Terrorists suspected of inciting violence in Israel, Reagan says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan said Wednesday night: the United States suspects terrorists may be inciting violence by Palestinians in Israeli-occupied territories and called on all sides to renew efforts for peace.

Reagan, speaking at his first nationally televised news conference in four months, said the administration believed the violence in the Israel-occupied West Bank was "not home-grown and spontaneous" and suggested that outside agitators may be responsible. "We have had intimations that there have been certain people, suspected of being terrorists ... stirring up the trouble," the president said.

Reagan, however, refused to expand on his statements, citing security reasons. He said it appeared that "certainly, the violence is both ways." The news conference came as Secretary of State George Shultz headed to the Middle East for a round of shuttle diplomacy.

Police arrest 30 on drug charges

MARION — Seventy-six law enforcement officers fanned out over Williamson County Wednesday serving drug violation arrest warrants on 45 people, 30 of whom already have been arrested.

Dennis Bowman, director of the Southern Illinois Enforcement Group, said the arrests culminated an 18-month undercover investigation in which special agents bought more than $9,000 in illicit drugs, including high grade cocaine, LSD, PCP, stimulants, depressants and cannabis.

Williamson County Deputy Sheriff Joe Schmic said there have been larger drug busts in the county, but that usually a smaller percentage of the people involved get arrested as quickly.

BOWMAN told a news conference the investigation focused on several drug distribution networks consisting of individuals allegedly involved in growing and distributing the drugs.

Two arrests were made in Franklin County based on evidence gathered in the Williamson County investigation conducted by the SIEG, a drug control agency, with assistance from the Williamson County sheriff's office and police departments in Marion, Herrin, Carterville, and Johnston City.

The SIEG presented the cases Friday to the Williamson County state's attorney's office, leading to the roundup that began after officers assembled at the sheriff's office at 1 a.m. Wednesday.

BOWMAN said documents filed by the state's attorney represented 63 violations of the Illinois Controlled Substances and Cannabis Control acts.

However, Caldwell did say that he hopes there is a "place for differing and religious beliefs to be shared within the public schools.

Time for religious comment cannot be planned ahead of time," Caldwell said.

"Someone taking out a Ouija board during my class wasn't planned," Caldwell said.

He referred to an incident in which a student took out a Ouija board while he was substitute teaching.

Board to take stand on Bible quoting issue

By Dana DeBeaumont

Staff Writer

The spotlight will be on the Carbondale Elementary School Board tonight when it takes a stand on the dispute between Bible-quoting substitute teacher Curtis Caldwell and parent John Sivers, who is a atheist.

The school board will hold a public meeting on the matter at 7 tonight in the Brush Adminisitrative Center at 400 W. Monroe St.

Larry Jacober, superintendent of the Carbondale Elementary Schools District No. 95, said the board would read a statement on the controversy during her president's remarks.

After McLean's statement, board members will have an opportunity to make a motion for a decision on whether to dismiss Caldwell.

"If a decision is required, it will be made then," Jacober said.

The controversy erupted after Sivers, a graduate student in higher education, complained that Caldwell violated the constitutional separation of church and state and students' civil rights when he lectured on religion while substitute teaching math classes at Lincoln Junior High School. Sivers is the father of twin eighth-graders at the school.

Caldwell said his lawyer, Ron Isaacson, submitted a written suggestion to the board on how the dispute should be solved, but Caldwell refused to comment on the suggestion Wednesday.

Transfer of power in South Korea protested

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — President Chun Doo Hwan relinquished his post Wednesday to his friend Roh Tae-woo in a transfer of power that was widely expected. Roh, who fought police and briefly took over a U.S. government office building, reportedly took power at midnight Wednesday when Chun’s term expired. Police expect more violence at Roh’s inauguration Thursday.

S. Africa places more limits on black groups

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — The government launched its toughest crackdown on the opposition in a decade Wednesday, restricting black rights groups and leaders who were instrumental in bringing about international criticism of the country’s race discrimination laws. Archbishop and Nobel Peace Prize laureate Desmond Tutu said the orders represented a “declaration of war” against blacks.

Peace initiative divides Israel’s government

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel’s bitterly divided coalition government, scrambling for unity on the eve of a visit by Secretary of State George Shultz, was on a common approach to a new U.S. Middle East peace initiative. A senior Foreign Ministry official said the faction would not renew the impasse over the peace process and a right-wing Cabinet minister urged Shultz to cancel his trip because of the domestic divisions. Schulz was to arrive in Israel today.

