore

By Arthur Hoppe

"Yes, sir. She said if the government would give her a croquet set, she would last us Drabs five or six generations."

"That’s a silly idea, Drab," said Capt. Ace with annoyance. "We can’t have a bunch of civilians running around the countryside trying to shoot up a VC."

"But think of the incentive they’d have," said Private Drab, "enthusiastically, I mean I’m only getting $154 a month."

"It’s an impractical, unworkable idea, and as far as I’m concerned, I don’t want to hear any more about it."

"I guess you’re right," said the private, nodding thoughtfully, "But you don’t know Aunt Olive’s headshot."

There was a moment of silence. Finally, the capitain put his arm around Private Drab’s shoulder. "If I’m concerned about you, Drab," he said, "You just don’t understand what the war is all about."

"I’m not your job to worry about how much it costs," it’s your job to save these people from Communism and... hold it, there."

"Run a grenade into those whores, Drab."

"Yes, sir," said Private Drab, When the smoke cleared from the smoke signal, "But I think it would be smarter to go around the sides."

"You want to throw men at these Communists, privates?"

"We want to throw money at them, Captain," said Private Drab, "I think of a better way to convert them to Capitalism."

"How much do you figure these grenades cost?"

Private Drab asked his friend, Corporal Partz, later as they were sleeping under sniper fire, "Ten, twelve dollars?"

"That can’t be right," said the corporal, pulling a pin with his teeth and tossing one out. "But the captain’s right; this ain’t no time for false economies. Not with these civilians trying to shoot up a VC."

"But think of the incentive they’d have," said Private Drab, "enthusiastically, I mean I’m only getting $154 a month."

"It’s an impractical, unworkable idea, and as far as I’m concerned, I don’t want to hear any more about it."

Lesson 2. In a war, even the smallest units must have a suitable method of transportation. This is especially true when dealing with enemy soldiers who are known to be armed with rifles and are capable of inflicting serious harm with them. In this case, the enemy soldiers were armed with rifles, and they were using them to suppress the friendly forces. The friendly forces needed a reliable means of transportation to reach their objectives and avoid being caught in the crossfire. Therefore, the friendly forces decided to use their industry and skill to create a new vehicle that would be able to transport them safely and efficiently. The result of this effort was a new type of vehicle called the "friendo," which was capable of moving at high speeds and carrying a large number of personnel. The "friendo" was designed to be lightweight, fast, and agile, and it was capable of withstanding the intense firefights that were common in the area. Despite the challenges, the friendly forces were able to successfully deploy their new vehicle and achieve their objectives. This demonstrates the importance of creative thinking and the power of innovation in achieving success in combat situations.
I Have A Concern

By Morris Ernst

It is high time that we come to a new definition of civil disobedience. The present code of our Constitution lies not in the Constitution but in the great Fourteenth Amendment, which guarantees freedom of speech, press, and the right of public assembly.

As a young and buccaneering nation, we had our share of violence—long before the Knights of Labor and the turbulent years of the 1929 depression. In all but 24 of the 240 nations on our planet, there is so little literacy and communication that our thesis of gangs of hooligans by which our ideas cannot be used as an implement of change. We must expect several violent overthrows of heads of state in Africa and Asia.

The absence of literacy de- mands dictatorships, although there can, as in Russia and under Hitler, be literacy and dictatorship. Though we are now literate many people are unwilling to debate on reason and often prefer the educational policy called civil disobedience to the dramatic grievances.

During much of this half century at the bar, I have happily been called on to defend free speech and freedom of assembly. Both of these great rights are often dependent on what I term uncivil disobedience. Civil disobedience is the great hollowness, the way of our society that lags behind the desire of some of them, in its valued form the protest against the law. We must test the law, through a policeman, to make an arrest. The procedure is a re-examination of the facts and the law in a court of law.

But now under the dishonorable and phony distortion of this uncontroversial phrase, people defy the law but then avoid the legal process, for the crimes of not submitting to arrest but lying limp so that two policemen are needed to pin him down to the patrol wagon.

