Lesar hopes to rehire others

Most of cut faculty with tenure rehired

By Jeff Jouett
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Satisfactory arrangements have been worked out to provide other jobs at SIU for most of the tenured faculty, Interim President Hiram Lesar said Monday.

"There are still a few for whom no position has been found," Lesar said, "but it is hoped that we can find positions for all of them." Lesar said that the tenured terminated teachers have been rehired in new positions and their previous jobs will remain terminated. According to Lesar it has been his policy to offer other employment to terminated faculty, where possible, as "another option."

Keith Lesure, vice president for academic affairs and provost, has been working "to place terminated tenured faculty in various positions" so that "their talent may be profitably used," according to Lesar.

Lesure said he has been making every effort to match terminated faculty with jobs as they open up.

"I have placed or offered to place at SIU six or eight faculty," Lesure said Monday.

"I am currently talking with several others in various levels of discussion and I think we will work something out," he continued.

"Currently there are six or seven of the tenured faculty that I don't know if I'll be able to find places for," Lesure said.

At a Tuesday meeting with academic deans, Lesure announced another attempt to find openings for the remaining terminated tenured faculty.

All fired tenured faculty retained at SIU, either in their departments or in other capacities, will hold tenure in the department in which it was granted, Lesure said.

"Retaining tenure with reappointment is normal procedure," Lesure explained.

"That way they will have the option of returning to their original department, should an opening come up," he added.

In another matter concerning terminations, Lesure announced that he had completed settlements with all faculty on continuing assignment.

These settlements were offered to about 28 teachers on continuing assignment in lieu of one year notice of job termination.

Cash settlements were negotiated individually with the teachers and could range up to a full academic year's pay.

The possibility of SIU dropping its class action suit against terminated faculty "has been discussed but not serving in this role," according to T. Richard Mager, vice president for development and services.

"It is," he said, "Present parking fees are $40 and $5. Both measures are administration proposals, presented to the committee by T. Richard Mager, vice president for development and services.

If the permanent bicycle registration system is approved, the current yearly registration plan would be abolished and all bicycle regulations would be set by the traffic committee.

Changes in parking decal prices and the bike registration system must be approved by the SIU Board of Trustees once they have cleared the Traffic and Parking Committee.

The administration also has proposed that SIU employ an "traffic hearing officer" and that the use of funds generated through traffic and parking be "broadened and focused."}

Dick Gregory foresees uphill road to overcome scandal, racism in U.S.

Picking up the pieces

Looking thin from his liquid diet, Gregory said it was an "extreme pleasure" to be in Carbondale, where he was a student for several years in the mid-fifties.

"Being in this auditorium brings back memories," he said. "This is where I won a talent show which was very instrumental in making me go in that direction." Gregory said Carbondale was a racist town when he was here in the fifties. "They made one mistake, though. They get the fire station on the same side of the tracks as the niggers. Then, the white neighborhood would burn down whenever the train came by during a fire."

"I went all the way through high school and college and no one taught me racism 101. And nobody keeps me out of a job because I can't quote Shakespeare," Gregory said.

Gregory pointed to the situation in San Francisco where the police searched young blacks in an effort to find the killers of several whites with that of Gus Bade

Kissinger, Assad reach agreement

JERUSALEM (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has completed agreement ‘for all practical purposes’ with Syrian President Hafez Assad on a disengagement line in the Golan Heights, a senior American official said Monday night.

Shuttling back to Israel from Damascus for a late session with the Israeli negotiating team, Kissinger was said to have made good progress as well on a formula that would be agreed to by a United Nations force to separate the armies.

Looking tired before his departure for Israel, Kissinger said at the Damascus airport he and the Syrians continued ‘constraining conversations’ which usually were conducted in a very constructive spirit.

As the agreement began to take shape, newsmen were told that the buffer zone separating the two sides would vary in depth from less than a half-mile to a little over one mile and that Kissinger dissolved participation in assigning an exchange of prisoners.

Israel has agreed to allow Syrian policemen to remain in the towns and villages within the demilitarized zones that will be yielded to Syrian civilians, the officials added.

‘On his past stop here, Kissinger and Assad touched on the numbers of men and equipment that will remain in the Syrian and Israeli positions immediately behind the two buffer zones. This is the first time they are getting down to real details.

$24 billion education bill passed by Senate, 81-5

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed on Monday a $24 billion education bill to extend the government’s school aid programs another four years while retaining the authority of the federal courts to pursue desegregation through busing.

The measure, which now goes to a conference with the House, modifies many of the programs, including a cutback of the amounts which schools may ask from the government for programs aimed at under-privileged children.

The Senate’s vote was 81 to 5.

The bill exceeds the amounts sought by President Nixon, who also objects on ground that much of the money is not left to local discretion as to spending purposes. He has threatened a veto unless changed more to his liking in conference.

Earlier, the Senate passed a belt-tightening $200 million authorization for the State Department’s operations for the fiscal year beginning July 1. The measure requires a 2 percent personnel cut and includes a requirement that the secretary of state submit a plan for phased reduction of U.S. aid to South Vietnam.

The House, meanwhile, opened debate on a $23.5 billion military procurement authorization, with the biggest fight expected over a move to cut military aid to South Vietnam to $100 million and $24 billion education bill.

Voting is scheduled Tuesday.

The most explosive issue in connection with the legislation this week is proposals seeking to end busing for desegregation purposes, was settled last week. In that debate, the Senate narrowly rejected proposals which virtually would have ended all busing.

Instead it adopted language placing some new restrictions on court busing orders but giving the judges authority to require busing to be used in order to comply with the equal rights amendments of the Constitution. However, the House in acting on the legislation in March, adopted much more stringent anti-busing provisions. The differences now will go to a conference with the Senate-House conference on the bill.

The weather:

Mostly sunny, hot

Tuesday: Mostly sunny, hot and humid with the high temperature in the lower 90s. Precipitation probabilities will be slight in the morning but increasing to 40 per cent by late afternoon. The high temperature will be around 95 degrees with a 5-12 mph. Relative humidity 90 per cent.

Wednesday: Mostly cloudy and warm with the low temperatures in the middle to upper 80s. A 20 per cent probability for showers will exist throughout the night and early morning.

Thursday: Mostly sunny, and a little cooler with the high around 86 degrees.

Cardboard boats washed up

Kayak outpaces soggy rivals

By Charlotte Jones

Daily Egyptian, Carbondale, Ill.

Competition for the Titanic award was tough in Saturday’s cardboard boat contest but declaring a winner was no problem. The seaworthy, smooth-gliding, green kayak easily outpaced 27 other crafts to take first place.

The boat, sponsored by Checkstone Mountainstairing, skimmed the 175-yard course from the Lake-on-the-Campus boat dock out to a buoy and back in 1:09 to set a record time in the seventh race.

