The four SIU students chosen as representatives to the committee are: David Taylor, Ethel Fletcher, Robbie Luckie, and John O'Neal.

The meeting will start with a 5 p.m. luncheon in the Renaissance room.

The evening meeting will be held in the Lake room at 7 p.m.

Coed's 4.784 Average Wins National Award

Evelyn Seyer, a senior from Mascouche, received the national Alpha Lambda Delta award as the honor society's member having the highest cumulative average for her first 11 quarters of undergraduate work.

The award was presented Saturday afternoon at a ceremony in the University Center.

Miss Seyer's average for the first 11 terms at SIU is 4.784.

Alpha Lambda Delta is the national society for women who honors their scholastic achievement in the first semester or the first two semesters of college. An average of 4.5 is required for admission, according to Edna Travis, faculty adviser for the group.

Six members of the society received award certificates presented to graduating senior women who have maintained the Alpha Lambda Delta average -- 4.5 or better throughout their four years at SIU.

They are Delores Barrow, Mary Jane Hiller, Ann Krutinger, Pauli Mackey, Evelyn Seyer, and Judith Williams.

The Southern Illinois Alpha Lambda Delta award went to Caryl Ann Klagesberg of Carbondale for the sophomore with the highest cumulative grade average.

Twenty-four women of the 1962 freshman class were initiated into Alpha Lambda Delta Saturday.

They are Glenda Akinson, Margaret A. Bartels, Patricia A. Bormgallmer, Mary J. Eddleman, Judith A. Gilmore, Diane J. Husinga, Margaret R. Jennings, Sharon R. Krug, Betty Sue Lawrence, and Roberts Little.

Others are Eileen Klein-schmidt, General Larghen, Judith M. Roales, and Lou-Jona J. Petroff.

Each September, the society sponsors a tea for the incoming girls in Plan A and for the girls who are winners of the state scholarships.

Alpha Lambda Delta was founded in 1924 by Maria Leonard from the University of Illinois to recognize distinguished scholarship of freshman women. In May of 1956, the chapter of Alpha Lambda Delta was organized at SIU by the dean of women at the University of Illinois. There are now 112 chapters which have chapters of Alpha Lambda Delta.
Visiting Latins Praise Grassroots Philosophy

The last thing a visiting Latin American expects to find practically everywhere in the United States is something like SIU's Latin American Studies Program. "It was a surprise but a wonderful one," said Mrs. Marta A. de Lusky, a school teacher from Guatemala. "It is one of the most encouraging things we have encountered on our visit to the United States and Latin American countries," she added.

Mrs. deLusky, Mrs. Alcira L. deCoronado, a professor of education at the University of San Carlos, Guatemala City, and Mrs. Consuelo C. de Sanchez-Latour, a public relations specialist for Lions International in Guatemala City, arrived on campus last Thursday for a week-long visit. They are on a six-week tour of the United States sponsored by the State Department's specialists and leaders program.

She called SIU a "revolutionary" type of university and hastened to explain her definition of revolution.

"At SIU, the attitude of democracy between education and the people of the area which helps establish a better understanding of education," she said. "This is very good for the people."

She added that she was particularly happy to see the "rural and semi-rural work" the university is carrying on in the area.

The three visitors agreed that the "greatest problem in the world today seems to be lack of understanding among persons."

Mrs. de Sanchez-Latour said she feels that there should be more contacts of people between the quantities of Latin America and the United States. "Public opinion in the United States is not accurate in judgment of our country for the other."

Mrs. deLusky said that "unfortunately the people of the United States tend to form their judgment of most Latin Americans on the basis of the migrant workers who come here to work for wages."

"Not all Latin Americans live in dirt but and are barefooted," she added.

All three said President Kennedy's "Alliance for Progress" work will be "well work as it is supposed to," the visitor from Guatemala said, "most of the money from U.S. aid programs was given on a government to government basis and the man on the street never received the benefit of it."

