Southern to Offer Future Springfield College Its Services

SIU will offer its services in the establishment of a new college in Springfield, according to Robert W. MacVicar, vice president for academic affairs and acting president in Delyne W. Morris' absence, question was raised after the Faculty Advisory-Committee of the Illinois Board of Higher Education voted that the new senator college be governed by the Illinois Board of Regents.

On Nov. 9, the SIU Board of Trustees needed to ask permission of the Higher Board for Southern to develop the school for the first five years of its existence.

MacVicar said the decision of the Faculty Advisory-Committee Monday was not unexpected, considering the composition of the committee.

He said that the two pro-government bodies were in disagreement. Another governing body could take over after SIU's initial period. MacVicar said he still believed that the administration of the new school by an established institution for the first five years would be in the best interests of the state.

MacVicar will discuss the matter further at a college presidents' Committee on-Collaboration meeting Friday in Chicago.

United Fund Drive

With 40 units out of 150 yet to report, the SIU section of the Carbondale United Fund has collected $14,180. The goal for the campus campaign is $21,000.

Ray Karnes, campus coordinator for the United Fund Drive, said, "We expect to reach the goal. Collections now are running ahead of last year at the same time, even though we began the campaign three days later this year."

The campaign on campus began Oct. 17 this year. The Karnes asked that invitations be turned in by Dec. 15.

The campaign in the city of Carbondale has collected approximately $36,000 of its goal of $55,242. In the city, advance gifts totaled $19,500, but many firms and offices began their collections yet, Carbondale headquarters reported.

Egyptian Staff Member's Election Contested in Student Senate Move

The election of Dennis Nix to a seat in the Campus Senate has been contested and will be presented to a Judicial Board for a recommendation.

The action was initiated at the Senate Wednesday night after Student Senator Gary Krischer charged that Nix had used unethical means to gain office in recent senatorial elections.

He said that an editorial written by Nix had appeared in the Daily Egyptian the day previous to the balloting. He also noted that Nix is an employee of the paper.

Nix replied that he had not written an editorial but had written a letter to the editor which he felt was his right as a student. He said that a coincidence had resulted in the letter appearing when it did. Nix confirmed that he is a pro-reporter and cartoonist but denied taking part in the layout of the editorial page.

In other action, the Senate heard a report from Larry Mandel, who announced that the Illinois Department of Registration and Education is sending an investigator to look into the alleged misuse of escrow accounts by some Carbondale Realtors.

He explained that an escrow account is one in which money is given to real estate brokers for deposits and is entrusted to them for guarantees of tenancy or damages. Mandel said that certain parties are not sticking with this policy.

Senator John Foose, head of a committee for student work reform, reported that progress is being made in a campaign for better wages and working conditions.

He stated that Robert Adams, head of the student work office, has been cooperative and had forwarded much pertinent information to the committee. An ad hoc planning committee is scheduled to meet later this week, according to Foose.

Foose also took the opportunity to object to University officials withholding pay-checks if students have outstanding library fines, housing payments or loan payments.

"The latest information I have on this procedure is that wages of public employees cannot be withheld," Foose declared. "The fact that the debtor is a student subjects him to the harsh punishment of withholding wages."

Wilbur Moulton, dean of students, announced that Mrs. Carol Kasper has been named as an adviser to Off-Campus Housing. She will serve in a liaison role between student government and the Housing Office, according to Moulton.

Daily Egyptian reporter Charles Springer Wednesday night took issue with Campus Senators who were criticizing the newspaper's coverage of Campus Senate activities.

Springer's comments were made at the senate meeting after an amendment to the agenda allowing the action was accepted by the body. Springer's remarks were prompted by a rumor that attempts would be made to pass a resolution banning him as a reporter from senate proceedings.

Criticism of previous reports in the Daily Egyptian concerning the campus Senate had been aired during the meeting by Gary Krischer.

"Sometimes I wonder if Senator Krischer is running for editor of the Egyptian," Springer said. "It appears to me that anyone writing anything contrary to the opinion of "his group" meets with an immediate dressing down of character."

He added that reporters are not expected to write "as" and as student representatives, the senators are expected to take criticism.

"If the Senate is doing what is considered less than constructive, the (reporters) have no other choice than to write about it. We (reporters) are obligated to print what you say," Springer told the senators. "It if gets you into trouble or makes you look bad, then you have no one to blame but yourself."