“We knew all along we’d win,” said Jerry D. Feferman who crafted the winner along with Steve Miller and Mike C. Christopher, the skipper.

It was the sleek, simple design which rode easily on the surface of the lake, that put the kayak out in front, Feferman said.

A black surfboard sponsored by Carbondale Auto Supply took second place with 1:56, followed by a light blue row boat sponsored by Ramada Inn which coated in third in 2:12.

Bob Johnson piloted the cardboard, which he built with Jeri Haggerty and David Lauria.

Curt Mizernek skipped the third-place winner which Nancy Meyerson and Laird Smith built.

About half the cardboard boats couldn’t withstand the heat and sank amid cheers, boos, groans, moans and sighs from about 500 spectators jammed around the boat dock.

A little red craft, sponsored by Shade’s was voted best sicker and received the Titanic award after it managed to span just 20 feet from the starting line.

First-, second- and third-place winners received silver beer mugs. Shade’s was presented a teapot.

“Although nearly all the boats went through various stages of distortion, the results overall were a lot better than I had hoped for,” said Richard Archer, instructor of the design classes which constructed the boats as a class assignment.

Only cardboard, paint, glue or other connecting devices and a waterprover were allowed in the construction. The boats were built by three or four-member teams chosen by lot.

“Design courses are to make students confront and solve problems. This year the problem was to design and construct a boat made of cardboard, Archer said.

The design department plans to make the boat race an annual event and invite other design schools to enter the competition.

Brown lists SIU's top 3 priorities at Associated Press editors meeting

James Brown

Brown said he viewed community support for SIU as "extremely real and abiding" and that "difficulties" at the university in the last few years "have worried a lot of people." but "have not undermined the community support." Brown reported that SIU is in "a mark-time stance" in development of programs to involve the community. "That's unfortunately the price we must pay because we don't yet have a permanent president," he explained. Brown granted SIU's President DeCheney for his view of SIU as a "social institution in flexible academic form." When questioned by editors, Brown agreed that the D.O.T. rail abandonment plan, additional assistance to communities for water and sewer systems and community development can be "a highly important in attracting industry." Brown said.

Bright future foreseen if local obstacles overcome

By Dave Ambrose
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The economic future of Southern Illinois may be bright if certain obstacles in transportation and regionalization can be overcome.

Four economic observers, two from politics and two from business, told about 250 guests and members of the College of Business and Administration Alumni Association that Southern Illinois has growth potential in industry and tourism.

Speakers on the program included Lee Roy Brandon, general manager, Illinois Industrial Development Authority; Donald Smyster, president, Norge Laundry Co. Herlin; Val Osbal, Republican candidate for Congress and Paul Simon, Democrat, Congressional candidate.

Brandon told the group that government programs could help development in Southern Illinois "only so much.

The bulk of the responsibility he said is in a "total effort by all parts of the community."

He predicted a major upturn in Southern Illinois in coal production and tourism, but even these, he said "can not be developed without participation by Southern Illinoisans." Smyster told the group that Southern Illinois "is a national center of population and therefore the logical location for national distribution."

He said the development of Southern Illinois economy depends on attracting new industry, encouraging expansion in existing industries and creating new industries within the area.

In order to achieve these goals, he explained, it is important that Southern Illinois residents develop a sense of regionalism. "Potential industries investigate regional advantages," he said, "not community assets."

"What's good for Southern Illinois just has to be good for Carbondale, Marion and every other Southern Illinois town and village," he said.

Political rivals Val Osbal and Paul Simon spoke briefly on the political aspects of Southern Illinois' economic future.

Osbal, also stressed a sense of regionalism in promoting Southern Illinois to potential industries and tourists. "We must sell Southern Illinois," he said, "We must speak as one voice, not as a lot of small voices in the economic wilderness."

Osbal said he did not believe "we have scratched the surface of our industrial potential."

He noted that 10 per cent of world coal reserves are in Southern Illinois and a "major possibility exists for new mines and coal gasification plants."

He stressed that if the Department of Transportation (DOT) rail abandonment plan is accepted by Congress this November, it will strike a critical blow to future economic development in Southern Illinois.

Simon was more pessimistic of the present economic situation.

"Southern Illinois cannot be separated from the nation's economy," Simon said, and then quoted some dismal figures from a recent issue of the Wall Street Journal.

He said Southern Illinoisans "must accept a global loss and then put assets together to combat them.

High on his list of priorities was the need to redefine Southern Illinois, he said. "That's the necessity to community development, additional assistance to communities for water and sewer systems and community development can be "highly important in attracting industry," Simon said.

Chicago Tribune defender

To the Daily Egyptian:

This is in response to the May 14 DE editorial by Mr. John Russell.

The editorial that appeared in the Chicago Tribune on May 9 calling for the impeachment or resignation of President Nixon can hardly be called trivial. In 1956 the publisher of the Chicago Tribune, Joseph Medill, helped in the organization of the newly-founded Republican Party in Illinois. Since then the Tribune has been the bastion of Midwestern conservative Republicanism, and was influential in Republican circles for over 100 years, hardly trivial.

However, the point is not in the importance of the Tribune’s editorial, rather that Mr. Russell completely misunderstood the position of the editorial. The editorial called for the President’s impeachment or resignation (the Tribune referred to the kind of resignation, a point Mr. Russell missed) not because he is profane, or devious, or immoral, or, according to Mr. Nixon’s version of events, is correct, but to serve him better to have been more suspicious sooner as Mr. Russell suggests. The Tribune called for Mr. Nixon to step down because in their opinion the transcripts coupled with the President’s income tax statement demonstrated what the Tribune considers an essential Nixon defect—an insensitivity to the standards of ethics and morality that Americans expect from their leaders.

Ethics and morality in government is by no means a trivial matter, and Mr. Nixon hardly exemplifies the kind of man who maintains the kind of standards personally that I would like my child to follow.”

Mr. Nixon himself, as the Tribune rightly pointed out, impeachment may not require evidence of a specific crime for impeachment. It remains to be seen whether Mr. Nixon did indeed violate the law or even whether he should be held accountable for the acts of people acting in his name. The fact remains that many ambiguities exist concerning the President’s knowledge or lack of knowledge of his possible participation. The transcripts that Mr. Nixon chose to release, he did not choose to release some at all, if not mitigating him hardly cleared up many of the still unresolved issues of the Watergate affair. An impeachment proceeding is still only a trial and not a final judgment. Should Mr. Nixon be impeached he will have his day in court and perhaps in the attempt to clear himself the truth will out.

Holy jobs

To the Daily Egyptian:

Many students and faculty are looking for employment. They may be interested to know that there are nearly 14,000 Christian service opportunities in the files of Interictero. Interictero cooperates with over 225 evangelical Christian agencies in the U.S., Canada, and overseas in providing a computer-based system which helps applicants with jobs according to interests, background and qualifications. These jobs include vacation, short-term, and career openings. If you are interested write Interictero, Box 9222, Seattle, Washington 98109, for the application form.

