Athletic Commission to Query 65,000

Program’s Future To Be Dealt With

SIU’s study commission for intercollegiate athletics will mail out about 65,000 questionnaires Feb. 8 to sound out students, faculty and staff, all interested in the public’s future of University athletics.

Twenty-eight questions will be used that are divided into those which will cover the athletic programs, expansion, public relations and athletics as individual sports.

Questions will be on the order of 10 days before they receive proper emphasis at SIU.

Space will also be provided for comment. The questionnaire will hopefully indicate a consensus as to whether the athletic program should be expanded or reduced, according to John W. Voigt, dean of the General Studies program and chairman of the commission.

The nine-member commission was established in early August by President Delyte W. Morris.

Represented on it are alumini, students and faculty from both the Edwardsville and Carbondale campuses, and the public.

The commission was charged with making a study of the development and direction of the intercollegiate athletic programs.

The future of University athletics will take in the future. It will make recommendations to President Morris based heavily on the results of the questionnaire,” Voigt says.

Morris will in turn relay the recommendations to the Board of Trustees.

Students, faculty and alumni on both campuses will receive the questionnaire shortly after the Feb. 8 mailings.

Moyer’s Inquest Set After Feb. 1

The coroner’s inquest into the death of Martin E. Moyer, a sophomore from Decatur, will not be held until sometime after Feb. 1.

Jackson county Coroner Harry Flynn said Thursday that the other inquests have to be held before the inquest into Moyer’s death.

Moyer was killed at approximately 3 p.m. Thursday when a motorcycle he was riding struck a truck belonging to Prosperity Cleaners. The accident occurred at the intersection of Tower Road and Old Rt. 13 west of Carbondale.

Herman Haag Writes First Mexican Ag Book

Aggriculture students in the Technological Institute of Monterrey, Mexico, for the first time have a Spanish language textbook on agricultural marketing in Mexico. The author is Herman M. Haag, professor of agricultural industries.

The book, "El Mercadeo de los Productos Agropecuarios" (The Marketing of Agricultural Products), has just been issued in mimeographed form as 298 pages of text, tables and graphs and is in use at the Institute.

Haag says the need for a native-tongue textbook based on agricultural marketing courses and advising graduate students on research programs during his year's sabatical leave in Mexico.

The book is based on the Poem of the Poets, who kill the bodies he is hired to guard...

Economy Healthy Despite War Costs

The growth of America's total output by 5.4 percent in 1967 (compared to only 1.6 percent in 1966) reveals that the country is moving ahead. However, it is important to note that despite this growth, the country is still facing economic challenges.

Free Speech Pushes Limits

Of Good Taste

In many countries on earth can a citizen libel the democratic name of his state in print and on the stage, and get away with it? That isn't what is happening on our college campuses. The most important aspect of the recent dismissal of Clark Kerr from the presidency of the University of California System is that it occurred two years later than it should have occurred.

Letter to the Editor

California's Clark Kerr Fired Just Two Years Late

To the editor:

The most unfortunate aspect of the recent dismissal of Clark Kerr from the presidency of the University of California System is that it occurred two years later than it should have occurred.

An administrator in President Kerr's position who repeatedly capitulates to a mob of twenty century cavemen who use physical force as a means for attaining irrational and contradictory objectives is hardly demonstrating an ability to administrate. In fact, he incurs that control coercion and physical force will be the methods used to obtain future demands. This is exactly what happened at Berkeley.

The moral cowardice exhibited by ex-President Kerr and other members of his administration is not surprising, considering that "liberals" have always held "compromise and negotiation" as a universal laxative suitable for application to any problem, and labeled men who exhibit a tendency to stand on principle as "authoritarian" or "extremist," offering a holocaust man the contents of your wallet will hardly cause him to temporize his demands.

It must be emphasized that the Free Speech Movement was indeed a group of holdup men. Advocating the right to use university property for unapproved activity and the right to an unrestricted freedom of speech on campus, the "rebels" attempted to secure their demands by violating the rights of others. Forcible occupation of university property, mob violence, assaults on the police, were all tactics which were used by the FSM.

The administration of a state university is the agent of the voters and taxpayers of that state. It acts to set the terms and rules of conduct in the university. If disagreement over such rules and terms as are set arises, then the dissenters have a perfect right to take their case to the administration or to the owners, who are the voters and taxpayers in the case of a public institution. They do not have the right to seize any handy club and substitute muscular strength for reason and argument.

