Compromise cools protest of contest

By Debby Ratzerrnan
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A compromise was reached Wednesday between the Inter-Greek Council (IGC) and the Student Senate to allow alcohol on campus.

"The title will be changed to 'Inter-Greek Council's Miss Southern,' and she will receive no state funds for a tuition waiver," Swinburne said.

"People's Coalition member Diane Johnson said, "We will still protest at the contest. It is still sexist; nothing has changed except the name."

"These agreements were reached because we don't want to limit the right of any group to carry out an activity," Swinburne said, "nor do we want to limit the right of peaceful protest."

"We will in the future re-examine our policies toward beauty pageants of any kind," Swinburne said.

Sixteen women have entered the contest, including two late entries, Diane Balich and Chirsty Zarat.

The pageant will begin at 8 p.m. Friday in the Student Center Auditorium. Talent presentations will be given. Admission is free and open to the public.

First day of trustee voting draws over 2,000

By Terry Martin
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

More than 2,000 students have voted by noon Wednesday in the Student Trustee Referendum, more than doubling the turnout at SIU-Edwardsville for its seven-day referendum.

Steve Nuckles, election commissioner, said he expected about 3,500 students to vote by Wednesday. "We're happy with what we have," Nuckles said. "I'm confident everyone who wants to vote will get a chance to vote.

"The goal was to get at least one-third of the student population, and it looks like this turnout will be the most ever in a Student Government-oriented election," Carr said. "I encourage everyone to vote Thursday if they haven't done so already."

Two incidents of fraud by pollworkers were reported by election officials.

Jan Hillard, senior majoring in special education, refused to answer the two optional questions at the bottom of each ballot that asked for sex and classification. During discussion of her refusal, the poll worker tore up her ballot.

Ms. Hillard said, "as a matter of principle, she would not vote if she were required to answer the two optional questions.

"They kept telling me I had to answer them or my ballot wouldn't count," Ms. Hillard said. "I called up the Student Government office after they (the workers) tore up my ballot." Ms. Hillard was sent a response by election officials stating, "We passed everyone a special notice to all pollworkers to the effect that this portion is optional and need not be filled in to have a valid ballot." Officials urged her to try to vote again.

She said she did not have a chance to vote again Wednesday but "would like to try to vote Thursday."

Another incident involved a student who marked all four options on the ballot. Joel Preston, student in charge of referendum publicity, said, "A very ignorant and stupid poll worker erased three of the selections, leaving her choice on another voter's ballot." Preston said, "I don't think it will happen again."

Preston said the incident was reported by another voter who observed the poll worker erasing part of the ballot.

"We took quick action on both matters," Preston said. "'Frud and ballot box stuffing is nonexistent except for the SIU-Edwardsville Student Government." Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Thursday for students, including graduate students, to vote for the method by which they want a student trustee selected. Voters must have a Student ID card and current fee statement.

Filling places will be located at Lentz Hall at Thompson Point, Trueblood Hall at University Park, Grinnell Hall at Brush Towers, Student Center, Home Economics Building, Airport Technological Building, School of Technical Careers Student Center, Small Group Housing, Morris Library, Woody Hall and Wham Educational Building.

The four options available to students on the referendum are:

1. The student body president appoints the student trustee with ratification by the Student Senate and the Graduate Council (GSC).

2. A joint Student Government-GSC committee would develop a list of candidates with the Student Senate and GSC to vote from that list.

3. A joint Student Government-GSC committee would develop a list of candidates with the Student Senate and GSC to vote from that list.

4. A general student body election.

Preston said students can vote at any of the polling places but out-campus dorm residents must vote in their area. Dorm residents also need their meal ticket.

Fee statements are marked in some way by pollworkers to prevent students from voting more than once.

Preston said any student feeling the referendum is an important enough issue to lend any amount of time as the poll worker at stake. This will help increase the turnout and reduce the lines of those waiting to vote, he said.

Results of the referendum should be known by 8 p.m. Thursday.

Derge raps Faculty Senate delays on bid to allow alcohol on campus

By Marcia Ballard
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU President David R. Derge criticized the Faculty Senate Wednesday for failing to take a stand on allowing alcoholic beverages on campus.

In his third press conference this fall, Derge said he would wait on the Faculty Senate for its recommendation before sending an opinion to the Board of Trustees. The senate's original Oct. 16 deadline has been extended to Nov. 16.

Referring to a statement from the Graduate Council at an Oct. 18 meeting, Derge said, "They are what I would call a swift-moving body. Others are not so swift."

He also praised the University Senate for its "well-reasoned" recommendation on the drinking issue. The Student Senate is expected to submit its resolution this week. The Graduate Council decided not to act on the issue.

Student Senate approves WATS line bill

SIU students will be able to telephone Springfield for free starting in February. Following passage Wednesday of a Senate-Senate bill which would install a Newspaper Telephone Service (WATS) line in the Student Center, students will be able to call all students during regular Student Senate hours. SUU telephone supervisor Gordon Hanka said he obtained permission from Springfield to install the line. He said students will have lost their seats, Chairman Jim Kania said, has since moved. In Stamps, John Carnahan has resigned. A telephonic and Jim Kania, Housing Dean Biddle is longer in school. Barnhart has resigned, Ed Philpot and Jim Carnahan has lived in residence area which either them.

Senators and President Mike Carr's Student Government appointments were passed following recommendation by Internal Affairs Committee Chairman Reggie Cook.

Whitehead asks other senates to join Senate in probe of DE policies

By Terry Martin
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Fred Whitehead, assistant professor of English, said Wednesday he would like to see a joint investigation of Daily Egyptian editorial policies conducted by all three student senates.

Whitehead was the first witness as the Student Senate Academic Affairs Committee opened its own probe of DE policies.

He told the committee he has contacted all three senates about their only formal response he has received has been from the Student Senate.

Whitehead said Long told him "that the letter was "descending to personalities and it's 'blud out'."

Garry Seltzer, chairman of the committee, asked Whitehead why he didn't ask President Derge. Whitehead replied, "Why don't you send letters to the moon?"

Whitehead said he thinks the Daily Egyptian should either print all the letters or not print any.

"The Southern Illinoisan published the letter," he said. "One of the problems here (at the Daily Egyptian) is that many people will be intimidated. I don't know if the SIS is intimidated by Whitehead said.

Whitehead said the letter's rejection fits into a pattern that letters critical to President Derge will not be published. "What we have here is a line paper where students feel reluctant to do investigative reporting," Whitehead said. He told the committee most university papers are student-run. Whitehead suggested the Daily Egyptian be run by students with the staff of the paper being elected by students.

He urged the committee to contact all the persons responsible for the editorial policy of the Daily Egyptian to find out why the letter was rejected.

The committee plans to hold hearings Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Testimony and witnesses will be announced later.

Newsprint prices hiked to offset rising costs

NEW YORK (AP)—Canadian International Paper Co. announced Wednesday it was raising the price of its newspaper by about 14 per cent, which industry observers called the steepest price hike in recent years.

For American newsprint consumers, the major consumers of newspaper, this will mean a sizable addition to news costs.

Youth advisor expects unemployment to increase next year

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Herbert F. Stein of the President's Council of Economic Advisors said Wednesday he expects there may be some increase in unemployment next year but that increase will not be great.

Stein also said the rate of increase in food prices should slow sharply and will not be the major worry of the American household a year from now.

At a news briefing Stein said the economy should continue to grow next year at a rate that will avoid recession anywhere in Illinois free of charge during February, following passage Wednesday of a Senate-Senate bill which would install a Telephone Service (WATS) line in the Student Center. Students will be able to call all students during regular Student Senate hours. SUU telephone supervisor Gordon Hanka said he obtained permission from Springfield to install the line. Students will lose their seats, Chairman Jim Kania said, but the bills longer in school. Barnhart has resigned, Ed Philpot and Jim Carnahan has lived in residence area which either them.

Although unprepared for a formal speech, Ms. Kinsekk-Rainey emphasized two points of concern for graduate students. Job conditions for graduate assistants, she said, are under administrative review, and the GSC must work to establish the "status" of the assistants have with faculty members.

The question of another possibility also is important, Ms. Kinsekk-Rainey said. She pointed out graduate assistants as "as much or as little as the school they come from," and added that for the major school's graduate degree is important to both present and future students.

Sam Chapman was elected GSC Treasurer by acclamation. Nominating the motion, Ms. Kinsekk-Rainey said he was confirmed by a unanimous GSC acting President Richard Lohr said the post would be crucial to the allocation of graduate student fees in the next several months.

"Concerned constituencies ought to ponder on whether SU should have anything to do with this," Derge said.
Midest fronts calm after day of fighting

By The Associated Press

Israel reported calm on both Middle East war fronts Wednesday night. President Nixon was said to be confident the fragile U.N. truce is beginning to take hold.

Cairo radio said President Anwar Sadat of Egypt appealed to Nixon and the Soviet Communist leader, Leonid I. Brezhnev, to dispatch American and Russian troops to help secure the already mired ceasefire along the Suez front.

Egypt’s Middle East News Agency said Sadat also asked for an urgent U.N. Security Council meeting to discuss "repeated Israeli cease-fire violations" on both sides of the Suez Canal.

It was not clear whether the Egyptian appeals were made during the day, when fighting was reported still under way, or later.

In Washington, a White House spokesman said no request for U.S. troops had been received from Sadat.

"The United States has no intention of sending troops to the Middle East and we hope no other outside parties will send troops to the Middle East," the spokesman said.

The State Department said in Washington that the United States is ready to discuss with the Soviet Union a mutual reduction in their massive airlifts to the Arabs and the Israelis.

Israel military spokesmen said their tanks clashed in daylight with Egyptian armor and warplanes at the southern end of the Suez front in a try by Cairo to rescue Egyptian soldiers cut off in the Sinai Desert by an Israeli pincer maneuver.