If you’re looking for high pay, comfortable hours and an easy assignment. check out another source.

The 14,000 jobs in the Interictero files are mostly hard work, long hours and real sacrifice. But the rewards—God provides them as you invest your life in others. The jobs open to those who have received Christ as their personal Savior and who want to serve Him.

A special thanks

To the Daily Egyptian:

To Special Olympics Volunteers:

On behalf of the Board of Directors, the officers, and more importantly so, the participants of the 1974 Special Olympics Regional Games, may I extend a special thanks to each individual who helped in any way to make the 1974 Special Olympics an outstanding success.

It would be impossible to mention everyone, but I owe a special thanks to each individual who in some way, was involved. The Special Olympics is truly a team effort, and everyone on this team should be proud to be a winner. Once again, thank you.

President Lesar, please

A healthy university needs direction. SIU must have some now.

The problems and weaknesses of former administrations are no longer important. But there is a legacy of directionlessness and inner strife which must be overcome. Some departments have broken into factions which do not function together. Faculty members at all levels are seeking other positions. One department has had 5% of its staff give notice they are leaving this year. The tight job market may be the only thing holding many here.

President Hiram Lesar has done an admirable job getting various factions within the university at least talking to each other. And he has maintained a low enough profile to keep the president’s position itself from becoming a divisive factor.

But SIU cannot wait until next year when a new president may be instated to gain direction. By that time SIU’s deteriorating reputation may have made some new growth impossible. At a time when the legislature has made it clear that future funds will be tied to enrollment lack of growth could sound the death knell for SIU as a great university.

Lesar must give SIU new goals. Phrases like “academic excellence” and “second jewel” will not suffice. SIU is not the University of Chicago or a junior college. If it just goes about the business of education it will find its rightful place. What is needed is a return to the Greek of a university as a “community of scholars.”

Obviously there are factional problems which will have to be overcome before a sense of community can develop. The cases against the 104 settled, vacant administrative posts filled and labor disputes resolved. But, even if those disappeared tomorrow, growth would still be dependent on direction, direction which makes education its highest priority.

Making education the highest priority and developing a community of scholars means making some new and different decisions. It means asking why SIU can afford over $60,000 to keep David Derge on leave and Dan Dreccinn teaching when it can’t find $25,000 for Buckminster Fuller or enough money to hire department heads recommended by search committees. It means not trying to become a football power by building a bigger stadium. It means asking why when a flexible quarter system attracts students to SIU is going to semesters. It means asking why with jobs unfilled no attempt to terminate faculty is being made.

President Lesar, please turn the faculty and students loose on these problems and decisions. The feeling of community may well be inversely proportional to the number of closed door meetings held.

Please President Lesar, give SIU direction: make SIU an open community; a community whose goal is education; a community of scholars.

Another decade's relevance

By William J. McGill
President, Columbia University.
(Excerpted by St. Louis Post-Dispatch from an address given in Mexico City.)

For 10 years following the end of World War II, American universities experienced unparalleled advancement, riding upon the crest of scientific accomplishments achieved in the defense of our nation. Then there was a second decade of progress as a wave of apprehension swept the United States that is now الحال苏联 science placed a satellite in earth orbit during 1957.

Fearful that we had somehow fallen behind in the race for scientific and technological superiority, our Government pledged vast sums of money to upgrading and expanding our colleges and universities. New graduate schools were constructed and older institutions were greatly enlarged. Large-scale building programs were undertaken with Government resources, and Government funding became available on an unprecedented scale for the support of graduate study and research. An almost lethal competition developed in the United States for star academic performers. It was a time of outstanding American achievements in science, engineering, medicine, literature, and the arts.

Then, with very little advance warning during the early 1960s, we began to experience an astonishing development of civil unrest. Our disastous involvement in Vietnam was an important factor in generating anti-Government feeling on college campuses. Students could avoid the draft by enrolling in college or graduate school. They began to feel both guilt and anger over the fate of thousands less gifted and less fortunate than they. A significant fraction of the military draftees were drawn from black and Latin minorities in the United States and white middle-class students felt keenly about this racially toned inequity.

Perhaps the most powerful form of unrest in America during this troubled period was the emergence of the so-called counterculture. This was a significant movement of extraordinary power and attractiveness during the middle 1960s. The counter-culture appears to be a rejection phenomenon which vie. was the order and discipline required by a technological society as inherently oppressive. It rejects such discipline as a manifestation of an authoritarian social order seeking to mold students for the benefit of a political and military oligarchy, but not for humane purposes. The counter-culture has seemed recently to un-

$25 for the arts? .... $5? ... ok, $1

Two out of three adult Americans (64 percent) would be willing to pay an extra $2 a year in taxes to support the arts. Almost half would go up to $25, according to a recent survey for the Associated Council of the Arts.

So the administration's budget request for the next fiscal year—$84 million for both the National Endowment for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Humanities—hardly seems excessive. It is less than 1 percent of the national budget. It constitutes a 5 percent of the total endowment for the arts and humanities each year, and Congress will do well to continue to support the trend.

Chairman Nancy Hanks of the arts endowment said in testimony prepared for a House of Representatives subcommittee that "the Congress has not offered, to solve the problem of the arts by drowning them in the federal money." Rather she saw the present mandated level of government support as "the critical margin" of resources necessary for leadership in bringing about "broader national response." She noted that the increased budget proposal ($25 million for the arts endowment)--will not even increase the federal government's small relative share of support, because every dollar generates more dollars from other sources.

It will take all the federal government can do, plus the state arts councils, to provide the proper role in the celebration of the bicentennial. The arts are so important to the American people that it is already "the critical margin" for enhancing the quality of American life for all.

Song festival to feature
Latin music

The Latin American Student Association and the Spanish Club will sponsor a Latin American Song Festival at 8 p.m. May 30 in Student Center Ballroom B.

Everyone is invited to participate in the festival. The songs must be composed by a Latin-American songwriter, but may be sung in any language, according to Ricardo Caballero, president of the Latin American Student Association.

Those who wish to enter are asked to bring their own instruments. The songs will be judged by a panel consisting of professors from SIU's Spanish, history and possibly music departments, Caballero said.

Applications to enter the festival may be picked up at the International Student and Faculty Affairs office in Woody Hall C-111. The festival is free, and one does not have to participate to attend.

For more information, call Caballero at 457-7045.

Liberal Arts plans council elections

Elections for the Council of the College of Liberal Arts will be held Thursday and Friday, with 11 faculty openings, six undergraduate student vacancies and three graduate student vacancies.