SIDEWALK AT LAST—Workmen Jim Moore, left, and Gene Simmons finish concrete on a stretch of sidewalk near the point where two SIU freshmen were killed by a car Sept. 22 in the 300 block S. Wall St. The deaths of Christine L. L. Olson, 18, Urbana, and Brian E. O'Malley, also 18, Hillside, prompted Carbondale city council to order the walks along S. Wall St. Progress is at the rate of a block per day.

State Deans, Counselors Open Conference Today

Committee meetings today at the Holiday Inn will open the 4th annual conference of the Illinois Association of Women Deans and Counselors. The three-day conference, with the theme "Open a New Window," will attract representatives from elementary schools, junior and senior high schools and colleges and universities throughout Illinois.

Registration begins at 9 a.m. Friday morning in the Gallery Lounge of the University Center. Friday morning highlights will include a slide-film presentation entitled "SIU—Complexity and Change," which will be shown from 10 to 11 a.m. in Ballroom B of the University Center. Campus tours are also planned.

The first general session at 2 p.m. Friday in the University Center Ballrooms will feature talks on innovations in education. Mary E. Harrison of the University of Illinois will preside.

Speakers will be Gary Lonnon of Decatur Lakeview High School, Diane Callin of Pemont High School and Jack W. Graham, coordinator of the SIU College Student Personnel Graduate Studies program. Other activities include discussion groups headed by Patricia McKinney of Culver-Stockton College, Mary K. Dewey of Eisenhower High School in Blue Island and Virginia Palmer of Illinois State University.

THE ASSOCIATION president, Mariam Fager of Providence West High School will preside at a business meeting in the afternoon.

OLIVER J. CALDWELL, dean of the Division of International Services, will address the group on "American Women in World Affairs" at the evening banquet in Ballroom B of the University Center.

"Communications and Decision Making" will be discussed Saturday morning by Maude A. Stewart, professor of psychology at Ohio State University and Virginia Moore, assistant dean in the Division of Student Affairs, is in charge of registration and publicity.

Lois K. Olt, assistant dean for married, graduate and commuter students, is chairman of the committee on local arrangements.

This is the first year the conference has been held in the southern part of the state.

Professor Verduin Will Talk On Nation-Wide Radio Series

Jacob Verduin, professor of botany at SIU, has been invited to talk in a national radio series sponsored by the Michigan State University radio station, WKAR. The series, which consists of 10 half-hour programs, brings together prominent scientists, educators and government officials to discuss the impact of modern science and technology. Subsidized by a grant from the Louis W. and Maed Hill Family Foundation of St. Paul, Minn., the program will be distributed throughout the country through the National Association of Educational Broadcasting.

Verduin, a specialist in aquatic plant ecology, limnology and radio-biology, will discuss the problem of water pollution and public attitude toward the problem. Taping of the talk has been set for Dec. 14 in Carbondale.

Verduin was chairman of the biology department at Bowling Green (Ohio) State University. He previously served as chairman of the botany department at the University of South Dakota, and also was on the faculty of Ohio State University.

Zoologist Award To be Established

On Annual Basis

Establishment of a memorial award in zoology in memory of the late Richard R. Kudo, who served as distinguished visiting professor at SIU from 1958 until his death June 3, 1967, has been announced by the SIU Foundation.

The award, perpetuated by the income from a $1,000 fund established by friends and family, is for an outstanding thesis or dissertation by a graduate student recommended by full professors in the Department of Zoology.

Kudo, born in Tokushima Prefecture, Japan, graduated with a degree from the University of Tokyo and became an authority on the parasitic protozoa.

Contributions to the Kudo fund may be made by sending checks to Robert Gallegly, treasurer of the SIU Foundation.

Letters to the Editor:

Be Social and Individual

To the Editor:

Just a short note to Maureen Morris, who is of the opinion that the "vast majority of today's college students are of-type of their parent, friends, teachers, books, etc. Sit down, Maureen, and "ponder," (if I may use the term, how is it that all the hippies, the LSD-takers, the rioters got to be the way they are? They all seem to be stereo-typed, too.)

One night, not too long ago, I took my wife to a science-fiction movie at Davis Auditorium. In there we felt like the minority. There were more of the so-called "hippies" with their blankets, their engine boots, their long hair, their odd-shaped glasses and their beards than there were of the so-called squares. They were rowdy, and although there was some noise, there was no time for humor in the movie, I should have supplied an unwanted commentary to the few members of the "vast majority of its peers."

