Bryson: No BASA contact

By Diana Mweli
Staff Writer

Seymour Bryson, assistant to the president for Af­firma­tive Action, said he is hurt by the Black American Studies Association's request for his resignation, but under­stands the BASA's frustrations.

At a rally Thursday the BASA's John Taylor double Bryson's sincerity in helping them with the reinstatement of the Black American Studies courses that were dropped from the general education curriculum.

"We are dealing with an issue of group of students who want change right now," Bryson said. He added that it doesn't happen overnight — it takes time to work with them, evaluate a proposal for change.

Michael Fryor, BASA member, said they have been waiting for that process since their program began dismantling.

Bryson said the BASA has not contacted him at all this semester.

"It's kind of hard to show concern when no one has showed me the respect to sit down and talk to me," Bryson said. "When they don't talk it's hard to respond." Franz Mullings, BASA member, said "This is not something we expect to happen overnight (Bryson) has had an ample opportunity to help out.

USG senator: Impeach committee

By Brad Bushue
Staff Writer

Petitions to recall the entire six-member Committee for Internal Affairs are being circulated by an un­dergraduate Student Government senator.

The impeachment of committee chairman Julian Taylor preceded the petitions to Bryson said the other five members. The signatures of 20 USG senators are required before bills of impeachment can be submitted for consideration on the senate floor Wed­nesday.

Vice Aposte, West Side senator, said she is circ­ulating the petitions because the committee is acting on issues that concern itself and not the students.

Taylor denied Aposte statement and said the com­mittee is doing nothing unconstitutional.

Aposte said the committee initiated a walking tour to seek approval of executive appointments at the Oct. 12 meeting as part of a power struggle with the senate.

Taylor denies the committee left the meeting to prevent the senate's approval of executive appointments.

Talbott said the committee members "listened well" meeting individually and con­gregated in the hall by chance.

The committee's attempt to have 34 USG mem­bers im­peached for failing to release information to verify their qualification was partly responsible for the recall petitions.

"I'm tired of their (committee member's) childish behavior and their thinking in terms of them­selves," Aposte said.

The committee or full senate, Taylor said, is now re­questing the protest of the walkout, said in a recent inter­view, "It's a shame that the whole campus has to suffer for their bickering. There is no justification for their ac­tions."

Eleven Registered Student Organizations did not receive funding because of the walkout.

Bushue said the committee lacks experience and "several overzealous indi­viduals have put their own personal interests ahead of the student government."

Taylor said the committee has done much more than they should have in the time they've had, including reviewing five constitutions and sending two student clubs before senate.

'Bild' Homecoming to begin with parade

By Phyllis Coon

There is nothing like a parade to get Home­coming marching, the assistant program coordinator at the student programming council said.

The this year's Home­coming Parade will start at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, Lou Talbott, assistant program coordinator, said.

Band members, cars, bat­tlers and horses units will help bring the excitement of this year's theme, "The Wild, Wind Midwest," she said.

"The theme was decided after brainstorming ideas by the home­coming committee," Talbott said. "The Wild, Wind Midwest is exciting.

Parades in the parade will line up on Guyon Ben­net. The parade will turn north on Illinois Avenue then west on Elm Street and south to University Avenue. The parade will end at the Physical Plant, Talbott said.

There are about 100 units expected to participate in the parade.

First place winners will receive $25 and the travelling trophy with their name engraved on it, Talbott said.

Second place winners will receive $20 and plaque and third place winners will receive $15 and a certificate of partic­i­pation, Talbott said.

Grace, Maurizio take cases to the people

By Scott Perry

Candidates for the office of state's attorney pleaded their cases Wednesday night, hoping the judging will mean in their favor come Nov. 8.

Democrat Charles "Chuck" Grimes, Republican Mike Maurizio and independent John Fane, who is best able to lead an office both men described as "most important" to the people of Jackson County.

Cases were made during a public debate sponsored by the Jackson County League of Women Voters and the Student Bar Association in the School of Law Auditorium.

Grace began the evening highlighting his 15 years of experience in the law field, making special reference to his years as a trial lawyer and his opponents lack of such experience.

"Trial experience isn't something you learn when you get into office," Grace said.

Maurizio admitted he had been a law student, a trial lawyer and told voters to elect Grace if they feel that is the leading criteria for deciding the position.

Guyon questioned on revised policy

President John C. Guyon speaks to the GPSC and "Dr. Grimm Reaper" in the Student Center Mississippi Room Wednesday night. Guyon answered regarding the University's revised sexual harassment policy.

By Richard Goldstein
Staff Writer

President John C. Guyon said he has the final administrative word whether a complaint under the revised sexual harassment policy is justified or not, is not a conflict of interest.

Speaking at the Graduate and Professional Student Council meeting Wednesday night with "Dr. Grimm Reaper" looking on, Guyon said, "I do not represent the University with a capital 'U.' I represent the entire University — including the GPSC.

Dr. Grimm Reaper is a student in costume who spoke at the Election Fest Thursday saying sarcastically that he is professor of "cutback arts." The man would not reveal his name when asked, Guyon said, but he agreed with everything Guyon said.

GPSC representatives persistently questioned Guyon's power to make the decision of a panel on sexual harassment cases.

But Guyon countered with Board of Trustee policies which say the final decision in sexual harassment cases is in this board.

GPSC President Troy Hale noted that the only sexual harassment case Guyon has ever ruled on resulted in overturning the panel's recommendation. The panel recommended that Guyon find the person had been sexually harassed.

Guyon said the unorganized nature of in which the panel investigated the case con­vinced him that the sexual harassment policy needed overhauling.

"The procedure was flawed," he said.

Guyon said that he could give the advisory panel on a sexual harassment case the authority to make the final decision, but he chooses not to.

"There's board statutory authority assigned to the president and I'll carry with," he said.

In this manner, Guyon said, he treats the advisory panel like every other panel, con­

Play examines how characters deal with shattered dreams

By Wayne Wallace
Staff Writer

Social attitudes toward sex were beginning to change in the early 1950's. "Picnic," William Inge's 1953 Pulitzer Prize winning drama, mirrors this release of sexual inhibitions through American life in the small town life.

McLeod Theater will present "Picnic" at 8 p.m., tonight through Saturday, and 2 p.m. Sunday. Mike Morris, a theater department faculty member, directs the story of a young cowboy drifter who forever changes the lives of four women in a small Kansas town.

In a pre-show interview Monday night, Morris said he considers "Picnic" a period piece, an embodiment of small town life, capturing the hypocrisy as well as the nostalgia.

THE INTERMISSION music selected for Morris' production of "Picnic" reflects this struggle. Nat King Cole's tender ballad of innocence are excellent representatives of the pop music output from this era and provide an ironic contrast to the scandalous plot actions.

This is not just a play about illicit sex. It delves into the emotions of its characters, examining their true desires in life and letting them put aside their high expectations to accept the realities of their conditions. Numerous themes run concurrently throughout the play, but all of these seem to center around shattered dreams.

When the play begins, none of its main characters are truly happy. Each feels himself or herself too harshly against societal norms.

