City Council ousts Rt. 51 relocation

By Rich Davis
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Carbondale City Council Tuesday night voted against a plan to relocate Rt. 51 west of the city and sent back to committee the Carbondale Transportation Plan.

In a series of three motions, the Council first amended the plan to eliminate the relocation of Rt. 51 and extension of Willow Street, then moved to adopt the amended plan, and finally voted to send the plan back to committee for further study.

The action came as somewhat of a surprise after a meeting this week between city, county, and state officials during which the relocation of Rt. 51 was approved.

Mayor David Keene and City Councilman William Easton voted against the amendment, which passed 3-1.

Councilman Hans Fischer told the meeting that he felt the planning committee should be more creative. He opposed the extension of Willow and some of the planned improvements to the original plan, he said because it would cut through Atvarks Park and a residential area.

Chairman of the planning commission, David R. Chavarria, assistant dean of Liberal Arts and Sciences, said the planning commission had considered the amended changes two months ago, and the action amended the plan to where it was no plan at all according to Chavarria.

Relocation of Rt. 51 is part of an overall transportation plan for the city that would relocate Rt. 13 north of the city and move Rt. 51 west. In original plans, both highways would be four-lane, high-speed arterials.

Apollo nearest home, 100,000 miles to go

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—The Apollo 13 pilots, found the stranded days behind them, sped into the last 100,000 miles home Thursday, their cold and ailing spacecraft aimed at a Friday splashdown in the Pacific Ocean.

Their speed was picking up in answer to earth's gravity—and they trod out plans for a possible last-minute thruster jolt to aim their ship more precisely for landing.

For the astronauts, James A. Lovell Jr., Fred W. Haise Jr. and Jack L. Swigert, Wednesday's launch countdown scheduled for 7:55 a.m. EST Friday is intended only to refine the ship's aim. It is already on a path that will land it in the Pacific without further adjustment.

The 50-degrees chill forced the astronauts to put on extra underwear and sleep huddled on the floor of the lunar lander, the warmest place they have.

With their home planet looming larger in their windows, the astronauts kidded about the cold in the cabin now reaching to some 50 below.

"Now you see why we call it the refrigerator," Swigert called down.

"Yeah, it's a kind of a cold-winter day up there, isn't it?" Mission Control said, "Is it snowing in the command module yet?"

"No, not quite," Swigert replied.

On the ground experts set up a tentative schedule for the morning's events: The timetable:

7:07 a.m. EST; 6 hours before splashdown. Crew make command ship, 8:13 a.m.—Jettison of crippled service module and attempt to photograph it.

11:55 a.m.—Jettison lunar lander.

Fest ‘fate’ on the line today

By Win Holden
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Concerned Citizens of Southern Illinois are ready.

Optimism pervaded the Thursday night meeting where Tom Dinna, leader of the group who opposed the May Fest since the idea was introduced last winter, and Bill Price, head of SIU's outdoor lab spoke.

Price then reviewed the legal situation. Thirty motions filed by Concerned Citizens attorneys will be heard during a hearing at 10 a.m. today in Murphysboro. One calls for a temporary injunction that would expand Harpelle from holding the proposed May Day Fest. A second requests the continuance of an April 28 trial date and the third calls for the defendants to produce documents outlining festival preparations.

"They (Harpelle) want to harass us, they want to keep the rumors going and they want to break us," Price said.

Price called for a large turnout at the hearing and said, "This will be the first time a group of concerned citizens will have stepped up a rock festival to try to stop the courts from deciding for us.

Price said he has been in touch with witnesses from other festivals who will voluntarily come here for the trial.

Dinna delivered a brief statement module yet! and, noting that no representatives of Harpelle were present at the meeting said, "Harpelle made all our meetings right from the start except the last meeting and this meeting and I think their absence is conspicuous.

Jackson County Sheriff Raymond Dilinger was appointed coordinator of law enforcement personnel for the state and county recently, and Dinna explained the necessity of police preparation even though there is some doubt that the fest will call it preventive medicine," he said.

Price reported on depositions given by Harpelle officials and said they have, as yet, sold only 4,000 tickets. Also, they have not signed a single group, (Continued on page 10)

Gianelli halts spending

Freeze imposed on funds

By Terry Peters
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A moratorium on all student Senate spending has been declared by Anthony J, Gianelli, assistant dean for student activities.

The spending freeze was imposed, Gianelli said in a letter dated April 13, because student government had spent nearly 50 per cent of the funds remaining in its accounts as of March 1.

"In my responsibility to declare a moratorium on all Student Senate expenditures," Gianelli said, "including student payables and Serve the People, to ensure funds to cover on-going expenses for the remainder of the academic year."

