Medical Care Need Poses Dilemma

How to provide medical care for 150 to 200 students daily, with a staff of three doctors and eight nurses, in a converted private residence is a dilemma that demands urgent solution.

Many of the patients may soon find the waiting line so long they may have to wait days for treatment. Already the situation is undesirable, because the hospital must miss several classes while waiting to see a doctor for treatment.

"Many times we have just two doctors for 200 patients," said Dr. Lee, "and many of these see two-at-a-time. What would 100 of them do if one of us had to leave?"

Those with ailments that can't wait have the choice of going to a Carbondale doctor or going home. The first alternative is undesirable because each time the student went out of town the student must call the hospital and the second is not practical because the hospital must miss classes.

What are the reasons behind the currently shaky status of the University Health Service? The obvious culprit is expansion—expansion of SIU's enrollment but not of the Health Service.

"This service started as a joke," said Morris. "If the enrollment increases the same as we started, the health service will have to be expanded.

Morris's Office Picketed by ROTC Foes

William V. Moore, SIU sophomore from Carbondale, has launched a personal campaign against compulsory ROTC with a picket line at the residence of President Delyte W. Morris.

"There will be further direct action until compulsory ROTC is abolished from this campus," said one of the pickets told the Daily Egyptian.

Morris personally began the picketing at 7:30 yesterday morning. Two students were scheduled for each hour, but by Tuesday afternoon the group had grown to a half-dozen, including one counter-picket.

Grads Can Section Saturday Morning

The Sectioning Center has given special consideration to graduating students by helping them speed up registration for spring quarter.

A special line will be set up for the returning seniors, which will include a duplicate issued to the first student. In addition, graduate students will be assigned appointments on an option basis, thus making it unnecessary for them to wait in line.

A Story With a Moral

Frustrated Thief Returns Hot Auto Sticker; No Regrets-But It Might Burn His Fingers

"Too hot to handle" was the conclusion reached by a car theft at SIU yesterday when he returned a stolen parking sticker.

The unidentified student apparently wasn't too concerned with the difference between right and wrong - only with what to do with the stolen property. He feared he would be caught if he used the sticker.

In a letter sent to Joseph F. Zaleski, assistant dean of the office of student affairs, the student who signed himself Lesy, explained the dilemma that confronted him.

The letter follows, misspellings and all:

Dear Sir,

In a fit of desperation I procured this parking sticker by illegal means. It's not any convenience that bothers me, but what to do with it now that I've got it. It's too hot to sell - I could use it myself as was originally intended, but my luck would have it, I would probably get caught.

I thought of destroying it; however, its insincere value is to me greater than one of the great art pieces. Therefor I am returning it to you and I hope that you will forward it to its original owner. There remains nonetheless a moral to this very sad story and it is: "He who leaves his parking sticker in the car with the window open and unmounted tempts the uncoupable!"

Regrettfully,

Prometheus

Dean Zaleski said the parking sticker that was stolen was a duplicate issued to James E. Bennett who had reported its loss. If it had been found in the thief's auto "it would have resulted in a serious situation," Dean Zaleski said.

"I admire him (the thief) for returning it, but I'm not sure why he took it. The consequences would have been quite serious, the Dean added, as the parking sticker issued a third parking ticket.

During the morning several members of the AFROTC, including one officer, "crossed the picket line," and entered the president's office. Morris launched a personal campaign to comment on the matter, saying that he wanted to give the matter more thought before making a statement.

"I'm not sure how to proceed," said Morris. "I decided to take action when a letter to President Morris and a provost to stop the action failed to get satisfactory results.

I have set out my reasons for advocating abolition of compulsory ROTC in the letter, which I mailed to Morris on Thursday, expressing that he was speaking for the student body."

Morris's reply was received Monday and advised Moore to seek action through the Student Council.

"We tried to get action from the council," Moore told the Daily Egyptian. "But it failed to act in any positive manner. It is the action they have taken that I am unhappy with."

"The administration doesn't have to wait for the Student Council anyway," Moore contended. "It could take the initiative upon itself, That's what happened at the University of Illinois.

Morris said he felt most of the students going by the picket line favored voluntary ROTC.

"One has yet to go by who has expressed any opposition to the idea."

