Senators OK ‘Happy Hour’ bill

By John Walbey Staff Writer

The Illinois Senate has sent a bill to Gov. James R. Thompson's desk that would restrict “Happy Hour” practices including drink specials and the manner in which alcohol is served.

The sponsor of the bill, Sen. William Mahar, R-Homewood, says there is little reason to believe the legislation would fail at this point. He said the proposal passed the House with 138 votes.

The Senate passed the measure overwhelmingly by a vote of 48-4. 'I only expect him (Thompson) to sign it,' Mahar said. 'I don't think there are any organized opposition to it at this point.' Mahar said Thompson was the force behind the 1984 task force headed by Secretary of State, James Edgar to determine what needed to be done in the state to reduce the number of alcohol-related traffic accidents.

‘Redneck’ apology invokes mixed responses from area

By Lisa Miller Staff Writer

After an outrage by area officials and citizens with an apology following, U.S. Rep. Lynn Martin said probably would be a little more selective in her choice of words describing Southern Illinoisans.

Martin, R-Rockford, recently called Southern Illinoisans "rednecks" in an interview with the editorial board at the Rockford Register-Star where she was asked what word described people who wouldn’t trust someone who wasn’t from Southern Illinois or would have trouble voting for a woman.

Martin replied "redneck.”

She has since issued an apology to those she has insulted in the region saying that she apologizes for even "the smallest infraction.

Martin said that it is affecting the real issue of "how to make Southern Illinois more economically viable and how to make the future brighter for all of Illinois.”

Ed Quaglia, mayor of Herrin, was one Democrat who wanted an apology.

"We got what we wanted—an apology. I think it’s best that we don’t curse on anymore negative publicity for Lynn Martin,” Illinois Sen. Ralph Dunn, R-Du Quoin, said that although people don’t like the rednecks too, we don’t like other people to call us that.

Dunn said that Sen. Frank Watson, R-Greenville, are attempting to make light of the situation by starting a "Rednecks for Martin” campaign. However, Dunn said that most of the people in the state are going to vote for Simon anyway.

Some University students and faculty have also expressed their views on Martin’s comment.

Gus says the solution to the redneck problem is some sunburn lotion.

Govemor sent health care bill

By John Walbey Staff Writer

A number of health care bills affecting Southern Illinois and the University have been approved by the General Assembly and will face Gov. James R. Thompson for final approval.

The bills would provide incentives for medical professionals, establish rural medical services, grants, funding for medical malpractice insurance premiums and create a center for rural health at SIU-C.

Rep. David Phelps, R-Delorado and sponsor of the bill for the health care center, said it was time to address the area’s health care concerns involving the area’s economic need. Southern Illinois counties of Saline, Johnson, Perry, Alexander, Pulaski and Morgan.

"The issue of rural health care is important to Southern Illinois,” Phelps said. "I am pleased to see that it passed in the House and Senate, but it still has a few more hurdles.”

State Senator William Mahar, R-Homewood, says he will kill the bill in the Senate for more medicare underserved people are definitely not going to vote for it."

Dunn said there is a strong possibility the Democrats could revive the bill and pass it before Friday’s adjournment.

"Madigan said him, and again that it would be his bill or nothing,” Dunn said. "It will pass by a Democratic plan if it's not in the bill or nothing."

He said he thinks the plan some of the Republicans want would include more funding for social services, public aid, public services and mental health care.

Under Madigan’s plan, income taxes would raise 18.4 percent. To the individual, taxes would raise 2.5 percent to 2.96 percent.

China’s ambassadors recalled for consultations

By John Walbey Staff Writer

China’s ambassadors are being recalled to Beijing from across the globe for consultations on sending the damage done to China’s image by the army assault on pro-democracy demonstrators and a crackdown on dissent, diplomatic sources said Wednesday.

Western diplomats in the Chinese capital said the envoy’s will be briefed on the official version of the suppression of the largest anti-government protests to sweep the nation in 60 years of communist rule.

"They want to go over the (official party) line,” said a diplomat. "They are publicly taking pounding in certain countries. They want to go over the line to regain credibility.”

He said Chinese envoys are already arriving in Beijing for the consultations expected to begin next week.

