Student Scholars To Be Honored Tonight

Top students at SIU will be honored today during the annual Scholastic Honors Day Convocation. The convocation is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in Shryock Auditorium. Only 360 honor students will be cited this evening. About 100 also will be singled out for special awards and scholarships during the program.

This evening's program spotlights achievements of students who have earned special academic awards, prizes and scholarships during the year, as well as all students who have maintained superior grades.

The Honors Day list is composed of freshmen and sophomores who have a grade average of 4.5 or above. Juniors and seniors must have maintained a 4.25 average or better.

Convocation speaker will be Dr. Wilbur Moutou, assistant professor of chemistry, who will have as a topic, "For What Purpose, Honor?" Bill Fenwick, student body president, will introduce the speaker.

The convocation, planned by the Student Council and the Committees, will give public recognition to students who have excelled scholastically.

The 100 students singled out for special awards and scholarships will have their honors awarded by Charles D. Tenney, vice-president for instruction; and J. Clark Davis, director of student affairs.

A reception for honor students and faculty friends will be held in the University Center following the ceremony.

Three graduating seniors will be cited for grade averages of 4.9 or better. They are Judy S. Jacober of Carbondale, Janet P. Larson of Morton and Nancy D. Moreno of Murphysboro.

Jack W. Graham, chairman of the Conventions Committee, said all 7:35 p.m. classes (except those which meet once a week) have been dismissed today so that students and faculty members can attend the Honors Day program.

A complete list of Honors Day winners appears on Page 8 of today's Daily Egyptian.

Peace Corps Director To Speak Here Monday

Sargent Shriver, director of the Peace Corps, and his wife, Eunice, sister of President Kennedy, will visit the SIU campus Monday.

They will attend the opening session of a week-long Institute to train workers for camps for the mentally retarded.

The Shriver's are expected to arrive at the Williamson County airport late Sunday. The Institute will be held at SIU outdoor education facilities at Little Grassy Lake. Shryock Auditorium, coordinator of the University's Little Grassy Lake activities, said the institute will train 37 teachers from eight states, including those from Chicago and Springfield in Illinois, attending the Institute.

Twenty-five mentally retarded children from Williamson and Jackson counties will be at the Institute during the day time to permit demonstration instruction.

The workers trained at the Institute will go directly to set up the day camps in these states.

Top LA&S 'Scholars' Tell Secrets Of Success

Stefan Haag: 'It Takes Determination, No Disturbances'

Contrary to common belief, not all honor students wear thick glasses, and have a reserved seat at the library. At least not Stefan Haag, whose 4.8 over-all average is second for top honors in the college of liberal arts.

"I believe there is enough time to study and recreation both, when it comes time to study it takes determination and no disturb­ances," said Haag, a sociol­ogy major from Carbondale. Haag, who originally comes from Columbus, Mo., moved to Carbondale with his parents when his father accepted a job as a radio announcer in the university's KURU.

Two influencing factors on Haag's high average are "experiences I encountered while abroad between school and college days, and a well-rounded home life."

He spent one year in Burma with his parents, and said, "I find the experiences I encountered there very bene­ficial to draw on."

"Sef", as his friends sometimes call him, said, "I have other nicknames that I just as soon not mention, but they seem to get our friendship."

His hobbies include work­ing on cars, bowling, and many activities in advanced ROTC

Mary Jane Hiller: 'Three-Hours Study For Every Quarter Hour'

Twenty-one years of age, a wife for six years, a moth­er of two, a June graduate, and already a member of the SIU equivalent of Phi Beta Kappa - this impressive list is only part of what makes up Mrs Mary Jane Burnett Hiller.

Mrs. Hiller, after being honored at the Phi Beta Kappa dinner last Tuesday night, gave this hint to the secret of her success: "I have always tried to allow three hours of study for every quarter hour of class. Also, I highly re­commend extensive note tak­ing. I made a file of all my notes, and I find I make a fre­quent reference to them."

Having skipped sixth grade, Mrs. Hiller entered SIU at the tender age of 16 and has since made all A's, except for a few B's and her grades in physical education. "I never did like, or excel in P.E.," she admitted.