SIU, Egyptian On Agenda Of Touring African Editor

Arthur Rudolph, editor of the Johannesburg Post, Johannesburg, South Africa, will arrive on campus tomorrow for a week-long visit to the Department of Journalism.

Rudolph's visit to SIU is part of a seven-week tour of the United States under the Department of State's Foreign Leader Program.

At SIU he will study the Department of Journalism's community newspaper sequence, observe production and meet The Egyptian on the web newsgroup and meet in discussion groups with students and faculty members.

Rudolph will be the guest of the SIU chapter of Sigma Delta Chi at an informal gathering of area newspaper men at 7:30 p.m. Friday, June 1, in the University School Studio Theatre.

The 44-year-old editor was born in Zeerust, Transvaal, South Africa, saw wartime service with the allied forces in North Africa and worked for the Rand Daily Mail and the Johannesburg Post in London for two years.

He has had experience as a reporter and sub-editor and is new editor on such publications as the Johannesburg Daily Express, the Saturday Post and the Evening Post in Port Elizabeth, the Pretoria News and the Rand Daily Mail, Johannesburg. He also was newswriter representative for the Sunday Times.

Grad Student Wins $250 Essay Prize

Michael Friedlich, Brussels, Belgium graduate student in the School of Business, has been awarded $250 for a prize-winning essay submitted to the American Society for Personnel Administration.

Friedlich, a student in the management department, took the top award from some 100 entries in nationwide judging. The essay will be published in the association's journal, and the Southern student was also awarded an all-expense paid trip to the annual meeting of the ASPA held this month in Jacksonville, Fla.

The essay developed from a class assignment in an advanced course in personnel management under the direction of Dr. Thomas W. Douglas, Southern management professor. Three other students in Douglas' class submitted papers which finished among the seven finalists.

It was the second consecutive year students in Southern's personnel management class have won ASPA awards. Last year, Maj. John Voynich, a student in management and a member of SIU's APROTC faculty, won third place in the same contest.

WASHINGTON - A federal study of cigarette advertising will provide the springboard for a Federal Trade Commission debate on whether to require warnings of health hazards in the industry's advertising.

Bryan H. Jacques, director of the FTC Bureau of Industry Guidance, said the advertising study should be ready in a few days. He said any action by the commission would hinge on the findings of scientists and physicians.

Jacques said the FTC is in continuing contact with the Public Health Service, which is preparing a report for President Kennedy on medical evidence on the relationship between cigarette smoking and lung cancer.

If the FTC decided the evidence was strong enough to require warning notices, it could issue an order which would be subject to review by the Federal courts. At present, warnings of this kind are required in the marketing of insecticides, fertilizers and a few other products.

College Students Warned To Look Before Leaping Into Early Marriage

By Cathy Drummond

If marriage is in the visible future for you, Dr. Eloise Snyder of the SIU sociology department recommends an "awareness of the potential problem areas confronting college marriages."

"There are five main areas of conflict which many are not aware," said Dr. Snyder, a qualified marriage counselor who, with Dr. Herman Lantz of the sociology department, has written a book entitled "Marriage."

College marriages, like all marriages, confront the need to make adjustments and decisions. However, decisions and crises occur earlier and more rapidly in college marriages.

Knowledge of the potential problem areas of college marriages is one step toward building and maintaining a successful and happy marriage, she said.

According to Dr. Snyder, there are many roles which all college students must partake. The male must be prepared for activities of a husband, student, son, club member, father, employee, and etc: all of which are time and energy consuming.

And, the female must realize that role conflicts are confronting many time and energy consuming roles when becoming a married college student; wife, student, mother, daughter, employee, club member, etc.

Frequently in college marriages, the question confronting individuals is the differential change of the marriage partners. This involves the changes and growth of the individuals undergoing different roles, and the family must realize that role conflicts are confronting many time and energy consuming roles when becoming a married college student; wife, student, mother, daughter, employee, club member, etc.

The master campus plan, purchasing and business procedures, admission and recording, physical plant and studies connected with accreditation. Southern is also providing help in many other areas, Myers said.