The talks, he said, are part of a strategy to counter international condemnation of the killing of Beijing civilians during a citywide uprising against troops and tanks dispatched June 3 to enforce martial law and end a peaceful demonstration at Tiananmen Square by students seeking democratic reforms.

Hundreds of people died in widespread clashes and unofficial estimates put fatalities in the thousands.

Beijing has also been criticized around the globe for its crackdown on pro-democracy movement leaders and activists that has netted more than 2,000 people, more than 10 of whom were executed last week.

The executions helped prompt the Bush administration to increase punitive sanctions against China.

Xinhua did not disclose the method of execution used to kill Zhang Zing, but the death sentence in China is usually a pistol shot to the base of the skull.

Enforcement of offshore drilling law found lax

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Offshore oil drillers have been cited for hundreds of safety and environmental violations since 1983, but just one penalty has been imposed during that period, Rep. George Miller, D-Calif., disclosed Wednesday. Miller, chairman of the House Interior subcommittee that oversees mineral development of the outer continental shelf, said figures he obtained from Interior Secretary Manuel Lujan show a failure to enforce a 1978 law governing offshore oil drilling.

Blood scarce at drive

By Micki Delhaeute McGowan
Staff Writer

Today is the last day the Red Cross blood drive will be at the Student Center and 441 pints of blood are still needed.

The blood drive collected 202 pints of blood at the Student Center Wednesday, and 42 pints Tuesday at the Church of Latter Day Saints. The blood drive is from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. today.

Vivian Urgent, Southern Illinois blood drive coordinator, said that 98 percent of the population will need blood at some point in their life.

Carolyn Crain, a senior in psychology, was a blood recipient at one time. "When you get blood, you want to give blood," she said. Crain donated blood for the 20th time.

Lori Beal, a sophomore in design from Marion, concentrates on an aerobics dance magazine while donating blood. The blood drive was initiated in anticipation of the holiday weekend when more accidents and highway tragedies occur. It will be moved from Friday from the Student Center to St. Francis Xavier Church in Carbondale every year "ever since high school," she said. Matt Baltzell, a psychology and English major, gave blood on Wednesday for the sixth time. He said he donates blood because he likes to help people.

Ward Morton, a blood drive volunteer and emeritus professor of poli sci, has volunteered at blood drives for ten years. "I enjoy coming back here and visiting with the students," Morton said. The SIU-C Annuitants Association is sponsoring the blood drive.

Urgent said that a great deal of blood is needed in the Southern Illinois area.

Local holiday festivities include picnics, displays

By Carrie Pomroy

Local communities are gearing up to celebrate the Fourth of July with a bang, planning events ranging from the traditional fireworks displays to an international potluck picnic.

The Carbondale Lions Club and the City of Carbondale will sponsor a July 4 fireworks display at the Abe Martin Baseball Field on the University campus, south of the arena.

Although the fireworks are scheduled to begin at 9 p.m., spectators are advised to arrive by at least 8:15 or 8:30 p.m. The display's organizers plan on shutting off traffic to the field once the fireworks begin in order to prevent traffic congestion.

"For the past few years, spectators have been lined up in cars waiting to get in, and the show is over," said Ellis Mitchell, who organized the display for the Lions Club.

Riverside Park, located at the end of Commercial St. in Murphysboro, will be the scene of several holiday events. A carnival is planned at the park from Saturday through Tuesday.

A fireworks display is scheduled for 9 p.m. on Tuesday at the park.

For a change of pace from typical Independence Day fare, Cobden will hold a potluck picnic from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Tuesday at the downtown park area on Appleknocker Drive. Visitors from Cobden, Australia and Cobden, Ontario will be in attendance.

Anna-Jonesboro will have three local gospel groups performing. The groups, Reunion from Cobden, The Heartland from Anna, and The Wheaton Family from Jonesboro, will perform at 8 p.m. on Tuesday.

A fireworks display will follow the show. Both events will take place at the Grand-Jonesboro and the Anna Fairgrounds.

Center for Independent Living awarded grant

By Christine Broda
Staff Writer

The Carbondale-based Southern Illinois Center for Independent Living has received a grant from the Illinois Department of Rehabilitation Services to improve the quality of home services provided for people with disabilities.