Undergraduates in the College of Liberal Arts who do not have a declared major should vote in the Liberal Arts Advisement Center, and all others should vote in their respective departments.

The faculty nominees in Area I, including anthropology, economics, government, history, psychology and sociology are: Ronald Adams, economics; Charles Adams, economics; David Conrad, history; Levelyn Hendrix, sociology; C. Adison Hickman, economics; Bruce MacLauchlan, anthropology; Charles Stalon, economics; William Turley, government, and Stephen Wasyly, government. Five will be elected.

One graduate student will be elected from among: Mary Day, government; John Gadway, economics; Jerry Hoffman, anthropology; Habib Jam, economics, and Marvin Montiel-Cohen, anthropology.

Francisco Chavez, economics, and Paul Dieterich, anthropology, are running for undergraduate student positions, of which there are three.

In Area II, including computer science and mathematics, two faculty members will be elected from among: Ted Burton, Leslie Gates, Donald Kirk and Richard Millman, all mathematicians.

Scott Claver is the only announced candidate for the one graduate student position.

Leila Parrish and Thomas Syrdal, both mathematics, are running for the one undergraduate position. Area III, involving CESL, English, foreign languages, philosophy and religious studies, have five faculty openings. Running are: Keith Anderson, foreign languages; Michael Aud, philosophy, Patricia Carrill, linguistics, S.L. Hartman, foreign languages; Hellmut Hartwig, foreign languages; Richard Lawson, English; Warren Mindhardt, foreign languages; Charles Moeck, foreign languages, and Roy Washington, English.

Bruce Guzal, philosophy and Arthur Reff, foreign languages are running for the graduate student position. Lani Davis, foreign languages, is the only announced candidate for the undergraduate positions, of which there are two.

Agricultural pact eyed
SIU-UN to continue Brazil aid

A two-year contract extension between SIU and the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) for agricultural development program at Brazil's Federal University of Santa Maria has been announced, according to an official announcement from Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost Keith Leasure's office.

The agreement will provide $430,000 from the UN agency for 120 man-months of professional services in various agricultural specializations from SIU to the Brazilian university.

The provision calls for three two-year positions, a project manager and specialists in agricultural economics and marketing and agricultural education. It also provides for 10 short-term assignments.

John Baker, SIU assistant provost, and William A. Doerr, assistant dean of resident instruction in the School of Agriculture, returned Thursday from three days of conferences with FAO officials in Brazil to arrange the extension.

Performance of SIU agricultural specialists working on the FAO project at the University of Santa Maria during the last four years influenced the UN agency to extend the project to finish out the total program, said Baker and Doerr.

The original contract between SIU and FAO activated in May, 1970, provided $1,261,963 from the UN agency for SIU to furnish 1,412 man-months of professional services. Seventeen agriculture specialists, most of them from SIU's agriculture faculty, have served two-year assignments at the University of Santa Maria under the UN program.

SIU was the first university selected by FAO to work with its agriculture development assistance program. The project is aimed at helping Santa Maria improve and use its teaching, research, and rural extension resources for developing the agriculture of southern Brazil.

Kleindienst worked for state

Scott confirms funding reports

CHICAGO (AP)—Atty. Gen. William Scott today confirmed reports that former U.S. Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst was employed by the State of Illinois as a special counsel in the Equity Funding Case.

But Scott denied charges by State Reps. James Houlihan and John Matijevich that Kleindienst is currently representing the state in any capacity. The two Democratic Legislators called on Scott, a Republican, to immediately fire Kleindienst.

Kleindienst last week became the nation's first attorney general ever convicted of a crime when he pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor offense concerning the ITT case.

Scott said Kleindienst was retained by his office in July 1973 on a contractual basis shortly after Kleindienst resigned as attorney general.

"Kleindienst handled one small part of the Equity case," Scott said. "He went into the Maryland federal district court with a motion that the suit against the State of Illinois be dropped because of a lack of legal jurisdiction."

The Equity Funding case is considered the nation's largest insurance scandal. Company officials wrote policies on non-existent persons and then sold the policies to reinsurance firms across the country.

Scott said the case was combined into 72 suits and also being prosecuted in California and New York.

Scott said he saw nothing improper in retaining Kleindienst in the case. "It was a year ago, he had just come from being U.S. attorney general."

Scott added he formerly worked with Kleindienst, and "while what he did before the Judiciary Committee was wrong, he wants ahead and filed the case against ITT and against the milk producers in the face of enormous political pressure."

Scott said he didn't want to "get into a defense of Kleindienst because I don't know the facts, but I want to say that no Watergate scandal is involved here."

Kleindienst has collected $875.00 for representing Illinois, Scott told newsmen. Kleindienst was paid at a rate of $75.00 an hour which included work from September thru December of 1973.

Scott also denied charges by Houlihan and Matijevich that he hired Kleindienst without informing the state department of insurance.

Governor Daniel Walker told newsmen Kleindienst "should not be representing the state because it does not give the people confidence in government."

Weekend times slated for 'The Anniversary'

The comedy drama "The Anniversary" by Bill MacIverth will be presented in three performances Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings at the Laboratory Theater stage. The production is sponsored jointly by the Southern Players and the Southern Laboratory Theater.

"The Anniversary" portrays a middle-age woman's attempt to lacerate her three sons with her stifling possessiveness and warped love, while her sons light-heartedly cower and plot her murder. Yet, like the Devil, "Mum," played by Banita Blayd, is indescribably charming.

The cast includes Paul Klapper as "Henry," her eldest son, who has gone insane; John Speckhardt as "Terry," who has not been able to love his mother in the eye for 25 years; and Randy Lockwood as "Tom," her youngest son, who gloriously plots his mother's murder.

Other cast members are Joan Detrich as "Karen," Terry's wife, a woman who has fought emotionally for the body and soul of her husband, and Lynn Myers as "Shirley," the outsider brought in to part of Tom's plan to destroy Mum.

The production will serve as a final thesis project for Kathryn Hollis and Stephen Fabis who are completing work toward the Master of Fine Arts degrees in theater directing and design, respectively. It is the first time the Master of Fine Arts in directing has been awarded an SIU student.

The assistant director is Richard Klein.

Performances will be given at 8 p.m. nightly in the Laboratory Theater of the Communications Building. Tickets are $1.25 general admission. They may be purchased at the theater box office.

Protestant radicals halt Belfast traffic

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP)—Protestant extremists paralyzed Belfast on Monday by barricading every major road into the city and vowed they were "ready to die" unless their demands were met.

Armed paramilitary groups threw up blockades of hijacked cars, trucks and buses in an effort to increase pressure on the British government, already hard-pressed by a six-day strike, to abandon proposals to give the Roman Catholic minority a share in running the province.

The British Defense Ministry announced it was sending about 500 British infantrymen into Northern Ireland to help keep the peace.