Much worse than the attempts of SIU faculty members to label Kerr's ouster as a blow to "academic freedom" by "ignorant political bigots" was the statement by Professor E. Claude Coleman. To view a disintegration in law and order, led by students who are the living embodiment of modern philosophy, as amusing or "excruciatingly funny" represents the ummons in superficial appraisal. "None of it is very important," says Dr. Coleman, forgetting the riots at SIU last spring. "This too shall pass away," says Dr. Coleman, forgetting that SIU students have formed a "Free School" in desperation from not learning how to use their minds. (Whether or not a triple dose of the same poison will cure them is another question.)

I would suggest that any thinking person who is interested in the situation at Berkeley and its implications should read "The Catching-In: The Student Rebellion" by Ayn Rand, and F.M. Kelly's "The Free Speech Movement," September issue of The Objectivist Newsletter, 1965.

High Tourist Rates Bog Ninth Crusade

By Arthur Hoppe
(San Francisco Chronicle)

Miami Beach

The glorious, historic Ninth Crusade, which seeks to save Christendom from the infidel, has been tried. I'm sorry to say, temporarily postponed.

It isn't for lack of enthusiasm. After all, it's been 700 years since we've had a decently organized crusade. Nor is it for lack of leaders, not with that infidel Fidel Castro so handy.

No, the Ninth Crusade has come on a cropper on the way. Our reader, Mr. Bennington, Christendom's previous eight crusades—high tourist rates...

I quickly became aware of the problem when I reached Miami Beach to check on its desirability as a staging area.

Looking for a humble room I stopped at the Eden Roc hotel, mainly because I was attracted by it's lovely statues of the Winged Victory of Samothrace and what I took to be Diana or Apollo.

"Is that Diana or Apollo?" I asked the doorman.

"Darned if I know," he said.

"Are they the statues?"

"I don't think so," he said. "But you could ask the desk clerk.

The desk clerk said he was certain they weren't. Well, what the heck, I said, I'd take a room anywhere just a single room, but over-looking the beach would be swell for my uni-sex friends and things.

He found me a nice one for $64. I said I couldn't stay a week. He said that was the rate per day, but if it was too much he had a room at $45. I said I'd have a drink and think it over. So I went to a nearby bar—no, not that American bar which was filled with elderly gentile buxom young ladies. It was good to see fathers having so much fun with their daughters.

I decided to check the hotel next door, which turned out to be the Fontainebleau, pronounced Fountain blue, but their rates were similar. I thought maybe we crusaders could just pitch tents on the beach, but you can't use the beach unless you're staying in the hotel. Of course, we could buy a little stretch of beach for $5000, but it would only be a foot wide.

So I asked the manager of the motel room six miles inland for which I had to pay only $20. I discovered that the room, motel room or not, is not in your rate plan where you can get cracked crab for $5. (What comes with it?) I asked the waiter, "The fish?"

And I've found a fellow who will rent a fishing boat suitable for transporting six crusaders for only $85. For the first four hours, ***

So you can see why the glorious, historic Ninth Crusade has to be temporarily postponed. At least until March 1 when the tourist season starts.

You also get a deeper understanding of how our predecessors of the earlier crusades felt when they got to Venice and were highjacked for transportation and provisions by the locals, it's true, but they were off angrily to sack Constantinople and such places.

Personally, I think I'll go to Washington and, then sack Pontius. If I'm successful I plan to come back here and stay a whole week, and then sack some more.

"It is all convenient and simple; we are looking for a substantial return," he said.
Voigt urged that the questionnaires be returned by Feb. 20.

"We hope to have the results tabulated by March or April," he said.

College Entrance Demands Getting Stricter;
Emphasis on High School Rank Increases

Increasing emphasis on high school class ranking is a major trend in college admissions policies throughout the nation, according to an SIU educator. Writing in the current edition of the Association of College Admissions Counselors' Journal, Admissions Director Leslie Chamberlin says that high school graduation rank requirements are gradually moving upward.

At SIU, new students must have been graduated in the upper half of their high school class to be admitted in the fall term. Those in the upper two thirds can register in the winter and others may enter in the spring and summer, on probation. Chamberlin also says "more and more colleges are giving greater attention to personal qualities of candidates in the admissions process." Admissions officers want information on character traits, emotional stability, attitudes and leadership qualities. Other trends noted by Chamberlin include:

- Class rank must be reinforced by national test scores.
- Admissions requirements are higher for out-of-state students.
- More schools are requiring specific patterns of high school coursework as prerequisites.
- Chamberlin says that in general, college admissions policies are becoming more restrictive, with national test scores playing a greater part in the admissions decision.

The paper, entitled "Two-Phonon Processes in the Energy Relaxation of a Heated Electron Distribution," is co-authored by Aldredge and F.J. Blatt. It is a version of Aldredge's doctoral dissertation at Michigan State University under Blatt. Aldredge received the doctorate in 1966. The paper deals with the theoretical analysis of behavior of semiconductor materials under the influence of high electric fields.