Shortly after he made the comment, however, someone passed by and, looking him in the eye, said: "Don't you feel like a fool?"

The passer-by was a girl.

"I was up and headed back to my car," said Moore. "I don't feel like an American."

Students View Library Change As Necessary, Although Hectic

Here today and gone tomorrow is the current story at Morris Library. Entire rows of books disappear from the main floor one day and show up on the third the next. Social Science has suddenly become Science and the Education and Humanities libraries are soon to join the scavenger. This is the year of the change at Morris Library which is now entering its final phase of enlarging, reorganizing and relocating.

The library staff is weathering the confusion like veterans of moving campaigns but what about the students?

Dialogue Series Will Probe Into Ideological Differences

"Dialogue," a new series of programs that will utilize audio and visual material in formulating and analyzing points of conflict, opens at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Family Living Lounge of the Home Economics building.

"Dialogue" will seek to analyze and understand conflict arising from ideological, social, political and economic differences.

The first program will be presented by Tom Quinn and William Penwick of the Government Department and Alan Rosenthal of the Higher Education Department. They will discuss "Democracy and the Emerging Nations."

An audience participation discussion will follow.

What do they think of the change? And can there be any hope for clarification of directions like:

"The book will either be on the main floor, or on the third floor, or on an elevator somewhere in between."

These questions were put to students in the library. Some were racing from floor to floor, or scurrying between shelves, looking for the book that "has to be here somewhere."

Dan Danielczik, a junior from Harwood Heights, said "It's a little hectic now for studying, but it'll be better in the long run. I think the new system will be less confusing."

Jim Sartoris, a sophomore from Troy, was less concerned. "It doesn't bother me," he said. "I don't think it affects the study habits of the students in the library in any way."

"Newspaper in Classroom" Workshop Set for Summer

A "Newspaper in the Classroom" workshop, designed to help teachers use newspapers as an educational tool, will be held again this summer on the SIU campus. Sponsoring the workshop, to be conducted July 27 through Aug. 5, will be the Missouri Press Association, the Southern Illinois Educational Association, the St. Louis Globe-Democrat and the SIU Department of Journalism.

This is the second year for an educational program sponsored by the Missouri Press Association. Last year 16 teachers participated. This year a limit of 30 has been set and Howard R. Long, chairman of the journalism department and workshop director, said the workshop would like to see the quota filled.

Long said the course would develop plans for classroom use of newspapers in high schools, junior high schools and elementary schools. The faculty will consist of SIU staff members and members of the working staff of newspapers and it will be a non-credit course. Thirty hours of college credit are offered.

Room, board, tuition and recreation for Illinois residents will be $100 for the ten days. For non-residents the cost will be $320. Resident commuters may attend on a $33 non-residents for $55.

The Globe-Democrat, which gave five scholarships last year, will award the same number for the 1964 workshop. Long said he hoped other newspapers would join the Globe-Democrat in offering one or more scholarships, in 1963 the Chicago Evening Citizen awarded three.

DAILY EGYPTIAN
Murrow Quits USIA, Rowan Appointed

WASHINGTON—Edward R. Murrow has resigned as director of the U.S. Information Agency, and John E. Foster has been named to replace him in the $21,000-a-year post. Rowan, 38, former newspaperman and author of the book "Brave Fool," will thus become the highest-ranking Negro in government and the first of his race to sit in meetings of the National Security Council. The USIA director is a member of the Johnson administration, but he has accepted a position in the Peace Corps.

Murrow, facing a long convalescence from lung cancer surgery, wrote Johnson, in a letter dated Dec. 19, that it was his duty to step down. Johnson, in his reply to Murrow, said he "will be sorely missed," had "done a magnificent job," and would be called upon for advice and help in the future.

Johnson, in turn, praised Rowan in a statement as "eminently qualified to supervise this vital program of telling America's story abroad."

Rowan is a native of Renville County, Texas. He grew up in McMinville, Tenn.

Budget Called 'Giant Step' To Economy

WASHINGTON--President Johnson sent Congress his $33.2 billion budget Tuesday, and called it "a giant step" toward the elimination of red-ink spending.

As he announced earlier, he recommended reduced defense spending and calls for the start of a trillion-dollar effort "to break the vicious circle of chronic poverty."

