River Safety Will Be Studied
For Coast Guard

SIU's Transportation Institute has been selected by the U.S. Coast Guard to direct and coordinate "Operation Riversafe," a study of handling dangerous cargoes on the nation's inland waterways.

A grant of $18,025 has been allocated for the initial phase.

Alexander R. MacMillan, director of the Transportation Institute, said the project was an outgrowth of a meeting with Coast Guard officials here March 12, after Southern was selected for the task because of its recognized inland waterways program and short courses including those for Towboat Masters and Marine Chemists.

Work on the project will start immediately, MacMillan said. First priority will be recruiting of a research director, two assistants and a secretary. Second will be the coordination of such research now being done by public and private firms, organizations and individuals as would contribute to the better handling of dangerous cargoes.

History Society To Meet Here

Southern will be host for the 64th annual meeting of the Illinois State Historical Society, William A. Pitkin, a vice president of the Society and member of the SIU history faculty, has announced.

Plans for the fall meeting will be considered this weekend as the organization has its spring tour at Galena, Mr. and Mrs. Pitkin will attend, and stay at Galena's historic old DeSoto Hotel.

The meeting will be held October 4-6 at Pitkin is chairman of local arrangements. The program includes tours of the campus, a banquet in the University Center Ballroom, entertainment by the Southern Players and the Men's Glee Club, and exhibits by various university departments.

President's Sister To Spend
Four Days At SIU Meeting

Sargent Shriver, director of the Peace Corps who was expected at SIU Monday, will not arrive until Thursday to attend the Institute for Directors of Children's Day Camps for the Mentally Retarded.

His wife, Eunice, sister of President John F. Kennedy, has sent word she will arrive on Wednesday and stay at the Institute for the rest of the week.

Mrs. Shriver is the executive vice president of the Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr. Foundation, Washington D.C., an organization interested in the care and treatment of the mentally retarded.

William F. Price, is coordinating the Institute which will be held at Little Grassy. About 40 from eight states have registered to take the training. Price said Mrs. Shriver is expected to participate in the program as visiting consultant.

A special election to choose the Carbendale Campus representatives to the new All-University Student Senate will be held Wednesday, May 29.

The date was set by the Student Council during Thursday night's meeting. Petitions of recommendation for the new campus representatives will be accepted at the Student Government Office and deadline for returning the petitions is May 22.

A new election for fraternity senator will also be held in conjunction with the May 29 election. The new election is necessary since the Elections Commission ruled that Robert Quall, chosen for the position in April, violated campaign regulations earlier this month, is ineligible because he placed campaign posters in Thompson Woods in violation of campaign rules.

The Council set next Wednesday, May 22, as the date for another special election to choose a second out-town senator. Since more than 500 ballots were cast for that position in the all-campus elections, the area is entitled to another senator.

It was announced after the recent elections that Thompson Point would be entitled to a third senator due to the large number of voters that turned out. However, it was later announced that many of the voters were instructed to vote for two candidates so the actual number of voters was approximately half what was previously announced and the area will not receive a third senator.

Several resolutions concerning the Daily Egyptian were approved at Thursday night's meeting. One resolution recommended that the Journalism Council make a study of the nature of comments by students, particularly regarding the Daily Egyptian and suggest improvements.

The Council recommended approval of the budget request of the Egyptian's activity fee allocation request and that approval of the present budget by the Communications Office be delayed, pending findings of the Communications Office.

It was also recommended that the proposed home delivery plan of the Daily Egyptian be delayed by one year and that a board be set up to determine broad policies concerning the Egyptian.

SIU Track Team In Final Home Appearance

Meets Notre Dame
In Stadium Tonight

A capacity crowd is expected for tonight's SIU-Notre Dame track meet in McAndrew Stadium. The meet will start at 7:30 with the field events and running races to be held at the same time.

Students will be admitted by presenting activity cards at the door on the west side of the stadium. All other persons will be charged $1 for admission.

Tonight's meet will be the first home appearance for Harroz's track squad which last week beat Western Michigan in its only other home appearance.

Notre Dame finished second last year in the Central Colle­giate Conference outdoor meet which was won by Western Michigan.

The Fighting Irish will come into this evening's meet fresh from an impressive victory in the Indiana meet which includes schools from all Indiana. Notre Dame scored 115 points in the meet and Purdue was next with 59.

John Saunders, Alan Geiso and Ed Houston all will be competing for SIU for the last time tonight. They are the only seniors on the squad.

Hartroz plans to alter his entry list slightly for this evening's meet.

Bob Green will run the 220 in the sprint event. Peters will replace Green in the 330-yard intermediate and will be scheduled to run in the half­mile.

Charles Warren will enter the broad jump, high jump and hop-step-jump events in­ available tonight. It has been bothering him during the week and Harroz was hopeful that it would be right in time for the meet.