When the play begins, none of its main characters are truly happy. Each feels himself or herself too harshly against societal norms. The character of Millie (Michele DiMaso) rebels against the role model that her beautiful sister Madge has provided by retreating into tomboy status. Only the mysterious stranger Hal Carter can provoke her to wear a dress and feel more comfortable with her feminine role in society.

School teacher Rosemary (Barbara Wruck) agonizes over her last chance for marriage as she dreads becoming an old maid.

Madge (Tracey Brouillette) also conforms to melodramatic standards as she female lead of the piece. She is ferocious because her fiancé looks at her only as a decoration.

Many of the young men in town use her as an object of sexual desire. She desires the excitement in a romance that only the rugged Hal can provide.

Mrs. Owens (JoAnn Givens) tries to push Madge into marriage with a wealthy oil baron's son. She doesn't want her daughter to marry the same kind of wanderer she did.

The outcast Hal (Bob May) does not put labels such as "tomboy" and "spinster" on people. He is too busy living life to its fullest to concern himself with putting others down.

However, he too has his insecurities. The former football star and Hollywood hopeful is constantly broken down upon as a vagrant stirring up trouble.

His reluctance to adapt to the social norm gives him the picture.
Research indicates University maturing

"THE UNIVERSITY is a community and everyone is pitching in," Larry Hawes, associate director of the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance, said.

Hawes, who is responsible for helping 14,000 students, said that the increase in outside funding is good news.

SIU-C RANKS 150th among universities in the amount of money received from the federal government. In 1968, Hawes said, the University ranked 300th.

In the fiscal year that ended July 1, the University had received $26 million from outside sources. In a year when revenues for state universities and community colleges declined and enrollment dropped, the increase in outside funding is good news.

SIU-C receives money from the federal government. U of I is consistently in the top 20 schools in the nation. While SIU-C probably will never overtake U of I in the race for federal dollars, we are the No. 2 school in the state.

That’s right, we’re ahead of Northern Illinois University, the closest challenger to SIU-C’s rightful place as the No. 2 position.

ONE AREA where most other state universities can’t compete is in medicine. Only U of I and SIU-C have medical schools. The University’s medical school account for the $2.4 million in research money raised for research.

The federal government contributes the largest portion of its research budget to bio-medical research, which makes the medical school an important factor in attracting outside research money.

Of course, not all outside money is earmarked for research. In fact, more than two-thirds of the $6 million SIU-C received last year went for other purposes.

Of $32.5 MILLION not dedicated for research, $19.3 million pays for programs administered through the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance, an office that funds the 14,000 students on campus. Over 44 percent of the outside money goes to students in the form of student aid.

Further, SIU-C is receiving $1 million in Regional Education Opportunity Grants and other federal aid programs.

The rest of the money goes to a wide variety of programs, which help educating students and provide service to the community.

Among those are the Touch of Nature Program at Little Gardens, which raises money for Lakeshore to bring inner-city teenagers to the wilds of Southern Illinois. There are programs for handicapped individuals there and a program aimed at preventing juvenile delinquency.

OUTSIDE MONEY provides support for the Rehabilitation Institute, projects administered through area junior colleges to orient junior high and high school students to the sciences and establish schools overseas where projects are underway in Pakistan and Zambia.

SIU-C receives outside funding for its drug awareness program, the Stratton Regional Head Start program and upgrading its laboratories.

This list is by no means the end of the scope of projects that rely on outside funding.

THE MONEY is important, but let’s not forget the atmosphere the drive for outside funds has created.

As SIU-C receives outside funding — from 25.3 million in 1963 — the University is maturing.

"It is maturing into one where the faculty and students are getting better, and there is the perception that creativity is getting better," Hawes said. "Each new hire is getting better. The University is a community and everyone is pitching in."

In these days of fiscal austerity at the state level, the University’s best hope is this spirit of community, creativity and maturity continues to grow.

Bentsen's problem isn't that the Republicans are kicking them in the shins. It's that the Democrats don't know how to respond with a knee in the groin.

We're well into the nuclear age, global chaos makes dizzy, domestic problems are piling up.

But the Republicans are hammering Dukakis because a committed a rape while on a weekend furlough.

What probably bothers Bentsen most, though, is that it's working. It's effective. Illinois Republicans have a sense of what grade voters.

And Willie Horton, the rapist, is probably good for 1 percent or 2 percent of the lead that Bush has over Dukakis in the polls.

The silly flaps over the Pledge of Allegiance and the ACLU are also mentioned -- are good for another point or two.

It might make Bentsen feel good to be indignant. But right or wrong, the Republicans know which emotional buttons to push. And they've been pushing them.

TYPt KNOW THAT just the mention of a Willie Horton (Ah, such a convenient black-sounding name) is enough to set white ethnic urban dwellers to trembling.

Sure, the pamphlet is misleading. How do Illinois Republicans know how ‘murders and rapists and drug pushers and child molesters in Massachusetts’ vote? Do they hang around dark alleys with them?

But the stories Every presidential election begins with 60 percent on this side, 40 percent on that side, and the light is for the 20 percent in the middle.

The Republicans know Bush will get bigger share of that 20 percent by saying, "Boy! Bush will let big happy, Wilkie Horton through your window," than Dukakis will get by saying about how his ma and pa came here from Old Country on a leaky boat.

BENTSEN'S PROBLEM isn't that the Republicans are kicking them in the shins. It's that the Democrats don't know how to respond with a knee in the groin.

When the Republicans have been greasing their eyes, Democrats have been thumbing through the Marquis of Queensberry Rules.

The moment Republicans mentioned Willie Horton, the Democrats should have stopped and said, "We don't have a funciona thing, we're having a prison-furlough program when Ronald Reagan was governor. And New Reagan's furloughs convicted rapists and murderers. They did at least two murders.

But what did they do? Dukakis grinned and played the good sport. The emergency messages are filled with good sports. The muggers are counting their money.

When the Republicans mentioned Willie Horton, the Democrats should have jogged Bush's memory. Hey, George Boy, didn't you help found and sponsor a Texas halfway house? And didn't one of your halfway lads celebrate his freedom by raping and murdering a minister's wife?

Is that fair to Bush and Reagan? Of course not. Almost every state has a furloof program and halfway houses. Most work well, but all have failures. But if you are going to know, you don't think fair. Bush doesn't, Illinois Republicans don't why should Dukakis and Bentsen?"

Tokyo String Quartet to perform at Shryock

The Tokyo String Quartet will give a concert of classical chamber music at 8 p.m. Friday in Shryock Auditorium. The group has been internationally acclaimed as one of the world’s great quartets and has performed in music capitals worldwide.

All instruments played by the quartet were made in the third quarter of the 17th century.

The group, made up of Peter Oundjian, violinist; Kikue Ikeda, violist and cellist; Kazuhide Isomura, violist; and Sadao Harada, cellist, has been a chamber music unit since 1969, with Oundjian joining the group seven years ago after another violinist left the group. All four instruments played by the group were made by Niccolo Amati in the third quarter of the 17th century.

Oundjian’s violin, inlaid with rubies and emeralds, is unique because it is the only inlaid Amati violin in existence. It was made in 1606 and was dedicated to King Louis XIV.