The $23,600 grant will be used to present the basic skills, equipment and training necessary for what Stellar calls a "healthy relationship" between the attendant and the individual receiving the service.

Home services have helped thousands of Illinois residents with disabilities live more independently through the use of personal care attendants. Without them, many disabled individuals would be at risk of entering nursing homes or institutions.

The Center hopes that improving the quality of training for the attendants will prevent a "heavy turnover in personnel," said Barbara Stellar, acting director of the Center for Independent Living. "We want to screen and match people up to make longer retention of personal care attendants," said Stellar.

Stellar said there are 273 individuals who need personal care attendants from the Illinois Department of Rehabilitation Services alone.

"Dine with us...we'll take care of you!"
LAST FRIDAY House Speaker Michael Madigan's plan to raise the state's income tax rate to 18.4 percent for two years was defeated by a margin of 27-29. The raise in taxes was an effort to fund education and local governments, with each receiving $363 million a year under the plan.

The defeat, which needed 30 votes to pass, has sent Republicans from both parties scurrying to either pass Madigan's tax, a new bill from Gov. James Thompson or a compromise between the two.

Madigan has spent the last two years sh baling the state from a permanent income tax proposed by Thompson, but the defeat of his campaign by a vote of 25-29 on May 15.

In mid-May Madigan decided to quickly pass, through the Illinois House, his own temporary income tax increase.

FRIDAY MARKS the end of session for the Illinois General Assembly and something has to be done before legislators break for the summer.

The power struggle among Thompson and Madigan must weaken to the point of a liveable compromise for all programs in Illinois.

The state's temporary and only benefits education and local governments. Thompson's principle program is a permanent tax increase, a permanent and had been intended primarily for education and human service programs.

The defeat is a sign that Madigan need to meet somewhere in the middle.

Madigan wants to propose a permanent increase in the state's income tax that would not only benefit education but also other services as well.

ILLINOIS' ROADS, mental health programs, local government, human service programs need the government's attention.

Planners and designers should put aside their individual goals and quests for power and concentrate on the real reasons they're in public office - to serve the public.

Ralph Dunn, R-DlI Quoin, said he didn't think legislators would leave on Friday without some kind of tax increase.

Thompson's pitch-putting together a proposal for a permanent compromise and Madigan is hoping his original plan will come up for reconsideration.

Madigan has spent the last two years sh baling the state from a permanent income tax proposed by Thompson, but the defeat of his campaign by a vote of 25-29 on May 15. They must come up for reconsideration.

As one of them said, when they went before a judge to enter their pleas: "Because the law is unjust, I plead not guilty."

I agree. I have never understood why a man can go to a beach wearing only a pair of shorts, while a female must cover part of her upper body.

In most cities and states that prohibit public toplessness, the laws say it is indecent exposure or indecent behavior or something of that sort.

When you ask the lawyers what they mean by "indecent," they say that it is something that appeals to our prurient interests. And prurient, in my dictionary, means: "Having or expressing lustful ideas or desires; tending to excite lust; lascivious; lewd."

And there was the reaction of Walter Matthau, in the movie "View from a Village," when a top-heavy woman, who sought attention, went before a judge to explain her reasons. "Looks like four fried eggs," Matthau said.

Trash disposers dumped, officials hire new company

By Tim Crosby

Out with the old, in with the new.

A new company will have a new trash disposal system starting Saturday. The new company, Burris Disposal Inc., will assume the duties previously held by the State Systems of Southern Illinois after their contract with the University expired July 1.

"We were just underbid," said Greg Burris, director and manager at BFI, said. "Hopefully we will have all of our dumpsters out by July 1st.

"One of the things we've done is increased the service for the student population," Burris said. "We'll be getting more dumpsters in Thursday.

The five-year contract between Burris Disposal and the University was bid on a buy one, get one deal for 236 dumpsters from 2 to 8 cubic yards in capacity, Burris said. "There are also four 30-yard 'roll-off' containers that will be bringing in," Burris explained. "We expect the contract to average around $15,000 a month."

Our standpoint," Greg Burris, whose father Ed founded Burris Disposal 30 years ago, said Tuesday. "The only thing that could cause a problem is if BFI pulled their dumpsters earlier.

