PROBE CONTINUING INTO CANCER RESEARCH ACCIDENT ON CAMPUS

Investigation into the mishap in which thousands of dollars worth of cancer research materials were destroyed and thousands of dollars worth of equipment were damaged continued Monday but there was no new information available for publication, according to Anthony Blass, manager of the steel plant.

Blass said at least one phase of the investigation into the incident is expected to be completed by late Tuesday.

Researcher H. Rouhandeh, associate professor in the Department of Microbiology, said Monday that he knows nothing more about how the steam valve was opened. Steam damaged more than $30,000 worth of virus cultures stored in incubators in a laboratory on the first floor of the Life Science Building.

The main door leading from the first floor hallway into the lab was warped, he said, and the inner door was warped also.

The two doors shut off a four-foot sanitation lock where a person can be sanitized before entering the lab, which is kept as sterile as possible, Rouhandeh said. The two doors will probably have to be replaced.

Inside the lab the plumbing fixtures which are suspended from the all-white ceiling were rusted at the joints and the metal light fixtures were rusted from the steam.

Rouhandeh said factory estimates have not comeyet to evaluate the losses in equipment. A centrifuge which was earlier reported worth $50,000 was correctly estimated to be worth $15,000 Monday.

Rouhandeh, who has done cancer research for about 15 years, said that he will not have a chance to see if any of the cell lines which he has frozen are in good enough shape to continue with. This check cannot be made until the lab is completely sanitary, he said.

The cultures will probably be checked in a couple of weeks, Rouhandeh said.

Taxicab Advisory Committee To Meet in Closed Session

Mrs. Lockhart explained that the present round trip $2.60 fare per passenger from the city to the Carbondale Health Clinic is “too much” for elderly persons and poor people to pay.

William Reid, owner of the Home Cab Co., said that “the cab rates here (in Carbondale) are so compared to other college towns that it is pathetic.”

Reid said that in the last five months the surrounding towns of Anna, Vienna and Marion have all received fare increases to a flat 75-cent minimum on all rides.

Council to Hear Report By Train Subcommittee

The Illinois Central Railroad proposal to discontinue service between Carbondale and St. Louis “provides for all or nothing alternatives whereas various compromises need be considered,” according to a report compiled by a Carbondale Advisory Committee subcommittee.

The subcommittee, headed by Robert Hunt, issued an 18-point report last night at a public hearing revolving around the question of whether the Carbondale to St. Louis trains should be permitted to continue.

Hunt said that the purpose of the hearing was to accumulate further information from the public before drawing up their final report and recommendations which will be submitted to the City Council at tonight’s meeting.

Draft Effects Forecast For Graduate Students

A 30 to 50 percent decline in first-term male graduate students at SIU was forecast today in the wake of recently announced changes in draft deferment policies.

Robert W. MacVicar, vice-president for academic affairs at the University, said, “You can’t argue in principle for any system which gives a U.S. Army Reserves, said he doubted if filling the draft quotas with graduate students would provide the Armed Forces with combat soldiers the nation needs.

“Eighteen-to-20-year-olds are in better physical condition and make better combat soldiers,” he said. “As a personal opinion, I think we should devise a system in which each age bracket shares equally in making up a draft levy, as opposed to using categories of occupation as a yardstick for deferment.”

Novick said nothing will be copyrighted unless the contributor specifically desires it so that much of the material will be, open for reprinting purposes.

Co-editors will be John McHale Jr., Gary Miller and Howard Long. Contributions may be turned in at the Student Government Office, University Center.

Lenzi Dazed by Power

Letter

To the Daily Egyptian:

Recently, at a Student Senate meeting, Student Body President Ray Lenzi asked that the Senate consider eliminating the activity fee payments to the Daily Egyptian. He also suggested that the Student Senate should have a say in the editorial policy of the paper.

Obviously, Lenzi feels that the Egyptian isn't behaving itself. The reason, no doubt, is that the Egyptian has failed to reveal to the student body that Lenzi is our white knight.

Instead, the paper has treated him for what he is—a student dazed by his own imagined power.

The whole affair has a Huey Longish ring. Long tried to silence opposition newspapers by a special tax. Lenzi is trying to silence the Egyptian by removing some of its operating funds.

It won't work. That is, it won't work if the Student Senate represents the student body. The Daily Egyptian covers a wider range of student opinion than does Mr. Lenzi.

If Lenzi doesn't believe that, let him delay his graduation for a year, and stand for re-election. The student body will tell him how much they appreciate his antics.

Ron Porter,

Sovereignty Lies Where?

To the Daily Egyptian:

The problem in the ghettos, it seems, is one of freedom, not one of poverty. And the protest of Vietnam is for the right to be heard, not for peace at any cost necessarily. The question facing us today then, it seems, is of the location of sovereignty.

Does sovereignty reside with the Government, reverting to the people at election time, or does it reside with the people continuously?

In the former case, the Government could only be called a temporary tyranny. And in the latter case the Government would have to be very careful to respond to the will of the people always (whether they be right or wrong) lest the Government be guilty, in principle, of treason.

Today, for all practical purposes, Lyndon Baines Johnson is the Government. We have only three choices. Either he is a temporary tyrant, or he responds always to the will of the people, or he is a traitor.

Which do you think?

David A. Pfaff

Pep Band Not at Fault

As the perpetrator of that monumental goof in the Southwest Missouri game—premature introduction of Dick Garrett while only four Missouri players stood on the floor—I, too, would like to absolve the Pep Band of any alleged indiscretion.

Furthermore, my own impression of SIU fan behavior is quite positive when Arena crowds are compared to those in several other places I could name.

