PE Requirement Reduced To Three Hours

Both Men And Women Included In Change

The University physical education requirement has been reduced from six quarter hours to three quarter hours. This is as a result of the change in the courses, according to Registrar Robert A. McGrath.

Both men's and women's physical education requirements are included in the change.

McGrath said the University decided to implement the change because the physical education departments lacked adequate staff and physical facilities to offer a sufficient number of courses to meet demands of the old program.

Because of the change, a number of physical education courses scheduled for spring quarter are being cancelled. Students in these cancelled courses will be dropped from the courses automatically without having to process a program change.

A number of General Studies physical education activity courses are being added to the spring schedule to replace the cancelled courses.

McGrath said any student registered in one of the cancelled courses who needs or desires to take one of the newly-scheduled courses may do so by reporting to the Sectioning Center on Monday, but not before Monday.

Special provisions will be made for replacing students registered for the cancelled courses into the new classes.

Several special provisions will be made for replacing students who registered for the cancelled courses into the new classes.

McGrath said several special provisions will be made for replacing students who registered for the cancelled courses into the new classes.

The new classes will be thrown open to students not registered for any of the cancelled courses after Monday, McGrath said.

VTI Open House Today, Tomorrow

The second annual Vocational Technical Open House is underway at the VTI campus. The event will continue through Tuesday and Wednesday.

Harry Soderstrom, chairman of the Open House committee, said nearly 350 had already visited the building.

Southern Hills Without Water

A broken water main at the intersection of Park and Wall streets cut off Southern Hill's water supply at 11 a.m. Wednesday. The supply had not been resumed by 4 p.m.

The city water works office indicated that an eight-inch water main had been broken by heavy equipment used in the construction of the bridge at the Park and Wall intersection.

Soderstrom said small displays are located in the central area to furnish an overall picture of the scope of VTI programs.

Bus tours were leaving the Carbondale campus on the hour to take visitors to the VTI campus. Departure is from the University Center.

The VTI cafeteria was open to all visitors for lunch or dinner, and soft drinks were being distributed free by a local concern.

Some of the displays and demonstrations include an ideal business office, reconstruction of damages at actual restoration of teeth, manufacture of wood paneling on a high speed moulding machine, school lunches, computer programming and machine tool design.

Approximately 30 students are registered at VTI at the present time. They are studying and will demonstrate during Open House in these additional technologies: Auto-motive, Printing, Architectural and Construction, Electronics, Mechanical and Machine Drafting, Practical Nursing and Retailing are also popular departments of VTI.

The Open House hours are from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. today and again from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday the hours will be from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Soderstrom said the bulk of advance registration visitors are high school administrators, students and parents.

Jet Ace To Speak At Flying Meet Here

Daniel, who set the old 3,000, 6,000, 9,000 and 12,000 meter marks that had been set since 1956, is stationed at Ed-ward's Air Force Base in California.

He will speak at the Awards banquet to be held the evening of April 27 in SIU's University Center ballroom.

Daniel is a member of NIFA, which is sponsoring the event, said word has been received from more than 30 chapters which plan to send flying delegates to the conference.

Flying competition, to be held at Southern Illinois Airport, is continued to members of NIFA clubs.

At Goodwin, treasurer of the local club, said this will probably be the largest meet in the 15 year history of the Association. Probably 200 to 250 contestants will be flown in for the meet. The meet was held at Oklahoma State University in 1942.

Goodwin said today the Federal Aeronautics Administration will operate the tower at the Southern Illinois Airport during the two days of flying competition. The participating clubs will be at SIU April 25, 26 and 27.

Among events in addition to flying competition will be the selection and crowning of a female pilot queen. Candidates for the honor must be members of the flying clubs participating. The queen will be crowned at a dance in the University Center.

Women pilots among college students will also be recognized when a trophy is presented to the top female pilot of the meet. The trophy has been pledged by the "Illinois Ninety-Nines," a women pilots' association. Mrs. Robert V. Ferril of Eldorado is the president.

More than a score of trophies will be awarded at the banquet at which Ray O. Martens, director of school and college service of United Air Lines, will be master of ceremonies.

MAJOR WALTER DANIEL
Mix One Honor Student, One Tennis Player And A Glib Speaker Equals SIU's Top Debater

Peler Sellers, whose home is in Carbondale, finds nothing unusual with regard to his diverse interests.

"I grew up playing tennis," he says, "and was a member of the SIU team until it began to conflict too much with my other activities. The tennis and debate seasons overlap you know."

"As far as my shyness is concerned," Dick continued, "I actually believe that that helps me. I am always conscious of the fact when I start to speak that I have this reputation to overcome, and so maybe I try a little harder than I otherwise would."

Pulkerson's fiancée is Sharon Loveace of Mattoon, whom he met during his debate work. They represented Southern Illinois last year at the national college debate finals at West Point, New York.