Burris Disposal crews work all day Tuesday and Wednesday unloading the new dumpsters to be placed on University campuses.

"We plan on being ready by Friday," Burris said. "They'll be getting more dumpsters in Thursday.

Martin's comment.

"We're just normal people. We don't wear cowboy hats. We don't ride horses in a pick up truck looking for happy hour specials all over the place," Alman said.

Specifically, the bill would:

- Force liquor establishment managers to maintain a set schedule of prices for all alcoholic drinks served.
- Restrict any establishment from serving two or more drinks in a row to one person for consumption by that person.
- Restrict the serving and selling of an unlimited number of drinks during a certain time period for a set price. However, a posting of the price has been made allowing private functions to do so.
- Restrict the sale of alcohol at a reduced price when a different price has been offered that same day.
- Restrict increasing the alcoholic content or the size of a drink unless the price of the drink has been raised proportionately on that same day.
- Restrict any type of drinking game or contest which involves the drinking of alcohol and prohibit establishments from awarding alcohol as a prize for the games or contests.

Violation of the order would be considered a Class B misdemeanor. A second violation would be grounds for suspension or revocation of the establishment's liquor license.

The bill does not prohibit establishments from offering free food or entertainment as part of a promotion.

For the hotel-motel industry an amendment added to the bill allows contracting the sale of alcohol for meetings and functions, or as a package deal with a hotel.

Maher said the bill does not stop the sale of pitchers of beer for a set price of wine that would go to more than one person but purchased by one person.

He said he firmly believes in a direct correlation between heavy drinkers and alcohol-related accidents.

Maher claimed a 1988 study conducted by the Illinois Division of Traffic Safety concluded that 45 percent of traffic accidents were alcohol related; of that, he said, 35 percent were during the times of happy hour.

Two SIU-C students won first place in the third annual Student Robot Contest by developing a robot system capable of recognizing letters of the alphabet.
Contestants were judged on speed and accuracy.

Kerwin Kassulker and Milind Pandit, graduate students in the College of Engineering and Technology's program in manufacturing systems, participated in the contest May 7 at Gathersburg, MD. Kassulker said he and Pandit used two robots for their project, a microcomputer, and a video camera. "We used a grid, blocks, and a vision system to identify the letters on the blocks," Kassulker said. "One robot found the blocks and sent coordinates to the other robot. The other robot picked up blocks and put them in location to spell robot." The robot placed the blocks on a table top grid.
Kassulker said the contestants were judged on speed and accuracy.

Kassulker and Pandit, graduate students in the College of Engineering and Technology's graduate program in manufacturing systems, won top honors in the third annual Student Robot Contest.

Law School to be site for real-life court case
By Richard Goldstein

Traveling judge could be the theme of the Jackson County courthouse as one of its judges prepares to move a civil jury trial from the overcrowded county courtroom to the University's Law Building.
Judge J. Phil Gilbert has scheduled a civil case for July 17. It will be held in a court room equipped for a jury trial, something that has become a scarce commodity at the county courthouse as remodeling this month pushes a judge out of his chambers and closes one of only two jury courtrooms.
The lack of courtroom space and court personnel forced Presiding Judge Richard E. Robertson to postpone all civil jury trials likely to last more than a day.
Now Gilbert hopes to move the court to the courtroom.
Kassulker said 12 jurors, a bailiff, a clerk, a court reporter and he would have to move their base of operations for the trial.
"I'm going to do it to see how it works. If we're able to do it with out too many problems more jury trials could be scheduled for the summer," Gilbert said.
R.J. Robertson, associate dean of the School of Law, said it was decided late last week to allow trials to be held in Lesar free of charge.
"It's kind of a cooperative effort to help the court out when they really are strapped for space," Robertson said.
Robertson said the court case would cause a minimum of disruption for the students in Lesar. Only a morning class held in the room would be forced to reach elsewhere, Robertson said.
Robertson said parking spaces would be provided for the jurors and court personnel, but beyond those spaces and the room, no arrangements were being made for the trial.
The judge said, however, that because of the uncertain nature of civil court cases the trial scheduled for July 17 might never begin.
"Many civil cases settle right at the last minute" Gilbert said. "On the courthouse steps," he added.