Investing in Higher Education

The most controversial question raised by Gov. Reagan's proposed budget is the same one that divided the state last year—how much in California willing and able to invest in higher education? Heated debate has already begun on the reduction imposed by the Reagan Administration in the budgetary requests by the University of California.

The governor's position is that he will neither seek nor support any tax increases for 1968-69. All state governmental functions, therefore, must be limited at this time to the state's estimated $5.7 billion income.

"I can't believe (Reagan) fully realizes the extent of the setback that would result if we tried to live within the funds that he plans to provide," said Regent Philip Boyd, a former Republican state chairman and generally considered a pro-Reagan member of the Board of Regents.

Boyd and other concerned UC officials point out that the $31 million gap is the amount needed to assure that education of high quality will be available for an ever-increasing number of students.

The Times believes that the budget request as presented by the Board of Regents does represent the minimum—certainly no lower than the state's estimated $5.7 billion income.

There are also sources of additional revenue within the university itself, such as increased charges for contract research of direct benefit to industry and agriculture. This and other potential additional income should be considered by UC regents and administrators as a means of self-help at a time of fiscal strain.

Every possibility must be explored to protect and preserve this great system of higher education. It would be false economy indeed to allow such a resource to deteriorate.

The People Boxes--Habitat '67

By Jenkin Lloyd Jones

General Features Corp.

San Antonio, Texas--Within a flick of the architect's pencil and overlooking the soon-to-be-opened Hemis Fair there is one of the most exciting buildings ever constructed in America.

It is the new 20-story Palacio del Rio Hilton hotel, which will go from the blueprint to completion in just nine months. And it carries a portent for the future that is both intriguing and a little frightening. For it consists of little else than a huge stack of what might be described as "people boxes."

Early last summer it became apparent to the leaders of San Antonio that they wouldn't have rooms enough to house the hoped-for 7.2 million visitors to their $156 million exhibition which opens April 6. A large new hotel was desperately needed, but the fair would be over before the estimated 18 month building time elapses.

The only possible solution was a radical new construction process. The inspiration was Habitat '67, the stepped-back futuristic apartment buildings put up at fabulous cost on the perimeter of the Montreal world's fair. But the concept had to be refined, for a commercial hotel must pay its bondholders. A daring San Antonio architectural firm, Cerna and Garza, and a group of structural engineers, Ferguson and Finnell, undertook a building revolution.

The Palacio is undoubtedly the only modern building in America the plans of which weren't completed until three months after work had begun. Excavation got underway under the July 3, and work started on the conventionally built four lower floors which will house the lobbies, restaurants, shops and meeting rooms. Shortly thereafter the box factory was born. Eighty feet from the site 111 men labored at a reinforced concrete casting yard to produce each "monolithic module" which contained the hotel bedroom, bathroom, closets and balcony. As soon as the concrete set, each was hoisted to a finishing yard where another 140 men applied vinyl wall coverings, laid rugs, installed plumbing and placed the furniture. Each room unit was a 57-ton cell.

Meantime back at the site, a 72 x 22-foot elevator core was completed to a height of 238 feet in 12 working days. When the four lower floors were ready to take the weight, the piling on the boxes began.

As each box finished its journey on a large lowboy trailer, a giant crane with a 270 foot boom picked it up. Atop the suspended box was a screw-down motor-driven helicoper tail rotor which could be manipulated to keep the unit from swaying in the Texas wind.

On Nov. 1 the first room was lifted. On Dec. 20 the last was placed. Four hundred and nine six boxes piled 20 stories high in 42 days.

The rooms had to be placed within a quarter-inch tolerance. Between each two rooms there is a gap of 20 inches to allow for plumbing and electrical fittings.

On the outside, this gap is covered by an insulating lighting panel. On the outside there is facing brick. Add two walls and the roof and you have the building.

How practical? H.B. Zachry, the builder, says that construction costs will run about the same as a conventional hotel of equal luxury--$10 a square foot. But he points proudly to the fact that the time of construction has cut in half the expense--but-no-earning time.

The final returns will not be in until the Palacio opens in April, until all the cost figures are available and until the big builders of America have a chance to inspect it with critical eyes. But we may be on the threshold of a real revolution.

We have made fits and starts in prefabrication. The art has steadily improved, but it never sweeps the country as had been forecast after World War II. The box principle, however, is prefabrication.

We may not be very far away from the day when glove-box factories that will offer four or five sizes of rooms that can be mixed and linked together in private home designs of considerable variety, and our apartment buildings could be honeycombs, rising cell-by-cell.

If this does prove feasible, the building codes of many cities must be changed. A building code has only three excuses--the insurance of safety, durability and sanitation. Make-work and featherbedding will have to go.

The tall pile of cubes looking down on the twisting San Antonio River could be a pattern of the future by which more Americans could live better for less.

Rocky's Motto: 'Let George Do It'

By Arthur Hoppe

Chronicle Features

Good morning, ladies and other stragglers. It's time for another chapter of "The Rocky Road to Happiness"--the dramatic serial that asks the question: "Can a handsome billionaire of 59 find love in a 23 year old and still get elected President?"

As we join Rocky Nelson today, he's spending another quiet, pleasant evening at home with his adoring young wife, Hysterical, six sides and three computers. As usual, Hysterical is wearing a baggy sweater, faded jeans, no lipstick and straight hair.

Rocky (contentedly): Ah, there's nothing like curling up on a winter's night with your loved ones and watching the computer. I wouldn't be in the White House for a million dollars.

Aide: That's the ticket, Chief. You just went up another point.

But when you use that phrase, I think you ought to say a trillion dollars.

Rocky: Thanks a thou, fella. I appreciate your support in my hard-fought campaign to avoid being elected President. But sometimes I wish I were a candidate so that I might speak out on the issues of the day, like Vietnam, and so on.