Civil disobedient citizens are in effect trying not only to test a law but rather to manipulate the due process and the power of the police. I agree that much of this uncivil disobedience is abrazed by the television camera and the desire for publicity. It thus becomes an assault not on the objectionable law but rather a stunt to get publicity—we comes TV and clearly undermining peace and order in a community.

We are ready to suggest to create a new category of crime—since no phrase is ever precisely true. This phrase has its primary result the education of the public of civil disobedience. Uncivil disobedience if allowed to continue would replace almost the old fashioned and useful instrument of civil disobedience.

John L. Lewis and the CIO in the great strike of 1937. Sanger in the early days of the birth control campaign were heroes in the cause of uncivil disobedience. It is only when the power of the law is used by us in the test of the law when put under arrest, This is civil. To reject or morris ernst confuse the right of arrest brings into dispute the desire to resist a law. Maybe the solution lies in either creating a new division of the crime by more clearly dividing the offenses—one, obstructing a highway by lying down and two, lying down when put under arrest. We have long had some of the in some of the officers in his duty but now a new element has been injected in the latter offense.

Maybe the penalty for the hypocrisy of obstruction under the honorable guise of civil rights is not clearly defined and punished with a greater sanction. Suggest the use of a police officer in his duty but now a new element has been injected in the latter offense.

We were tuned in to the situation on television immediately. William H. Stewart had a word to say.

Moments of genuine humor from Washington are rare; the real humor derives from ridiculous absurdities by television newscasters commenting on the passage scene in the Washington Wonderland. But it was real, Dr. Stewart, reading a statement before a clear audience, clear distinguished the civil from the uncivil disobedience and above.

Morris Ernst and Elbert A. Talley are now two new by-liners in the Daily Egyptian. Ernst is a distinguished author, lawyer and champion of civil liberties. He has served as defense lawyer in some of the nation's most celebrated civil liberties cases, has been an adviser to presidents and in 1960 was named the New York Bar lawyer of the Year.

Talley has spent most of his life's work and words. He has to credit 30 years of distinguished service on one or the other of the two major St. Louis newspapers.

The book is the college girls' answer to "Where the Boys Are," published last year with characteristic of girls at American colleges. It was intended as a guide to the "Where the Boys Are."

We wanted to fight stereotyped with stereotype," said Marsha Cohen, 19, a Smith sophomore from Patterson, N. J., before selecting a three-piece suit as you walk into the Brattle Theater, he's wondering how you'll look next to him at some diplomatic reception in 10 years.

Students Arrested On Liquor Charge

Four students have been fined on liquor charges on which they were arrested after police observed them shooting firecrackers.

While being questioned by police, Frank J. Graham, 18, dropped a quart bottle of beer. The other three students, with Graham, Dale R. Farlow, John R. Lohmiller and Stephen C. Little, all 18, admitted to police that they had been drinking.

Graham pleaded guilty to a charge of illegal transportation of liquor and was fined $10 plus costs in Jackson County Circuit Court. Lohmiller, Little and Farlow pleaded guilty to charges of underage acceptance of liquor and were each fined $25.

Farlow has been placed on disciplinary probation by Sigma Sigma Sigma because "he would suspend himself" from the University should he become involved in any future incidents with alcohol.

Loren Chapman Named To Advisory Body

Loren J. Chapman, professor of psychology, has been named by the U.S. Public Health Service to national advisory body in mental health. Beginning July 1, he will serve a four-year term on the Mental Health "A" Study Section, a group organized by the Public Health Service to advise it on matters relating to medical research affairs of the nation.

The study section is responsible both for scientific review of applications for research grants in its field and for making recommendations to Public Health Service councils, and surveying the status of research to determine areas where it needs to be initiated or expanded.

"We believe that these functions are of great importance to medical and allied research in this country," said Dr. Eugene A. Conrey, chief of the Division of Research Grants, in naming Chapman to the section.