The mother of two, Robin, 5, and Deon, 3, Mrs. Hiller attributes much of her success to her husband, who in Mrs. Hiller's words, "sacrificed so much so I could carry out my plans of finishing college. Being married made me feel more motivated. I knew, for my husband's and children's sake, I had to do my best."

Mrs. Hiller still finds time between her household chores and classwork, to participate in Phi Kappa Phi, Alpha Lambda Delta, Pi Lambda Theta, Kappa Delta Phi and the L.K.K, Honor Society.

Another pastime is music. "I play the organ at our church, the First Christian Church of Zeigler, and I'm soprano soloist. I also enjoy singing at weddings."

As if she hasn't accom­plished an impressive list al­ready, Mrs. Hiller's future plans include more schooling. "I shall begin my plans for graduation in June, and most of all I want to fly."

Cadet Colonel William Le­men, said, "Stefan is just one of the regular guys, who know how to have a good time and also how to be serious when it comes time."

Stefan's prep days probably had little influence on his high collegiate standing. "I was strictly a 'C' student in high school."

If you believe in the hered­ity of intelligence you may be right. Stefan's mother was a Phi Beta Kappa, his brother is second in his class at the University of Missouri, his sister has close to a four point average.

Stefan's father supports nothing of his father who also "did OK while in college."

Opera Workshop Singers To Give Excerpts Sunday

Excerpts from 14 well­known operas will be included in the Southern Illinois Uni­versity opera workshop pre­sentation in Shryock Audito­rium Sunday at 4 p.m., ac­cording to Marjorie Lawrence, director.

Miss Lawrence, former Metropolitan opera star and presently a research profes­sor at SIU, will present 28 students in scenes from operas by Mozart, Puccini, Wagner, Menotti, and other composers. The production is representative of the work done by the group, Miss Lawrence said.

The program will include arias from Halévy's "La Juive," Puccini's "Iosica," Donizetti's "Lucia di Lamer­moor," and Stravinsky's "The Rake's Progress." Duets from "Così Fan Tutti" and "Marriage of Figaro" by Mozart also will be sung, as well as choruses from Wagner's "Tannhäuser," and arias from "Così Fan Tutti" and from "Là cia di Lamen­moor."

The students participating are:

Marguerite LaDue, Carmen Kruse, Douglas Horner, Ann Fischer, David Thomas, Zella Falcone, Margaret Nolan, Elaine Fort and Denise Josten.

Fred James, Larry Wade, Helen Clifton, Diana Long, Mary Felts, Janet Proctor, Barbara Nennich, Judy Saltoby and Beverly Todd.

Brenda Finn, James Cava­tor, Carole Lambert, Sheryl Kesch, Deanna Stevenson, Fatti Walsh, Gloria Smith, Ruth Mills, Bobby Baker and Joe McHaley.

Cooper Scheduled To Land At 6:23 Today

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla.,
Astronaut Gordon Cooper is scheduled to come down at 6:23 p.m., Eastern Standard Time Thursday, 80 miles southeast of Midway Island in the Pacific.

Everything went perfectly: A blastoff time only four minutes behind schedule, an ideal entry into orbit, and then around the world every 88.44 minutes. If the flight goes the full route, it will last 34 hours 19 minutes.

Primary goal of the marathon mission is to gather medical data to determine man's ability to perform during prolonged exposure to weightlessness.

So splendidly were men and machinery behaving that Cooper, nestled in his tiny craft as it sped along at 17,564 miles per hour, soon took an unscheduled nap.

LONDON
The United States and Britain searched Wednesday for ways of saving the Geneva nuclear test ban negotiations from collapse.

The last-ditch efforts came at a time when the Soviet day and blocked approval of more than $123 million in two-year budget bills for various state departments.

Sen. Paul Simon, D-Troy, accused the Republicans of giving the bills the silent treatment in retaliation against the state administration's refusal to agree on public aid ceilings.

Simon was forced to postpone the roll call on the bills when the Republicans declined to vote.

WASHINGTON
The railroaders said today (Tuesday) five operating railroad brotherhoods have agreed to resume efforts here Monday to reach settlement on their work rules dispute before a federal deadline for a nationwide strike.

