The events will be noncompetitive for sororities. One girl from each house will participate in the relay, and teams will also put on a team. Some events for the girls include a cycle race, sash race, and a balloon race. There will be a surprise race for the teams, to be announced at the track meet.

Yriart Appeals
For Improved News Coverage

An urgent appeal for "a considerable improvement in the quality of information" in the media that brought to the American public was issued by the ambassador of Uruguay to the U.S. in a speech here Tuesday night.

Don Juan Felipe Yriart spoke at the American Festival - Journalism Week dinner in the University Center auditorium. The audience internationally prominent newsmen and women and students.

Yriart stressed the importance of "understanding the problems faced by other nations as a prerequisite to our helping them solve their economic difficulties. "We should resolve to know more about each other," he said.

The ambassador declared that the situation in Latin America is "far from accurate, detailed or complete. He said that American people see Latin America only as a place of land and suffering from continuous political problems."

SIU Chosen as Peace Corps Site
For Training for African Duty

SIU has been chosen as the training site for Peace Corps' volunteers who will go to Senegal and Niger, countries in French West Africa.

The announcement was made by Allan Kulakow, Peace Corps training officer, Paul Cromwell, program officer for French West Africa, and Richard Posston, program director of the training here.

More than 100 volunteers will be trained here in social work, physical education, rural construction, adult education, agriculture and the French language.

Trainees going to Niger will learn "Isama," the language spoken by the Nigers, and those going to Senegal will learn "Wolof.

Posston, a visiting professor in community development, has been involved in Peace Corps training throughout the United States. He has conducted research on Peace Corps overseas projects and community development. He has taken part in training programs at Rutgers, University of New Mexico, Columbia University and other colleges and universities.

"The training program will involve more than 20 SIU departments and it will be a University-wide effort involving many faculty members," said Posston.

SIU has several faculty members who have worked in West Africa, and others who are familiar with the necessary skills for such a training program, Cromwell commented.

Beginning late in June, the trainees will participate in an intensive 12-week program designed to help them adapt to life in West Africa. Three former volunteers who have completed their duties there will teach cultural aspects of the countries, and the existing political and social organization in West Africa.

The living conditions for the trainees will be much like the ones they will find in Africa. All their activities will be geared to learning custome..." (Continued on Page 4)

J-Panel Ponders Magazine Future

A panel discussion by magazine and special publications professionals analyzed “The Miracle of Magazines” Tuesday, as a part of the current Journalism Week program.

Moderator Julie England led the discussion through topics that covered the challenges and opportunities in magazine careers, including examinations of the editorial, advertising, promotion and cir­

ulation processes involved in the work.

Panelists included James L.C. Ford, professor of jour­nalism; John Nash, Ralston­ Purina Co.; Lee Larkin, Kaiser Corp.; Jo Rukavina, P a m o u s - B a v a ; G r e n b e r n Schmitz, Pet Milk Co.; and Ann Southwick, Trailer Topics.

Larkin told the audience, “Students don’t think ahead to the future. They should ask themselves: ‘What am I going to be doing in 15-20 years?’ instead of what they’ll be doing in just five years.”

Miss Southwick described magazine work as potentially dissatisfying to the type of person who requires crowds of people for motivation. This person, she explained, would do well to choose public rela­tions as a career.

Nash suggested three qual­i­fications which face applic­ants for positions as magazine writers. He said the applicant should, of course, be able to write, but he must also show a definite interest in the work and must enjoy and want to write.

Ex-Governor Stratton Indicted
On Income Tax Evasion Charge

CHICAGO — William G. Stratton, Republican governor of Illinois from 1952 to 1960, was accused by a federal grand jury Wednesday of evading $46,676 in income taxes in the last four years of office. The indictment was voted last Friday by the grand jury but was suppressed until Wednesday, the government said. The grand jury action was kept secret to insure orderly conduct of the Illinois primary election.

The source of the funds on which he was able to have evaded taxes was not given. The indictment charged that income tax returns for 1957 through 1960 were false and fraudulent. The returns were filed jointly by Stratton and his wife, Shirley, whom he married in 1957, but Mrs. Stratton was not named a defendant.

"He had an opportunity to pay," Hanrahan said. Stratton was not immediately available for comment.