We were the minority, and I was glad in this case. Were they actually looking at the "deep sides of life and death" while ruinig the show for the few who were also interested in seeing an early science-fiction movie? I have no prejudice against their long hair, nor against how they dress, nor against how they feel. But when you ask me not only to tolerate, but to respect people who have no regard for others, that is where I draw the line. In this case, as in any other, there were probably only a few who caused most of the trouble, but they ruined the image of their "deep thinking, pondering, realistic selves.

You speak of individualistic rather than hackneyed expressions. You used one in your own writing, and it can be used against you. The phrase comes in quotes from many mouths, both hippie and conformist, "Learning is a continuing process."

If a person cannot use his past experiences, relationships, books, teachers, religion, etc., to base his beliefs upon, just what do you suggest he base them upon?

Man is a social animal. He must have man about him if he is to function. Whether the people about him are hippies, drug addicts, college students (of the "vast majority" species), ditsy diggers, or what-have-you is up to the individual, he may choose. Do you hate mankind, Maureen? Are we all stupid, conformists? Then do you hate your own conforming "hippies"? Are you not human? Humans are social. In a social society the important thing is to help and live with others. Do you want to be alone, selfish, thinking of only the "basic realities of life and death"?

Wake up, Maureen, and stop being a hermit, You are a social animal. Don't burrow into the depths of life and death so often that you lose contact with yourellow man! Use some of the thinking power to get you somewhere, make yourself useful, try to be a social being. Hippie, or a ponderer, a rioter, or a "sit-in'er" to be an individual! Kenneth A. Patrick

Morals Amiss

Recently while standing at the Information Desk of the University Center, I placed my dripping umbrella against the wall not more than four feet from me while I wrote a check. Within the time it took to write the check, my umbrella was "borrowed" by some one who preferably did not get wet, but unfortunately forgot his umbrella, fortunately for him as he imagined.

There has been considerable ink expended, time consumed and emotion aroused over the subject of the morality of war in Vietnam and the morality of our national issues. I suggest that the concerns over morality be directed more to our own campus. Lift ing an umbrella owned by some one else is plainly stealing and is immoral. Morality is reflected in the treatment of one man to another. Morality begins at home, more specifically, it begins with responsible individuals.

Compulsory Concert

To the Editor:

November 10, saw an unfortunate blind date between the Pepsi-generation and Bach. The question is whether these two are going for an audience in which both majorities are present. I'm sure too many people are going to go along with the majorities who were probably more emotion ally and intellectually suited to a show of this nature.

The question one asks is who would be so foolish as to line up behind Senator Sabatin and Miss Go? The answer seems to be that the ever-multiplying number of young people who are being a lonely old man and has to bridle the teenage boppers into lists ening and appreciating music. The question is that no one will listen to him anymore.

These kids are evidently required to attend a certain number of compulsory events, and when you think that they will grow to love him if they listen to his whisperings, you are newborn. Anyhow, they come and provide the worst group from the point of view of the person who wants to hear the music comes once or twice and then decide they want to hear the music come again and listen to records."

Forget the kids, old man. Some of them will come but give them a little time; let them come to at least three events. After that, there still are people who will attend because they want to. Wouldn't you really prefer power people but have them all listening?"
Don’t Forget The Guy Who Works For It

By Robert M. Hutchins

As every educator knows, people do as they are expected to do and become what they are expected to be.

Children on the high plains of Africa are shepherds at the age of 10. Young people on the high plains of Colorado are in college at the age of 21. Both groups are where they are because that is where they are expected to be.

If the traditions and resources of Kenya were the same as those of Colorado, the African children would go on to college and do about as well as the American children do.

This is why the system of “tracking” in the American schools, by which the “bright” students are likely to have little education; they will often be hostile, or at best indifferent, to the school. They will have given the child little of the background he needs in order to get off to a good start.

A child who can read and count by the time he goes to school has an enormous advantage when he arrives there. He will be placed in one of the higher tracks, and, since he will be expected to succeed, he is likely to do so.

The same principles apply to welfare. If the recipients of public assistance are looked upon as a sedentary criminal who has defaulted on his obligation to society, if he is regarded as a lazy incompetent who is out to cheat the government, then he is likely to acquire the unsavory character expected of him.

One of the most pernicious pre­conceptions in our society is that people who are not earning enough to support their families are not entitled as a matter of right to anything.