But the Israeli briefers, Col. Machmam Karai, claimed the Egyptian attack was repulsed and the Egyptian 3rd Army remained on the eastern bank of the canal, ringed in by Israeli steel.

The Tel Aviv command first issued a communique accusing Egypt of a "massive" ground and air attack near Suez city at the southern end of the canal about seven hours after the second cease-fire took effect at 7 a.m.

But then Karai, in an evening briefing, appeared to play down the day’s action, depicting it as "a series of small actions" with a "quite noticeable" total effect.

His back-pedaling was not explained but appeared to be part of an Israeli effort to put a good face on the ceasefire.

Syria announced its acceptance of the new cease-fire on condition Israel withdraw from all Arab lands occupied in 1967 and thereafter.

The Israeli command claimed 15 Egyptian warplanes were knocked out of the sky over the Sinai as tank forces clashed below in the reported Egyptian attempt to extricate the 3rd Egyptian Army from the Sinai.

The Egyptians disputed Tel Aviv claims that Israeli invasion forces have carved a 750-square-mile foothold in the Egyptian heartland west of the canal.

The Egyptians denied their 3rd Army had been trapped as claimed by the Israeli state radio and said supplies to the entire Egyptian force east of the canal "were never interrupted."

"There is absolutely no enemy presence in any major town along the canal, including Suez, Ismallia and Port Said," a statement added.

Instructions for the Nightwatch

President Nixon's eleventh-hour release of the watergate tapes killed impeachment proceedings for the moment. Instead of the hastily summoned deathwatch over the Presidency, the country must now assume an alert vigil of concern through the long remainder of the Presidential night.

Face it, no one really likes the midnight shift. It gets boring, there is a tendency to drowse, and perception fails in the weary hours before the dawn. But the man on nightwatch is an important one. America must now emulate his continuous stage of quiet suspicion, and his ability to swiftly and surely react to trouble.

It's a job for steady nerves and a calm, methodical awareness of what the night may hold. The job requires a thankless devotion to responsibility and also a very sober skepticism. The nightwatch must be sharpened to a perfect edge of anticipation and caution.

Students & parking tickets

Recently I received a $2.00 parking ticket for "improper display of parking decal." Now I realize the necessity of traffic regulations designed to keep order, and thereby reduce accidents. I also realize the necessity of enforcing those regulations. However, here at S.I.U., we have two discrepancies. The parking regulations are not made to keep order and reduce accidents. They are designed, mainly, to discourage as many students as possible from operating a car on campus, and, secondly, they are designed to make as much money as possible from those that do. Consequently, enforcement of those regulations is consistent with those two goals.

Parking decal prices are high, ticket fines are stiff, and, of course, there is no such thing as a warning ticket, which brings me to the point of this letter.

There are a good many students who, I am sure, would take warning tickets seriously. These students actually want to comply with the regulations but may be unclear as to what they are. This isn't hard to understand since the vehicle regulations handbook is not the most clearly written material in the world. The junior college from which I transferred is a commuter college of about 5,000 students, most of which drive their own cars. In spite of this large number of cars, the first ticket issued for minor offenses is a warning ticket. The system works well because it gives the students that don't understand the laws time to comply with them. I see no reason why warning tickets could not be issued by S.I.U. policemen in the same manner.

Operating a car on campus is expensive enough without paying unnecessary fines for minor offenses which amount to no more than simple misunderstandings.

Keep the coffee hot, America. Nixon released the tapes and all seems well, but we can not be lulled into falling asleep at the switch. There is simply too much at stake.

The rounds must be paced out, slowly and thoroughly. Light must be shown into the corners of the night, and odd-looking boxes must be overturned: Vesco, Rebozo, ITT, the dairy deal, Elsberg, the Presidential homes, and other things. If Nixon is completely cleared, and if he can not be connected with any wrongdoing, America can retire for a deserved rest. But in the course of up-ending boxes and clear away suspicious debris, damning traces of Nixon's activities may be found. The alarm must then be swiftly sounded.

A sleepy guard is easily subdued. Rub your tired eyes, America, and brace up for a long, hard night.

Widely held misconception

To the Daily Egyptian:

The Rabbi Mr. Earl Vinecourt states a widely held misconception when he says Israel was invaded. Israel is aggressively holding Egyptian, Jordanian, and Syrian territories, and today Israel's forces continue to operate on foreign soil. Egypt can no more "invade" the Sinai, which belongs to Egypt, than the United States could invade Illinois.

Almost everyone in the United States and around the world wants peace in the Middle East, and that peace will come the sooner and last longer as soon as Israel gives back its 1967 military acquisitions and allows all displaced Palestinians to return to their homes on a basis of equal citizenship. These conditions for stable peace were foremost by Albert Einstein, and recently passionately reiterated by Bertrand Russell.

To the Daily Egyptian:

I just happened to glance through your fashion supplement on Friday while eating my ham sandwich. The articles seemed full of zip, with so if's, and's, or boots. Quite fittingly, your reporters wrote with their usual lack of bias—it was certainly nothing to scoff at. Hats off to them.

However, I must say that some parts were just next-sew. Although of course you can't suit everyone, I felt that certain important issues were skirted. One article in particular was simply laced with slipp.

I am not writing this just to needle you, but this does tear at the very fabric of our culture. Like my Dad used to say, "Where there's a wool there's a way." Otherwise, everything is a wajast.

So, in clothing, let just like to say, "Students, hear my plea! The legs you shave may be your own!"

This is no idle thread.

Why he voted against support of Saikis stables

To Daily Egyptian:

In rebuttal to Mr. David Miller’s article in the Daily Egyptian of October 18, 1972, I feel the public and government officials should be aware of the facts.

The failure of the Senate of Justice to act had nothing whatsoever to do with whether they thought the Saikis Stables should continue to operate. Mr. Perez’s approval was based almost solely on his personal emotional appeal. This is fine: I have no adverse feelings about horses, or the Saikis Stables. But what Mr. Perez failed to realize is that I am a representative of the students, and cannot vote my own personal feelings. Nor can I refuse to vote for the benefit of a student body. Second, Mr. Perez was unable to provide vital statistics in two areas: (1) when asked how many students made up the 3,000 signatures on his petition, he was unable to answer, (2) he estimated (to me) the number of about 8,000 people had used the stables, but was unable to report how many of those were students.

Based upon such replies, how is a senator appointed to represent the undergraduate students able to make such far-reaching decisions? This is why I was unable to provide with statistics showing that his constituency benefited or even used a facility that they may have voted to protect. Third, Mr. Perez should consider the students of this university are not prepared to have their rights committed in an area which is based solely on emotional appeal and cannot be supported by facts. Also, do you not find strange that Mr. Perez, as a member of a Senate committee, would not be familiar with the workings of the committee which is studying ways to keep the stables open, but had before the Senate meeting last Wednesday decided to vote for the Senate’s mandate (to table Saikis Stables) as being grossly exaggerated.

An introduction in defense

To the Daily Egyptian:

Dear Editor:

To define Philosophy, in terms explicit of our present knowledge, would be to undoubtably confuse it with any of the common conceptions of the subject’s rare true experiences. Yet a truthful attempt must be made to reconcile man with his real self. The dire knowledge available today is that everything that is written from the universe, and perhaps more sincerely from ourselves, remains unattainable power so widely used, and even more than our imagination, by means of a single perception, intimate and eternal which we yet have to discover residing within ourselves; still defend for. When we talk of the happenings of the day we find in ourselves a far off fantasy, some remote objective, unnecessary and inconsequential. We are in fact at the root of all that is; ourselves. In Philosophy we study and contemplate that template which is known by man and which that is the truest - the future. Man has found the way forward, the past, the present and the future. It is a study of those things that man is capable of experiencing. This is true. It is not logic only, nor aesthetics and metaphysics alone. True Philosophy is the search of wisdom, out of truth and pure love. It is the most wonderful search for those elusive principles, yet inaccessible to man, which govern the universe.

Above all it is dignified duty of Philosophy to aid mankind threaten the path leading to the ultimate. A man in his place of existence in the hereafter is something different from all the rest of areas. In fact it is the very nature of Philosophy to combine all the sciences, which are used to discover the true nature of things, and yet the people and the concept of MAN is it is the truest thing something different from all the rest of the areas. Philosophy empowered to treat poverty, disease and ignorance to eliminate them entirely. Seekers of truth can find the place to answer for that one and only soul. Life, as portrayed today, essentially unstable, a compilation of philosophies, arts, is yet incomprehensible, for uninvolved is the principle of truth and love, which results in a clarification of humanit.

Philosophers must not become obscure academic technicians, but must be able to express their thoughts in linguistic analyses. They must be in direct contact with humanity. Philosophy has in hand life and death, man and beast, sun and sky, body and soul, spirit and matter; it has come to conquer everything. Philosophy is the road that leads to the event, to begin to identify and label not only dissident sects as idealists and pragmatists, phenomenologists, idealists and more, but also to dissect and expound the world with too great a zest, they surely now find some need for man’s immediate disintegration and the world’s gradual dismemberment. One can graduate Philosophy into limited horizons or the world into too many particulars, but one must always examine everything within the conceptualism and whole. One cannot under any pretext call oneself anything else but a simple seeker after truth, man is the only, no matter what other name the objective is referred to, can undoubtedly secure an inestimable part in the world. One has missed the mark if one does not recognize oneself, or does not wish to recognize oneself. It would be a breach of the law of sanity if self-just. By being-as-being of oneself-one can discard the notion perpetrated by many that, “there are no answers, be brave and face up to it." Obviously the answer is there, let us rather be humble and not be fooled by our reasoning inadequacy, or ostensibly invent, perhaps more plausibly discover another ever present meaning in it. This is not a cause of contention but an answer, a grasp the ever affluent answer. The classic expression of the who, what, where, when, how, why, and from whom, free will and causation remain basically unanswered because ultimately it is up to the individual to pose his own delicate questions and answer them by his own true experiences in life.

