Fuller, in the keynote address of the Vision 65 conference, said that poetry has an increasing confidence in the computer's ability to make decisions, and the University is going to start a "great computer program." The computer game to be played at Southern is one that will allow everyone to play, according to Fuller, with the right of others, according to Fuller.

If civilization ends in war, Fuller continued, the game will be attained when the research program shows how to make all men not interfere with the right of others, according to Fuller. If civilizations end in war, Buckminster Fuller, professor of design.

No Alternative, Columnist Says

The war in Viet Nam is necessary, and President Johnson has done it, according to author Victor Lasky told two SIU audiences Thursday.

Lasky, syndicated columnist, policy researcher and author of "JFK: The Man and the Myth," spoke at the 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. convocations in the SIU Arena.

"I think he's terribly disliked by liberals," Lasky said of Johnson. "In my travels across the country, I find him referred to as 'El Supremo' even by people who voted for him. And I didn't. I want you to understand that.

"Johnson's problem began when he took a hard-nosed attitude on Viet Nam, but he has no alternatives."

Lasky believes that the United States must fight in Viet Nam, in order to keep Communism from spreading across all of Southeast Asia.

"Our country has gone to much greater wars," he said. "'I've been to Viet Nam six or seven times. It's a pig-slaughtering war and the title is turning in our favor. We must fight to save our country's honor."

Most of the trouble in the Democratic party is coming from a minority, Lasky said, "But Johnson must also contend with the rise of the Kennedy dynasty and Robert Kennedy marching on foreign policy as if he knows what he's talking about.

Conservatives, minority of Republicans in the country, Lasky said the party is faced with an ideological split.

"As a conservative myself," he said, "I don't think the Republican party can be all conservative. We need a mixture of conservative and liberal, and we must learn to live with one another.

"But if the Republican national convention were held right now," he stated confidently, "I think Richard Nixon would win the nomination and would become President of the United States."

Gus says that he thinks he's going to lose his 1-Yr. draft classification because his weight is too low. He wants to keep his high percentage of fat to avoid being drafted.

Musical entertainment for the banquet will be provided by the Baptist Chapel Singers and a group of foreign students. An international menu is planned.

Tickets are on sale at the bookstore at the Baptist Foundation, Grand Avenue at Thompson Street, for $1 each.

Student Arguments Traditional Case for Civil Disobedience

Today it seems to be treasonous to be against the War in Viet Nam. The war cry has gone out, the enemy has been named and the people have rallied. Those who dissent are called "Communists." But there are those like myself, who after examination of both points of view, decide they won't go to Viet Nam. Why?

The basis of my reasoning lies with the Vietnamese viewpoint—of the average Vietnamese—not the Saigon or Viet Cong supporter. This is the vast majority of people who are losing (being killed by the Viet Cong or by our government.) These people just want peace. They don't know who's on their side and who the enemy is. Both sides are killing them. How are they to know we're the "good guys" when we're bombing their villages? The majority of people killed in Viet Nam have not been Viet Cong, but have been the Vietnamese peasants and their families. Of course both sides justify this in the name of the cause ("Peace and Freedom"—U.S., and "Liberty and a Viet Cong," or in the name of the "people, not imperialists.") This justification has been usefully by governments throughout history and is not justified in this war, either. The Vietnamese offer the clearest examples in history of people being used (more accurately, killed) in the name of "national interests" of opposing sides.

I have decided not to be used in our "national interest" which disregards the interests of the Vietnamese people. In fact I feel so strongly about this that I would be killed, rather than kill people, and who in the majority are innocent. To me, the interest of the Vietnamese people would best be served by a cease-fire and negotiated settlement. Both sides claim they have attempted this (the Viet Cong during our '64 elections and the U.S. last May, although we did not actually stop the bombing and strafing as we'd promised.) Both sides seem willing to negotiate only from a position of armed strength. This is the "national interest," but ignores the interests of the majority of Vietnamese.

For the people who suffer from "national interest," whether our interest or the Viet Cong's interest, I will stay here and work to get the government to redefine its interests to coincide with the interest of the people of Viet Nam: a cease-fire and negotiated settlement.

If A Is Not B and B Is Not C, Must A Be C?

A logician's nightmare with a practical application for Perry H. Patterson's letter (Letters to the Editor) is this: every fact that people realize that young impressionable high school seniors, other factors being equal, would choose the university at which they could get out on a Saturday afternoon and cheer their athletes a victory—rather than a school which sports a perennial loser. Not so with our friend Perry? The public image of the university plays a major role in deciding what students it will attract. The students attracted make the university.

