Cadets to See Candidates for Queen of Ball

Candidates for the 1966 Military Ball Queen will be presented at 10 a.m. today in Shryock Auditorium to the cadre corps of the Air Force ROTC. The Billiettes, all members of Angel Flight, are Marilyn S. Chamness, Susan Farris, Susan Platter, Janice L. Sirles and Velda S. Smith. Coronation of the queen will take place during the Military Ball which will be held at 9 p.m. Jan. 26 in the University Center Ballroom. The ball, sponsored jointly by the Arnold Air Society and Angel Flight, is SIU's only all-campus formal dance.

"Revive in Blue," presented in previous years in connection with the Military Ball, will not be presented this year, according to Capt. Edward A. Corich, assistant professor of aerospace studies. "The show was a one-night performance, and not really worth all the time and trouble that was put into it. We are planning a program with outside entertainment for later in the year," Capt. Corich said.

Tickets for the Military Ball are now on sale at the information desk of the University Center. Price of the tickets is three dollars a couple.

Spectacular Fire

Guts Buildings

On Campus Edge

A spectacular fire almost wiped out a Carbondale city block and all the Forest Streets early Sunday. An SIU student, Morris L. Newman, Chicago, lost all his belongings and his trailer home in the blaze. He escaped injury.

Arson is suspected in the fire which destroyed the trailer, a garage containing two cars and two private apartment buildings under construction.

Norman Hilton, deputy state fire marshal, said, "There is no question about it being set." The fire happened too quickly to be an accident, he said.

The intense heat from the fire also damaged the siding on a nearby house, two cars parked close by, and broke windows in a nearby dormitory.

Damage to the two partially constructed apartment buildings, owned by Fred A. Sobrey, former proprietor of the Sobrey Bakery, was estimated near $125,000.

Carbondale firemen were called at 4:13 a.m., and arrived at the scene to find one apartment building engulfed in flames and the other on fire. According to U. Mont Crawl.

Student Body President Says He Will Sign Fee-Raising Bill

Dissenting Letter

To Be Attached

Student Body President George Paluch will sign the campus Senate bill proposing a 54 per term increase in activity fees for athletics.

Paluch said he expects to receive a copy of the bill today. The Campus Senate passed the bill by a 10-7 margin Thursday night.

Paluch said he would attach a letter of personal opinion before forwarding the bill to President Morris. The letter of dissent would be based on the concept that "if we are going to subsidize athletics, we should also subsidize other activities," he said.

Paluch gave the Marching Salukis band as an example of other activities.

Bard Grosjean, Liberal Arts and Sciences senator who voted against the measure Thursday night, said he might also favor attaching a minority report from dissenting Campus Senate members.

A spokesman in President Morris' office said last week that the president would send the bill to the University Council for a recommendation when he received it from the Campus Senate. The University Council is an advisory body composed of faculty and administrators.

The Athletics Committee for the Carbondale Campus sent a letter to President Morris last week supporting the fee hike.

Montana's Episcopal Bishop Will Lead Religion-in-Life Week Sessions at SIU

The Rt. Rev. Chandler W. Sterling, Episcopal bishop of Montana, will speak at 7:30 o'clock this evening in Morris Library Auditorium. He is here this week to lead a number of discussions in conjunction with Religion-in-Life Week.

A former professional jazz musician, he is described in a recent Associated Press feature as having "a reputation for independent thinking and frank speech."

He attended Northwestern University for four years, then studied at Seabury-Western Seminary. While in school he kept up with his music by playing organ for roller skaters, prize fights and dances at the Broadway Armo­ ryr in Chicago.

He was born on Jan. 28, 1911, in Dixon, Ill. He was married in 1935 and has eight children.

He was ordained a deacon in 1938 and became a priest the following year. For the past nine years he has been bishop of Montana.

Other engagements during the week will include a dis­ cussion over coffee on Wednesday, at 10 and 11:30 a.m., in the Roman Room of the University Center and at 2 and 4 p.m., at the Canterbury House.

He will speak at Freshman Convocations at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Thursday in Shryock Auditorium. At 2 p.m., Bishop Sterling will be available for further discussion in the Roman Room of the University Center.

He will be guest at the Associated of the Campus Mini­ stry Luncheon at 11:30 a.m. Thursday at the Wesley Foun­ dation.

Sponsoring the bishop's visit are the Canterbury As­ sociation, Gamma Delta, Stu­ dent Christian Foundation and Wesley Foundation.

JOURNALISM SPEAKER OUTLINES U.S. NEWSPAPER EVOLUTION

Three types of newspapers are now developing on the American scene—national, regional and local publications, said Friedman, a Journalism author editor of Edmonston-Davis and associate editor of the Columbia Daily Tribune.

The national level includes the coverage of international events such as the Viet Nam crisis and factors of national importance such as President Johnson's budget for the nation, Friedman said.

The regional level incorporates national news and state and area news in the publication's geographical surroundings. Small dailies and weekly publications make up the third level and have as their primary goal coverage of local and area news.

Friedman remarked that change is under way in all three levels with the cause due in part to the influx of suburban papers. The growth of these publications has been built upon the flight of population into counties and suburban areas, he said.