Aide (aghast): Careful, Chief! Just by mentioning the subject you dropped a point and a half.

Rocky (hastily): But as a loyal supporter of my dear friend, George, I must perforce remain silent. All I can do is politely encourage dear George to take a fearless public stand on the burning controversies of the day. Let the chips fall where they may.

Aide: Good, Good, George just plummered another 13 points.

Hysterical (happily): Oh, I'm so glad, dearest, that you're not running for President. Maybe now I can get my hair fixed.

Rocky (harming): Well, fella, if you want to attract attention to yourself...

Hysterical (excitedly): ...and a nice dress. Maybe even two new dresses. Oh, how wonderful it would be to wear a pretty dress again after all these years!

Rocky (scowling): ...and thereby remind 30 million middle-aged women, who by now have almost forgiven me, that I married a young, attractive second wife...

Hysterical: But, dearest, what do you care what they think? If you're not running for President...

Rocky (nabbing): I've said it before and I'll say it again, fella. I wouldn't be President for a million dollars.

Aide (nervously): You stay out of this, fella, to Hysterical ...

But if you start looking young and attractive, I'll have to divorce you and marry an older woman.

Hysterical (sobbing as she stamps from the room): Oh, you don't love me any more, you beast!

Aide (gloomily): See, Chief? You stated an opinion and you lost another voter.

Rocky (clapping his hand to his brow): You're right, fella. I should've let George tell her. Oh, I fear I shall never become a courageous leader shaping the destiny of this great democracy of ours.

Aide (nodding): You won't, Chief, unless you learn to keep your opinions to yourself.
Students Assemble Engine

By Dennis Kuciaja

Two trailer dwellers have added an unusual hobby to the list of pastimes enjoyed by SIU students in their spare time.

Tom Suchy, a junior from Barrington majoring in engineering, and his roommate, Bruce Miller, a senior from Plano majoring in pre-veterinary medicine, have spent the past two months assembling a 327-cubic-inch engine — right in the middle of the living room of their mobile home.

With the occasional aid of another roommate, Dale Abel ("I helped us lug it around," Suchy says), Miller and Suchy have built the Chevrolet 327 engine almost from scratch at a cost of about $350. When it is completed, the engine will be installed in Miller's little Chris Craft inboard motorboat.

"We picked up some of the parts from a friend of ours who had two or three engines," Miller says. "We got the rest of the parts from different places around here."

"We decided on a Chevy 327 because we figured parts would be easy to get down here," Suchy added.

The search for parts has taken Suchy and Miller through such places as a Murphy-Yabourunk shop and many of the smaller towns in the southern Illinois area. This weekend Miller will journey to Michigan to trade the boat's old engine for a water manifold converter.

Suchy, who says he did most of the assembly work while Miller played the role of financier for the project, estimates that the engine will power the boat at speeds up to 60 miles per hour.

Right now the engine is in an impressive incongruity mounted on two sawhorses in the living room of the trailer in Malibu Village. A small fuel line connects it to a large gas can a few feet away under a table. An automobile battery provides the juice.

When demonstrating the engine for reporters, Suchy and Miller armed themselves with small fire extinguishers and kept close watch on the gas can because, as Suchy explained rather matter-of-factly, "There's never been a fire, but with the engine that close to the gas, we don't want to take any chances."

The only casualty of the two-month assembly was the living room rug.

"The first time we started the engine, we blew oil all over it," Miller chuckled.

The neighbors are curious about all the noise, but they have not complained. In fact, the engine has become an attraction for the neighborhood kids, who are constant visitors.

Military Engineering Subject of New Book

Interest developed on a 1963 trip to England by a SIU historian has resulted in publication of a scholarly book on a 16th Century British military engineer.

The hard-bound volume, written by Lon L. Shelby, associate dean of graduate studies and research, and associate professor of history, has just arrived on the Carbondale campus. It was published by Clarendon Press, a division of Oxford University Press in England.

The book, titled "John Rogers: Tudor Military Engineer," tells of one of the foremost English military engineers of his day. Rising from the ranks of the mason's craft, Rogers served Henry VIII, Edward VI, and Mary as surveyor of works at Hull, England, and Boulogne and Calais in northern France.

"I became interested in Rogers when I was doing work at the British Museum during the summer of 1963," Shelby said. He continued his research and writing on the SIU campus and made subsequent trips to England in the summer of 1965 and the fall of 1966.

"Rogers' career came at a turning point in the history of English military engineers — during the late Elizabethan period. They were responsible for the design of forts and fortifications, especially those in the north and west of England," Shelby said.

"Rogers' work is well documented and has been extensively studied by historians," Shelby added.

"I attempted to look at Rogers in the context of other military engineers of his time," Shelby said. "I have avoided a general history of English military engineers and have concentrated on Rogers as a representative of the time."

"I hope that Rogers' personality will come through in the book. He was a sensitive man, and I feel that his personality plays an important role in his work and his life," Shelby said.

"I am pleased that the book is coming out," Shelby said. "I have been working on it for a number of years, and I am looking forward to sharing my findings with others."

Marines Attack Red Strongholds In Hue's Citadel

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. Marine and South Vietnamese troops, supported by land artillery, swept forward in the rubble of Hue's walled Citadel Tuesday to a knock-out blow at the last Communist strongholds in the ancient fortress.

The close-quarter fighting in the battered Citadel was marked by confused battle reports from the wrecked buildings and rumbling stone battlefields.

One U.S. Marine commander said the Leathernecks had forced their way through the Citadel's east wall and began a drive along the south wall toward the former imperial palace where the determined Communist defenders had checked the Marines and-post. But another report said the southeast corner of the two-square-mile fortress had not been cleared of the enemy.

At Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Airport, where Westmoreland's headquarters said there was a quiet day during the first two days of rock and mortar attacks.

U.S. troops had smashed into the outer wall of the air base and said that fighting was heavy on Monday night.

The fighting in Hue entered its third week and was the only continuing battle from the Jan. 30-31 lunar new year offensive in which an estimated 50,000 Communist troops struck at 35 South Vietnamese populations.

AP correspondent Louis M. Sitarek of Chicago said Vietcong and Viet Minh were fighting Chinese and North Vietnamese losses were said to have totaled 200 dead so far.

The Imperial Citadel was described as heavy casualties among the slowly advancing U.S. and South Vietnamese forces. He said allied commanders were painfully aware the enemy was determined to make a last-ditch stand.

Bad weather ruled out air support all day Monday for the allied ground forces fighting in the Citadel. But the light cruiser Providence, flagship of the 7th Fleet commander, Vice Adm. William F. Biddle, aimed its six-inch guns on Communist command posts in the Citadel.

Although anti-aircraft fire raked the area, casualties were said to be not identified.

Even when the Citadel is finally taken, there are prospects for other bitter fighting in parts of Hue. AP correspondent George McArthur reported, that enemy forces advancing on an area east of the eastern wall of the Citadel, were already pounding the positions.

The Communist forces are believed receiving help from young men recruited in Hue.

There was fighting reported Monday at Phuoc Tho, three miles east of Saigon, where Communist forces had seized part of the coastal city. A U.S. spokesman said an allied force was moving up pockets of resistance.

From the Mekong Delta city of Vinh Long came sketchy reports of a ground assault Monday that carried into the city center. A U.S. spokesman reported that the cathedral had been damaged and that fighting had dwindled to sporadic small arms fire.

Cook County Sheriff Receives Quick Response to Posse Plan

CHICAGO (AP)—Sheriff Joseph Woods of Cook County, Chicago said Monday that law enforcement officials from many parts of the country have expressed interest in his proposed 1,000-man volunteer riot control posse.

The sheriff said one of the inquiries came from officials in Newark, N.J., where one of the largest and costliest race riots in America occurred last summer.

Next Monday night with 300 volunteers who have been tentatively accepted as posse members.

Meanwhile, a second legal action threatened to halt formation of the riot control posse.

Ellis Reid of the Chicago metropolitan council of the NAACP said Monday he would file a suit to prevent Woods from "further proceedings" in recruiting volunteers for the posse.

Friday, Harry Leviton, a lawyer, filed a similar suit. Leviton said his suit was "on behalf of the people of Illinois."

No hearing date has been set for Leviton's suit.

State's Atty. John Stames said last week he would issue an opinion Tuesday on the legality of Wood's posse.

Stames will act as Wood's lawyer in the injunction proceedings.

Woods said Sunday that if Stames told him the posse would place Cook County in an untenable position he would drop the idea and discontinue recruiting.

Mayor Richard J. Daley, the commander of the Illinois National Guard and others have criticized Woods' plan but the sheriff said he would start training the first 100 posse members March 1 if the plan is legal.

On the other hand the posse idea won endorsement of Richard V. Ogilvie, president of the Cook County Board of Commissioners and Woods' predecessor as sheriff. Daley is a Democrat and the guard commander, Maj. Gen. Francis Kane, is Daley's choice to administer Chicago's new firearms control ordinances.

Woods is a Republican and Ogilvie a GOP aspirant for governor of Illinois.

Florida Teachers Begin Strike

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—More than 67,000 Florida public school children were shown out of school Monday by the nation's first statewide teacher walkout.

One third of the state's teachers—25,077 of 76,844—had already resigned Monday with 12 counties not yet reporting, according to figures from the state Department of Education and county school boards.

The teachers' spokesmen here said another 13,000 would quit Tuesday.

All classes were canceled in 22 counties with combined enrollment of 535,155. The state's total public school enrollment is 1,300,000.

Other counties closed part of their schools Monday for lack of teachers.

Discounts for Tourists In U.S. Recommended

WASHINGTON (AP) — A White House task force recommended Monday a broad range of cut rate prices for tourists and military personnel, including 50 cent discount on domestic airline fares for those traveling abroad, 25 percent discount on domestic rail fares, and 10 percent discounts on intercity bus rates. The discounts are now pending before Congress. But it plans to produce new ones which will carry not only but three war-caps capable of striking different targets. In a statement Monday on the strategic situation, the Defense Department said the Soviet "are unlikely to possess a total of land and sea-based ICBMs launchers equal to ours until the latter part of the 1970s, if then."

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, back from his most secret major domestic trip, said Monday much of his traveling in this election year likely will be done without much advance notice. As Johnson's big jet neared Washington early Monday on the homeward leg of his weekend journey, the President discussed with newsmen the secrecy that had cloaked most of his movements in the preceding 48 hours. "I think you're going to find most of my trips are going to be without much advance notice," he said.

Newsmen at the White House were told after 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon that they had less than two hours to get to their homes, pack a bag and get to Andrews Air Force Base in Maryland but were told nothing of the nature of the impending trip. It turned out to be visits to military installations on both coasts and to California winter home of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The public got its first word when Johnson's plane left Andrews. Even then his initial destination was not announced. This became known only when the aircraft landed at Pope Air Force Base in North Carolina.

At almost every pause along the transcontinental route, there was no advance announcement of where Johnson was. The President was asked why it was necessary to be so secretive. He said "military security" was the first consideration and, secondly, he was not certain about his precise itinerary and wanted to avoid irrevocable commitments.