Senate Republicans object to colleague’s arrest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republicans, filibustering a campaign finance bill, rallied against the parliamentary arrest of one of their colleagues Wednesday, deriding the Democratic stronghold tactic as a “double, double.” Republican R. Packwood, R-Ore., was tracked in his office by plainclothes U.S. Capitol police officers, arrested and finally carried into the Senate chamber after he refused to respond to an early morning call to come to work. Republicans, who oppose the bill to cap special interest contributions to congressional campaigns, decided to ignore the quorum call.

CIA chief opposes change in covert activities

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Advance notice to Congress of the secret plan to sell arms to Iran likely would have prevented the Iran-Contra scandal, CIA Director William Webster testified Wednesday, but he opposed tightening the law on reporting covert activities. The panel, reacting to the abuses exposed in the Iran-Contra affair, is considering legislation to toughen existing law requiring the president to give selected members of Congress notice of covert operations by U.S. intelligence agencies.

Army judge orders desertion trial to proceed

FORT DIX, N.J. (UPI) — A military judge, rejecting arguments that the Army is persecuting a private who defected to the Soviet Union and then changed his mind, ordered Wednesday that the soldier’s court-martial for desertion go forward. The judge, Army Col. Earl Pauley, denied a defense motion to dismiss the charges against Pvt. 2nd W. E. Roberts. Defense lawyers had argued that Roberts was a victim of selective and vindictive prosecution, brought to trial only because he chose to flee to a communist country when he went absent without leave.

Students to protest until demands are met

AMHERST, Mass. (UPI) — Hampshire College minority students, occupying a campus building to protest racism, vowed Wednesday to remain inside until school officials agree to fund minority programs and adopt a racial harassment policy. The demonstrators began the day Wednesday by issuing a list of demands to college President Adol Simmons. Both sides agreed to begin negotiations at 8 a.m. today. The demonstration began Tuesday.

State's attorney will wrap up case against Drakeford

By John Mohler and Phyllis Coon
Staff Writers

State's Attorney John Clemens will rest his case against a Murphysboro woman accused of murdering her sister when a jury trial continues Friday morning.

Public Defender Robert Van DerHoff would not comment on whether he will call witnesses Friday.

In the second day of witness testimony at Jackson County Courthouse, Wednesday, Carbondale police officer Donald Barrett described an interview with Dianne Drakeford, 31, which occurred the day after she pulled a knife from her bra and allegedly stabbed her sister. Elouise Burton, to death outside a tavern in Carbondale Sept. 12.

Drakeford is charged with three counts of first-degree murder and one count of armed violence.

Clemens said the case is the first first-degree murder conviction sought by the Jackson County state's attorney since the classification was created in 1978.

The interview was conducted without an attorney present after Drakeford surrendered herself to police after the stabbing.

Barrett said Drakeford consented to the interview after Barrett informed her of her Miranda rights.

The interview took place at noon Sept. 13, Barrett said. He took notes as he questioned Drakeford, and then interviewed her again while making a taped recording.

The written and taped accounts of the interview yielded contradictions as to whether Drakeford and Burton pushed another one before the stabbing.

Barrett said Drakeford admitted pushing Burton in retaliation on the written record, but she didn't on the taped account. He attributed the contradictions to conflicting testimony by Drakeford.

Questioning by Van DerHoff centered on whether Drakeford believed Burton had been carrying a weapon in her purse during the incident. Witnesses earlier testified Burton had reached in her purse while arguing with Drakeford before the stabbing.

Barrett said in the interview she pulled her knife as Burton removed her hand from her purse.

Drakeford revealed in the interview she had seen a knife in Burton's purse within two weeks of the stabbing incident but had not seen Burton with a weapon that day.

Drakeford said in the interview she believed Burton always carried a knife or an icepick in her purse.

Fire's cause still undetermined

By Curtis Winston
Staff Writer

Rubble was still smoldering Wednesday afternoon after a fire Tuesday night destroyed two Murphysboro businesses and damaged two others.

A building in the 1400 block of Walnut Street containing three storefronts — the Murphysboro Township office, Lee's Hair Fashions and a vacant office space — burned to the ground.

Schwebel Printing and a warehouse owned by Huffman Appliance received smoke and water damage.

A fire department spokesman said the fire started in the attic of the beauty salon. The cause of the fire still is undetermined, the Murphysboro Township chief said.

Floyd Schwebel, owner of the printing shop, said the roof of his business had been on fire briefly. "I have to have a new roof and my basement is full of water," he said.

Caroline Lee, owner of the Lee's Hair Fashions, said several other Murphysboro business owners were forced to share their salons with her until she finds a new place to set up shop. She had been at the location at 1412 Walnut St. for 15 years.

