No Classes On Saturday

Saturday classes at SIU will be canceled this week because of the Memorial Day holiday, according to the Registrar's Office.

Morris Library will be closed this Saturday because of the holiday, and the Daily Egyptian will not be published on that day.

Clarence G. Dougherty, director of the Student Activities Center, announced the following weekend schedule of operation for the center.

The cafeteria will be closed Saturday, but open Sunday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., and from 4 to 7 p.m. The book-store will be open both Saturday and Sunday.

In general, the building will be open from 7 a.m. to 11:45 p.m. Memorial Day, and from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., and from 4 to 7 p.m. Saturday. The Oases will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 1:15 p.m. Saturday.

The holiday status for various classifications of faculty and staff members varies, according to Gene C. Turner, director of the Student Activities Office.

Members in the faculty-professional classification will work as usual Friday and Monday through Sunday only if they are normally assigned for that day.

Members in the "prevailing group" of staff, such as craftsmen, Turner said.

Another classification is the "negotiated" group whose members were given the choice of working or not. If they are called to work Friday, they will be paid in accordance with the agreement.

Petition Drive Launched In Campus Radio Issue

Proponents Seeking 3,000 Signatures

The Student Government and the Student Radio Board is seeking signatures on petitions asking for the creation of a closed-circuit campus radio station.

The proponents set up tables operating by September 1.

Dick Moore, student body president, has said that the station in the beginning would have all campus dormitories, Small Group Housing, Woody Halls and the University Park dormitories, upon their completion.

Moore explained that the station would be both AM and FM, and would reach its listeners along two telephone lines.

The actual work involved in writing the dorns and setting up the transmitting equipment would not be very much, and the intent of St. Louis station has offered us some of their equipment and transmitters reduces the cost of the initial outlay required.

He predicted the station could be started with $1,000. The student body president said the station would operate by soliciting advertising, and wouldn't have paid employees.

He said an examination of WGUJ-FM's program schedule showed that only 35 percent of it was aimed at University students.

The second phase of the station would include study music, jazz, popular music, hourly news, sports broadcasts, campus activities, lost-and-found service and personal announcements.

The report shows three columns of figures for each classification of expenditure within the allocations. The report contains "essential" requirements, the second "desirable," and the third "recommended" amounts.

Pat Micken ‘Anxious to Get Started’ on Campus Projects
Voluntary ROTC, Ka, Student Radio Are Main Issues

By Ric Cox

"I'm now at the stage of any newly elected officer," said Pat Micken, president-elect of the student body, "that of getting my feet wet. And Micken can be certain that the water will be warm. Some box issues have been before student government during the past year, and Micken will most likely inherit many of the same as well as new problems. "I'm anxious to get started," Micken said.

And he's already planning his strategy to come to terms with such issues as voluntary ROTC, the Ka-Egyptian controversy, the campus radio station and student government.

Some of Micken's projects follow:

--Promote advanced corps work at the same time pushing for voluntary ROTC;
--Set up an advisory council to boost the executive branch of student government;
--Get the radio station into operation (if it isn't already);
--Seek improvements in both Ka and the Daily Egyptian;
--Create a better link between student government and the administration.

At the moment Micken is faced with the task of filling some 100 student government appointments--some of which, he admits, he doesn't even know about.

"I'm staggered with the thought of finding 100 competent and interested people," Micken said, "but right now I'm meeting and talking to people who should have been recommended to me for positions."

At the same time, he is considering a reorganization of the executive wing in order to make these appointees directly responsible to him.

Micken also expressed intention to setting up an advisory council, made up of presidents of various organizations, to advise him on matters of student seminars.

"It's ridiculous to think that I alone could know the needs and desires of the students," DAILY EGYPTIAN

"ABOUT ALL WE CAN DO IS SCREAM!"
Micken said, "and it will also be nearer this way."

Not only will the council serve as an advisory board, but Micken hopes it will also serve as a source of ideas.

