Homecoming Queen accepts crown at bonfire ceremony

SRI has a Homecoming Queen

Joan Agin, 26, a senior from Fairfield, was proclaimed the 1969 Homecoming Queen at a ceremony and bonfire ceremony outside of the SRI Arena Thursday night.

Despite the fact that the SRI Student Senate had passed a bill abolishing the naming of a queen, Tony Giannelli, director of student activities, said the Senate had exceeded its powers.

The Senate does not have the power to void an election, Giannelli said. That decision is left to the campus judicial board.

No judicial board is in existence at SRI this year.

No members have been appointed. The Student Government Constitution specifies that members are to be appointed by the student body president with the advice and consent of the Student Senate.

At a meeting late Thursday afternoon, a compromise decision was apparently reached regarding the naming of a Homecoming Queen, according to Fred Polivka, president of the SRI Veteran's Corporation which sponsored Homecoming.

Expressing her feelings at the meeting, Pamela Blad, the black finalist in the Homecoming Queen election, said Miss Agin said she would accept the title but would do so in protest of the administration.

Miss Agin will accept the title of queen, participate in all Homecoming activities, but will not wear the crown in defiance of the administration who caused Homecoming activities to be so confused, Polivka said.

Later in the ceremony, Miss Agin told the audience, "I am going to wear the crown."

"This has been an unbelievable experience," Miss Agin told the audience. "I am going to wear the crown."

The entire week has been an unbelievable experience, I've seen hate and lack of communication on campus this week.

"I thought we had worked out an understanding this afternoon, but from the exhibition we witnessed here tonight, I don't think we did."

The exhibition she referred to was a speech made by Shelia Goodsmith, the 1968 Homecoming Queen, who was heckled several times along with Miss Agin, and was also

Education Board's study nears finish

Fiscal experts from the office of the Illinois Board of Higher Education have nearly completed their investigation of authorization and funding of a new University House and guest facility at the Carbondale Campus of Southern Illinois University.

Richard Wagner, deputy director for fiscal planning, one of two men sent to Carbondale by James Holman, the Higher Board's executive director, returned to Springfield Wednesday. Jerry Porter, a CPA and consultant to the Board on fiscal management, said he hoped to complete his work here Friday.

The two men arrived Tuesday night and have talked to numerous University officials and have toured the site of the new building.

"University President Delyse W. Morris pledged the full cooperation of himself and all of his people in assisting our work," Porter said. "We are gathering all information possible concerning the project—the sequence of events leading up to the actual construction, and of course, the building itself. We are talking together all known costs to date and the estimated costs to complete the project."

Porter said he and Wagner talked with University Architect Charles Pulley, University Budget Director Clifford Burger, Physical Plant Director Anthony Blad, and others connected with the project. Porter expects to confer with Edwardsville Chancellor John Rohnacker, who was vice president for business affairs at the time the new facility was planned, and with Warne, a Buffalo, director of the University's fiscal division.

"I understand that normal purchasing procedures were used in acquiring all materials used," Porter said, "such as calling for bids from interested suppliers."

Turning to the financing of the structure to be used as a residence for the University president and a guest house for visiting dignitaries, Porter said, "We want to get an idea of the types of contracts that generated the overhead dollars used in this project."

Pay checks ready

Student pay checks will be distributed today instead of Monday, according to John Batins, office supervisor at the Bursar's Office.

Batins said the checks would be distributed "out of consideration for the students because of Homecoming activities."

Up, up and away

The Engineering Club sponsored a "balloon launching" at SRI Thursday to dramatize Clement Air Week (Oct. 10-25). The scene above took place outside the Technology Building. The purpose of releasing the balloons was to gather information on where air currents carry local pollution. A tag attached to each balloon requests the finder to report the discovery to the SRI Engineering Club. (Photo by Nelson Brooks)

Beauty is only paper deep!

To the Daily Egyptian:

I would like to point out to Joan Agin, Jackie Craighton, Carolyn Sutton and Peggy Allard, that if a woman (or a man) has Greenwood syndrome (or whatever is not defined by the word "cancer") there is no difference between rituximab and beauty. One needs to stop writing about these girls running for Homecoming queen, so I assume beauty is essentially a beauty contest. In fact, among women, the two are often converse proportions, and as perishable as girls may be, I fail to see any beauty in a person who would choose to go on the floor as if she was wearing a beard (yeah, that's the word I want) trees in front of the library or scatter hundreds of slips of paper—far as I can see—just to find out how relatively pretty (mark that word) their friends and thinking really...