Following his talk, Friedman answered questions from students and faculty members gathered in the second floor of the University of Illinois Student Activities Center.

Reunited—Phan Nguyen, an SIU freshman and part-time receptionist at the SIU Center for the Performing Arts, is reunited with her former boss, Harold L. DeWeese, chief of the SIU educational department, in Saigon. Phan was in Carbondale on a visiting student leave. Miss Nguyen was a secretary for DeWeese in Saigon before coming to the United States to study.

Chance for Studying in U.S. Is 'Fairy Tale' for Viet Girl

An SIU freshman from South Viet Nam, Phan Nguyen described her chance to study in the United States as being "like a fairy tale."

Miss Nguyen arrived at SIU in November to enroll in the General Studies program and to begin working as a part-time receptionist in the Division of International Services.

Miss Nguyen was formerly a secretary for Harold DeWeese, chief of SIU's elementary teacher education program. The following spring, when the program started, Miss Nguyen was able to see DeWeese while he was on a home leave in Carbondale during parts of December and January.

"I did not have enough thought about going to college in the United States," said Miss Nguyen, who lived in Saigon with her mother, older sister and two younger brothers.

"Then one day Dr. (Fred) Scheurer of the SIU International Services, when he was in my country, told me about the opportunity to see him and asked me why not to go to college in the United States," said Miss Nguyen.

"I talked to my team members, asked me why not to go to college in the United States and I liked the idea."

It took her more than two years to work out the arrangements. She talked with Alfred Jussi, assistant dean of SIU's International Services, when he was in her country. Jussi told her he would work to get her some financial help at Southern. But, she said, the most difficult problem to solve was the cost of transportation. She was assigned to work at the Daily Egyptian, helping to get her some financial help to go to college in the United States.

This was solved, too. Her sister was an interpreter for American women toward the war, Miss Lane was working for Woman's Day magazine. One day my sister couldn't go to work and I went instead," Miss Nguyen related.

"The two of us just started talking and I told her of my hopes of going to the United States and college and about my trouble arranging transportation. I was just making conversation, and I was really surprised when she said, 'Why don't you leave the cost to me?'"

Everything was solved.

"I came by plane and had a job as a receptionist ready for me," she continued. "At first I had a little difficulty with the telephone as it sometimes was hard to understand what people wanted, but it got easier all the time."

Miss Nguyen said she started in English in high school. Her association with the American educators helped her improve her speaking. She obtained her job with SIU in January when she was a fourth-year student, working in another office in the same building and heard the vacancy.

Miss Nguyen hopes to study special education at SIU and put the knowledge gained to use in Saigon.

DeWeese has returned to Saigon after a month on leave. He predicted more Vietnamese students in American colleges because the country recognizes the importance of sending its people abroad for extensive preparation for teaching.

Anyone Feel a Draft?

At this time the average college male feels like "the man in the middle." He walks a tightrope between opposing factions in a verbal war between the opposers and defenders of the real war in Viet Nam. So many millions of words have already been written about the war that American public is becoming jaded and apathetic.

How many times do you skip past the newspaper article on the war after just reading its headline?

But to the male collegians of the nation, this war is probably one of the foremost thoughts pervading the consciousness of more than any other single thought.

The demonstrator—a vocal minority hardly representative of the millions who are now attending college across the nation—on one hand tell us that it is our right and duty to protest the war, while the "patriotic press" tells us it is our duty to give up our stay in the armed forces for the simple reasons ranging from Civil rights, human rights, free speech to the big one—the war in Viet Nam.

It is possible to divide the collegiate male population into three groups, the demonstrators, the defenders and the men in the middle. The first group consists largely of what has been called the new left—the protesters, organized and unorganized who take up causes ranging from civil rights, human rights, free speech to the big one—the war in Viet Nam.

The second group, which may be called the defenders, consists of the ROTC, the boys planning to join up after college and the assorted organized and unorganized groups that defend the present U.S. policy.

The third group, the men in the middle, is probably the largest group. It includes ones with families, good job prospects, good scholastic achievement, prospective teachers, men for whom the prospect of serving in the armed forces or war, or no war, is not very attractive. This group can justifiably defend or protest the present war.

Excluded are those who have already served because their position of "safety" does not allow them to choose any category they please. They've already served—they don't have to rationalize or justify their feelings.

Samuel Gompers, the labor union organizer, is said to have stated, "A man who is 20 and not a radical has something wrong with his heart. If at 40 he is still a radical he has something wrong with his head." The "radicals of 20" who are familiar with some of the causes may be called the defenders, the boys organizing for the colleges. It will be important for these young whipper snappers to realize that the men in the middle fits neither.

But even if there were not a war, it is possible that many of us would be reluctant to serve in the armed forces for the simple reason that we do not have any desire to do so. We grew up in an era of peace and prosperity. This was the post-McCarthy era of pacifism—"don't really want to hurt people, boys." Since the war gets any bigger the "precious 2-S's" will be considered something worse than a draft registration.