A ministry spokesman said the troops "will remain in support of the civilian powers" along with the other 10,000 British normally keeps in Northern Ireland.

The only traffic allowed into Belfast Monday was food and milk trucks. British army patrols were stopped. First fight broke out around several barricades.

"We're not backing off another inch," one local Protestant leader said. "We want to stay a part of Great Britain but we want our rights."

"If we don't get them, we shall fight for independence. This is the end of the road and we are ready to die if we have to."

Protestant extremists declared Northern Ireland, a British province with a population of more than 40,000, off limits to British troops.

The strike appeared almost 100 per cent effective. Most shops, offices and factories were closed and Belfast's shipyard, its biggest employer, was at a standstill.

Attempts by labor union leaders to mediate appeared doomed. The Protestant militants said they would not talk with Len Murray, secretary general of Trades Union Congress.

Film of 'Electra' to be presented

Wednesday night

Director Michael Cacoyanides' film of Euripides' play "Electra," will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Lawson 131. The film is being sponsored by the Classics Program of the Foreign Language Department.

"Electra" was first produced in 413 B.C. and is a drama about the neurotic daughter of Agamemnon, who plots the death of her mother and the new king. The play is a study of the warping effects that an environment of hate has on the human personality.

Cacoyanides directed the film version of the ancient Greek play. "The Trojan Women," "Electra" stars Greek actress Irene Pappas. There will be no admission charge.

Smoking harmful to your health

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—Mary Jo Place took a pint from a drawer when awakened during the night by what sounded like a prowler.
Finding nothing amiss, she put the gun on a nightstand and went back to bed. Upon awakening the next morning, she took out a cigarette and reached for the pistol-shaped lighter she keeps on the nightstand.

Mrs. Place got the real gun instead. She's being treated for a gunshot wound in the left hand.

Reinecke trial shift refused
Judge denies leniency promise

By Donald Sanders
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - A federal judge ruled Monday he could find no evidence that Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke of California was entangled by promises of leniency from Watergate prosecutors who have charged him with perjury.

Judge Barrington Parker of U.S. District Court rejected motions to dismiss the three-count indictment or to suppress certain evidence on the ground it had been obtained by entrapment.

He refused also to shift the trial, scheduled to start July 15, to California.

Reinecke is in an uphill battle for the Republican gubernatorial nomination against Houston Flournoy, the state comptroller, with the primary just two weeks away, on June 4.

He said through a spokesman in Sacramento that he is definitely in the campaign to stay. He declined further comment on the case.

Reinecke's principal Washington attorney, F. Joseph Donohue, said he may appeal Judge Parker's ruling to the U.S. Court of Appeals.

At a pre-trial hearing last Monday, Reinecke testified that "it was certainly implied" by assistant Watergate prosecutor Joseph J. Connelly that he would not be indicted if he agreed to cooperate in the federal investigation and to testify.

"The court finds that Mr. Reinecke was unable to point to any statement made to him about a promise...in the unequivocal manner he suggests," Judge Parker ruled.

"Even if he believed that a promise had been made, this belief must be buttressed by substantial proof....Such proof is lacking..." the judge noted that Connelly in his testimony denied making any promises of leniency, and that Frank Pagliaro Jr., who was Reinecke's attorney during discussions with the Watergate prosecutors last July, wrote in a memo at the time that Connelly had mentioned a possible perjury indictment.

The indictment returned April 3 charges Reinecke with lying to the Senate Judiciary Committee.

APSC balloting light; will close at 4 today

Administrative and Professional Staff Council (APSC) balloting closes at 4 p.m. today, according to Julia Muller, APSC election commission chairman. Having a last minute flurry of ballot returns to her office in Barracks #40, vote response to the election will be, in Ms. Muller's words, "really sickening."

About 400 ballots were sent to APSC constituents; University staff members who hold faculty appointment without academic rank. Ms. Muller said Monday morning that barely 25 per cent of the ballots have been returned.

The election will seat a representative from each of four University areas on the APSC for a three-year term. There is no real contest in this year's election, Ms. Muller said, as only one candidate is running from each area. The lack of competition probably discouraged voting, Ms. Muller said.

Standing for election to the APSC are: Barbara Kirkikis, director of training and development in the SIU personnel office; representing the business area; Doris Turner, academic advisor in the College of Education representing the academic affairs area; Carol Connelly of the Student Activities Office representing the student affairs area and Jerry Lacey, assistant to the vice president for development and services representing the development and services area.

Jubilee will test skills of forestry students

Forestry Students will stage their annual Spring Jubilee competition in a variety of forestry skills Saturday at the Upper Forty area off Giant City Blacktop at the SIU arboretum about seven miles south of Carbondale.

A sign at the entrance road will direct visitors to the activities. Events will begin at 9 a.m. and continue until late afternoon.

The Spring Jubilee will include tests of skill and endurance. Highlights of the activities include dendrology (plant identification) running a compass course, one- and two-man log sawing, speed chopping, log rolling, pole-stick toss, tobacco spitting, match-splitting, and other contests. Top performers in each event will receive gifts and qualify to represent the Forestry Club at a Midwestern intercollegiate foresters' conclave next fall.

Students will be awarded Jubilee gifts as well as other honors during the joint dinner program of the Forestry Club and Xi Sigma Pi honorary forestry fraternity at 5:30 p.m. May 31 at the I.R.J. Steakhouse.

Dinner speaker will be a University of Illinois forester, Theodore Yocom, Urbana, who will discuss forest and wildlife resources of Alaska and the Pacific Northwest.

SIU women will present public concert

A program of selections from top Broadway musicals will be presented by the University Women's Chorale at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Old Baptist Foundation Chapel. The public is invited to attend without charge.

One or more popular numbers from "Bye, Bye Birdie," "South Pacific," "Mame," "Hello Dolly," "Oliver" and "Music Man" will be sung by the 11-member ensemble under the direction of Charles C. Taylor. Kay Fields, teaching assistant in the School of Music, will be accompanied.

For the Wilson "Music Man" segment closing the concert, the ensemble will be joined by The Four Tunes, a male group composed of Robert Bingham, Gary Thies, Mike Lee and James Ford.

Members of the ensemble are Brenda McDaniel, Betsy Hensley, Vicki Davidson, Nancy Eaton, Jeanne Quinn, Charli Dunn, Gina Cruise, Susan Lee, Linda Rythlik, Marie Busch and Angela Reynolds. Mary Lavin is the group's rehearsal accompanist.

Faculty Senate to meet Tuesday

The newly elected Faculty Senate for 1974-75 will meet for the first time to elect a chairman, vice chairman and secretary at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Student Center Meeting Room.

An election of a "committee of committees" will also be held after 17 new Senate members take their seats.

Several items remain on the agenda of the present Senate, which will meet for the last time this spring to adjourn the year's meeting.