'SIU Under Glass' Would Put Houston's Dome in the Shade

By Ed Rapeeti

What? SIU under glass? Sounds like the psychotic flight of a French gourmand/architect. Would you believe that two Edwardsville students, cochairmen of the Edwardsville student welfare committee, have proposed that the Edwardsville dome be covered with a huge glass dome?

Having suffered through a cold, dreary, damp winter at Edwardsville, the two students are understandably disgruntled. They are sure our man R. Buckminster Fuller, prime dome designer for the western hemisphere, could easily undertake the task. Those kids have a great idea, but why do they exclude Greeks to Observe Independence Day?

The Hellenic Student Association will hold the second annual Greek Independence Day banquet at 6 p.m. Sunday in Ballroom B of the University Center. A demonstration of Greek American dancing, a movie on ancient Greece and a guest speaker are planned for the program.

Meyer Reinhold, associate professor of foreign languages, will speak on "Landmarks of Freedom in Ancient Greek History."

Reinhold, who received his doctorate from Columbia University, has published seven books and is preparing three more on the same topics, classical drama and Greek and Roman history. Tickets for the banquet may be reserved by calling 457-5514.

Phi Kappa Tau — Phi Kappa Tau — Phi Kappa Tau — Phi Kappa Tau — Phi Kappa Tau......RUSH
WASHINGTON (AP) — A constitutional amendment to modify the population guideline for apportioning state legislatures was brought up in the Senate on Wednesday, and opposing sides quickly began flailing away at each other.

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, chief sponsor of the proposed amendment, said, "The people should have something to say about the composition of at least one branch of their state legislature."

He wants to permit geography and political subdivisions as well as population, to be taken into account in the apportionment of one house if the people of a state approve in a referendum.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., replied that the issue is very clear — it is simply whether every citizen shall have an equal vote.

"No," that's not the issue at all," recited Dirksen. "It is whether there is a fair representation."

Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., siding with Proxmire, said that behind Dirksen's amendment is "a deadly serious attempt to perpetuate the minority stranglehold which special interest groups now exert over all too many of our state legislatures."

And Dirksen's Democratic colleague from Illinois, Sen. Paul H. Douglas, said the amendment "really seeks to make a sham of democracy."

Sen. Paul J. Fannin, R-Ariz., backing Dirksen, told the Senate that, "The bosses of the big city political machines are actually afraid to let the people vote on this issue."

The controversy springs from the Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote ruling in June 1964 requiring that both houses of state legislatures are apportioned substantially on the basis of population.

Agreement was reached to vote on Dirksen's proposal at 2 p.m. next Wednesday unless it is substantially altered before then.

A similar proposed constitutional amendment fell seven votes short of the necessary two-thirds majority in the Senate last August.

But Dirksen said he earnestly hopes the present revised version will be approved by Congress and ratified by the states.

At the outset of Wednesday's session, ending the Senate's Easter recess, the GOP leader said the court's one-man, one-vote ruling had created "something of a crisis." He called it "a constitutional crisis of the greatest magnitude."

Throughout, Dirksen emphasized that his amendment would "let the people decide" and said he "never ceased to be astounded that members of this body are unwilling to let the people of their states have something to say about the composition of their legislatures."

Proxmire told him that members of Congress were elected to pass on legislation and not "pass the buck" to the people. "Surely, my friend, can't mean what he says," Dirksen said. "This is not a hope of legislation; this is a resolution for a constitutional amendment."

Johnson Visits Mexico For Talks, Dedication

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson boned up on Mexican-American memos Wednesday as a prelude to an informal, neighborhood visit today to Mexico City.

Johnson also worked on a speech he will deliver in the Mexican capital Friday at the unveiling of a statue of Abraham Lincoln.

Johnson will meet privately with Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz and is expected to go into such matters as two-way trade and the importation of Mexican farm labor.

Johnson was doing his homework for the overnight journey at the LBJ Ranch near Johnson City, 65 miles north of the White House press center in San Antonio.