Let us define true experience here, because too many times it is taken lightly with day to day problems. This, naturally our daily encounters are included, but true experience is intrinsically assembled by our minds with regard to our ancestral heritage and the evolution process, determining the already known past, present and the future to come and by identified individuals, that is by those who have mastered themselves and the universe through truth and love. They somehow have an inspirational honesty which philosophy’s immortal distinctions melt away into a kind of a universal “Where was I?” to which no one can say “I am so" but is so genius and is overwhelmed to discover that such a thing exists in this confused world. It’s cause is itself and the effects of it, is for each, such for the earnest seeker. It is there for the sincere devoted seeker, the true experience gives you an insight to the Absolute.

To become perfect one must experiment with perfection, not perfectionism. By reorienting to them in a different way, but by chairmen, the this includes the courage of the act itself. A more or less spiritual regeneration is essential, once this foundation is established all manner of new spirit is guaranteed.

The absolute when realized has one in fact reached the total understanding of the man. All thoughts, caricatures of the world, economic, political, social etc., are automatically taken care of as has now transcended and has finally come to oneself the objective and the subjective in one. When the subjectivism is understood by the observer, the objective is superseded by the supreme self, the self is that, and then only can the human realize his divinity’s true origin or the commencement of his existence.

Dear Editor:

I was very much taken aback in my opposition to the Miss Southern contest on the basis that: 1) it is co-ordinated by the Greek Council and should be held, but no rights, be a Miss Southern contest, 2) it is not open to all students, and 3) controversy and racial stigmas caused a lot of discussion and it is better to break it back.

While my views, I would have accepted the Senate’s mandate (as I and the other Senators who left, in the past), had it been arrived at fairly. There is no point in my myopic or irrational views and opinion mean nothing. I will not tolerate the destruction of my principles, that is a reason for my views and given the exact same circumstances, I would walk out again.

On Watergate, Middle East

Nixon schedules news conference tonight

By Jean Heller
Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP)—Saying he was too busy with the Middle East crisis, President Nixon canceled a planned Wednesday news conference on the Watergate tapes controversy.

He promised instead, a Thursday night news conference.

One of the most anticipated of the tape controversies, Actting Atty. Gen. Robert H. Bork on Wednesday said that he would fight the White House in court if necessary to obtain transcripts of Nixon's tapes on the Watergate grand jury and would resign if he was fired. Nixon was taped during the hearing.

The White House denied the claim.

The White House announced in its usual manner that the Grand Jury which may yield evidence for a possible trial in connection with Nixon's secret war in Cambodia.

Which may yield evidence for a possible trial in connection with Nixon's secret war in Cambodia.

The tapes initially were supposed to be returned to the grand jury by special Watergate prosecutor Ar- nalard Co ax who Nixon fired last Saturday. It was that firing, coupled with the resignation of Atty. Gen.

"I hope it is expedient," Albert said of the inquiry. "and I hope it lays this thing to rest one way or another."

Albert noted the House Judiciary Committee had been mandated to make inquiries into impeachment charges against Nixon. The committee's chairman, Rep. Peter W. Rodino, Dr. D. M. J., said it was possible his panel would subpoena administration records for use in its proceedings.

At the same time, the Senate Judiciary Committee set a public hearing for next Monday to question Cox about his ouster as special Watergate prosecutor.

After a two-hour closed session, the committee said it did not discuss calling other witnesses but chairman James O. Eastland, D-M., said he felt the panel would also want to question Richardson, and Ruckelshaus, who were forced from office after refusing to carry out Nixon's order to fire Cox.

During the closed committee session, action was blocked on a resolution by a group of Democratic liberals on the panel. The resolution called on Nixon to release Cox temporarily until Congress acts on "legislation to provide for an independent Watergate prosecutor not subject to presidential dismissal."

In another development, AFL-CIO President George Meany called again for either Nixon's resignation or impeachment. The AFL-CIO, meeting in Florida, has passed a resolution Monday demanding that Nixon resign or be removed from office.

"The events of the last several days prove the dangers emotional instability of the President," Meany said in a statement released Wednesday.

The White House immediately Meany's charge about Nixon "in- credible, preposterous and irresponsible" and said Nixon's health was excellent. The event of Tuesday to which Meany referred was Nixon's promise of compliance with the court order that he turn over subpoenaed tapes and documents for review in the John J. Sirica.

Although Nixon attorney Charles Alan Wright told Sirica the material would be transmitted as soon as possible, it apparently had not reached the judge by Wednesday afternoon. In an interview, Sirica said he was happy with Nixon's decision to turn over the material.

Even though Sirica will get the tapes, it seems apparent that it would be months until the public finds out what is on them — if the public ever finds out at all. Sirica will listen to the tapes alone and secretly. If he deems any material on them to be evidence needed by the Watergate grand jury, he will give the panel that material.
The governor said the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Chicago is expected to be granted about $214.5 million, less than its full $250 million entitlement. If the district were to receive its full share for all its projects on the high priority list, there would be no money left for anyone else, Walker said. He said a series of public meetings will be conducted by the Illinois EPA early in November to explain its procedures in establishing a priority list for funding projects.

Walker also announced that $2 million would be spent on a training course for sewage treatment plant operators at Southern Illinois University's Edwardsville campus. He said another $3 million will be used for planning future water pollution control measures in Illinois.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Daniel Walker said Wednesday $430 million in grants will go to Illinois municipalities and sanitary districts for improvement of sewage treatment plants and sewer collection lines.

Walker said the money will be distributed according to a priority list developed by the state Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). He said he anticipates that sewage treatment and collection projects in most 100 communities and sanitary districts will be funded during the current fiscal year.

The program includes $190 million in state funds and an estimated $225 million in federal funds.

The state money comes from a $75 million antipollution bond issue approved by Illinois voters in a 1970 referendum, the governor's office said.

Walker said that except in Chicago, the grants will pay 75 percent of the cost of projects funded from the priority list. He said the local communities and sanitary districts are required to provide the remaining 25 percent.

The SIU Canoe and Kayak Club will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Student Center Activities Room A. The club's constitution committee will report on progress in drafting a formal club operating paper. In addition, slides and a talk will be presented by a member of an area canoe club who specializes in recreating trips made by French explorers.

About 30 people, most with a fair amount of experience, turned out for the club's organizational meeting a week ago, said Alden Addington, faculty sponsor. He invited anyone interested in canoeing or kayaking to attend the meeting Thursday night.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Daniel Walker said Wednesday $430 million in grants will go to Illinois municipalities and sanitary districts for improvement of sewage treatment plants and sewer collection lines.

Walker said the money will be distributed according to a priority list developed by the state Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). He said he anticipates that sewage treatment and collection projects in most 100 communities and sanitary districts will be funded during the current fiscal year.

The program includes $190 million in state funds and an estimated $225 million in federal funds.

The state money comes from a $75 million antipollution bond issue approved by Illinois voters in a 1970 referendum, the governor's office said.

Walker said that except in Chicago, the grants will pay 75 percent of the cost of projects funded from the priority list. He said the local communities and sanitary districts are required to provide the remaining 25 percent.

Help available for house hunters

By Randy McCarthy
Daily Herald Writer
Handbooks cataloging advice for students seeking off-campus housing will be distributed Thursday in the Student Center by the Student Tenant Union (STU). Lyke Williams, STU president said, Wednesday.

The handbooks advises students on what to look for when house hunting, gives her duties and rights of the landlord, explains the workings of the small claims court and includes a copy of a housing contract.

The handbooks also will be available at the Office of the STU in Barracks T-60, the Office of Off-Campus Housing in Washington Square and the Ombudsman's Office, Williams said.

STU is working on a questionnaire asking students about the problems they've encountered after moving off-campus and seeking to control their general reactions to this move, he said. The survey will be administered to student renters late this year or in January, he said. Williams said the STU office is open as much as possible, but the group is understaffed. "Anyone interested in joining is welcome," he said. Williams said he hopes the office will be open from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Illinois House fails to override Walker's veto of pollution bill

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) The Illinois House failed Wednesday to override Gov. Daniel Walker's veto of a bill which would have limited the state's power to control pollution caused by grain, elevator operations.

Acting on a motion to override on a bill sponsored by Rep. Webber Borchers, R-Decatur, the House fell well short of the 2/3 vote needed. The vote was 41-63 with seven lawmakers voting cast votes of present. Borchers, who sponsored the bill, said he intended to limit the power of the state Pollution Control Board and the Environmental Protection Agency, forbing them to impose penalties and standards which exceed federal standards for grain elevator operations.

In his veto message, Walker Register-Mail's Pritchard dies

GALVESTON, Ill. (AP)—Mrs. Elbert Pritchard, 77, publisher of the Galveston Register-Mail since 1962, died Wednesday at St. Mary's Hospital. She had been in failing health for a number of years. Mrs. Pritchard was the fifth member of her family to serve as publisher of the Register-Mail at the same time she became publisher of Galveston Broadcasting Co., which operates radio station WGEL.

argued that a procedure has been set up in the pollution laws of the state to enable individual grain elevator operators to obtain permission to operate in violation of pollution control standards when it is economically unfeasible to comply with them. Borchers said that the EPA is often insensitive to the needs of rural residents and that the current air pollution laws imposed by the state may put every elevator in the small towns of Illinois out of business.

The measure was one of several which Borchers had sponsored in the Spring session, to limit the powers of the state pollution control bodies.

Harris says Senate will approve tax cut

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) - Senate President William C. Harris says Republicans will move Thursday to approve a reduction in the state sales tax that has been strongly opposed by Gov. Daniel Walker, a Democrat.

The bill is cut is favored by House Speaker W. Robert Blair, who has linked it to a plan to fund a Regional Transit Authority for the Chicago area.

The House, which adjourned Wednesday for the weekend, could not begin consideration of the Blair plan until next week if it passes the Senate.

Turkey prices won't hit $1 a lb, say experts

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) - Holiday turkey prices won't jump to $1 a pound as predicted earlier, an expert said Wednesday.