As I look out on this mesa right now, all I see is what may very well be an apparent monument to their vanities.

How come.....Well

To the Daily Egyptian:

How come...

We can't get funds for the rebuilding of Old Main?

We have witnessed a cutback in the number of student workers.

We have to assess ourselves $10 per quarter for athletic fees to support need scholarships and improvements?

Construction on the new football stadium has not begun yet.

The lighting for the Andrew Stadium has not been reinstalled since the blackout of '66?

The proposed $400,000 for the Illinois Central overpass has not been used?

There is an increase in parking sticker fees?

There are still so many temporary barricades on campus that were to be replaced by permanent classrooms?

There has been a substantial increase in tuition and housing costs per student?

Chancellor Robert R. MacVicar raised in the Oct. 15 edition of the Daily Egyptian that there was a budget squeeze?

The $11 Board of Trustees appropriated close to $1 million for President Delye W. Morris' mansion abode? Where is this money coming from?

President Nixon's White House West, as he calls it, consists of 21 acres of land including a large estate, Spanish style villa which can be built for just over $1 million dollars. Since when does SUI have to keep up with the Nixons?

Dr. Morris has upgraded this campus with many new, modern structures such as Lammont Hall, Woody Hall, Crimmins Hall, Abbott Hall, and Schneider Hall.

But who needs the Taj Mahal?

Changes must come

To the Daily Egyptian:

"There have been and will be more wars than just the Vietnamese War. The cause of war is in man himself. Are we inherently evil? We have to live with this as individuals."

With these thoughts, one speaker at Wednesday's moratorium, in a two minute speech, raised the real problems of attaining peace.

Perhaps the startling words of Jesus Christ, the religious leader of His own day, "Unless a man is born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God," are relevant to the war in Vietnam. Man is not going to see the kingdom of God and its peace, either here and now or hereafter, unless he experiences a radical change, one which he is incapable of producing in himself.

Without a prayer or a process against a war was good. But, it was not good to pray and then live with a single symptom of man's illness. To pursue peace directly is to have a prayer that includes you. Peace will come only as a byproduct of men resolving their hang-ups with their creator.

As a race and as individuals we who have grown up have to get off our high-level of self-sufficiency, acknowledge our basic imperfection and accept God's help.

His help was very costly to himself and to us. He had to face the pinch-hitting for mankind, by being punished in our place (ever heard of a crucified man?)

As men individually humble themselves and accept this help and march together as brothers, having experienced a new birth, the cumulative effects will be many and good, and one of them will be a lasting peace.

Name of the game

To the Daily Egyptian:

The administration of this University has pulled one of the oldest tricks in the book upon the students of this campus.

The name of this game is the Delye W. Morris housing extravaganza with casts in the thousands, and the costs approaching millions.

It is an expensive game to play and is used by professional men in all walks of life. A simple example is for a salesman to attempt to sell an article, item or project, saying it will cost $ amount of money. After the item or project is sold the salesman (con man) will say: that because of certain hidden expenses the article will cost slightly more than the previously stated price.

This tactic may be overlooked when we are dealing with magazine subscriptions or a pair of shoes, but when the item in question concerns $400,000, and the project is initially of dubious merit to this campus, I refuse to sit back and say passively, "That's life."

Whatever happened to the University Park-Room Towers overpass? Why are there still barricades on this campus? Why are parking decals $65? What happens to the $250,000 student activity fees? Why has tuition gone up by $75 a year per student? When are we going to re-examine the monetary priorities on this campus?!

Remember the words of our leader, "Ask not what I may do for the University but what the University can do for me."

We are sick of playing expensive games when we have no choice in the moves that are made!!

Nixon wants to make draft equitable—needs powers from Congress

By L. Edgar Prine
Capitol News Service
(Last of Four Articles)

WASHINGTON — Two years ago Congress, then in a mood of power, adopted Selective Service’ s proposal to alter a draft that January, the mandamus procedure, President Nixon wants them back. He says he needs them to make the draft "as equitable and as reasonable as we can."

The President proposed an amendment to the Selective Service Act of 1967 last May 13, when no action had been taken by Congress. He followed by those he will be kept to Capitol Hill with a strong plea for early passage.