Juror's possible misconduct topic of debate in North case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The judge in the Olber North case summoned lawyers to his courtroom Wednesday to argue whether a juror's possible misconduct affected the conviction of the ex-White House aide on three Iran-Contra charges.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell, in what likely will be the final courtroom session before North's scheduled sentencing next week, was expected to determine whether the presence of Tara King on the jury tainted the case.

North, dismissed in November 1986 from the National Security Council staff, was convicted May 4 on three felony counts arising from the secret U.S. arms sales to Iran and the private arms network he ran before North's scheduled November 1986 from the death of Mfivin Howard Jr.

The six men were not guilty to second degree murder Monday, according to court records.

John Howard was arrested in the early morning hours of June 28, 1983.

Evan suffered psychological trauma "because he believed in Mickey Mouse."

Man pleads guilty to murder

A Carbondale man pleaded guilty and was sentenced on second-degree murder and theft charges by Judge David Watt Jr.

John Howard Jr., 25, pleaded guilty to second degree murder and theft, and is sentenced to five years in prison for theft and 15 years for each of the stabbing deaths of John Howard Jr. and 41-year-old Lisa Drbohlav.

The second degree murder charge was reduced from first degree murder Monday, according to court records.

Bush preparing language for flag amendment

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Bush and his aides worked Wednesday to develop what the White House spokesman called "proper language" for a constitutional amendment to make flag burning a crime that could be declared a crime.

Bush press secretary Martin Fitzwater told reporters that administration officials were consulting with key Republicans to draft the amendment and expect to develop a "first cut" before the end of the next legislative session or maybe even before that.

Earlier, the spokesman had said Bush and White House lawyers had worked out the language of the amendment and submitted it to the House and Senate Wednesday.

Late in the day, however, he issued a written statement that said, "The White House is working with members of Congress to develop an appropriate language for a constitutional amendment on flag burning."

At a news conference Tuesday, Bush said he would seek to reverse the Supreme Court's controversial 5-4 decision last week that burned the flag as a political protest is protected by the First Amendment's free speech guarantee.

Fitzwater said the proposed amendment "would probably be short," running only one or two sentences, and would be introduced by Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas and House GOP leader Bob Michel of Illinois "with our endorsement."

The delay in sending the language to Capitol Hill may have been prompted by the Republican leaders, who, Fitzwater said, "want to be part of it."

"It will be an administration-GOP initiative," the spokesman said. Denying the effort is partisan, Fitzwater said, "We welcome Democrats to join us."

On Tuesday, Bush did not suggest what sort of language he would seek - a change in the First Amendment itself or a new section that declares, for example, that nothing in the Constitution protects flag desecration.

On Wednesday, Fitzwater said, "The amendment will basically authorize laws against desecration of the flag."

Arkansas man arrested while attempting to burn the flag

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) - State Police arrested an announced candidate for governor Wednesday for fighting while trying to burn the American flag in front of the state Capitol.

Robert "Say" McIntosh, a 24-year-old owner of a Little Rock body shop, who was among a crowd of a dozen anti-flag-burners who surrounded McIntosh when punches were thrown.

McIntosh was said to have wanted to burn the flag to protest President Bush and had proposed constitutional amendment to ban flag burning.

While there has been near universal condemnation of the high court's ruling, which some see as endorsing flag burning, voices have been raised against tampering with the original Bill of Rights, the Amendment guarantees religious freedom and the right to free association - the basis for political parties.

Bush acknowledged that concerns Tuesday when he said, "We've got to be very careful in our society to preserve the right to protest government action."

"However, I believe that the flag of the United States should never be the object of desecration."

"Flag burning is wrong. Protection of the flag, a unique national symbol, will in no way limit the opportunity nor the breadth of protest available in the exercise of free speech rights."

Bush has also voiced support for two other constitutional amendments, one to balance the federal budget and the other to outlaw abortion, but Fitzwater said the administration has not assigned priorities to them.

The Founding Fathers deliberately made amending the Constitution a complicated process. Under the only method used in the nation's 200-year constitutional history, both the House and Senate must approve the language by two-thirds majorities, then 38 of the 50 state legislatures - a three-fourths majority - must approve it.