"I'm mounting a one-man attack, sir," said Private Drab proudly. "It's my small way, I want to do my part to assure the success of our great new offensive.

"Offensive?" said the captain. "What offensive? Divisional Command didn't order any offensive in our sector.

"Oh, no sir. The order came from a higher command. The President, himself. I hope that Uncle Sam doesn't reach our number before this thing is over. Hope that we can finish school and start doing things that we want to do. "Sleeping and working for so long. We want to live, and work, and let others, the dropouts, the patriots, handle a job we can't do. Maybe this is selfish and wrong but that is how it feels to be a man in the middle.

Peace (Rat-a-Tat-Tat Drive)

Greeted With Bang in Jungle

President has launched the greatest peace offensive in history. He's sent envoys and ambassadors to Canada, London, Paris, Yugoslavia, India, Pakistan, Iran, Tunisia, Morocco ... .

"That's grand, sir," said Private Drab. "And have they all stopped shooting at us?"

"They weren't shooting at us, Drab. But we're interested observers." Both men dressed as mortar shells whistled overhead.

"That's sure good news, sir," said Private Drab brushing dirt off his shoulder. And how did our envoys do with those fellows out there?"

"Great Scott, Drab. We can't talk to them. They've got guerrillas. We don't even recognize them."

"Oh, I can recognize them, sir. They're about five feet tall and wear those black pajamas. So I could talk to them and say I was for peace, too. Mainly because I really don't want to be killed. And if they didn't want to be killed either, maybe..."

The captain eyed Private Drab warily, "But you like the jungle. It's a quiet thing you've got to learn, soldier," he said, "is that how peace is some of your business. Now shut up and start shooting.
What's Viet Nam Like?

Bullets Punctuate Boredom for GIs

By Bob Poos

SAIGON—For some America­n GI's, Viet Nam duty is "the beat in the Army." For others, it means long stretches of boredom, sitting in foxholes by the hour wait­ing for any enemy that never seems to show, taking long, weary walks through rice paddies and jungle that sometimes erupt in a blast of fire from hidden machine guns . . .

The American GI in Viet Nam is not quite like the GI of Korea and World War II. His officers are likely to think that he's smarter, better trained and tougher than men of the earlier wars.

The search for a typical GI is futile because all are individu­als, although molded into a military pattern with its discipline and anonymity.

Most complain about the food, weather, military li­fe in general and about the en­emy. They call him Victor Charley or Charley Brown and respect him as a soldier.

Thus far, all large United States units in Viet Nam ex­cept the 1st Division have a preponderance of regulars who joined up for three years. This will change in some outfits like the 1st Air Caval­ry Division as state­side commissioned officers boast that they admit they would rather be there than "representing the local "33 Ex­­perts" beer that costs 40 pi­asters.

This is better than the life of most of the troopers of the 1st Air Caval­ry Division at An Khe, 55 miles east of Pleiku.

Prior to the Car's arrival, An Khe had only one bar for its population of perhaps 1,000. Now An Khe is a ga­rish soldier town with 91 bars, many of which serve as what the troops call "boom boom parlors."

Inflation has come with a vengeance. Prices in many instances are double those of Saigon. A beer or a soft drink cost 50 piastres, a package of cig­ARES 30 piastres.

Most of the noncommis­sioned officers boast that they are "RA (Regular Army) all the way and in to stay."

Even draftees are likely to ad­mit they would rather be here than "running up and down hills at Ft. Benning to no purpose," as a 1st Division private remarked.

"They're the finest kids— and the best troops—in the world," said Capt. Henry Thorne, a native of North Caro­lina who commanded a company of the 1st Air Caval­ry Division at An Khe, 55 miles east of Pleiku.

The town's streets are full of uniforms: Most of the troopers don't get much time in town. When Specialist 4 Clarence Wayne, of Columbus, Ga., got a few hours he said:

"I'm just going to sit and rest and drink a couple of beers."

"Last time I was in town I bought silk jackets for my two-year-old boy and seven­year-old daughter." Pfc. Kenneth Oney, of Wash­ington, D.C., wondered if he goes to get some benefit from a GI Bill of Rights as did the veterans of Korea and World War II.

The 6-foot-2, 225-pounder in a military policeman pat­roling the muddy streets of An Khe. He once worked in a Washington hospital.

"I got two years of col­lege and I'd rather be here than living in foxholes by the hour wait­ing for somebody to show."

"We do our work and aren't bothered by spit and polish inspections."

Specialist Torres is an en­terprising young man. He bought a motor scooter for $300 and putputts around the Pleiku area. In town there is little to do except break the monotonous life of Army food with a meal at the only Pleiku Chi­nese restaurant. This costs 150 piastres, about $2 at the official rate of exchange.

Specialist Torres walks a­round the little Viet Name­se city and drinks an occasional bottle of the local "33 Ex­­perts" beer that costs 40 pi­asters.

Sp. 5 Martin Torres, of Guan­a, is an aircraft main­tence man of the 54th Air­craft Battalion stationed at Camp Holloway, an Army air base just outside Pleiku in the Central Highlands.

He's been in the army six years and plans to stay in for 20 more.