Student government spent $4,229.20 during March, according to Gianelli.

The letter said the Serve the People campaign could begin again to spend money when the funds allocated to it by the Carbondale City Council are received.

The City Council appropriated $1,130 to the Serve the People campaign at its April 7 meeting. The funds were to help finance Serve the People's pest control and People's Gardens projects.

The spending moratorium was announced by Rhonda Starnes, elections commissioner, at Wednesday's Senate meeting. Ella John May, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, told the Senate that while deficits exist in some accounts, money can be transferred to those accounts from others still in the black.

May said the deficits exist mainly in accounts for operational expenses. Some funds in the accounts still in the black are already committed, May said, and would be unavailable for transfer into deficit accounts.

Richard Wallace, student body vice president and chairman of the Senate, said student government payroll hours would have to be reduced. He said the reductions would come mainly in the hours worked by secretaries, "some of whom do little work, and some of whom are receiving elaborate salaries."

Gianelli said Thursday that an audit of student government expenditures would be released shortly by his office.
Teacher training receives funding

The SIU Center for Training Teacher Trainers has been appropriated $252,000 from the EUI Office of Education to continue its program.

The project is a cooperative effort involving four departments in the College of Education, five departments in the College of Arts and Sciences and representatives of the Carbondale public school district.

The objectives of the program are to work toward revision of the teacher education program and improvement of college level instruction, according to Donald Robinson, assistant dean of the College of Education.

Activities planned under the project are an intensive summer institute June 15-20 followed by weekly seminars for the remaining six weeks of the summer session.

During the academic year the group will serve as trainers of additional personnel in their settings while continuing to participate in training sessions.

Those participating in the program will be undergraduates who plan to be teachers, master teachers who supervise cooperating teachers,

Reform journalist’s centennial marked

To the Daily Egyptian:

Today marks the 100th anniversary of the birth in Lansing, Mich., of Ray Stannard Baker (1875-1940). This sensitive, energetic, probing middle Westerner was in the forefront of crusading journalists and reformers a half century ago.

In his early book, "Following the Color Line," he took an eye-opening inventory of the plight of Negro citizens as far back as 1900. He was a pioneer in and historian of the Wilson Era and in 1940 received the Pulitzer Prize still valuable "Woodrow Wilson Life and Letters."

As "David Grayman," he delighted a generation of his "adventures" in "friendship, concurrence and understanding," out of all long association with rural New England. In his autobiography, "American Chronicle" (1941), he left a treatise to democracy that may be read with profit in these days of challenge and confrontation. It is he tells how he learned some hard lessons as a reporter in Chicago in the 1990s.

For his centennial, the American people owe grateful remembrance to Ray Stannard Baker, in many ways one of the most American of us all.

Athletes have no privileged lives

To the Daily Egyptian:

After reading the letter by Mr. Vandiver we accumulated to defend the athletes of SIU. Mr. Vandiver has taken it upon himself to stereotype all athletes of this university as "pampered, privileged ones."

We doubt that Mr. Vandiver could recognize the many athletes who use the library and never miss a class, because his bigoted and stereotyped views do not allow him to recognize these "preferred few." Athletes, like all other students are working hard to obtain a degree. As to the athletes lavish, extravagant living quarters and training tables, we would like to invite Mr. Vandiver to visit our dorm, where a large number of this institution's "pampered playboys" live. We are sure that he would find the rooms merely liveable and we challenge him to gage down the typical meal which every resident athlete or not gets in the same amount and is asked to consume.

It is unfortunate that this major University does not have the proper athletic facilities for both non-athletes and jocks. If Mr. Vandiver were to worry about the "savage class," which contains most athletes on this campus, he should restrict his comments to S.U.U.'s poor General Studies Program or the President’s new Palace instead of our struggling athletic program which he obviously knows nothing about.

If Mr. Vandiver would like a little first-hand knowledge of how good we "sacred cows" habe it, we personally invite him to join us for one day...If he can take it.

Campaign letter policy

During the student elections campaign period the Daily Egyptian will not publish letters written by delegates for Student Government offices. All candidates may submit statements, in accord with announced procedures for publication in the Daily Egyptian April 24, 25 and 26.

Letters to the Daily Egyptian during the campaign period should discuss issues, not personalities. Letters dealing only with personalities, whether endorsing or attacking the candidate, will not be published.

Students ‘thank’ DE & SIU for sectioning office fiasco

To the Daily Egyptian:

We would like to personally thank the Staff of the Daily Egyptian and sectioning for putting up with our constant whining and for proving once again that SIU doesn’t give a damn about the student body.