As a matter of charity they may receive enough to keep themselves alive, and they should be grateful for it. But they cannot complain the most outrageous indignities perpetrated upon them by a benevolent bureaucracy.

The infamous practice of “bed­checks” conducted on nighttime raids for the purpose of discovering “unauthorized males” in the homes of welfare recipients has now been forbidden by federal regulations and declared unconstitutional by the California Supreme Court.

But where did the welfare depart­ments of Kern County and Alameda County in California, which conducted such raids, get the idea that this was a proper or even a legal way of treating American citizens?

They got it, of course, from public opinion. The general view is that people on welfare are supposed to be engaged in the business of curbing the frauds they are trying to commit.

The mass of the welfare recipients in this country—84 million people—are the innocent victims of technological, industrial and social criticism. They are as hung up on the Protestant Ethic that 8.5 million more, who are eligible for assistance under federal law, are not getting it because of the stinginess of the states.

The answer has to be a guaranteed annual income—as a matter of right.

I have been admiring that naked picture of a barely concealed sex job on the front cover of the Nov. 13 Newsweek. It cleaned Newsweek off the record. The cover was “dull,” perpetuates racial discrimination and poverty. The children in the lower tracks are put there early in their educational careers.

They are labeled stupid and of­ficially informed that they are not expected to amount to much. They live up (or down) to these expectations.

For them the school becomes a custodial institution from which they must escape at the earliest opportunity.

Of course, the slum child acts stupid when he comes to school. He confronts an alien culture. His home, if he may be said to have one, is likely to be broken.

If he has parents, they are likely to have little education; they will often be hostile, or at best indifferent, to the school. They will have given the child little of the background he needs in order to get off to a good start.

Carrel Space Demand May Require Change

Increasing demands for carrel space in Morris Library may necessitate shortened periods of availability before another year has passed, according to Harold J. Rath, special services librarian.

Carrels are little sound proof rooms available for doctoral candidates and faculty members who are working on publications that call for the use of library materials, even without these limitations, said Rath, about 95 percent of the carrels are now being shared by two persons.

Floors four, five, and six, upon completion, are scheduled to contain an extra 100 to 150 carrels. Some of the buildings now planned for construction at SIU will incorporate similar facilities. Rath indicated, however, that these extra facilities are not likely to be completed in time to prevent some changes, such as limiting occupancy to one quarter. At present, users are granted two, and often three quarters possession.

Rath concluded that completion of the planned additional carrels will not more than meet the projected needs.

‘Hello, Dolly!’ Tickets Still on Sale,
Two Performances Slated Sunday

Tickets are still available for Sunday’s Celebrity Series production of “Hello, Dolly!” starring Dorothy Lamour.

The two performances Sunday will be at 3:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. in Shryock Auditorium. Tickets are available at the Information Desk of the University Center, Prices are $2, $3, $4 and $5 for student tickets, $5, $4 and $5 for others.

Miss Lamour has the leading role in David Merrick’s production of “Hello, Dolly!” which was first produced in New York in 1964.

To most movie-goers of past years the great musical might just as well be called “Hello, Dotty!”

Miss Lamour (Dotty) has appeared in motion pictures “Road to Singapore,” “Road to Zanzibar,” “Road to Morocco,” “Road to Utopia,” “Road to Rio,” “Road to Ball,” and “Road to Hong Kong.”

Miss Lamour is the latest in the ever-growing roster of stage and screen stars to find the role of Dolly Gallagher Levi in “(Hello, Dolly)” irresistible. She has more than 50 motion pictures including the seven “(Road)” films, she has traded in her sarong for Dolly’s turn-of-the-century bustle.

Teacher Education

The SIU Bulletin on Teacher Education Programs on the Carbondale Campus is now available at Central Publications and the office of the dean of the College of Education.

Policies and procedures found in the bulletin were de­ developed by the All-University Committee on Teacher Education chaired by Robert Mac­ Vicar, vice president for academic affairs. The bulletin has been described as the first clear, concise, complete statement dealing with teacher education programs throughout the campus. Faculty members in education and other disciplines from both the Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses are represented on the All-University committee.

John R. Verduin, coordinator of teacher education who was in charge of assembling the information for the new bulletin, said statements of policy and procedure show, among other things, a change in admission processes including new standards for admission to the College of Education and for acceptance for student teaching assignment. New, admission to retention in, and completion of teacher education programs on the Edwardsville campus are administered by the dean of the College of Education. Previously this could have been done in one of a number of offices. Application forms for admission to the teacher education program will be available at the office of the dean in the Wham Education Build­ing.