The ensemble has recorded the works of Bartok, Brahms, Debussy, Haydn, Mozart, Ravel and Schubert, and has earned the Grand Prize du Disque du Monde, Best Chamber Music Recording of the Year from Stereo Review and Gramophone, and three Grammy nominations.

Recently, RCA Victor released a 12-track CD of music written especially for the Tokyo String Quartet.

Sculpture award to be made

The winner of a $25,000 commission for a sculpture at SIUC will be announced at a public reception from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday in the University Museum.

The award will pay for a sculpture created specifically for the University Hall, which is now undergoing renovation.

Sixty-eight Illinois artists vied for the commission in a competition sponsored by the museum and the Capital Development Board of Illinois Percent for Art Program.

A review committee selected 26 of artists, including seven from the local area, as semi-finalists. The work of the winner and semi-finalists will be delayed at the museum through Nov. 14.

Breathalyzer tests offered with ‘no strings attached’

The American Marketing Association will sponsor free breathalyzer tests from 9 to 11 tonight outside Sidetracks as part of Alcohol Awareness Week.

The tests have ‘no strings attached,’ according to Ronald Kuhn, AMA public relations vice-president.

The tests are being offered to make social drinkers ‘more aware of what their limit is,’ Kuhn said.

59 principals receive awards
Honorees say biggest problem in education is at home

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fifty-nine elementary and middle school principals named for outstanding achievement agreed Thursday that the major obstacle they face is the growing number of children with personal problems.

Education Secretary Lauro Cavazos and Samuel Sava, executive director of the National Association of Elementary School Principals, presented the 59 principals with awards Wednesday night for their leadership, teamwork and efforts to build a "spirit of cooperation among students, staff and parents."

Among those honored was J. Joseph Whalen of Chambers Elementary School in East Cleveland.

"They have built a community-wide commitment to learning and an enthusiasm for excellence. They have shown us how to create effective schools, and they deserve our highest praise," said Cavazos.

The school principals, chosen by their peers for the 1988 National Distinguished Principals award, responded to an informal survey in which they said the greatest problem they face today in elementary and middle schools is not in side schools, but "outside, in the neighborhoods and homes of America."

Children bring to school an array of problems, said the principals, pointing to the number of youngsters from single-parent, split-family homes and the percentage of children less prepared for school because their parents work long hours and hold two jobs.

"Parents are interested, they are just exhausted," said one principal in the group, which represents public, private and overseas schools.

Missouri will sell college bonds

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Missouri government's new tax-exempt college savings bonds will be offered for sale in early December at banks and brokerage firms throughout the state, Gov. John Ashcroft said Wednesday.

The bonds, which will be issued by the Missouri Health and Educational Facilities Authority, are to help parents save funds to send their children to college. Ashcroft also appointed board members to the new Missouri Access to Higher Education Trust, which will allow families to pay in advance for a child's tuition and fees at a state college or university.

Seven members were appointed to the trust board, including Sheila Arey, state commissioner of higher education.

Both college savings plans are included in a law enacted earlier this year by the General Assembly. "College savings bonds and prepaid tuition contracts will make it easier for more of our families to send their children to college," the governor said.

Internal manager candidates eliminated by Council's vote

Next city manager required to have 6 years experience

By Richard Goldstein Staff Writer

The City Council has eliminated the possibility of internal candidates for city manager by deciding to require applicants to have at least six years of experience as a city manager or assistant city manager in a major city. The man most often named as a possible internal replacement for the departed City Manager William C. Dixon is Interim City Manager Jeff Doherty.

Doherty was assistant to the City Manager under Dixon and has taken over when the post had been vacated in the past. Doherty had no comment on the council decision.

The council voted to require applicants for city manager to have at least 10 years experience in city government.

In a 3-2 vote, with Mayor Neal Dillard and Councilman John Mills dissenting, the council required that applicants for the city manager position have at least 10 years of experience in city government, six of which must be as a city manager or assistant city manager in a large city. A top administrator in a city without a city manager form of government would also be eligible for the position.

"I realize we're shutting the door on internal candidates. Councilman John Mills said before voting to make the change. Mills suggested the recruitment profile read, "10 years of experience as a city manager, assistant city manager, or comparable position or experience."

The wording was struck down by the majority of councilmen who said it would allow too many unqualified candidates to apply.

The council will pay up to $9,000 to Carrol Fry and Associates, a Carbondale-based search firm, for finding a city manager and for costs such as advertising and travel in the process.

The city also would have to pay for bringing a candidate to Carbondale for an interview.

Kelley: Government should play leading role in housing homeless

By Scott Parry Staff Writer

The role the government should play in providing housing for the homeless is one of leadership, Patrick Kelley Republican candidate for Congress, said.

Kelley, during a press conference Wednesday, said the government should encourage and assist the private sector in meeting our housing needs.

"I don't agree with those who assume all we need to do is spend more government money to solve our housing problems."

-Patrick Kelley

"I'm not for a raid on private means," Kelley said. Kelley said the tax would discourage development and raise the housing cost.

He said the key to creating a good housing policy was to install a policy that allows home ownership to be possible.

Kelley said strengthening savings and forbearance situations is a must if the government hopes to provide the proper environment for individual home ownership.

"We need to let people know they don't need to worry about the safety of their investment," he said.

Kelley used this opportunity to attack House Speaker Jim Wright. Wright is presently being investigated for alleged interference with the closing of several Texas institutions.

Kelley strongly supported a voucher system which allows low-income families to live in privately owned rental property.

The McAndrew Stadium celebrated its 50th anniversary in 1988. The stadium was named in honor of William McAndrew, who served as athletic director, football coach and also pitched for the Salukis in 1917. The stadium was dedicated in 1938 and has served as the home of the Salukis football team since then. The stadium has undergone several changes over the years, including the installation of artificial turf and the expansion of seating capacity. The stadium currently has a seating capacity of 17,300.

In the early days of the stadium, the seating capacity was much smaller, with only 5,000 seats available. The stadium was known for its capacity to pack in students and fans during Homecoming events. The stadium was renamed in 1943 after William McAndrew, who served as athletic director, football coach and head basketball coach and also taught for 30 years at the University.

The stadium has been the site of many memorable games, including the 1938 Homecoming game, which was dedicated to the stadium because it was the first game played at McAndrew Stadium. The stadium has been home to many notable players, including Bill Brown, a member of the 1938 team, who was 6-foot-7 and weighed 280 pounds. The players have changed over the years, but the stadium has remained a constant in the University community. A local account said, "Nearly everyone in Southern Illinois has attended a game in McAndrew Stadium because of its legendary status and the memories it has created over the years."
Quinn calls for waste law reform

By Carrie L. Ferguson
Staff Writer

With a boat launch at Crab Orchard Lake as the backdrop, Patrick Quinn stressed Wednesday the need for a constitutional convention amending Illinois' toxic waste laws.

Quinn, spokesman for Citizens for Constitutional Reform, said he chose to speak at Crab Orchard because it, like many other lakes in Illinois, is polluted.