After waiting in the registration line for 40 minutes on Tuesday, April 14, the hundreds or so students who were informed that they didn’t have appointments couldn’t be rescheduled. It was outright assault.

The last appointments available were for the next morning! Appointments? According to persons employed by sectioning and The Daily Egyptian, the first day for either appointments or sectioning was to be Tuesday, April 14, not Monday, April 13.

Not so, said the man from sectioning, who also stated that notices were sent to all counselors and to The Daily Egyptian. In fact, The Egyptian was to have printed the notice on Friday, April 10, for all to see. Few (if any) counselors told their students about it, and of course The Daily Egyptian neglected to print the story.

Yes, the inefficiency of SIU and its various internal organisations has again been shown. Better the so-called notices should have been printed in LARGE TYPE on hundreds of posters and posted in every building on campus. Also, large ads could have been placed in every newspaper read by SIU students (e.g., local papers, Chicago papers, St. Louis papers, etc.). These are probably read by more students than The Daily Egyptian, which has a lengthy past history of some beautiful misprints and retractions anyway.

Thanks again SIU: for showing us the "true grit" that makes Southern Illinois University the great institution it is today.

Grad Council head suggests center committee changes

To the Daily Egyptian:

I would like to further clarify, for you and other persons concerned, the problem of graduate student participation in a policy review of the Center for Vietnamese Studies and Programs.

As you know, the Graduate Student Council voted 4-1 in its March meeting to reject the invitation to participate on the committee established to review center policy. Numerous reasons were articulated at the Council meeting, and I would like to derive from that discussion a constructive set of suggestions by which the cooperation of the Council might be gained.

Four conditions seem important for the committee to do an adequate job: 1) official endorsement by the University administration; 2) a review and policy recommendation on all questions pertaining to the center, the A.I.O. contract, the present political composition of the staff, etc.; 3) a policy review which would encompass the general question of university involvement in technical assistance; 4) a review function that is permanent.

I think that the general idea of a policy review and recommendation committee is worthwhile and I would like to have, as perhaps you would, an endorsement of the idea by persons higher up in the university administration. I suspect that the second condition is contemplated in the scope of the center committee. I would only hope that it be specified. All the recent debate about the center points to the need of exploring the question of technical assistance. Even if the center’s present non-involvement in technical assistance programs continues, the center’s “academic” operations might well attract for other university units technical assistance projects connected with Vietnam. And finally, the permanent establishment of a faculty-student policy review function is long overdue, not only for the Center but for all technical assistance programs with Area and International Services, especially those having academic as well as service functions.

Project may end summer vacations

Education study 12-month school year

By Copley News Service

WASHINGTON - Junior's summer vacation is not in danger this year, but it could be a thing of the past before the decade is out.

The U.S. Office of Education is studying the possibility of operating the public school system on a year-round basis. The project is comparatively small. Only $3,000 is involved and it centers in only one school district.

Cady to speak on S.E. Asia

John F. Cady, Southeast Asian historian, will speak today at SIU in an appearance sponsored by the Center for Vietnamese Studies and Programs.

Cady is the author of several major publications including "Southeast Asia in Historical Development" and "History of Modern Burma." He will speak at 7:30 pm in the Seminar Room of the Agriculture Building on "Problems of Modernization in Post-War Southeast Asia.

Cady, professor of history at Ohio University at Athens, has received many professional honors and awards and served as chairman of the Southeast Asia Committee of the Association for Asian Studies 1962-65.

His visit to SIU is in conjunction with meeting of the Board of Editors of the "Journal, Southeast Asia, an International Quarterly," which will be published by the Center for Vietnamese Studies and Programs at SIU.

trict, Valley View District this fall, as it reports, but the impact could be national.

Three key questions have been posed in the Lockport study:

1. Is it better economical to operate a public school system on a year-round basis than on a nine-month schedule?
2. Will students learn as well under a 12-month system?
3. How would a year-round public school schedule affect the community?

"We plan to make two 10-year cost projections," says James R. Gove, assistant superintendent and project manager. "One will show to costs of operating Valley View schools over the next decade on a traditional nine-month schedule. The other will show cost figures over the same period on a 12-month basis."

The researchers say their procedures and information will help any school district consider the 12-month schedule.

"Experts often recommend extending the school year as one response to overcrowded schools and the failure of schools to demand," says Gove. "The theory is that using school buildings during summer months might increase their capacity by about one-third and ease demand for more classrooms."

But there is little scientific knowledge about the over-all economies of a 12-month schedule, according to Gove. "so we plan to project costs item by item, including personnel, maintenance, capital expenses, daily operations and the like."