The Murphysboro Township office has taken up temporary residence in a house at 108 N. 15th St., Earl Summers, township supervisor, said.

Estimated cost of the damage to the office and the building is more than $100,000, Summers said.

Although the files and records destroyed by the fire can be replaced, Summers said the duplication is going to take a lot of effort.

An estimate of damage to the entire building was not available.

Theater worthy of priority treatment

THEATER DEPARTMENT—like many other victims of the defunct 2-percent plan—still is reeling from that financial blow. But unlike the cases of some other victims, the damage to the theater department affects all of Southern Illinois.

It is no secret that Southern Illinois is not a cultural mecca. Although there are many worthwhile and impressive attractions here, "Egypt" lacks variety in the entertainment it offers.

The theater department helped fill that void. While it will continue to do so, on a tighter budget, cuts to the department's funding stand out as sad examples of the corrosion of University priorities.

LAST YEAR, six major productions were held at McLeod Theater, compared to four scheduled for this year. While it shows the University's commitment to the performing arts, it also sends the message that SIUC is too strapped for priority treatment of the theater department's funding stand out as sad examples of the University's insensitivity to the hard work it took to get there.

McLeod Theater, compared to four scheduled for this year. At the core, the University is cutting off any windows it can forget about the hard work it took to get there. Although there are many worthwhile and impressive attractions here, "Egypt" lacks variety in the entertainment it offers.

The story got to the press and Robertson finally went to Korea, he had a job far behind the lines. In an interview this week, McCloskey sounded confident that he would win a court battle with Robertson.

"We've had more than 30 Marine officers come forward to confirm one or more parts of what I said. The real thing about Robertson is the hypocrisy, his saying that he was in combat. How fraudulent it is." McCloskey says that during the four months Robertson was in Japan, about 90 percent of the men from that troop ship were killed or wounded in action.

"Now he talks about strong moral leadership to fight the communists in Nicaragua. The honor of it is that when he had a chance to go, he didn't want any part of it."
Prompted Caldwell to read Deuteronomy 18:9-11 of the Bible. At the reading, the demon, devils and in- cantations to the class.

The school board has said that it is not concerned with any personal political nor religious objections. It stressed that the religious instruction is the discharge of their duties while teaching in the classroom.

The board held a public meeting, February 5, that more than 400 people attended. The public had the opportunity to address the board before it went into a closed session.

Both Stivers and Caldwell said they felt positive about the board's reaction during the closed meeting.

Stivers said he is using both the district and Caldwell for the "irreparable" damage caused to his daughters because of Caldwell's Bible reading. Although his daughter classmates have a different opinion of them than they did before the controversy began.

If the school board decides in favor of Caldwell and allows him to proselytize, "I will protest until I've fallen into a wheelchair," Stivers said. "I'll picket until I can't walk or push my wheelchair."

Stivers said he doesn't anticipate a large crowd at the meeting.

Makanda resident works for Simon's adversary

By Susan Curtis

Southern Illinois Simon supporters have a rebel in their midst.

Mike Jessup, a University graduate student, who is a resident of Makanda, home of Sen. Paul Simon, is working as a delegate for Stivers.

Jessup, who has lived in Makanda for less than a year, said he wrote to both the Simon and Gephardt campaign to offer his help. Simon supporters said they could use Jessup's help eventually. But, "Gephardt supporters really went out of their way to get me involved in the campaign," Jessup said.

"I think Simon is a wonderful candidate, but I preferred some of the policies of Gephardt," he said.

Jessup has been involved in politics "off and on" for three or four years, but he claims he ranks second in delegates chosen in the four races.

Simon's chances of being the next president look grim, but his chances of getting a nomination for vice president are good if Dukakis is the Democratic nominee for president, Jackson said.

"This is not simply an Illinois strategy. This is a winning strategy," Simon said. "The reality is that 20 states at the same time. There's no sense fooling myself and saying that I don't have the resources."

The Simon campaign owns about $50,000. It received $35,000 in contributions on Monday. It biggest net in a single day.

Jackson said candidates in the Midwest usually went to caucuses and primaries they thought they could win. "I'm starting with a bang," Jackson said.

Dukakis led the pack in the Minnesota caucuses with 23 percent. Jackson had 20 percent. Simon had 16 percent. Gore led with 27 percent. Gore had 1 percent and Hart had less than 1 percent.

Stivers lived in the Iowa caucuses and third in the New York primaries. Despite these showings, Simon had never received any in- ferior to the other candidates, former television evangelist Pat Robertson.