Don't Drive the Talent Away

I would like to know why there were so many malcontent students in the 1 p.m. Freshman Convocation Oct. 14 even if they didn't appreciate Miss Karen Duke's singing and playing the piano, could have been bad at the tenor. It's true that Patterson didn't throw an egg at Mayor Miller, to show his disdain for a university plays a major role in deciding what students it will attract. The students attracted make the university. In his Oct. 19 letter Harrison Youngren claims that the U. S. Rural Aid Programs of 1956-59 must carry on peacefully and without interference. Yet, in seeing that the demonstration that ideological viewpoint is carried out peacefully and without interference, I think that these students showed only their bad manners and immaturity. Their dis­ tinction only makes it harder to win a war, rather than a school which sports a perennial loser. Not so with our friend Perry? The public image of the university plays a major role in deciding what students it will attract. The students attracted make the university.

Freedom's a Sometime Thing

I am writing in reply to Dr. Randall Nelson's Oct. 19 letter. As the teach-in was oriented toward an analysis and criticism of policies, I can say categorically that several of the best qualified members of the faculty were asked, but refused, to defend administration policy in Viet Nam. The teach-in was oriented toward an analysis and criticism of policies, in mind of a constructive search for viable alternative policies. At the same time, it was and is a movement against war and is therefore critical of the draft and the administration's policies. I feel sure that Dr. Nelson does not feel it is approbative to criticize war, the draft, or the administration. That view would be repugnant in a democracy. Dr. Nelson asks us if "any totalitarian country in history ever accomplished a free election?" It is true that they have and on occasion we must in all fairness add our own country to the list. Dr. Nelson said a pseudorepublic was indefensible. It seems that, when the U.S. declares a free election, it is "in defense of democracy;" when another country does so, it is "totalitarian." Again, this does not include such "friends" as Spain, South Africa, and Mississippi. Dowell W. Grose

Don't Yoke of Oppression!

Although I am not actively verbally or otherwise in regard to America's policy in Viet Nam, I could not help but be a member of Saturday's demonstrators.

Johnson Bids Goodby to Bethesda, Patients

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Johnson, a grinning convalocent, returned to the White House Thursday after admonishing others still in the hospital, "Now, you get well." The President, in a dark business suit, his wife beside him, left Bethesda Naval Hospital at 1:05 p.m., 13 days after surgery that removed his gall bladder with a gallstone and a kidney stone. He had entered the hospital two weeks ago Thursday night. He left it weighing less, a little under 200 pounds, and with good color, good cheer and good words for the care he got.

Just before leaving, he spent a few minutes in a neuro-surgical ward to tell some

Marines wounded in Viet Nam and other patients there that their families, their country and their President are mighty proud of them.

"I feel like a fellow casualty. I've been slashed a bit. But I've gone through nothing like what you've gone through," he told them.

Some may feel they got a bad break, he said, but

"maybe many of you will think three billion people in the world will get a better break." The President had words for two wounded Marines who lay in beds in a separate room.

"Guys like you have made this nation great," he told the two,

Jonathan Pay, New York, N.Y.,

and Virgil Bohler, Sileses,

Tex.

In the ward, eight Marines wounded in Viet Nam formed a semicircle in wheelchairs and chairs. Other patients, in blue pajamas and robes, sat in chairs or lay in their beds.

Johnson told them to stay where they were as he went around shaking hands. Mrs.

Johnson joined him.

The President took the occasion to thank the doctors, nurses and aides at the hospital. "They have certainly been wonderful to me and I hope they have to you," he told the patients.

Outside, pajama-clad patients in the wards leaned out the windows calling "Mr.

President" as Johnson walked in the sunshine to his limousine.

Johnson turned toward then, rised his clasped hands in a salute and called out. "They fixed me up - I'm in good shape - now, you get well."

He is expected to stay at the White House for a short period and then probably go to his ranch in Texas for convalocence.

Grand Dragon Takes ‘Fifth’

Investigators Seek to Link Acts of Violence With Klan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional investigators accused a Ku Klux Klan on Thursday of plotting violence and harassment—including stuffing dead rats and dead-headed chickens into mailboxes of their enemies.

For flushing out two days of questioning of James R. Jones, Klan grand dragon of North Carolina, staff members of the House Committee on Un-American Activities brought out that a Klan officer in New Bern, N.C., pleaded guilty to a series of bombings.

Jones, as he has done all along, refused to answer any questions about the case involving Bayomu Mills, who has since testified before the committee in closed session.

A letter from Jones was read in which he said Mills had been suspended but not “banished.”

Chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La, said, “You pretend to be against violence, but you have never expelled anyone.”

This exchange followed the introduction of tax returns showing that Jones’ income took a hefty jump when he became North Carolina grand dragon. He declined to answer questions about that, too, citing constitutional grounds.

Chief investigator Donald T. Appell read a long list of North Carolina cross-burnings, many of them on May 28 of this year, including one on the lawn of the governor’s mansion.