Perhaps the featured race of the Indiana meet will be the quarter-mile race which will find Saunders and Houston in the starting gate.

Notre Dame's Bill Boyle has been timed at 47.8 seconds which is faster than the record.

Another top attraction prom­ised to the meet will be Notre Dame's Pete White­house and Jim Mulrooney have been timed in 14.5 seconds and Green, SIU's record­ holder in the event has been timed in 14.1 seconds.

Modern Dancers To Display Their Own Creations Tonight

"Modern dancing is the interpretation of an idea or emotion which uses a fresh vocabulary of movement." This was the explanation of Mrs. Fred Dakak, advisor to the Modern Dance Club, which will give its annual concert at 8 o'clock tonight in Shryock Auditorium.

"The students have done their own choreography either individually or in a group effort. I only gave assistance if the staging was poor," the tall blond teacher added.

The group, composed of three boys and 16 girls, has originated 11 dances for the Saturday night performance. Members helping with choreography are: Tost Antoine, Ruth Trotter, Martie Yarbrough, Nona Mundy, and Joyce Simon.

"Modern dancing can be organized about a piece of music which the person likes or about a story which the person wishes to tell," explained Mrs. Dakak.

"The latter is used in one of our numbers entitled 'Interaction.' In this number the years' experience is to present the upper-lower class struggle."

When asked to explain modern dancing in laymen's terms, Mrs. Dakak answered with a history of dance. "Classical ballet has always been rigid and formal, using the same basic steps to formulate new patterns. By the 1900's, dancers felt this form was not expressive enough. They wished to free themselves from the same set of steps and the result was modern dancing—which has no set patterns or steps.

"Most people don't know what to look for in a modern dance. They are looking for something which the person gets used to." The audience should sit back and get in the mood of the dance. We realize that the dances will not appeal to everyone all the time," Mrs. Dakak said.

"But sometimes we do a humorous dance and everyone is afraid to laugh. Just relax and enjoy each number as you like it, fine, if you don't, that's Oak, too."

"In an area where there is an exposure to professional groups, naturally there is more interest in a small town where there is little exposure."

At SIU those students coming from high schools and having previous dance experience are better acquainted with the modern dance form. Costumes and staging have been done by the group. "For some reason, it seems easier to stage dances in odd-numbered groups, such as three, five, or seven," added Mrs. Dakak.

The Modern Dance Club, which meets two nights a week for a spring term, attracts both experience and inexperience in several persons into its membership, she said.

Diplomatic sources said yesterday Soviet Premier Khrushchev is keeping the door carefully open for further negotiations on a nuclear test ban.

Westerners expect the recent correspondence among President Kennedy, Prime Minister Harold MacMillan and Khrushchev to continue. This in itself is interpreted as a sign that the three nuclear powers believe there is still a chance to salvage the test ban negotiations in Geneva after 4 1/2 years of frustration.

President Kennedy conferred yesterday with Chairman Glenn T. Seaborg of the Atomic Energy Commission, who flies to Moscow today to sign a new agreement on peaceful uses of atomic energy.

Seaborg's principal mission in the Soviet Union will be to sign a memorandum extending through 1963 an American-Soviet agreement on cooperation in the peaceful uses of atomic energy.

The old agreement has been considered a success and the AEC has said the new version will contain additional provisions of interest to scientists of both countries.

Officials Report Coloring Book Not Banned.

A university spokesman said yesterday that the Student Interest Union's coloring book has not been banned on the SIU campus.

In an advertisement in Friday's Daily Egyptian, the book was advertised as being "banned from this campus.

Elizabeth Mullins, coordinator of student activities, said the student who published the book sought permission earlier this week to sell it on campus.

"I told him that I would seek a legal opinion on the matter because of the use of 'SU,'" Mullins said. "He has not returned for our final conference and I have not received a legal opinion on the matter yet.

She added that she did not believe arrangements had been made to sell the book on campus.

Carl Trobaugh, manager of the bookstore in the Univer­sity Center, said the student publisher allowed him a copy of the book and asked if the bookstore would sell it.

"I told him I'd take the issue up with my superiors as I do in all such cases of selling special items such as this," Trobaugh said. "So far my superiors haven't said yes or no."
SIU Trackmen Give Opponents The Run-Around

The 1963 college track season is all over for SIU but the three big ones--Central Collegiate Conference, California Relays and the NCAA meets.

