Cycle Parade Is Orderly, Officials Say

The "Ride for Wheels" parade, sponsored Thursday evening by the Southern Illinois University Security Office, was a quiet affair, according to Carbondale police and the SIU Security Office.

However, some observers said the cyclists, several wearing German-style helmets, threw stones and other objects as decorations, drove at excessive speeds and made unnecessary noise.

A spokesman for the Police Department estimated that 60 motorcycle riders participated in the "ride" that was organized in protest against recent administrative action to restrict the use of cycles on the Carbondale campus.

Action Party officials said last week they expected from 200 to 300 students to participate in the parade.

A rally scheduled to follow the parade never came off as a number of riders drove through the campus a second time before splintering off into smaller groups and riding around the city.

Jack W. Graham, University dean of students, said that no reports of misconduct or foul play connected with the ride were registered in the Student Affairs Office.

Capt. Randall McBride of the Security Office said most students dispersed within half an hour of the start of the ride.

President Morris Urges Senate to OK Education Bill

President Delyte W. Morris recommended passage of the International Education Act in a statement delivered Friday before the Senate Subcommittee on Education.

Morris' statement was presented by William Titus, assistant to the vice president for student and area services.

He said new grants proposed in the bill, coupled with amendments to the National Defense Education Act, "will enable American education at all levels to bring the American generations nearer to the important goals of international understanding and world peace."

The bill would provide grants to U.S. schools to set up curricula and programs in the field of international education—"to introduce American students to the whole of their world and to all the people in it," as Morris stated.

It would also provide for regional international education centers and a Center for Educational Cooperation to pursue the total program.

In his statement, Morris cited the need to stop cutting educational opportunities, including grants and scholarships for foreign students, AID development grants, Peace Corps training programs, and on-campus courses and seminars.

Dates for Winter Registration Set

Seniors may make appointments for winter registration on Sept. 28 and Juniors may make appointments on Sept. 29 in Room 219 in the Wham Education Building.

Registration will begin on Oct. 3 and end at noon on Nov. 27. Seniors must continue on Nov. 28 until Dec. 17.

SIU Students Leap at Johnson's Request For Suggestions to Improve Draft System

President Johnson asked young people Thursday for suggestions on how the current draft system could be improved.

So, answering the call from their President, SIU students have come up with some suggestions for improving what the President called a "crazy quilt" system.

"Let's draft women," said Randy Clark, a junior from Catokia. "It wouldn't be necessary for them to carry guns and shoot Viet Cong, but it would take some of the load off the desk jobs back home.

"I feel there are many faults with the present system, and they should be corrected, preferably before October when I come up for reclassification."

"Much can be said for the concept of using other fields of service other than the draft, providing it doesn't become an escape mechanism to beat the draft," he said.

Clark was referring to the suggestion made by some officials that alternatives such as the Peace Corps be offered instead of military service.

Arnold Zann, a student from Shawnee, Illinois, thinks men should be called right after high school and before they begin college. He added that students should have a chance to finish college if they are really trying.

"They should have a more uniform system rather than leaving it up to local boards,"said Mike Schwelbe, a senior from Pinckneyville who is a 1-A classification the same day the President asked for suggestions.

"If they are going to have high draft quotas, they should review the reasons currently given that earn deferments. The most important point of all is to bring about an equality in the Selective Service selection," he added.

Curtain to Part At 8 in Stadium

The third annual Southern Follies talent show will begin at 8 p.m. today in McAlpine Stadium with all acts being presented on the Recitation Department show wagon.

Paul L. Enchelmayer and Janis Dunham are cochairmen for the event, which is sponsored by the Activities Programming Board. Members of the steering committee are Susan Anderson, Nartin Bowd in, Gloria Cassel, Marsha Epstein, Susan Klecka, Kathy Konnecker, Gwen Tate and Marsha Watson.

Jim Sackett, a student majoring in radio-television, will be the master of ceremonies.

The show will feature eight acts. Judi March in a ballet to "Peruvian Prayer" and "War Song"; Leslie Lamom singing "Don't Think Twice" and "I am a Rock"; Cindi Nolan baton twirling to the songs "Out of Limits" and "OOP!"; Tom Ohler playing folk songs on the guitar and banjo.

