Model U.N. Opening Session Scheduled for 7 p.m. Today

Hendershot Will Address Group

Clarence Hendershot, assistant director of Student Personnel Services, will deliver the opening address of the eight annual Student Government U.N. program session at 7 p.m. today in the University Center ballroom.

Hendershot is a former chief education adviser for the United States Operation Mission in Korea and the Agency for International Development Mission to Iran.

Hendershot, who has promoted an improved policy for orientation of new foreign students, received his doctorate in 1963 from the University of Chicago.

Eighty countries will be represented by almost 300 undergraduate students and delegates from visiting schools at the sessions. Guest schools participating are Corbendale Community High School, Mundelein College, Greenville Junior College and Paducah Junior College.

Dan Heldman, secretary-general for the Model U.N. General Assembly, said that student government has appropriated a record $800 for this year's U.N. program.

"This should be the best Model U.N. program ever," Heldman said. "In addition to the increased appropriation from student government, the Co-vocations Committee has given us $400 to bring the keynote speaker to campus.

Mwabili Kisaka, counselor for the Pan-African Parliament of the Republic of Kenya to the U.N., will give the keynote address at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the University Center.

Heldman expresses the hope that students will be given one hour of academic credit in connection with the Model U.N., Heldman said.

To get credit a student must be present at all four sessions and turn in a 3,000-word paper on the subject of the U.N.

A native of Knoxville, Tenn., Anderson earned a bachelor's degree in speech and English at Carson-Newman College. He worked in radio at Denver, Colo., and Portland, Ore., before going to Chicago.

Tickets for the show are $3.50 at the information desk in the University Center.
Unregistered Car Exposed by Fire

A garage burned down along an automobile belonging to a 20-year-old student from Quincy. Identification of the badly damaged car showed that it was not registered with the University. The student has been assessed $50 for illegal possession of a car and will not be eligible for motor vehicle privileges.

Designer of Sunburst Seal To Explain Proposal Monday

Albert B. Mifflin, assistant coordinator of General Publications and designer of the proposed new SIU seal, will discuss it at a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the University Center Ballroom. A display of the design will be set up Friday in the Magnolia Lounge in the University Center. Questionnaires will be provided at the display so students may express their opinions on the seal.

The proposed seal, a modernistic sunburst bearing the words “Order and Light” and “Southern Illinois University” has created considerable comment ever since it was introduced on both campuses about a week ago.

The Alestle, the campus newspaper at Edwardsville, last week published a picture of the trademark and design from the side of a Sealtest milk carton and pointed out the similarity between the seal and the milk carton decoration.

The University of Bridgeport is up with an idea that might meet with some support. Representatives from several downtown businesses are holding meetings in hopes of jointly sponsoring a coffeehouse.

The organizations run from political to literary. No definite plans have yet been formulated; however, useful information is now being discussed.

To begin with, the need for a decent cup of coffee on this campus is real. But more than that, there is a need for a coffeehouse that can function as a meeting place and, if need be, a forum.

The University Center canteen is not really up to the demand or responsibility. The space is small and the clientele is stretched to the limits of their capabilities.

Also, there has been a good deal of comment lately on the lack of cooperation between administration and students, faculty and students, and students and students.

To no means will a humble coffeehouse solve all of these problems, but it might just help.

A building would be needed. The requirements would be that it be on campus, that it be large and that it be versatile. Something like an old army barracks.

There is the possibility that the Department of Design could take over the planning of the building. And possibly the Department of Art could see fit to donate some of its works to lend atmosphere.

And of course the School of Home Economics would be needed to plan and possibly manage. A stage and facilities for showing movies could be added, if desired, or special training could be provided for the students.

If the idea offers quite a few possibilities as well as quite a few problems. But the University is not impossible to solve and the solution would be worth the effort.

Cycle Riders Saddled With Issue;

Skirts, Ordinance Aren't Compatible

Ticket, ticket, who gets the ticket?