A three-man presidential panel proposed today a safety test for elimination of unneeded freemen from freight and yard trains, knottiest problem in the 3 1/2-year-old dispute.

Carbondale To Ask University To Water Lawns After Dark

Carbondale City Council voted Tuesday night to request that the university delay watering its lawns until after dark in order to relieve low water pressure in the afternoon to the southwest part of the city.

Commissioner Joseph R. Ragdale, Jr., was directed to make the request, Mayor D. Blaney Miller said that the condition would be only temporary and that the city plans to install new water main in the area as soon as possible.

In other action the Council approved a motion to advertise for bids for a grounds station and eight two-way radios for Streets and Water Department trunks. A motion to have 100 water meters repaired was passed.

A petition to change the name of the relocated section of Smith Street to Bleyer Drive was approved and the city attorney was directed to draw up an ordinance.

Also approved was a petition from a group of Carbondale builders to postpone the final hearing on the proposed Carbondale building codes for subdivisions.

Freshman Fined $239 For Showing Pornographic Films

Robert Lee, 20, a freshman from New Jersey, was fined $239 and placed on one-year probation in Jackson County Court Monday after pleading guilty to an obscenity charge. He has been suspended from the University until September.

Campus authorities charged Lee, a student in their dormitories, with 12 movies which they were screening in their dormitory rooms. The movies were allegedly shown to other students.

UI police arrested Lee without a warrant and seized the movies when Lee refused to answer questions.

Lee, who is a student in the College of Liberal Arts, had been suspended for the remainder of the semester for violating the University's policy against the showing of pornographic films.

Lee's attorney, William L. Wampler, said his client would appeal the decision.

University President George P. Johnson said the university would not comment on the decision until the appeal was heard.

UI spokesman John E. Miller said the university had no comment on the decision.

Montgomery, Ala.
Gov. George Wallace announced today that a federal court suit is being prepared to challenge the right of President Kennedy to use federal troops in racially troubled Birmingham.

Wallace issued a prepared statement at a news conference saying that he has repeatedly in the past three days that the President has no legal authority to use federal troops.

Kennedy announced Sunday night that army units had been alerted for possible riot duty in Birmingham and have been moved on a standby basis into Army and Air Force installations at Anniston and Montgomery.

Later, state authorities said that 3,000 had been moved into two bases.

A petition was filed in the federal court by the Governor in his state as his authority for alerting troops for possible use in Birmingham is unconstitutional.

WASHINGTO
A House Education subcommittee voted Wednesday to deny federal funds to segregated schools which do not come up with a desegregation plan this June and do not have a plan in operation by June 30, 1964.

The House committee also put school districts on notice that during the next few months it will review the actions when the Republicans declined to vote.

SPRINGFIELD, I11.
The Illinois House passed today a $1 million appropriation to pay a part of the cost of acquiring developing land for Reservoir Lake in Franklin and Jefferson counties.

'Courting Among The Pollywogs And Test Tubes' Leads To Life's Work For The Footees

Mrs. Florence L. Foote, no stranger to the SIU students and faculty, is looking forward to her first full time employment here as teacher and researcher in physiology.

She joins the staff as an associate professor in September.

Mrs. Foote is the wife of Charles L. Foote, professor in Zoology, whose health has forced him to seek disability leave. The Footees have been a part of the Southern Illinois University community since 1947.

Until her new assignment, Mrs. Foote has worked at special assignments on an emergency basis only.

"By working full time, I will be able to set up some research project," Mrs. Foote said. "This is impossible to do when you come and go, filling in."

She expects to be teaching some general studies courses in physiology and anatomy and to get on to research as soon as possible.

In looking ahead, Mrs. Foote is also looking back to some of the work in research she and her husband have done as a team.

"We worked on our doctorates together at State University of Iowa," Courting was among the pollywogs and test tubes, she said.

The same international scientist, Emil Witschi, a Swiss national educated in Germany, inspired them both at that time, Mrs. Foote said, creating a real desire to do research.

Now, Mrs. Foote is thinking about some of the work already done which could be re-examined and worked over further with the electron microscope SIU is proud to possess.