Equally important is the question of whether students learn as well or better go to school 180 days spread throughout the year, Gove adds. He plans to design alternative ways of measuring student performance in a 12-month schedule and the impact on the local community.

Researchers also will produce a case history of the experiences of the Valley View School District in converting from a nine-month schedule to a 45-15 (45 days in school, 15 days out) continuous school year plan.

The Valley View plan is to take effect this summer. Federal funds for the project are being provided under the cooperative research act. The expanded use of school facilities for adult education programs also is under study.

Eighteen colleges and universities and two nonprofit educational agencies will conduct the institutes with federal support totaling approximately $2 million. Fifteen additional colleges and universities will cooperate.

The investigation of year-round school programs has drawn an "avenue" from an unlikely source—the National Park Service. The service is quietly investigating the impact of staggered student and pupil vacations on family holdings. There is strong sentiment in the service for year-round schools that would permit spring, summer and fall vacations, thus stretching out the family use of national parks and other recreational facilities.

New Orleans jazz band vibrant, well received

By Mike Burns
Student Writer

SU students attending concerts Thursday evening saw an original American art form performed by its traditional practitioners. The Preservation Hall Jazz Band of New Orleans played original jazz for an enthusiastic student body.

The musicians performed many numbers individually with music that was infectious. The audience applauded after each solo and each song. A strong sense of involvement in the performances of each man developed.

The Preservation Hall has two hands. The one performing here was Kid Thomas' band. Members of the group, who are all over 40 years old, are Kid Thomas on trumpet, Louis Nelson on trombone, Emanuel Paul on saxophone, Charlie Hamilton on piano, Albert Burbank on clarinet, Joe Butler on bass and Alonzo Smart on drums.

Their music was crisp, smooth, lively and stimulating.

The Preservation Hall Jazz Band is less than 10 years old, but its reputation is formidable. Each musician took part in the birth of this native art form, and they are GSB 300 a, b, c proficiency exams

The schedule for proficiency examinations for GSB 300 a, b, and c (United States History) has been released by the Department of History. Tests for all three courses will be given in the Agriculture Building, room 216, from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. on the following dates: GSB 300 a on Tuesday, May 5; GSB 300 b on Wednesday, May 6; and GSB 300 c on Thursday, May 7.

Students earning grades of "A" or "B" on the test will have the grade recorded on their academic record while students receiving a "C" will only receive credit for the course. No proficiency test may be repeated.

Students wishing to register for one or more tests should contact Mrs. Beth Haas, secretary of the History Department in Woody Hall B238 by May 1.

Citizens prepared

according to Price.

Price said his cousin, Steve Wills of Croswell, Stills and Nash, recently reported that neither his group nor The Jefferson Airplane or Santana would play at the fest unless, they were guaranteed that the proper facilities would be provided for the festival audiences.

In a press statement issued Wednesday, the Concerned Citizens charged that "roads have not been installed. No medical facilities have been installed. Electricity has not been obtained. No dance has been installed. No insurance has been obtained."

"The promoters have promised great things in the past," the release continued.

"Thus far they have not been able to produce. Present promises of site preparation within five days are likewise impossible to produce."

Price reiterated his plea for support at the hearing saying, "Tomorrow will be the most important day in this case so far."

Jazz: Preservation Hall style

The strains of jazz, "original jazz" according to its artisans, captured an SUA audience Thursday during a Concertation performance by the Preservation Hall Jazz Band of New Orleans. "Bourbon Street Blues" and "When the Saints Go Marching In" were delivered up with a style and a flourish that had students swaying in their seats and tapping out the tunes with their feet. Cambodia asks U.S. aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Cambodia's new government, seeking to drive out North Vietnamese and Viet Cong invaders, has officially asked the United States for arms and material.

The Peace P eople protest President Nixon in a potentially embarrassing spot both on the home front and in foreign policy, and the administration is treating the matter with great caution.

"There's no question the request is being examined," State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey said in announcing the Cambodian bid. He refused further details.

Nixon's dilemma could be summed up this way.

On the one hand, the Nixon doctrine for reduced U.S. presence in Asia, his program for U.S. withdrawals from South Vietnam and his avowed desire not to widen the war by impinging Cambodia's neutrality all weigh against launching a U.S. military assistance program for Cambodia.

Congressional critics have made plain their distaste for a new U.S. arms aid undertaking in Indochina. This, they say, is how the United States got involved in Vietnam, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, for one, specifically urged rejection of the Cambodian request.

On the other hand, Cambodia is fighting the same enemy as the allies are in neighboring South Vietnam. Many military men, and some diplomats, say it would make no sense not to help Cambodia in a common cause.