This is the newest battlefront of the city and the campus police forces. Does the girl have a ticket, or does the passerby? The problem items from the new city codes are the sid­saddle riding by motor cycle passengers. But the police are not always kind enough to be in a quandary.

The Campus Senate has op­posed passage of the ordi­nance on the basis of restric­tion, but the city is not inclined to lift the ban.

The girls are faced with the problem of getting on and off the vehicles as it is. The only way they can ride a side­saddle is by parking the vehicles, stepping aside­saddle, holding the saddle over the handlebars, and then jumping over the handlebars.

But the city presents another problem. The new ordinance means that a girl can't offer a ride and the girl has to carry the horse. And if her class is clear on the other side of campus and she's late, someone gets a ticket if they are caught and she's riding sidesaddle.

As a matter of fact, there are only a few blocks on paved streets that couldn't mean that much safety-wise, and besides, what girl in her right mind would want to ride side­saddle for a long cycle?

A few blocks on paved streets couldn't mean that much safety-wise, and besides, what girl in her right mind would want to ride side­saddle for a long cycle?

Why, if Slater is certain­ly a profit-making organiza­tion, do the students who work for them get University stu­dent status? Because dining at the Center is most often a necessity for students or faculty who don't have the time to go elsewhere, these complaints become magnified, but nevertheless they are valid.

We feel that the SPS should take steps to correct some of the shortcomings and take these complaints as they are intended—no as distrac­tion but as honest appeals to the directors of food services.

Fate of Seal

Should Be Put To Students

We were somewhat sur­prised, but pleasantly, to find that a new seal is being de­signed to encompass the one University ever since.

Including Edwardsville as part of the seal should con­tribute to the concept of a single University instead of just representing the Carbondale Campus.

We say "should" however, if stu­dents shouldn't have been in­formed earlier of the new em­blem. It is their Universi­ty, and we feel they should play a part in determining how they would like the new seal to appear.

Instead of just obtaining the approval of representative groups, and the Board of Trustees, perhaps the new seal should be submitted to a Uni­versity-wide referendum, al­lowing students to approve or disapprove the seal, or indeed, decide if there should be a new seal at all.

Personally, we would also hope that the new symbol of the University would certainly be an im­provement over the seal now in use.

We would like to see stud­ents take a more active part in the seal, but we hope they accept the seal as symbolic of the University and not harshly simply because it represents a change from old traditions.

Those Diamonds Aren't Batgirls' Best Friends

And some sturdy old types are apt to say that "the girls'" roles only add to the conception of the female as a deco­rative,基本上 useless bit of fluff.

But, girls of "looks" and personality must not be dis­missed by these rumbles. There is a real contribution to make here. Such essential functions as toting bats, balls, and escorting umpires are surely worthy of your best qualities.

And tomorrow new vistas undoubtedly will open up for girls in baseball. There will be more uniforms, more serious competition, and more serious competition.

To the editor:

I have the recent an­nouncement that the SIU base­ball team will use female ballhogs this coming season. The Feb. 7 Southern Illinoisian tells us that the purpose is to help us prepare for baseball, that the girls will escort umpires to their sta­tions, take baseballs to the plate umpire, tote balls, etc.

And how nice to hear that they will be costumed in something unique.

In this time of concern about the waste of female manpower, I am gratifying to know that SIU will be first in effecting a significant solution to this problem.

Of course, there will be some soreheads who fail to appreciate the increased dig­nity brought to the game by coeds "consumed in some­thing unique," and who will prove the new procedures make a travesty of the game. Some will fail to ap­preciate the high standards employed in selecting the girls for "looks and personality."

Is Morality Dead?

To the editor:

Isn't it revealing that in Egypt, "shoplifter" the word "mor­al" or the concept of moral. It is just not even considered.

Instead, the terms "unnec­essary" and "famous" were used, if the theft was "necessary" or remained un­detected. Such things make it right? Is morality all that old-fashioned?