Spending for that program during fiscal 1966 has been planned at about $300 million. Johnson said that an aster- tere budget—his own term for the 473-page document—"need not and should not be a standstill budget."

Demanding "a pension for efficiency and economy" in government, the President said determined cost-cutting would not only produce the first federal spending cut in five years but also would free funds to meet unfilled needs—"notably the war on chronic poverty."

As is always the case— and so in Decade reactions—the reaction in Congress pretty much fol­ lowed party lines. Most Demo­crats applauded the spending­ tight and realistic. Republicans generally professed that they don't mind the planned cuts but hold off.

As GOP Senate Leader Everett Dirksen of Illinois put it: "I'm intrigued by the moment in Washington has been taken by the federal govern­ment in so many quarters with as much less money."

But the Democratic Senator's leader, Mike Mansfield of Montana, has said more than a few people have said in the past that Johnson has done this and can't do that. But Johnson has done what he has set out to do in most instances.

Carpentier Stricken, Quits Governor Race; GOP Political Picture in Illinois Redrawn

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — A heart attack forced Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter to withdraw Tuesday as a Republican candidate for gov­ernor, bringing a sharp reappraisal of the Illinois politi­cal picture.

The surprise development removed the candidate who had been considered well ahead in the fight for the GOP nomination, and improved the odds of Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner, a Democrat, the favorite of the field.

The 57-year-old Carpen­tier, who became ill a week ago and again Monday when campaigning, was reported resting comfortably in St. John's Hospital which he entered Monday night. Carpenter, who is com­pleting his second term as secretary of state, has long been a power in the Illinois Republican party. His followers call him "Mr. Republican."

Ralph Cronson, assistant secretary of state, said Car­penter's chances of recovery and his return to work "are excellent."

Dr. Gurham Grossing, who examined Carpenter, said he would be in the hospital a month and then have to rest at home perhaps two months. Percy, 44-year-old Bell and Howell executive, said he now regards himself as in being in capable hands in the effort to oppose Democratic Gov. Otto Kerner, Sr.

Robinson, who had been toying with the idea of staying out of the race himself, has made a move to get in. The announcement came a few hours after Carpenter's withdrawal.

Ballard Robertson, an all-out supporter of Gold­water, claimed that Robertson will pick up votes now, and become a strong contender, Robertson is party chairman of Cook County.
Superstitions Realism in Film

"Devil," a 1961 Indian film through which "old world superstition colliding with new world realism" is the second program of the winter term.

Professor William Harris of the Philosophy Department will deliver the prologue and lead the discussion at 8 p.m. Friday night in Brown Auditorium.

"Devil's" setting is modern-day, Burma. Director Pramod and his 17-year-old daughter-in-law conception of the goddess Kali, after proclaiming her vision, he places the scene, put on an altar outside his home. Tragedy in the film's end of the tale, but as a Christian, he is impressed with the film's "miracy" and "herdivinity."

The program is open to the entire campus community and there is no admission charge.

Remedies for Racial Problem

Told by Arkansas Clergyman

There is no place for racial prejudice," the Rev. W. O. Vaught told a Morris Library audience.

The Rev. W. O. Vaught, pastor of Emmanuel Baptist Church in Little Rock, discussed the topic in Little Rock to Birmingham.

Mr. Vaught said he came not as a scholar or lawyer, but as a Christian. He was an eyewitness to the initial civil rights movement at Central High School in Little Rock.

Vaught said the racial problem could be remedied by:
1. Giving a new evaluation to democracy.
2. Placing a new emphasis on the universal goal of education.
3. Developing the right kind of democracy to bring liberty and justice.
4. Preaching "the Gospel of Love" which would break down racial walls.
5. "The solution to ease the racial crisis lies in Christianity," he said. He quoted a Quaker growth concerning race and religion, "We do not change the world for the change we do not change the men but we change their hearts.

A discussion session followed his speech.

The Rev. W. O. Vaught is a Mississippi cotton farmer and learned of the racial problem at an Arkansas church where he is the doctorate at Mississippi College and has recently toured Europe with the State Department.