The group is proposing a constitutional amendment that would amend the existing environment article of the Illinois Constitution. It would give Illinois citizens greater protection against hazardous waste, he said.

"Citizens have a right to go to a pedestal and ask for a referendum and close down the dump," he said.

The proposed article states that a referendum for a referendum containing the "proposed environmental ordinance," signed by at least 5 percent of the registered voters, may be submitted to the electors at the next general election and shall become effective if approved by a majority of those voting in the election.

The proposed amendment goes on to say that no business people should intentionally expose individuals to cancer-causing chemicals without warning.

Quinn said he plans to present a constitutional convention to the state Constitution.

"Laws in Illinois are too weak," he said. "We are depending on the bureaucrats too much to protect the environment."

Illinois residents will vote Nov. 8 on whether to hold a constitutional convention to reform the state Constitution.

Forum seeks welfare reform

SPRINGFIELD, III. (UPI) — One social worker tells the story of a woman who left the welfare rolls by getting a job repairing auto and tractor engines, only to lose her job when she was given bookkeeping duties beyond her abilities.

Another social worker tells the story of a man with a low-paying job six months after leaving the welfare rolls, only to have no idea how to get help finding another job or how to return to public assistance.

These stories were told to illustrate the importance of communication in the Illinois welfare system during the Illinois Forum on Welfare Reform, a series of eight regional meetings set up by Gov. James R. Thompson to solicit ideas for improving the state's welfare system.

More than 100 social workers from west central Illinois attended the forum Wednesday to air their ideas on improving welfare programs for child care, education and jobs.

Public Aid Director Susan Suter said the desires for clear information and improved coordination among welfare officials has been a central theme at other regional forums.

"At all the meetings, people have expressed a desire for the state to get more information out to the communities. That's a real concern of the caseworkers, that they're able to give complete and accurate information to their clients," Suter said.

Irving Jackson of the Springfield Urban League told officials many welfare clients misunderstand their rights and responsibilities under programs designed to help clients find permanent jobs.

"If a client thinks they're going to lose their medical benefits or have to start paying child care bills because they take a job, they won't take that job," Jackson said.

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — A Syracuse University freshman forced a human skull in his dormitory room on Wednesday with body stamping, police said. A tip from a fellow resident of Flint Hall led police to the room of Kevin McQuain, 19, of New York City, where they found him boiling a human skull in a pot of water, said Officer Rod Carr, a police spokesman.

McQuain admitted he took the skull from Oakwood Cemetery, which adjoins the Syracuse University campus, and said he planned to use it to study sculpture, Carr said.

"We've got some investigators up (at the cemetery) now," said Carr. "So far, it looks like there have been four mausoleums hit, and as many as 12 bodies disturbed.

McQuain entered a mandatory innocent plea at his arraignment Wednesday in City Court to one count of body stamping, which is a felony under state Public Health Law. He was released after posting $500 bail. Carr said. "He maintained during the arraignment that he just found the skull outside of one of the mausoleums, and that he didn't do any of the vandalism," Carr said.

Investigators believe the skull, which was estimated to be about 100 years old, was stolen from a mausoleum holding the family of John J. Crouse, Carr said.

The Crouse family played an important role in the history of the city.

Police Blotter

Robert Kumpfer, 19, a freshman in marketing, reported that someone entered his room, 134 at University Hall, 9th S. Wall St., sometime between 7 p.m. Monday and 3:19 a.m. Tuesday, Carbondale Police said.

Kumpfer said a compact disc player and a portable typewriter were stolen. Loss was estimated at $600.

Robber abducts woman

By Mark Barnett

After committing an armed robbery Tuesday evening, a man abducted a Creal Springs woman and forced her to drive him to the scene, Williamson County Sheriff's Department officials said.

Michelle Sisk, 28, of Route 2, Creal Springs was forced by a man with a shotgun to drive away from the Lake of Egypt Supermarket, Route 4, Marion, police said.

Police believe Sisk had left the supermarket just before a suspect took an unknown amount of receipts from two employees.

Police said a man entered the supermarket at 10 p.m. Tuesday, displayed a shotgun and forced two employees to hand over the day's receipts.

The man fled the store, and it is believed he forced a woman in the parking lot to drive him away from the scene, police said.

Police do not know which direction the car was driven. The car was described as a white male, 5-foot-5 to 5-foot-6, weighing between 180 and 145 pounds and in his early 20s.

The car in which the suspect forced Sisk to drive away is a 1990 Cutlass Supreme with a cream colored body and dark brown roof. The license number is KN 3121, police said.

The Williamson County Sheriff's Department, the Illinois State Police and the Illinois State Police Division of Criminal Investigation are conducting an investigation into the armed robbery and abduction.

Campus security to relax parking regulations on parents

By Mark Barnett

SIU-C Security wants to make homecoming weekend an SIU-C one for alumni, parents and students. Capt. Carl Kirk, assistant director of SIUC-Security, said.

Kirk said safety patrols will remain on ticket, but ticketing of vehicles will be relaxed Friday and Saturday.

The Saluki Patrol, student workers of the Security TV patrol, will be at same level. Four patrolmen will turn the campus over during the evening until midnight, Kirk said.

Members of the Saluki Patrol travel the campus at night, providing a new law enforcement group.

Ticketing of vehicles will be relaxed, but ticketing will not stop altogether for the weekend, Kirk said. "We will be cutting back on ticketing, but we will ticket flagrant violations," he said.

"We want to make it an enjoyable weekend. For some parents, it's the first time they have come to campus, and it can be annoying to get a ticket," Kirk said.

"Parking will be allowable in all legal parking spaces except in handicapped, restricted, assigned and service vehicle spaces," Cheryl Rinehardt, assistant director of Parking Traffic, said. These areas are marked either with signs or by lettering on the pavement.

Visitor parking ticketers will have to be paid Friday but not Saturday and Sunday. Rinehardt said Campus parking maps can be obtained at the Parking Division Office or from Campus Security at Washington Square D.

Ushering drinking has not been a big problem in the past, Kirk said. Officers will patrol the tailgate area. Lot 10 just off to the right of the University entrance or Illinois Avenue.

"Arrests" to benefit charity

ROTC cadets will be making "arrests" this weekend to raise money for national heart disease research.

The first campus jail and ball, sponsored by the Air Force ROTC, is being held in conjunction with the community "Cardiac Arrest," sponsored by the American Heart Association.

A total of $1,000 has been set for the event. "Arrestees" who will participate in the event include Harvey Welsh, vice president for student affairs, and Richard Kuehl, director of the Army Military Science.

Local merchants have donated food and beverages for the event.

All "arrestees" are informed ahead of time and have the opportunity to collect part of their "bail" before the event.

Anyone wishing to help "bail out" those arrested can call Walt Schrecker at 433-2641 or Mike Dunn at 536-5351.

Flight shows to feature 2 new planes

Airplane flight demonstrations will be offered at the Southern Illinois Airshow Saturday and Sunday, a Porsche Aviation representative said.

Two new Porsche aircrafts will be flown in to demonstrate to flight instructors and anyone else who is interested at the Air Instructors Cook, sales manager for Porsche Aviation said.