Pulkerson's debate coach, Neil Claussen, has this to say about him, "Dick is as fine a young speaker as I have ever heard. Whatever he chooses to do in the future he will do exceedingly well."

And does Pulkerson intend to use this high proficiency in public speaking in such professions as the law and politics? Of course not. He is going to be a professor of mathematics.

A talk by an outstanding photographer and photography awards will be top events at the 1963 Photo Fair to be held Sunday on campus.

The Fair, which will begin at 2:30 p.m., in the University Center, will have Angus McDougall, associate editor for photography of the national Harvester magazine, "World," and "Today," as guest speaker. McDougall gained fame as a photographer for the Milwaukee Journal before joining the staff of the magazine in 1953.

The Photo Fair is sponsored by the SIU Department of Printing and Photography and Kappa Alpha Nu, national honorary photojournalism fraternity, John Mercer, chairman of the department, and Frank Pratt, national president of the fraternity, will present the awards.

There will be a demonstration of Polaroid color film prior to showing of exhibits.

Marjorie Lawrence To Sing

With Glee Club Sunday

Two concerts, complimentary to the public, will be presented this weekend by music groups. The first will be a Chamber Music Ensemble performance, featuring Bach's "Brandenburg Concerto No. 5," on Friday at 8 p.m., in Muckel­ror Audrey in the Agricultural Building.

A Brahms Concert in Brookhorne, director, has announced.

The Glee Club concert includes: "Whatever Goes," arranged by J. S. Bach; "O Bone Jesu (O Blessed Jesus)" by Mozart; a group of Franz Schubert songs for male chorus; "Dedication" by Franz-Bohemian; "Tresse Libre (True Love)" arranged by Parker-Shaw; and Rhapsody for Contralto and Male Chorus, Op. 53, by Jo­hannes Brahms, with Mrs. Lawrence singing the vocal role, Donna Kratzer, a music student from Flora, will serve as accompanist and will play a piano solo, Chopin's "Bal­lade in G Minor, Op. 23." In addition to the Bach concert, the ensemble will also perform "Duof for Violin and Violin" by Mozart; two songs for alto voice, viola and piano, by Brahms; and "Duo (with Two Eyeglasses Obligato)" by B. E. Bach.

Creative Insights Series
Will Be Resumed Sunday

An opportunity to get an inside view of the creative arts in action will continue to be offered to the University Community Sunday evenings through the medium of a series of programs, "Creative Insights."

Such topics as 20th century music and 20th century theater will be discussed by campus personalities in the fields. Contemporary metal smithing, and both the University Chamber Choir and String Quartet in open rehearsal will appear on two different programs. Photography as a creative medium will be one of the later programs and the experimental film, another.

The programs, arranged by the Educational and Cultural Committee of the University Center Programming Board, drew good audiences in the comfortable Center Gallery Lounge last quarter.

All "Creative Insights" programs are at 7:30 p.m. Following is a list of what will be offered in this series in the Spring Quarter.

March 31, Peter Spurbeck, cellist; April 7, Unsell of the Spring Quartet in open rehearsal; April 14, Frank Paine, "The Experimental Film."

Also, April 21, Arthur Hunt from "Listening to 20th Century Music"; April 28, Mordecai Gordon, "Toward 20th Century Theatre"; May 5, Brett Kingon, "Movements in Contemporary Metal smithing"; May 19, Robert Kingsbury and the University Chamber Choir in open rehearsal, and May 26, William Horrell, "Photography as a Creative Medium."

BUREN SAYS Demand Grows for Outdoor Recreation Graduates

Freeburg said outdoor recreation field has been sited by William H. Freeburg, chairman of the Recreation

A demand for college graduates in the outdoor recreation field has been sited by William H. Freeburg, chairman of the Recreation Department.

W.H. FREEBURG and Outdoor Education Department.

Describing the area as one with a need for specialized work in recreation, Freeburg said, "Up until a year ago, when the Federal Government formed the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, the college graduate had only to have a degree in physical education to find a place in outdoor recreation."

Professional campers from five states will gather here for the Spring Conference of the St. Louis, Section, American Camping Association. The three-day program will be held at the Little Grassy Lake campus.

Loren Taylor, chairman of Southern's department of recreation and outdoor education, said 100 camp directors, counselors and staff members of public, private and agency camps in Illinois, Missouri, Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota are expected.

Theme of the conference, he said, will be "Creative Camping" and will stress leadership and program planning.

The campers will live in cabins and use the Assembly Hall at the university's Little Giant camp on the shores of Little Grassy Lake.

William McKeefrey, dean of academic affairs, will make the keynote address, "The Creative Touch" at a dinner meeting Saturday night. Taylor and Lloyd B. Sharp, professor of outdoor education, are in charge of the program.

Church services will be held Sunday morning and campers will leave for home following luncheon.