In competition this spring, the Salukis have won one of two dual meets, beating Western Michigan 67-60 and losing to Kansas 74-70. Coach Lew Hartzog's track squad placed in each relay carnival it competed in this spring. SIU's sprint medley relay turned in the finest effort of the season taking a first place at the Drake Relays with a 3:18.7--the fastest time in the U.S. this season.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. -- Astronaut L. Gordon Cooper watched the Atlas die as the pilot rocketed back to earth. He had started his 22-orbit space flight the previous Wednesday. Highly sophisticated radar and computing machines determined almost instantly that Cooper had achieved the proper orbit. The decision was "go." A second decision came as the end of the first orbit was reached. By then dozens of monitors and sensing devices had reported to the ground that Cooper was in excellent physical shape, that his suit and cabin temperatures were okay, that all systems were green. The decision this time was "go" for a block of seven orbits, or six more.

Decision number four came at the end of seven orbits. Again all available information was tabulated and analyzed. A signal was sent as a go-ahead for 17 orbits.

Mercury officials tabbed four critical points in the flight plan for making what they called "go, no-go" decisions. In other words, whether to let Cooper continue or to bring him back to earth.

The first "go, no-go" decision was made just after the five-minute powered takeoff of the Atlas rocket Wednesday. Highly sophisticated radar and computing machines determined almost instantly that Cooper had achieved the proper orbit. The decision was "go." A second decision came as the end of the first orbit was reached. By then dozens of monitors and sensing devices had reported to the ground that Cooper was in excellent physical shape, that his suit and cabin temperatures were okay, that all systems were green. The decision this time was "go" for a block of seven orbits, or six more.

The third decision was made at the end of seven orbits. Again all available information was tabulated and analyzed. A signal was sent as a go-ahead for 17 orbits.

Decision number four came at the end of 17 trips, when the final decision was made, on trying for the full 22 orbits.

If an emergency had developed, Fourth decision would have been brought to earth immediately.

The last-ditch efforts came at a time when the Soviet Union was seeking to accelerate.

Informed sources in Moscow said Premier Khruzhchev told both President Kennedy and Prime Minister Harold Macmillian last week that he will make no more concessions on the failure than issued Wednesday.

WASHINGTON -- The railroad said Wednesday five operating railroad brotherhoods have agreed to resume efforts Monday to reach a settlement in their work rules dispute before a June 12 deadline for a nationwide strike.

Soccer Teams

End Season Today At 4

The final game of the soccer season will be played this afternoon at 4 o'clock on the practice football field.

This year the season has been cut short because of lack of teams. However, at least one person is predicting that by 1965 it will be a part of the regular intramural sports schedule.

Ray Knecht, assistant intramural sports director, said, "The sport is catching considerable interest here at Southern, and we hope to get it off to a good start by integrating it into the intramural schedule."

Soccer started at Southern a few years ago when a number of foreign students gathered to play on weekends. It wasn't really an organized thing, but they enjoyed themselves anyway.

Today, there are five organized teams which play on weekends. Knecht said, "The University is trying to go all out for soccer because foreign students, in particular, seem to enjoy the game, and there aren't too many other sports that they participate in here."

"One of the teams, called the Bluebirds, is made up of Americans and South Africans," Knecht said.

Albert Chan, captain of the Orientals, said, "Soccer players from Southern, of which he was a member, was beaten badly by a St. Louis team.

"We hope to do better in years to come when we become more organized," he said.

Chinese Police Educator Oves

Most successful men will tell you that they owe their career to hard work and determination. But not K'o-Wang Mei, dean of the School of Police Science at Taipei, Taiwan. He has a weak stomach to thank for his career as Free China's top police educator.

The tall, soft-spoken Oriental studied medicine for one year but admits frankly:

"The study of anatomy and my stomach didn't get along. Every time I went into the laboratory and operated on a cadaver my stomach revoluted."

"It was much like an allerand no amount of practice seemed to help it, so I was finally forced to give up the study of medicine," he added.

The hard work and deter-tion came next.

"I was interested in police work and finally decided to make this my profession," he explained.

K'o-Wang Mei was educated in China and the United States and received a masters degree from Washington and Lee University in 1946.

Mei, who is visiting SIU for five days to confer with officials of the Center for the Study of Crime, Delinquency and Correction, said that in the years shortly after World War II his school had some 12,000 students on six campuses in various parts of the Chinese mainland.

However, it was forced to close and move to Taiwan in 1949 when the communists came to power.

According to Mei, the school remained closed until 1954 when he was appointed dean and ordered to reopen the school.

Now, nine years later, the school has 400 students and offers a four-year program which gives bachelors degree, he said proudly.

Before being appointed dean of the police school, he had served in posts ranging from police lieutenant to head of the Nationalist Chinese government's Division of Criminal Investigation.

Mei expects to end a three-month tour of crime-detection prevention and correction institutions next week and return to Taiwan.

As an after thought, Mei allowed that perhaps there was some relation between the career he couldn't follow and the one he finally did.

"Doctors cure the diseases of the body and we cure the diseases of society," he said with a wry smile.
