Wood Uses Stressed at Conference

Those in the forest industry should concentrate on uses for wood in which no other material is a suitable replacement, a Forest Service representative said in making the point at a recent conference.

Robert W. Merz, head of the Forest Research Experiment Station, said modern technology has resulted in many substitutes for wood, but still there are many uses for which wood is the best material.

By concentrating on these uses, Merz said, production quality products can be expected to enrich the wood industry.

Following a round of discussions in the Agriculture Building Tuesday morning, conference tours the Wood Utilization exhibit where Forest Service exhibit were on display.

Primary purpose of the two-day conference was to acquaint industry representatives with the latest in forest products utilization and marketing, hardwood resources of the area being one of the exhibit themes.

Co-chairs for the conference were Donald H. Scott, secretary of the Illinois Council on Forest Products Utilization and Research Division, Columbia, Ohio.

The conference was attended by invited representatives of the major forest related industries and others concerned with forest resources.

3 New Buildings Near Completion

Construction on three of the four major building projects on the SIU campus is nearing completion. Bids are scheduled this summer and fall for three more major buildings and a multi-million-dollar housing project.

Projects now in progress total some $10.0 million in construction. The date of completion is nearing for the Education Building, Morris Library addition and Physical Plant addition. The Physical Education and Military Training Building should be finished by next spring.

William Hart, associate University architect, said bids are due July 12 on the new University Park Housing project. The $10.1/2 million development will include a labor- woman's dormitory and three multiple-story residence halls for men.

The University is scheduled to call for bids on a new Communications Building in the latter part of August, Hart said.

About five weeks after calling for bids on the Communications Building, there will be bids on the first Class­ room Group, he said. Then, about six weeks after that date, bids on a new Technology Building will be called, said Hart.

The Communications Building and Classroom Building are expected to cost about $3,250,000 each. These two buildings and the Technology Building will be paid for from bonds appropriated from the State University Building Bond issue.

The University Park housing development will be financed by the sale of self-liquidating revenue bonds.

The Classroom Building will be located on Grand Avenue, across from the new Education Building. The Communications Building will be located at the present baseball diamond west of Chaunceys Housing, Site of the Technology Building will be across the Campus Drive from the new Physical Education and Military Training Building.

Contract completion on the $2.1/2 million Education Building is scheduled for August 15.

Machine Not Brownie Points To 'Make' The Grade Now

Teaching machines have gotten themselves a helpmate—a grading machine. This electronic replace­ ment for the traditional red pencil is one of hundreds of old and new educational materials currently on display in the University Center Ballroom.

Actually, the grading machine is only a partial replacement for the red pencil. While it is capable of scoring 250 examinations an hour, it is still necessary for the student to chalk up the mark on the test paper and in the grade book.

"But it sure saves a lot of time and tear on a weary professor's fingers," a salesman for the manufacturer commented.

Among other innovations at the 26th annual Educational Materials Exhibit which winds up today are three-dimensional paper dolls of animals and birds, no beads; a thinking map which tells the student the answer to a question; and a page of working problems with the aid of a record; and a page with nothing but diagonal lines for the student to work on and to write in the writing area.

Thompson Woods Giants Fall Victims Of Old Age

Many trees in Thompson Woods have fallen victim to old age.

John Lonergan, University landscape architect, said the hard pine trees, and the 150-200-year-old oaks just back of the University Center.

The old trees are cleared and the foundation dug for the University Center, Lonergan said. Then the water table was lowered, Lonergan said, "and some of the 150-year-old trees just couldn't adjust to the new water table."

Lonergan said the older trees generally are hollow and have died. "We let them stand as long as we could," he explained, "but have to cut them down before they become dangerous, which accounts for some of the big logs you find in the woods in back of the Center."

Lonergan said many other old trees in Thompson Woods are "in bad shape too."

"We are constantly planting new oaks to replace those that die of old age," he explained.

WASHINGTON

The Senate passed the depressed areas bill Wednesday by a vote of 65 to 30.

The bill, previously defeated in the House, granted all the $455 million additional funds sought by President Kennedy.

The first Republican effort to curtail the program was defeated on a 60 to 28 vote on an amendment to change the basic law and eliminate eligibility of 229 of the 1,071 counties now covered by the program.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas of Illinois, floor manager, said the effect would be to knock out many counties of rural poverty and with heavy underemployment. Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois accused the Area Redevelopment Administration of attempting to pressure the Senate into voting more funds for ARA.

BERLIN

Wild cheering from a million West Berliners greeted President Kennedy Wednesday on his visit to the outpost of freedom behind the Iron Curtain.

He spoke to an estimated 250,000 in front of City Hall and denounced the Communists’ Berlin Wall as “an offense against humanity” and a symbol of Communist failure. The President saw the wall twice, and at Checkpoint Charlie, an estimated 2,000 East Berliners defied Communist police; some of them waved when the police were not looking.

Kennedy’s press secretary described the reception in West Berlin as the greatest the President had received anywhere in the world.