Some administration officials say that without outside aid, Prime Minister Lon Nol's regime which ousted Prince Norodom Sihanouk last month, will fall, and Cambodia will take over the country.

The Cambodian request did not include a call for U.S. combat forces, Washington officials said. They also said that supplying military assistance to a country upon whose request does not violate that country's status as a neutral.

U.S. diplomats held open the possibility that other countries might provide the aid Cambodia wants. In a public appeal April 14, Lon Nol sought help from "all countries of all blocs."

Secretary of State William P. Rogers is expected to consult with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee chairman, J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., a Vietnam war critic, and other key legislators before the administration makes a final decision.

Convo not required fall

By Rich Davis
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

University Convocation will not be required for graduation effective fall 1970 according to Willis Malone, assistant chancellor and vice president for student affairs.

The action was part of a recommendation by the Carbondale Faculty Senate to substitute supplemental programs. Malone said the designation of "convocation" will be dropped.

Students who have already been registered for the existing non-credit course for fall will have it deleted from their registration by the registrar. No action by the student is necessary, according to Malone. However, if such a student wishes to register for the University 200 course he may do so by going to the Registration Center. He need not return to advisement or go through the usual add procedures.

Students registering this quarter who attempt to take the non-credit convocation course will be given the opportunity to substitute University 200.

Recital scheduled

Thomas Guardian, music student at Southern Illinois University, will present his senior recital at 8 p.m., April 21, in the Old Baptist Foundation chapel.

Moulton invited to talk about Judicial Board

The Student Senate has invited William Moulton, dean of students, to appear at the Senate's next meeting to discuss his disagreements with the Senate on membership qualifications for the Campus Judicial Board.

The Student Government Constitution provides that the board shall consist of nine persons "appointed by the President of the Student Body, and with the advice of the Student Faculty.

Dwight Campbell, student body president, said he and several other student government representatives met with Moulton Monday afternoon to discuss the status of the board. When disagreements arose over qualifications for membership on the board, Campbell called off the Campus Judicial Board meeting set for Tuesday evening.

Campbell said he canceled the meeting because, without Moulton's approval, any decision would not have been officially recognized.

Commenting on the disagreement between Moulton and the Senate at Wednesday's Senate meeting, Campbell said, "If we don't go along with Moulton, he'll overrule us anyway. He's judge, jury and executioner.'"

At that point, Murray Mann, senator from University Park, moved that the Senate send Moulton a letter inviting him to explain to the senators his position on qualifications for the board.

Viet Cong strike

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP)—Viet Cong forces have widened their attacks in Cambodia and now threaten most of the southeastern part of the country.

Viet Cong units, calling themselves the "New Shihanouk Army," in honor of the deposed head of state, Prince Norodom Shihanouk, are pushing along four major fronts and even more could be opened soon.

The broadening ring, aimed at breaking the new government's military and political position, coincided with reports of a Radio Peking announcement, claimed by some to have been heard here, that Shihanouk would return to Cambodia Friday.

The new Viet Cong line runs roughly from Kep, near the South Vietnamese border 70 air miles northeast of Phnom Penh, southward in a swirling line through Kompong Trach, 60 miles east of the capital, Sray Rieng, a principal capital 23 miles south of Kompong Trach and then to a point on the Mekong River 24 miles north of the border.

Winston-Salem group

 Bands to perform in concert

An exchange agreement between SIU's College of Education and Winston-Salem State University (WSSU) will bring a stage band and a symphony from the WSSU campus to Carbondale Tuesday.

The groups will present a variety of musical events. The 50-man symphony will perform "Colas Breugn" by David Kabalevsky, the "Second Suite in F for Military Band" by Guvvac Holler, and "Elsa's Procession to the Cathedral" from Wagner's "Lohengrin," adapted for symphony bands by Lucien Caulier, in addition to selections from popular composers.

The symphony will appear in concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the University Center Ballroom. A reception will follow the concert. The following day, the Swingin' Rams will present modern music at 2 p.m. in Grinnell Hall, Brush Towers.

Winston-Salem State University, which became a university last spring, is a school for black students. Band members will be on campus to get an idea of what a large university is like, according to Pat Pall of the College of Education. They will stay in University housing and visit classes during their two-day stay at SIU. Many are considering attending graduate school at SIU.

Agricultural lectures planned

Prof. D.B. Hathaway, Michigan State University agronomic chairman, will give three public lectures at SIU April 20-21 under sponsorship of the SIU Department of Agricultural Industries. Hathaway will discuss "Changes in Political Power and Its Implications for Agriculture and Rural Areas." is a major talk Monday evening at 8 p.m. in the Agriculture Building Seminar Room. He will also speak at 3 p.m. Monday in the Seminar Room on the topic: "Aspects of the Labor Market and Income Distribution in U.S. Agriculture."