Willis then read from what he indicated was a Klan document entitled, “Harassment.”

It said, “All members should tax their minds to devise new means. They should have a humorous twist in the nature of Halloween pranks.”

The booklet then gave 16 suggestions, including: roofing nails, sugar and molasses in gas tanks, firecrackers, snakes and lizards, brick bombs, tear gas, paint, BB guns, roman candles and sky-rockets and homemade guns.

Willis said it also mentioned throwing dead rats in front of homes or into mailboxes, chickens with their heads cut off, and dead bugs.

The discussion of Jones’ income was accompanied by testimony that he enjoyed these fringe benefits as well:

Wilson to Fly to Rhodesia

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson announced Thursday he will fly to Rhodesia in a bid “to avert the tragic consequences” of seizure of independence by that African colony’s prime minister, Ian Smith.

Wilson said in a message to Smith that he was going to Salisbury not only to talk to him, but anyone else “whose views I feel to be relevant to a solution of this grave problem.”

Marine Jailed for Parking Ticket

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Michael Strong, 19, a Marine private, said Thursday that while he was recuperating from shoulder wounds suffered in Vietnam, Milwaukee police held him in jail for two hours for failure to pay another man’s parking ticket.

Strong said he had told police he was in Vietnam last July when the ticket was issued but was ordered to “get in that cell or I’ll take a club to you.”

Deputy Inspector Lloyd Lund, head of the Traffic Bureau, said a mistake had been made but the excuses of all violators had to be checked out.

After being wounded, Strong was sent to the naval hospital at Great Lakes, Ill., and was back in Milwaukee last Friday on convalescent leave to stay with two brothers.

He said he and a friend went to a district police station to ask about the legality of blackjack in Chicago. He said he received the information but an officer suggested a check be made to see if the two had any record. Strong said he was told a short while later that there was a warrant for him for an old, unpaid parking ticket.

The warrant was issued to a Michael Strong but listed an address other than the Marine’s. Strong said he pointed this out, declared he had never owned a car such as described and was in Vietnam when the ticket was issued.

Strong said he was kept in the police jail for about two hours while his friend raised the $1.30 for the ticket. He said he went to the Traffic Bureau on Saturday, was told a mistake had been made and that he should return Monday for a refund.

On that day, County Judge John E. Krueger ordered the money refunded.

B. Miller girls ...
THIS WEEK -
Miss Jackie Carlson
Neely Hall

introducing the
B. Miller girls ...
By John Ochomicky

In 1926, Chester L. Williams was a high school drop-out. At that time the term wasn't so notorious; it was almost a way of life.

In 1965, Williams is a freshman at SIU -- the oldest freshman at SIU. The events of the 39-year interim that led to Williams' college days indicate a determined man.

Williams quit Carbondale Community High School at 16. As he recalls it, "It was after the end of my first year." The reason? Being the oldest of the children in his family, he had to contribute toward the support of his brothers and sisters, all of whom went on to finish high school.

The years that followed found Williams in construction trades, "I worked mostly as a carpenter," he said, "but I also did some contracting." From construction he went to work as a postman, until a heart attack early this year influenced his decision to retire in June.

After nearly four decades of a life filled with active occupations and active outside interests, which included management of a baseball team, Williams found himself idle.

"I knew only construction work prior to working for the post office," Williams said, "I sought an office position in the construction field but found I was not qualified."

So Williams took the General Educational Development tests and received his high school diploma in August. He found the tests "pretty rough," but admitted that he had not prepared himself in any way for the G.E.D. tests. But he added that he did study for the exams on the state and federal constitutions.

At present, Williams claimed that his major field is undecided but said, "If my health stays the same, I would like to graduate from the College of Education." Williams is carrying 12 hours for the fall term.

His family supports his ambitions. "I have three boys who feel awfully good about it," he said with pride. The tone of pride became more evident when he mentioned that one of his sons graduated from Southern and another had completed two years. It appears that Williams' enthusiasm for sports is shared by his youngest son, who is a sophomore at University High School and a member of the football team.

When asked about the reaction of his fellow classmates, Williams recalled a speech he had given in class about the incidents that led him to college. "After the speech, many of the girls in the class called me 'sir' but the boys called me by my first name," he said.

"My biggest difficulty is in organizing my work," said Williams. As for studying, he finds it isn't too difficult and that he has no problem in concentrating.

Williams glanced nervously at his watch several times, indicating that he was due in class shortly. But before he went on his way, he gave advice for those people who have considered college but are not sure whether they could make it: "My advice is go to college."

Modern Cafeteria

This completely modern cafeteria will seat 430 residents and serve 3,000 meals per day. The cafeteria incorporates 15,000 sq. ft. of dining space and operates with a staff of 40 people.

Included within the cafeteria is a stage at the north end that will serve for both plays and debates that will be scheduled throughout the year. Also provided is a complete sound system and dressing rooms.

Social Life In The Halls

During the course of the year, you will have the opportunity to participate in a wide variety of activities ranging from ball sessions to parties and athletic events. Homecoming and Spring Festivals activities always present an opportunity for a change of pace. Competition among the halls and organizations for the prize winning float in the homecoming parade is quite keen.

Throughout the year, a well-balanced intramural program is provided for students desiring to participate in such sports as football, softball, volleyball, tennis, swimming, and bowling.

The halls are composed of men and women living in the Residence Halls.

The Educational Staff of University City and the University believe the social life of the college student is an integral part of the student's overall education and maturation experiences. With this in mind we have established a social program as well as a recreational program which is comprehensive and well coordinated. Our programs are carefully planned as to the number of activities, the type of activities and to the time allotted to these activities. Activities will range from the relative simplicity of floor exchange parties to the complex and colorful homecoming activities. Many other activities are provided throughout the year by the complex and are paid for entirely by the management.

Sophomores Dominate Lineups
Salukis to Play Wichita State; Teams Seem Evenly Matched

A pair of young, fairly evenly matched teams will square off Saturday when the Salukis play Wichita State there.

Neither team has been very successful so far this year, and both have sophomore-dominated lineups and similar offenses.

The Salukis, 1-4 this season, have 30 sophomores on the 51-man squad, and Wichita State has 32 on its 62-man roster.

Both teams run with the wing-T and emphasize passing. Jim Hart's fine performance Saturday against Drake upped the Salukis' overall passing yardage to 627 yards. Hart and Doug Mougey have combined to give the Salukis 51 completions in 177 attempts and accounted for three touchdowns.

Wichita's passing has provided nearly three-fourths of its total offense. Although the Shockers have played one game less than Southern, they have the same number of completions, 51, and are 27 yards behind the Salukis in passing yardage. The Shockers, shockingly enough, have racked up their completions and yardage in 102 attempts as compared with Southern's 177.

Southern is far ahead of the Shockers in rushing yardage. The Salukis have a net gain of 337 in five games for an average of about 107 yards a game. The Shockers have rushed for only 253 yards in four games for an average of only 63 yards a game.

On defense, the teams once again are fairly similar. Both have given up an average of 161 yards rushing to each opponent. Opponents have passed for an average of 127 yards against Wichita, and the Salukis' opponents have passed for 111 yards a game.

However, the competition must be taken into consideration. Wichita State's games have been against generally stronger competition than Southern's. The Shockers' four losses have been to Montana State, Cincinnati, Arizona State and New Mexico State, and only the latter beat Wichita by more than one touchdown.

Autocross Slated
At Mardale Lot
The Grand Touring Auto Club, Inc., will stage an autocross Sunday at the Mardale Shopping Center. The event will include classes for imported and domestic automobiles, sedans as well as sports. A women's class is also planned.

The trend of the Southern Missouri program is to add depth to the I-series to add depth to the varsity squad on both quarterbacks will be developing a scrambling quarterback. Scrambling Quarterbacks, Tim Kelley and John Lutz said.

The boys must become accustomed to playing with 10 other players of the same potential. For the first time many of the linemen are hitting players of their own age and size.

"The players learn different techniques and offensive patterns during the first few weeks of practice and I feel the freshmen have adjusted adequately to this change," Lutz said.

"In our first game I felt the pass defense was adequate. We gave up several short passes in order not to allow the long one," Lutz explained.

Southern Missouri attempted 17 passes and completed seven against Southern Illinois University. The Saукskids completed two of five. Southern's defensive front line did an excellent job of holding the Indians. The line did an excellent job of keeping the ball out of the Indians.

The yearlings were their first game together. Tim Kelley, our quarterback, is to have a wing-T and a straight offense. He can hand off to our offense. By using these two offenses we capitalize on the experience with the pass and run offense.

Death Force Coaching Staff Reorganization

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Shaken by the deaths of two assistant coaches and serious injury to a third, Tennessee's football coaching staff has been reorganized for the remainder of the season.

Assistant William B. Majors, 26, and Robert T. Jones, 30, were killed Monday when a train struck a car in which they were riding.

A third assistant, Charles Rash, 28, remains in grave condition in a hospital.

Heartbroken as they were by the tragedy, other coaches and players Thursday ran through one of their most spirited practices of the season in preparing for Saturday's game here with the University of Houston.

Head Coach Doug Dickey reshuffled his staff. He turned down the offer of coaching help for the rest of the season from the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League.

In reorganizing his staff, Dickey shifted assignments of various staff members and called on Jim McDonald, assistant athletic director.

Assistants still on Dickey's staff are George Cafego, Charlie Coffey, Jimmy Dunn, Vince Gibson, Jack Kile and George McKinney.