Cook said one of the aircrafts is a two-passenger Porsche Mooney and a four-passenger Porsche PT M172.

Lawyer will vote for Dukakis

Feels debt to Democrats because they ‘stood by’ blacks

Editor’s note: The St. Louis Post-Dispatch recently sent its reporters around the country to get the last word from ordinary voters who will help choose the next president. This is one story in a series.

By Charlotte Grimes
St. Louis Post-Dispatch

ATLANTA — When she was 4 years old, Rita Tucker Williams used to carry around sheets of paper and promise that someday she would be a “businesswoman.”

For a Southern black girl who was black, it was a doubly audacious dream in the American South of the 1950s.

But that dream has come true.

Now, a new lawyer with a prestigious firm in Atlanta, is one reason she will be voting for the Democratic presidential nominee, Michael Dukakis, next month.

“It was talking to my mother, and she was saying the Democrats stood by us. It’s like ‘you owe something’ explains Williams. She has an allegiance to the Democratic Party, she says, “because I don’t have to go to the black water fountain. I remember that.”

But she makes clear her interest in the election goes far beyond that single, formative dimension. She says when she cast her vote, she also will be reflecting her experiences as a mother, lawyer, student and teacher.

And even though she credits the Republicans with “many positive points,” the weight of her potential experiences still tip the balance toward the Democratic Party.

Interest rates have dropped under the Republicans, she acknowledges, her own life is a better today than it was years ago. But she adds, “If you see many people on drugs, who are homeless, who don’t have many socieites in society. And a part of me can never forget — that’s a part of me.”

Williams, 38, is trim and sleek in dark, lawyerly colors as she describes her relationship to the process. She admits to a love of theatrics, part of the appeal of her courtroom work, and talks almost as much with skill, elegant hands and a large, slightly almond-shaped eyes as with general interest.

She, her husband, Ray, a dentist, and their three children ages 5 through 14, live in a spacious home in a suburban area of DeKalb County.

A glass-lined curio cabinet in the living room displays reminders of important things: a brass bell, moments of her school teaching days in California when Ray was in the Air Force, a copy of Martin Luther King’s “A Testament of Hope,” a book by Jimmy Carter, of whom she was a fellow Southern Democrat, she was proud of; and Arnold Lobel’s “Fables,” a children’s book she would like to write. It tells a story of children’s books someday.

In many ways, Williams considers herself lucky.

Her father, a retired federal postal worker, encouraged her to go to college. Atlanta’s traditionally strong black middle class gave her role models in the professions. Scholarships took her to Spelman College, University of Michigan graduate school and back to Atlanta’s Emory University law school.

She met her husband, a Supreme Court law clerk, when she was pregnant with her youngest child when she took law school entrance exams.

While she was a student and her husband’s career was just starting, the family often had to pay for its own health insurance. It was hard. She remembers that when she supports Dukakis’s universal health care plan, even though she acknowledges the Republican criticism of cost. As a working mother she remembers the crunch of finding good child care for her children. So she is glad to hear the party talk about the problem.

“Those are critical,” she says. So is a “comprehensive” program against drugs and their destructive effects. “I wonder about the effect of losing so many people to drugs, particularly males, in the future,” she says.

At the Alston and Bird law firm, she often represents businesses. So she works a strong economy and believes that business deserves “a fair shake.” As a businesswoman, Williams says, “I care about employers, too.”

She adds: “I want to see this country strong, both financially and militarily. But you can’t lose sight of the people and their needs. So you have to balance both.”

As a lawyer, Williams worries about the impact of the next president on the Supreme Court.

“We’re all human beings and have similar needs,” says Williams. “When I cast my vote, I’ll be thinking about what will happen to the civil rights, by coordinating events for all Americans, not just one group, no matter who they are. ‘America, I think, belongs to us all.’”

HIGH RISK GROUPS

If you are a member of one of these groups you may be gambling in a situation where the odds are stacked against you from very young:

1. Do you have relatives that are former alcoholics? Children of alcoholic parents are 2 to 3 times more likely to become alcoholics.

2. Do you have a family history of twinklewinkles? — in which there is an increase to alcoholism.

3. Do you come from a Dukakis-Dukakis family in this kind of family “the rules” are don’t drink, don’t speak, don’t talk. If you are new to them it can be a bomb. Parents are emotionally unavailable to those.

4. Do you use drinking to overcome or escape with problems such as alcoholism, depression, loneliness, anxiety or do you see it as a way to escape from the pressures of your life and roles?

5. Are you nervous or frightened? Someone who drinks to help avoid a lot of risks.

6. Do you drink to feel better, to deal with personal problems, such as your appearance, sexual boredom, or family problems?

7. Do you regularly engage in addictive drinking more than one drink per day, drinking games, shoot, drinking to get drunk?

Returning starters give Herrin solid foundation

By David Gailanettii Staff Writer

When building a house, it helps to have a foundation. On this season's basketball roster, Rich Herrin already has a house with work and several additions.

Senior Randy House, senior Kai Nurnberger and sophomore Chuck Shipley all three starters on last year's 12-16 squad, will represent building blocks for Herrin to stem from.

"It's going to be tough," said Shipley about the early part of the season. "There are no clear cut starters, Coach Herrin has said.

"I think I'll play about the same as last year. I'll do some rebounding and high posting early, and maybe move to the wing later. I won't be looked on to score as much," Shipley said. The Salukis have a good chance to do well this season.

"Last year we complained because we didn't have a lot of talent, but this year we do. I think we can easily finish over 500 and maybe get into some postseason play like the NIT or the NCAA," House said. The success of the Salukis depends, in part, on how well the team can come together.

"There are a lot of factors to take into consideration," Herrin said. "It depends on how we sell and if we play as a unit of five separate guys. I don't feel there will be a problem getting together and playing.

"The chemistry is there for a very good team; the best we've had in years," House said. Herrin feels he shares a leadership role with Nurnberger and other seniors.

"It is the job of Kai and I and the others to help the new ones along. The early games will be a crucial time. We have to take control of the situation and minimize the pressure on the new guys until they get their confidence built up," Nurnberger said. The addition of the new talent will make the team better overall.

"I think we will be extremely competitive. There are more athletes coming in this year than we've ever had. There is so much more we can do that we couldn't do last year that will be so easy," Defensive improvement, along with continued offensive power, will not be a great challenge, Nurnberger said.

"Our strength is on the offense — not just an outside punch. The defense has been a weak point and it is something we have to work on. There are a lot of people here who can play some good defense and this must come out in practice.

"The team fits together pretty well. The first month, people show what they can do best. Now we'll see how they play on a team."

Three straight victories this past weekend will give the 6-10 field hockey team the charge it needs for the next three opponents.

The Salukis finish the regular season in Iowa City, playing James Madison on Friday, Michigan on Saturday, and No. 6 Iowa on Sunday. "A good showing will help us," Coach Jean Illner said. "We need to keep our momentum going."

The defense hasn't allowed a goal since last Friday's 5-0 loss to Southeast Missouri. But Illner said the offense hasn't taken full advantage of its scoring opportunities.

"That's got to come from the individual," Illner said. "They have to have the composure when they're down in the circle. They have to execute those skills we've practiced."