Robertson announced earlier Wednesday that his Christian Broadcasting Network would create the world of U.S. hostages.

Reagan, following his own "10th Commandment" to not criticize fellow Republicans, refused to comment at length on Reagan's actions.

Shultz to urge peace in Israel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State George Shultz, barely resting from his trip to Moscow, arranged to go to the Middle East Wednesday to try to revive the stalled Arab-Israeli peace process.

"Maybe it won't work," Shultz said of his effort to promote peace between Israel and its neighbors and help settle the future of the occupied territories of the West Bank and Gaza. However, he said it is worth the effort.

Shultz returned Tuesday night from Moscow and talked with Mikhail Gorbachev on arms control and its neighbors and help settle the future of the Middle East Wednesday. Based on the divided leaders of the Arab-Israeli peace process.

With Mikhail Gorbachev on arms control and its neighbors and help settle the future of the occupied territories of the West Bank and Gaza. However, he said it is worth the effort.

Later, Shultz is going to London to see Jordan's King Hussein, who has been having elective oral surgery. Shultz then will join Reagan in Brussels, Belgium, for the two-day NATO summit, and, depending on the results of his first trip, may head back to the Middle East for more talks.

Shultz was expected to arrive in Israel Thursday afternoon and plans to be in the region for six days. Based on the divided leaders of the Arab-Israeli peace process.

Newly renovated bar to offer alternative

By Dana Schulte
Staff Writer

WHEN MAINSTREET East closed its doors in November more than a year ago, after the loss of Carbonton's last alternative bar, its former patrons have developed a new attitude and new ideas for an alternative lifestyle bar.

We've been a whole lot of attitude changing going on for a long time," said part-owner Terry Cravens.

The attitude Cravens speaks about concerns the relationship between the owners and customers.

JOHN BIRD, an employee, said II Hearts has a better customer-owner relationship than other bars.

"The owners listen to what the customers want and it's reasonable they will change to satisfy the customers' needs," he said.

Cravens said she and her business partner, John Smith, opened II Hearts because they saw a need for a more alternative bar.

Cravens said she would like to see the bar become a type of community center, where people can go during the day to watch TV, read and socialize.

She said she also would like to turn the coat closet into a library, "A place where people can get information and not walk around ignorant about things," she said.

IN ADDITION to the changes that have already taken place, such as installing a big screen TV, more chairs, new lights and a juke box — Cravens said she would also like to build a beer garden in back.

Bird said, "It will be the largest beer garden in this area. No one has the beer garden we have."

The bar bigger than II Hearts is Gatsby's Bar and Billiards, Bird said.

In billiards, we definitely beat them by square

OTHER FUTURE investments will include a video screen on the dance floor and lowering the ceiling so the air-conditioner can work more efficiently, Bird said.

Since its opening II Hearts has had an encouraging turnout, "We've been filled to capacity," Bird said.

Both Cravens and Bird attribute much of the success to their friends and customers. Without their volunteer help, II Hearts may not have opened, they said.

"It amazed me," Cravens said. "There was a lot of work to be done. Some people came everyday."

II Hearts is more than a bar, it's a gathering place for alternative lifestyles. Cravens said.

NO OTHER bar in town plays new wave and alternative music, she said. Not all the music, however, is new wave, night club and dance music are also played, Bird said.

II Hearts also serves the gay community. The entry age is 18, but the drinking age is enforced, Cravens said. "We offer a variety of seltzers and juices at a low price," she said.

"We serve the community, not just the gay community, but an alternative community," Cravens said.

Prosecution witness denies plotting agent's assassination

FORT SMITH, Ark. (UPI) — Defense attorneys Wednesday tried to chip away at the credibility of a key government witness in the trial of I 4 alleged white supremacist charged with sedition, conspiracy and plotting to assassinate federal officials.

James Ellison, 47, the former leader of the Arkansas-based Covenant, the Sword and the Arm of the Lord, denied defense contention it was his idea to kill an FBI agent.

Ellison made the denial under cross-examination by Joe O'Bryan, attorney for William H. Wade, 66, of Smithville, Ark., in his third day on the stand in the U.S. District Court trial.

O'Bryan elicited testimony that Ellison met with FBI agent Jack Knox of Arkansas in Mountain Home, Ark., on the third day after a 1985 shootout near Smithville in which fugitive tax protector Gordon W. Kahl was killed by authorities.

O'Bryan said that was before Ellison said he and three other men had gone to the Imboden-Smithville area to discuss the Kahl affair with Wade and an agent, Ray Wade, 35.