Recreation Needs for Handicapped Will Be Outline

William H. Freeberg, chairman of the SIU Department of Recreation and Outdoor Education, believes a community has definite responsibilities to conduct recreation programs for the handicapped child.

Freeberg will speak on the subject Thursday at a coast in Chicago sponsored by the Committee on Camping and Outdoor Education of the Welfare Council of Metropolitan Chicago. He will relate community responsibilities with special emphasis on the retarded child.

"There are many handi­caps who lack opportunities for activities of any kind and they are usually the persons who have the most leisure," Freeberg said. "So many of these, with opportunities for physical and social development, can become productive citizens."

Information on vacation trips to the West Coast is available from Dr. Freeberg in the Department of Recreation and Outdoor Education at 305 Science Hall.

Automation's Problems Called Soluble

Social problems arising from automation can be worked out within the framework of democracy, a pro­fessor of psychology told at SIU Monday.

"Our immediate problem is to prevent misery and hysteria while the give and take process of democracy is evolving the solution," Professor Al­fred Lit said.

Automation, according to Lit, is a second industrial re­volution that has its origin during World War II with applica­tion of steel to the vacuum tube (electronics). Unlike the first industrial revolution, which started in the 18th Century with emphasis on labor saving, this second revolution involves labor replacement.

The professor, who has seen the birth of a new profes­sion, the scientist, said, "Human engineers," special­ists within the broader field of psychology, are analyzing 20th Century problems to see what man can best do, what machines can do, and how to achieve a "happy marriage" between the two. "Rising is certain," Lit said. "Man must not have a secondary role in the world."

Superstitions in Film

One of the most interesting androcentric theories advanced in a long many has recently been advanced by that interest­ing anthropologist, E. W. Dunning, chair of the chair of Interesting Academic Theories at the St. Louis College of Footwear and Educational Philosophy. Dr. Ewbank said that the University Center at the University of Illinois is the only one of the five-foot coed figuring in the a that out-OF-State. She is no longer an English major.

The tables have been fairly well monopolized by the lesser sex. Outside, a long line of makes stalls while waiting for tables to open up, some threaten to close down. A co-ed whose future has been installed for the gathering. Other female spectators are doing their nails while watching and socializing.

It can't happen here, one assures oneself.

But the gorm is being cultured at Chautauqua. One of the last main domains being invaded. The pool hall threat­ens to go the way of the saloon, and soon must retreat to the woods if its integrity is to be maintained.

The laws of motion.

The program is open to the entire campus community and there is no admission charge.

Off-Campus Group Seeks Assistance

James Strachan, president of the Off-Campus Students Association, said the present need exists for students to help fill vacancies in this association.

It is primarily concerned with helping off-campus living. today as its "off-campus student education group."

"Its objective is to help in many ways that involve the off­ campus living, as well as its "off-campus student education group."

One of the off-campus groups is "the students and area resi­ dents," Strachan said.

This paper, known as the Southern Independent, will soon be printed on a small printing machine in the town where the students and area resi­ dents," Strachan said.

The "purpose of this paper is to give off-campus students a place to voice their opinions," explained Strachan.

Students interested in this association may contact Strachan in the Memorial Building, office of the Student Affairs Office between 1 and 3 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays in Room 3-2301.

Insight to Heritage of Ideas

American Ideas edited by

By selected readings the authors hope to provide an insight to the ideas that contain the heritage of the United States citizen. This book is divided into two volumes. Vol. I, "Foundations," covers the period 1265-1895. This section includes 77 selections by 68 authors. Omission of certain sections and the deletion of certain authors is not accepted. In the introduction, many of the basic themes are recurring almost in a symphony -- religious, economic, political and social aspects in the states, rights, education for the people, the place of government, the national government, etc.

One is reminded that present day historians expressing themselves on the philosophy of the past and (2) the social living of the editors. The second section of the book which includes an attempt at the themes that concern the present. By using only selections by the editors, the United States, the impact of thought development and the heritage of the world is minimized by the editors.

The authors attempt to bridge the gap with explainations. The book develops a synthesis and a new interpretation of an old idea. In today's highly specialized world, we feel a mastery of only one discipline may be a major hiatus quest but a study of the entire world is whether concerned with philosophical concepts, economics, politics, or the physical and biological sciences frequently requires an interdisciplinary approach.