"In a way, it's the best duty I've ever had," he said. "I have to work hard and I don't mind because I'd rather do a job here than let down one of those guys flying our aircraft."

Editor's Note

What is life like for the GI in Viet Nam? How does the "typical" soldier pass the time and spend his time off?

Here is a report from an AP correspondent, an SRU journalism graduate, who has spent many weeks in the field with American soldiers.

The institute will be held in Germany this summer, at Bremen, Springe and West Berlin.

The 22 participants and a staff of seven, including Howard P. French, associate professor of foreign languages, will leave from New York on June 16. After arriving in Amsterdam, the group will proceed to Bremen, near Bremerhaven, where the program will get under way on June 18.

The nine-week program will include study trips to Bonn and the Rhine, to Southern Germany and to the Black Forest region.

Ag Club Plans Trip

The Agriculture Economics Club plans a trip to Cairo in early March. The members of the club will be guests of the First Bank of Cairo.

This trip includes a tour of the Mikko Grain Co. Also planned is a stop at a cotton gin on the Mississippi River. The date of the trip is indefinite.

Taiwanese
Philosopher

Will Lecture

Constant C.C. Chang, a Chinese philosophy professor from Taiwan Normal University in Taipei, Taiwan, will be a visiting professor for the winter and spring quarters.

Chang, in addition to being versed in Chinese philosophy, specializes in Taoism, Confucianism, and is a proponent of Lao-tse, the traditional founder of Taoism. According to William Moore, chairman of the Department of Philosophy, he will come here in early February. During the winter quarter, Chang will give public lectures on subjects to be announced. During the spring quarter he and William Harris, professor of philosophy and chairman of the Committee on Asian Studies at SIU, will offer a joint seminar on the eastern and western philosophies.

Anthropologist

To Discuss Trade
In 3-Part Series

Sidney Mintz, professor of anthropology from Yale University, will present a series of three lectures on "An Anthropological View of the Marketplace" this week.

His topics will be:

Today: "Closed Economies and Open Economies," 3 to 5 p.m., in the Agriculture Seminar Room.

Wednesday: "Circles of Trade and the Structure of Societies," 3 to 5 p.m., in the Agriculture Seminar Room.

Thursday: "Men, Women, Trade and Development," 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., in the Home Economics Lounge.

Each lecture will be followed by open discussion. The series is sponsored by the Latin American Institute and the Department of Sociology and Anthropology.

SIU to Sponsor Study Tour
Of European Interior Design

"This is the only credit course in interior design being offered for study in Europe by an American university and being developed and directed by a professional interior designer."

With these words, Rose Padgett, chairman of the Department of Clothing and Textiles, described a three-week summer study tour of interior design centers of European countries. It has been scheduled by SIU's School of Home Economics.

"The group will meet award-winning designers, study the great periods in art and architecture and become acquainted with contemporary environmental design concepts," Miss Padgett said.

Senior and graduate students in the department's interior design program and those in related studies in other areas of the University as well as teachers in these fields are eligible to enroll in the seminar.

Design houses, famous interiors and museums of Spain, Italy, France, Holland and Sweden will be visited.

The School of Home Economics engaged Roy Beal of Austin, Tex., professional interior designer, to plan the tour, and June Kelly Shearer, chairman of the Department of Interior Design at the University of Maryland, an seminar director. Two members of the interior design faculty, Lucy Stewart and Norman W. Slack, will accompany the group as SIU representatives.

The class will leave New York by economy jet airline June 16, returning to New York July 9. Cost of the study tour is $1,197, plus appropriate SIU summer registration fees.840,25 for Illinois students, $810.25 for out-of-state students. Deadline for registration for the tour is Feb. 1, and must be accompanied by a deposit of $150, the remainder to be paid on or before May 1, Miss Padgett said.

Participation of the tour may be obtained from Rose Padgett, chairman of the Department of Clothing and Textiles.

of Trustees, has also expressed his support of the measure.

The hike would go for about 120 National Collegiate Athletic Association Scholarships which athletic officials say are necessary to recruit top high school athletes.

The NCAA scholarships pay room and board, tuition, fees, and $15 a month spending money. SIU currently offers work scholarships which require players to hold on-campus jobs.

The increase was first proposed last term by Raymond Langi, men's off-campus organized housing senator. A referendum held late in the term showed 2,069 students in favor of the measure and 1,078 opposed.

The matter is expected to come before the board of Trustees at its February meeting.

If approved by the Board,
the activity fee would go from $10.50 a quarter to $14.50.

SIU Group to Aid in Survey
Of Job Opportunities for Blind

Officials from the Texas Commission for the Blind,
the Federal Vocational Rehabilitation Administration and SIU will spend the week of Jan. 24 in Dallas surveying employment opportunities for the blind.

With them will be a dozen rehabilitation workers from five states, who will make plant calls on Dallas business and industrial executives, in an effort to open up more jobs for qualified blind workers.

The week-long seminar is a follow-up to an intensive training program given the rehabilitation workers at SIU.
In a placement counselor training program started at the University eight years ago, workers from state agencies throughout the nation are schooled for the single purpose of placing the sightless in competitive occupations.