There’s a saying that “the president proposes but the Congress disposes.” As far as drafting is concerned, it looked very much as though Congress would dispose of Mr. Nixon’s amendment, by ignoring it for the remainder of this session. Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-SC, has called Selective Service “once a place of hearts,” but chances for passage of a new law before the end of the current Congress are slim. However, Rivers also has said he will accept Mr. Nixon’s plan for a draft lottery reform, if the President can prove to Congress it is equitable.

"There’s much other work," Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield says, in effect, Congress is overwhelmed by pressure. Congress probably will lay the amendment aside until next year.

It is a common notion that Mr. Nixon’s hands are tied, Section 5 of the 1967 law is all that instituting a wholly random selection system (because it bars a reversal of the practice of the taking of the inductees in the prime draft pool at any given time), but there are a number of things he can do to bring about reforms if Congress fails, in Defense Secretary Melvin K. Laird’s words, "to remove the roadblocks to random selection."

Mr. Nixon told White House reporters Sept. 19 that he would, if necessary, take "unilateral action by executive order," although this would not accomplish the reforms "as clearly and as fully" as the proposed amendment.

Laid end in the plans the President would put into effect on Jan. 1, 1970, or shortly thereafter is the absence of affirmative action in the law, the date on which, the President, would establish a prime selection groups of 20-year-old and older men, such as students, whose deferments have expired. In the first year of what is being called the "moving age group" system, then in class 1-A who are 20 through 23 also would be included so that no one escapes vulnerability simply because of the age.

2. Reduce the period of time draft vulnerability, and the uncertainty that accompanies it, from seven years to one year.

Thus, a young man would normally enter the draft system during the time he was 19 and leave it in his 20th year.

3. Mr. Nixon feels these steps will be in the right direction, but he would prefer to do more. He spelled out his goals in a message to Congress May 13 in which he said:

"Under my proposal, the government would designate each of the ‘prime age group,’ a different pool of draft eligibles for each consecutive 20-month period of registration.

"The prime age group for any given Selective Service year (the year would not necessarily be calendar years) would contain the registrants who were 19 years old when he became old enough to be drafted.

"Those who received deferments or exemptions would rejoin the prime age group when their deferments expired. (Thus a college student who was deferred would become ‘prime’ again, for purposes of the draft, when he was graduated.) During the first year the new plan was in transition, the prime age group would include all eligible men from 19 to 20, not deferred or exempt.

The President emphasized another aspect of his plan. Each individual, he said, would experience maximum vulnerability to the draft..."

Devil’s Kitchen scheduled to perform at Brush Towers

The Devil’s Kitchen has returned at tonight’s Brush Tower's Homecoming Dance. The band, now San Francisco-based, was originally known in Carbondale as "Old." The four members, Robbie Stokes, Steve Sweigart, Brett Champlin and Bob LaRue are all former SIU students.

During the past 16 months, they have appeared at such places as Bill Graham’s Fillmore West and Chet Helms’ Avalon Ballroom, now known as the Family Dog on the Great Highway where they appeared with the Jefferson Airplane.

Stokes, 20, youngest member, generally acknowledged leader and lead guitarist of the group, is a native Southern Illinoisan. His father, Rip Stokes, is the University photographer and the former director of the SUI Photographic Service.

Sweigart, 21, is the group’s percussionist and drummer. A native of Aurora, he is married and has one child, Champlin, who comes from a military family, is a world traveler at 23. A former folk singer and campus entertainer who sang with Theta Xi-trophied Woody and Co., he is deeply involved with the art of song.

Bob, 26, is a graduate of the SUI departments of design, formerly a member of the Dusty Road Boys, Carbondale’s only bluegrass music group, Bob plays banjo.

Devil’s Kitchen is an unusual group. According to singer, our music speaks for itself. Vastly varied, our influences range from Balinese Gamelan to the Grateful Dead, Country, rock, jazz, blues, soul and folk emerge and anything is liable to happen when Devil’s Kitchen starts cooking their chops.

New science building completion in January

The new Physical Science building is expected to be completed and in full use by the end of Jan. 1970, Cody Russell, project manager said.

The building, a three stage construction consisting of parts A, B and C, will house general classrooms, office space and two auditoriums, according to Rino Bianchi, architectural director for the University Center area.

Part "C" of the structure has already been completed and is now in use, housing classes in chemistry and physics, Bianchi said.

Section "A" will be opened about Nov. 15. This section will consist mainly of office space and six classrooms, Bianchi said.

He also said that section "B" of the building will consist of two auditoriums which will house general classrooms, lectures and films in Physical Science.