Henry Turner, manager of the California Turkey Federation here, now says the forecast birds will be selling for a lot less than the $1 a pound he predicted last week.

"It's kind of eerie to tell exactly what kind of prices we'll have for the holiday, but right now I'd say it won't come near $1 a pound," Turner said.

But a firm prediction on prices is difficult, Turner said, because the market is "completely unstable," said Ben Ragan, senior marketing specialist for Federal-State Market News in Fresno.

Part of the instability is because California turkey producers don't want to be caught with higher prices than out-of-state birds.

Ragan said live turkeys are selling for 41 to 44 cents a pound for live young hens and 46 to 47 cents a pound for young toms. Last year the market at this time was three to seven cents lower.

Last Thanksgiving turkeys were selling for as little as 35 cents a pound, but both Ragan and Turner say shoppers won't find prices that low this year.

override a Walker veto of a no-fault insurance bill, and the House sustained a veto of a bill to limit the state's power to control pollution "caused by grain elevators."

Sen. Harry Fawell, R-Naperville, fell five votes short of overriding the veto of his no-fault insurance bill. Walker had complained the bill did not achieve many goals of no-fault advocates.

Mr. Harris said the Republican majority also will block movement of a rival Walker tax relief plan to refund $150 to every Illinois resident. The governor also has linked his tax cut plan creation of an RTA.

Walker's proposal for an RTA has been referred to the Senate Transportation Committee. Sen. John Connelly, R-Waukegan, committee chairman, said no hearing has been scheduled.

"But I am sure we will want to give it a full hearing," he said.

In other action Wednesday, the Senate turned down an effort to override the veto of the grain elevator bill by Rep. Walker Bokan. If the bill fell far short of the 48 votes needed.

The vote was 57-47, with seven other legislators casting votes of present.

Borcher's bill attempted to forbid the state Environmental Protection Agency from imposing air pollution standards for grain elevators higher than any federal standards.

In his veto, Walker said grain elevators could petition the EPA to be exempted from state standards.

The measure was one of several

Borcher had sponsored in the spring session to limit the powers of the state's pollution control boards.

Borcher said the EPA often ignores the needs of rural residents and its current rules "may put every elevator in the small towns of Illinois out of business."
Freed after 26 years

Term for indecent exposure ends

By Cheryl Debes
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—John Harris is a free man today after spending 26 years in Illinois prisons for a charge of indecent exposure.

His lawyer said he had been convicted of murder, he could have been paroled 10 years ago and prison records show he should have been released four years after he was imprisoned.

Harris, 56, was arrested in 1946 on a city disorderly conduct charge of exposing himself. The charge carried a maximum $50 fine. But he was prosecuted under the state "criminal sexual psychopathic persons" act because he had previously served six years of a 10-year penitentiary sentence for rape.

Under the act, he was tried by a jury and committed in 1947 to Menard State Penitentiary. The act said he would stay in prison until a "psychiatric-priest" or psychiatrist was "recovered."

Then he could petition a court for his release.

Paul Bradley, Harris' lawyer, said the law does not provide for a maximum sentence, so Harris was never eligible for parole. Had he been convicted of murder, Bradley said, he would have been eligible in 11 years and three months.

But Harris, reports showed Harris wasn't dangerous. But Warden Vernon Housewright of the Vandalia Correctional Center, where Harris was most recently confined, said Harris "was considered at one time to be somewhat mentally deficient."

"The psychiatrist's report says he could be released with supervision, but they couldn't find a place to put him. There were people within the prison system who were concerned with him."

"But what psychiatrist is going to say this guy is absolutely recovered? Once he's declared sexually dangerous, it's a different deal."

Housewright said as early as 1951 and 1952 psychiatric reports stated that Harris "has shown no overt sexual activities" and "has never been a problem in the institution."

This year, Menard psychiatrist Frank Perez wrote, "Psychiatric evaluations done repeatedly by me in the last years, going back to 1967, have indicated only a need for minimum supervision and provision of basic daily needs."

Harris said he wanted to get out and tried several times to petition for his release. But Bradley said apparently the petitions were never handled by a lawyer and were sent to the wrong courts.

"Early this year, Harris was transferred to the state's minimum security prison at Vienna. The chaplain there, Herbert Berman, located relatives in the South by placing advertisements in local newspapers."

"His relatives all wondered what ever happened to Uncle John," Housewright said. "He was doing fine here, so we brought the case to the attention of Allyn Field, department of correction's director. The department cooperated in getting his release."

So Harris is free.

"It's a new world. I'm going down to Georgia to spend the rest of my days on a farm with my people," said Harris, a portly white-haired man as he walked out of court.

Carnegie peace group will conduct interviews on Thursday at library

A representative of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, Michelle Geyle, will interview students at 2:30 p.m. Thursday in the Morris Library lounge for the purpose of promoting interest in the program.

"Our central concept," explained project directors Roger Morris and Don McIlwain, "is that foreign policy decisions can be approached, explained and hopefully made more accountable by techniques similar to those supplied so successfully in public interest research work on domestic issues."

The Carnegie Endowment for International Peace is now seeking for qualified students to work in Washington, D.C., beginning in January 1974 and continuing throughout the year. Students are being sought from a wide variety of backgrounds, and the only essential qualifications are a general commitment to the public interest. Fellowshipships are $400 monthly, plus travel-expenses to and from Washington. Whenever possible, academic credit is provided, since all project directors hold requisite academic credentials.

Although new projects have not been selected, yet the possibilities range from a study of U.S. foreign policy toward Tibet to a project on the liberation movements in South America.

Each project is headed by a director who has wide practical experience in the area concerned. The director is teamed with approximately five students from various universities across the country.

The work will be equivalent to an intensive semester of more than 400 pages. The individual and project needs. Student participants in projects has, in the past, ranged from three to nine months. There will be background reading, extensive documentary research, interviews with government sources, a paper on various aspects of the study, periodic oral and written reports on the progress of the work and at least weekly team meetings. Students should count on putting in at least a 10-hour week, with some spill-over to evenings and weekends.

Undergraduates, recent graduates, graduate students and law students may apply. The program is not open to foreign students.

Indo-china talk slated

William Turley, assistant professor at the Center for Vietnamese Studies at the University of Washington, will discuss Vietnamese strategy and Indo-China cease-fire at 7:00 p.m. Thursday. He will speak in the Student Center Auditorium Rooms C and D.

Turley visited Vietnam on two different occasions. In 1962-63, he conducted independent research in Vietnam while he was a student at the University of Washington. Last year, Turley was a visiting professor at Saigon University working as a Ford Foundation Research associate.

The lecture is being sponsored by the Asian Studies Association.

With Dr. Turley’s background, “I have a sense of what the Chinese are doing in their public relations program.” Mike Duncan, vice president of the Asian Studies Association, said.

The lecture will be followed by a question and answer session. Duncan said both are open to the public.

Dance troupe tiptoes through Carbondale

By Dave Sturman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer
and Mike Hawley

Perhaps you were wondering why four silver-toed tap dancers were performing across the street from MacDonald's. Or why crowds of people were being led around Carbondale by a short man with a strangely walking gait?

Well, it was Loni Gordon's new Southern Repertory Dance Theater show, "Dance from the Summer." They performed Wednesday afternoon.

Sylvia Zei's "Weeds," performed on Furr Hill to the audience that sat about 25 feet from the dancers, exhibited the meticulous timing and precise judgement necessary for group interaction in a large area.

The last dance in the show, "It's Burned," by Morgan Smith was among the more entertaining pieces, for Smith's performance had a touch of irony and a lot of spirit as he danced around the rubble of a burned down house.

Despite a graceful style, it was difficult to capture Judy Doolittle's agitated gestures.

The audience that Wednesday lunched to the "Memorandum of Ladads," Doolittle was satirizing Mrs. Goodman, a controversial figure in modern dance.

The audience was led to a few of the dances via short performances by the "doodlers." The best of these short pieces was a Bushy Berkley-style tap dance on the sidewalk south of the Home Economics Building across the street from MacDonald's.

As for the other dances, they were less notable. Why keep enumerating them? If one could adequately describe them in words, the dances wouldn't be necessary.

Women rally, demand shorts in Tuesday night jockey raid

In apparent retaliation for the panty raid early Tuesday, some 500 women staged a jockey raid 5:30 p.m. Tuesday at Schneider Hall.

SIU police reported the women massed outside Schneider began marching around the building and were soon joined by 150 men, police said.

The crowd then stopped on the west side of the hall and began chanting for jockey shorts.

 реактор in similar fashion to their female counterparts in the previous raid, participants of Schneider looked out their windows as they stood on chairs and yelled.

London attempts early prediction of area headlines

Homecoming '73 activities may send a shiver up your spine when Mustang Mark V Loon throws open at 9 p.m. Thursday in the Student Center Ballrooms.

Homecoming Chairman Thomas Brackett will unlock a strength containing predictions made earlier by London of Thursday's headlines in the Daily Egyptian and Southern Illinoisan.

The lunchbox has been kept under 34-hour guard at SIU's Security Office. Brackett said it will be brought to the ballrooms Thursday night in a security car with flashing sirens and flashing lights.

"Nobody ever has the right 85 per cent of the time," Brackett said.

"After I open the strength, London will do a Kregel-like mind-reading act for members of the audience.

"Reportedly, he can look at someone and tell where the person is from, what his initials are, things like that," Brackett said. Admission is free.

There will be a free movie, "Gamer," starring Katherine Ross, at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Ballrooms.

"All Star Frogs" will play for a dance from 9:30 to 11:30 p.m. Thursday in the Roman Rooms of the Student Center.

How you express yourself depends upon your camera.

Today almost everybody is getting into photography. And it's not the snapshot but people are doing sports stories, nature stories, portraits — you may even have a friend who's doing photographs through a microscope. Or a telescope.

You also know that everybody has his own idea about which camera is best. That's why it's important for you to know about the Canon F-1.