Higher Goal Set For Television

By Jenkin Lloyd Jones

There is a lot more to selling the good life in America than depicting the good guy feeding the bad guy with a kick in the stomach and a karate chop.

To start selling the good life in America over television is the self-appointed task of the new "Ad Hoc Committee on American Values" headed by Charles H. Crutchfield, president of the Standard Broadcasting Co.

Crutchfield and his committee believe television executives came up with specific proposals toward turning the cathode tube on the problem of selling the slow lane in America's moral values and pumping up some pride and spirit in the business of citizenship and proper behavior.

Crutchfield and his committee intend the broadcasting business on two counts—first, its procreation of violence, nonsense and senselessness, and the abnormal and the sleazy in American life.

While the featuring of violence, mayhem and passion is the path of least resistance, the image of a smoggy, dope-addicted society, the lifetime on campuses having frantic, wild, drug addiction, the lifetime of students is the self-appointed task of America to sell cigarettes, we can sell soap, we can sell razor blades, we can sell another responsibility to sell American values to the American people. And it is a product they need."

Crutchfield's group points to a recent survey of 5,000 people on a choice of 15 nation goals. The majority placed the control of inflation as No. 1, the raising of human standards as No. 2, and the control of crime and labor racketeering as No. 3.

The guess seems a good one. The question is why our sympathies are limited to our fellow citizens.

Crutchfield puts it this way: "Silence may be golden, but sometimes it's plain yellow."

Halfin Survey Admits

To Cheating in School

A study conducted recently at Columbia University showed that half of 5,000 students questioned had cheated on some tests, and in some cases, in some way throughout their campus education.

The study also revealed that cheating was especially prevalent on campuses having fraternities and sororities; the study was conducted with the more cheating; and 37 percent of "A" students admitted to having cheated.

Among the many books that have traced the influence of German thought and institutions on American life, Horst's book must be considered a definite contribution toward the exploration of German influences on the intellectual history of this country.

The author discusses the ideas and the work of five German—trained scholars, Herbert Kornhauser, John Adams, William Bronner, Richard T. Ely, Francis Small. By limiting his study to these five representations of Germany he limited himself in the analysis of other fields of American thought, especially psychology and geography. However, this does not weaken his achievement.

His thesis is that the introduction of German methodology and science to American universities was doomed to fail because of cultural factors underlying the American institutions. The reason is that while keeping alive the traditions of a liberal education in graduate schools, the American institutions absorbed the ideas of Germany with the establishment of graduate and professional schools.

The book is indexed and contains bibliographical notes.
Phone-Tampering Student Warned

A Chicago freshman has been given a reprimand by university officials for tampering with General Telephone Co. lines.

The student had applied to have service restored to a phone in his residence and then hooked up the telephone to a nearby junction box. A neighbor, who until this time had a private phone, reported the illegal hook-up after he heard the student on his "private" line.

French Girl Arrives at SIU For Intensive English Study

Martine Guillou, an 18-year-old girl from Fron­tignan, France, has arrived in Carbondale for an intensive study in SIU's English Language Service course in English for foreign students. Her stay in Carbondale is the result of her father's efforts to augment two years of English study with an American family before returning to France.

The Rotary Club provided a warm welcome for the girl when she arrived at the train station. She was taken to a faculty home for the night, and then taken to become acquainted at a residence ball. Ms. Guillou hopes to study English for three months to augment two years of English study in her home country, then live another three months with an American family before returning to France.

Her ultimate goal is attendance at an interpreters school at Geneva, Switzerland, and also construction displays for that month since 1962.

Measles Epidemic Thought Unlikely

An SIU health official said this week that there have been relatively few cases of measles reported among the student body, despite an increased number of cases in the area.

Nearly 2,000 cases of measles were reported in Illinois in January, the highest number for that month since 1962, said Dr. Francis D. Yoder, director of the Illinois Department of Health, said that measles may strike in epidemic proportions this spring.