Iowa, 5-5, will present the biggest test for the Salukis. The Hawkeyes are led by junior Erica Richards (14 goals), senior Tina Parrott (10 goals) and junior goalkeeper Andrea Wieland (4 saves and five shutouts). "It's a pretty tough weekend to close out with," Illner said. "It's the best time to play Iowa. I think we are where we want to be. It gives you incentive to play someone like Iowa."

James Madison started the season with a 5-3-1 record and boasts a balanced attack featuring Amy Hicks and Jamie Little. They have five goals each. This is the second meeting with Michigan. The Salukis lost to the Big Ten team 2-0 on Sept. 19 in St. Louis. Cindy Oppermann, who leads the team with nine goals and Jenny Credes, five goals, both scored in that game. "Hopefully we'll be up," Illner said. "If we play like we did this weekend we have a shot at beating them."

Cornell optimistic about team’s tourney chances

By Robert Baxter
Staff Writer

The men’s cross country team will be competing at the Pinnacle in the Ole Miss Invitational, the last meet of the season before the Missouri Valley Conference finals on Oct. 29.

Coach Bill Cornell said his team, which has competed in Oxford, Miss., the last four years, will look to continue its success.

“This is one of the strongest teams we have ever taken down there,” Cornell said. “In the past we have taken lesser teams and still finished in the top three.”

Cornell said this meet should tell whether the team has finally come of age.

“We haven’t put it all together as a team up to this point,” Cornell said. “This is a key week for us, so I’ll be resting certain people so they’ll be ready for conference.”

Cornell said he plans on his team doing well in the meet, but the main reason for scheduling the meet is actually for a final tune-up before the conference championships.

Both Paul Glanville and Mark Stuart, who have run every meet so far this season, will be rested this weekend in preparation for the finals, Cornell said.

Craig Steele and Paul Burkhardt also will stay behind. Burkhardt is suffering from the flu and Steele is still having problems with a hand injury.

That will leave freshman Jon Dennis and senior captain Dave Beauchem to carry the load. Dennis will try to capture his third victory of the season, and Beauchem’s goal of winning in the top five or at next week’s conference meet may hinge heavily on how well he does Friday.

“What I’m hoping in this meet is the backup men will come on through and be more aggressive,” Cornell said.

Homecoming game will feature Division I-A rival

By David Gallantetti

The Salukis will put a 3-0 home record on the line at 1:30 p.m. Saturday when I-A Northern Illinois rolls into Carbondale to try and spoil both Homecoming and the 50th Anniversary of McMurry Stadium.

The Salukis will feature All-America candidate quarterback Marshall Taylor, who is recognized as one of the nation's top wishbone quarterbacks. Saluki coach Rick Rhoades said the defense needs to be ready:

"If I better be," Rhoades said, "or it's going to be a long day."

Rhoades said in one way Taylor represents the best quarterback the Salukis have faced yet.

"He is a combination runner and thrower. He has a very strong arm and can run the football well."

Rhoades said the wishbone defense the Salukis run is very similar to the Huskies.

"They run more base plays and have three receivers to one side which we don't," Rhoades said.

"At times, wishbone teams have problems defending each other. I think our defense is playing with a lot of confidence right now."

Even though the game pits a 1-A school against a Division I-A school, Rhoades said he isn't going in with that attitude.

"Our kids are going to battle, we battle with ourselves. We have the opportunity to play a team that has some of the most talent in the country, but I want us to focus in on ourselves,\n

L.A.'s lead extends to two games

OAKLAND Calif. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Dodgers, fielding possibly the worst lineup in World Series history, moved within one victory of the championship Wednesday night with a 6-3 decision over the Oakland Athletics.

With a cleanup hitter who batted .106 this season and a designated hitter who failed to homer, the Dodgers backed rookie Tim Belcher with two first-runners and scored Oakland ace Dave Stewart.

Oakland Grizzlies in the Series 3 games and scored two runs in the first as Steve Sax scored on a bloop single. Mike Hatcher came home on a fielder's choice.

The Dodgers scored in the third on a Mike Davis line drive that drove in Franklyn Stubbs. The A's pulled within one run, 2-1, in the fifth when Carney Lansford broke up a 9- for-18 slump with a bloop single to right that scored Dave Henderson from second base.

Dodger catcher Mike Scio西亚 injured himself in the fourth inning.

Scioscia had singled to lead off the Los Angeles fourth, and the Dodgers scored a key run in the fifth with the count 3-1-and-2 to Danny Heep, who apparently missed the sign and took strike two. Oakland catcher Mike Barrett came in to pitch, and Scioscia twisted his right knee on the slide, limped off the field, and had to leave the game.

Rick Dempsey, the MVP of the 1983 World Series with the Baltimore Orioles, replaced Scioscia.

The Dodgers started Wednesday night's game without Kirk Gibson (strained right knee) and Mike Marshall (sore back). Both are on the 15-day disabled list.

A sport that entails wings getting wet, drivers bumping into walls, blocking both sounds like a comedy of errors. But it's the getting wet, drivers bumping into walls, blocking both sounds like a comedy of errors. But it's the ability to move in water polo.

Water polo proves to be wet and wild -- and the biggest struggle is with movement. Movement has to be ready.

"We've had some guys drop out because the sport is so physically strenuous. It's definitely a movement sport."

It's Greeks vs. everyone else at Homecoming

By Kimberly Clarke

There seems to be two themes this year for homecoming, one being "Wild, Wild Midwest" and the other "Beat the Greeks."

Brush Towers, University Park, Thompson Point, the Inter-Greek Council and Off-Campus are all represented in this year's Homecoming king and queen selections, however, the Greeks have won the contest for the past five years. Rodney Miller, Alpha Tau Omega and Greek candidate for king, said.

Preliminaries were held and candidates were chosen to represent each area. Students voted October 13 to 13 at the Student Center for the nominees they wanted for the Student Council and Off-Campus king and queen.

Representatives of Brush Towers are Jennifer Johnson and Brian Forbes. Johnson, 19, is a sophomore with a double major in accounting and finance. She is from Carmi and said she isn't really sure what the chances are for the Brush Tower candidates.

"I really don't know, the Greeks are dominating, but we have the same chance as everyone," Johnson said.

Forbes, 19, and a sophomore in pre-dentistry is from Granite City.

"I will really excited and happy that they chose me," Forbes said.

Forbes said the Towers really encourage the residents to vote and to support them and rides to the Student Center and prizes for the floor with the most participants. University Park candidates are Lori Tiberetta and Chris Capparelli.

Tiberetta is a Neely Hall resident and is working on a double major - clothing and textile retailing and elementary education.

A 21-year-old junior, Tiberetta is from Neely, N.C. and active in the hall council at Neely.

Tiberetta said she would like to see more people become involved in the voting and she is unsure who will win.

Capparelli, a freshman in aviation flight and sports medicine, is from Arlington Heights. President of Allen Hall council, Capparelli feels his outgoing personality will help him in the quest for king. Thompson Point's nominees are Jill Cannon and Dan Campbell, both are residents of Warren Hall.