Because it's the system camera that's fast becoming the favorite of professionals. And the new status symbol among photography enthusiasts.

The whole F-1 system includes over 40 lenses and 200 accessories. It's capable of doing virtually everything in photography. So whatever idea you have for a picture, the F-1 has the equipment to make sure you get it.

Because it was conceived from the beginning as a system, it works as a system. All the elements are quickly and easily interchangeable. No matter which lens or accessory you use with the F-1 body you won't have the feeling that something has been "tacked on."

What's more the F-1 is comfortable to handle. Years of research went into the design of the F-1 body and placement of controls so your fingers fall naturally into place. You'll appreciate this comfort when you're on assignment. It's also an important thing to keep in mind if you're planning a trip or a long sequence of pictures you plan to keep a long time.

Canon dominates in the optics industry over 37 years. We make microscope equipment, amateur and professional movie cameras and TV lenses. It's this experience that helps make our still cameras the best selling cameras in Japan. In America, it's just a matter of time.

See your dealer for more information. He'll also show you Canon's other SLR cameras, like the FTb and TLb. Both of which offer accurate metering, easy film loading, a wide range of lenses and the same standard of engineering that goes into the F-1.
Unity for Zambia stressed

By Leonard Nyken Jr.
Student Writer

"One Zambia, one language, one nation," was the theme of Muhanga Kashoki's lecture on "Language in Zambia" held recently in the Morris Library Auditorium.

Kashoki, a senior research fellow from the Institute for African Studies, University of Zambia, stressed the importance of a common language in Zambia and other African countries to succeed in building a nation.

He cited diversity of language and culture as being the greatest barrier against "national integration." "National integration is the process of unifying all cultures and languages into one sameness, one oneness," Kashoki said.

Another barrier against "national integration" is tribalism, he said. "Social, natural, and political integration conjures up nightmares of tribalism. Tribalism is an epidemic. It's never talked about but its prejudices are brought up in almost every conversation."

Kashoki said in Zambia, a country in South Africa, there are eight different tribal languages and most of them belong to the Bantu language group. He then contrasted Zambia with Gambia, a country in West Africa where 21 tribal languages are spoken.

Kashoki said that in Zambia emphasis is placed on the operations efficiency of a language. "In other words English is the language we use for our formal operations efficiency functions while our native language has a interpersonal function."

Kashoki said that Zambia's problems are related to language and finding "an honorable route to the future for national integration."

U.S. Forest Service scientists of the Forest Science Laboratory are authors of two publications of the North Central Forest Experiment Station which deal with growth and improvement, of black walnut timber. The laboratory is a field research unit of the station which has headquarters at St. Paul, Minn.

Calvin F. Rey, a geneticist, is author of Forest Service Research Paper NC-91 reporting on "Growth of Black Walnut Trees in Eight Midwestern States: A Provenance Test." Craig K. Lasche, soil scientist with the laboratory, prepared Forest Service Research Note NC-154 claiming that "Black Walnut Growth Is Better on Deep, Well-Drained Bottomland Soils." Rey pointed out that several growth factors must be considered in selecting for superior quality black walnut trees. In gathering seed stock, he suggested that trees grown from seed collected from as much as 300 miles south of the growing site produce taller trees with larger diameter faster than those from seed collected in the growing area or north of the site.

Lasche's studies showed that black walnut timber will grow faster and larger on designated sites that have good internal drainage because root systems are more extensive and go deeper than in shallow soils or those with some internal drainage problem.

Judge to review tapes

Sircia to hear Watergate tapes soon, review contents

By Harry F. Rosenblum

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — One day soon, Federal Judge John J. Sirica will become the nation's premier reviewer of tape recordings. His task: to seek incriminating material and, perhaps, to test the veracity of the President of the United States.

"It's part of my job to do this," Sirica said Wednesday, shrugging his shoulders. "I'll do my very best.

Sirica, the 60-year-old chief judge of the U.S. District Court, isn't a man to duck an issue. He feels the pressure—it's been there all year—but it doesn't worry him.

While the rest of official Washington wondered last weekend what he would do if President Nixon persisted in refusal to turn over the controversial tapes, Sirica was off to Connecticut on a fatherly task: seeing about college for his daughter.

"Today, when Nixon lawyer Charles Alan Wright announced the President's astounding reversal on the tapes, Sirica's face showed his surprise.

"I was happy the President did what he did," Sirica said in an interview as he tackled the technical problems of his self-imposed chore: How to listen to the tapes, where, with what security and what help. "I think it was a great thing for the country, a great act," he said of the Nixon decision. "It relieved the nation. It relieved me."

During the trial of the seven Watergate conspirators last January, Sirica exercised his judicial prerogative in pushing for revelations. He deferred final decisions for six of the defendants as a club to make them talk.

Others have credited Sirica's tenacity with opening the mind-numbing flood of developments. Asked about this, he almost dictates his reply:

"The judge never made a statement that he should be given any credit for what happened since the trial of the original seven defendants," he said. "People said it. I didn't."

Each time there is a news development, Sirica's office receives sacks of mail and telegrams—messages by the thousands from the public, other judges, law students. Tuesday alone brought 156 telegrams.

Bud Drinkers, can you figure this out?

Ralph bought a 6-pak of Budweiser, and invited four friends over to share it. Since he bought, he expected to have two cans to himself, but unfortunately when he returned to the refrigerator for his second, he found it missing. So he asked who took it. Al said, "Joe drank it." Joe said, "Dan drank it." Dan said, "Joe, that's a lie!" And Bill said, "I didn't drink it." If only one of these statements is true, who really drank it?
Derge suggests link between resignations, discrimination

By Diane Miletaha

A possible link between the resignations of three members of the Affirmative Action Committee, Academic Affairs and the Marita Canut-Amorus sex discrimination complaint against SIU was suggested Wednesday by SIU President David R. Derge.

The former members of the board and Ms. Canut-Amoros have insisted there was no conflict to co-ordinate the resignations with the presentation of Ms. Canut-Amoros' case to the Illinois Fair Employment Practices Commission (FEPC).

At a press conference, Derge said, "The timing of the resignations bewidered me somewhat. No notice of the joint resignation reached Khalil, who will leave, until after the press conference. It is my understanding that the resignations were presented to the Board of Trustees and the university's administration.''

During his press conference, Derge expressed regret that "some members had to resign from the board."

Derge noted the board had been charged with the responsibility of preparing an Affirmative Action plan for Academic Affairs as part of SIU's Affirmative Action Plan which must reach the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare by Oct. 31. "Many of them (the board members) were not of town or out of the country on vacation while the plan was being formulated," Derge said.

Derge said he first heard of the resignations while testifying at the FEPC hearing on Oct. 16, when Sylvia Roberts, attorney for Ms. Canut-Amoros, questioned him about the matter.

Learning of the resignations while on the witness stand, Derge said, "led me to wonder whether there were games being played I did not understand."

Ms. Canut-Amoros, a former professor of engineering and technology, said Wednesday she told her attorney about the resignations during a recess.

"I heard about it from faculty members in the hearing room during recess," Ms. Canut-Amoros said. The faculty members were not members of the Affirmative Action Board.

"My attorney brought the matter up at that time. Everyone wants to give the impression of having an Affirmative Action program at SIU! The resignations show this is not currently happening," Ms. Canut-Amoros said.

Canut-Amoros, professor of women's physical education and resigned chairman of the Affirmative Action Board, called any assumption of a connection between the resignation and the hearing "an absolute error." Ms. Thorne denied informing Ms. Roberts or Ms. Canut-Amoros of the resignations.

Elizabeth Eames, professor of philosophy, also of the resignations. Both of whom joined Ms. Thorne in resigning, also denied the link inspired by Derge.

Successor for Cox sought by Senate

CHICAGO (AP)—Sen. Charles H. Percy said Wednesday he will introduce legislation next year to impeach President Nixon and possibly to open another special prosecutor to investigate Watergate and campaign spending.

Percy told a news conference that President Nixon should fire any aide who advised him on the course of action that led to the resignation of Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson and the firings of special prosecutor Archibald Cox and William Ruckelshaus, deputy U.S. attorney general.

The Illinois Republican said he would accept the same guidelines that existed for Cox in the case of another prosecutor. He said Cox, Richardson, Ruckelshaus and the presidents of Harvard or the University of Chicago would make "eminently qualified" special prosecutors.

Percy said the selection of another special prosecutor "must be subject to the approval of Congress and the man must feel responsible to the Congress."

Percy said he believes the President's decision to turn over tapes related to Watergate to a federal judge "avoided the immediate pressure ... for impeachment proceedings."

He added that he believes it would be prudent of the court to certify that the tapes were not altered." Percy said, "but it would be prudent of the court to have tapes checked." Percy said the Congress can empower a judge or grand jury to empower a special prosecutor. He predicted what would happen if the President vetoed such legislation.

"If vetoed, it can be overridden," he said.

Percy said there is "tremendous erosion in the confidence of the presidency."

Stress added to the office are overloading the administration.

Percy was asked if he feels Cox was fired because he was investigating areas which might embarrass the President.

"I think that would be a good question to ask the President at his news conference Thursday. I think that is very much in people's minds," Percy said.

Mrs. Derge describes China trip

By Marilyn Stine

Student Writer

From Peking duck to silk brocade, the Forbidden City to Red Square, Patti Derge said she enjoyed her trip to China.

Addressing a Lunch and Learn session Wednesday in the Student Center, Mrs. Derge, wife of SIU President David Derge, delivered a slide presentation. "A Female Look at China.

Mrs. Derge accompanied her husband on a 23-day trip to China last June with two U.S. basketball teams.

"Everywhere we went we were greeted with warm receptions," she said. "Everywhere, there were lessons about culture and history."

Mrs. Derge said her favorite part of the trip was a visit to Mao's mausoleum. "I'm sorry," she said. "I'm sorry for Mao."