This was in advance of attending a fund-raiser at New Braunfels, and a meeting with some college faculty members at San Marcos.

The funeral was for 11-year-old Nancy Knetsch, who was dragged to death Monday by a horse. She is the daughter of Secret Service agent Clarence Knetsch, who is assigned to the LBJ Ranch.

The college faculty meeting is at Southwest Texas State College in San Marcos, the President's alma mater. Johnson got an invitation from the chairman of the Board of Regents, J.C. Kollam of Austin, who manages the Johnson family's radio-television interests under a trust arrangement.

The President will fly to Mexico City late Thursday afternoon.

An American delegation that includes Mrs. Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk will stop in San Antonio en route from Washington to pick up the chief executive for the rest of the journey.
3 Killed As Wave Hits Liner

NEW YORK (AP) - With three persons dead from injuries suffered when a huge wave struck the ship Tuesday, the Italian luxury liner Michelangelo sailed on behind schedule for New York in improved weather conditions.

She is expected to arrive Saturday with 775 passengers.

The Italian Line headquaters at Genoa said the dead were passengers John Steinbach, 58, Chicago insurance executive; and Werner Berndt, businessman from Hamburg, Germany; and an Italian crew member, Desidério Ferrari. Eleven others were injured.

Antonio Premuda, the Italian Line's general manager in the United States, said four passengers were injured, two seriously, when the wave crashed over the bow about 10:30 a.m.

Umberto Nordio, director of the Italian Line, said at Genova that the huge wave hit the 44,000-ton liner as it was about to leave a fierce storm zone, venting its full fury against all four bridges above the water line. It twisted metal ingde and outside the ship and smashed windows and furnirishes in cabins. The quarter deck, about 33 feet above the water line, and the command bridge were damaged but the line said the ship's navigability and safety were not impaired.

Nordio said that reports from the ship indicated the huge wave was no less than 33 feet high and perhaps four times higher than that. He said the ship's captain, Giuseppe Soletti, had radioed an estimated Wednesday morning of 132 feet.

Construction

Is Investigated At Eastern

SPRINGFIELD (AP) - The Illinois Legislative Audit Commission is investigating anonymous letters charging irregular practices in construction of Eastern Illinois University buildings.

Loukas said he plans to visit the campus next week with Larson to interview anyone named in an anonymous letter, and to give the letter writer a chance to talk to authorities.

Loukas said he also intended to investigate the letter writer's accusations. One is that a part of one building rests directly on the ground without adequate foundation. Another is that the university duplicated the auditorium built by State University at Normal without any savings.

"Value-Added Tax" Proposed As Immediate Revenue Raiser

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Committee for Economic Development proposed Wednesday night that a "value-added" tax be adopted as an immediate revenue raiser and an eventual substitute for part of the corporation tax.

The corporation tax should be cut from 48 per cent to 38 per cent - the rate in effect before the Korean War - "as soon as revenue conditions permit," the report said.

Several members of the privately supported research-organization of businessmen, economists and educators, dissented from the findings. One called the value-added tax "a general federal excise which would tend to raise prices."

The value-added tax is a levy on the increase in value of a product as it passes through successive companies in the stages of production and selling. The added value may be measured by a firm's sales to its customers, less its purchases from other companies which are subject to the tax, and less any excise taxes.

The 46-member research and policy committee estimated that a one per cent value-added levy would have yielded about $4.2 billion in revenue to the U.S. Treasury last year.

In asking serious consideration of the new tax, the committee said it would help meet the rising revenue demands of Viet Nam and, as a permanent levy, would have the advantages of bearing equally on all kinds of firms, of providing greater investment incentive than the present double taxation of business earnings. The corporation tax swallows nearly half of a firm's earnings, the personal income tax then takes a second bite from the remaining profits which are distributed to stockholders as dividends.

Militant Buddhists

To Demonstrate

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) - Militant Buddhists planned a big but orderly demonstration here Thursday to emphasize their opposition to Premier Nguyen Cao Ky’s military government.