If convicted of the charges, Stratton could receive a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison and a $40,000 fine.

Edward Hanrahan, United States district attorney, said Internal Revenue Service agents had followed normal procedures in checking Stratton's returns and had "discussed his taxes with him.

Goldwater Victor,
Smith Scores Well

CHICAGO — Sen. Barry Goldwater emerged as a victor in the Illinois presidential preference primary but his only listed opponent, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, made a surprising show of strength.

The returns were filed jointly by Stratton and his wife, Shirley, whom he married in 1957, but Mrs. Stratton was not named a defendant.

Government investigators said that Stratton paid only $23,311 in taxes for the four years whereas he should have paid $69,987, leaving an alleged evasion of $46,676 on unreported income.

Edward Hanrahan, United States district attorney, said Internal Revenue Service agents had followed normal procedures in checking Stratton's returns and had "discussed his taxes with him.

"He had an opportunity to pay," Hanrahan said. Stratton was not immediately available for comment.

Rationale on Drinking Age Called Distorted

The assistant dean of student affairs, Joseph Zaleski, recently gave his views on underage drinking in a story in the Daily Egyptian (“Zaleski Suggests Realistic Approach to Law on Drinking,” April 7). He presented many points which to me seem quite distorted.

Mr. Zaleski reported that since many of the violators’ parents encourage drinking at home he was surprised that this lowering the drinking age. In other words, what a man-made law is in contrast to parental guidance, the law should be relaxed. I believe this means we might find it desirable to abolish other laws such as compulsory education if they were

Wheelchair Stealing Is Cruel Pastime

Have the residents of Small Group Housing faced a new pastime? It seems some of them think it is very humorous to steal wheelchairs, and later return them, after much work, in very poor condition to the owner. You would think that all college students are mature enough to respect the property of others—especially that property for which they have no use.

In the past six weeks wheelchairs have been noticed by the administration are being removed from the Ag parking lot because of necessity have on more than one occasion broken tires, tampers with it, and returned in a damaged condition.

The people involved in this theft have been noticed by witnesses as they brought back the chairs and then returned them whence they came—into the direction of Small Group Housing. Other notifications has been made as to general identity.

Instead of creating a lot of resentment and antagonism we ask only that this vandalism be stopped, please, and that some thought be put before the deed. All things considered, this is not a deed to be admired.

Gringos, Awake!

Neither the tap of the tango dancer’s heels nor the sounds of revolution will be heard in Panama. The weeklong activities are planned to give students a better understanding of the Latin American scene.

Sure, we don’t realize how little we know about our southern neighbors. As a result, all we can picture is the poverty, corrupt political conditions and multi-colored blankets of the natives.

The emphasis of the Festival will be to dispel such misconceptions. Forums and lectures will help describe

Christy Minstrels Deserved Coverage

On April 5 a nationally-known singing group that has appeared on television many times, the New Christy Minstrels, appeared at Shryock Auditorium.

To put it very mildly, their performance was great! At both performances the audience gave the singers a standing ovation, the auditorium was filled to capacity, and never have I seen a group so excited about the whole performance.

Why was there not one single word or picture in the Daily Egyptian about their appearance?

Book Review

British Role in Fight Against Reds

The importance of British participation in the political, military and economic affairs of Western Europe as a stabilizing force in the fight against communism has been widely recognized, here and abroad. Middleton’s book reemphasizes this point.

The author, an experienced observer of the British scene for many years as a New York Times correspondent, sees a tremendous chance for Britain to play an important role in the European Community, he analyzes the French reaction toward Britain and the new economic Community, and argues that a united Great Britain including Great Britain and the European Economic Community would greatly influence Soviet policy formation in Europe.

Although decisions were made against her, and Britain finds herself outside the European Economic Community, the “Gringos, Awake!” guest editorial appears an excellent statement of the British position in the conflict between De Gaulle’s Europe and Kennedy’s concept of an Atlantic community.

KANSAS RELAYS TO SET RECORDS
But Jinxed Salukis’ Hope Dim

At least 12 meet records will be in jeopardy in the 39th Kansas Relays Friday and Saturday at Lawrence with millers Bob Lingle and John Cameron sharing the spotlight with a flock of outstanding weight men and sprinters.

Once again, for the third straight year and probably for the remainder of the season, Southern’s shattered team will have to take a back seat in another big track affair.