Johnson said he was very conscious that the Communists were launching new offensive fires in Vietnam and he had wisely decided not to tell Washington, suggesting he wanted to feel free to alter his plans quickly had events in Southeast Asia made that necessary.

He added that with "what's going on," it is difficult for him to plan with much certainty.

Train Report Announced

The report and recommendations will be presented to the Johnson Administration Commen Commission at a hearing on Friday.

The report pointed out that passenger train service can be a pertinent item for attracting industry to the city of Carbondale.

It was found by the subcommittee that the trains from Carbondale to St. Louis are utilized to some extent at all times and utilized heavily at some times.

The average daily passenger counts and the I.C.'s financial statement showing financial losses may be misleading, according to the report.

The subcommittee members observed that "the direct effects on crossing tie-ups by St. Louis trains appear minimal."

According to the report, the elimination of passenger trains could lead to increased number of freight

Lawyer's Association Adopts Press Rules

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Bar Association adopted new guidelines Monday to limit what newspapers and television stations could be told about pending criminal trials and arrests. A plea by news executives for a year's delay while new studies were made was turned down by the association's House of Delegates by a vote of 176 to 1. The controversial Reardon resolution, then adopted by voice vote.

The proposals now will go to 53 state bar associations which will blend them in during a revision of the ABA's Canons of Professional Ethics. Though they are recommendations, they then can be swiftly cut down what police will tell the press about criminals and will effectively limit what lawyers and judges say to the court.

Just before the vote, Chief Judge Edward Lombard of the Brooklyn Court in New York City told the delegates that if they accede to the plea for deferral, the news media would be back next year talking for still further studies.

Speaking for the report, William T. Gessert, ABA pre-

McNamara Says Russia Is Closing Missile Gap

WASHINGTO N (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara said Monday the Soviet Union may have as many land-based nuclear missiles as the United States by mid-1969.

Sources said Monday that was not the concern in McNamara's annual military report which was not included in the version publicly released in late January after heavy censuring.

It was the first time a Cabinet official has been known to see a timetable for when the Soviets might catch up with the United States in terms of land-launched ICBMs. McNamara's disclosure of latest intelligence projections—based largely on reconnaissance photographs—means Russia is expected to have over 1,000 ICBMs in strategic locations allowing about 18 months, compared to their 720 as of last Oct., 1.

The United States has reached its peak of 1,054 land-based missiles. But it plans to produce new ones which will carry not only three war-caps capable of striking different targets.

In a statement Monday on the strategic situation, the Defense Department said the Soviets "are unlikely to possess a total of land and sea-based ICBMs launchers equal to ours until the latter part of the 1970s, if then."

The task force report is part of an effort by the Johnson administration to reduce the international dollar drain by about $3 billion this year. The balance-of-payments deficit last year was $3.57 billion.

Robert M. McKinney, public affairs officer of the Mexican and task force chiefs who recommended the program does not negate the need for the travel tax which President Johnson has proposed on American citizens traveling outside the Western Hemisphere to reduce the country's balance-of-payments deficit.

The House Ways and Means Committee has held hearings on that legislation, the travel industry estimates the potential impact of the report's proposals is about $150 million in benefits to the passenger service payment during the first year.

To ours until the latter part of the 1970s, if then."

The decision to go ahead with multiple warheads followed detection of an Soviet missile buildup that "we have long assumed would occur," the Pentagon said.

Defense scientists deliber-ately chose to build multiples rather than larger numbers of single-warhead missiles because they are more efficient, sources said.

"We have today approximately 4,200 separately targetable warheads," the Pentagon said.

Those figures include the much smaller carried aboard 680 B52 and B58 bombers for the United States and 155 intercontinental bombers credited to the Soviet Union.

"We expect to maintain a ratio of superiority in separately targetable warheads of three to four to one as far ahead as we now plan, i.e., for the next six to eight years," the Pentagon said.

Johnson Plans 'Secret' Campaign

WASHINGTON—President Johnson, back from his most secret major domestic trip, said Monday much of his traveling in this election year likely will be done without much advance notice.

He added that with "what's going on," it is difficult for him to plan with much certainty.

Travel secrecy has potentially important political implications, of course.

Many Problems Remain Unsolved

Negro Leader Reviews City’s Growth

By Inez Rrencher

Changes in social, economic and political conditions in Carbondale during the past 12 years have been noted by the Rev. Lenus Turley, church and community leader.

In the groes northeast section of town, the town of Carbondale was totally segregated," the Negro leader recalled.

Turley, 63, who served as the Rev. Charles Battles' pastor at the City's Human Relations Commission, said that when he came to Carbondale in 1956, Negroes were not served in any of the business establishments, hotels, motels or other public places. He said after a complaint was made the Negroes were not even allowed on the west side town and other places for fear of attack by whites.

"There are still too many problems left," he said. "We have a very healthy growth here in Carbondale," he concluded. This growth, he pointed out, has come without racial incident.

A member of the Carbondale Citizens Advisory Committee and the Sub-committee of Minority Housing, Turley said the threat of riot by the residents of the predominantly Negro northeast section of town could have been disastrous last year if not dealt with intelligently.

"This growth is happening everywhere else, and we could not escape at least the threat of the Negro in Carbondale," he said.

The threat, he said, caused businessmen and the townspeople to come together in awareness of the need of dealing with them.

"It was a good coming of the little threat," he said. "It woke the city up, it was ready and willing to cooperate with the mayor in finding solutions to these problems.

He said the period of unrest upset the Negroes, but the accomplishments of the older Negroes. As a result of efforts of the mayor, city officials and residents, more Negroes and a recognition of their problems were included in the mainstream of city affairs.

Turley also said the economic status of the Negro is not good, but is much better than in the past, and is improving daily.