It was expected to take the form of a nonviolent march from the Buddhist Institute to downtown Saigon.

There was a report that Buddhists would drop their boycott of the preparatory congress the government convened Tuesday to recommend steps for the transfer of ruling powers to a civilian regime.

Ky has vowed he will move forcefully against any further violent demonstrations.

Day Camp Institute Will Open Sunday; Eunice Shriver to Give Address by Phone

Recreation specialists from 36 U.S. cities will attend the fourth annual Day Camp Institute April 17-22 at SIU.

The institute, sponsored by a $17,000 grant from the U.S. Vocational Rehabilitation Administration, is designed specifically to show how day camp programs can be operated for the mentally retarded. The community to be represented are those which will set up such programs this summer with matching grants from the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation.

The institute will be conducted at SIU's Little Grassy Lake Facilities. Participants will live there during the six-day series of lectures and demonstrations.

Mrs. Eunice Shriver, executive vice president of the Kennedy Foundation, will speak to conference via an amplified telephone broadcast from her Maryland home.

Frank Hayden, the foundation's consultant on physical fitness, will be a staff member, along with specialists from SIU and the Murray Children's Center at Centralia and A. L. Bowen Children's Center at Harrisburg.

William H. Freeberg, associate professor of recreation and outdoor education, will be institute director. Mentally retarded children from the area will be guests for demonstration and evaluation sessions.

JAMES OLIVER MONROE
Circuit Judge of Edwardsville To Speak at Luncheon Today

Judge James Oliver Monroe Jr., of the Third Judicial Circuit Court, Edwardsville, will speak on the "The Law Explosion and What We Can Do About It" at a 12:15 luncheon today in Ballroom C of the University Center.

Judge Monroe's speech is part of the Journalism Week activities today and Friday.

A native of Collinsville, Judge Monroe received his bachelor's degree with honors in English in 1939 and his law degree in 1942, both from the University of Illinois.

He practiced law in Collinsville from 1947 to 1957. He was president of the Madison County Bar Association for one year.

Judge Monroe's former positions include U.S. Treasury staff attorney, city attorney, city attorney of Collinsville, assistant state's attorney, and research assistant to Illinois Supreme Court Justice Harry H. Breakey. He has been a circuit judge since 1957.

He has published numerous articles at law jour.

Judge Monroe is married to Gertrude R. Monroe and has two children, Kristen, a sophomore at Smith College, and James David, a Collinsville high school student.

In May, 1959, the SIU Board of Trustees approved a policy which in effect stated that the University would send a student’s transcript to any official governmental agency requesting the record.

Using this policy as a basis, the Registrar’s Office cooperated with Selective Service, providing information which is used to decide whether a student should be drafted, according to Robert A. McGrath, registrar.

Recently, the Registrar’s Office has been besieged with questions regarding the University policy on releasing student records.

Most of the questions have followed announcements from schools such as Northwestern University and the University of Chicago that their students are given the option of having their class standing withheld from draft boards.

McGrath noted that both Northwestern and the University of Chicago are private institutions and they may withhold any information they wish.

SIU is a public school, McGrath said, and as such, its records are not secret.

Regarding, however, Michigan State University announced that it would release information to draft boards at the request of the students. SIU is a public school.

The basic procedure of the Registrar’s Office consists of:

- Clinic Will Discuss Motel Advertising

  - Discussions of “Where to Advertise Now" will be a high light of the third annual Hotel and Motel Management Conference April 21-22 at SIU.

  - Discussion leader will be Dean Du Boise of Hospitality Magazine, formerly in the advertising department of the Holiday Inn company.

  - Where to Advertise Now" is believed to be of particular interest since outdoor advertising has been limited on interstate highways, according to John D. Hilerman, associate professor of journalism, clinic director.

  - Al Hanna, a vice president and loan officer with National Bank of Commerce, will head a division on financing.

  - Other topics on the two-day program include “Keeping Employees Loyal and Happy," “That’s the Break-Even Figure?" and “Extras That Can Increase Occupancy.”

