Saluki Baseball Season Opens
Today at Murphysboro Diamond

Game Against Illinois State
Follows 3-6 Tour Record

By Bob Reinecke

Southland team opens its regular season against Illinois State at 2 p.m. today at Dunn Field in Murphysboro.

Coach Abe Martin's lineup for today's game will be similar to the one used for most games of the past season.

Captain Jim Pratte will handle the catching chores. The third baseman, Jerry Long, .316 last year, Jim Long, a .348 hitter last year, will get the nod at third base. Gib Snyder will be at second base and Al Perry will start at shortstop. Terry Lynn will form the double play for Martin. Recording out the infield will be Bob Kane at the cornerc rop.

In the outfield, Martin will go with veterans Joe Siegel in center field. Two transfer students, John Hock, a right hander, from Webster Groves, and Bob Sheldon, will play the corners.

The Salukis were able to win only three of the nine games on their trip to Texas during the spring vacation. Two of the victories resulted in the three games against the University of Houston, that the Salukis had more trouble with Sam Houston State College.

The Salukis lost three games to SIU in six games.

The Hunsinger nine scored two of their victories over two games to the Salukis from a combined effort of good hitting and good pitching which led the game. The Salukis banged out nine hits in the same game led by two each from Terry Long and Jim Long. Ken Everett got credit for the victory as the sophomore right-hander held the opposition to six hits.

Horse Mann's Bust Is Busted
In Education Building Hallway

A bust of Horse Mann, 19th century American educator, standing in the middle of the Hall of the Wham Education Building has been busted.

A College of Education spokesman said that the bust, broken of at the neck shortly before spring vacation, is impossible to tell whether it was an accident or a practical joke, the spokesman said.

The bust probably will be replaced in the near future. Mann is credited with revolutionizing public school organization and teaching. A new bust is inscribed in the hallway.
100,000 Periodicals, Books Pour In to Library Annually

How long will it take to fill Morris Library with books, now that five new floors have been added?

A quick glance at some statistics shows that incoming materials are piling up fast.

"This February, we received 1,082 books and 263 phonograph records," he said. The books come from all over the world and vary greatly in subject matter. Among them are rare books, textbooks, technical books, and juvenile books.

All of these are sent to the cataloging department to be processed. However, the books represent only a fraction of the items received at Morris Library. Periodicals make up the largest portion of the literary pie.

According to Leopold Riff, serials librarian, the periodical intake is about 30,000 a year. This does not include the hundreds of newspapers brought in each day for the reading rooms. All told, the annual consignments run close to 100,000.

Unlike the books, which are all purchased, many of the periodicals arrive as gifts. Taking all of these figures into consideration, one may start to wonder: When will they start work on five more floors for our Library?

Films of Easter Story Will Be Shown Sunday

Films showing and narrating some of the most well-known paintings of the Easter story will be shown Sunday at SIU.

The films, "The Coming of Christ" and "He Is Risen," were filmed by the National Broadcasting Company as part of its Project 20 series several years ago. Both films are about 30 minutes in length and will be shown free to the public at 8 p.m. in Brown Auditorium.

"There is convincing medical evidence that cigarette smoking impairs health. The question of whether or not to smoke remains the right of the individual in a free society. Your health is your individual responsibility.

Recognize the quotation? ... If you are a smoker, you probably have read it more than once. But chances are that you, like many others have put the thought of giving up smoking in the back of your mind.

According to Neil Dilard, of Auxiliary and Service Enterprises: "As of now there is no perceptible difference in cigarette sales than before the Surgeon General's report was released. I don't have the exact figures, but after the report was released, cigarette sales on the campus dropped slightly," he said. "The findings in the report seemed to affect sales through the machines for a while, but now it doesn't seem to have changed smoking habits very much at all," he added, although he has had only one month to compare the sales figures. But, he added, "the signs will remain on the machines. Sales may be back to normal on campus, but at least one retailer has noticed the decline in cigarette sales.

According to a spokesman of University Drugs, "Our cigarette sales in both individual packs and cartons have declined since the report on smoking was made public.