When asked about the ROTC controversy Micken replied, "I don't know what we will do when President Morris (advisor) is out, he's waiting for the legislature to act. I believe the students are getting sick of being taken for granted by voluntary ROTC, as well as all faculty.

"All about we can do about it now," Micken continued, "is scream about it. In fact, in any respect that's about all the council can do."

"That's why it's so important that we get the respect of the student body," Micken said, "if students don't respect and support the Student Council, the administration will be in a deep predicament."

Micken also expressed interest in a student government radio station, Micken said he would support it, and he hoped that it would be in operation when he was president.

"One thing we must avoid with the council," he said, "is getting warmed, and that is another Egyptian," referring to the fact that the Egyptian was changed into a laboratory newspaper for the coming year.

Micken is aware that the position will take a great deal of time--much of it spent in meetings with such issues as ROTC.

Turning to another aspect, Micken expressed hope that a better link could be formed with the administration.

"There is no reason why we shouldn't be a representative at meetings of the Board of Trustees," Micken said, "especially when crucial issues concerning the students are involved."

"I am sure they rely on hearsay as far as student opinion is concerned," Micken said, "They have no way of knowing what the students want.

Concerning Ka, the insert in the Daily Egyptian, Micken said that the major job is to erase the bad image Ka has generated from the student body and do something to get Ka and the Egyptian."

"I'm anxious to get started," Micken said.

Recreation Authority Praises Outdoor Education at Grassy
A national authority on recreation has praised the work of SIU and the Educational Council of 100 in establishing an Outdoor Education Center near Little Grassy Lake 16 miles southeast of Carbondale.

"We are trying to preserve a wilderness area for the people caught in a metropolitan civilization," said Harold Meyer, recreational specialist from the University of North Carolina, Meyer, whose textbooks on recreation are used in colleges throughout the country, has served as a recreation consultant to federal agencies.

"Here you have it at your front door," said Meyer, "and you've done a tremendous job in preserving the wilderness and in getting the public to understand the importance of preserving and enjoying the outdoors.

Meyer, who is spending several days on campus discussing problems related to increased leisure time, spoke at a monthly meeting of directors of the Center at University Center.

SIU President Delyte W. Morris, who is responsible for improving and expanding the outdoor education center, Tom Rollo, coordinator of the center, said more than 800 students have been spent a day learning outdoors at the center during April and May.

The council named Harry W. Deck of Herrin as a campaign manager to assist in the development of the center.

Curt Orders Schools
In Virginia to Open
WASHINGTON -- The Supreme Court ordered Prince Edward County to reopen its public schools on a desegregated basis by next September.

Prince Edward racial controversy has been fought in state and federal courts since May, 1951. It was one of the original school desegregation cases decided by the Supreme Court on May 17, 1954. Justice Hugo L. Black delivered the court's main opinion Monday.

Justices Tom C. Clark and John M. Harlan noted they agreed with the reasoning in Black's opinion, but disagreed with the holding that federal courts are empowered to order re-opening of the county schools.

Black said the case would go back to U.S. District Court in Virginia "with directions to enter a decree which will guarantee that these petitioners (Negro students) will get the kind of education that is given in the state's public schools.

It appeared that the federal district court in Virginia may, if necessary to prevent further racial discrimination, require the county supervisors "to exercise their powers to levy taxes to raise funds adequate to re-open, operate, and maintain without racial discrimination a public school system in Prince Edward County like that operated in other counties in Virginia.

Black added that, "If it becomes necessary to add new public school buildings or make other serious alterations, the county legislature may be called upon to appropriate necessary funds for the same purpose.

"The time for mere 'de­liberate speed' has run out, and that phrase can no longer be denying these Prince Edward County school children their constitutional rights to an education equal to that afforded the public schools in other parts of Virginia, " Black stated.

Negro parents, supported by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, pressed before the Supreme Court the argument that a state may not constitutionally permit denial of public education to some of its citizens while it helps provide it to others.