The Wades are two of the five men on trial for conspiracy to assassinate Knox and U.S. District Court Judge Franklin Waters of Arkansas, who were involved in prosecuting those involved in harboring Kahl.

O'Bryan asked Ellison if he said, "Mr. Knox, you'd better be ready to die for what you believe in."

Ellison said he made the statement during "friendly conversation."

Ellison said that William Wade was at the meeting in Imboden but said he did not go with them to the house where Kahl was killed.

"It isn't true you're the one who came to that feed mill (meeting near the Kahl shooting) with the idea of killing Jack Knox," O'Bryan asked.

"No it isn't," Ellison replied.

Ray Wade handled his own cross-examination and be, too, attempted to make it appear Ellison already had met Knox on unfriendly terms. He also said it was Ellison who had asked him to see the Kahl house, instead of the other way around as Ellison testified Tuesday.

Ray Wade also tried to show that Ellison really didn't know the Wades very well, mentioning that an assistant U.S. Attorney had to refresh his memory.

Falwell defeated in High Court; decision a victory for satirists

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Supreme Court handed the Rev. Jerry Falwell a bitter defeat Wednesday, ruling he may not collect damages from smear publisher Larry Flynt for an ad parody that portrayed Falwell as an impoverished drunk.

The 11-page decision struck down $200,000 in damages awarded Falwell by a jury that found the ad published in Hustler magazine that portrayed him having sex with his mother while drunk did not libel him but did cause him emotional distress.

The ruling is a major victory for newspaper cartoonists and satirists who feared if Falwell was able to collect for suffering emotional distress the same standard would apply to them.

Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist, the court's most conservative member, noted in the 8-0 ruling that from the "earliest times, parodies portraying George Washington as an ass have played a prominent role in public and political debate."

"There is no doubt that the caricature of (Falwell) and his mother published in Hustler (magazine) is at best a distant cousin of the political cartoons described ... and a rather poor relation at that," Rehnquist said.

However, Rehnquist said that to make an exception for satirical cartoons have played an "excuse for maliciously and dishonestly attacking public figures as he has so often done."

"I believe the Supreme Court has given the green light to Larry Flynt and his ilk to print what they wish about any public figure at any time with no fear of retribution. However, I am sure the justices, in view of Larry Flynt, were holding their noses while making the ruling."

The ruling was hailed by groups that defend the First Amendment's guarantee of freedom of the press, who said it should end tactics popular in recent years to bring charges of emotional distress in an effort to skirt libel laws that make it tough for public officials and public figures to prevail in lawsuits.

Falwell sued for libel, invasion of privacy and intentional infliction of emotional distress.

A federal court jury found against Falwell on the libel claim because the ad was clearly labelled a parody and the court ruled against the invasion of privacy claim.
New AIDS test announced; more precise, automated

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new AIDS test was announced Wednesday that will be able to detect as many people with the virus as the current Western Blot test, but will be faster and cheaper.

The test, developed by the pharmaceutical company SmithKline, will be used by blood banks and hospitals to detect the virus. It will be marketed by the company for about $15 each.

The test, called the HIVAGEN test, is a blood test that can detect the presence of the virus in a person's blood within 24 hours. It is claimed to be more accurate than the current Western Blot test, which can take up to six weeks to get results.

"The HIVAGEN test is the most accurate test available today to confirm an AIDS infection," said Dr. John Mills, chief of the infectious disease division at San Francisco General Hospital.

"The test is more accurate because it uses a different method to detect the virus," Mills said. "It is also faster and cheaper than the current Western Blot test.

"The HIVAGEN test is designed to be used in blood banks and hospitals to detect the virus in blood samples," Mills said. "It is also designed to be used in clinics and laboratories to detect the virus in blood samples of individuals.

The test is based on a new technology called polymerase chain reaction (PCR), which allows for the detection of a small number of copies of the virus in a sample.

The test is being marketed by SmithKline, a multinational pharmaceutical company, which is offering the test to blood banks and hospitals for about $15 each.

"The test is designed to be used in clinics and laboratories to detect the virus in blood samples of individuals," Mills said. "It is also designed to be used in blood banks and hospitals to detect the virus in blood samples.

Reagan panel urges new AIDS programs

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The chairman of President Reagan's AIDS panel Wednesday recommended a 10-year, $15 billion drug treatment program to help stem the spread of the AIDS virus among intravenous drug abusers and their children.

The drug program as well as proposals in patient care and drug development were revealed by retired Adm. James Watkins in the panel's first formal recommendations since it began work last summer.