The booklet reveals that unconditional admission to the teacher education program can be given with a minimum of 64 quarter hours of work. From 64 to 102 quarter hours the applicant must have an average of at least 3.00; with 103 to 143 quarter hours at the time of application the average must be at least 3.10, and with more than 143 it must be at least 3.20. Before beginning a student teaching assignment the student must have a cumulative grade point average of at least 3.25.

The bulletin also contains pertinent information on conditional admission to the teacher education program, certification, student teaching requisites, professional education requirements and elec­tives, general requirements, and requirements in the major teaching areas.

graphy at SIU view one of a series of five "how-to" films produced especially as self-instructional aids to photography students by Calvin Lane, a senior photography major from Carbondale. The students are Joe De Natale of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Steve Mills of O'Fallon. The film series deals with the handling of various types of cameras and the splicing of motion picture film. They were produced under the direction of Prof. Howard Eilers and Prof. John Mercer of the SIU Department of Photography.

Phys Ed Chairman Gets Honor Award

Edward J. Shea, men's physical education chairman at SIU, is one of five 1967 Honor Award recipients an­nounced in Chicago recently by the Illinois Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation. Shea was named an honor fellow in recognition of outstanding service at the local, state, and national level. Others receiving this award were Nick Milo.iser of Ottawa, Eleenor J. Gamble of Evanston, and Edgar Sellers of Park Ridge. Wilbur R.L. Trimpe, Madison County superintendent of schools, received the general award, given persons in education.

Two Interviews On WSIU-TV

An interview with Dr. H. H. Rohrer, director of the Jackson County Department of Public Health, will highlight this week's "Spotlight on Southern Illinois," to be seen Thursday evening at 6:30 on WSIU-TV, Channel 8.

Dr. Rohrer will discuss the disease Salmonella which is carried by small pets and domestic animals such as babyturtles and chickens. Also featured will be Donald Grate, Underwood’s reporter for the St. Louis Post­ Dispatch, who will tell some of the difficulties involved in covering the daily activities of the international organization in New York City.

McNamara Announces Resignation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara announced Wednesday night he plans to resign as chief of the World Bank when work on the new military budget is completed next month.

Within minutes, President Johnson followed up with a statement confirming McNamara’s plans, praising his seven years in the job and declaring major defense politics are clearly defined for the next defense chief.

“The course of our paricipation in the war in Vietnam is firmly set,” McNamara said. “It is one of my closest colleagues and valued friends.”

The President thus obviously moved quickly to counter speculation that McNamara’s departure might lead to a harder line in Vietnam.

The Chief Executive said that while no precise date has been fixed for McNamara’s departure, “I have asked him to resign at the earliest possible time in order to continue working on the military program and financial budget for fiscal year 1969.”

That budget will be submitted to Congress in January.

Get out of the smoke and take the view of the world. Specialized services, such as the growing specialized service industry, are valuable in bolstering the economy of their communities.

David J. Luck, professor of marketing in the School of Business, said that "smokestack chasing" should not necessarily be the prime goal of community efforts to bring in industry.

Part of Campus Since 1950

SIU's Barracks to Fade Away

The tremendous growth of SIU in the past 20 years has caused many problems. One of these is acquiring, single classroom, office, and storage space. This demand has been met by SIU using temporary buildings. But how temporary are they?

Wallace G. Richardson, University Architect, said, "Most of the buildings constructed around 1950 for veterans to be used as temporary family apartments, but they are still here."

Presumably, there are 203 temporary buildings on campus, of which 35 are barracks. The remainder are houses that SIU has purchased as needed.

They are removed when new permanent buildings are built. This past summer, 30 houses were removed and more will be removed in the future to make room for the new Administrative Building. These barracks were removed for the new Life Science Buildings. Of these, four were demolished and three were relocated because they contained expensive laboratories.

Eighteen houses were torn down along Mill St. for the construction of Loop Road Number One, which is essentially the Campus Drive semicircle. More temporary buildings will be taken down as Loop Road is completed.

Plans have been made for the removal of 27 more temporary structures with the construction of other permanent buildings such as the Communications Building. Additional which will make possible the removal of the journalism barracks.