Dr. Richard V. Lee, director of the SIU Health Service, added that there is a possibility of a measles outbreak here but he added that "it certainly would not be like a grade school epidemic, because most college students have already had the measles.

He explained that it is possible to have measles twice although the first time usually gives one a lifetime immunity.

"It would be very surprising to see an outbreak of old fashioned measles," Dr. Lee said. "The most common measles are the three-day type.

He added that in comparison to the number of students there have been relatively few cases of measles so far this winter.

Agricultural Service Awards Given to 3

J.E. Hill, director of the Illinois Division of Vocational Education since 1950, and Robert B. Rogers, superintendent of the Illinois Division of Markets, were honored with service to agriculture awards recently at the School of Agriculture's annual banquet.

Walter J. Wills, chairman of the Department of Agricultural Industries, received a faculty service award presented by the Agriculture Alumni Association.

Nearly 200 agriculture students, faculty members, alumni and friends attended the All-Agriculture banquet in the University Center ballroom. Guest speaker was Kenneth McFarland, former Kansas educator who is an educational consultant for the American Trucking Association and a widely known public speaker.

The annual winter term event is sponsored by the Agriculture Student Advisory Council, a coordinating group composed of representatives from the school's seven student organizations.

Hill, a native of Mattoon, was cited for his contributions to agriculture and the School of Agriculture. He has been active in vocational education in Illinois since 1922. He was a leader in organizing the Illinois Association of Vocational Agriculture Teachers in 1922, and the formation of the Future Farmers of America in 1929. He was a former vocational agriculture teacher, a past president of the Illinois Vocational Association, and former chief of agricultural education in the state.

Rogers, a native of McLeansboro, was graduated from SIU in 1955 and received a master's degree in agricultural economics at SIU in 1961. He received the school's outstanding alumni award Friday night. Before being named to his present position he was secretary-treasurer of the National Peach Council and the Illinois Fruit Council. He currently is on several state and federal department of agriculture boards and committees.

Wills, a native of Beecher City, joined the School of Agriculture faculty in 1956. He came from Washington State College where he was an extension marketing specialist. Earlier he was on the University of Illinois faculty and served as a livestock marketing analyst for the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

CIA Recruits Students From 100 Colleges

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government-run Central Intelligence Agency, the CIA, confirmed Wednesday that it has recruiting teams visiting about 100 college campuses interviewing students as prospective analysts and agents.

"We want good people," said Col. Stanley J. Gross, "we're out looking for them."

At present the Central Intelligence Agency is particularly interested in students, especially graduate students, with basic scientific training which would qualify them for photo interpretation work. That is a high priority field of intelligence gathering, brought to public notice in the U-2 plane sensation of six years ago, and the photographs that uncovered the Soviet secret rocket installations in Cuba in 1962.

Grogan, an assistant to the CIA director, Adm. William F. Raborn, said the CIA probably had several employees among officials with advanced academic degrees than any other agency that employs them. It is a hard claim for any outsider to check against the record, Grogan said, because even the CIA total employment is secret.

The CIA recruitment program was propelled into national prominence when a small group of students at Grinnell College in Iowa, in the form of a picketed a CIA man on campus.

The students displayed posters on the campus and asked what the CIA is doing in Grinnell, Iowa, and the CIA's recruitment campaign had been going on since the agency was formed in 1947.

WASHINGTON (AP)-Industrian production rose sharply during January to a record $46.9 billion, the Federal Reserve Board reported today.

Grogan said the college recruiting program has been going on since the agency was created on the foundation of the former Office of Strategic Services, it is thus close to 30 years old.

Prices, Production Continue to Rise

WASHINGTON (AP)—Industrial production rose sharply during January to a record 149.9 per cent of the 1957-59 average, the Federal Reserve Board reported today.