"Negroes are now enjoying positions that 10 years ago were not available," he said. Agencies which have recently employed Negroes in higher positions, he said, include the banks, the telephone company, the Central Illinois Public Service Co. and several other downtown businesses.

"We haven't gone far beyond the 'token' aspect of this, Turley emphasized, "but we are making gains.

Because of the change in hiring practices, he said, many Negroes in the Northeast section of town are now remodelling their homes without federal aid that has been offered.

There has been a change in the attitude of the lending agencies," he explained. "They are not looking for mortgages primarily on color.

Even greater peace and stability can be brought to the town, Turley contended, once the mayor's newly proposed city anti-poverty program is implemented. However, the program has met opposition from persons who feel the agencies are already available to execute the mayor's programs.

"I do not agree," Turley said concerning the opposition's argument. "I feel that the proposed program and the workers are essential and relevant."

He said that one of the major problems, which the proposed program takes into consideration, is the lack of jobs for the young people who are left on the streets during the summer months when they are not in school.

"This program will meet the needs of the young people, not as welfare recipients, but as workers with dignity," he added.

Turley voiced several suggestions for improvements in the city's political structure. He said he felt generally that the political "spotlight" should be turned off the northeast section of town and that there should be greater representation of all taxpayers and property owners.

In view of the acknowledged accomplishments of the city, he said there are still too many promises made to northeast residents with too few results.

He also pointed out that the only elected Negro representatives in the city government are the precinct committee men or high level representatives besides the university affiliated and appointed assistant to the mayor, John Holmets.

Turley said another problem is a recognizable communications gap between groups of residents and between the city and the residents. He said the gap is widening between the youths and the adult Negroes, as well as between the whites and the Negroes in general.

"Somehow there will have to be dialogue between them," he said, as a major step toward alleviating this basic problem.

"The administration is competent and realistic," Turley added, although he said the communications problem may have been overlooked. "Maybe they (city administration) are expecting too much too soon."

Serving as pastor of the Rockhill Baptist Church, on the corner of East Monroe and North Marion, the Rev. Turley is also a member of the Carbondale Ministerial Association, director of the Student Christian Foundation, first vice president of the national Baptist Convention of Illinois and moderator of the Mt. Olive Baptist District Association. He also has the distinction of having served as the first Negro chaplain of the Illinois State Senate, and is presently a member of the advisory committee of Family and Child Services and on the board of the Jackson County Mental Health Society.

An exploration of inventory control and distribution problems will highlight the regional conference of the National Council of Physical Distribution Management scheduled Monday and Tuesday on the campus of SIU.

The meeting will be conducted under the joint auspices of the School of Business and the Transportation Institute of the University.

Discussions will be addressed specifically to the problems of inventory management, inventory forecasting, location theory, and capital budgeting, according to Jehiel Novick, assistant director of the Transportation Institute and program director of the conference.

"It is through such cooperative efforts as those between Southern Illinois University and the National Council of Physical Distribution Management that we can solve these kinds of management problems," Novick said.

R. Ralph Bedwell, director of the School of Business Center for Management Development in Chicago, pointed out that "this conference is, in part, welcome to the problems of management."

Program leaders for the two-day meeting will include the School of Business faculty, assisted by another Student Teachers

International Students Will Visit Capitol

International students at SIU's Carbondale campus have been invited to several communities during the Spring break, March 17-24.

The Springfield Commission on International Visitors has invited some of the students to visit the State Capitol and Lincoln's home, March 16-17. A University bus will leave the International Student Center at 8 a.m., March 17, and return to the campus the next evening. While at Springfield the students will be guests of local families.

A visit with families in Olney is planned for March 20-24. The students will go to homes, schools, and the radio station in the area.

Invited by the First Methodist Church of Herrin, 30 students will participate in the entertainment and dinner, Feb. 25, in Herrin. Reservations may be made by calling International Student Services, 433-4117.

The Student Project

Departmental nominations for National Defense Education Act fellowships at SIU must be made by April 15, according to Lon B. Shelby, associate dean of Graduate Studies and Research.

Shelby said because federal funds that support these scholarships have been cut, there has been a 45 per cent across-the-board reduction in the number of new NDEA fellowships for doctoral study for all colleges and universities in the country.

SIU awarded 32 fellowships in 1967 for study during the present year and will receive 15 fellowships for next year. However, he said, those who already have been awarded fellowships can continue through the last year of the three-year scholarships.

The most NDEA fellowships any university received, he said, was 45. In some cases, he said, universities applying had more than 50 doctoral programs eligible for awards. Eligible doctoral programs at SIU numbered 17.

The Graduate School indicates how many students can be nominated by academic departments. These nominations are sent to the NDEA fellowship office in Washington for final selection. Usually, he said, the nominations submitted to be chosen.

Stipends are $2,000 for the first year, $2,500 for the second year, and $2,400 for the third year—all on a nine-month basis—plus $400 yearly for each dependent.

Nursing Transfers Advisement Opens

Advisement for nursing majors planning to transfer to the Edwardsville Campus for Spring quarter of '68 may be obtained from 10 a.m. till 3 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 24, in Room 1312 of the Peck Building on the Edwardsville Campus.

Representatives from the Housing department, General Studies, and the Registrar's office will be present. Measurements for uniforms will be taken.

Further information is available from Mrs. Mary Goss of the General Studies Advisement office at the Carbondale Campus.

Southern Dancers to Debut

Southern Dancers will make their debut in a program of what the director, W. Grant Gray, calls "dazzling performances" Feb. 22-24 at SIU.

The student group will present dance episodes ranging from a spoof on television entertainment and a "halfway movie" melodrama to a "monstrous" version of Dostoevski's "The Grand Inquisitor" and a provocative social comment, "I Am a Fiancé" consisting of a variety of music—percussion, electronics, and silence.