Regional follow-up sessions, like the one in Dallas, are designed to test and evaluate the trainees' learning under actual interview conditions with employers.

The SIU program, only one of its kind in the nation, is supported by yearly grants from the federal agency. George Magers, specialist from the VBA's division of services for the blind in Washington, will be one of three representatives from that agency who will serve on the seminar staff.
Others are Doyle Hunt and Robert Thomas of the VBA's Dallas regional office.

Staff members from the cooperating Texas State Com-mision for the Blind are Preston Arnold of Dallas, Burt Harmly, executive secretary director, and Aubrey Tippes field supervisor, both of the Austin office.

Louis Viscell, coordinator of SIU's Rehabilitation Institutute, and assistant Thomas Dicker, along with Claude I.
Sherrill, assistant director of Placement Services, will represent SIU.

Other consultants will be Arthur Vorhies, rehabilitation specialist for the American Foundation for the Blind in New York, and Sherrill Edwards, vice president of the Dallas Union Securitys Co.

Four of the trainees and three members of the staff are blind themselves. Seminar headquarters will be at the Southland Hotel in Dallas. The session will end Jan. 28.

Student Teachers
To Register Today

Student teacher preregistration will be held at 9 and 10 a.m. and 2 and 3 p.m. today

Agriculture Building.

All students who want to do their student teaching during the fall, winter or spring quarter of the 1966-1967 academic year must attend one of the preliminary advisement sessions.

Registration will also be held at 9 and 10 a.m. and 2 and 3 p.m. Wednesday and 11 and 11 a.m. and 3 and 4 p.m.
Thursday in Muckelroy Auditorium.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The Viet Cong on Monday kidnapped an American civic official north of Saigon, staged two sharp attacks on the capital's doorstep, and threw a grenade at U. S. troops in the city itself.

The sudden upsurge of Viet Cong violence came as the U. S. Army ordered a 78-hour cease-fire to begin at noon Thursday—11 p.m. Wednesday EST—to conform with a truce for the lunar new year pro- claimed by South Viet Nam.

The Viet Cong, which has ordered a four-day cease-fire beginning at 11 p.m. Wednesday, apparently was bent on stirring up as much trouble as possible before calling a temporary halt to hostilities.

Douglas Ramsey, 28, assistant province representa­ tive of U. S. aid mission, was seized by the Viet Cong near the village of Trung Lap, a headquarters of the U. S. 1st Division in its drive against the Viet Cong Iron Triangle. Trung Lap is 25 miles northwest of Saigon.

Ramsey's driver, a South Vietnamese told U. S. authori­ ties they were traveling northeast from Cu Chi when the Viet Cong opened fire.

The driver stopped. Ramsey got out and raised his hands. Several Viet Cong guerrillas marched him away.

Ramsey is considered a knowledgeable official, He is fluent in Vietnamese. He came to Viet Nam three years ago.

In Saigon, a Viet Cong ter­ rorist threw a grenade into a Jeep loaded with U. S. servicemen. They leaped out before the grenade exploded, Another terrorist shot and killed a Saigon policeman.

The two Viet Cong attacks came north and south of Saigon. A large Viet Cong force, backed by mortars, at­tacked the Vietnamese government of­ ficer candidate school at The Duc, 10 miles north of Saigon.

Twenty North Vietnamese prisoners, will be re­ leased to return to their home Thursday, are being held at the school. It was not known whether the Viet Cong were aware of this.

Two hours earlier, another Viet Cong force hit a government para troop battalion com­ mand post in the southern outskirts of Saigon. The Viet Cong withdrew after a brief fight. The first solid new year's cease-fire was issued by Gen. William C. West­moreland, commander of U. S. forces in South Viet Nam. It said: "All U. S. forces in the republic will not fire at or on the enemy except in self-defense."

Supreme Court Begins Hearings
On Voting Rights Law Challenge
WASHINGTON (AP)—Southern lawyers told the Supreme Court Monday Congressmen tran­ passed far beyond its constitu­ tional boundaries with the 1965 act.

They urged the court to declare the law unconstitu­ tional, arguing it is an in­ trusion on judicial pre­rogatives and the right of states to determine the quali­ fications of their voters.

While most of the arguments were oral, Jack P. F. Gremillion, Louisiana's Folk­ ly attorney general, had the courtroom and nearly all nine justices laughing as he said: "Let me tell you something about this court. You've done a good job on these here con­stitutional cases, like a fal­con covering a hawk. I want you to keep on doing a good job. This court is going to find that Congress cannot take over the judiciary."

Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Virginia spoke in support of the House's original suit challenging the constitutionality of the five­month-old act, under which some 250,000 Negroes have registered to vote in the seven Southern states it affects.

Georgia will complete the line of Southern challengers Tuesday. Then Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach, who origi­ nated the bill in the execu­ tive branch and helped guide it through Congress, will come personally to defend it. It will be his first argument before the court as attorney general.

Katzenbach, wearing the traditional formal attire of government lawyers before the court, listened and took notes Monday:

South Carolina's youthful, attorney, David W. Robinson II, said the law is clear and the ob­ Olivations of the law abolishing literacy tests in certain states whose voter registration or turnout fell below 50 per cent in 1964, it would not be affected by the 1965 act.