  - Hilerman, who directed the clinic since its inception, said the annual meeting gives motel operators a place to gather in the public interest of the university campus to discuss mutual problems.

- Instructor Course Will Be Offered

  A Red Cross water safety instructor course was offered May 9-20 at the University. The course was conducted until 7 p.m., Monday through Friday.

  Any student who is 18 years of age and holds a current swimming certificate may enroll in this noncredit course. This card must be presented at the first meeting.

  Virginia E. Young, instructor of women’s physical education, phone 435-2297, has additional information, reporting the names of all students, and informing when the full-time status of the position.

  The Registrar’s Office also gets involved in individual situations upon the request of students or a draft board, according to McGrath.

  "Sometimes a student asks us to send a special letter to a draft board to clarify a situation, and sometimes a draft board asks us to send individual transcripts," he said.

  However, McGrath stated that the Registrar’s Office doesn’t routinely send transcripts to draft boards.

  McGrath emphasized that the University has never hidden anything from Selective Service. "We have always cooperated as they requested," he said.

- If Selective Service requests something, we believe it is a definite advantage to the students for us to conform to these requests," McGrath said.

  Concerning any discount a student may have about the University’s release of transcripts to the draft board, McGrath said the student transcript is a University record to be released as it feels.

  The registrar pointed out that deferments would be based on two factors, the student’s progress in school and the results of the Selective Service examination which will be given this June.

  To receive a deferment based upon college rank, a student must fit the following requirements:

  - Freshmen, those with 45 to 92 hours, must be in the upper half of the class.
  - Sophomore, those with 93 to 142 hours, must be in the upper two-thirds of the class.
  - Juniors, those with 142 to 189 hours, must be in the upper three-fourths of the class.

- Chow will be given in the top-five-fourths of their graduating class.

  - The Registrar’s Office hopes to have the class standing compiled and released before April 23, the deadline for signing up for the Selective Service examination.

  - “It is our understanding that either the class rank or a good result on the examination will serve as a basis for issuing a deferment, but neither will automatically issue a deferment,” McGrath said.

  - To receive a positive result on the examination, an undergraduate must score above the 70th percentile. A graduate student must score above the 80th percentile.

  - Because either class standing or test results can be used as a basis for the deferment, students who feel they are above the required academic rank are hesitant in signing up for the examination.

  - If a student with a good academic rating takes the test and fails below the cut-off point, there is a greater possibility that he may be drafted despite the care not that he hadn’t taken the test.

  - The Registrar’s office has requested the state headquarters of Selective Service for a complete policy regarding deferment, McGrath said.

Men, Women in Federation Meet

Gymnasts Will Compete in Colorado

The men’s and women’s gymnastics teams will be boarding a plane today for the United States Gymnastics Federation Open meet at Boulder, Colo.

The two-day meet is the only time that the men’s and women’s teams compete at the same time in the same auditorium.

The meet will be held Friday and Saturday at the Air Force Academy, in an auditorium that the women’s coach, Herb Vogel describes as comparable to the Arena.

“The cadets are a good captive audience, and I think we make a favorable impression with them when both our teams support each other, and walk off the floor together,” Vogel said.

The men’s team will be going into the meet with an undefeated record for this season, 12-0 in regular dual-meet competition, and the 1966 NCAA championship, won by SIU at Penn State two weeks ago.

The coeds have been undefeated for three years, and have an impressive 50-0 record in regular competition and open meets, such as the Collegiate Open that SIU won last week.

Coach Vogel expressed his appreciation at the support that the fans and press gave him at the second annual Collegiate Open, and indicated that SIU may be the host again next year.

SIU may be host to the North American Gymnastics championships instead, however. Teams from the United States, Mexico and Canada would be entered.

Olympic-type competition will be held at the Colorado meet with individual competition only, and no team scoring.

BILL Meade, the men’s coach, expects that the men’s and women’s teams will make a favorable impression that the women’s teams would be entered.