"Southern Illinois University is the state university especially serving Southern Illinois, wishes to be a good and cooperative academic neighbor in aiding and strengthening the small private colleges and junior colleges in its area," he said.

All of the cooperative efforts are coordinated by Professor George H. Hand, chairman of the department of higher education at SIU and chairman of the committee on academic affairs of the Mc Kendall Board of trustees. He also serves as North Central consultant to the Mc Kendall Board in preparation for accreditation. Myers said that SIU has helping Mc Kendall regain its footing "by merely repairing Mc Kendall for its great contributions at the time of the establishment and launching of Southern Illinois University."

Raw Fish Just Too Much For Amateur Gourmet's Palate

By Michael Morris

BEIRUT, Lebanon - The food of the Near East, as interesting to me as the geography and people of this vast region. In each country, I have eaten the indigenous food and have even learned to like rice and tea a little bit.

The Japanese cuisine was first done in the 1960s and remains one of my favorites, closely followed by the Chinese. My favorite meals in Japan were sukiyaki and tempura. The former was made of Chinesee sizzling hotpots with sausages cooked with seaweed, chrysanthemum blossoms and other vegetables. The latter was made of crispy tempura on the dinner table in a large cooking pot. Tempura is a mixture of many kinds of sea foods including octopus, which are also prepared on the dinner table so that each course may be served piping hot.

In Taiwan and Hong Kong I found out that Chinese food differs considerably from our idea of Chinese food. About the only similarity between the two was the old standbys, rice, and I think the main reason I didn't like Chinese food as well as Japanese is that we were invited out to eat for almost all our Chinese meals.

I found out later that the Chinese ate as much as we do at banquets, but rather come with big appetites to these special occasions. Unfortunately, I didn't have a chance to save up and was therefore not particularly delicious gourmet when fourteen courses were served at once.

After these experiences of overeating, I received compensation in India since I had what they call "Delhi Belly"—in Delhi of all places. (In Iran it's "Tehran Yummy").

As a rule, I was only able to eat curry once every few days, since there were many who had grown up eating it daily.

In the whole effort to objectify the subjective, one can perhaps see something of a kinship between James, for whom Miss Porter in her non-fictional "The Days Before" reveals considerable admiration.

Although the dominant tone of the novel is ironic, there is, usually just out of mental reach, a highly controlled feeling of compassion. Occasionally, as in the various accounts of the degradation of life in steerage and as in the portrayal of Jenny's unsatisfactory love, this compassion becomes overt.

The story uses the term that Robert Frost used to describe himself might be applied to Miss Porter, that of "Narcissism of the small self." Jenny was a private individual without an awareness of her own ego centrality that is so much at the root of the novel's theme.

The raw fish of the novel is especially rich, although one might say that the raw fish is too much for "Ship of Fools."
SIU Wins California Distance Relay, Come in Second In Two-Mile Relay

SIU set a new California Relay record in the distance medley relay with a time of 9:41.1 and finished second behind Oregon in the two-mile relay.

Southern’s winning time in the distance medley of 9:41.1 was only five-tenths of a second off the listed collegiate record of 9:40.6 and only six seconds off the world record of 9:35.

Oregon’s strong two-mile relay team of Archie San Roman Jr., Ted Abrams, Sig Oehlmann and Dyrol Burleson ran the race in the time of 2:02.2 breaking the former collegiate record held by California of 7:20.9.

The Salukis quartet of Jim Dupree, Bill Cornell, Brian Turner and John Saunders finished with a clocking of 7:25.3.

Times for the Salukis in the two-mile relay were 1:52.6 for Saunders, 1:51.9 for Turner, 1:49.4 for Cornell and 1:47.9 time for Dupree on their half-mile legs of the race.

Finishing behind Oregon and SIU in order were Kansas and Occidental. It was the second time this season that SIU has beaten Kansas.

Oregon is considered by many track experts in the U.S. as the best track team in the U.S. and is led by Dyrol Burleson who just recently turned the mile in 3:58 plus.