Going straight to the cigarette smoker's mouth, we asked a number of smokers for their feelings on the subject now that the report is out.

First Long, sophomore from Belleville, said, "People more or less knew about the harmful affects of smoking long before the report, and they didn't quit then, why should they quit now? Let them rationalize if they want. If a smoke a pack and a half a day and can't afford it," said Mike Galvin, sophomore from aurora. "I still think about it, and plan to quit, but if I tried to quit during the school year, I'd be a nervous wreck," he said. "I'm going to try to quit this summer when the pressures of school aren't on me," he explained.

Julie Ertal, junior from Quincy, has not stopped smoking, but it isn't because of the tension, or because she has forgotten about the findings of the Surgeon General - she has something else in mind. "I'm saving cigarette coupons for a St. Bernard," she explained, and "I've only got about 1,000 more to go."

Art in the Academic Environment of SIU

Photostory by Frank Salmo

majors at SIU do not have much trouble finding elective courses to fill out their schedule. It takes 111 hours of credits to complete a major in the field of art.

In addition to the large number of hours required of their major, practically all of their courses consist of eight or more hours per week working in the studio or shop.

Since the fall term of 1966, the number of students enrolled in the art curriculum has more than doubled to its present size of 219 undergraduate majors.

All majors are required to take three quarters of Basic Studio and Studio Disciplines and the Art History Survey, which takes up another three quarters.

From there they move out into their field of specialization and take additional courses in the other phases of art.

According to Herbert Fink, Art Department chairman, the main role of the Art Department at SIU is "to lay stress on creative action and expression by the individual."...and "to help foster the individual's knowledge of himself in relation to his environment and to be able to make an eloquent statement about such knowledge through the means of the manipulation of material."
WASHINGTON—In two votes Thursday the Senate set the stage for the main civil rights battle of 1964.

It ended 15 days of debate on whether to take up the House-passed measure by voting 67 to 17 to bring the bill to the floor. Then it rejected 30-34 a move to send the bill back to committee.

The results heartened civil rights advocates, although both votes were only preliminary to the big debate starting Monday.

The civil rights measure is expected to occupy the Senate's attention for weeks and possibly months. Southern foes have made it clear they will stage what their opponents call a filibuster and the Southerners call educating the Senate and the public.

Three Negro leaders who voted against taking up the bill are members of the Southern group of 19 expected to wage the filibuster. The remaining two of the Southern opponents, Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., and J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., were absent and paired against it.

Voting 17 for the motion, Majority Leader Harry Manfield, Mont., to take up the bill were 41 Demo­crats and 20 Republicans.

Thirty-four Democrats and 16 Republicans voted to table the motion.

President Johnson and Gov. Farris Byrd of Florida took note of the troubles but decided no federal or state action was warranted.

In developments yesterday, a boycott of Jacksonville businesses which impose restrictions on Negroes was called by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The NAACP called for retaliation against "Jim Crow Merchants" even as the mediating committee groped for a way out of the crisis. Rutledge Pearson, city and state NAACP president, told members of the organization, "Open your stores to any Negro who wants to use them."

"This is a day when we can come up with the answer," said Pearson. "If it is not the right answer, we will have an opportunity to work out the right answer."

The boycott was approved, by the largest chapter turnout in recent months but only by those Negroes or boycotters except those selling food and medicine.

Jesse Phillips, 33, the white man who was attacked by 12 to 15 Negroes, was hit in the forehead by a brick and was in serious condition.

Roving bands of Negro youths were no longer in evidence Thursday. The Negro rioting ended after two days of throwing rocks, bricks and bottles at police­men, firemen, newsmen and any white citizens who ventured into Negro areas.

A total of 209 juveniles were arrested—most turned over to their parents—and 205 persons went into court on charges resulting from the attacks. The defendants passed through municipal court as if on a conveyor belt to the city prison, generally drawing $25 fines and seven- to ten-day terms.

The NAACP disavowed responsibility for the demonstrations and all indications were that the actions were spontaneous and not organized. Several leaders of the Negro community said the rioting was instigated by youths who have dropped out of school.