More than 100 amendments have come before Congress and gone to the states for approval but only 16 have been adopted.

Publisher making fire-proof flags for flag lovers who agree with court

GREAT BARRINGTON, Mass. (UPI) - A man who spurred flag-burning decision

Porteous, who publishes a 24-page newsletter called Free Speech Newsletter on American freedom of speech, is trying to submit a presentation of church and state, said Wednesday, has submitted a "first cut" of the Supreme Court's controversial flag burning decision.

But, he said, "I think it's very distasteful to burn the flag like they're doing."

To help those who feel similarly, Porteous has purchased a supply of flags from a print manufacturer and has begun treating them with a fire-resistant called "Gee Fire." A flame held under one of his 12-by-18-inch flags will not ignite the material, although it can cause a black spot if held long enough.

Porteous said he has begun offering the non-burning flags for $50 each and will be proceeds to hold a celebration of this September's 200th anniversary of the Bill of Rights.

"I definitely support the Supreme Court's decision as to what they had to say, but I also think it's a protected means of speech and I think the court was right to do that."

Porteous acknowledged the flag would not be bought by people who want to burn them, "but I said supporters of Old Glory might want to buy the fireproof versions as a statement against those who would.

Man who spurred flag-burning decision challenges Bush to a prime time debate

NEW YORK (UPI) - Gregory Johnson, whose conviction for torching a U.S. flag in 1984 was novamente by the Supreme Court, Wednesday, said President Bush's call for a constitutional amendment to ban flag burning and challenged the president to debate the highly controversial issue.

I think the two principal figures in this battle, George Bush and myself, should meet, in a face-to-face public debate," said Johnson, the 52-year-old Bronx man convicted of violating the Texas flag desecration law during a protest outside the Republican National Convention in 1984. Johnson's conviction was overturned last week in a 5-4 Supreme Court ruling, prompting Bush to announce, through his plan to seek a constitutional amendment against flag burning.

"I call on George Bush to a national debate or, the eve of July 4 on prime time TV on the subject of flag burning - what it means," said Johnson.

Thompson: income tax plan has no backers

Alternative tax plan being considered among legislators

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Gov. James R. Thompson said Wednesday he was unsuccessful in Richland and had a legislative sponsor for his comprehensive income tax increase proposal, and his plan will not be presented to the General Assembly this spring.

Since last Friday's defeat of House Speaker Michael Madigan's temporary 18.4 percent income tax hike proposal, the governor has met with Democratic and Republican legislative leaders in an attempt to come up with an alternative income tax increase proposal. Thompson said the plan he floated called for a permanent 30 percent income tax increase with new tax credits for education, local governments, a 16 percent income tax credit for property tax relief and human services funding.

"THAT WOULD HAVE BEEN Affer to the 100th day of session that, probably because it's too good, it's too fair and it would demand so much support," Thompson said. "The problem is simple — Republicans are rethinking to support any tax plan that goes above the dollar figure set by the Madison tax plan."

Thompson volunteered to prepare an alternative to the Madigan proposal after the Senate defeated the plan by three votes on Friday.

"I would be willing to support that plan, but I don't think it's going to pass," Thompson said. "Sen. Michael Madigan might present an income tax increase proposal this spring, Thompson said. Senate Republican leader James "Pat" Philip of Wood Dale has said he is working on a tax hike proposal separate from Thompson's effort.

"YOU'LL HAVE to see Senator Philip about that. He promised me, so I assume he will deliver one," the governor said. "In my judgment, Sen. Philip is capable of delivering a good plan."

Madigan has said he believes his temporary 18.4 percent income tax surcharge eventually will be passed by the General Assembly and signed into law by the governor. The $726 million raised in the first year of the tax hike would be divided between local governments and schools.

"In terms of ideas being offered we ought to work on that idea, and we ought to work to pass it," Madigan said Tuesday. "I think that the Legislature will pass the surcharge and I think the governor will sign it. I don't think anybody will ask for another tax plan to be voted on in House."

THOMPSON SAIID he would consider any tax and appropriation bills as a package before deciding whether he would sign Madigan's temporary tax plan into law should it be passed by the General Assembly.

"I am perfectly prepared to accept and sign any budget, including any tax plan that meets the expectations and agreements of the people of the state of Illinois," Thompson said.