Great Names of American Theater Live Again

Only sixty years ago, high perched handsome cab stood elegantly attired first-nighters to the opening of the coming early musical Floradora. Somebody divorcee-turned-actress Mrs. Leslie Carter swung back and forth clutching the handle of a bell four feet above the stage in The Heart of Maryland.

Actor Maurice Barrymore as was his custom checked his son John in the cloakroom of the Lambs Club before passing several hours waiting his whistle and whetting his wit at the bar. Maude Adams as Peter Pan charmed audiences by asking them "Do you believe in fairies?"

The book describes such playweights as the fastidious Clyde Fitch who wrote facile comedies of little depth, and Edward Sheldon, the handsome.

Barrymore, William Gillette, Julia Marlowe and E. P. Sothern, Eva Tanguay, the Dame of Vaudeville, and Fields who had a popular joke beginning with the line "Who was that lady I saw you with last night?", and many others.

The author vividly tells us why these actors commanded the devotion of their generation by pointing out the wit of Maurice Barrymore, the child-like charm of a Maude Adams, or the courage of a bad boy who defied a powerful theatrical monopoly.

The book also lets the reader meet impresarios like Charles Frohman (appropriately known as Mr. Frohman, as he was star-making director-playwright-producer and a member of the Syndicate). One of the book's most interesting accounts deals with Erlanger and the establishment of the monopolistic Theatrical Syndicate in 1896. Star performers, ac­­cusing Erlanger of trying to keep them from bowling shows, who were opposed to the monopoly, were unable to play in the best theaters "On the road" and in New York. Most leading actors and the­­aters owners reluctantly joined the Syndicate except for a courageous few.

Because she refused to truckle to Erlanger, the determined Minnie Flasek was forced to play in lower-class and road theaters. Nevertheless, she sustained her role. A true blue heroine, Flasek was a popular figure and even in low times she adhered to the high principles of her calling. Her one and only son, John, went on to earn his living in the theater by his talent and his honest ability.

Following the trend of her times, she saw that the American theatre was in a state of mind to appreciate the talent of a young man like Maurice Barrymore.

In Village Voice

A third book, "Roma Amor," devoted to erotic works from all periods and cultures -- works that were censored by virtue only of what viewers them as masterpieces -- how would you feel if some cop came along and told you that he was not going to allow you to see them?

Yet that is roughly what is happening in this country at the present time with a book called "Eros Kalos," a beautiful book which depicts erotic art from ancient Greece and Rome. It is a hard cover, in brilliant colors, of the reproductions of vases and coins dating back as much as seven thousand years. It contains ten illustrations (paid for by your tax) of crystals and women. It is the beginning of a study in this country. They have already fought (and lost) a similar Minnie Flasek case over another book in the series, "Kama Kala," devoted to Hindu sculptures from the temple of Konarak.

A book like The Great Century, most leading actors and thea­­ters of the period's most flamboyant personalities, and a book like The Golden Era of Theatrical in the proper state of mind to accept the people who make it happen. The Syndicate, the author is at his best when describing this chapter of "the golden era."

Churchill describes such playweights as the fastidious Clyde Fitch who wrote facile comedies of little depth, and Edward Sheldon, the handsome.

We must feel a touch of sadness in the passing of this epoch of romanticism and of the star system and Lesbian girlfriends. Quoting from an obituary of Minnie Flasek, Allen Churchill aptly describes the era's major figures at the close of his book: "Each, in his own way, acted with a passion."

The vividly drawn char­acters in their realistic con­­versations and a series of scenes that are turned hilarious by the lack of proper intonation level. Hemley Turns From Poetry To Novel About Youth's Struggle In Revolt

Hemley's major contribution has been poetry, and in this novel he illustrates his poetic style through the character of Jim Rafferty, son of the working class and a revolutionary socialist. This an active, ruthless, less man provides the dynamic force around which the story evolves; he rarely runs away from any problem, or yields, or gives up, or expresses any positive effect in that he awakens the people with whom he, he comes in contact.

ORLOFSKY ON THE RINGS

Runnerup Twice:

Orlofsky Going All Out

For Elusive All-Around Title

Fred Orlofsky will be trying to win the National Collegiate All-Around title this weekend after two years in second place.

Orlofsky wants to win his collegiate career with the title which has escaped his grasp the past two years.

Last year he was runnerup to Southern California’s Bobby Lynn and two years ago Penn State’s Greg Weiss beat the Salukis’ all-around ace.

The 25-year-old senior gymnast from North Bergen (N.J.) High School has competed in international competition throughout his collegiate career and probably will wind it up in the same fashion.

As a freshman Orlofsky won the All-Around Championship at the National Olympic tryouts in 1960. He went on from there to finish 4th among the Olympic contestants at the same time in the all-around event.