The Undergraduate Senate Ad Hoc Policies Committee will submit two reports, one on Master Plan Phase IV and one on admission to the developmental Skills Program.

Speech planned on energy crisis

All S.M. Pfemr, chairman of the department of economics at the University of Akron, will speak on the energy crisis at 8 p.m. Friday in Leeuwen Hl.

The speech is titled, "The Energy Crisis—A Radical Perspective." It is sponsored by the Eastern Students Association and the Graduate Student Council.

Seaman's message in bottle gains 'executive readership'

By Frances Lewin
Associated Press Writer

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. — To whom it may concern," began the water-stained note in the bottle. "I had nothing to do, so I'm writing you."

The "you" turned out to be none other than President Nixon, and the seafaring message, written in a youthful scrawl, concerned him very much. It was from a sailor who asked that the finder of the bottle contact his grandparents. So the President of the United States duly followed instructions.

It began March 23, when 18-year-old Larry Metivier and a buddy were aboard the USS Guam en route from Norfolk, Va., to Jacksonville.

Research award to be presented

Tuesday night

Willard D. Klimstra, professor of zoology, will speak on "Coal-Surface Mining Reclamation" at the Sigma Xi-Kaplan Award Lecture at 8 tonight in Neckers 240B.

Klimstra is the 1974 recipient of the Leo Kaplan Research Award, in recognition of his contributions to wildlife and research management, ecology and conservation. He is president of the National Wildlife Society and an Illinois representative to the National Park Service Centennial.

The award, given annually since 1962, is presented by the Society of the Sigma Xi to a member of the SU faculty for achievement in scientific research. It is named for the late Leo Kaplan, a former president of Sigma Xi.

Questions about the lecture may be answered by Richard T. Arnold of the Chemistry department, the president-elect of Sigma Xi. The public is invited to attend.

Cash goals fall short for local United Fund

Ruth Alterlake, owner-manager of Caro's Menagerie, has been elected president of the Carbondale United Fund. Tammy Moore, manager of the Main Street Boutique, was elected vice president.

Since the $58,907.99 raised for the 1979-80 Carbondale United Fund fell short of the $60,000 goal, the budget committee changed some of its original allocations.

The final allocations are: Senior Citizens Council, $5,000; the Women's Center, $2,800; Egyptian Association for the Mentally Retarded, $3,000; Ameri Can Red Cross, $3,000; Girl Scouts, $4,000; USO, $300; Carbondale Junior Sports, $6,650; Jackson County Mental Health, $1,300; Synergy Drug Crisis, $1,300.

Ceramic pieces, stoneware featured at Mitchell Gallery

Douglas Holgrew will be presenting his Master of Fine Arts Exhibition at Mitchell Gallery from Tuesday through May 28. An opening reception will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday.

The exhibit will feature various functional and non-functional ceramic pieces; it will include wheel-thrown and hand-built forms in both stone ware and porcelain. Many pieces are embellished with lavish surface decoration of a "whimsical-Baroque" style. Also featured in the exhibition will be offhand blown crystal and milk glass. Bright color is used to accent many of these pieces; an elaborate "feathering" technique, employing many combinations of color, enamel and stenciled designs are used. An extensive collection of works are also available for sale.

Theater promoters happy

Promoters of the first dinner theater in southern Illinois have been pleased with the broad base of support given their enterprise.

Robert Gottlieb, a partner in the Market Street Theater which opened this month in Marion, said he had been pleased to date that the theater's patrons have included people from various communities and age groups. He added that although "LUV," the theater's first production, has done well, it will be several months before he can be assured of continuing area support for the theater.

"LUV," directed by Gottlieb, is scheduled for final performances on May 14 and 15. The theater's next production will be announced later this week.
The Law School ended its first year, plans to enroll 85 students

By Molly Newman

Student Writer

The first Law School year ended Wednesday and the number of student applications for fall semester jumped by 46% from last year, said Tom Rody, associate dean and director of admissions.

The Law School received more than 1,000 student applications for the 1974 fall semester, Rody said, and plans to enroll 85 students.

"Last year we selected from 1,300 applications," he said, "and of the 1,300, we admitted 18 women and 71 men.

Rody said the "best applicants," are admitted to the school and many eligible persons are on a waiting list or are turned down due to the lack of facilities at the Law School.

"We have too many applicants for too few places," he said.

The Law School plans to limit total enrollment to 255 students. Rody commented, in order to have sufficient library space to seat 60 per cent of the students at one time.

Law students enrolled during the first year came from 34 different Illinois counties, Rody said, and graduated from 26 different colleges.

Southern Illinois' early inhabitants

subject of study

The distribution and culture of early man throughout Southern Illinois will be the subject of the fourth in a series of geology department lectures colloquies at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Michael J. McNerny, SIU museum archivist, will talk on the utilization of Parkman 111 or a nearby lecture room. McNerny will discuss the spread of early man through the region, the varying cultural traits and the artifacts left behind which archaeologists use in reconstructing some of the living habits of early man in Southern Illinois.

The Wednesday session is one in the geology department-sponsored series of public meetings designed around the theme "Time, Rocks and Man in Southern Illinois."

AFROTC honors 22 during awards dinner

Twenty-two cadets were presented awards at the annual SIU Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps "Dining-In" meeting Friday evening.

The Air Force Association award, given to an outstanding senior cadet each year, went to Joseph Herrera, a physical education major of Midlothian.

Dean W. Sedlacek, a radiology major from Villa Park, won the SIU Board of Trustees award. The McDonnell Douglas award went to Kevin M. Murphy, a social science major of Alexandria, Va.

The Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) award was given to David L. Wikehart, a forestry major of O'Fallon.

Three winners of American Legion awards were named: Richard M. Mielio of Chicago and Robert L. Tingey of Champaign, both industrial technology majors, and James A. Schlueter of Oak Park, an administration of justice major.

The Sons of the American Revolution award went to Wayne W. Anderson, majoring in business management.

Other cadets who won awards are John W. MacDonald, Larry A. Dreyer, Michael B. George, Lewis L. Schafer, David A. Reed, Leonard W. Swanson, Robert C. Sanderson.

CELEBRATION

Where will we be in the year 2000?

As preparation for living in tomorrow, we have evolved a programmed learning experience. The program draws upon such diverse fields as psychology and parapsychology, theology and technology to generate a greater awareness of how to function and relate in our rapidly changing world.

- Workshop on astrology, tarot, channeling and meditation techniques
- Magic theatre-an audio-visual experience in a controlled media environment
- Electronic visuals and sounds are produced to heighten awareness.

The Aquarian Awareness Celebration will be held on Thursday, May 23, 7:30 p.m. in Ballroom 'B' Student Center

This free program is limited to 300 participants...

If you wish to participate in the celebration, you must sign up in advance in the Student Activities Office (3rd floor, Student Center).