The Salukis, who have won the distance medley relay at the Kansas extravaganzas two years in a row, will probably have to give up that event this year.

From last year’s winning team of David Turner, Bill Correll, Jack Peters and Houston, only Turner will be back for another crack. Even the Briton will be hurting as he has just come back after a series of leg injuries.

In his first action of the outdoor season, Turner ran a comparatively slow 4:20 mile. Correll, the other half of the British tandem, will be out of action along with Peters with leg injuries.

One hope for the Salukis is the return of all of the winning freshman relay team from last year. All are sophomores and will be ready to go. Gary Froman ran a 49.1 leg last year, but is just rounding into shape after a leg injury. The other three are in good shape with Bill Lindsay, Bob Wheelwright and Gary Carr. Carr is in the best shape of the four as he ran a time of 4.8 44.4 against Fort Campbell last Friday.

George Woods is the only other Saluki returnee from the Kansas meet last year and once again hemos as the Salukis’ biggest hope for a high finish.

Woods finished fourth in last year’s two-day meet with a toss of 54 feet 10 inches and is throwing much better than that all this year.

Shroyer Has 'Problem' - Only 3 Quit So Far

A record 98 football hopefuls turned out for Southern's spring drills last week but there have been only three dropouts as the practice sessions headed into its second week. Although at the first-day session new coach Don Shroyer said he would not cut anyone (“it'll be up to the individual”), Shroyer now says a cut "may be necessary" as a result.

"As much as I hate to drop a boy," said Shroyer, "it looks like it may be necessary this week if we hope to accomplish everything we feel vital at this time."

However, with just six outdoor drills behind them, the Salukis have impressed Shroyer with their enthusiasm and willingness to hit. The former St. Louis Card assistant, who Saturday directed a 75-minute scrimmage session said, "What these boys lack in ability, they seem to make up for in desire, and I like that. Desire can take you a long way. And obviously we're loaded with it or we would have had far more drop-outs by now."

Although wasting little time before launching contact work, Shroyer has lost the services of only two squad members by injuries. Guard Vic Pantealo dislocated his left elbow in Friday's practice session and end Tom Massey broke a finger in Saturday's scrimmage. Both are regulars last season.

Yriart Calls for Improvement
In Latin American Information

vision, in sharper focus," he suggested, "before any plan to help can be successful."
He emphasized his belief that "a well-informed public opinion is necessary to economic progress" in Latin America, and that the people in the country that is to be helped must also understand the objectives involved.

This requires reliable public information, Yriart said, which in turn will lead to a well-informed public opinion the "key to the solution of the present economic crises in Latin America."

Yriart cited the relative significance of the democratic system in the eyes of the Latin Americans, pointing to their participation in two international democratic organizations, the Alliance for Progress and the Organization of American States.

"Only in a democratic system," he told the audience, "can we achieve economic progress." He suggested that this democracy must be based on the rights of man, the equality of man, and a new equality of states.

"We have not achieved equality of opportunity in Latin America, and this is a prerequisite to social justice, so we are therefore still in great peril," Yriart explained.

John E. Grinell, vice president for Operations, presented at the dinner, assisted by Albert W. Bork, director of the Latin American Institute. Medals were presented to Copley Press, which publishes 15 newspapers in Illinois and California, and Rosa Sampson de Gaithe, native Nicaraguan newswoman. The awards were for outstanding contributions to better understanding between the two Americas.

William Glondoni, Latin American editor for Copley, accepted the medal for his news service.

Variety Is Keynote
Of Ad Discussion

A variety of topics concerned with advertising ranging from ethics to color reproduction highlighted the morning discussion session of Advertising Day on the SIU campus Wednesday.

The principal speakers at the informal session were Elving Anderson, advertising director of the Detroit Free Press, and Tom Gore, advertising director of Diagraph-Bradley, Inc., of Herrin.

In opening the discussion, Gore pointed out the differences between the type of advertising his company uses and consumer advertising, and said that where consumer advertising tends to be romantic, there is little opening for romance in industrial advertising, which reaches only a limited and specialized audience.

Anderson also cautioned students against falling into what he called "personal obsolescence," or complacency. He pointed out that many openings are available in the field of advertising, and that there are few really good men to fill these positions.