Federal experts, including Surgeon General C. Everett Koop, have said the AIDS virus is spreading rapidly among the 12.5 million intravenous drug abusers in the United States through shared needle use. This population group is the toughest to reach through traditional education methods.

A further complication is that waiting list for AIDS treatment centers average three to six months, Watkins said at a news conference.

"We simply have to have a more contained effort in this country, when dealing with IV drug abuse," Watkins said. "We are seeing more and more those who are crying for help and the new drugs and programs should be taken in.

"We simply can't tolerate not giving help, when help is being sought by these individuals. We need to help them and bring them back. We know they can be responsible individuals.

Watkins' report recommends expanding drug treatment programs, adding 32,000 more workers and 3,300 new treatment centers.

Study: one in 40,000 get AIDS from transfusions

BOSTON (UPI) - As many as one in every 40,000 blood transfusion recipients may become infected with the AIDS virus - an estimate that is one of the highest to date, according to a study released Wednesday.

The study indicates that accurate screening tests are needed and great efforts should be made to prevent infected people from donating blood, the researchers said.

"You have to emphasize that at this point everything that should be done is being done. We have to find out what else we can do to make this small risk even smaller," Dr. John Ward, who headed the study, said.

Ward, an epidemiologist with the federal Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta, said:

About 3 million Americans each year receive transfusions of donated blood. Anyone who is at high risk of being infected with the AIDS virus is asked not to donate blood and all donors are questioned for antibodies to the virus.

The Daily Egyptian, February 23, 1988
Film Review

There is no question that "Hope and Glory" is a film for adults. Authoritative and vibrant, it is not for children. Previews and promotions for "Hope and Glory" made the movie appear to be a gentle story about a young boy's experiences with the horror of war. Although the movie is based on a boy's experiences in wartime England, the subject is treated beautifully and with subtle, but wonderful, humor.

"Hope and Glory" is an autobiographical movie by director John Boorman. Conte, who directed the adventure movies "Deliverance" and "The Elephant Man," does a complete about-face from those, delivering an elegant and thoroughly thought-provoking movie.

Throughout the eyes of young Bill Rohan, Boorman explores his childhood and creates vivid and beautifully rendered scenes from his memories of the war. Each scene is bright and vibrant, and because they are seen through the eyes of an 8-year-old, the war is like a party, with wonderful events waiting to happen at any second.

Throughout the movie, Boorman treats the story as if he is remembering events at random, as they happen to pop up in his mind. If he were narrating the story, Boorman might say something like, "There was the time when..."

The result of the technique is a feeling that the audience has created the storyline rather than the director. There is no real transition from scene to scene, only an overlapping of images in which the audience must make the connections. This task is readily accepted because none of the scenes are ever forced upon the audience.

In one scene, Bill and his family return home to find that the house is on fire and automatically assume it was caused by a bombing raid, which was a frequent event in the neighborhood. Instead, the son realized that it was caused by a fire inside the house.

"It happens in wartime also," a firefighter tells them. "Thereupon, Boorman repeats this ironic touch to develop the drama of the movie and it seems to make the movie much more believable. The lives of each character seems to be in the hands of a power much greater than themselves. They seem to accept it and, at times, even celebrate it.

In another scene, Bill's grandfather orders Bill and his little sister Sue to catch fish for supper and warm them up to return home empty-handed. After spending the whole afternoon without catching a single fish, Sue is terrified to return home and face her grandfather.

Suddenly, out of the sky comes a stray German bomber plane and drops a bomb into the river. The shock of the explosion sends hundreds of dead fish floating to the top of the river and the two children fill their baskets and return home.

Sebastian Rice Edwards and Geraldine Mulfirn turn in wonderful performances as Bill and Sue, capturing the performances of the adult actors. This is as it should be, because "Hope and Glory" is a film for children who are forced to accept a world at war and act as responsibly as adults.

Former student returns home as dance director

By Dena Schulte

Lou Conte, a former SIU-C student, is returning to campus Sunday because he is director of the Hubbard Street Dance Company.

Asmailed by such legendary stars as Fred Astaire, Conte left his Du Quoin home in 1960 to pursue his love of dance. "I am looking forward to coming home," Conte said. Conte studied zoology at the University, but never graduated because his first love, dance, was more important.

He said Marie Halle, a former ballet teacher, and his husband changed his life. Halle convinced Conte to give up zoology and go with her to Flagstaff, Arizona.

"She told me, 'If you like to dance you should try it now, before it's too late and you won't be able to.' So I did," he said.

"I have a very good friends," Conte said. "All their friends were the artistic type. They had no money, but it all seemed very exciting and next to me.