NEWS IN PERSPECTIVE

South Loses Skirmish, Stage Set for Rights Debate:

Compiled From Associated Press

WASHINGTON—Sargent Shriver enlisted two college presidents and a labor leader in the administration's declared war on poverty. President Johnson's chief of staff in the anti-poverty campaign listed his new aides as:

Vernon Roger Alden, 40, president of Ohio University and former associate dean of the Harvard Business School, who will develop plans for the proposed job corps, consisting of 100,000 draft rejects and school dropouts who will be given job training, education and work experience.

Jack T. Conway, 46, executive director of the AFL-CIO's industrial relations department, who will plan the community action program.

Glenn A. Okas, 43, president of Springfield (Mass.) College, who will plan the Volunteers for America.

Southern's athletic teams will wrap up a full month of opponents this weekend as six Saluki teams swing into action across the country.

At home, Coach Carl Sexton and his Saluki golfers will play host to Western Michigan in their second home match of the season Friday. An experienced team of golfers from Iowa along with scoring victories over Rice University and the University of Houston will take on the Salukis' talents over Rice University's course. However, they have lost eight of their last 10 matches.

During the spring exhibition of the NCAA meet in Los Angeles in an attempt to gather the 100 points they feel necessary to unseat the powerful Wolverines. The Salukis have entered the national meet as the favorite for the past three years but have not come out as the runnerup each time.

Meanwhile, Saluki's gymnast hopes will be based around Mitchell, Bill Wolf, and Dennis Wolf. The two Californians will be joined in their native state by teammates Ray Spano, Steve Panzernek, Tony Geocaris, Bill Hladik, and Chuck Ebrlich. In the recent NCAA meet, Larry Krueger will lead Southern's four-man delegation to the National wrestling meet at Cornell University.

Kristoff, who finished second to Syracuse's Jim Vance last year, has won 15 of 16 decisions this year and is once again one of the favorites in the heavyweight competition.

1. I just made a very smart buy.

Would you like to hear about it?

You can see I'm all ears.

Interesting.

2. It's an item that will stand me in good stead throughout my life.

You don't say.

3. It guarantees security for the family I expect to have shortly.

Inquiring.

4. It can provide money for my children's education.

Is that so?

5. It can pay off the mortgage if I do. Or make money available for emergencies or opportunities. Or provide a lifetime income when I retire.

Look, if anything was that good, all of people would have it.

The Salukis, who won only three of nine games during the southern swing, will be hoping to find the familiar soil of southern Illinois more friendly as they host the Cardinals at 2 p.m. at Riverside Park in Murphysboro.

Meanwhile, three of Southern's teams will be scattered at various points across the country for the annual NCAA championship meets.

Coach Bill Muade's gymnasts, who finished second in the Midwest Championship meet in late February, will be hoping to have the best chance of any of the Saluki squads to bring home an NCAA team championship. However, they will have to outscore Michigan, defending champs, to do so.

Meade will use an eight-man squad in the meet at Los Angeles in an attempt to gather the 100 points he feels necessary to unseat the powerful Wolverines. The Salukis have entered the national meet as the favorite for the past three years but have not come out as the runnerup each time.

Exciting things are happening everywhere at Ford Motor Company!

After Ford’s spectacular debut in last year’s Indianapolis 500-mile race, many people wondered what we would come up with next. Well it’s here! Ford Motor Company engineers have developed a brand-new V8 engine especially for this year’s competition at Indy. Although it’s the same size as the 1963 version, this racing engine is a much “livelier” performer because of four overhead gear-driven camshafts and other refinements. Overall results of these revolutionary changes: an increase of at least 44 horses, delivering 420 hp or more at 8,000 rpm.

Ford engineers met many challenges in developing this engine. But this is just typical of the challenges being accepted every day by our employees. That’s what makes Ford Motor Company such an exciting place to work. And not only in engineering. Exciting opportunities exist in manufacturing, finance, sales, marketing, industrial relations, purchasing, traffic, product planning, styling and research. All types of career opportunities for all types of graduates. If you’re looking for an interesting career—look to Ford Motor Company. A growing company in a growing industry.