Robinson complained that such a law is discriminatory because even if Massa­ chusetts, which uses a literacy test, should fall below the 50 per cent mark in 1968, it would not be affected by the 1965 act.

Virginia's Asst. Atty. Gen. R. D. McIlwaine III told the court the 15th Amendment "confered no power on Con­ gress to alter, amend, suspend or abolish literacy tests."

The Virginia lawyer con­ cluded that his state's requirement is the most non­ discriminatory literacy test on the record, and that framers of the 15th Amendment voted down attempts to make the federal abolishing literacy tests.

"This court cannot in any way void a provision into the 15th Amendment; to do so would be an insidious interference of 1866," Mc­ Ilwaine said.
Sen. Dirksen, Rep. Ford Discuss Johnson’s State of Union Speech

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen declared Monday night the United States should continue to seek peace and wage war—intensified war if that is necessary—in Vietnam.

And Rep. Gerald R. Ford, the House GOP leader, shared the microscope in a Republican appraisal of the State of the Union, said no tax increases will be necessary if federal spending is prudently restrained.

Dirksen and Ford, the House GOP leader, shared the microscope in a Republican appraisal of the State of the Union, said no tax increases will be necessary if federal spending is prudently restrained.

He said it provides for U.S. shrimp trawlers still haven't returned.

Miami, Fla. (AP)—The Coast Guard said it has made no contact with two U. S. shrimp trawlers which were due to be retired by Cuban authorities Monday and the owners of the vessels said they might have been held up until morning.

SHOULD WE WEAR A RALLY STRIPE?

Granted, we aren’t a GT, GTO, GTA, GRAND PRIX—more a Gran Sport. But we do have a 4-on-the-floor transmission, independent torsion bar suspension on all four wheels, bucket seats, steering wheel, and a magnesium-aluminum-alloy engine. All standard equipment—not costly extras. You can think of it, wouldn’t you really rather have a Volkswagen?

Tau Kappa Epsilon Chapter
Honors Former Dean Rehn

Henry J. Rehn, former dean of the School of Business, was honored at the annual Founder's Day banquet of Tau Kappa Epsilon, social fraternity, Beta Chi chapter. Since pledging TKE at Oregon State University 42 years ago, Rehn has been a leader on both the local and national levels of the fraternity. He has founded chapters at Washington State University, the University of Idaho, and the Drexel Institute of Technology in Philadelphia. Rehn was responsible for the joining of Delta Chi, formerly a local fraternity at SIU, with TKE. When the local fraternity became the Beta Chi chapter of TKE in 1949, Rehn then dean of the School of Professions and Vocations, became the group's first chapter advisor. He served the chapter as chairman of the board of control and as faculty advisor until last year, when David N. Bateman, instructor in management, became the advisor.

The establishment of the Dean Henry J. Rehn Scholarship Award was announced at the banquet, which also celebrated the 70th anniversary of TKE's founding at Illinois Wesleyan University. Larry Groce was the first recipient of the award. He has maintained a cumulative grade point average of 4.4 and has received a 5.0 average for the past three quarters.

William A. Quallich, international treasurer of TKE, and Bateman were the featured speakers. Gerald Slayton was awarded the Daniel P. Gezky Memorial outstanding pledge award, given in honor of the former president of the chapter's spring pledge class who drowned in an accident during the summer.

Other participants in the program were Dean Donile, president of the Beta Chi chapter; William Reisenbuehler, vice president; Peter Archbold, pledge trainer; James Schoch, chaplain and scholarship cochairman; and Stephen Ebbs, secretary and chairman of the Founder's Day committee.

Male Students

Swim Instruction

Physical Ed., aims for men to be in the process of "waterproofing" male students at W.U. This is a term being used to describe the wide range of instruction being offered in the various swimming classes.

Learning to swim is more than just learning a few elementary strokes, according to Clifford H. Wise, department chairman. In addition to learning basic skills, students are placed in situations that require effort and understanding beyond the normal elementary swimming conditions.

The purpose of the training is to give students enough self-confidence to enjoy themselves in and around the water, with the knowledge that they are capable of handling any personal emergency which might arise.

The first step in "waterproofing" the student is to assure him he is a broad carrying ability to handle himself. From there the student finds one in which he has adapted and continues until he masters it.

Wise has developed a fundamental skill, to use in various situations to extend his abilities. This includes such things as immediate parts of the body to fight back without using the ability to add weight to the water or the amount of water to stay afloat.

With the exception of the lane swimmer, it is becoming increasingly difficult to swim all of the men to swim lane, he said. In addition, the swimming lanes dictate that approximately 25 percent of the swimming ability of men will be lost in the broad carrying ability of the pool (30 feet).

In Wise's pool, students are taking a remedial load on the already most crowded University School pool, he said.

At the time, there are plans for additional swimming facilities, but there is no date yet for the construction of additional facilities. The extra added features are completed, but still the constantly increasing enrollment will make it even more difficult to handle the program.