Also attending the New York meeting from SIU will be Walter C. Henneberger, assistant professor. He will interview job applicants for the department.

McNamara Says Arms Race Costly

WASHINGTON, (AP) - Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said Thursday night the Soviet antimissile deployment has compelled billion-dollar improvements in U.S. missile forces. He warned a further push in the arms race by the Soviets would be "dangerous and expensive."

McNamara spelled out for Congress his case against building an antimissile defense at this time, but indicated one might be desirable later for protection of U.S. land-based missiles.

President Johnson has said he is withholding a decision to build a costly antimissile system which would be designed to fend off oncoming enemy warheads, pending talks with the Soviet Union on possible arms limitation.

McNamara's annual military posture report, just made public, laid out heretofore-secret figures on relative Soviet-American missile strength, and emphasized that the United States will rely on men to preserve its "assured destruction" capability over any enemy.

Besides repeating the top-level decision to deploy the new multiple-warhead, submarine-launched Poseidon and the 6,000-mile Minuteman 3 as countermeasures, McNamara said the United States has started a "very comprehensive" study of a possible new missile program, it mentioned the possibility of a new Poseidon-launched submarine but did not elaborate.

Sources said McNamara was referring to no single-type of missile but of a new concept. McNamara asserted that any missile defense might be obsolescent by the time it was completed.

If the United States had bought the $14-billion Nike-Zeus system proposed by the Army in 1959, he said, "most of it would have had to be before it became operational, by the new missiles and radars of the Nike X."

By the same token, he said, "most" of the competition developments "may make obsolete, or drastically degrade the Nike X system as presently envisioned."

The Pentagon chief said the United States could spend up to $4 billion in 10 years on a missile defense and still suffer millions of deaths if a nuclear attacker chose to saturate selected targets with many warheads. As a hedge against a possible Soviet refusal to halt anti-missile work, the administration has included $375 million in the fiscal 1968 budget for production of Nike X antimissiles and radar components. In addition, $421 million has been earmarked to continue advanced development of the system. Counting funds left over from last year, the United States could spend nearly a billion dollars on an antimissile system in fiscal 1968 and the matter is certain to get heated congressional study.

McNamara's remarks came in a 210-page classified version of his voluminous report, presented before the Senate Armed Services Committee subcommittee.

The document, possibly one of the most significant government papers in years, was cleared by the State Department with full knowledge it will be carefully studied by the Soviet Union.

McNamara envisioned any U.S. antimissile defense as mainly a factor of safety in helping the nation preserve its "assured destruction" capability over any enemy.

"It is our ability to destroy an attacker as a viable 20th century nation that provides the deterrent, not our ability to partially limit damage to ourselves," he said.

The Soviets should be aware, he said, that "all we would accomplish by deploying antiballistic missile systems against one another would be to greatly increase our respective defense expenditures without any gain in real security for either side."

CARBONDALE - HERRIN
Dirksen Stands Ground on Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said Thursday both the State Department and the Soviet Union had wanted to lobby him in connection with his views on the U.S. - Soviet consular treaty.

But Dirksen told newsmen these efforts "have not changed my views on the treaty, although these views are not yet finalized."

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee awaited a reply to its formal invitation, sent through Acting Arty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, asking that FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover testify before it on the pending treaty.

Dirksen said on Monday that he could not support the treaty in its present form, but might be able to do so if some changes were made.

After this conference, the State Department sent up a representative to talk to him about the high-proximity administration proposal, he said.

Also he revealed a "young man from the Soviet Embassy" called and received an appointment with him late Wednesday.

Dirksen said he used some blunt language in talking to the Russian so that this interview did not get far. He declined to give the man's name.

"He's come-on was 'You're a big name in Moscow,'" Dirksen said.

"But told him I only wanted to be a big name here and preferably in the State of Illinois."

"Then he started talking about my State of the Union speech and said, 'You don't trust us, do you?'"

"I told him that the answer in one word was, 'No.' "I said to him, 'You're always talking about cooperation, but what you want to do is hit someone on the head with a bat and then say:'Let's cooperate.'"

Chicago Cubs Cite Big Money Loss

CHICAGO (AP) — The last-place Chicago Cubs have reported more than a $1 million loss from "direct baseball operation" last season, but listed a late-1966 juggling of Manager Leo Durocher's youth movement.

Actually, the club's overall deficit was $335,107, with revenue of $939,693 from radio-TV and Wrigley Field rental to the Chicago Bears suburban franchise, and $1,274,800 loss listed for baseball operation.

The annual financial statement reported home Cub attendance as 635,891, a drop of 5,740 from 1965. Total receipts from baseball were $1,719,025, including $1,414,406 for home and road receipts and $304,619 from concessions.