Grogan said the government’s cost index was up 1.1 per cent above December’s level for the nation’s mines, mills and refineries. It is the biggest increase since January’s, while radio sales showed a slight decline. Prices of foodstuffs rose further and three of industrial commodities continued to increase.

Catholic Church Eases Regulations on Fasting

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Roman Catholic Church, in a historic change in customs dating back 17 centuries, has eased its regulations on fasting and abstinence.

An announcement Wednesday night from the National Catholic Welfare Conference said:

Pope Paul VI issued new regulations for days designated as days of fast and abstinence.

"The traditional law requiring Catholics to abstain from meat on Ash Wednesday and Good Friday, the only abstinence days still to be observed, is on the way out."

Details of the meaning of the new regulations, which are not immediately available in Washington, Catholic authorities were awaiting an announcement from Rome in the form of an apostolic constitution by Pope Paul, to be published today.

Authorities said, however, that apparently the regulations will mean marked changes in the observance of Lent, which begins on Ash Wednesday this year, Feb. 23.

Pending receipt of further information from Rome, Federal Religious authorities here withheld detailed interpretation of the new regulations.

The chancery office of the Wilmington, Del., diocese said it has been advised that the regulations mean:

- The only fast days for Catholics will be Ash Wednesday and Good Friday, and the only abstinence days will be Ash Wednesday and all Fridays.
- The NCWC, in its announcement of regulations issued by the Pope, said:

Children under 14 years of age were freed from the obligation to abstain from meat. Heretofore the abstinence law required from the age of 7.

The age bracket for the law of fasting remains the same—beginning at 21 and ending with the beginning of the 60th year.

U of Ill Will Build Largest Computer

CHICAGO (AP)—University of Illinois trustees approved today university participation in building a computer capable of working a billion computations a second.

The machine, named Illiac IV, will be the largest in the world, the trustees said.

The project for which the Defense Department will pay $8 million will be undertaken jointly with the federal government.

Gas Cloud Kills 17 in Tunnel; Officials Puzzled Over Cause

LOCARNO, Switzerland (AP)—The manager of a power generation plant in a tunnel was killed through a hydroelectric power tunnel, killing 17 men, officials said Wednesday night.

The men had entered the seven-mile long tunnel high in the snow-capped Swiss mountains north of Locarno to prepare for resumption of construction work in the spring.

An official of the Maggia S.A. Co., which runs the works, said the gas may have been from coal mine.

The official told reporters the gas spread after a team of three men opened a ventilation shaft midway in the tunnel to clear the air.

The three, two Swiss fire brigade workers and an Italian foreman, all carried oxygen masks. But they died on their way back to the surface of the artificial lake.

Washington’s Offer Queried

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) questioned the government’s $50 million aid to India and Pakistan.

"The question is whether we should be considering giving aid to the government in India and Pakistan," Fullbright said.

"I understand that the government of India is spending a billion dollars a year in its nuclear program and that the government of Pakistan is spending a billion dollars a year in its nuclear program."

Increased socioeconomic aid for South Viet Nam promised at recent Havana conference, could cause greater activity for the SIU educational team in that country.

H. B. Jacobini, associate dean of International Services, said, "We can expect a general increase of activity in Viet Nam, although it is difficult to say which specific programs will be stepped up."

There is a possibility that the SIU programs could be expanded, but it is pretty "iffy," he said. Jacobini, noting that it will take time to pinpoint which programs need expansion, Recommendations must be made by experts in the field, who will consult with other specialists.

"I don't expect anything to happen within the next 10 days," he said adding that there might be modifications in the next 10 weeks, but it is likely there will be something in 10 months.

Haag Helps Mexico to Plan Crop and Livestock Reports

Herman M. Haag, professor of agricultural industries who is on leave, has just finished helping Mexico's Ministry of Agriculture set up a system for improving and speeding up its crop and livestock reports and estimates, according to a written report to the Inventory of Agriculturists.