The biggest problem encountered in teaching college men to swim, according to Wise, is fear. The initial period of adjustment usually is the biggest, and students will be able to completely overcome their fear, he said. It will always remain with them.

The most difficult cases that present themselves are those in which a person has been influenced by some unpleasant experience, such as falling out of a boat, wading into deep water or being thrown into the water.

The fear they come to in usually what is caused by the attitude of their parents or by instructors have been lowering their confidence in other people, they said.

A few problems arise from students who feel they possess physical abilities that will hinder their ability to swim, he said. These problems are usually asthma, lack of physical education or even physical education in which the degree of motivation among male students is what they desire to learn water sports extensively as compared to learning other types of physical activity.

These may appreciate having the opportunity to learn because they realize their attitude on their future employment and their personal social life will suffer if they cannot swim, he said.

Freshman Cagers Lose Second
As Bradley Shoots More Often

Bradley's freshman basketball team defeated the SIU freshmen Saturday night 66-61. The loss was the second of the season for Southern.

The Salukis' outside shot and out-rebounded their opponents.

However, Bradley had seven more field goal attempts than Southern and this proved the difference.

Southern held a 32-28 halftime lead. Bradley's second-half rally was led by the game's high scorer L.C. Brown, who netted 24 points.

High scorer for the Southern freshmen was Creason Whittaker with 18 points. Chuck Benson had 16 points, Leon Brown 13, Dick Garrett 6, and Lynn Howerton and Rich Brueckner had 4 points apiece.

Southern out-rebounded Bradley 37-26, but turned the ball over more times on offensive mistakes. The SIU freshmen will attempt to improve on their 3-2 record Wednesday night at Evansville.

Gymnasts Sneak Under Wire
188-187.7 to Beat Iowa State

Gymnastics Coach Bill Meade engaged Iowa State's Coach Ed Gagnier in a game of poker. But instead of cards, they played with their respective teams.

Gagnier proved a worthy challenger, but after the chips had been counted, Meade had wheeled and dealt Southern to a close 188-187.7 victory over the upset-minded Cyclones Saturday.

The victory was the Salukis' 38th straight over a four-year period, their toughest meet of the year, and should leave them in great shape for another unbeaten season.

Meade made some daring moves in juggling his lineup before the meet, but his performers made him look like a genius.

First, he decided to go with Paul Mayer on side horse. Instead of Rick Tucker, and the sophomore came through with a score of 8.4.

He next replaced Fred Dennis on parallel bars in favor of Tucker, who responded with a creditable score of 8.65.

The move here was not especially worthy because Dennis, suffering from butterflies in the stomach in his first dual meet, had one of his poorer days, although he scored 7.85 in side horse, 8.75 in high bar and 8.9 in rings.

Meade's final gamble put Joe Polizziano on rings instead of Ron Harstad and once again — success — as Polizziano responded with an 8.65.

One performer Meade didn't switch was Frank Schmitz, who once again won three events, free exercise, trampoline and long horse with respective scores of 9.5, 9.35 and 9.35.

The trampoline was one event in which Southern excelled. Three of the four performers, Schmitz, Dale Hardt and Hutch Dvorak, had scores of 9.0 or better, while the fourth performer, Brent William, was close behind at 8.7.

Mayer and Harstad, two of the five sophomores in the lineup, also made their presence felt.

Mayer had a score of 9.15 in free exercise, 9.45 in long horse, 8.65 in parallel bars and 8.4 in side horse.

In the only event he worked, parallel bars, Harstad turned in a score of 9.3, the second highest in that event.

Single-event man Mike Boegler had an 8.3 in side horse, and Tom Cook, a 9.05 in rings.

In the battle for the all-around, Iowa State's Jerry Fontana edged Southern's Larry Lindauer, 54.55-50.9.

There may be gold in them there hills. There's trouble in that there saloon. At least there was for Southerners. The Salukis left here Wednesday for game day and Saturday nights with Arizona and Arizona State. While they left, the Salukis raised the top small college team in the country by one margin. They were 8-1 on the season and had won six in a row.

Southern is home now. Their record is 8-3 as 8-3 is the only record the nation could fall when the polls are taken later this week.

Southern was quick to Arizona State throughout the Friday night game, but lost 79-78 in overtime. The next night was a totally different story as Arizona State also beat the Salukis in the second half to post an 82-62 victory.

Wrestlers Win 6 of 6 in Oklahoma

Things weren't so still in Stillwater. The town, located in a valley where the Indians said would not be tamed by cyclones, was stirred up from a storm of a different type. Two top-ranked wrestling teams from the Midwest and Southwest invaded campus of Oklahoma State University for a two-day dual meet.

Both the SIU and Oklahoma State wrestlers were undefeated in all six of the matches.

Although SIU was not paired in the meet up with top-ranked Oklahoma State, it will be here to represent with the Salukis.

The meet was broken by its first meet against Oklahoma State, ranked fifth in the nation, 21-20.

In that meet Friday afternoon, 119-pound Terry Magness of SIU lost to NCAA national champion Glenn McKinnon of Oklahoma in the lowest weight category.