Hathaway's Tuesday lecture at 3 p.m. in the Seminar Room will be on "Needed Redirections in Agricultural Economics" and will be directed especially to faculty members and graduate students.

Deadline set for booths

The deadline for receiving applications for Spring Festival booths and displays has been extended until April 20, according to Ken Hight, chairman of the booths committee.

Student groups wanting a booth or display at the festival should contact Hight immediately at the Student Activities Office. Restrictions and limitations on booth sizes, if any, will be set at that later date.
Air Illinois flights commence

Airline service at the Southern Illinois Airport resumed Wednesday with a 10:20 a.m. flight. Flights leave Carbondale at 7 a.m., 10:20 a.m., 12:30 p.m. and 4 p.m., arriving in St. Louis 40 minutes later, leaving just minutes for Springfield, thirty minutes away.

The 7 a.m. flight does not run on Saturdays and Sundays, and the 10:20 a.m. flight does not go to Springfield.

Environmental parade begins

Saturday at 11

By Rich Davis
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Horses, flags and banners, musical groups and even Boy Scouts will converge on Carbondale Saturday during the First Earth-Day Environmental Parade.

The parade, scheduled to take place on the football practice field east of McAndrew Stadium at 11 a.m., will be comprised of students and local people and will include a large green earth banner,
four local Boy Scout troops, and a float by the Department of Conservation and Outdoor Education, musical groups on handwagons and possibly even car pulled by people,

according to Ray Lentz, one of the parade coordinators.

Lentz says the purpose of the event is to make a broad appeal to the community, create awareness and ready people for environmental action.

Residents are encouraged to carry out a clean up cam-ampaign as the parade goes through town. A trash wagon will be a constant pile, a collection of all the horse manure.

Anyone interested in participating in the parade should route. The parade will move west at the practice field at down Illinois Ave., turn left at 10 a.m. Saturday, and at Poplar, then down Mill and up back to the te practice field, signs.

Cancer drive will begin

SIU students will be asked to "Send a Mouse to College" today as the American Cancer Society fund drive is conducted on campus.

Student volunteers will ask fellow students to help fight cancer by contributing at least 27 cents, the cost of sending a mouse to college for cancer research.

The crusade at SIU is headed by Maurice Ogur, a professor in microbiology. Mrs. Priscilla Hill, Peggi Tender and Marilyn Franz are student coordinators.

"If every student can give 27 cents, they will not only benefit the research of the American Cancer Society, but themselves as well," according to Mrs.
Hill. She said one person out of three gets cancer.

Volunteers will be collecting at Lawson Hall, Wood Hall Cafeteria, University Center, in red parking lots and in front of Morris Library.

Mrs. Hill said more volunteers are needed. Any person interested in working can contact Maurice Ogur in Life Science Building, Room 47.

Law Day program planned

Law Day U.S.A., a panel sponsored program by the SIU Pre-Law Club and Jackson County Bar Association, will be held at Furr Auditorium from 1 to 3 p.m.
Friday, May 1.

"This is a national day, set a side, designed to make people stop and reflect over our system of law," said Patrick Duran, SIU senior majoring in government and president of the SIU Pre-Law Club.

The theme of Law Day U.S.A. is, "Law Bridged to Justice," with major emphasis placed on prisons.
"The theme is to show how law continually ties into our daily lives," said Duran.

Four hundred people have been invited to the SIU Law Day, including circuit court judges, state political figures, SIU government students and staff and students from Carbondale and Murphysboro high schools.

The Jackson County Bar Association will distribute pamphlets to the various banks in the area to inform its residents of this nationally recognized day.

Final call for Peace Corps

Today is the last day to visit Peace Corps recruiters for information about the program.

Visiting the campus are Armando Suarez, director of the Peace Corps in Honduras, and Bill Kauschat, public affairs representative from the Washington office.

Suarez is deriving a regional planning program for Honduras and is interested in recruiting engineers, planners and architects for various programs.

Kauschat said they are also interested in students with degrees in agriculture or agricultural experience as well as liberal arts students.

Kauschat said that recruiting on campus has been adequate and that they had good success when they visited VT.

Recruiting will continue today from 8:30-3 p.m. at the International Center of Woody Hall, Room 108.

MeCl'lllan to speak on campus Monday

Fleec McMillan, visiting professor of music at SU, will speak on elementary and secondary music education at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Algie Hall, Room 108.

MeCl'lllan speaks from a broad background of music education experience. In addition to conducting work-shops in music for public schools, she has served as clinician for the Music Educators National Conference and the International Conference of Woody Hall, districts and national levels.