Sherry Wolf will present a jazz and folk act to the songs "Hello Dolly" and "Keep Your Eyes on the Horizon," James Cavazotta singing "Almost Like Being In Love" and "Count Your Blessings"; Carolyn Moll in a modern dance to "Walk on the Wild Side"; and Don Edg e dda singing "Dutch Dream" and "Paradise Returns."

First, second and third place trophies will be awarded to the winners. A panel of faculty members will serve as judges.

After the show there will be a dance at the north end of the stadium. The Busheens will play and admission to the dance and the show will be free.

In the case of rain the Follies will be presented at Davis Auditorium in the Wham Educational Building and the dance will be held at the Roman Room in the University Center.

Life Is Wild in Campus Woods

By Rick Jones

Would you believe a giant lard-backed armadillo?

Maybe this description doesn't quite fit SIU, but it is a good indication of the variety of animals found on campus.

The squirrels in Thompson Woods are a most familiar sight to students. A "cousin" to these squirrels, the flying squirrel, has also been spotted in the woods.

Rabbits, chipmunks and moles abound on campus and raccoons can be found in the woods surrounding Lake-on-the-Campus.

Birds of many types can be seen on campus. Nesting birds such as cardinals, mourning doves and woodpeckers flock to the wooded areas.

Migratory birds such as herons, geese and ducks converge on the lake. Occasionally during the winter a few sea gulls can be seen.

Warblers and various hawks are the other common migratory birds seen in this area.

The increase in campus landscaping has a lot to do with the variety of animals found on campus. Harvey L. Fisher, chairman of the Department of Zoology, feels that the increase in landscaping draws more wildlife—particularly nesting birds—to the campus.

However, too much landscaping can be a hindrance.

H.J. Stains, associate professor of zoology, said Thompson Woods used to be a haven until the lights and sidewalks were installed. The installation of the facilities destroyed many "deepling" areas and drove some animals from the woods.

Stains said it was conceivable the increasing amount of traffic through Thompson Woods could drive out all of the animals. However, this would be a very gradual process, taking many years.

Thus it appears SIU will continue to be a haven for wildlife for decades. Now, where do all the stray dogs come in?

Southern to Train Five in Research

Southern will train five doctoral students in research on problems of culturally deprived elementary school children.

J. Murry Lee, chairman of the Department of Elementary Education, said Southern has received a $30,000 grant from the U.S. Office of Education to carry the project through the 1966-67 school year. Four of the five students, who will be doing their first year of doctoral work, have been selected.

The four already chosen are Enno Lietz, an elementary school principal at Staunton; Siegfried Gene Mueller of Evanston, Ill., teacher and college; Gene Roome, an elementary school teacher in Evanston; and the language arts consultant, who most recently has been working on a Title II proposal for the Jefferson County school superintendent's office.

Lee said all of the students will pay each student $2,400 for the academic year, plus $400 for each dependent. The students will have full time to devote to research.

'Fair' Draft to Be Fulbright on KP?

It’s real nice that President Johnson has said American

Teapot Tempest Continues

Both U. S., Argentina Share
Blame for Soured Relations

BUENOS AIRES—U. S. reresentatives have been slipping from bad to worse. The trend is expected to be reversed equally by both countries.

There is growing concern in Buenos Aires and Washington as well as Argentines that deteriorating ties could lead to an all-out cold war. They are not quickly reinforced.

The visit of U. S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk recently, a powerful, anti-Communist Western Hemisphere countries was applauded even before the June 28 military revo­ lation that brought the constitutional President Arturo Illia.

In the face of a wave of revolutionaries, Rusk’s mission was imminent, the U. S. Embassy released an official state­ment to the Argentine press saying that it firmly endorsed Illia’s democratic regime.

It was clear that Washington would frown on any military up­ establishment. In the wake of the U. S., State Department immediately fell prey to the usual Latin critics charges that it was meddling in the internal affairs of a sister republic.