A wonderful opportunity came to the Footees in 1953 when they went to the Strange-waves Research Laboratories in Cambridge, England. Here they worked in tissue and organ culture, learning some new techniques.

In 1958, the couple went to London to present a paper at the International Congress of Zoology. At this time, they worked at growing amphibian organs in culture.

The best opportunity of all came to the Footees in 1960-1961, Mrs. Foote said, when they spent a whole year working together at the College of France, located in Paris.

She explained that this is a real research institution, no time must be given over to "odd jobs," which break into scientific search. The Footees worked in the laboratory of experimental embryology.

"Our interests and training have been so closely allied that we are able to work together. This is a real pleasure," Mrs. Foote said.

Development Officials Will Meet June 9 - 13

A five-day meeting of community development officials will be held at SIU June 9 through 13.

The third national seminar of the Community Development Division, National University Extension Association, will be conducted on campus and at nearby Giant City State Park Lodge, Makanda.

"New Trends, Problems and Theories" will be the seminar's theme, according to Boyd B. Butler, SIU community development consultant and chairman of the program.

Richard W. Poston, research professor at SIU's Cooperative Community Research office, will return to take part in the sessions.

He is now on leave to the University of New Mexico, Albuquerque, to train Peace Corps volunteers.

Other program participants will be Edward G. Moe, director, Bureau of Community Development, University of Utah, Salt Lake City; Louise Minchler, deputy director for community development, Agency for International Development, Washington, D.C.; Joe E. Brown, director; Programs in Urban Science, University of Colorado, Boulder; Ueli Blum, associate director, Institute for Community Development and Services, Michigan State University, East Lansing.

Laura Thompson, professor of anthropology, San Francisco State College; Bernard E. Nash, director, Center for Community Development, University of Missouri, Columbia; Ray E. Wakeley, visiting professor of rural sociology, Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y.; Willis A. Sutton, Jr., executive director, Bureau of Community Service, University of Kentucky, Lexington; J. Carson Pritchard, director of adult education, West Georgia College, Carrollton; and Mrs. Jane Zahn, coordinator, Community Development Project, University of California, Berkeley.

Leaders Needed For Summer Orientation

Volunteers are needed for new student day at the start of the summer quarter, according to the Activities Development Center.

Upperclassmen who will help with putting new students through the routine of registering, sectioning, attending group meetings and becoming oriented, are asked to pick up application blanks at the Information Desk in the University Center.

All applications should be completed and returned by tomorrow.

Probably one meeting will be called before the end of the quarter for training in the orientation process, a spokesman in Activities said.
Local Foreign Relations

Letters printed in the Daily Egyptian April 25 and May 8 pointed out various problems in foreign relations on the SIU campus, a problem which is important to individuals but which also has a subtle influence on the international scene.

The Egyptian has since received a number of letters from foreign students attempting to clear the air on this question through a series of international student relations.

There is an agreement that a number of letters issued by both sides are a direct relationship between nations and nationalities, between the learners of the world and the students of the world. Mr. Lambert, an international student, seems to think that the students of the world are not truly involved in the world economy, and that such involvement is a waste of time and effort. Mr. Lambert argues, however, that American students live in a society which makes huge demands on their time, and that students want to focus on American studies.

Mr. Lambert states, "American students are so preoccupied with American studies that they are not very much interested in foreign colleagues, but they believe it is their duty to make foreign students aware of the mistakes they are making in their studies."

It is not clear whether foreign students do not make such efforts. On the contrary, the first aim of a foreign student when he arrives in the United States is to make American friends, among other reasons in order to at least improve his English, but when he tries to communicate with other students, he faces the bitter fact that he cannot infiltrate in the "ivory tower" of American students, he reluctantly alters his efforts and sticks to his "foreign clique."

The reason why some foreign students (like Mr. Lambert) is excluded is "talk of their own culture." Why are students on campus so much interested in American studies with a nationalist mind?" is evident. It is a reason why the behavior of some American students with whose knowledge about foreign studies is very limited and misguided.