Brown is not permitted to talk to the media public, however, before the schedule is approved by the Athletic Conference. In the past week, he has experienced some difficulty in recruiting players because of the late start.

The new NCAA guidelines of a projected 2.6 grade average for players has made the job difficult, Rainesberger said. "This new projected grade average is a measure of the quality of players available to all the programs. This isn't just our problem."

Coach Lynn Holder's golf team has accomplished a feat virtually impossible to teams in the Missouri Valley Conference last year from a record of 0-5 to 6-5 in only two days last weekend.

The Salukis accomplished the six wins in two days, winning the championship of the Missouri Intercollegiate Golf Tournament over runners-up teams at Springfield, Mo.

The Salukis get back into competition today with a match against Washington University of St. Louis.

The home match will be a defensive contest where both teams have lost only twice in about the last 12 years at home. They have won all of the matches and tied one. One of those losses came in 1964 to Western Illinois, the other in 1963 at the clubs of Lampasas and Brownwood, Texas. The Salukis tied the University of Missouri, the same year. All five of the losses this year came in the year when coach Jack algae had broken. Holder said the team didn't play poorly the first four times they played and the way they had improved since then.

Holder has praise for sophomore Gary Robinson, whose best score was the best score at the Missouri meet.

"Robinson is one of the finest sophomores I've ever had. He's going to be one of the best college golfers in the country in the years ahead," Holder said.

Assistant Athletic Director Bill Rainesberger said Wednesday the football schedule for next fall will be complete except for one open date.

SIU Varsity Golfers to Open Series of Home Games Today

The varsity golfers will open the first of a series of three home games today when they meet Washington University at 2 p.m. at the Grab Orchard Golf Course in Carlinville.

Coach Lynn Holder said the Washington team has been stronger than SIU in the past, but this year Washington has a young team, and the Salukis have a good chance of beating the Bears.

At the Intercollegiate Tournament in Springfield, Mo., last weekend, the Salukis defeated six opponents to boost their match record to 6-5.

The inexperienced Salukis had compiled a 2-6-5 record in spring break competition, prior to the regular season matches.

The six straight victories at the Intercollegiate Tournament should be an indication of the SIU golfer's potential.

No. 1 man competing for the Salukis will be junior Phil Stamison, Chicago. Teammate Tom Muehleman, the only senior on the squad, won the Districts at the Intramural Office in the SIU Arena. The meet is open to all men students who have fulfilled the entrance requirements of a health permit. Permits can be obtained at the Health Center.

Foreign Students Offered Invitation

A hospitality program is available for foreign students who will return to their home countries this fall.

Called "Summer Crossroads," the program will arrange for students to live with American families, tour the country, and participate in college discussions.

The program, sponsored by the Institute of International Education and Colorado College, will last for six weeks, June 5-11. Interested students can contact Mrs. Mary Wakefield, at the International Student Center, 1102 S. Forest Ave.

Intramural Swim Set for Saturday

The intramural swimming meet will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday at the University Pool.

Applications are available in the Intramural Office in the SIU Arena. The meet is open to all men students who have fulfilled the entrance requirements of a health permit. Permits can be obtained at the Health Center.

Lynn Holder

The next two home games, with Southeast Missouri State on Tuesday, and St. Louis University on April 22, will be the only home competition that SIU will have.

3-Way Tournament Scheduled

In Women's Volleyball Here

A Volleyball Spertday will be held Saturday as a three-way tournament for women's teams from Illinois State University at Normal, Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau and SIU.

ISU will bring four teams, Southeast Missouri two, and SIU will field four teams, according to Charlie West, faculty sponsor of the activity for the Women's Recreation Association.

On April 23, SIU teams will go to St. Louis to play Principia College and Washington University, and on April 30 will participate in a sectional tournament at Western Illinois University, Macomb.

Born Win's Book Contest

David O. Born, a senior majoring in English, is the winner of the student book collection contest held in conjunction with the fifth Amy Lovegan National Award. Born received $25 in books to be selected from the University Book Store.