Elections were held Oct. 12 and 13 to choose candidates from each area. The 1988 Homecoming King and Queen will be named during Saturday's half-time show.

Cannon, 18, freshman in pre-major, said the sentiments at Thompson Point seem to be that someone besides the Greeks need to win.

"I hope we can change that tradition of Greeks winning," Cannon, who is from Peoria, said.

Campbell, 22, and a junior in radio and television, shares views with Cannon.

"Out of all the candidates, if someone is going to beat the Greeks we can do it," Campbell, from Indianapolis, Ind., said.

On the other side of the lake, the Greeks are not taking traditions lightly.

The Greek candidates are Jenna Herbold, a member of Alpha Eta Kappa sorority, and Rodney Miller, a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

"I am really nervous of course, and just because the Greeks traditionally take it doesn't mean we will this year," Herbold said.

Herbold, 19, is a junior in radio and television and from Hoffman Estates.

Miller, 20, junior in aviation flight, is from St. Charles.

Miller said he is excited about the nomination because his brother, who was also an Alpha Tau Omega, was king in 1985.

Alpha Tau Omega has won the homecoming honor for the past five years, Miller said.

Off-campus candidates are Disadre Woods and Craig Suchardas.

Woods, 21, with a double major in business administration and marketing along with a minor in French, is from Wayne City.

A friend nominated Woods and she said she was flattered.

Woods is chairperson of student orientation at the Office of Student Development and she has no idea who would win.

Suchardas, a radio and television major, is involved in organizations such as the Undergraduate Student Organization, and said that taking pride in the ability to work well with people is one of his better attributes.

The new homecoming court will be announced Saturday during half-time at the football game and will be crowned by the current king and queen.

Frats, sororities bring old in to meet the new

By Miguel Alba

Homecoming weekend is a time when alumni leave their worries behind them, converge on the University to visit and reminisce about the good old times.

This annual event reunites friends who have since taken different paths in life. Greeks are one of the many organizations that have such reunions.

Bob Haly, president of Sigma Pi, said fraternities and sororities provide a structured format for the Homecoming event. "We have a full schedule for our alumni," he said. "This is one event they keep on coming back to year after year."

But planning for this festivities involves plenty of time and preparation. Mike Holeschek, Sigma Pi Homecoming activities chairman, said the organization started planning three months ago, adding that the effort put into it is well rewarded.

"We sent out about 100 invitations to alumni across the country, from Florida to California. But we're expecting about 100 alumni," he said. He said the event is equally important to active members who feel that alumni are an important source of current job market information.

"They (alumni) have jobs in many areas. Some are lawyers, doctors, computer representatives. If there are changes in their area, they probably know something that can help you when you're ready to graduate," Holeschek said.

Chad Severson, Alpha Tau Omega Homecoming chairman, said that Greek organizations have always supported University events. He said the fraternity is involved in the parade, tailgate and sponsor a Homecoming candidate.

"Right now we're concentrating on Founder's Day, (an event catering to reuniting alumni), it's the biggest event for us," Severson said. Sororities also are involved.

Cara Calderaro, president of Sigma Kappa, said the sorority helps its alumni by having a gathering at the house and providing them with accommodations there, or, if they wish, at nearby hotels.

"Some of our alumni are married to fraternity alumni, so they usually go to the Homecoming dances they have," she said.

These evening dances are usually formal or semi-formal, and provide an enjoyable evening for alumni and active members with food, drinks and entertainment.

As an fraternity member said, "It's a chance to meet the people that made it possible," referring to those who set the foundation for generations to follow.

Hay said past fraternity members had been a bit tougher than members today because of the stricter hazing laws that have since been put into practice.

"The older alumni that visit (for Homecoming) were active members back in the fifties. They were tough. They were part of the hard core fraternity generation," he said.

"It's always interesting to talk to them to find out what was going on campus, back then. The stories they tell make you wonder how they ever survived."

Rondell Sheridan is funny for a living.
He is one of a growing number of people who eat, buy clothes and pay rent all as a result of his ability to make people laugh.

Sheridan will perform at 8 p.m. Friday in Student Center Ballroom D as part of the Student Programming Council’s entertainment for Homecoming Weekend.

Sheridan makes regular tours of college campuses and was once nominated for the National Association of Campus Activities Campus Entertainment Award.

Sheridan’s comedy is described as being universal, with jokes about parents, being a kid and going to church.

He is also known for having a very “clean” act, with very little cursing.

Sheridan has been compared to comedian Bill Cosby by several magazines and newspapers, and, in fact, Cosby was one of Sheridan’s main inspirations.

Sheridan graduated with a degree in marketing and advertising from Marquette University in Milwaukee, Wis., before he began performing.

He attended acting school in New York City and appeared in several commercials for Budweiser, AT&T and Levi’s 501 jeans.

Sheridan also gained much popularity by appearing regularly at New York’s Improv and Comedy Cellar.

He has appeared in the feature films “Deadline Stories” and “Lawn IV” and played the lead role in Stevie Wonder’s video, “Part Time Lover.”

Tickets are $3 for students with a valid I.D. and $4 for the public. They are available at the Student Center ticket office or at the door.

Comedian Rondell Sheridan will perform at 8 p.m. Friday at the Student Center.

Band ready for ‘Wild’ celebration

By Wayne Wallace

Homecoming is one of the busiest times of the year for the Marching Salukis.

Band director Mike Hanes said the group looks forward to the festivities each fall as one of its most enjoyable marching season highlights.

The band will be leading the parade Saturday morning, as it heads up 107 parade entries scheduled to march down the Strip.

In keeping with Homecoming’s “Wild, Wild Midwest” theme, the halftime show for Saturday’s game will feature four Country and Western music selections.

Hanes said the band will kick off its field show with the theme from Mel Brooks’ “Blazing Saddles.” The up-tempo arrangement was written especially for the Salukis by Dan Phillips, the band’s new co-director.

The Saluki Twisters will perform during the band’s second number, the lively “Trailer Mountain Breakdown,” also known as the “Bonnie and Clyde” theme.

Phillips arranged this bluegrass-flavored Flatt and Scruggs tune to incorporate a banjo and electric bass on the field.

During “Wabash Cannonball,” the Saluki Shakers will assist the band in forming the shape of a train, complete with wheels and simulated steam. Other marching configurations will include a guitar and a banjo.

For the band’s marching finale, a swing arrangement of “Home on the Range” will bring back the Twisters and Shakers for what Hanes calls “a thrilling circus.”

Hanes promised this version of “Home on the Range” is much jazzer than the traditional interpretations everyone is used to hearing, adding that few college bands are able to play it well.

The halftime show will conclude with band alumni forming the letter “F” in the Salukis’ formation of “SIU.”

Traditional school fight songs and anthems such as “Alma Mater” and the familiar “Saluki Man” will be performed.

Alumni are invited back to perform every year, according to Hanes.

“We love getting together to see who’s gained weight,” Hanes said, laughing. “We’re working with the Alumni Association to see about forming an official Saluki Alumni Band.”

Hanes said former band members who wish to perform in Saturday’s halftime show should report to the Arena by 12:15 p.m.