Stable support urged;
Saddle Club assists

Chances to talk about horses and to urge petitions favoring Sa luki Stables continued operation are part of Sa luki Stables Day, beginning at 8 a.m. Friday.

The Stables and the Sa luki Saddle Club are sponsoring the day-long event to acquaint people with Sa luki Stables. Members of the club and a number of stable horses will be on hand in the Free Forum Area between the Student Center and the Illinois 51 overpass.

In addition to seeking support for keeping the Stables open, the event is aimed at publicizing the Sa luki Stables operation, which includes rental of riding horses to students and the public.

Scheduled to close Nov. 15, the Stables need "all the help we can get," said Rich Lange, Sa luki Saddle Club member. He said there will also be a survey of students to see if there is support for having University riding classes held at the Stables.

9 die on turnpike in New Jersey fog

KEARNY, N.J. (AP) - At least nine persons were killed and more than 40 injured Wednesday in a series of chain-reaction accidents caused by dense fog and smoke on the heavily-traveled New Jersey Turnpike, police said.

Three major pile-ups and dozens of smaller crashes were reported in the pre-dawn hours along a section of the busy roadway between Newark and New York. Police said heavy fog and smoke from a swamp fire had reduced visibility to near zero.

State police said the death toll could go higher once the wreckages were completely cleared from the largest of the major accidents.

Through much of the pre-dawn Wednesday police had reported 11 deaths from the series of accidents. They later revised the figure to nine, saying one death had been counted twice and that confusion had occurred.

"There is still confusion regarding the number of fatalities," said Sgt. G. WITSU-FM

SDX disputes decision

CHICAGO (AP) - Sigma Delta Chi SDX, national professional journalism society, said Wednesday that the Sigma Delta Chi Board of Directors has long since resolved the issue of student versus professional debate. By a 10-1 vote Tuesday refused to review an appeal by two Baton Rouge, La., reporters who seek the public forum for disloying a court order that prohibits public participation in open court.

A federal appeals court held that newsmen Larry Dickinson and Gil Allen should have obeyed an order by Judge E. Gordon West of the federal court for an unconstitutional "prior restraint" on the press.

William C. Payette, Sigma Delta Chi national president, and the Supreme Court's decision "could have a stifling effect on the right of public to information that occurs in matters that occur in public" and that it was "a damaging precedent that the Supreme Court should reconsider." he added.

Payette said the news of the appeal was in circulation in the "press" and that "under this ruling, a judge could arbitrarilily silence the press while appeals are pursued."

"It is in this light that the judges are now being told that they may violate the First Amendment by preventing press coverage of a decision that constitutional right," he said.

Some college press officers warned of "a threat in the court's action," Payette continued. "They are trying to prevent public on matter of far greater importance than the Sigma Delta Chi national headquarters in Chicago.

9 die on turnpike in New Jersey fog

KEARNY, N.J. (AP) - At least nine persons were killed and more than 40 injured Wednesday in a series of chain-reaction accidents caused by dense fog and smoke on the heavily-traveled New Jersey Turnpike, police said.

Three major pile-ups and dozens of smaller crashes were reported in the pre-dawn hours along a section of the busy roadway between Newark and New York. Police said heavy fog and smoke from a swamp fire had reduced visibility to near zero.

State police said the death toll could go higher once the wreckages were completely cleared from the largest of the major accidents.

Through much of the pre-dawn Wednesday police had reported 11 deaths from the series of accidents. They later revised the figure to nine, saying one death had been counted twice and that confusion had occurred.

"There is still confusion regarding the number of fatalities," said Sgt. G. WITSU-FM

United States in Canada Gymnasts to represent

For the first time SIU’s gymnasts will venture forth as a joint gymnastics team. SIU represents the United States in the Canadian International Ad-hocional Gymnastic Competition in Victoria, British Columbia, on Saturday.

Besides the United States, Japan, Holland and Canada will be represented in an exhibition of competitive gymnastics of an international nature.

Stephanie Stromer, a sophomore in physical education, and Dianne Grayson and Sarah Grota of the Student World Games in Russia, leads the list of the women members of the team.

Stromer will be joined by SIU freshmen Dianne Grayson and Sarah Grota to form the female half of the United States team.

Gary Morava, SIU’s outstanding senior and this year’s high scorer, has been an impressive leader. Lambert said, “but we’re very pleased with the improvement. We’re interested in conditioning and improving the scoring, filling out the practice schedule. Our first big step is to single out the top seven or eight members.”

Lambert has already mentioned several players who will be impressed and who can be very good, and he has high expectations for junior Joe Merriweather, Dennis Strother, and Gary Akers, a sophomore from last year who Lambert said has shown rapid improvement.

This year’s basketball team is full of promise. They have many of the newcomers are also showing well.

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — A free coloring book for teeny tots is being offered by the Bureau of Travel Development, Department of Commerce, South Office Building, Room S-107, in this city. The two-color book for children of pre-school age portrays the state of Pennsylvania for Little People.

The book is a reproduction of a colorful, detailed map of the state for biggers.

Small fry also get a packet of coupons which will be distributed by the family car stops at any of the state’s nine tourist information centers, located at the major highways.

On spending spree

NEW YORK (AP) — Business investment in 1973 is going to be spectacular with spending plans for new factories totaling $70 billion, according to the 26th Annual Survey of Business Plans for New Plants.

The survey, conducted by the Economist Intelligence Unit, Hill Publication Co., reports that the nearly $71 billion rate in U.S. business plans for this year dwarfs all previous investment plans in previous years.

It represents an increase of more than 30 percent over the 1972 rate, the highest percentage gain planned since the spring 1970, when business investment was expected to be up 36 percent.

Basketball practice to start Dec. 1

Although the SIU basketball season won’t start until December, practice has already begun and Coach Greg Lambert seems pleased with the results.

Lambert said, “We’re always, the first week of practice is very important. We’re interested in conditioning and improving the scoring, filling out the practice schedule. Our first big step is to single out the top seven or eight members.”

Harriers dig in for second season

By John Morrissey

Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Coach Lew Hartog leads his rapidly improving harriers into the fourth year of the meet this Saturday. With the dual season coming to an end this year, the harriers have a chance to dig their spikes into the championship meet this Saturday, commencing with Illinois Intercollegiate in November. Hartog has spent this year by Illinois State at Normal.

Last year SIU ran away with the team and individual crown on the strength of a phenomenal 1:00-40 finish. Geryy, Craig, Dave Hill, Geryy Hinton and Jack St. John, all ran personal bests to lead them and the only team until they had to fall down near the end of the race. According to Tom Follin, they undoubtedly registered the highest sixth man, the team from Western Illinois, in the intercollegiate Meet for some time.

This year is a whole new story, though. Craig and Follin are back, but injury or attrition has wiped out all SIU’s placers in between.

Hartog has had to develop new talent in the form of freshmen Jerry George, Richard Bacewicz and sophomore Gary Mantle’s. Freshman Pat Cook has also come along rapidly for the Saikus.

The University of Illinois fell asleep in last year’s meet and finished fifth, but this year they have emerged as the strong favorite. A primary factor in the Illinois’ turnaround has been Craig Varga, who has locked up where he left off in high school.

Besides beating Steve Prentitas’ high school two-mile record last spring with a blistering 8:46.9 effort in equally blistering heat, Varga added a 4:06 mile and 1:54.840 meters to his secondary school accomplishments.

In his month of college so far, Varga has lowered the Illinois course record from 30:33 to 29:18. Behind Varga, but lately not too far behind, is Mike Durkin, who finished just ahead of Gullott in last year’s meet. A traditionally slow starter, Durkin has moved steadily toward Illinois in the past few weeks.

According to Terry Sheldon, Illinois’ sports information coordinator, Sheldon claims Durkin has been pushing Varga in practice and “conceivably” could beat him. Durkin’s best home course time this year is 29:53.

Beyond Durkin is the weak spot on the Illinois harriers’ list. Hartog, hope in cultivate, Illinois backup crew of Mike Bridges, Bill Allen, and brothers Dave and Rich Brooks has not been able to run with Varga and Durkin, and the number of runners other teams are able to put in this may decide the meet.

Surprising Eastern Illinois, fourth last year, returns with a veteran squad favored to take runner-up honors. Ron Lancaster (11:38 last year). Rick Livesey and Mike Carmon are joined by freshman, appropriately named Scott, “a good long-distance man” according to Hartog. Scott put together a 10:10 mile in high school.

Illinois State. last year’s runner-ups, have been faced with injury problems similar to those of the Saikus. Dave Begg, the Redbirds’ consistent veteran, lost a summer of training due to an injured foot, explained coach Roger Kerr. Kerr maintained, however, that Begg has showed much improvement and will be ready for Saturday.

Randy Lemco has been Kerr’s top runner all season. Tom Turbett, a junior college transfer, has impressed Kerr with a 25:15 tour of five-mile this season.

The key to Illinois State’s chances, and its biggest puzzle, center around the erratic performances of Fred Beck and Bill Buhmann, former high school teammates from Norridge (Ridgewood). Beck, an outstanding long-distance runner in high school, has been locked in, intercollegiate Championships last year, while Buhmann captured 18th place.

But both have been criticized by Kerr this year for their lack of desire.

“Fred can beat anyone in the state if he wants to, except maybe for Varga,” Kerr claimed. “He’ll kill in work, but he hasn’t been the competitive leemos in in meets.”

Kerr sees his team and SIU nearly matched, with few “ifs” controlling the outcome.

“If Southern runs Jack St. John, they’ll be tough. St. John is a com-

Alternate (wis) is basically three guys.”

He also hinted his team’s showing against SIU on the kind of races Beck and Buhmann want to run Saturday.

In addition to a fierce battle team, Illinois premier cross-country meet promises a fight for individual honors. Top candidates are Varga, Durkin, Lancaster, and Wayne Saunders of Illinois-Chicago Circle. Others who should be up include Lemco, Bill Jarocki of Northwestern, Glenn Benteke and Scott Barrett of North Central, Larry Swanson of North Park, Jim Kaiser and Jim Wheeler of Western Illinois and Gary Baxter of SIU-Edwardsville.