SIU conducts overseas research

By Ronnie Maquig

Through overseas grants and contracts, SIU is able to extend its "campus" around the world. SIU receives contracts from the Agency for International Development (AID), grants from the federal government and independently sponsored grants to study and conduct research with overseas projects.

Grants and contracts are administered to the areas of research through the Office of Research and Projects, Fiscal Management Office, headed by Charles Bernardini, assistant treasurer of SIU. At SIU, International Services has two Ford Foundation overseas grants. The Ford Foundation Nigerian Project was awarded Sept. 11, 1964. The amount awarded was $354,000. Ford Foundation Nigerian Project IV was awarded Oct. 16, 1967. The amount awarded was $60,000. International Services has three contracts with AID. Al- gan Institute I Technology, Afghanistan ($1,077,276); National Vocational Training Center, Nepal, ($1,457,576); and the Vietnam Department of National Education, Vietnam, ($2,059,975). The Department of National Education Contract consists of a two-man team from SIU. Earl Caspers is advisor to the Normal College at Que Nhon and Ban Me Thuot. Gene McCree is advisor to the Normal College at Vinh Long and Salgon.

SIU Placement Service seeks new student image

A campaign has been initiated to get rid of the "old myths" surrounding the SIU Placement Service. Bob Hogan, a senior majoring in management systems, is working for A.C. Nelson Company, a national research agency, which is going to try to promote the Placement Service. Hogan said that the "myths," ranging from a feeling among minority group students that they are being discriminated against to feelings among some students that the service is ineffective, have only been about 110 students a week visit the service. "We should be getting from 500-600 students a week," he said.

According to Hogan, of those students who use the service "80 per cent get jobs." The Placement Service will start the advertising campaign to erase the myths because "we aren't getting students for the companies who visit our campus," Hogan concluded.

Saturday kicks off 'Head Start Week'

Carbondale Mayor David Keene has declared Saturday Oct. 31 "Head Start Week" and has asked people to participate and contribute to the program. According to Keene's proclamation, Carbondale must raise 20 per cent of the total cost of the program in order to receive federal funds. The total cost is estimated at $69,000.

The Project Head Start program attempts to raise the cultural and educational back-grounds of disadvantaged preschool children.

Caspers' and McCree's purpose in Vietnam is to advise in the following areas: improving the Normal College curriculum; recruitment, admission, and retention of students; improving Normal College professors' course; and upgrading substandard elementary teachers.

The Higher Education Division of USAID/Sai gon coordinates the efforts of the SIU advisors. Periodic reports, according to an agreed format, are provided to the advisors to both the Higher Education Division of USAID/Saigon and SIU. These reports provide the basis for identification of problems and the determination of further priorities. SIU furnishes most of the manpower for the different areas of research, but also hires many non-faculty personnel.

Detective testifies he witnessed Rennie Davis incite crowd to riot

CHICAGO (AP) — A Chicago detective testified Wednesday that Rennie Davis, an alleged demonstrator to fight police during street demonstrations accompanying the 1968 Democratic National Convention, Davis and several others were charged with conspiring to incite rioting during the convention.

The witness, Andrew Rodriguez, said he saw Davis on Aug. 27, shortly after midnight, outside Lincoln Park.

The police had just cleared about 2,500 demonstrators out of the park, Rodriguez testified. Policemen lined one side of the street bordering on the park and demonstrators were on the other side.

"Let's fight the pigs," the witness quoted Davis as shouting to the crowd, "Let's get 'em! Let's go! Let's go!"

Rodriguez said he saw 10 or 20 objects thrown toward policemen before and while Davis was allegedly shouting.

The police line swept toward the demonstrators, Rodriguez said, and the majority of the crowd ran. Some stayed, he said, "fighting or struggling with police."

Davis continued shouting, "Let's go! Let's fight the pigs," as policemen moved toward the demonstrators, Rodriguez said.

During a recess in the U.S. District Court trial, however, Davis told a reporter he was not in the area at the time. He said Rodriguez may have seen him there later but that the testimony about fighting police was "false and fabrication."

Under cross-examination, the defense brought out that Rodriguez's testimony about Davis' activities during another day of the convention contradicted the witness' testimony before a grand jury.

Rodriguez testified in court that on that same march Aug. 26 near the police headquarters, Davis, using a loud speaker, had led a crowd in chanting "Hey! Hey! Ho! Ho!" and "Hail, hail, we won't go."

The witness admitted, however, that in his grand jury testimony he had attributed those remarks only to the crowd and had exonerated Davis from making them.