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon ordered Monday to surrender tape recordings of 64 conversations for use in the Watergate cover-up trial of former top associates.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica gave the orders until Thursday end of the month to produce the tapes, but said he would delay the order upon appeal. Presidential counsel, however, St. Clair confirmed an appeal would be made.

At the Capitol, House Judiciary Committee Chairman James O. Rodney (D-N.J.) said his committee would consider whether subpoena of its own to the White House fails to turn over tapes involving the ITT and milk price cases. St. Clair has said his committee would consider an answer by Monday, but no such reply has been received by afternoon.

Rodino said the committee also will discuss what steps to take if the White House continues to hold 11 Watergate-related tapes it already has subpoenaed.

As he did last year, in the celebrated court battle over nine tapes, Sirica ordered that the tapes be submitted for his review and decision on what portions the President may withhold.

Sirica ordered that the originals of the tapes be turned over on or before May 31, and that the White House then supplies an index and analysis detailing any compromise to the Supreme Court.

In other Watergate developments:

Prosecutor Leon Jaworski, in obtaining a court subpoena last month, said the tapes are needed for the trial of John N. Mitchell, H.R. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman and four others charged with conspiracy to block the Watergate investigation.

“While evidence presented here, thus far, if anything, more compelling than the nine-tapes case last year, Sirica said.

“The matter has developed into a criminal trial, where the standard of proof is not simply probable cause but proof beyond a reasonable doubt,” St. Clair, the President’s chief Watergate lawyer, had moved to quash the subpoena and told newsmen on May 7 that the President would not give up any more Watergate tapes either to Jaworski or to the House impeachment inquiry.

Sirica indicated then that the case would be appealed all the way to the Supreme Court in necessary.

Some of the conversations sought by Jaworski were included in the transcript of presidential conversations relevant to the judiciary committee and the public on April 30.

He said that in those 20 instances Jaworski’s claims that Watergate was discussed have been shown accurate without exception.”

Nixon ordered to turn over more tapes

Nixon applies prod on health insurance

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP)—President Nixon appealed Monday for support of a national health insurance plan to make quality care widely available while maintaining the private system.

Nixon said in a radio address the issue has grown more urgent while maintaining the private system.

Nixon urged the private health industry to do everything it can voluntarily “to keep the brake on rising health care costs.”

But voluntary restraint will not be enough,” he said. “We must have regulation.”

Nixon’s broadcast from the study of his vacation White House, overlooking Biscayne Bay, was the only major public address since he came here Thursday afternoon for his relaunched presidential campaign.

“Every American has financial access to quality health care,” he said.

He warned that the end of wage-price controls has increased the possibility of “an unbridled increase” in medical costs.

“The country faces a possible annual increase of a 22 per cent in physicians’ fees alone,” he said.

Callers revive students hope for education

THOMPSONVILLE, (AP)—“I didn’t realize there were so many kind people in America, United States,” Angus Gaither, 18, said Monday. “I am just proud to live in the United States.”

Thanks to the generosity of people from across the country, it looks as if the 18-year-old boy will be able to realize what he calls “the dream of my life,” attending Harvard without having to shirk his responsibilities to his family, which has been paralyzed.

A vaudevillian of the class of ’74 in this rural Southern Illinois town, Gaither sandwiched his studies between tending the family’s 400-acre farm. He is the family’s sole support.

In addition there has been three instances subpoenaed from the House impeachment panel and one from the Senate Watergate Committee.

Three of the seven defendants in the cover-up case joined the special prosecutor in his subpoena, specifying that they believe the tapes may include evidence that will help the defense.

“The court intends to supply defense counsel with any and all evocative matter that may be found in the items produced and to deliver any and all non-privileged matter to the special prosecutor,” Sirica said.

One of the President’s arguments was that Jaworski must have had sufficient evidence to bring the indictments in the first place and that there was no need to furnish more material.

“Such an argument, however, ignores the fact not only that it is the special prosecutor alone in this instance, who has the duty to determine the quantity and quality of evidence necessary to make an indictment,” the judge said.

“It has never been the law that one particular indictments, evidence beyond that at hand is unnecessary and should not be sought.”

SPECIAL OLYMPICS

Wishes to thank all Volunteers who helped the 1971 Special Olympics Regional Meet at Outstanding Success Thank You
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon ordered Monday to surrender tape recordings of 64 conversations for use in the Watergate impeachment trial of former top associates.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica gave the tape dates until the end of the month to produce the tapes, but said he would delay the order upon an appeal. Presidential counsel Leon Jaworski and St. Clair confirmed an appeal would be made.

At the Capitol, House Judiciary Committee Chairman Millard E. Tydings (D-Md.) said his committee would consider further subpoenaing the White House to turn over tapes involving the ITT and milk price cases. St. Clair had said the White House had yield an answer by Monday, but no such reply had been received by late afternoon.

Rodino said the committee also will discuss what steps to take if the White House continues to refuse to produce for his review and decision on what portions the President may withhold.

Sirica ordered that the originals of the tapes be turned over on or before May 31, and that the White House submit an index and analysis detailing individual claims of presidential privilege.

In other Watergate developments:

— U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell indicated he may dismiss one of the charges—lying to the FBI—brought against Ehrlichman in connection with the White House plunbers break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

— Gesell released a letter from Nixon in which the President denied any prior knowledge of that break-in but said he had ordered use of the "fuller authority" of his office in the campaign by the plunbers to prevent new leaks.

— Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo, a close friend of the President accused the Senate Watergate committee of trying to "humiliate and embarrass him in his quest for his personal and financial records."

— Dwight L. Chapin, former presidental appointments secretary sentenced to 10-30 months in prison for lying to a grand jury about political dirty tricks, appealed his conviction.

— Jaworski's demand for tapes is the third subpoena issued by the special prosecutor's office. In the case of the nine tapes last year the White House complied after the U.S. Court of Appeals ruled against it. In the second search, last March, the White House surrendered an undisclosed amount of material without going to court.

In addition there have been three other subpoenas from the House impeachment panel and one from the Senate Watergate Committee.

Three of the seven defendants in the cover-up case joined the special prosecutor in his subpoena, specifying that they believe the tapes may include evidence that will help the defense.

"The court intends to supply defense counsel with any and all exculpatory matter that may be found in the items produced and to deliver any and all non-privileged matter to the special prosecutor," Sirica said.

One of the President's arguments was that Jaworski must have had sufficient evidence to bring the indictment in the first place and that there was no need to furnish more material.

"Such an argument, however, ignores the fact not only that it is the special prosecutor alone in this instance, who has the duty to determine the quantity and quality of evidence necessary to constitute an indictment, but also that the special prosecutor has an obligation to obtain and present all the relevant evidence," the judge said.