Haag this month left Mexico City for Monterrey where he will spend the next three to five months teaching and helping develop livestock and agricultural economics at Mexico's Technological Institute. He is on leave for 12 months assigned to a Foundation-supported project at the Institute in Monterrey, teaching courses in agricultural prices and marketing.

"We have just started there as a copywriter and expect a general increase in the government support of the SIU program in agricultural economics," said Haag, who handles "Beer Talk" which began its series of one-hour lectures, the responsibilities and actions of the United States in its protection of the free world.

USAF Orders 31 To SIU Seminar

The U.S. Air Force has assigned 31 reserve officers to attend a two-week National Security Seminar being held on SIU's Carbondale campus March 21-April 1.

The reservists, being called to two weeks active duty, are part of a contingent of 200 officers scheduled to attend the seminar, according to Col. Harold C. Brown, seminar administrator.

The seminar will be sponsored by SIU, in cooperation with the Industrial College of the Armed Forces. It will include series of one-hour lectures, the responsibilities and actions of the United States in its protection of the free world.

The U.S. Air Force has assigned 31 reserve officers to attend a two-week National Security Seminar being held on SIU's Carbondale campus March 21-April 1.

The reservists, being called to two weeks active duty, are part of a contingent of 200 officers scheduled to attend the seminar, according to Col. Harold C. Brown, seminar administrator.

The seminar will be sponsored by SIU, in cooperation with the Industrial College of the Armed Forces. It will include series of one-hour lectures, the responsibilities and actions of the United States in its protection of the free world.

A native village outside Bamako in Mali

MorrisWarmly Received, But Court Mali

A winter temperature of 97 degrees, 2,000 camels, beautiful native costumes and cold-air international competition are all a part of President Dwight D. Eisenhower's trip to Mali. Morris, impressed by that trip, and that President Lyndon B. Johnson's visits to the country, described the dedication ceremony of an air-base, power-plant and a new highway near Tombouctou as the highlight of his journey to that region.

While in Mali, Morris visited with the educational and cultural exchange team from the United States to see how they were assisting the education and technical training of high school students.

The ceremony was attended by Eric A. Shriver, president of Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children in St. Louis, Morris and the Burleys while in Bamako.

Morris said that because of the strategic location of Mali, the country is obviously conditioned to be a strong competitor for the friendship of that country.

The U. S. has a technical school in Mali. The Russians have built a school for government administration.

With Flaming Baton

Half-Time Twirler Adds Spark, Almost Makes History at Game

By Joe Cook

A twirler can sometimes be dangerous, especially when she develops control problems with a flaming baton.

At Greensboro high school baton twirler nearly lost her baton to history at the halfway point of the SIU-Kennucky Wesleyan basketball game Tuesday night.

Twice she dropped her baton, but was able to stomp out the flames with her feet in time to the music.

After the performance she set the baton down by some players' towels and the inevitable happened.

Fortunately some quick-thinking fan came to the rescue of the young girl's aid and doused the flames with his soft drink.

Kentucky Wesleyan fans are much less vociferous than those in Evansville, but they nevertheless have a personality of their own.

One fan insisted that "Saluki" was some sort of an Indian tribe, while another Panther rooster, more in the know, pleaded with Coach Jack Hartman to have mercy on the young girl's aid and doused the flames with his soft drink.

They may be athletes, but they're young ladies first. This is the philosophy of women's gymnastics Coach Herb Vogel.

Personal makeup is the responsibility of each girl, but we encourage each girl to look her best before every game," said Vogel.

According to Vogel weight seems to be the biggest problem. However, he alleviates this by conducting periodic weigh-ins. Each girl must then run one lap around the Arena for each pound overweight.

... The winner sports season has been successful one, from Southern's point of view.

However, this week all of its teams face formidable foes, especially wrestling and swimming teams.