Another Oregon miler Keith Forman broke the four-minute mark in the mile with a clocking of 3:58.3 and was awarded the meet’s outstanding performer award.

Times for the Salukis in the record-smashing distance medley relay performance were 48.5 for Saunders, 1:40.6, 1:42.6, 1:45.8 for Turner in the 1320 yards and Cornell’s 4:05 time for the mile.

"The boys would have broken the distance medley record if we had known we were that close," Lew Hartzog said. "The boys were taking it easy so they could run the two-mile faster."

"Even though we didn't break the collegiate record we proved that we are one of the coming track schools in the U.S.," Hartzog added.

Southern’s performances are outstanding on the basis of their times but even more outstanding when one considers that SIU has no NCAA scholarships while Oregon, Kansas, Occidental have at least 20 each.

Baseball Team Wins IIAC Crown

Already having won its fifth straight Interstate Conference baseball title, SIU now eyes a possible berth in the 1962 NCAA college-division baseball tournament. The Salukis won all three games at Eastern Michigan by scores of 13-7, 2-0 and 7-3. Senior Larry Tucker and Harry Gurley gained credit for all of the wins.

Tucker pitched and batted SIU to Friday's 13-7 win. He slammed three doubles in four times at bat during the first five innings before retiring in the fifth with a 10-0 lead. Southern's baseball coach. Glenn Martin took Tucker out because he wanted to use him again Saturday. Eastern Michigan jumped on Don Treece, Tucker's replacement, for seven runs before frightening the early ending of the contest. He limited Eastern Michigan to three runs on eight hits while his teammates scored seven times for the 7-3 victory. Tucker has won 20 of 22 games against IAC competition. Senior outfielder Duke Sutton hit the hot start of the series with two home runs, two doubles and two singles. Dave Leonard also had six hits.

Mike Pratte, Jim Long and Jerry Qualls also had home runs. Mel Patton missed home twice with long doubles off the fence. It was the farewell appearance for both the Salukis and the Huskans in IIAC play. Both have withdrawn from the league effective June 30.

Prospective Rhodes Scholars Should Start Cramming Now

Prospective Rhodes Scholars should start now biding up on necessary qualifications and application procedure, according to Prof. G.C. Wiegand of the economics department. He has the information and application forms. "Rhodes Scholarships are the most valued undergraduate awards available to American students," Wiegand said. "Thirty-two are awarded each year. They provide for two years study at Oxford, England." Applicants must be unmarried male citizens of the United States, between 18 and 24 years of age. They must have at least junior standing. Applications need not be filed until November 1.

Selection of the recipient is a rather complicated procedure, involving elimination of applicants at state, district and national levels until more than 32 are certified. Rhodes Scholars receive an stipend of 730 pounds sterling per year which, according to the announcement, "should be sufficient to enable a scholar to meet his necessary expenses . . . however they may be supplied." 2.

SiU's Guidance Test

The Guidance Test, the most widely used test of its kind in the country, is being administered this fall term. The test is being used by non-profit organizations that do testing on a national scale.

Of all the reasons we are changing to the A.C.T. is to standardize the testing of each university for the student," said Oliver. "In the past, a high school senior took entrance exams at an university, and the university decided he wanted to attend another, he would be required to take the entrance exams all over again. The A.C.T. eliminates this duplication," said Oliver.

The A.C.T. program also provides for research assistance and processes information that SIU supplies. The program replaces the Seattle World's Fair Preview On Display In Morris Library

If you can't make it to the World's Fair in Seattle, you can still get a pretty good idea what it is all about just by a visit to Morris Library.

An exhibit featuring photography, descriptive material, guide books and other items from the Seattle fair and nine other major American expositions is on display in the Library entrance hall.

The exhibit also includes historical data on each of the fairs starting with the New York World Fair in 1853 and concluding with items from the current Seattle exposition. Visiting is the exhibit learn for example, that the New York fair of 1853 was contained in one city square and lost money. It was not until the Chicago Century of Progress Exhibition of 1933 that fairs became money making propositions.