Presumably assured that Illia’s regime would withstand a military coup for at least 90 days, U. S. Ambassador Edwin Martin packed up for the United States on home leave.

The revolution followed almost immediately.

After the United States established relations with the government of Gen. Juan Carlos Ongania, rapport be­tween the two is expected to seem hoped.

Ongania said he planned to turn theagethest private enterpire and foreign investment horrors in Argentina and stop­
out the flow of communism.

But at the same time Argentine authors, let it be known they felt Martin was too delicate to be trusted by the government and would prefer another U. S. ambassador.

President Illia’s blunder, in taking over the National University on July 29.

Following students’ and profes­sors, includ­ing
a visiting American, drew quick and immediate draft
from foreign as well as do­ mocratic quarters.

U. S. officials, including
Secretary of State Dean Rusk, quickly condemned Argentina’s heavy-handed takeover of the university.

The strongly pro-U. S., Buenos Aires Herald said Argentina’s process was “justified” and called the State Department’s remarks “indictable.”

In an apparent effort to temporize over relations with Washington, Ongania has dis­ hatched two personal envoys to the United States. He has also expressed a desire for “traditional friendly” relations with the United States.

And the State Department has apparently decided it will appoint a new ambassador here.

Nevertheless, a teapot tempest continues to sour relations between the two countries. Many diplomats believe its continuance could cause irreparable harm.

Namara be drafted and sent to Thulus, Greenland, for two years.

The members of the National Billboard Advertisers Association be drafted and put down all the billboards
that are making America unattractive.

All the agents who work now in Viet Nam be brought home and replaced by Republican ward heelers.

Any of Lynda Bird’s future
boyfriends who the President doesn’t like should be drafted immediately.

Anyone who polls the public and reports unfavorable trends in Lyndon’s popularity

Anyone who writes disparaging articles about the Presi­

A Matter of Taste

Chocolate, Vanilla:
Who Gets Pudding?

By Arthur Hoppe

(San Francisco Chronicle)

Once upon a time there was a country that had two flavors of people—vanilla people and chocolate people.

As there were more vanilla people than chocolate people, the vanilla people ran things.

They had the best jobs and the best houses and the best schools and all that.

After the chocolate people were drafted and sent forward and given him sug­

The chocolate people said
this wasn’t fair. And it wasn’t.

But what could they do about it? The vanilla people had all the guns and all the power and they ran things.

Then one day a chocolate leader had an idea. “Instead of fighting,” said he, “let’s be loving.”

If blood to flow in the streets, let it be chocolate blood. Never a drop of blood of our vanilla brethren.”

At first, everybody laughed. But the chocolate people were so many. There was magnum. When the vanilla people kicked him in the head or sprayed him with fire hoses or set vicious dogs on them, they just knelt and prayed and cried their best love their tormenters.

So the vanilla people were ashamed. After all, it isn’t much fun kicking a person in the head who is trying to love
you. And they began giving the chocolate people things—just a little better, a little better houses, a little better schools,
even a little bit of power.

For a while, it seemed as though the chocolate peo­ple were going to convert the vanilla people. And, oh, what a wonderful country it was going to be, full of love and non-violence and brotherhood—the hope of the ages.

But, unfortunately, these things take time. And, unfor­

mately, the chocolate people weren’t any better than anyone else. And so, sure eough, one day a militant,
young, impaired chocolate leader got up and cried, “Chocolate Power!”

Some one was sure what it meant. But the chocolate people knew they didn’t feel better about it. And the vanilla people knew it made them feel worse. And, of course they were anything to think about love and non-violence and brotherhood.

So all the vanilla people moved nervously to the suburbs. And all the chocolate people moved to the cities, where they had the best jobs, the best houses, the best schools, and all that. Because they ran things.

“See,” cried the militant, young chocolate leader proud­ly, “what Chocolate Power has done for the chocolate people.

Of course, the cities weren’t run too well. There was revolution in high place, dishonesty in business, violence in the streets and rats in the slums. And the chocolate vanilla people were very nicely, either.

Moral: Chocolate Power is no worse than Vanilla Power.
And no better, either.

The bill provides for the appointment of a tribunal to advise the administration on the suitability of official action in each case, opposition

Una Pierna Fatal

Deepache of San Jacinto and her verongosa capitulation at the movement independiente de Texas, las fortunas politicas of the Gral. Antonio López de Santa Anna cayeron a su punto mas bajo. Sin embargo, el gran oportunista pronto supo aprovecharse de la suerte que le ofreció, a fines del año 1838, la "Guerra de los Pascastes."

Este conflicto surgió 1) de la imposibilidad de México de ofrecer garantías a los banqueños y inversionistas extranjeros, desde los primeros años de la nación independiente comenzaban a personarse empresarios extranjeros a los distintos gobiernos; 2) de la falta de garantías personales, resultado de tantos cambios de gobierno y desarrollo público. Un incidente en las relaciones con Francia se dio en 1837, despertando reclamaciones exageradas hechas por ella debido a las pérdidas de vida y propiedad sufridas por ciudadanos franceses, entre ellos en un saqueo de una pastería en la ciudad de México, que encabezaba la liderante sublevación de un millón de pesos. El monto total de la lista era de setenta mil, y la obra colectiva del gobierno francés mandó barcos y tropas.

En aquel entonces un peso equivalía a un dólar y el dólar tenía el valor adquisitivo de cuando menos veinte dólares de hoy en día, de manera que tal reclamación, o las reclamaciones por los paseantes que tenía para la venta un panaderito, motivó al público mexicano a burlarse la intervención armada de los franceses "la Guerra de los Pascastes." Se bloqueó el puerto de Vera Cruz, a pesar de las reclamaciones injustas, el General Rincón comandante del Estado de Vera Cruz cedió a sus demandas y se retiraron los franceses, pero el Congreso Nacional no aprobaron la acción, y desembargaron de nuevo los invasores con miras de tomar posesión de la aduan.a. Llegaron al cuartel en donde estaba el General Santa Anna, quien ya había venido desde su hacienda cercana, Manta de Clavo, a la ayuda de la patria en su hora de necesidad. El General Arista, compañero de Santa Anna fue capturado, pero felizmente escaparían. En seguida se retiraron las fuerzas francesas, y entonces Santa Anna resolvió atacarlos. Sólo se disparó un cañón de madera, un proyectil alcanzó la pierna izquierda de Santa Anna, la que se tuvo entonces que amputar. Seguida bloqueado el puerto de Vera Cruz por los franceses. Fue funesto, para el individuo la pérdida de la pierna, pero aun más funesto para la patria. El gran "sacrificio personal" de Santa Anna al "repulsar al invasor extranjero" causó la imaginación de la chusma y la falta de otro líder le dio una oportunidad de subir de nuevo a la presidencia. Siguió descifrando largos años de desgracias para México, entre ellas la invasión norte-americana, y la creación de més de la mitad del territorio nacional a Estados Unidos. La pierna amputada de Santa Anna fue traslada a México sobre un cojín de terciopelo y después de una procesión pública fue colocada en un mausoleo especial en el viejo cementerio de Santa Paula con lápidas oraciones fúnebres. En su lugar el General tuvo que usar una pierna postiza de corcho, la cual tampoco perdió una vez "en defensa de la Patria." Fue durante la invasión noroamericana cuando en el curso de la batalla de Buena Vista unos soldados del Quarto Regimiento de Infantería del Estado de Illinois encontraron casualmente un coche lujo con un almiruete preparado y una pierna postiza adentro. Los soldados de Illinois se llevaron como trofeo de guerra y fueron exhibidos en varias partes de Estados Unidos. Hasta hoy día se encuentra en los archivos oficiales del Estado de Illinois en Spring-field.

Santa Anna se hacía más y más tirano hasta que por fin, tras varias entradas y salidas de la presidencia, fue derrocado por última vez por los liberales y antilíricos en 1855. El mausoleo fue destruido por el pueblo amontonado y la pierna volcada a patadas por las calles de la ciudad de México. El mismo Santa Anna después de varios períodos de exilio regresó a México donde murió hasta el año de 1876, anciano, pobre, casi olvidado.