The result of the three-year survey conducted on the American college curriculum, which was financed by the Ford Foundation and published last year, showed that "isolation" remains a strange word in the American educational system with "ambivalent foreign policy" and that "American history was generally taught from an extremely parochial point of view, as if the United States alone had inhabited the planet from the time of independence until its entry into the First World War."

The consequence of the inadequate knowledge of American students about the history of world civilizations is a strong prejudice which isolated the majority of foreign students from non-westerners, and few foreign students entered into their "ivory tower."

As I seriously doubt that any American students have delegated to Mr. Lambert the task of asking other foreign students what they are "doing" and what is "true," I am not making a reply, I do suggest that he extend his reading to some recently published educational materials which I have mentioned only once. I am sure that if he is diligent, he is not totally involved with the "Belgium - Congo relations," he will soon realize that the special attitude of American students is a great barrier for foreign students to hurdle.

I am sure Mr. Lambert realizes that the American European students or a few other international students are exceptions to the rule, as is the case with a few American students who have a lot of foreign friends, and Miss J.S. Cruz was not dealing with the exceptions.}

IRVING DILLARD

Death Penalty on Way Out

Several states are considering bills to abolish the death penalty or to establish a moratorium on legal executions to see what, if any, effect abolition of executions could be expected to have on the crime rate. The Illinois Legislature now has before it a bill for a moratorium. The sponsor is Sen. Robert W. McCarthy (D., Illinois) who introduced a bill that this was a member of the House. Anti-death penalty bills failed at Springfield in 1957, 1958, and 1961 sessions.

Sen. McCarthy, an attorney who graduated from the University of Illinois law school, contends death penalty does not deter crime. He contends further that it degrades the society which exacts it. On both scores he has a vast amount of support, backed by experience.

Approximately one-fifth of the American states have been found to have one or more legal executions to see what, if any, effect abolition of executions could be expected to have on the crime rate. In 1957, 1958, and 1961 sessions.

Sen. McCarthy, an attorney who graduated from the University of Illinois law school, contends death penalty does not deter crime. He contends further that it degrades the society which exacts it. On both scores he has a vast amount of support, backed by experience.

The great criminologist, the late Dr. George W. Kuchar, actually and experience showed that notorious executions, attended by widespread publicity, have often been followed by what newspapermen call an epidemic of murder. More than 30 years ago he wrote in the Encyclopedia of the Social Sciences:

"Incitement of murderers and of the conditions under which murder takes place tend to indicate conclusively that all criminals are not the one legal interest to be deterred by contemplation of legal consequences of their act. Another important consideration is the fact that where conviction will mean death, jurors hesitate to pass an irreconcilable sentence, and even allow men of probable guilt to go free."

Golfers Defeat Three Foes
To Finish With 13-5-1 Season

By beating Western Michigan 13-8 and Acquinas Colleges 30-12 and losing to Notre Dame 26-16, Southern's golf team closed out its 1963 season last Saturday and Sunday, with a 13-5-1 record. Playing on the beautiful par 71 Bark Golf Course, the Salukis held off the Irish and Broncos and 11 other teams to finish second against Acquinas College of Grand Rapids, Mich.

SIU only won one individual match against Notre Dame but won all 14 matches against the two Michigan schools. Roy Glover was the only Saluki to win a tournament this year, and he did much this year, beat Notre Dame's Jerry McDonald 76, 79, to 77, 80.

John Krueger turned in the lowest score for the Salukis in the day for Southern with a second round of 72 but in order to beat Jim Hinkle's 76, 71, Krueger shot a 78 for the first two days.

The Irish's Mike O'Connell turned in the finest round of golf against the Salukis this year with a 5 under par 67, it was Southern's second round of 70 in coming and coming back with both 33's. O'Connell missed a 10 footer for par on the 18th which would have given him a birdie for a 66.

In summing up the season and Monday's match with Notre Dame, Coach Gile Lohr simply exclaimed, "We played real good golf but lost (Notre Dame) played great golf.

"We had the toughest schedule we've ever played this year," he added, "but we played some pretty good golf." A holder was undecided if he'll take his comparatively young squad to any post season tourney. The individual results with Western Michigan and Acquinas were not available.