Rodriguez said he didn't remember Davis' alleged remarks at the time of the grand jury hearing.

"But your memory has come back, is that it?" defense attorney William M. Kunstler asked, "Yes," Rodriguez replied.

Wednesday was defendant Bobby Seale's 33rd birthday and it occasioned one of the frequent outbursts during the trial. Before the jury was brought in from the noon recess, Kunstler asked Judge Julius J. Hoffman for permission for the opposition defendants to present Seale with a cake in court.

"It says welcome back Alums and Parents... also GO SALUKIS!!"

"This is a courthouse."

Judge Hoffman said in denying the request, "and we conduct trials here."

"With that, a cry went up from the Negro spectators, and Judge Hoffman admonished that he would clear the courtroom there were any more disturbances.

"Just sit there and don't say anything," Seale told the Negroes.

"I'll give the orders here," the Judge said.

"They don't take orders from racist judges," Seale replied.

SPORTS FANS

1 BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

by Mike Terry

Here's the story about how the famous Notre Dame "Victory March" was written. (This is the song that starts out "Cheer! Cheer! For Old Notre Dame.") It has become the best known football tune of all time -- and, basically, it was written by a priest, in 1909. One day at a game that season, Father Michael Shan decided Notre Dame's fight song was not up to snuff and began to fashion a better one. At that time, they didn't have bands. After the game, Father Shan went to a piano in a nearby building, but someone was using the piano. So, Father Shan then went to the Sacred Heart Church on campus and composed the song on the organ at the church. His brother, John Shan, then wrote the words. And the rest is history -- a fight song was written on a church organ.

Here's a football oddity. Although there have been many games in high school and college football history in which one team scored over 100 points in one game, 700 true teamed in the National or American Leagues has ever done it. As a matter of fact, none has come close. The closest was ever made by the Chicago Bears in 1927. That record was set by the Chicago Bears in 1927. It does seem odd, doesn't it, that with all the scoring power of his league pro football teams, none has ever come close to 200 points in any game in their entire history.

I bet you didn't know that colleges rank undergraduate life expectancy -- underclassmen and are living five years younger on the campus, i.e., two college terms. The lower death rate of middle age makes possible broader benefits and greater social value of our college men.

Ticket sales criticized

By Harris Jones
Staff Writer

A one-day sellout stunt for the Simon and Garfunkel stage show has raised several student complaints and set an SIU record.

One student said that over 400 tickets were obtained by one group.

After waiting at the 11th hour, a student said they ran out of tickets with five guys in front of me, and then brought more over after the line had dispersed.

Others criticized the news that tickets would be sold at Sav-Mart and Tempo Music Store in Marion.

William D. Justice, manager of the Arena, said "there has never been a stage show here that sold out in one day."

"Under normal circumstances and under a normal stage show, $4.50 and $5.50 tickets would still be left," Justice said.

Things simply happened that were not expected, he added.

"We have no good ticket distribution system, but it can be improved," Justice said.

"The system is under periodic review with the purpose of making it easier to buy tickets and yet be fair to everyone."

Half of the Arena seating (4,400 tickets) were reserved for block tickets.

Working under a lottery system, block ticket requests were drawn from a box.

But the block people didn't buy all the tickets.

About 1,500 $3.50 tickets remained.

Justice assured no block group received more than 200 tickets.

Commenting on the overall division of Arena tickets, Justice explained that the other half went to individual purchasers.

"About 200 were sent to YTL, a few were reserved for Parent's Day guests, and the rest were sold to students at the University Center Information Desk."

Justice said, "When seeing that the information desk was running low of tickets, I sent the 1,500 tickets remaining from the block sales followed eventually by all 500 mail orders.

But at no time was a desk out."

Justice, commenting on the Sav-Mart, Tempo dispute, said tickets are normally sold at those stores one day after SIU's able.

"But that is assuming that the show will not be sold out," he said.

"Neither more received tickets."

Simon and Garfunkel, who are appearing on only one other campus this year, are SIU's third sellout group.

The Supremes sold out the second of third day, and Herb Alpert's show took a week.

SIU Senate bill

Construction suspension urged

The SIU Student Senate unanimously approved a resolution Wednesday night calling for "immediate suspension of construction on the governmental galley," an irreversible commitment of equal funds is made to community and student projects.