The dancers, "mostly volunteers, have met up to 10 evenings and weekends since last fall," Gray said.

The event is sponsored by the theater department's Southern Players and the Women's Recreation Association of the women's physical education department. Gray is assistant professor of dance in both departments.

"Dance is the art of motion," he explains. "It is not limited to just the display of a physical skill. It is a form of art which uses movement as the medium of expression."

He uses the term "theater pieces" because, he says, "pure dance is taught in the theory and technique class, but when production time arrives and the costumes, lights, and properties appear, there is a wedding of many elements—dance, theater."

The dance performance will be given at 8 p.m. on the main stage in the Communications Building. Admission prices are $1.50 for non-students or $2.00 for non-students. Tickets are available at the University Center Box Office.

Science Film Set

For Wednesday

"Of Stars and Men," a film based upon a book by Harlow Shapely, a former SIU visiting professor, will be shown at 9 p.m. Wednesday in Shryock Auditorium.

In the film, man's relation to space, time, matter and energy is searched out. Man discovers that he is not the center of the universe, is somewhat shaken, and finally ponder deep thoughts, including the meaning of life.
Triumphs Bring Women Gymnasts Valued Praise

Women's Gymnastics Coach Herb Vogel was on the receiving end of two successful endeavors this past weekend that will make his team's future a lot brighter.

The first was a victory by SIU over Centenary College Friday night, 139.60 to 138.80. The second was the Gymnastics Clinic which was highlighted by the visit of Madame Villancher, the Women's Chairman of the Federation of International Gymnastics. Madame Villancher conducted a clinic for officials, coaches and judges from the U.S. and Canada.

Coach Vogel said Mme. Villancher was very much impressed with the facilities the school offered, especially the SIU Arena. Mme. Villancher said she wished she 'could put the Arena in my pocket and take it back to France with me.'

Vogel said that this was the best meet of the year for Miss Daley. In addition to her first place on the beam, she tied Miss Schaezner for second on the uneven parallel bars with a 9.2. Those were the only event Miss Daley competed in.

In the meet itself, Donna Schaezner once again led the SIU women, capturing the all-around title by almost a point over her nearest competitor, Debbie Bailey of Centenary, 36.15 to 35.25.

SIU captured three of the four firsts, Miss Schaezner in floor exercise with a 9.2 and tying Gail Daley on the balance beam with an 8.85. Sue Rogers captured the other first for SIU with a 9.05 in vaulting.

Tom McGinnis of the Intramural Office announced the results of the Intramural Swim Meet, Monday, along with the names of teams that will compete in the annual basketball tournament.

The Swarmers '68, a team entry from the Independent League, won the Feb. 17 meet for the third consecutive year.

Doug Gill of the Swarmers '68 set a new intramural record of 29.3 seconds in the 50-yd. backstroke event and the Swarmers' 200-yard, freestyle relay team replaced the 145.5 second record in that event with a 142.9 mark.

The Sigma Pi 200-yard, freestyle relay team also beat the old 145.5 record with a 143.4 timing.

T. X. Smith, an individual entrant, set a new record for the 50-yard, breaststroke at 32.5 seconds and also won the 50-yard, freestyle event.

Other individual winners for the meet were: William Casser of the Bailey Bombers in 54.5 seconds for the 100-yard, freestyle, Jay Barret of Allen 1 in the 50-yard, Butterfly at 27.4, and Mark Grifford of the Phi Sigma Kappa with 78.3 points in the diving event.

Sigma Pi finished second in the team standings with Phi Sigma Kappa with 78.3 points in the diving event.

McGinnis also announced that 16 teams will be eligible for the upcoming intramural basketball championship.

The playoff games will be played from Feb. 25-27, with the championship game to be played at 6 p.m. on Friday, March 1, in the Arena prior to the SIU vs. Centenary College varsity game.

Thirteen teams have already won their division championships with the three remaining eligible teams to be determined in this week's action.

Division champs in the Fraternity League are Sigma Pi "A," and Kappa Alpha Psi "B." In the Off-campus Dorm League, the Le-Lifers, and Forest Hall are division champs with the division one and four champs still to be determined.

Independent League division champs are the Mice, the Turtles, the Bills, the Indians, and Sigma Pi's Devils with the Division One champs still to be determined.

Division champs in the Men's Residence Halls League are the Animals, the Brown Gods, the Dribblers, and Allen III.

Three Musicians Needed for Games

Student musicians interested in performing at all SIU home baseball games this spring are urged to contact Coach Joe Lutz at the SIU Arena.

According to Lutz, three musicians are needed, preferably including a bongo and trumpet player.
Football of Fame Elects Seven

NEW YORK (AP)—Professional football's Hall of Fame opened the gates Monday to seven new members—Cliff Battles, Art Donovan, Elroy Hirsch, Wayne Millner, Marion Motley, Charlie Trippi and Alex Webster.

A board of selectors composed of 15 sports writers, radio and television men from NFL cities chose the new members.

Battles, a slashing halfback from West Virginia Wesleyan, and Millner, the Notre Dame tackle who won a national championship in 1964, were among the most outstanding players in the college game in recent years.

Hirsch, a running back from Illinois State, was a star in the 1940s and 1950s.

Motley, a running back from Howard University, was an outstanding fullback and linebacker with the Baltimore Colts.

Trippi, a hall-of-fame quarterback-back from Georgia, reached his peak in the years when the Chicago Cardinals now St. Louis were riding high.

Donovan, a regular defensive tackle with the 1958 Cleveland Browns, was a great fullback and blocker for Paul Brown's old teams at Cleveland in both the All-America Conference and the NFL.