Quiet Perkins does talking on field

By Mark Topper
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Larry Perkins walks with a slow floating stride. He talks softly and seldom uses more than five or six words in a sentence. His expression is sober with only an occasional smirk. His modesty comes out with every answer to every question.

At 5'10, 165 pounds, Perkins looks a far cry from a football player. But whenever Perkins takes his place in the SIU backfield, there is no doubt about his ability to play the sport.

Perkins doesn't need to talk loudly and boast of his achievements as a Saluki football player. Every time he gets his hands on the ball, the quickness of his legs and feet do all the talking. They're his favorite spokesman.

As a freshman out of Memphis Melrose high school, Perkins quarterbacked the SIU freshman team. He also played quarterback his sophomore-year. Now, as the Salukis leading rusher at tailback, Perkins is frequently asked if he would rather be playing quarterback again.

"I don't have an answer to that," he said.

"I like them both." Perkins still gets an occasional chance to throw the ball on a reverse play where Perkins ends up having an option to pass.

"Yeah, I like that play," Perkins said. Perkins has had to share the tailback chores with freshman-Melin Moncrief this season. The competition hasn't discouraged him any. "The competition at tailback makes me work harder and makes both of us play better," Perkins said.

SIU Coach Dick Towers agrees that the competition between Perkins and Moncrief has helped get better results out of that position. "Larry hasn't been able to be satisfied," Towers said. "He hasn't been able to play completely."

But competition is something that Perkins understands. In fact he thrives on it. He inevitably plays his best games against the toughest teams. The better the team we play, the better Larry plays," Towers said. "That's why he was so good against Oklahoma State."

In the Oklahoma State game, which the Salukis lost 70-7, Perkins rushed for 102 yards and scored a yard touch-down moments before halftime to make the score 147-0, Oklahoma State.

That one run has been talked about greatly, and has had nearly every colorful adjective attached to it. Perkins broke six tackles on the run and reversed direction across the field to gain a yard, like the score. Okla-Stem kicked his run "the greatest run I have ever seen in college football."

"It was just a touchdown," Perkins said humbly after the loss.

Towers had called Perkins performance in the OSU game "the greatest day Larry had had since he's been here at SIU," but Perkins refused to take it all. "It couldn't have been my best game," Perkins said modestly, "because we didn't win."

Like most of the players on this year's team, Perkins has a hard time living with the team's record. "Just mistakes and bad breaks," Perkins said as he shook his head. "Take away these and we've got a winning season." But Perkins knows that it's too late for the mistakes to be taken away.

"I know we can bounce back," Perkins said. "I think we can still have a winning season." The bounce back was supposed to start in Dayton, and then Perkins talked of a "second season." But the Salukis lost to Dayton 23-10. "That was our toughest loss," Perkins recalled. "We were just out of synch." A big heart-breaker.

A marketing major, Perkins will return to Memphis upon his graduation in June. But there is one thing that could change his mind and his plans; a chance to play professional football.

Towers has already submitted Perkins' name to several post-season bowl game committees. Perkins has been recommended to the East-West Bowl Game, the North-South Bowl Game, the BlueCross Bowl, Room and the All-American Bowl Game.

"I feel like I have an excellent chance of doing well in one of these games," Perkins said. "He could have a great game running behind the offensive line."

"Let's see size could hold me back from being drafted by the pros," Perkins said. Perkins said he would like to be two inches taller and 20 pounds heavier.

"In order to Larry to make it in the pros," Towers said, "I think he'd have to develop into an outstanding receiver." Towers said he feels Perkins could be an excellent receiver if he had to. Towers said that Perkins should be used in the pros as a punt and kickoff returner.

"Larry is very quick," Towers said. "He can make his moves and his break at full speed."

"I've enjoyed it here at SIU," Perkins said, "but I hate losing all these games."

Perkins has played only half of each season this year yet still has 500 yards running. A 1,000-yard running season for Perkins would of course make him very happy. But he would settle for a lot less if the Salukis could win the remainder of their games.

Finley announced his resignation as Yankees' manager Sunday just after his A's won the World Series from the New York Mets and reportedly was sewed up to replace Houk, recently signed as Detroit Tiger manager.

Finley said Yankee board chairman George Steinbrenner and President Ralph Houk asked permission to talk to Williams on the managerial post.

"I said "absolutely not," said Finley. "I said stunned and wanted to know why. I told them as recently as the other day that I wouldn't talk to Williams' contract an additional year through 1975 and rehired his staff through this season." Finley said Steinbrenner "assured me they were not going to talk to Williams, but I would settle for a lot less if the Yankees to negotiate with his title-winning manager."

"I just brought Dick Williams up to date on what happened," said Finley. "Dick and I are going to be talking again tomorrow morning."

Published as a supplement to the Daily Egyptian in cooperation with the Women’s Gymnastics Team of Southern Illinois University.
During the summer of 1962, the United States Gymnastic Federation conducted a pre-Olympic training camp at the Academy Royale in Florida. During this camp the idea to form a women's gymnastic team at SIU was born. By September, 1962, the idea became reality, Herb Vogel was brought to the campus to develop a program of "elite class" gymnastics for the college women.

On the day J.F. Kennedy was assassinated in 1963, SIU had its first introduction to competitive team gymnastics for women. That first team went on to an undefeated season, won the national championship and placed two women on the Olympic teams of the United States and Canada.

That was the beginning of Gymnastics...Southern Style. A "commitment to excellence" that has produced the "winningest" team in the history of men's and women's athletics at SIU. The "new" Team will carry 11 consecutive dual match victories into the coming 1973-74 season.

These women, later to be joined by Gale Daley became the basis of SIU's gymnastic heritage.

The Fall of 1962 at Carbondale, was the reality of the dream. SIU's first team, first undefeated season, first national championship. Members are, from left, Gale Daley, Judy Dunham, Janice Dunham, Donna Schaenzer, Brigitta Gullberg, Irene Haworth and (not pictured) Dale McClements.

Every team must have leadership. Linda Scott, pictured above, has been selected to represent those leaders, the team captains, of the past ten years. The other team captains have been Gale Daley, Donna Schaenzer, Irene Haworth, Phyllis Hardt, Caroline Riddel, Karen Smith and Terry Spencer.

The 1972-73 story—
It's all in the rules

The 1972-73 team ended the tenth anniversary decade by doing everything but win the National Collegiate Title.

Carrying a 9.1 regional qualifying team average into the national championship, they were considered the "favorites."

Voted "most valuable" by the University of Massachusetts, SIU's coach Vogel blew the meet on a rule interpretation, causing a nine-tenths of a point team deduction. A well trained U. of Massachusetts team slipped past Southern Illinois by a slim, but well earned, .45 and won the national title.

SIU's Vogel ended the decade by adding the "Pickle Finger of Fate" award to his trophy cabinet.

All but Caroline Riddel and Phyllis Hardt, both lost by graduation, will be back this season, hence the mascots' nickname, "Next Year."
Traveling around the globe
SIU women gymnasts go 'round world' 20 times

During the decade, the SIU women's gymnastic team and its representatives on the international scene, logged enough miles to go around the world nearly 20 times.

This fact is particularly true if one could tabulate each and every mile traveled by car, taxi, bus, train, boat and even by dog sled, that the Saluki teams and its various representatives have traveled in the name of gymnastics.

If the multiple voyages of some of the more competitively successful SIU international travels are considered, the total miles logged might give the appearance of a minor moon shot.

With little fanfare, the Saluki women's gymnastic teams of the last decade wound their way back and forth across the nation, saw quite a few Canadian Sunsets and, on occasion, slipped into Mexico to experience, first hand, Mon- sema's Revenge.

These teams competed in 135 dual matches, some 40 championships and international team trials and presented 'well over' 230 instructional clinics and demonstrations. As a team and through its individual team members SIU has visited 40 states, six Canadian provinces and 24 foreign countries.

SIU in these 10 anniversary years has been the only university to follow an intercollegiate program of competition and assist the college women to develop her skills to the elite class level of international team membership.

In 1967, SIU was responsible for getting the first college women's team to the Student World Games in Japan. Forty per cent of that team, which captured runner-up, were from SIU. The Student World Games team found the Saluki percentage at 75 per cent in Italy and 50 per cent of the most recent, 1973, Russian venture (in all fairness to the young women with higher scores, who were not present, the true percentage might be 75 per cent again).

"The international yellows for SIU were good... but any number of yellows combined will make one tomorrow! For that is Gymnastics... Southern Style," says coach Herb Vogel.

COUNTRIES VISITED BY SIU:
Africa, Arabia, Brazil, Canada, Columbia, Czechoslovakia, England, Germany, Greenland, Greece, Hawaii, Iceland, India, Italy, Japan, Mexico, New Zealand, Pakistan, Russia, Iran, Scotland, Turkey, Yugoslavia.

STATES:

Juli Mayhew
Gail Daley, termed by coach Herb Vogel as "a real pace-setter," was one of the original team members in 1962. As an undergraduate, few Dana's lists did not contain the red-haired Canadian's name, Vogel said. She earned the distinction of being her native country's first "World Class" gymnast with a 9.1 plus average in international competition. That record held until last year's Munich Olympiad.

Gail is now married and teaching in New Jersey.

Another Canadian, Irene Haworth, was found to be the prime example of Vogel's coaching philosophy. "A team is a team, no heroes, all members are equally important... if attitude is kept high, training is directed toward success... each will have their day to excel," he said. Remembered as highly-skilled in the sport, Vogel added that Irene worked in the shadow of teammates Donna Schamor and Gail Daley.

"They never dared have a bad day in competition, for she would be ready, and many times did, bring home the bacon," he said.