Training lab dates set

The Leadership Training Committee (LTC) sponsored by the Student Activities Center will present two human relations laboratories during May.

Both labs will be staffed by the National Training Laboratory (NTL), an organization where laboratory training was developed at a learning method. The NTL provides credentials for practicing professionals. The first lab, May 1-3, will provide introductory experience for people who have never attended an LTC sponsored event.

The second lab, May 22-24, will provide group experience in human relations training.

Applications for both labs may be obtained at the Student Activities Center in T-39 and must be returned with a $3 registration fee one week prior to the lab date.

Further information is available from James Schuster, Chairman of the Leadership Training Committee, and Norm James, activities consultant at the Student Activities Center. The number is 433-5714.

Con-Con film available soon

SPRINGFIELD - A color motion picture on the Illinois Constitutional Convention will be available for distribution about May 1.

Featuring the Convention's how it works, what it is doing and why a new State Constitution is needed the 16-millimeter film will be available to schools from the University of Illinois film library in Champaign.

The 13-minute film, titled "Con-Con: A Dialogue," should be requested for advanced bookings by contacting Visual Aids Service, University of Illinois, 704 S. Sixth, Champaign, Ill. 61820.

Sponsored by Illinois Bell Telephone Co., the film was produced for Con-Con's Public Information Committee and will be the bulk of orientation for people visiting the Convention. A visitor's center for tour groups, located one block from the Old State Capitol, where the Convention meets, will show the film almost continuously.

The University library will offer the film to public organizations beginning June 15.

Sub-Council delays action

Richard Davis

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Action by the Carbondale Faculty Sub-Council on an ad hoc committee to deal with the Center for Vietnam studies announced yesterday has been postponed until next month's Sub-Council meeting.

According to Howard D. Webb, chairman of the Sub-Council, the report was discussed at considerable length in a meeting which was not action was taken. It will be placed on next month's agenda for continued discussion.

Webb said he expected some action to be taken at the next meeting, scheduled for May 12.

The report, formulated by the Committee to Study the Relationship between the Carbondale Faculty Sub-Council and the Center for Vietnam studies was established to recommend to the Sub-Council what group should or should not approve any funds for the Vietnam Center's Advisory Committee and its liaison Committee.

According to the report, to make the Sub-Council committee had to address itself to "the larger general question of the academic nature and validity of the Center as a part of the University community."

Two members, Randall H. Nelsen, professor of government, and James N. BeMiller, professor of chemistry, were in favor of keeping the Center at SIU. The report said, "believe that the Cen-mittee.

The 10-year plan, provides for planning in four cateories: personnel, research, library and programs.

Included among the committee's recommendations, Reddden said, are the appointment and recruitment of qualified instructors to teach subjects in the area of Africa and the establishment of the African Studies program in the senior colleges in either Cameroon or Nigeria which would aid in in the faculty and facilitating field research for both faculty and graduate students.

The African Studies Com-
mitee of SIU was established in 1966 at the suggestion of a report by the faculty at the Center for Vietnam studies which would specialize in the training of junior college and sec-tary school teachers.

The African Studies Com-
mitee was established in 1966 at the request of the Report for the purpose of planning, coordination and mutual assistance among faculty members interested in African, according to Redden.

During the first 30 years of existence the committee has combined with the en-

Three Marx Brothers movies will be featured during May

Three comedy movies starring the Marx Brothers will be shown May 15. This film, "The Cocoanuts," was the Marx Brothers' first movie, made in 1929. In this film, Groucho was engaged in the shabby business of selling Florida swamp land while Chico and Harpo visit his hotel to get rich.

The third will be shown on May 23. This film, "Monkey Business," finds the Marx brothers rowing away aboard an ocean liner.

Coach Lynn Holder will get a chance to give his sophomores dissimilar golf teams a complete evaluation this weekend as the Saluki lineups engage in tourneys against Illinois, Missouri and Drake today in Champaign-Saturday. SIU will participate in the 36-hole University of Illinois invitational.

SIU golfers are 5-2 in dual meets this year and placed seventh in the Mid-South Classic last weekend.

"I would say that we are doing a commendable job," Holder said. "Our seventh place finish and Glenn's third place effort came against top-flight competition."

Elsewhere on the Saluki sports scene, SIU's track team will be trying to secure points in the 440 and 880-yard relays in the annual Kansas Relay meet. Coach Lew Harzig will also have some of his Salukis entered in other relay and individual events. Harzig has been named an honorary referee in the track spectacular.

SIU's tennis team is in DeKalb today to face Bradley University-Saturday, the SIU menmen will face Northern Illinois and Toledo.