Rino Bianchi, administrative assistant to the Vice President for Business Affairs, said, "Our goal is to remove all of the temporary buildings within the circumference of Loop Road within five to 10 years. But the temporary buildings in the outlying areas will be with us for a long time because SIU has a land acquisition program. The buildings are a symptom of growth and expansion and lack of time and finances, the temporary buildings are truly a necessity. They are easy to obtain and far cheaper than the permanent buildings." Robert L. Marlow, Superintendent of Building Maintenance at the Physical Plant, said, "The cost for maintenance of the temporary buildings is 48 cents, per square foot per year."

Although some of the temporary buildings that are removed are relocated, many are scrapped and a few are sold. SIU, like many other growing universities, is doing its best to beautify the campus and still meet increasing demands of enrollment for education.

a marked shift in economic base during the past 15 years, whether the situation be viewed locally, regionally, or nationally.

"Services have been experiencing a nearly constant, though gradually increasing in the share of total expenditures," he said. "Today they have risen to 44 per cent of consumer expenditures. Continuation of this rate will find more than half the consumer dollar going into services around 1980."

He said the United States is becoming the first predominantly service economy in the world, and since the labor involved in services is approaching 64 per cent of the total employment nationally, many areas and cities may be expected to have 70 to 80 per cent of their employment in services.

Student Affairs
Announces
Duty Changes

Wilbur Moulton, dean of students at SIU, has announced changes in the Student Affairs Division that assigned new duties to two staff members: Loretta K. Ott and Irvin W. Adams.

Ott was named assistant dean of students for commuter, married, and graduate student services this fall. Function of the office is to learn the needs of the students and work on ways to meet those needs. Assistant Dean Mrs. Ott is Lee Chonewitz and Ed Beasley, Chonewitz, former head resident of Group Housing at the university, is working on the office.

Adams, who has been assistant dean on Moulton's central staff, will serve as assistant dean for off-campus housing. As dean for single, undergraduate students in off-campus housing, Adams has responsibility to approved off-campus housing and for the welfare of the students who live in this classification of housing.

Touring Theater
To Present Play

The SIU Touring Theater will complete the current season with a presentation of "In White America" at 8 p.m. Friday in the University Theater.

"In White America," together with the theater's play, "Royal Cricket of Japan," was presented in 20 communities September and November.

Students participating in the 15th annual Touring Theater include: Barbara Barnett, Lorinda Brown, Susan Ayers, Jan Douglas, Joel Evans, Jack M. Fishman, Richard Pelit, Anne Pujol, James Reynolds, and Tony Seminario.

A ROTC Cadets and Angels helped solicit on the house-to-house drive for the Tri-C (Cambria, Carterville, and CRAIS) United Fund recently.

Cadets participating were Russ Berry, Jim Lukasiew, Joe Stover, Marcel Koper, Bruce Parks, Tom Taylor and Bob Littlehale.

ROTC莉gies taking part in the drive were Jan Reel, Gloria Green, Pat Hutton, Jan Pinnock, Shila Gibbs, Pam Huggins and Carol Maline.

Chemist to Give Paper at Meeting

D. W. Solcum will present a study of the initial results of a new reaction on the B-phenethylamine system at a regional meeting of the American Chemical Society in Atlanta on Dec. 1.

Phenethylamine derivatives exhibit a wide range of compounds known for their hallucinogenic and adrenergic properties.

Co-authors of the paper are T. R. Engelmann and C. A. Jennings of the Department of Chemistry.

Applications Made Available
For Model United Nations

Delegates applications are available for the 10th annual Model United Nations to be held Feb. 15-17, according to Hedray Aminasala, secretary general of the Model UN Committee.

Applications are also available for the steering committee members. Both forms may be picked up at the Information Distribution Center in the University Center.

The deadline for delegate applications is Dec. 15. Steering committee application forms must be turned in by Dec. 6.

"This is the first time that the Model U.N. will be national," Aminasala said. "Delegations from colleges and universities across the country will be invited to participate."

Aminasala said all SIU students in good standing are eligible to participate.

"Students will have five choices of countries they would like to represent," he said. "The steering committee will attempt to give them their first or second choice.

Ambassadors and junior diplomats from the United Nations have been invited to participate in SIU's Model U.N. as advisers.

Educator to Give Memorial Lecture

Dr. Harold Spears, nationally known educator, will deliver the annual Harlan Denman Memorial lecture at SIU Dec. 4 at 8 p.m.