Developments in any one discipline have varying impacts on developments in other disciplines, creating a complex and functional framework within which man must live.

The variety offered in this cafeteria of thought ranges from the writings of Thomas Morton to Charles G. Finney, from William Lloyd Garrison to Billy Sunday, from Reinhold Niebuhr to Billy Graham, from Bernard De Voto to Thomas Jefferson and Thomas Paine, to Elia Kazan, Arthur Miller, William Shenstone, and John F. Kennedy.

There are Emerson, Thoreau, Tocqueville, Howl, Lippmann, and Dewey -- a leisurely read.

This should give some idea of the range of subjects and philosophies included. The selections are subject to criticism.

Novel Puts Black Republic

In Central Plains of U.S.

This novel examines America's racial problem with a speculative look at Negro nationhood. It portrays a leader of a movement to establish a Black Republic within the United States. The book is written from the eyes of a white type operator, who is a leader of the movement in his earlier years.

If all wanted to be a full American," the leader tells his friend, at the climax of his life-long work toward proposing the independence of the Afro-American nation within the heart of the continent.

Americans who have been following the recent trends of the Negro movement within the United States may develop in diverse directions. The book gives many questions concerning legal, political, civil rights legislation, and the role of the Afro-American world in the manifestations of the movement. The question, whose African-American sentiments are without a European national society, builds this speculative case for one of the more extreme and controversial questions. Its development does not convey a feeling of validity and realism, but such a movement can and has occurred. For those who believe in a movement toward unrealistic solutions the purpose of illustrating how an extreme solution can move into a vacuum created by the absence of reasonable and genuine movement is a major and possible that could fill a need. The author's development of the movement lacks many elements which would make it more real. However, the use of a fictional sensor makes it possible to lead the reader in the direction of Kentuckys expected development of stereotyped southern political structures. Their speech was just too corny to be attributed realism.

At several points in the book the author feels the need for a word, phrase or sentence that would carry the book out of context and dispensing with the need to return to the American, but the answers were not wholly successful. The fact that you hear so little of it these days.

Yes, Jack, the reason truth is stranger than fiction is that fact you hear so little of it these days.

Thomas Johnson of Osceola visited Jacksonsville and New England. The Johnson of the Louis group, Hiram Jones, was a well known person between Jacksonsville and New England and kept in close contact with the Johnson of his group and the strong Hegelian sentiment that was the center of his group.

The underlying motivation of these earnest and hard working philosophers was to discover an idea that was not following the materialism of the era. They obviously failed to stem the ideas that were to come, philosophically by Herbert Spencer, but metaphorically by Charles Darwin in vain. There is some evidence that their spoken and published ideas served to soften the harder, tougher view of the era.

We owe Dr. Anderson a vote of thanks for helping fill the gap in the intellectual history of the Midwest. At the same time, we students are discovering similar motivating factors in the continuing study of other parts of the Midwest.

This is much yet to be learned about these precepts of reflective thought, and Dr. Anderson's book can be a guide for students to sift out similar stories.
Mitchell Gallery Has Exhibit Of Japanese 'sado' Drawings

The first United States exhibit of "sado" drawings by a Japanese woodcut artist, is on display today in the SIU Mitchell Art Gallery.

A national award-winning calligrapher, created the drawing which will be displayed until Feb. 8.

Touring Peruvian All-Star Team to Meet Saluki Cagers Thursday at Bowen Gym

A touring Peruvian All-Star team makes an Illinois appearance Thursday when it meets Southern's basketball team at 8 p.m. in Carbondale's Bowen Gym.

The All-Star, Peru's national champions from Lima, will represent their country in next summer's Olympics at Tokyo, Japan. The Olympics are currently on an extended tour of the United States, where they have met team from the national basketball teams of Italy, Greece, Turkey, Austria, Sweden and Peru.

His record against seven points, the Salukis lost to the Hurricanes by 13 points. The majority of the Peruvian team represented their country in the recent South American championships and placed second. They finished fifth in the Pan American games, thus qualifying for the Olympic Games.

Ricardo Durante is the captain and outstanding player with an average of 31 points per game. The 6-7 center averaged 29 points per game during the 1961 tour of the United States.