Death Toll 300 in Stampede

LIMA, Peru--A stampede of 45,000 spectators in a Lima sports stadium after police fired tear gas at rioting soccer fans left hundreds dead in possibly the worst sports disaster in history.

Authorities were unable to come up with an official count of victims in Sunday's tragedy. Lima's La Prensa said 260 bodies were counted. The newspaper Expreso said 315 were killed. Hundreds were injured.

Many blamed the tear gas for the frantic rush to the exits, and a government statement, taking note of this declared:

"It was necessary for the police to use tear gas in an attempt, however unfortunately futile, to prevent further disorder. The government is deeply concerned over the

Russians, Czechs Walk Out
As U.N. Hears Vietnamese
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.--Top representatives of the Soviet Union and Czechoslo­vakia walked out of a U.N. Security Council meeting Monday during a speech by South Viet Nam Ambassador Vu Van Mau.

There was no explanation for the move, but it seemed clear they intended their ac­tion as a snub of the South Vietnamese government which Communities do not recognize.

Viet Nam Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko went to the dele­gates' coffee room, Low­ranking members of the Soviet and Czechoslovak delegations remained in the council cham­bers, but read newspapers without listening.

Fedorenko and Czechoslovak delegator Milos Vejvoda also reported their walkout for a speech by Nationalist China's Nanking representative.

The South Vietnamese rep­resentative told the council theCommunist侵犯s of new border violations by the Com­munist Viet Cong, pointed out the real cause of the difficulties between Viet Nam and neigh­boring Cambodia.

Mau proposed a two-point program to end the trouble. He suggested a U.N. com­mission of experts to define the frontier between the two countries and a system of joint Vietnamese-Cambodian patrols to prevent Cong incursions.

Czechoslovakia already has re­jected the idea of a joint patrolled, but Mau renewed the proposal as the 11-nation council resumed its debate on the situation.

The Congress of Nationalist China's Nationalist Party passed the resolution on the situation, the Vietnamese government said.

Lodge, Scranton Winners
In SIU Mock Convention

Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, was the fifth ballot, compromise choice for the Republican presidential nomination at the SIU Mock Political Convention Saturday.

Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania was the unanimous choice of the convention for the vice presidential slot.

The fifth ballot ended in a deadlock between Lodge and New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, who was over 500 on the final four ballots. The forces for Barry Goldwater, senator from Arizona, began switching their votes to Lodge.

But it was New Jersey, which had been in the Lodge camp throughout the balloting before switching to Rockefeller on the fifth, that pushed Lodge over the magic 630 necessary to nominate. With four votes needed to nominate, New Jersey swung back to Lodge and it was all over.

Goldwater peaked at 498 on the first ballot on the basis of initial ballot commitments earned in real-life primaries. As soon as these debts had been paid, however, the Goldwater forces dwindled rapidly. He was never again to climb near the 500 mark.

The Goldwater forces on the third ballot switched their support to Governor Scranton.

On the next ballot they tried to snowball support back to Goldwater.

Between the fourth and fifth ballots the Goldwater forces moved to suspend the rules to allow the name of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon to be placed on the ballot. Needing a two-thirds majority to pass, it failed.

On the fifth ballot the Goldwater forces swung to Lodge, a gesture made necessary by the Rockefeller strength which remained constant throughout the balloting.

The crowd of several hundred delegates that crowded into Convention Hall -- Men's Gymnasium -- dwindled as the afternoon dragged on and the convention fell three hours behind scheduled.

The Texas delegation was a highlight of the convention. Wearing 10-gallon hats and marching under the flags of Texas and the Confederacy, the delegation exhibited an enormous amount of spirit. It stayed resolutely with Barry Goldwater with its 56 votes, until the final ballot, when it gave "its heart and six votes to Barry Goldwater and 50 votes to the Ambassador to South Viet Nam." The six later went to Lodge.

During the nominations for president, South Carolina, whose chairman, Joe Beers, was admonished several times for being out of order, led the Goldwater forces ostentatiously from the hall during the demonstration which followed the nomination of Rockefeller.