The Soviet news agency Tass charged Kennedy’s visit was being used by West Berlin authorities “for further fanning up the slanderous campaign against the German Democratic (Communist) Republic.” A Tass dispatch claimed West German authorities were using the visit “for staging one more demonstration in support of their unlawful claims to West Berlin”.

WASHINGTON

The House Wednesday passed a $47 billion defense appropriation, $2 billion below the President’s request but still the second largest in peacetime history.

VATICAN CITY

Vatican sources said Pope Paul VI is considering reconvening the Ecumenical Council Sept. 29.

Called by Pope John XXIII, the new Pope pledged last Saturday to continue it and make it the main business of his reign.

Pope Paul’s reported decision to reconvene would indicate his desire to push the council to a rapid conclusion.

DETROIT, Germany

The crash of a Belgian military transport plane carried 38 men to their deaths Wednesday. The plane carried a crew of five and 42 paratroopers who were on a training exercise.

British military sources said nine of the paratroopers managed to jump after flames were seen shooting from the plane’s tail section when it was about 800 feet up.

OMAHA, Neb.

Storm clouds that unloaded another deluge over eastern Nebraska missed critical areas and flood waters ebbed Wednesday.

Three persons drowned as a result of floods that followed a 14-inch rain Sunday night and Monday.

Birth Control Bill Blocked, Filibuster Threatened

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.

Illinois House Speaker John Lewis blocked consideration of a birth control bill and for awhile prompted veiled threats of a filibuster.

Rep. Paul Elward, D-Chicago, sought to have the bill advanced on the House calendar but Lewis who is oppos ed to the measure, ignored his request.

The bill, passed by the Senate State Legislators Vote Themselves A Pay Raise

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.

Pay raises for legislators were voted yesterday by the Illinois Senate. Acting on a House bill, the Senate approved boosting annual salaries of the 235 lawmakers from the present $6,000 to $7,500.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Leland Kennedy, D-Alton, goes now to Gov. Otto Kerner, atess, would limit the Illinois Public Aid Commission’s birth control program to married women living with their husbands.

Angered over Lewis’ action, Elward told the House the bill has been lingering on the calendar over a month.

“I think a member should have the right to have his bill called,” Elward said.

In an attempt to circumvent Lewis, Elward made a motion to suspend the rules so the birth control proposal could be advanced from a amendment stage to passage stage.

Lewis blunted this move by informing Elward his motion was not in order and that he was not recognized.

Elward and the speaker’s rostrum, exchanged some heated words with Lewis, then left to consult with Sen. Morgan Finley, D-Chicago, original sponsor.

Later, Elward said he would not launch a filibuster immediately but left the possibility open for the next two days.

Congress Right; Presidents To The Left

The Congressional Right has been an interesting issue for years, but unless you are a specialist in political history, you have probably not paid much attention to the specific details. However, this book by William Preston is a great introduction to the topic. It provides a comprehensive overview of the development of the Congressional Right from the late 19th century to the present day. The author does an excellent job of explaining the context and the motivations behind the rise of the Congressional Right. Overall, this is a highly recommended read for anyone interested in political history.
Tom Lager Will Seek Qualls' Infield Position

Tom Lager, freshman third baseman from Aviston (Ill.), appears to be one of the leading candidates for Jerry Qualls' vacated third base position on SIU's baseball team next spring.

Qualls signed three weeks ago with the Detroit Tigers after spring quarter ended. He led SIU's baseball team in batting, total hits, doubles, runs, home runs.

He was only a sophomore and had two more years of eligibility left but decided to give up his remaining years for an attempt at professional baseball.

Lager was the starting third baseman on SIU's freshman team last spring. He's quick and figures to hit with power and for the high average.

Chet Montgomery, scout of the Pittsburgh Pirates, became interested in Lager during the professional material. He is not a professional scout.

He has been in professional baseball a few years as a catching combination. He is a 19-year-old athlete.

Thomas sent Lager to a Cincinnati baseball camp at

Life Guard's Life More Work Than Play If Lake Is Crowded

Seven SIU students have the glamorous life-saving jobs at the Lake-on-the-Campus this summer but they'll tell you that the job is more difficult than sitting in the sun basking in hero worship.

They begin working when the lake opens at 1 p.m., and the day ends when the lake closes at seven.

Andrew Faldorf, Mickey Blankenship, Bill Simms, Bill Dool, Pete Racz, George Miller and Denny Doody have their jobs during the day and are free during the evening after their performance as the lifeguards.

"So far there have been no problems," Miss Faldorf said during a 15-minute rest period which the guards enjoy during the day. "Only a couple of times have we had to swim out of the water after they attempted to swim out to the raft, Fatigue was the cause for their needing assistance."

The seven positions at the lake are life guard stations which are stationed include five in the main swimming area and two on the east shore.

Small children are a constant source of worry for the life guards. Sometimes they wander away from their parents or the parents bring them out to the lake and then leave.

"Weekends are the busiest time for swimming," Simms said. "But activity now is picking up during the week-end." Tuesday was the busiest day so far this quarter.

The life guards are paid 90 cents an hour which helps keep them in spending money.

Lager plays baseball each Sunday to stay in shape and then during the week lifts weights to strengthen his arms and shoulders.