SAY YOUNG MAN WHY DON'T YOU RISE ABOVE ALL THIS?

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Australian troops have hurled back human wave attacks by a Viet Cong battalion and killed 220 of its 600 men in the Aussies' biggest battle of the war, spokesmen said Friday. A hunt was on southeast of Saigon for guerrilla survivors.

South Vietnamese government units claimed a heavy toll elsewhere. They said they killed 138 Communists in engagements Thursday in three provinces—northern Quang Tri, Tay Ninh on the Cambodian frontier, and Long An, south of Saigon.

Reporting on a ground sweep 132 miles northwest of Saigon, units of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division said they found no enemy soldiers but uncovered a large arms cache that included dozens of mortar shells, 742 hand grenades and 220 rifle grenades.

U.S. planes struck again at North Viet Nam, where they bagged their 18th MiG fighter on one of 9-missile Thursdays.

 Australian losses generally had been light in campaigning since Canberra, represented now by 4,500 servicemen, committed an initial infantry company to the war 14 months ago. The Australians' all-front rank is third in numbers after those of the United States and South Korea—among the foreign allies.

Chicago Officials Get Court Order
To Regulate Rev. King's Marches

CHICAGO (AP) - A Circuit Court Judge issued Friday a temporary injunction limiting civil rights demonstrators to 500 and permitting only one march a day in Chicago.

The City of Chicago had filed a suit in Circuit Court earlier Friday seeking to regulate the riot-splashed marches of open housing advocates.

Earl Bush, press secretary to Mayor Richard J. Daley, said the action did not seek to prohibit the parades, but did seek to regulate them.

He told newsmen that the city sought:
1. To limit marchers to no more than 500,
2. Provide for one march in any one area a day,
3. Keep the marches on daylight hours and during non-rush hours,
4. Give the police superintendent 24 hours notice of the marches.

Bush said the action was taken in behalf of the city and the police superintendent, O. W. Wilson.

Martin Luther King Jr., who has directed the campaign to make housing available to Negroes in all areas of the city, already has served notice before the suit was filed that he will defy any injunction to prevent marches.

King told 1,000 cheering civil rights protesters at a rally Thursday night that open occupancy marches would continue in all-white neighborhoods even if the city obtained an injunction.

"When I think the law is wrong, I am willing to go to jail and stay there," King said.

Youths Offer Draft Ideas
To President

NEW YORK (AP) - An Associated Press survey of young Americans disclosed a fairly general feeling that the Selective Service System is discriminatory and unfair.

On the question of whether a draft offering nonmilitary alternative assignments would prove practical, replies were less conclusive.

Most of the high school and college students questioned in the coast-to-coast sampling found fault with the present local Selective Service boards quota system. The imposition of area quotas, they contended, results in the drafting of youths in some localities who would be deferred if they lived elsewhere.

The survey was prompted by President Johnson's call Thursday in Washington for the youth of America to suggest improvements in Selective Service. The President asked:

"Does the present system have flaws or inequities which should be corrected?"

"Can we make the draft fairer and more effective?"

"Can we, without harming national security, establish a practical system of nonmilitary alternatives to the draft?"

Antia war Hearing Is Over

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House Committee on UnAmerican Activities ended its questioning of aggressive anti-Viet Nam war witnesses on a stormy note Friday.

"These hearings have fully revealed the true nature of these groups," Rep. Joe R. Reel, D-Tex., said. "I see no need to continue the investigation further."

More than a dozen spectators, two arguing witnesses and a prospective witness who wasn't called were ejected from the hearing room for demonstrating or spouting orators to sit down.

"It is clear the key leadership of these groups is made up of hard-core Communists," Pool declared, adding, "I think these hearings have been very revealing to the American public."

Some of Friday's witnesses said they were Communists or MarxisLeninists.

After disbanding the last two antia war group witnesses remaining to be heard, Pool turned to testimony on proposed legislation the committee is considering.

This would punish those who attempt to interfere with the movement of U.S. troops or war material with a maximum fine of $20,000 to 20 years in jail.

During the four days of hearings, more than 50 persons, including one attorney, have been haled out of the hearing room or the corridors outside.