Irene, married to a former SIU basketball player and the mother of two children and coaches part-time at the University of Saskatchewan, Canada.
Schaenzer brings national recognition to Southern

Donna Schaenzer, winner of nine special gymnastic awards while at SIU, brought national recognition to the University via television, magazine and wire service coverage.

While training for the 1968 Olympic Team Membership, she suffered an injury causing dislocation of both elbows. It resulted in her failure to perform in the Olympiad. After graduating from SIU with an A.B.S. degree in Physical Education, she worked as the gymnastic team’s assistant coach.

While attaining a Masters in health education, she served as a graduate student coach and was also chosen as a national coach of the “Cup of America” team in Mexico. Presently she teaches in Moline, Ill., and continues her duties as a USGF State Chairman and national judge.

Her honors include United States Pan Am Team Medalist, U.S. World Game Team in Germany; U.S. Universiad Team at Japan; Three-time National Collegiate All-Around Champion; USGF National Champion; Three-time Collegiate All-American; Runner-up World Tumbling Champion; SIU Team Captain four years; and John F. Kennedy Memorial Award Winner.

Gymnasts work as coaches

Dale McClements and Juli Mayhew, two former SIU gymnastic members, are both employed as coaches to university gymnastic teams.

Dale is coaching at the University of Nevada and Juli is coaching assistant to the SIU women’s gymnastic team.

Dale was only at Southern for a few quarters but she was a member of the gymnastic team long enough to be the “key” factor in bringing SIU its first national championship.

Dale is a many time national champion and U.S. international team member and was the United States’ first national coach.

She is a national/international judge, and as an associated coach can be credited with the success of the recent U.S. teams.

Juli is a collegiate All American and was College Gymnast of the Year in 1973. She was a member of Canada’s Cup of the America Team and a member of Canada’s World Game Olympic Squad.

Juli is a “Dean’s list” English major and is presently pursuing a graduate degree in English while serving as SIU’s coaching assistant.

Wills, Smith tops in gymnastic meets

Judy Wills and Nancy Smith, former members of the SIU gymnastic team, were unbeatable when they combined their performance. As a team they combined to win three consecutive World Synchronized Team championships.

Nancy was three time runner-up World Champion silver medalist.

Judy is remembered by many as the clowning Saluki mascot who became the first United States Gymnast to win a gold medal in international competition.

As "Bumpy," the Saluki mascot, she became the first female gymnast to earn a technical foul in a men's intercollegiate basketball game and as "Chicken Fat," the gymnast, she defied gravity for 11 gold medal championship titles.

Judy retired in 1969 as undefeated national and world tumbling and trampoline champion.

"Judy Wills was a legend in her own time," Herb Vogel, SIU gymnastic team coach, said.

Nancy and Judy are now each married, each with "bouncing babies" of their own.
Phyllis Hardt

Phyllis Hardt

Twice an All American, sat in the "wings" most of her collegiate gymnastic career due to injuries and simply because she was not good enough.

But, in 1972, she came alive, becoming SIU's most valuable, holding a 9.1 average in most seasonal competition.

Married to SIU's assistant coach, Dale Hardt, it might not be the best we see of Phyllis as a gymnast. She is still eligible and able for open competition and the Universiade is open to "grad" students under the age of 26.

SIU fans will have at least three more years to follow sophomore Stephanie.

She has the ability, style, grace, and showmanship required for greatest. Russia could be the first step toward her complete development as an international class gymnast.

From Russia with love

The students depicted on this page spent most of the past summer training for the Student World Games, as members of the United States Collegiate Team.

After much confusion, three left for Moscow and one stayed home.

Many questions are still unanswered and perhaps never shall be answered. The only thing known for sure is the facts—the Russians were the best in the Student World Games and their young age group products indicate they will be better next year; Japan has a new and finer team and the USA was fifth.

All findings point to the conclusion that the United States must find a more equitable manner to select Universiade teams in the future, that the team once selected must train, as a team, for an intense period of time and areas of administrative responsibility must be clearly defined.

The next Universiade will be held in Yugoslavia in two years.

Stephanie Stromer

Stephanie Stromer

SIU fans will have at least three more years to follow sophomore Stephanie.

She has the ability, style, grace, and showmanship required for greatest. Russia could be the first step toward her complete development as an international class gymnast.

A President's Scholar, her major interest is in creative writing. She has an academic average equal to her freshman success as a gymnast.

Gus Pappelis

Gus, the Greek, Pappelis is Southern's pianist and was the official pianist for the U.S. Team to the Moscow Universiade.

"Gus, a pre-med student, is something else. Called by feminine gymnastic fans the Mark Spitz of the keyboard, his music does not simply accompany the performer but complements the performance," says coach Herb Vogel.

Our "Zorba the Greek" responded when asked, "Are you married?" he quipped, "Wife, family, the whole catastrophe!"

At times, Gus has had the training sessions with one coach shouting at him, the performing gymnast and whoever else at hand screaming, too, the other coach correcting performance flaws as well as criticizing his playing technique, and the gymnast herself at the verge of tears.

Not to exclude the center of attention demands of the gymnasts waiting for their turn, it becomes the "full catastrophe," says Vogel.

The end result though, is a blend of pianist, music performer and performance...at times a two-tenth advantage over the opposition.
The 1973 Women's Gymnastics team is young, but capable to carry on the tradition of gymnastics-Southern Style. The torch is passed—a new decade begins.

Mary Cronin, a sophomore from Chicago, is a College All-American. She was rated "most" improved of last season's freshmen. Coach Vogel says she has a productive attitude, is hard working and demonstrates a sincere interest in her team.

Diane Grayson is a newcomer from Flint, Michigan. She trained under the Mott Program, which was originated and developed by SIU coach Vogel. The Mott program enrollment once reached an enrollment of 2,000, with over 100 advanced gymnasts at 44 community schools. Diane qualified for the Pan Am Olympic team finals in addition to earning a 9.1 average in USGF Elite Class National competition last season. She represented the United States in dual match competition with the Hungarians.

Sandi Gross is a newcomer from Long Beach, Calif. She is a product of the Long Beach "Scots" of Kathy Rigby fame. Sandi brings a four-event, all-around 8.7 average earned in the 1973 USGF Elite National Championships. Sandi is only a freshman but as a gymnast she has twice toured Europe.

Pat Harlan was hampered all last season with a back injury, but continued despite discomfort. With a .400 academic average she made the Dean's list for three quarters and led the freshman team.

Pat is a four-event gymnast. She is from Rockville Center, N.Y. in her second year as a coaching assistant, Juli Mayhew has prime responsibility in the dancestyle and aesthetic areas of floor exercise and balance beam. Juli is a graduate student in English, and an accomplished pianist.

Juli serves as "topperone" to the elite team on away trips. As an under-graduate, her gymnastic achievement and academic success brought her the recognition of being named "Outstanding gymnast of the year" in 1971.

Sandi Pyle suffered a dislocated elbow which prevented her from competing in the Nationals, USGF Elite, and the trip to Russia. She is a B student and is ready for training this year. Margi was a member of the U.S.-European touring team last year, and is a four-event gymnast.

Margi was a top quaffer last season, and if she can get it all together, she has a skill vocabulary that could be successful on the elite class level. She is from Washington, D.C.

Diane Gleason, a President's Scholar,

She went from the Dean's list academically to the Student World Games in Russia gymnastically.

Stephanie will be expected to follow in the footsteps of SIU's stars of the past decade. She is an astrology buff, and comes from Long Beach, Calif., only after her mother ran an astrological chart of Coach Vogel.

Stephanie's academic interest is in English, with an emphasis in creative writing.

Ginger Temple, a 1973 college All-American, is a minor transfer student from Southeast Louisiana State.

Ginger carries a 4.0B academic average in Home Economics, she came to SIU to study in that field in addition to performing in gymnastics. Ginger was a finalist in the National Collegiate Bar and Beam events last season.

"I don't care if you have a pilot's license, we don't need an assistant coach," coach Herb Vogel seems to say to SIU President David Derge.

Imposs i ble to document in pic tures and words is SIU's Brigitte Gulberg's gymnastic lead into the movie "Man's Favorite Sport" or the national television coverage garnered by SIU's team and individuals in various sports spectaculars during the past decade.

Carbondale weekend television viewers will remember the surprise in seeing the young lady from their town suddenly appear on ABC's Wide World of Sports, to see a team which "blew" the 1962 national championship dominate the two-hour national television report and perhaps even proud to see SIU's Terry Spencer as she captured the fourth place in the Student World Games, via TV, in Moscow, Russia. And too, proud to hear, if not see, "Southern's Gus Padelis piano ac- companyment that took Terry to the Russian dominated Universiade finals.

Also given credit for Sports Illustrated is the man responsible for most of the success, coach Herb Vogel. Vogel, however, credits his success to his assistant coaches past and present, piano, players, and young women who "cared" about each other.

Vogel has a lifetime dual match record of 180 victories against four defeats.

His 17 coaching years boasts over a dozen national team championships and 29 individuals who have represented their country in international competition.

In addition to SIU's "Name" gymnasts, his earlier teams included U.S. Olympians Montelien, Fuchs, and Racek, Hungarians Nagy and Hortihay. Others were Canadian Pan Am and World GameLisa Krol, Phelps of the U.S. Pan Am Team, Klauer of the Pan Am Team and the U.S.-Russia Tour Team.

He is credited with a role in the development of the United States Gymnastics Federation, organized and directed the first USGF national championship, initiated the first National Collegiate Women's Gymnastic Championship, and produced the "irritation" needed to send the first collegiate women's team to the Student World Games.

His past includes a personal television show, member and chairman of a number of national committees and for those that know him best, a quick but somewhat caustic sense of humor.

Author of "Flint Sparks" and "Carbon Copy," series of instructional material for the Modern Gymnast Magazine, Vogel is host and director of numerous national-clinics and workshops as well as few national championships and team trials.

Vogel is a physical person who eats little and sleeps less, in spite of his personal and the success of the team at Southern Illinois University. Vogel works hard at being "anonymous."