"It has never been the law that once an indictment issues, evidence beyond that at hand is unnecessary and should not be sought."

SIU victory equals ‘most wins’ record

By Mark Tupper
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The SIU baseball team equaled the record for the season Tuesday, completing a three-game sweep of Oral Roberts and ending the regular season with a 4-9 record.

The Salukis will begin play in the District IV playoffs Thursday in Minneapolis.

The Salukis beat the Titans 3-2 and 2-6 Saturday to open the series on consecutive game pitching performances by Scott Watejame and Iron Hodges’ one hitter.

The only ballyhoo off Hodges came on a misjudged pop fly that fell in front of shortstop Stan Mann.

Sunday it was Jim Bokelmann who went the distance, dumping the Titans 4-1 and eliminating them from consideration to the District V playoffs. Hodges finished its season with a 24-22 record.

Bokelmann (9-2) allowed eight hits but got good clutch-bitting support from his teammates. With the Salukis trailing 1-0 in the second inning, center fielder Mike Wilburiu, Claude Crockett and Stan Mann tied the game.

The Salukis were given the go-ahead run in the sixth when Steve Shrarter was safe on a two-base throwing error and scored when a Titan pop attempt sailed into center field.

Mitchell’s two-out, two-run single in the ninth gave the Salukis all the insurance they needed in holding on to win 4-1. Bokelmann struck out five and walked one.

In addition to the District IV playoffs have been announced and the tournament will have the same four teams that finish first in the Big Ten this year. Big Ten champ Minnesota will host the playoffs, beginning Thursday and ending Saturday.

Miami (Ohio) will take on Cincinnati in the first game at 1 p.m. and Big Ten champ Michigan against Illinois State, starting at 3 p.m.

This is a challenging schedule which should test our team early,” said Saluki coach Paul Lambert who revealed the slate.

“We made the schedule with our fans and students in mind.”

“Only one game ‘against Samford, Jan. 21 will be played at home when school is not in session,” Lambert said.

“We are following a plan to bring the best possible teams to Carbondale and maintain our traditional rivalries as well.”

The Salukis open at home against St. Mary’s (Tex.) and play Missouri Western (Lawrence) and Tennessee-Martin Friday at the SIU Arena before the holiday vacation.

Rounding out the 12-game home schedule are Detroit, Oral Roberts, Western Illinois, St. Louis, Evansville and Creighton.

Southern Illinois will visit Creighton, Illinois State, Evansville, St. Louis, Missouri, Missouri Tech, Illinois State, Tennessee, Michigan, Stetson, Detroit, and West Texas State.

Joining the Salukis in the Vanderbilt Classic are Austin Peay, the Ohio Penguins, the 1973 NIT champ, and host Vanderbilt, the Southeastern champ.

2 youths, aging veteran top New Orleans squad

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Two youngsters with potential and an aging veteran head the 13-player squad chosen by the New Orleans franchise in the National Basketball Association expansion draft Monday.

Center Dennis Awtrey, 26, averaged almost 53 per cent from the field for Chicago last season, playing as a reserve. And forward E.C. Coleman, 24, a first-year man out of Houston Baptist, hit 51 per cent in a starring role for Houston.

Walt Bellamy—at 35 the oldest player among the picks—came to New Orleans as an acknowledged part of the trade with Atlanta for guard Pete Maravich earlier this year.

“From our standpoint, we’re thrilled at those two picks,” said franchise President Fred Rosenfeld.

“With Pete, we would not have taken Menninger,” he said. “In regard to Kauffman, we have checked with doctors, and so have they. All I can say is he didn’t play much last year.”

New Orleans is the sixth stop since Bellamy came into the league with the Chicago Bulls in 1963.

Rosenfeld said the veteran center won’t be with the new franchise long if he doesn’t hustle.

“He’ll have to make the club like anybody else,” said the California attorney.

Gibson relying mainly on experience

ST. LOUIS (AP)—”He doesn’t care about the pain. He just can’t push off his right leg as well as he’d like,” said St. Louis Cardinal Manager Red Schoendienst, referring to struggling veteran Bob Gibson, who at 36 may be in his final season as a leading National League pitcher.

The one-time possessor of a blazing fast ball, Gibson has relied mainly on the experience of his 16 baseball seasons to establish a 3-3 record this spring.

His earned run average is an almost embarrassing 4.99 and his modest strikeout total of 26 in 55 innings compares unfavorably with an equal number of walks.

Whereas Gibson, prior to 1974, had completed 56.3 per cent of his 435 career starts, his removal after 8 1-3 innings of a 6-5 victory Sunday over the Chicago Cubs represented the seventh time in eight tries this year he has failed to go the distance.

“Dr. London says he can’t hurt it,” Schoendienst said in respect to team physician Stan London’s appraisal of Gibson’s scar-swellen knee. “It’s just the idea that it’s not strong.

Pirates’ big bats catching air as club record plunges

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Forget the Pittsburgh Pirates’ inconsistency, their offensive lapses and Ngo-boo-boos on the bases. The one constant in the past major league record season is the main reason the 71 World Series champs have the worst record in major league history.

“This isn’t the Pirate ball club everyone expected,” said manager Danny Murtaugh.

What's wrong with the Pirates? They’ve scored just 272 runs to date, 80 below their record pace. They’ve scored 151 runs in 135 games, 113 runs behind the also-rans.

“Poor pitching has been a consistent as we would like, but basically we have had good enough pitching,” Murtaugh said after his series in which Pittsburgh scored just six runs in losing two of three games to the Cardinals.

Pitching averages don’t really reflect the Pirates’ offensive punch behind the Pirates’ 12-22 record and last-place standing in the National League East, a distinction the Brooklyn Dodgers held last season until last season.

“Some nights we’ve scored 272 as a team with six starters batting better than .300, but they’ve scored more than three runs only 14 times,” Murtaugh said.

“The big inning has always been a trademark of this team, but we haven’t been getting it,” said left-fielder Willie Stargell, last year’s major league leader in home runs and RBIs.

“I know I have a job to do and that recently I haven’t done it,” added Murtaugh.

Harold Baines, 24, a right-handed pitcher for Oral Roberts, will be the starting pitcher in two of the three games.

Baines averages better than the offensive punch behind the Pirates’ 12-22 record and last-place standing in the National League East, a distinction the Brooklyn Dodgers held last season until last season.

“Some nights we’ve scored 272 as a team with six starters batting better than .300, but they’ve scored more than three runs only 14 times,” Murtaugh said.

“The big inning has always been a trademark of this team, but we haven’t been getting it,” said left-fielder Willie Stargell, last year’s major league leader in home runs and RBIs.

“I know I have a job to do and that recently I haven’t done it,” added Murtaugh.

Nagy sent down

Nagy, 24, a 24-year-old right-hander, was optioned to the minors.