Although not a varsity athletic team, the SIU International Soccer Club will be in action Sunday against the Springfield Y.M.C.A team.

Success takes a great effort

Wheelchair no handicap for super star

By John D. Towns
Daily Egyptian Writer

For some people success comes easily but for David Williamson success has come after putting forth much effort to overcome an obstacle. He was crippled by polio 19 years ago.

Williamson, 24, from Ermine, Ill., will be a player//coach in the wheelchair basketball games at 8 p.m. in the SIU Arena.

While attending Mater Dei High School, he decided to enter the regional wheelchair games sponsored by Envanville Rehabilitation Center.

Finishing fifth in the 100-yard dash had little significance for Williamson at that time because there were only five contestants in the race.

He did better the next two years, however, as a high school junior he entered national competition.

"At 18 and with little experience, I wasn't ready for that," he says.

When he enrolled at SIU he found other wheelchair students who shared his competitive aspirations. In 1965 he was placed on the U.S. team which competed in France, Spain and England and received four gold medals.

Williamson set a new American record that year in the 100-yard dash, a race against time over a tough obstacle course where his ability to maneuver the wheelchair is of prime importance.

He won five more first-place medals for SIU in 1966-67-breaking the alumnus record he set earlier.

In 1968 Williamson entered the University of Illinois' first Midwest Collegiate meet for wheelchair athletes. Entering seven events, he captured titles in seven and placed second in the half-mile race, a new event for him.

The "nationals" were also held that year, and Williamson set a new American title in the all-wheel drive category.

But his performance qualified him for the American team in New York, which competed in the 1968 Paralympics in Israel. Competing against 500 wheelchair athletes, from 27 countries, Williamson set a gold medal and set a Paralympic record in the javelin throw. He also brought home two silver medals and one bronze.

It's performance qualified him for the 1969 U.S. national tournament in New York, which competed in the 1969 Paralympics in Israel. Williamson set a new American javelin throw record, 79 feet 9 inches, and also won the national title again in the all-wheel drive category.

A world record in the shot-put was set in Argentina in November, 1969, by Williamson. Earlier that year he traveled to London to participate in the world games where he set a national record in the javelin throw and all-wheel drive.

Williamson said he may have another ten years as an athlete, after which he wants to continue in wheelchair sports as a coach.

Competing is conditioned plus full-time studies and part-time work keeps Williamson busy. His daily routine includes an average of three hours for physical training.

He received his bachelor's degree in physical education in 1967 but is working on a master's degree in education and has been assistant rehabilitation counselor from SIU in 1968 and is presently completing his work for a master's degree.

In addition to his studies, he serves as a graduate intern in Handicapped Student Services.

During his daily activities, Williamson also keeps an eye out for new wheelchair athletes. The National Wheelchair Basketball Association, to which he belongs, believes there are two million potential wheelchair athletes in the U.S., and that many of them are unaware of the competitive value of such competition.

"If I find a student who has a potential, I'll talk, and if he or she is interested, we'll try to give him a chance to develop that capability. But we're not too concerned with how well an individual does physically. It's more or less how hard he tries. The only thing that we do want is desire and effort.

"Athletic competition is good for all people, though, because the desire to win is good incentive. There are so many things most of these kids can do that they are never aware of before," Williamson concluded.

The Saluki baseball team will try to get back on the winning trail Saturday and Sunday, hosting the annual Governor's Baseball Tournament on the varsity diamond, southwest of the SIU Arena.

Eight games involving St. Louis University, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, the University of Illinois and SIU will be played during the two-day competition. The team winning the higher percentage of weekendinnings will win the tournament trophy. SIU has not lost the tournament in the last three years.

As in any tournament, pitching is an important factor in the outcome. Coach Richard "Bucky" Jones has a staff ready to get his three straight losses to Tulsa and Mississippi last weekend.

BOSTON (AP) - Mike Andrew's pop fly single just beyond the reach of second baseman Howard Clarke in shallow right field opened the gates to a 1-0 victory Thursday as the Boston Red Sox defeated the New York Yankees 1-0 in a victory over the New York Yankees and a sweep of the three-game series.

Rice Petrocelli drove in the lone run with his first home run and a sacrifice fly which capped the wild seventh.

The Salukis moved up from eleventh. However, weekend losses to Tulsa and Mississippi were not included in the ranking.

Tulsa was ranked fifth in the pre-season poll and Mississippi was ranked sixth, both teams failed to make the top 20 this time around.

Florida State, currently number two, challenging Southern California for the top spot, Florida State has 20 wins in 28 outings. The USC Trojans have won 27 of 55 games and hold down the first spot for the third straight week.