New industrial training laboratory scheduled for completion in fall

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Gov. James R. Thompson Wednesday announced a $250,000 state grant to help open an industrial training laboratory that will train and retrain central Illinois workers for future jobs.

The laboratory is scheduled to be operational this fall at Central Illinois Community College thanks to a $250,000 Adult Training Program grant awarded by the state through a consortium of Illinois businesses.

"Illinois" skilled workers have always been one of its greatest assets," Thompson said. "As industries modernize and retool to remain competitive, it is essential that our skilled labor force be demanded by changing technologies.

Sen. Penny Severns, D-Decatur, who sponsored the funding package in the Senate in 1987, said the laboratory will keep central Illinois people in touch with changes in the job market of the future.

"IT will certainly assure increased job retention and job attraction for our central Illinois region," she said. "Job retention and training are the vital links in job retention."

The ITP grant will be used to purchase a computer integrated manufacturing system and assorted robotics equipment used in factories. Participating students will be trained in Richland courses in electronics, machining, and electronic and industrial controls, manufacturing processes, production control and machining.

Two Pontiac fugitives recaptured before police discovered escape

Prisoners escape using smuggled hacksaw blades

PONTIAC, Ill. (UPI) — Two inmates who escaped from the Livingston County Jail were back in custody Wednesday, police said. Prison personnel knew they were missing.

Sheriff Don Wall said the two sawed their way through prison bars late Tuesday and crawled through a hole and onto a catwalk, from which they dropped 15 feet to the ground.

Wall said it was unclear who made the escape by transporting hacksaw blades. The two made their escape by transporting hacksaw blades through a hole and onto a catwalk, from which they dropped 15 feet to the ground. The two were asleep in their beds when police entered the room.

"That would have been my plan, but nobody else likes that, probably because it's too good, it's too fair and it works," Thompson said. "In my judgment, Sen. Philip is capable of delivering a good plan."

Madigan has said he believes his temporary 18.4 percent income tax surcharge eventually will be passed by the General Assembly and signed into law by the governor. The $726 million raised in the first year of the tax hike would be divided between local governments and schools.

Government Cheese to play on Shryock steps Thursday

Band remembers Carbondale bar scene as strange

By Theresa Livingston

Government Cheese, a four-piece roots rock outfit out of Bowling Green, Ky., will be the feature attraction of this week’s Sunset Concert at Shryock Auditorium.

The band, which has appeared in Carbondale before, was formed four years ago by Western Kentucky University students as an alternative to entering the real world.

“We all were graduating and we were bunmed out because we had to get real jobs,” Joe King, the group’s drummer, said.

From those early beginnings, the band has gone on to record an Ep, “Come On Back,” Bowling Green and Marry Me,” a live Lp and to garner a college and club following.

King described the group’s sound as “garage pop...Rolling Stones, Kinks kind of stuff.”

“Main what we do is turn it up and let it fly,” he said.

The group’s live Lp, “3 Chords, No Waiting,” seems to collaborate with this statement. The disc, which was released in May, came into being in a rather unorthodox way.

The four had originally intended to release a studio album with a few live cuts. They enlisted “about 50 or 60 tracks,” King said, and then recorded several tracks to choose from, but the project turned out so well it was impossible to choose. Instead, they released an entire live album. Meanwhile, the studio album will be released later.

Although live album was unplanned, it seems to have been a smart move for the band. It was released two months ago and has entered the college radio charts, while the group’s work has been featured on M-Tv’s “12th Man Minutes,” as well as the Canadian video show, “Much Music.” Government Cheese also has been doing extensive touring to support their work throughout the year.

The group is looking forward to returning to Carbondale, a place where King said strange things happen, which always makes it interesting to play here.

Choosing a Bong for your Needs

The first step in choosing a bong is to decide what you are going to use it for. If you are looking for a bong to smoke cannabis, there are a few things you should consider.

1. Diameter: The diameter of the bong should be around 14-15mm. This size is comfortable to hold and smoke.

2. Length: The length of the bong should be around 18-20cm. This size is comfortable to hold and smoke.

3. Material: The material of the bong should be glass. Glass is a good material because it is durable and easy to clean.

4. Color: The color of the bong can be anything you want. You can choose a bong with your favorite color or a bong that matches your personality.