The Marching Salukis perform a different show for every home football game. Hanes said he doesn’t want the fans to grow tired of the same music week after week.

With only three scheduled rehearsals per week, Hanes said that it’s a challenge for students to constantly learn new music and marching formations.

Approximately 60 to 70 percent of the band’s members are non-music majors.

‘Wild, Wild’ weekend happenings scheduled

By Therese Livingston
Staff Writer

This weekend’s scheduled homecoming agenda is designed to include all audiences.

The festivities, sponsored by the Student Programming Council, will begin Thursday night with films and videos shown at the Student Center. Films will include “Texas Chainsaw Massacre” at 7 and 9 p.m. in the Student Center Auditorium and “Night of the Living Dead” at 7 and 9 p.m. Fourth Floor Video Lounge.

The Pep Rally will feature the Saluki Shakers, the football team, cheerleaders and the coronation of Mr. and Ms. Saluki.

Centered around the theme of “Wild, Wild Midwest,” the activities will continue Friday night with a pep rally and bonfire in the Arena parking lot.

Beginning at 6:30 p.m., the rally will feature Athletic Director Jim Hart, football Coach Rick Rhoades, the Black Fire dancers, the Saluki Shakers as well as the coronation of Mr. and Ms. Saluki, the football team and cheerleading squad.

After the rally, comedian Rondell Beginnig will be appear at 8 p.m. in Student Center Ballroom D. Completing the night will be the screening of “Nightmare on Elm Street II: Freddy’s Revenge,” at 7, 9 and 11 p.m. in the Student Center Auditorium and “Night of the Living Dead” at 7 and 9 p.m. in the Student Center Auditorium.

Colleges set up tents, greet alumni, students

By Richard Goldstein
Staff Writer

Homecoming for the colleges this year will feature lunch for all alumni, and tents for the respective colleges. Homecoming is the time of year when alumni can have refreshments and watch the Homecoming parade.

But, there's a catch: "In order to receive a (free) lunch, you've got to register," at the main tent, Pat McNiel, assistant director of the alumni association, said.

In past years, McNiel said, the alumni association has "guaranteed" that 2,500 to 3,000 alumni participate in Homecoming each year. But the requirement, registering before eating, should give a better idea of how many people attend.

McNiel said back issues of the O belink will be available at the main tent.

The tents will face the Homecoming Parade on Route 51 South behind McAndrew Stadium, and all will be serving coffee and doughnuts for alumni.

A few of the colleges have some added attractions at their tents.

The College of Human Resources will have a lie detector for "anyone who wants to come by, get hooked up, and get checked out." Sue Frusby, public information specialist, said.

Frasby said there will be Western-style games to go along with the "Wild, Wild Midwest" homecoming theme.

The College of Business Administration will sponsor a poker game that alumni can play. Rebecca Fines, a S服务商, said.

In the College, said the chips won in the game can be redeemed for prizes.

She said the COBA tent also will serve breakfast.

The College of Education will hold drawings for framed prints "and a variety of other things," in their tent, John Allen, department of recreation faculty member, said.

In the College of Agriculture, alumni will be met by apple cider and "Agassadors," Don Elkins, associate dean, for instruction in the College said.

Elkins said students from Alpha Gamma Rho as well as the student "Agassadors" and faculty members will be on hand to meet alumni.

True to his billing, Taylor strutted his stuff in the Oct. 1 staffing of Gateway Conference contender Southwestern Missouri. After the defensive unit held firm during a goal line stand, Taylor marched the Huskies upfield for a 96-yard drive that culminated in a 4-yard touchdown strike to tight end Claude Royster.

Final: Northern Illinois 17, Southwest Missouri 3.

Taylor is far from being Northern Illinois' only celebrity. Take the case of kicker John Ivancic, was surprised as anyone that he was mentioned as a preseason Street and Smith's All-American.

That kind of pressure and acclaim didn't stop Ivancic from leading the Huskies to their first victory over a Big Ten opponent in 17 years. With 1:24 showing on the game clock, the 5-foot-6 sophomore booted a 21-yard field goal — his fourth of the day — that beat Wisconsin 19-17.

Rhoades: Football team ‘really got to get ready’

By David Gillanetti
Staff Writer

Hot off a 10-7 victory over Gateway rival Indiana State, the Salukis will need more than fourth-quarter heroics to upend their first Division I-A opponent of the year, Northern Illinois.

“They have played some big boys and beat them,” Saluki head coach Rick Rhoades said. “We have really got to get ready to play.”

Rhoades said one good thing for the Salukis is the home field advantage which has produced a 3-0 record so far this season.

“It has become a real comfort to play here,” Rhoades said with a smile.

After turning around from a 34-3 defeat to Eastern Illinois two weeks ago, Rhoades said the momentum from the Sycamore game will come in handy.

“I think we can use it if the guys are smart,” Rhoades said. “I gave them Sunday off. It has been a long time since we have had a day off.”

The Huskies will enter SIU-C’s homecoming at 4-3, following a 45-0 blitzing by Southwest Louisiana.

“These are the kind of games we have to play as well as we can,” Rhoades said. The Salukis will face another I-A school on Oct. 29 when they travel to Kentucky.

Despite the odds against them, Rhoades said the Salukis will not be going in with a defeatist attitude.

“You just go in knowing you have to play as hard as you can play. You never go into any game thinking you will probably lose.”

The Huskies potential All-America quarterback Marshall Taylor came into last week’s action having completed 33 of 63 attempts for 553 yards.

“He is a great wishbone quarterback,” Rhoades said.

Northern Illinois represents the third of four teams who run an off­­­­­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­e­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­­－­n dew that is very similar to the Salukis’. The Salukis beat Murray State 28-21 and beat Arkansas State 45-43.

The fourth wishbone squad the Salukis will face is Gateway opponent Southwest Missouri on Nov. 5.

“Our wishbone package has some sophisticated schemes that allow big plays,” said Huskie coach Jerry Pettibone. “We have people who can run and catch the ball.”

Northern Illinois leads the series between the two schools 24-19. The last time the Huskies and Salukis clashed was in 1980, with Northern coming out on top 20-17.

Northern’s football coach a ‘miracle’ worker

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

If the Salukis got a shot in the arm by first-year coach Rick Rhoades, then Northern Illinois’ Jerry Pettibone turned the squad the 1-9 way into a minor football miracle in DeKalb.

Pettibone, the fourth-year coach of the Huskies, has turned a team that went 2-8 and 4-5-1 in the previous two seasons to something of a national sensation.

Northern Illinois’ 4-3 start has generated a unique excitement in DeKalb. The Huskies are always cast as an independent and as an underdog — a role they cherish.

The situation will change Saturday at 1:30 p.m., when 50 or so red and black clad Huskies pour onto O’Dell Field as the favorites — confident of spelling the Salukis’ Homecoming charge.

Northern Illinois is capable of doing that. This team boasts senior quarterback Marshall Taylor, a triple option threat and All-American who appropriately wears No. 1 on his jersey.

“He could step in for Jimmie Hollway and Oklahoma wouldn’t miss a beat,” Pettibone said.

“Marshall Taylor knows more tricks than David Copperfield.”