Listed as "direct" baseball operations covering expenses, covering the parent club, six minor league teams and a club in the Arizona Winter League, was an out of $2,993,825.

Swimmers to Face Hoosier Team

Southern swimmers will face Indiana University Saturday in Bloomington, Ind., Hoosier swimming teams always make a loud noise in the NCAA finals and have sent swimmers all over the world competing for the United States Olympic team.

The Salukis swim team will carry a current dual meet record of 1-2 into the contest. In addition, the Hoosiers boast the highest individual point man in the NCAA championships. Last week Chuck Hickox won the individual championships in the 100-yard backstroke and set the individual medley.

"We'll go pretty much with what we have. We will try to race with them in several events and we will perform and not for the scores," said Saluki Coach Ray Essick.

Essick also pointed out that if you lay the Indiana lineup next to the Salukis, the Hoosiers just have too much depth and he also said that their diving program is the finest in the country.

"With Strieber and Dick Olson both there they have depth in diving as well as in the swimming events," added Essick.

The average victory point spread for the Salukis has been 31.7 points.

This year's Indiana team has three bonafide Olympic trial divers, and Bob Koehler was the Olympic gold medalist in diving, Kevin Harry was the 200-yard butterfly medalist and Bob Wincke in the 1500-meter freestyle champion.

Salukis to Play Abilene Christian

By Tom Wood

The Salukis are at home tonight to face Abilene Christian College of Abilene, Texas, after a week of inactivity. Southern's last contest was the 77-55 rout of Wichita State Saturday night.

Tonight's game is the first meeting ever between the two schools. The Wildcats bring a 7-7 record to the Arena in hopes of inflicting defeat number four for the Salukis, who have won two games so far.

The Wildcats are also coming off of a loss, having spent the last week with midterm exams. They are riding a two game losing streak, falling to Hardin-Simmons, 65-61 and Trinity, 61-55 prior to midterms.

Abilene plays a deliberate offense and their 52 percent from the field have accounted for an average of 69.8 points a game. They have held opponents to 68.4, according to the most recent report.

Ambitious Coach David Wray is averaging 22.9 and is among the team's 15 point scorers. The Wildcats are a 1-1 dual meet team with a 15-13 victory over Oklahoma Baptist and a 13-14 setback to Oklahoma State.

Salukis coach Fred Dennis, his senior is in his first season as a Wildcat starter. He has grabbed 8.1 rebounds a game.

The only returning starters from last year's squad are guards John Ray Godfrey and Larry Adams, both juniors. Godfrey is the second most prolific scorer on the squad with a 14.9 average. Adams, who has been a starter for three years, is the best defensive player on the team and is considered the team's floor general on offense.

Forwards are W. O. Stewart, 6-7, who is the leading rebounder and is scoring 11.7 points a game, and Ronnie Nicholas, a 6-3 junior college transfer, who is averaging 10.1 points.

Southern and Abilene have played one team in common this year, Texas Western. The Salukis dropped the Miners 59-54 in El Paso's Sun Carri-

The Wildcat center, David Wray is the leading scorer for Abilene Christian College, which faces Southern tonight in the Arena. Wray is averaging better than 22 points a game and is hitting 65 percent of his shots this year.

SIM Gymnasts Will Seek
54th Dual Meet Victory

By Bill Kindt

Having slipped past Michigan last Friday night in the Arena, the Saluki gymnastics team will have a chance to take things a little easier.

Coach Bill Moade will have his gymnasts in Markako, Minn., today to perform in a dual meet with Mankato State. The Mankato team isn't as highly regarded as the Spartans and the Salukis should have no problem in registering their 54th dual meet victory in a row.

Mead is hoping that Dick Tucker, the seventh gymnast available to the Salukis in full form for tonight's meet. Tucker has been sidelined the last two weeks with a dislocated elbow.

Tucker is the regular all-around man for the Salukis and while Fred Dennis, his replacement, has done well, the Salukis still miss Tucker. With Tucker back as the all-around man, Dennis would be able to concentrate on two events—the still rings and the high bar.

The continued improvement of Dale Hardt in the trampoline in the nation at the start of the year, suffered a broken thumb two weeks ago and his score has dipped. He still scores around 9.25, which is good, but not up to his average of 9.45.

Joe Polizzano has been impressive on the ring. Polizzano scored a 9.05 against Iowa State two weeks ago and followed that up with a 9.40 against the Spartans.

Paul Mayer has also been giving the Salukis some good scores of late, but has been limited to the floor since he injured his back.

The next home appearance for the gymnastics team will be Feb. 3 when the Salukis will take on the University of Colorado.