Conte said he did not study dance at SIU-C because during the 1960s the program here was "basically women in the gymnastics. It was not my cup of tea.

In 1964, Conte danced in the chorus of "How to Succeed in Business With Real Try," his first Broadway musical. From the mid 1960s to the early 1970s, Conte choreographed over 20 musicals. In the mid 1970s he founded the Lou Conte Dance Studio in Chicago and later, in 1977, the Hubbard Dance Company.

"Broadway was fun, but my biggest contribution to the dancing world is my position as the artistic director to the Hubbard Dance Company," he said.
Running Winter Games easy as ABC

By David E. Nathan
UPI Staff Writer

CALGARY, Alberta (UPI) — Amid the haze of acronyms at these Winter Olympics, it is easy to forget who is actually in charge.

Is it the IOC (International Olympic Committee)? Or maybe OCO (the local Organizing Committee)? Neither. The acronym running the Games is ABC. Parent for American Broadcasting Company, which stands for money (¥¥¥).

ABC has been selective in awarding its influence. The network didn’t demand habit-forming hype runs to permit prime time telecasts. Instead, ABC seized control over hockey, one of the few Winter Olympic sports in which the United States was expected to be competitive.

Was it mere coincidence the U.S. hockey team played all five of its preliminary-round games at night during ideal viewing hours? Was it coincidental the medal round was increased from four teams to six, giving the U.S. squad a chance to play another week?

No and No.

Despite ABC’s best efforts, and the power of persuasion its $99 million Olympic investment brought, the U.S. hockey team failed to advance past the preliminary round. That’s a big hole in the network’s programming schedule.

So ABC introduced Olympic hockey Plan B: If you can’t have the team viewers love, get the team viewers love to hate — the Soviets.

But there was a problem. The Soviets were scheduled to play all three of their medal-round games during the day. After some juggling, organizers announced two of the three Soviet medal-round games would be played during prime time, including the blockbuster Soviet-Czechs match.

The media-round scheduling changes were not easy to make, nor, at a hastily called news conference on Tuesday, was it easy to convince the media they were made free of network pressure. According to a medal-round schedule distributed when the Games began, the Soviets were to have played Finland Wednesday afternoon and Canada Friday morning.

After emerging from several hours of meetings that ended Tuesday, officials with the IOC, OCO and the International Ice Hockey Federation announced a change. The Soviets would face Canada Wednesday night and the Finns Friday night.

Officials said they had the latitude under a 2-year-old agreement to change game starting times as long as the day of competition remained the same.

As for changing the dates of the Finland and Canada games, officials excused themselves by saying there was a clerical mistake in the earlier schedule.

“We made an error. We discovered it last night at 2:30,” explained Jerry Joyce, vice president of communications for OCO.

Even northern neighbors in the TV business were upset with ABC, CTV. CTV executives accused themselves of saying there was a clerical mistake in the earlier schedule.

“We got one prime time game for the Canadian team during the preliminary round and ABC had prime time for all the U.S. games,” John Esaw, CTV’s vice president for sports, said.

“I’m asking for a fair shake for Canada, I think I should have got a better break being the host country.”

Sorry, John. CTV paid only about $3.3 million to get Canadian TV rights. Money talks and when it is talking, the IOC is all ears and open pockets.

The alliance between ABC, IOC and OCO has not merely been restricted to hockey. The actual dates the Games are taking place were changed to suit television.

Movie extra
gets baseball try outs

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — George Little’s dream of becoming a professional baseball player died about six years ago — but an odd series of events has revived it.

The Chicago White Sox and the Kansas City Royals have invited the 26-year-old maintenance man to try out as a pitcher at their Florida spring training camp. The Indianapolis Star reported in a column Wednesday.

Little’s big chance came about because he got a part in "Eight Men Out," a movie that was being filmed in Indianapolis about the 1919 World Series scandal in which the Cincinnati Reds upset the Chicago White Sox. Key White Sox players had accepted money in return for $100,000 from gamblers.

To make game scenes realistic, the filmmakers hired White Sox fans to work as extras. It was while working as a technical adviser and hired Indianapolis-area athletes to play the Reds that Little impressed Berry with his pitching.

After the filming ended, Berry told the staffs of the Chicago White Sox and the Royals Little was worth assessing.

Woolridge meets with counselor

NEW YORK (UPI) — New Jersey Nets forward Orlando Woolridge met Wednesday with counselors concerning his problem with cocaine and was later sent to a southern California hospital to begin rehabilitation.