Middleweight Tony Kuselman of SIU was ready to go for SIU when he took 152-pound State and took it 5-0 with a half-nelson.

Southern’s George McCreery and Jim Perruzi won their matches by forfeit to add 10 points to their team’s score, but it was close right down to the last match when big John McNeel of Oklahoma State’s heavyweight, decisioned Bob Robb 9-2.

After the narrow victory over Arizona State, Southern had put its toughest opponent away, but it was still going to be a hard battle with five dual meets remaining — two that night, one on Saturday afternoon, and two on Sunday night.

The efficiency, four meets were held simultaneously on Oklahoma State’s basketball floor. The fast-paced, well-executed duals, at about 4,000, really got extended the stamina of their wrestlers, such as Yo-jiro Letake, twice a national NCAA champion and an Olympic titlist, was on the mat.

South won over Moorhead (Matt,) State in the second round, 21-17. Magno pinned John Morley of Moorhead in 5-40 with a half-nelson in that meet.

McCreery also got to wrestle after being idle in the first meet. He overpowered Moorhead’s Dick Reddout, 15-2.

The last meet on Friday for SIU was with Kansas State, the only unranked team in the meet. The Salukis matmen won this one easily, with Magno and Buck Deadrich winning by decision and Don Schneider winning by default from Kansas State’s Lee Dale.

To top it off, Robb pinned Dave Lightner in 4:44 to make the final score of that match 39-0.

On Saturday afternoon, the Salukis were ready to go again, after breakfast of steak and eggs at the Cyclones’ home away from home, Brigham Young. SIU’s fourth opponent, was a lot tougher than the team score indicates, with SIU winning 29-12.

For example, Don Schmiedler, one of SIU’s finest, met with one of Young’soughest, and that fight that finally ended in an 8-6 draw.

Magno pinned Mike Hart with a body press, but later in the 177-pound class, Miller of Brigham Young did the same thing to Perruzi.

The fly round, coaches, players and journalists alike, were somewhat frazzled, and the temperatures soared. Moorhead State’s Hill Hillgrove, heavyweights, didn’t set his opponent down and the crowds stood and shouted shoulders, and lost by default when the other heavyweight last consciousness.

Billinger was boozed by the vociferous crowd, and he was near being knocked out, but after his fall, the match was determined.

SIU rolled over Western ( Colo.) State, 30-8, in the fourth round.

Two minutes left in the overtime on booksets by Lee and George McNeil. But Lewis dropped one in with 1:30 remaining to give Arizona State a 79-78 lead, and that’s how it ended. Southern had a chance to score just before the end of the game, but the shot fell short.

Southern held the lead most of the first half leading by as many as 10 points in a short time. But the Sun Devils quickly whittled down the lead and tied it 39-39 at the intermission. The lead swapped back and forth most of the second half. Southern held the largest lead of the final period at 55-53 with 11:30 to go.

Lew’s 30 points topped a lackluster game. He paced the Salukis with 20, followed by Randy Coin with 19, McNeil with 17 and Boyd O’Neal with 12. Coin got 10 of his points in a holoshooting-fish half-ace.

Southern’s balanced scoring and good shooting spelled Southern’s defeat. The Cyclones moved to Arizona in the first half and trailed by only five points at the intermission.

The Wildcats began to pull away midway through the half and coasted to an 82-62 victory. Arizona State was 57-3 from the field and took seven shots more than the Salukis, who were able to hit only 25 of 60 attempts.

McNeil led the Salukis with 20 points followed by Lee with 14. Arizona’s Harvey Fox tied McNeil for high man as he connected on nine of 14 from the floor and two of three free throws.

Four other players scored in double figures for Arizona. Ted Pickett had 15 points with Brian Aboud and Bob Hancen added 12 each.

Arizona’s victory over Southern boosted its record to 8-6, while Arizona State is 2-5.

Southern plays its third straight away game Sunday at Evansville and returns home to play Tennessee State Saturday night.

Victories in Oklahoma Extend Vogel Streak

Will success spoil women's gymnastics Coach Herb Voget? That question may yet go unanswered, as Vogel's gymnastics teams rarely, if ever, lose.

Vogel increased his record at Southern to 22-0 and his win over the University of Nebraska in the pool at the University of Nebraska.

The Salukis were into their meet with the Cornhuskers Saturday already holding 5 of the 10 records at the Coliseum Pool. They came out with two more records and a 57-38 victory over Nebraska. Southern's freshmen also came off with a 61-33 victory over the Nebraska freshmen.

Ed Mossoni and Tom McAneny were the record breakers for Southern. Mossoni set a new pool low for the 100-yard freestyle with a time of 49.5 seconds, and McAneny won the 200-yard freestyle in a clocking of 1:51.5.

The victory was the third in as many dual meets for Southern.

The varsity results: Medley relay: SIU 3:30:42
200-yard medley: McAneny 24, 50.5
30-yard freestyle: Ludwig (6), 22.5
200-yard medley: Rich Evretz (5), 2:02.2
100-yard freestyle: Mossoni (5), 49.5
200-yard backstroke: Phil Prokanski (6), 2:10.4