The wrestlers will travel to Ames, Iowa, to meet the defending NCAA champions, Iowa State University, while the swimmers are at home against the Nation's top ranked swimming team, Indiana University.

Poll-Sitting Getting Tougher

But Salukis Are Still on Top

The Salukis barely held on to the top spot in the weekly Associated Press small college basketball rankings as unbeaten Cheyney State of Pennsylvania continued climbing.

The Salukis received three first-place votes from the panel of selectors and collected 97 points on the basis of 10 for a first, nine for a second, etc. Cheyney State, with its 22-0 record, also received 97 points in moving up from third to second.

In the poll was Illinois-Chicago, which replaced the Saint Louis University at an early 10.

The All-Star game is scheduled for the stadium July 12.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Post-Dispatch said Wednesday night that there would be no All-Star baseball game unless a first, nine for a second, etc. Cheyney State, with its 22-0 record, also receive 97 points in moving up from third to second.

Frosh Cagers Prevail 61-60 Despite Late Rally Close Call

SIU's freshmen basketball team staved off a late rally by the Kentucky Wesleyan freshmen Tuesday night to take a 61-60 victory. The victory gives Southern's freshmen a 10-2 record.

Kentucky Wesleyan came from a 29-18 halftime deficit to press Southern right down to the final buzzer. Late free throws by Lynne Howerton and Chuck Benson provided the margin of victory for the Salukis.

Willie Griffin was the leading scorer for Southern with 10 points. Cretson Whitaker had 13, Dick Garrett 12, and Benson 10 points.

The Salukis' field goal percentage of .324 was not better than Kentucky Wesleyan's mark of .313. Southern also outrebounded its opponents 50-50, Benson pulled down 19 rebounds and Garrett had 13.

Southern was led by Tom Holgud, who scored 19 points. It lost regular player Joel Bolden on fouls in the closing moments of the game.

The victory proved to be costly for Southern. The Salukis lost forward Lonnie Campbell for the remainder of the season.

Whitaker, currently the team's second leading scorer, suffered a fractured ankle.

Southern has three games remaining this season, and faces St. Louis Baptist Junior College Saturday at St. Louis.

The Saluki freshmen have already defeated Southern Baptist 72-53. That game was played at SIU.

The loss leaves Kentucky Wesleyan with a season record of 9-4.

Wrestlers To Grapple Iowa State

The SIU wrestling team will go to Ames, Iowa, Friday, for a dual meet with the defending champion of last year— Iowa State.

Iowa State is ranked third in the nation this year. It has been beaten by Oklahoma State.

Four regular SIU matmen are out with injuries, but the Saluki will still compete in all 11 weight divisions.

Don Schneider, the 137-pound team captain, has the best individual record at 21-2-2.

The team record for dual meets still stands at 10-1-1, and it also has three invitational victories to its credit.

One of the best matches in Friday's meet should be in the heavyweight division, with Rob Roop of SIU taking on Steve Shippos of Iowa State.

The lightweights should also provide a good match, with SIU's Terry Magoon and Iowa State's Ernie Gillum competing.

3 New Senators Picked in Election

Gregory G. Drinan has been elected student senator for Small Group Housing. He defeated his opponent, Joseph A. McLaughlin, by a vote of 41 to 10 in the Wednesday election.

W. Larry Rusch, who faced no contest, was elected senator for Fine Arts. He received a total of five votes.

Jim Nugent, recently ousted senator, received two of three write-in votes.

In the General Studies election David A. Wilson, Action Party, won the contest with 79 votes. However, his election was challenged by Steve M. Schmidt who received 61 votes.

In a letter to Ted Orf, election commissioner, Schmidt said that Wilson had posters at the entrance to the University Center. Schmidt charged that this was in violation of the rule that says there is to be no campaigning within 50 feet of the polling place.

Orf ruled that Room H in the activities area in the polling place, not the University Center itself.

Gregory R. Enrokin, the third candidate, received 22 votes.