The floor of a political convention is a lively place, and the SIU convention was no exception. The delegates are shown here conferring near their state signs.
Man About Town

First of a Series

The bright sun made the stories on Carbondale's back sitting shopping 20-minute parade and appeared and disappeared in the business section. Students coming back from an off-campus study tour would change the town vastly in the future. This was the same story about the society, which continued to change the town.

Toward the end of the day, the council head of municipal government is not the same story about problems of city management.

Men who work on the complex automobile in history. Through the years in Southern Illinois, one unusual events which concerns the thousand and one usual events which continue daily life in a growing town.

Just as horse-drawn carriages would be inappropriate for the volume, no traffic today, the city council form of municipal government is not necessarily suited for the increased problems of city management.

After reading a few letters on your editorial page, I assume you have two warring factions over compulsory ROTC. Mr. Thomas Anthony believes that if the program is compulsory, all involved should go along with the program and stop fighting it. I would like to agree with his thinking that the program would be much better if it was voluntary.

If an institution has such a compulsory program, students should comply without any fuss. But there are those who think everyone should bowl to their wishes. When these pacifists came to your fine school, they knew what they wanted. If they didn't want to get involved with ROTC they should have gone to another school. They could solve all the world's problems if they really knew that in the complete history of man, there have been only 200 years; complete peace, they might think it a good idea that you have such a program to ready men for the armed service.

Now to quote Mr. Anton, "It takes courage to change what can be changed, it takes grace to accept what cannot be changed and it sometimes takes a great deal of wisdom to know the difference between the two."

According to your fellow letter-writer, Mr. Moore, it would seem that the situation cannot be changed. Come on, Mr. Anton, you have lost. I say to try changing the situation, but now accept the defeat gracefully.

Bide your time, gentlemen, you will have another chance to try someday. Before you know it, things will fall into line and go along with your country's armed services.

Gentlemen, you are going to get drafted, no matter what President Johnson says. Go on with ROTC and go into the service with commissions. It will be a lot easier that way.

Future Looking Very Bright For SIU's Sophomore Hurler

By Bea Allen

Catcher Mike Pratte gave the signal and moved his hands up into the counting position...the man on the mound appeared in deep thought for what seemed to be a full minute...then came the winding, the ball raced toward home plate, a vicious swing and the Empire called, "strike three!"

SIU had just won another game and in the record book as it was credited to Gene Vincent.

Only a sophomore, Vincent has been a member of the team for two years. His record last year was 5-1, so far this year it is 9-1. He's quite modest about his achievements.

"We have a very good hitting ball club and a good defensive team," he said. "We have quite a bit of depth over all, including pitching. We should finish the season with a good record.

While in high school at Rockport, Ill., Vincent played on the track, football and basketball teams, as well as the baseball team. According to the manager, though, he has concentrated on baseball.

He has had offers to play professional baseball, but is undecided as to whether he's going to accept them. When the baseball scouts cannot mention "money terms" with him until the end of the school year.

"The scouts who talked to me said that would tell me then what their offers are," Vincent said. "I want to make the pro ranks as a baseball player.

However, he has a good industrial education major to fall back on if he doesn't make the professional ranks. "I think I would enjoy teaching industrial education," he commented.

Vincent says he usually practices a bit when he goes to a game but after it starts he calms down and concentrates on the games.

"I have a lot of confidence in our defense," he said. "After the game, if I have pitched fairly well, I feel like I have done my part in winning the game. If I didn't do so well," he continued, "I am a bit disgusted and try to figure out my problems."

His pitching was hit hard by Sam Houston State University while on the Texas trip, but, he said he would like another try at them.

The 5-foot-10, 160-pound star pitcher eliminates many shortcomings and mistakes by working out two and a half hours every day, including Sundays if there is a game coming up.

The future looks bright for the up-and-coming pitcher. He has been invited to play in the Spain League in South Dakota this summer. He said if he doesn't sign a pro contract, he is planning to accept that offer.