Weijes, as he was known, was a teammate of Vince Lombardi on Fordham's famous Seven Blocks of Granite.
Pollock Named Freshman Football Coach

By George Knemeyer

dale Central High School has been named freshman football coach at SIU for next season.

Vern Pollock, 31, was a reserve quarterback at SIU in 1960 and was a starter during the 1961 season which saw SIU post its last winning sesson, 7-3.

Pollock coached at Carbondale for four seasons and had a record of 32 wins, seven losses, and one tie. In his four years at Carbondale, his team never finished below second in the conference. He led them to the South Seven football champi onship last season with a 7-2-1 record.

Pollock was asked Monday if his decision had been helped by the expansion of SIU athletics.

"Yes and no," Pollock said.
"I was wanting an opportunity to get into college coaching but I was happy to make the decision after I got a chance to see what they (SIU) were going down.

"I'm happy to have a chance to work with (Dick) Towers (head coach)," Pollock continued. "He's very sincere, dedicated and a hard worker." Don ald N. Boydon, SIU athletic director who made the an-mouncement, says that "we're very happy to have one of our graduates join the staff.
As an undergraduate Vern was a very dependable and conscientious person. He is the type of man we feel will do an excellent job as freshman football coach." Boydon concluded.

After graduating from SIU, Pollock accepted a job in the offense of SIU as part-time physical education instructor at Carbondale Central.

"I want to leave Central High School," Pollock said. "It's one of the finest high school setups in the country, but I've always wanted to coach at the university level, and I got the opportunity to try it."

William McBride, superintendent of Carbondale high schools, expressed regret at the loss of Pollock.

"We think a great deal of Vern," McBride said. "We're terrifically sorry he's made this decision, but our loss is Southern's gain. He's got the capabilities of doing a tremendous job at the university level.

Pollock is bringing with him to SIU Jim McAdams, a linebacker, and a guard and a member of the Illinois All-Stars that played against Missouri at St. Louis.

Clay Appeals Sentence

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) - Clay's seven-year sentence of systematic exclusion of Negroes from draft boards by the armed forces was reduced today as Cassius Clay's lawyers asked a court to set aside his five-year sentence for refusal to enter military service.

"Clay was not in the courtroom as the special three-judge panel of the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals heard the plea of the former heavyweight champion.

He received the maximum sentence and a $10,000 fine when he was convicted last June 20 of refusing to enter Army service and leaving Carbondale level. He is a shortstop. As a position with Utah State.

"I'd be the first to say it is desirable and that we are moving in the right direction but this problem is not involved in this case. We thought Clay was treated fairly."

SIU's Vernon
Sets Jump Mark

SIU's John Vernon set a school record in the high jump at the Mason-Dixon games this past week in Washington, D.C.

"I was wanting an opportu-ny at Carbondale to do."

Sincere,

Donald N. Boydston,

Pollock is trying to recruit Mike Cochran, who played under him last season. Cochran will not make a decision until after baseball season, so he may sign a pro-contract or play at the college level. He is a shortstop.

Vern Pollock, 31, is getting positive response. He's received a ferrant treament had a Negro been on his Louisville, Ky., staff. But he was happy to leave Carbondale level.

"There has been systematic exclusion of Negroes from Selective Service boards in the South and particularly in the state in which I handled this case," Morgan said.

ASS'T U.S. Atty. Carl Walker Jr., a Negro, in answering a question said it is highly desirable that any administrative or governmental agency be read to be constituted.

"I'd be the first to say it is desirable and that we are moving in the right direction but this problem is not involved in this case. We thought Clay was treated fairly."

Pollock replaces Jim Lauchek on the football staff. Lauchek resigned earlier to actain a position with Utah State.

Impressive Win
Indicates Starting 5 Finally Found

It may have come 21 games too late but those 21 games in 71-57 victory over Northern Michigan may have been the game SIU Coach Jack Hartman finally found his starting lineup.

Dick Garrett

Hampered all year by a lack of consistent scoring from one of the top spots at the 3-spot, Hartman finally is getting positive response. Garrett was guard from guard Craig
Taylor and center Howard Keene.

The duo accounted for 30 of the Salukis 71 points against the Wildcats and pulled down nine rebounds between them.

Taylor, who earned a starting nod in an earlier game with Southwest Missouri State, finally found the range from outside. He is now a consistent game and connected for seven of 10 field goal attempts and two of three from the free throw line to finish the game with 16 points, his career high.

Keene had been trying to duplicate his 22-point performance against Kansas State for two straight games, and scored on seven of eight from the floor for 14 points.

Taylor and Keene took 18 shots between them and comple ted four of seven shots.

Forward Dick Garrett
contin ued his torrid scoring pace and finished the contest with 25 points coming on 10 of 17 from the floor and five of six from the charity stripe.

He was also outstanding on defense and held Northern Michigan's Dave Kova
c scoreless in the first half.
Kovac, who went into the game's scoring, did not score in the game, managed only one shot during the entire half. He finished the game with 20
points.

Forward Dick Garrett
created a big scoring pace and finished the contest with 25 points coming on 10 of 17 from the floor and five of six from the charity stripe.

The veteran of the Wildcats, Dick Garrett, who went into the score, did not score in the game, managed only one shot during the entire half. He finished the game with 20
points.

Junior forward Chuck Ben-on could do a creditable job on defense holding the Wildcat's center Mike Lloyd, who went into the game with a 10 point scoring average, managed only one bucket in the entire game.

Ted Rose, the Wildcats' super-soph, finished with 20 points to lead his team. The 6-6 forward connected on eight of 18 from the field and four of five from the free throw line to account for his total.