Baseball investigators earlier this summer had determined that Rose had bet as much as $1 million over several years, one of Rose's main accusers also said the baseball legend discussed getting involved in cocaine trafficking.

Rose said his lawyers are battling the issue in court, accusing Giamatti of having already made a judgment in his case, and conducting a biased investigation.

On Sunday, Nadel agreed with Rose, saying clear evidence of Giamatti's bias emerged during a two-day hearing that ended Wednesday. Scheduling a hearing July 6 to hear arguments on a preliminary injunction that Rose filed to stop a hearing on his home turf, the Ohio Supreme Court confirmed that Rose would be heard on his home ground and a hearing before the court's special commissioner.

The next step for Giamatti is to appeal the decision to the U.S. Supreme Court. This case is a strong case against the baseball commissioner, Giamatti noted in his appeal that baseball's highest court, through an extraordinary procedure, has the power to decide the issue.

The case is being heard by the Ohio Supreme Court, which has the power to decide the issue.

At the heart of Major League Baseball's case is a slimmer, 225-page report — the Dowd Report, so-called after baseball's special prosecutor John Dowd. It's among other things, that the baseball legend was involved in cocaine trafficking as a way to pay off his gambling debts.

Jury still out on Winfield

HOUSTON (UP) — Jurors deliberated until Wednesday in the trial of a suit filed against New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner, the former baseball owner, who claimed the team had a common-law marriage.

The jury, three-woman, three-woman jury deliberated for three hours Wednesday before taking a lunch break. The jury deliberated four hours Thursday morning before closing arguments were made.

The jury must decide if Winfield, 27, and Sandra Renfro, 31, are common-law husband and wife, based on their relationship from 1969 to 1984.

Renfro filed suit Jan. 13, 1985, claiming she is Winfield's common-law wife and the father of her daughter, Lauren Winfield, now 6 years old.

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — There's no doubt about it. It was herbicide in the face of those ivy.

The big-league ivy that ran rampant over the top of the centerfield wall at Wau Powell Park in Charleston is dead. Mike Nealer, director of parks and recreation for public grounds in Charleston, said his crews were responsible for the demise of the major league ivy at the city-owned ballpark, but it was accidental.

"We try to be extremely careful so that we don't get any drift from the chemical," Nealer said. "I don't think anyone thought it was a weed. We knew it was there. I'm sure it was not intentional.

Nealer said it would be more than happy to replace the Ivy for Basitien, but that it would be normal, everyday ivy — anyone could own.

The problem is that we could get ivy to plant there, but it is not going to have the chemical. From Wrigley Field," Nealer said.

Basitien said he probably has made his last attempt to transplant big-league tradition to Charleston.

Appeal denied in Rose case

From the Press Box

Cincinnati Reds Manager Pete Rose has lost his appeal in the racing scandal which led to his ouster from the game and his banning from baseball for life.

Rose, in a telephone interview with The Courier-Journal of Louisville, Ky., Tuesday night, admitted he had been involved in illegal gambling during his playing years.

"I have no defenses for it," Rose said. "I stole. I answered the Commissioner's List for 1919, but it was a travesty to put me there."

Rose said he was not going to answer any questions about gambling because he thought it would be unfair to his family.

The Reds, who have been without Rose since the spring, have already named former manager Joe Nuxhall as their new manager. The Reds are currently in last place in the National League East.

Will Pete join the Black Sox?

Somewhere in a field of dreams "Sheeless" Joe Jackson is watching with interest the controversy over whether Cincinnati Reds manager Pete Rose rose against his own team.

Jackson, who was part of the eight "Black Sox," was banned for life from playing organized baseball because he played a part in the fixing of the 1919 World Series between the White Sox and the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Black Sox were given a jury trial in Chicago and acquitted of any wrongdoing. There is no group of Ghosts that would be able to find its way around the Wrigley Field. But baseball as a whole is a laughing stock because of that.

Jackson, who was part of the Black Sox, has been given a restraining order to keep him from playing baseball because he was involved in gambling.

He is, however, allowed to attend meetings of the Black Sox, which has been in operation since the scandal.