Ron Landreth, last year's varsity second baseman, probably will be Lager's chief rival for the starting position next spring.

Landerth played third base during high school and then last spring moved to third base for one game when Qualls could not play because of examinations.

Ken Everett, another freshman third baseman, ran into scholastic difficulties and apparently will be lost to SIU's varsity baseball team.

Baseball Coach Glenn Martin was especially high in his praise for Everett. He is worried over the possibility that Everett may not be available for duty next spring.

Lager is majoring in advertising at SIU and minoring in physical education. This is his second quarter at Southern Illinois University after transferring here from Quincy.

Pick's Market Turned Down
On Request of Liquor License

A request for a class B liquor license submitted to the Carbondale City Council Tuesday night sparked a lengthy discussion on the restriction of liquor sales in Carbondale.

The request for the license submitted by W.H. Pick was turned down because Pick is not a bondld resident of Carbondale.

In the discussion of the request, Mayor D. Blane Miller said he was not in favor of issuing this type of liquor license. This license (which gives permission to sell only package beer) is not nonexistent in Carbondale.

William Eaton, finance commissioner, said the issuance of class B licenses could be "very detrimental to the city."

He went on to say Carbondale has "enough trouble with students and other young people drinking."

Joseph Ragsdale, public property commissioner, said he had mixed emotions on the problem. He posed the question, "Is it fair to restrict package liquor sales in Carbondale?"

The Rev. Charles E. F. Howe, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Carbondale, said at the meeting that there is a negative feeling on the part of a great number of Carbondale citizens towards the issuance of more liquor licenses.

A primary reason for this attitude is that Carbondale is a college town, the Rev. Mr. Howe said.

The Rev. Mr. Howe spoke of the loose drinking of students and said the parents of students would resist issuance of class B liquor licenses.

The City Council concluded the discussion saying that specific terms for obtaining liquor licenses will be stated in the future by the City Council.
VTI Retailers Begin On-The-Job Training

Vocational Technical Institute students enrolled in Retailing have started their summer term work experience with cooperating businesses in Illinois and Michigan.

Walter Elder, VTI coordinator of the program, said the group numbers 31 this year. He said these men and women students are paid pre-vailing wages and work under store management.

A VTI retailing faculty member visits the stores regularly to observe student progress and obtain store management evaluations of the students.

The VTI program in retailing is a two-year course of study combining classroom work with laboratory experiences at cooperating stores. An Associate in Business degree from Southern Illinois is given at the end of a two-year program.

Several students working in the cooperating stores include: Charles Sliger of Arcola, at Breesmer's in Springfield; Richard Schulz of Beardstown, at Cretcher and Company Supply in Beardstown; and Beverly Barber of Belleville, at P.J. Bigalow and Company, St. Louis. Clyde S. Morgan of Carbondale, at Benson-Riis Men's Store, Chicago; Thomas Neumiler of Carlinville, at Harris Art Show Exhibit At Paducash Show

A collection of more than 50 works of art will be featured in the Paducah Art Show to be held during the past eight years by Harvey Harris, associate professor of art, on exhibit at the Paducah Art Guild.

The Harris Art Show represents the style changes Harris' work has undergone during the past eight years, from realistic to abstract.

The exhibition will be open to the public through June 30, Harris, a native of Hartford, Conn., came to the SIU art department faculty in 1960. He had previously served as assistant professor at the State University of New York, at Louisiana State University, and as art department head at Louisiana College, New Haven, Conn.

A bachelor's and master's graduate in fine arts from Yale University, he also attended Hartford (Conn.) Art School, Trinity College and Kansas City Art Institute. While at Kansas City Art Institute, he studied painting and composition with Thomas Hart Benton and lithography with John de Martelly.

Harris has exhibited widely, winning awards at the Art Benven, Nashville, Tenn., in 1954; the Speed Museum, Louisville, Ky., 1957; and the Ohio Valley Annual, Ohio University, 1957. He has had one-man shows at Louisiana State University, at the Louisville, Ky. Art Center and at Memorial Auditorium, and at New York State University.

Southern's summer band, under the direction of Mr. Donald Canedy, will play the first of a series of three concerts on the one-man show on the University Center Patio.

Workshop Held For School Lunch Group

More than 70 school lunch managers and workers attended the School Lunch Workshop at Southern Illinois University June 17-21.

One of the highlights of the week was a trip to the Veterans' Hospital in Marion. The workshop covered the food-handling facilities and other facilities of the hospital, some health suggestions, sanitation, safety and work simplification.

A new feature of the program was a class in which participants exchanged ideas, made suggestions, new methods and party adaptations.

Rural Electric Workers: Fifteen Linemen At VTI Train For The 'Hot Line'

Fifteen linemen from six rural electric cooperatives in Illinois started Monday in a week-long Hot Line Maintenance Training School at VTI.

Besides lecture sessions, the linemen spend a part of each day climbing utility poles and learning to use special tools for handling, splicing, installing or maintaining high voltage electric lines safely.

Three or more week-long sessions are conducted each summer.

The following linemen enrolled for the June 24-28 session:
