Blue Sticker Fees May Not Increase

By Carl Cournier

Faculty and staff parking permit fees will probably not be increased to $20 per year from the present rate of $15 as recommended last May by the Vehicle Traffic and Safety Committee, according to an SIU Security Office official.

The source said the final status of the fee hike and of the proposed changes in undergraduate motor vehicle regulations is still under discussion by the president’s office.

The president was unavailable for comment.

The proposed changes in the motor vehicle regulations, released July 27 by Ralph W. Brumley, vice president for students and area services, were called for an elimination of the geographical basis for obtaining an undergraduate parking sticker.

They also specified that juniors and seniors with a 3.5 average and seniors with a 3.75 grade point would be eligible for privileges.

If the proposed changes in the motor vehicle regulations result in more responsible vehicle usage, then the changes will be effective,” Wilber Moulton, dean of students, said recently.

Moulton’s comment came in clarification of a statement by Ruffner which accompanied the notification of the proposed changes: “I am sure you will recognize that the keynote of these regulations—and especially the changes—is responsibility.”

Moulton stressed that the recommendations for proposing motor vehicle privileges were not necessarily an indication of a student’s responsibility; rather, by increasing the availability of privileges to undergraduates, it was hoped that more responsible motor vehicle usage would result.

The dean said also that $50 fine will no longer be levied against violators of the motor vehicle regulations. Violations will be considered on the same basis as all other disciplinary cases,” Moulton explained.

He said that prior academic or disciplinary difficulties and accomplishments would be considered in each case.

“Each case will be studied and proper disciplinary action taken accordingly,” Moulton said.

“We hope any action taken by this office will complement responsible citizenship in the University,” he added.

Brewery Boost to Be Beer Buyers’ Burden

By Dan Vanatta

For 17 years, many student activities (SAJ) have been initiated, planned and carried out by a group called the Activities Programming Board.

Ideally, the activities board serves as a means of achieving educational and recreational activities, as well as promoting the events for the First University Center— an old house that stood on the site now occupied by Woody Hall.

In the years that followed, the center did a lot of traveling.

Southern's Libraries Receive 2,800 Requests for Loans

Requests to borrow materials from SIU libraries during the past year have come from Scotland, Budapest, Denmark and Canada as well as from scores of industries, federal government agencies, and schools.

Reflecting the growth of the libraries, now totaling well over a million volumes the requests for inter-library loans reached 2,800 during the year ending June 30, almost at a 25 per cent increase over 1965 — 66, according to Harold Rath, special services librarian.

Southern was able to fill 2,084 of these requests from either the Missouri Library or the Carbondale Campus or the Kerner Faces Backlog

Coleman Report, Sports Likely On Trustees' Agenda

The SIU Board of Trustees will meet Aug. 3 to discuss regularly scheduled meeting on the Edwardsville campus.

The agenda for the meeting is expected to be released to the public today or Thursday. Paul Morrill, assistant to President Delyte W. Morris, said ear­lier this week that topics likely to be discussed in the Board's informal session will include the Coleman Commis­sion Report and the Athletic study.

No formal meeting action is expected on either of these two reports, Morrill indicated.

The meeting will be held at 9:30 a.m. in the President's Office at Edwardsville.

Plant Geneticist
Gives Tree Report

Calvin Bey, a plant geneticist with the North Central Forest Experiment Station's Carbondale research unit at SIU, will present a progress report on black walnut tree re­search as a meeting in Murg­gartown, West Virginia, Tues­day and today.

Bey has been stationed at the Carbondale unit for the last three years. He was on leave for nearly a year for doctoral studies in crop breeding and silviculture at Iowa State University, and currently is working as a geneticist with the black walnut research pro­gram at Carbondale.

Accompanying Bey to the conference was David Funk, a Forest Service geneticist also concerned with the black wal­nut improvement program at the Carbondale unit.

eling. First it was moved to the location of the present Home Economics Building, and later to the former Housing Office on Harwood Avenue, before the present University Center was completed in 1961.

Although there have been rapid developments in recent years in the number and scope of activities planned, the structure of the programming board has remained essentially as it was in 1961.

The board derives all of its funds from revenue collected through the $10.50 activity fee, which is appropriated by student government. The mon­ey is used to defray the cost of scheduling events, giving the student sufficient activi­ties at the lowest possible price. All events are sched­uled on a non-profit basis.

Anyone in good academic standing with the University may become a member of the board. Committee chairmen, however, must have a 3.25 minimum overall average.

The president and vice pres­i­dent must have served on the board two consecutive terms, have a 3.5 minimum average, and have at least one full year of undergraduate work re­ aining at SIU.

Mid-Air Collisions Might Be Avoided

Chairman Stagner of the House Commerce Committee has asked with commendable promptness in scheduling hearings on air safety following the tragic midair collision near Hendersonville, N.C.

The nation has been fortunate to escape until this year the kind of disaster that took the lives of 52 persons Tuesday. The growth by both commercial and general aviation has imposed increasing burdens not only on pilots but also on control towers.

In 1956 there were 62,886 aircraft registered in the United States under general aviation, the term for various private, corporation and other specialized planes, plus 1,802 and scheduled airliners. A decade later the totals had swollen to 107,085 in general aviation and 2,579 commercial carriers.

The conglomeration caused by this increased volume has prompted Congressmen such as Mr. Stagner of North Carolina to New York to demand a ban on general aviation at busy airports. And now, Congress is belatedly beginning to take the idea seriously.

In looking into the question, lawmakers will have to balance two difficult questions

Briefly Editorial

Repeal of the Constitutional Convention of the present has on state to town to town, national schools seems increasingly probable. This retrograde step would weaken the fundamental policy of separation of church and state and seriously endanger the public-school system.

One of the worst consequences of repeal would be to encourage various sects to maintain their own systems of private schools. Since these would be financed partly out of public funds, the public, schools, which suffer severely from lack of funds as it is, would get even less. The divisive effect, especially in the low-income groups of the ethnic minorities, would be disastrous. <New York Times>

Rioting Points Up Need To Control Gun Purchase

The recent racial riots in several large cities have evoked a plea from Gov. Richard Hughes that in order to prevent future disturbances of the same nature, legislation should be passed controlling the sale and use of firearms.

This is not the first time this controversial subject has been strongly advocated.

The assassination of President Kennedy brought the first outcry from the public and the press that measures should be taken to protect the safety and welfare of citizens.

However, highly-pitched lobbying especially by the National Rifle Association, has thus far managed to kill mild firearms-control bills introduced in Congress since the assassination.

In the land of the free, as Leo Harvey Oswald, Charles Whitman, the mass killer in Austin, Tex., and the recent sniper in a parachutist was executed, anyone with a few spare dollars can buy a rifle.

Nowhere in the U.S., are there restrictions on the sale of rifles. And only in a few states do you need a permit to buy a pistol or revolver.

Generally speaking, there is nothing to stop a criminal, a child, a narcotics addict, or a maniac from buying some kind of gun by mail or from a firearms dealer on the N.E.

J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI, has called the easy accessibility to such firearms "a significant factor" in the nation's homicidal rate, for the U.S., is the only country in the world without on enforceable restrictions on the sale and use of guns.

Murders suicides and accidents kill according to National Academy of Sciences estimations, 17,000 annually by gunfire and these figures have undoubtedly increased since that time.

Also, with the recent racial risings such cities as New York, Detroit, Minneapolis, Cincinnati, and nearby Cairo, Illinois, in the hands of a minority can do irreparable harm to a government.

The seriousness of the problem is evident. Gov. Hughes' plea should therefore not go unnoticed and the lobbyist groups must be overcome in order to protect the lives and property of American citizens.

Slum-Aid Amendments Would Slacken Riots

Attempts will be made in the Senate to amend amendments to the so-called antitrust bill. That would be the only way to put the rioting problem in perspective and persuade a bill that is innocuous at best.

There is no question what provoked the House to pass the antitrust measure so overwhelmingly. It was the three-year series of summer riots, climaxd by last week's events in Newark.

Nor is there much argument that the bill's chief target is Nixon's "Sockeye Carmichael," arguments to the contrary notwithstanding.

The desire to end riots is commendable. They threaten the fabric of our self-governing society.

But the riots have begun to fear, and fear begets hasty reactions.

We have never seen any objection in principle to a bill making it a federal crime to use interstate facilities to foster riots. The measure probably is superfluous, since Congress's recent state and District of Columbia have been against disturbance of the peace and order of some of those who ordinarily yell loudest about federal intrusion are among those most ardently seeking to create a new federal jurisdiction in this instance.

As to the specifics of the bill, broadly worded as it is and so vague in its link between intent and deed, it probably would be ruled unconstitutional. Or if it, it probably would never lead to any conviction that would stick.

But what makes this bill particularly notorious is its attempt to wrench out of context the symptom of the race relations illness. For Congressmen like Atlanta's Reg. Fletcher Thompson to contend that the best deterrent to riots is "the smell of sweat, smoke and certain punishment" sounds more like vengeance than justice.

Where is the 347-70 support for open housing legislation? Discriminatory selling and renting practices are exacerbating the problems of the slum.

Where is the 347-70 vote for job training, for upgrading Negro schools, for better housing, for improved public transportation?

To attack merely the symptom and ignore the cause is to assure the spread of the disease. It whispers to totalitarianism and shouts folly. It promotes that only a handful of people are responsible for the irrationally expressed dissatisfaction in the nation's black slums.

Passage of this bill without the balance of slum-aid measures will go a long way toward "proving" the case of Negro extremists, - Atlanta Constitution, Historically with any of the 24 unit publications, the exact number of unit newspapers is not available for several reasons.

Stars and Stripes places four additions in Tokyo and maintains a 12-man staff in Vietnam. "I find the men there are interested in reading about the war they are fighting," Richter said. "They are possibly the best informed military force in history."

But they also want to know what is going on back home. In its estimate, Richter and Stripes try to give them the information on the big news and sports events, and also any home town news available.

Richter, who has held his current post for 13 years, has an editorial staff about equally divided between native and military personnel. About 20 Japanese nationals also are on the staff.

To detect five Japanese newspapers in the United States fairly successful.

For U.S. citizens, there are the incentives of travel to the United States, but for Vietnam, the appeal is the rotation and returning to their homes and bad neighborhoods.

Instead of the young, adventurous type, Richter has encountered a different breed of journalist in recent years. "He is the man," he said in his 50s, married, who is not tied down by other family responsibilities and would like to travel.

There aren't too many of these men yet, but they fit well into the pattern of Stars and Stripes' growing operation.
Information Explosion
Library Budget Increased to Keep Pace With Expanding Demand for Resources

By Norma Grogan

Information Explosion—the amount of scientific literature doubles in size every eight to ten years.

This information boom and greatly expanded use of libraries of all types has placed a demand on the nation's library and information resources greater than ever before.

The most conspicuous way SUI has attempted to handle this expanded volume of knowledge has been the increased book budget, said Ferris S. Randall, director of Morris Library. The book budget for the academic year 1962-63 totaled $478,400 for both the Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses. Last year's total budget for books was $163,357, Randall said.

The most noticeable increase has been the number of subscriptions to magazines and journals, a large majority of which were scientific periodicals, Randall said. Last year's $81,000 was spent only on periodicals alone.

Randall said journals and magazines are paid for only to keep up to date on the latest known information. A book is obsolete by the time it is printed.

Morris Library buys considerable microfilm, according to Randall, though the library owns its own micro-camera, not much film is produced here, he said.

Microfilm can supply material which has been out of print for years. This material is then transferred to microcards. Microfilm is a very necessary means of copying with the information explosion, Randall said. "We couldn't very well do without it," he added.

The information retrieval is another way Morris Library is trying to cope with this explosion, Randall said.

There is a possibility of getting all the card catalogues put on IBM cards at some time near here and then transferring this information onto tapes, he explained.

Computer cards are produced by a print out in multiple copies. These copies of the card catalog, on tape, would be located in strategic points on campus, he said. Randall said it is hoped this would relieve some of the congestion around the card catalog on the first floor of the library. Books and periodicals would be classified by subject head on these computer cards and tapes, he said.

Randall said he plans to hire a new librarian with a background in data processing for the further application of computer techniques in the operation of the library.

This new librarian would assist in making more studies in circulation, getting periodicals and serials on a print-out and collecting and all back issues of each publication and binding them, showing exactly which issues are contained in each volume, Randall said.

High School Business Teachers To Meet Here for Workshop

More than 75 high school business teachers will gather on the SUI campus for a two day Vocational Business Education Workshop Aug. 14-15.

The workshop is sponsored by the Illinois State Board of Vocational Education and Rehabilitation and SUI.

It is one of a series being held for the first time this year throughout the state. The workshop will present the latest information on high school and supervised vocational business education programs according to Andrew H. Marcus, assistant director of university extension services.

Robert Stickler, coordinator of the business education department of Prairie East High School, Marion, will conduct the first day's sessions in Davis Auditorium, discussing duties of the coordinator and employer-employee relationships.

Morning speaker for the Aug. 15 session will be Robert Kozlak, chief or marketing and office occupations for the State Board of Vocational Education and Rehabilitation, who will explain application of the Vocational Act of 1963, L. M. Gomez, division commercial manager for the General Telephone Co. at Marion, will open the afternoon session with the employer's viewpoint of cooperative education.

The workshop will close on the VU Campus with a demonstration of electronic data processing by James Robb, faculty chairman of the two-year program in data processing at VU.

H. H. Braunfels, professor of secretarial and business education at SUI, is workshop chairman. The program will be co-sponsored by Harriet Rabe, chairman of secretarial and business education.

Six Villagers Killed

More Red Terrorism Expected

SAIGON (AP) - Viet Cong in the uniforms of government soldiers killed six villagers of Hinapan early Tuesday. Officials warned more of such red terror could be expected in the campaign leading up to the national election Sept. 3.

The guerrillas tossed the sleeping people of Hinapan, on Saigon's outskirts, and dragged off five men and a woman.

They shot the sixth in the back of their heads with .45 pistols and left "death warrants" placards on the bodies. The placards said the victims were informers for the South Vietnamese police.

U.S. and South Vietnamese troops swept through the area and stirred up a brief fire fight. Three Viet Cong were reported killed.

The Hinapan incident was part of a rash of terrorist activity that coincided with another relative lull in the ground war.

While allied forces protected wide areas in 38 operations of battalion size or larger, the U.S. Command said it had no word of major fighting.

There have been reports the Viet Cong would seek to stop hit-and-run terrorism in the last few weeks before the national election and that much of this activity might center on Saigon. The voters will choose a president and Senate to convert South Vietnam from military to civilian rule.

While the U.S. Command said 38 big operations were going on, only 21 of them have been officially announced, identified, and located. Details about the others were withheld on grounds of security.

Lack of contact indicated that Communist forces were keeping under cover. There were reports of continuing enemy movement around the demilitarized zone in the north and in the central highlands.

U.S. B-52 bombers carried out one of their three strikes in a 24-hour period Monday and Tuesday in the highlands near Pleiku and another near Hue in the north.

Other U.S. planes flew 464 sorties Monday over South Vietnam.

ROTS STILL DEVASTATING DETROIT

DETROIT (AP)—A gray pall of smoke gradually lifted Tuesday from this paralyzed city, leaving 20 percent of its 1.7 million population under strict military control. Eighteen hundred Army paratroopers, brought here under presidential orders to join National Guardsmen and state and city police, brought a temporary halt to the pattern of loot and burn, loot and burn, that had gone on for two days under virtual anarchy.

Twenty-three persons died during the two days that crowds of looters and arsonists ran almost unchecked through the streets. More than 2,300 were arrested. Suspected sniper shots drew a crowd as high as $200,000. Nearly 1,000 fires were set.

Illinois Firms May Be Sued For Back Tax

CHICAGO (AP)-Arty, Gen. William G. Clark said Tuesday his office plans to sue about a hundred Illinois firms for back taxes. An underdetermined number of corporations and their officers "with full knowledge" seek to defraud the state out of sales taxes collected from the public, Clark said.

Speaking at a news conference, Clark said his office plans to sue the individuals involved under a new statute to collect the funds. He said he would seek injunctions barring the defendants from doing business until their taxes have been paid.

El Arish, Northern Sinai

AP—They are still digging the remains of the Egyptian army out of the Sinai Desert's sand dunes six weeks after the guns were silenced in the Arab-Israeli war.

Millions of dollars' worth of war booty is being hauled this far into this remote area by the Egyptian army going for the Arab-Israeli war.

Here the Egyptian hopes of mid-May — the big Soviet tanks, trucks, guns and tons of war equipment — are being scooped up by cranes and loaded on flatcars. Three big trains make a day move north to Israel.

"We've already uncovered enough ammunition to keep the Egyptians busy for six months," an Israeli officer said.

Already 700 Soviet T54 tanks have been brought into this vast graveyard of a defeated army. About 260 of them are undamaged and ready to roll. The others will be used to provide spare parts.

Some of the trucks obviously had just been landed from the Soviet Union. Their specifications showed about 600 kilometers for the trip from Alexandria or 160 kilometers for the trip from the "Suez Canal. Many had had their tires replaced in Egyptian colors.

Two Egyptian armored brigades were captured intact. All their equipment is making the train trip to Israel.

Jazz to Classics

Students Like Music for Moods

By Barbara Latham

"What type of music do you prefer?" Students' answers range from classical to the band music of the late 1930's and the early 1940's.

One student, Karen Novelli, a sophomore from Skokie, loves listening to progressive jazz. She likes rock'n roll, but feels that "as long as students are interested in other types of music people shouldn't condemn rock'n roll." She said, "It is unfair for them to say that young people can't appreciate other types of music." Every generation has its favorite type of music and rock'n roll seems to be the kind of music today's generation prefers.

Nguyen Hong Coui, a freshman from Vietnam, likes music to fit her mood. When she is gay she prefers the more popular tunes. Sadness brings a taste for classical music, her favorite. She added, "I like all types of music but especially large orchestras." This Vietnamese student views rock 'n roll and jazz as a passing whim but feels that "classical music is here to stay." Classical, as opposed to other types of music "enjoys a continuous popularity."

Classical music is also a favorite with Joanne Mertz, a senior from Carbondale. She enjoys all types of music, but finds Broadway hits like "Sound of Music" particularly appealing. She credits the popularity of rock 'n roll to the fact that "students can identify with popular music because it's easy to dance to and is concerned with them."

She added, "I don't think the Beatles will remain popular."

Velma Williams, a graduate student from Jackson, Miss., who is majoring in special education, prefers music which is relaxing and offers pleasant listening. She said, "I like jazz, but I have an intense dislike for jazz which distorts familiar tunes." Miss Williams feels rock 'n roll is decreasing in popularity. "Folk music," she said, "will become more popular in the future."

Lois Buerger, a junior from Carbondale, finds that rock 'n roll gives her a head-ache. Although it's a little noisy, she doesn't completely dislike it. Classical music is more to her taste though. The soul sound and most of the popular tunes" appeal to Robert Benton. He added that his favorite type of music is "the dance band music". He thinks the Beatles sound will continue to be "big with our hippie generation."

The operation of the greenhouse is under the care of Marberry and two full-time workers. Two students usually work in the greenhouse, and one is usually a handicapped student.

Tropical plants are grown in the display area of the Zoology Speaker Slated.

The zoology graduate seminar will be held at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow in Lawson Hall Room 221.

John D. Parsons, director of the Pine Hill Field Station, will talk on "Inland Biological Stations."

Flowery Attraction

Campus Greenhouse Provides Beauty, Educational Service

By Donna Shaw

SIU's flowery attraction, the physical Plantay greenhouse, serves three purposes on the campus.

The plants and flowers grown in the greenhouse are used in decorative University offices, University buildings, and all functions such as dances, concerts, and graduations. These plants and flowers are not for sale to the public; they are solely for University use.

The greenhouse is a showplace for the plants and flowers grown for the University. William M. Marberry, assistant professor of botany who is in charge of the greenhouse, said the public is invited to visit the greenhouse any time during the week from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The greenhouse is also of educational value. It is used by some botany and art classes, as well as numerous high school and grade school clinicians who tour the greenhouse, Marberry said.

Approximately 200 groups tour the greenhouse each year. Many of these groups are taken on circuit tour of the campus which includes the greenhouse.

leading the foundation of the baseball farm system, while with the St. Louis Cardinals, and the breaking of the color line when he brought Robinson into the game twenty years ago as the first Negro major league player.

Ruffing's major league career stretched from 1924 to 1965, mostly with the St Louis

Pirates, but also serving with Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Boston and Brooklyn.

He finished with a .331 lifetime average. The 5-foot 8 inch left-handed hitter set a National League record in 1927 with 253 hits and immediately was dubbed "Little Poison." His older brother Paul, who was elected to the Hall of Fame in 1952, seven years before his death was "Big Poison."

Daredevil Stunts Pay Off in Trophies

By Tom Wood

He calls himself "Super Diver" and he's one of those guys who'll try anything once. After you've gotten to know Gordy Cummings, you begin to wonder if there's anything he hasn't tried. But sooner or later you come across enough when he threw the pig.

Two students made the finals in the horseshoe tournament. The two students are Jerry Wiley and Dick Graham.

RELIEF PITCHER—Look what dropped in from the bullpen! It's skydiver Gordy Cummings, not a relief pitcher, who is shown jumping into SIU's opening baseball game of 1967. He presented the first ball to the umpire after descending several thousand feet with it.

Students Qualify for Intramural, Horseshoe Events

The following students qualified for intramural handball quarterfinals: Marty Lazer, Brad Rehm, Mike Koner and Ed Driscoll.