Last year Orlofsky went to Czechoslovakia for the World Games where he finished 50th out of 150 participants. He was one of six men on the U.S. squad.

He will compete for the third time in international competition in May when the U.S. sends a gymnastic team to Brazil for the Pan-American Games.

At the Pan-American Games tryouts in December Orlofsky finished third in the all-around event where six men will be taken, Garland O’Quinn of SIU finished first and Don Torney of Illinois finished second.

At the same time Orlofsky will be trying to win his first NCAA all-around title SIU will be trying to win its first NCAA Gymnastics Championship. The Salukis finished second the past two seasons.

It seems as though the team winning the all-around title wins the team championship too. Last year Southern California won the team championship and all-around event.

The Salukis and the rest of SIU will be trying to win their first national championship.

Dr. Donald Boydston, SIU athletic director, arrived here Thursday for the meet. He is President of the Gymnastic Federation which is meeting during the championships. He is hopeful that SIU’s gymnasts can win the title after two years in the runner-up position.

Seniors Fred Orlofsky and Bruno Klaus will be concluding their careers here and would like nothing better than the championship.

The Salukis workout Tuesday was a little sluggish but Meade said that he expected after the 250 mile car ride. The SIU gymnasts worked out again Wednesday but were going to take Thursday off to rest before the meet.

Preliminaries will be held this afternoon in all events with the finals to be held Saturday night. However, the all-around event champion will be decided tonight.

SIU never scored in the NCAA meet until it placed seventh in 1959 and 1960. For the past two years the Salukis finished second,

All Eyes Are On Salukis Gymnastics

By Tom McNamara

PITTSBURGH, PA. — Amidst all the excitement of the 21st annual National Collegiate (NCAA) Gymnastics Championships here, SIU’s favored Salukis have been catching the eye of spectators and coaches alike.

Regardless of where you go the same question comes up, “Who is going to win the meet?” Bill Meade, SIU gymnastic coach, has avoided giving a direct answer but says if everything goes well the Salukis could take it.

“We have finished second for two years now,” Meade said after Tuesday’s workout, “The boys want this one awful hard. We are ready.”

SIU has been pointing for this meet over since the season began back in November, John Rush, a sophomore who has missed the excitement of the past two meets, says, “This is the granddaddy of them all and we want to win it.”

Meade has 11 men available for action. In addition to Klaus and Orlofsky, he will use juniors Rusty Mitchell, Chuck Woers, Charles Ehrliek, Tom Georciu and Harry Schaller-meyer. Four sophomores are also on hand—Dennis Wolf, Steve Pasternak, Bill Hladik and Rush.

Dr. Donald Boydston, SIU athletic director, arrived here Thursday for the meet. He is President of the Gymnastic Federation which is meeting during the championships. He is hopeful that SIU’s gymnasts can win the title after two years in the runner-up position.
Saluki Wrestlers Wind Up Season With Two Impressive Performances

After a tough-luck regular season, Southern's wrestling squad turned in fine performances in two post-season meets at Cedar Falls, Iowa, and Kent, Ohio, earlier this month. At the NCAA college–division tournament at Cedar Falls, Iowa, on March 15-16, the Salukis were seeded out by champion Western Michigan, but their second place finish, the Colorado outfit posted 62 points compared to 55.4 for Kent. The Salukis, State College of Iowa finishing third with 47.4. It was a fine all-around team effort by coach Jim Wilkson's grapplers, but individual performances by four Saluki standouts, as the highlight of the two day tournament, was voted the meets' outstanding wrestler.

Jerry Finn was crowned champion in the 123-pound class and Roger Plapp fought his way to the 191-pound championship. Probably the most exciting match of the tournament was the heavyweight division. Southern's Larry Krisroff, edged Joe Kuhn of Western State for the title in the heavyweight weight division.

Other fine performances were turned in by Erick Peck, as the 147 pounder finished third in that weight division.

Houston and Krisroff were named to the Pan American games at Brazil next month, where they will compete in the National AAU meet in San Francisco, Calif., on April 4-6. Bill Hartnell, who was recently named to the second team All-American, will also make the trip to the west coast.

By winning national championships in the college–division meet, Finn and Krisroff were SIU's only entries in NCA A's university–division championships at Kent, Ohio, on March 21-23. Teammates Houston and Plapp also claimed college–division championships, but the Salukis were ineligible for further competition.

Finn and Krisroff turned in good performances and scored 11 points each as Southern moved to finish 20th in the standings. More than 60 teams from all over the country entered the meet. Powerful Oklahoma won top honors but was hard pressed by Iowa State. The Sooners compiled 48 points to the Cyclones 45 points. Michigan finished third with a total of 30 points. The Salukis were held by Iowa State earlier in the year, Oklahoma State, who the Salukis were scheduled to meet earlier in the year, the Wednesday Maundy Thursday, SCF Palm Sunday Service.