Since 1953 he has coached abroad and posted a record of 214 against 74 bose, as coach of the national teams of Italy, Greece, Turkey, Austria, Sweden and Peru. His record with Peru has been exceptional, bringing them from fifth to second place in South American in two years.

Phillips Receives Research Grant

James L. Phillips, a graduate student in social psychology, has been awarded a two-year post-doctoral Research Fellowship by the National Institutes of Health (NIH) of the U.S. Public Health Service.

Phillips currently holds a National Science Foundation Cooperative Graduate Fellowship at S.U.

The Peruvian Air Force team will meet the Saluki reserves in a 5:45 preliminary game.
Need for Medical Care Poses Dilemma for Students, SIU

kind of first-aid station, with the attending physician on the teaching staff and this as more of a sideline," explained Dr. Lee. "Then we had a commuter population of about 3,000, which has grown to a resident population of over 10,000. We now have to care for a population as large as Carbondale itself," he added.

Schools of a size comparable to Southern have a doctor-patient ratio of one doctor per 1,000 students. With an enrollment of 12,700, this would thus be about eight or nine doctors short.

The University at present provides the staff, and Dr. Lee isn't finding fault with the administration. He is certain that they (the administration) are very limited in what they can do," he said.

What can be done to help solve the problem? Dr. Lee feels that it may be up to the students. Currently, SU medical students pay $40 per quarter, and $95 per year, just for health insurance. Because Southern's hospital cases are taken to either of the local hospitals, the University at present provides the staff, and Dr. Lee is determined to get the University further involved in this project.

Self-Advisement Available to Some

Self-advisement is only for upperclassmen who are on good scholastic standing. According to Jack Graham, assistant director of admissions, students are still encouraged to see their academic advisor for approval of appropriate vocational and educational plans.

Qualified students who desire to be self-advised may do so between 8:45 and 11:45 a.m. Monday through Friday at the Academic Advisement Center.

Graham emphasized that "all students are reminded to come in and fill out a schedule request form before seeing their advisor at scheduled times," he added. Students may pick-up spring schedules from General Publications, 113 E. Grand.

"A corrective class schedule can be made in the Admissions Center reading room to help students in course planning," Graham said.

Vengeful Varsity Reserves Hand
Frosh Cagers Their First Loss

The Saluki freshman cagers got their first sampling of the bitter taste of defeat as they dropped a 74-66 decision to the varsity reserves.

The victory was sweet revenge for the reserves, who lost to the frosh earlier this year 72-62.

The win was an uphill battle for Coach George Lubell for the reserves as they overcame a 37-34 deficit at the half. Dave Renn sparked the attack for the freshmen in the first half as he pumped in 14 points. The former Belleville prep cager was aided by teammate Walt Frazier whose nine points helped give the frosh their three point lead at intermission.

The reserves came out of the locker room hungry for revenge in the second half as they outscored their younger opponents 40-29 to gain the victory. Clem Quillman, second highest scorer of the game, with 22 points, spearheaded the attack for the reserves in the second half as he scored 12 points. Quillman was followed closely by teammates Roger Yates and George Lacy who added 11 and 10 points respectively to their team's second half surge.

Frazier and Lacy tied for the game's scoring honors as they each marked up 24 points. Frazier outscored the rest of his team in the second half as he accounted for 15 of the freshmen's points in that sorry period.

The next game for Coach George Lubell's freshmen will be Thursday night when they hit the road for a game with Mt. Vernon Junior College.

Track Team Wins in Chicago

SIU's track team won eight of 14 events in the annual Chicagoland indoor meet held Saturday in Chicago.

Jim Lee, a freshman from Washington, D.C., took top honors in the 60 yard dash with a 6.5 second and the 200 yard dash in 22.7 seconds to lead the salukis.

Other first place winners for Coach Lew Hartung's squad included Bill Cornell with a 1:53:1 time in the 880, Gary Carr in the 440 with a time of 50 seconds. Herman Gary with a time of 6.9 in the low hurdles, and John Jesser in the three-mile with a 14:44.7 time.

Jack Leydig led the field in the 3000 meter steeplechase with a time of 9:55.8, and George Woods tossed the shot put 57 feet 3 inches for first place in that event.