Spears, former president of the American Association of School Administrators, recently retired as superintendent of schools in San Francisco, will presently be a visiting professor at Indiana University, will speak on "America's Search for the Common School."

The program will be held in Ballroom A of University Center.

The memorial lectures are supported by a sustaining fund administered by the Southern Illinois University Foundation.

The fund is made up of contributions in memory of Harlan D. Beem, faculty member in the SIU department of educational administration and supervision who died in 1964.

The fund was established to support a continuing series of lectures at SIU as a contribution to the advancement of educational administration.

SIU Group Plans Extensive Probe at Learning Problem

An intimate exploration into a better environment for learning will be sought by participants of "Project Peers" which begins at 1 p.m. Saturday on the Carbondale campus.

The project is sponsored by the Center for the Study of Leadership Related to Learning, located at temporary headquarters at 108 E. Grand. Overseeing the operation is Don Benson, head of the Educational Affairs Commission of the Student Government.

Benson says that noted social scientists, economists and educational reform leaders will be invited to participate in the program during the year. He also noted that the meetings will be open to all students, faculty and administrators who are interested in developing a more adequate educational system.

Dick Gregory, an SIU graduate and comedian, will meet with the group Jan. 15. He will deal with the need for social change in the United States.

Also invited to speak have been Robert Theobald and Sol Alinsky. Theobald, a sociologist, will speak on the subject "Needed: A Conscientious Revolution" while Alinsky will present his ideas on participatory democracy.

The varsity won the Tuesday night game handily, 75-46, but head coach Jack Hartman didn’t want to make any comments on how SIU looked as a team.

“I can’t say how I feel about the varsity because I’m really not sure,” Hartman said. “We’ve just started the season, and in the first game it takes a while for the players to get untracked. There are so many variables in this game, especially with kids.”

The Salukis will go into their first regular game of the season Friday night against Sam Houston State College and will go with the same lineup that they used against the freshmen with the possible exception of center.

Trade Shuffle Sends Aparicio To White Sox

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Luis Aparicio, the veteran shortstop coveted by several clubs, wound up with the Chicago White Sox again Wednesday in a six-player baseball deal that sent pitcher Bruce Howard and infielder Don Buford to Baltimore.

The Orioles, striving to strengthen their pitching staff, gave up the 33-year-old Aparicio, outfielder Russ Snyder and minor league first baseman—outfielder John Matias to get the right-handed Howard and handymen Buford plus right-handed relief pitcher Roger Nelson.

Cleveland pulled another deal Wednesday by sending Chuck Hinton to the California Angels for Jose Cardenal in a swap of right-handed hitting outfielders.

Both the Detroit Tigers and New York Yankees felt they were close to a deal for Aparicio until the final hours when the Orioles were able to get needed pitching from the White Sox for men whom Harry Dalton, Baltimore’s director of player personnel, called expendable.

Hank Bauer, manager of the Orioles, said he expected Mark Belanger, a highly regarded prospect who spent much of 1967 on the Baltimore bench, to take over for the 33-year-old Aparicio.

Bruce Burchko, who started the game, was replaced by Juan Rosborough with about 12 minutes left in the first half. Rosborough was impressive as he hit on three of five shots.

“Juarez is closing fast on the starting center job,” Hartman said. “He’s had good practices last week and looked good against the freshmen.”

Hartman also had praise for Howard Keene, the 6-6, 220-pound transfer from LSU.

“Keene has had real good practices of late,” Hartman commented. “He’s getting his timing, he’s getting in shape, he’s got the good hands and he’s a good passer.”

“His development may influence a lot of things later on in the season,” Hartman concluded.

Game time against Sam Houston is 8 p.m., Friday. There will be no preliminary contest either on Friday or Saturday.
Ex-Saluki Named Top Lineman

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—A week ago years welled in their University of Tulsa teammates down in their college football defeat by North Texas State.

Today, Jenkins, 6-foot-2, 245-pound native of New Orleans, is The Associated Press College Lineup of the Week for outstanding play in Tulsa's upset of Houston last Saturday when the Cowboys were 100-ranked nationally.

"Man alive, you've got to be kidding," Jenkins said when told of his selection. "I certainly appreciate it, but I don't know what to say, I'm just not able to put into words my emotional feelings.

Jenkins, 21, is a transfer from Southern Illinois who was redshirted last year.

SIU Parachuters In Action