Woolridge left his New Jersey home and was to check into the Outside Inn in Van Nuys, Calif., Community Hospital. He is suspended from play, with pay, until he completes an in-patient treatment that could take longer than a month to complete.

However, Hilke says Eastern Illinois is more than a one-player team.

Perros is not the only one who can score,” Hilke said. "A team that tries to key on just her would get hurt. We are a lot more balanced than that.”

Coach Dorr considers California job

By Greg Huber
Staff Writer

blind football coach Ray Dorr should know today if he will become an assistant football coach at the University of Southern California in Los Angeles.

The decision is expected today on who will be chosen, Tim Tessalone, USC Sports Information Director, said Wednesday night.

Dorr said Wednesday night that he visited USC a little more than a week ago in regards to a position with the Trojans.

"I'm a candidate for the position and I'm going to try to make a decision tomorrow (today)," Dorr said. He said he would talk to the team at its 6 a.m. workout.

Acting Athletics Director Charlotte West could not be reached for comment Wednesday night.

The position opened when former wide receiver coach Ron Turner left to join the staff at Texas A&M University.

USC football coach Larry Smith was unavailable for comment Wednesday.

Tessalone said Smith is attending a football clinic on the East Coast.

However, Tessalone said he was expecting a call from Smith, either late Wednesday or early today, announcing a final decision on who would be chosen for the job.

Dorr said he was discussing the matter with his family and could not give a definite answer on the matter as it was up to USC officials.

"I like it right here. I'm employed by Southern Illinois University," Dorr said. "... it's like playing a doggone football game and I'm going to try and be as realistic as I can about my situation right now."

Dorr signed as SIU-C's 3rd head football coach Jan 6, 1984. The 1987 season ended with a 2-8 record. In 1986, the Salukis finished with a 7-4 record.

Salukis defeat Indiana State

By Dana Miller
Staff Writer

Play it again, Salukis.

For the second time this season, the men's basketball team defeated Indiana State in overtime. This time the score was 90-87 in Terre Haute.

The win vaulted the Salukis into fourth place in the Valley with an 11-8 overall record and a 5-7 mark in the conference.

Senior guard Ron Chaheain had a three-pointer with four seconds left to tie the game at 83 and send the game into overtime.

Junior guard Steve Middleton opened the scoring in the extra period and gave the Salukis the lead to stay at 85-

Sterling Mahan's basket extended the lead by four. Sycamore forward Eddie Bird answered with two free throws. Mahan hit a free throw to give the Salukis an 88-85 lead. Bird came back with a bucket to bring the Sycamores within one.

With nine seconds left, Nurnberger made two free throws to give the Salukis a 90-87 lead. A last-second attempt by SIU's Jimmie Holiday missed.

The Sycamores dropped 10-19 and 2-6 after Middleton scored 23 first-half points to give the Salukis a 44-31 halftime lead.

In the second half, SIU jumped out to an eight-point lead. The Sycamores scored 18 straight points, including eight from Nurnberger, to take a 56-45 lead at 10:26.

Women swimmers out to qualify for NCAAs

By Steven Welsh
Staff Writer

The women's swim team will try to qualify for the NCAAs and the U.S. Junior and Senior National championships when it competes in the Midwest Independent Championships today through Saturday in Chicago.

"We need to qualify as many individuals and relay teams as we can for the NCAAs and the Junior and Senior Nationals," Coach Doug Ingram said.

The NCAA Championships will be March 17-19 in Austin, Texas. The U.S. Junior Championships will be March 22-26 in Orlando, Fla., and the Junior Championships are set for March 29-April 3 in Grand Rapids, N.D.

Stepladder points are doubled for relays in the NCAAs, Ingram said the team would like to qualify all of the relay teams.

"It's a pretty fast pool in Chicago, so that should help us some," Ingram said.

Last year, the 300- and 400-medley and the 200-medley relay teams qualified for the NCAAs. The 200 team finished 11th, 468 finished 15th and the 200 freestyle team came in 16th.

Senior co-captain Lori Rea and senior diver Cella Gates already have qualified for the NCAAs. Rea has qualified in the 100 butterfly, while Gates has qualified on the 1-meter springboard.

Senior co-captain Karen McIntyre qualified in two events last year, finishing 11th in the 100 butterfly and 14th in the 200 butterfly.

The team finished 18th at last year's NCAAs with 52 points.

Sciano gets Gateway honor

Saluki freshman Danielle Sciano was named the Gateway Conference's co-player of the Week in indoor track.

Sciano set a school record in the 600-meter dash with a time of 1:27.50 to win the event. She was also the only Saluki to capture a victory in the 36-team Illinois Invitational last weekend.