The Senate also approved a bill which asked that the Senate become an "acting force in the investigation of the Morris house." The resolution, named "People vs. Palaces," called for an equal amount of funds to be used specifically for community controlled poverty programs for the black and white poor of Southern Illinois, for the Harwood overpass to insure the safety of 5000 SIU students and for other needs as specified by the people in the community.

In other action the Senate endorsed the efforts of the Carbondale City Council in their attempts to annex the SIU Carbondale Campus to the city of Carbondale.

English give SIU lasting token, oaks from Churchill’s birthplace

By Darrell Allston
Staff Writer

As a gesture to strengthen the ties between England and the United States, six oak trees from the birthplace of Winston Churchill are being planted at SIU.

The first of the trees, which are gifts from the Kent Branch of England’s Men of Trees Society, was planted on the east lawn of the Communications Building Thursday.

Taking part in the dedication were Ben P. Tompsett, representative from the Men of Trees Society; President Delrye W. Morris and Howard R. Long, chairman of the SIU Department of Journalism.

Called the Blenheim Oakes, the trees are from acorns from oaks at Blenheim Palace, Churchill’s birthplace. They will be the first Blenheim Oaks on U.S. soil, according to the Men of Trees Society.

“We, on our side of the ocean, love to know that Churchill—one of the greatest of our British statesmen—sent us this token of friendship,” Tompsett said.

Tompsett said SIU was chosen as a site for the Blenheim Oaks because of a recommendation from Mrs. Clemetson, editor-in-chief of the Kent and Sussex Courier newspapers.

In talking with Mrs. Clemetson, Tompsett learned of President Morris’ “great knowledge and love of trees, and how he had conducted her over this fine campus to see some of the tree planting and forestry.”

The trees were to have been planted in ceremonies last year, but the U.S. Department of Agriculture said they had to be observed to quarantine before being planted.

They have been under scrutiny in a section of the SIU nursery and have been cleared for release.

A permanent plaque will be placed at the tree site and will read: “These trees, raised from the great oaks at Blenheim Palace, Oxfordshire, England, birthplace of Sir Winston Churchill, were presented to Southern Illinois University by the Men of Trees Society (Kent Branch) whose chairman, Mr. R.P. Tompsett, planted them on Oct. 24, 1969, to strengthen the ties between our two countries.”

Fun, frolic at Israeli quartet convo

By Mary Frank Staff Writer

The Ayala, a comic quartet from Israel, brought an hour of fun and frolic to Thursday's Convocation in the SLU Arena.

Appearing in conjunction with the United Nations Week, the Ayala performed a variety of numbers which included singing and dancing.

Council discusses crossing

The Carbondale City Council during its formal session Tuesday night decided to seek proposals on a study for a railroad crossing in the northeast side of the city.

The study would be concerned with the possible construction of a railroad overpass or underpass at either Willow, Rigdon-Fisher or Hickory streets.

According to B.J. Schwegman, director of public works, the study would not be inexpensive costing between $12,000 and $18,000.

The recommendation of a railroad crossing study came from the Carbondale Planning Commission.

The commission's report explained that for east-west streets in the northern half of the city to become functional they must cross the Illinois Central tracks somewhere.

Although the councilmen were reluctant to approve a study, they told the city manager to seek proposals from engineering firms and report back. Councilmen William Leaton voted no on the proposal.

Another song presented by the Ayala, which was well received by the audience was "Lily My Love," a song meant to describe the feelings of a soldier at war.

Admitting that their foreign accents presented quite a problem in communication, the group generally performed numbers which were in a language other than English.

The Ayala have appeared in supper clubs from Las Vegas to New York, and also performed in Carnegie Hall, Philharmonic Hall and the Place des Arts, in Montreal.

A coffee hour was held immediately following the program in the River Room of the University Center.

Indian yoga
to visit SIU

A teacher of Yoga, Vimalananda from India, will speak on "The Relevance of the Philosophy of Yoga to Religion" at the Jewish Student Center at SIU at 9:30 p.m. Monday. Vimalananda is associated with the Yoga Society of Andana Marga, in the United States. He is visiting the SIU chapter of the Yoga Society.

Yoga is a school of Hindu philosophy advocating and prescribing a course of physical and mental disciplines for attaining happiness and peace, according to Peter Burger, advisor to the Jewish Student Association on the campus.

Army recruiters
find little opposition

Lt. Earl Fredericks, lead of the U.S. Army recruiting team, said that there had been little opposition to his recruiting team at SIU Tuesday.

The team set up in the Sangamon Room of the University Center.

Fredericks said he and his men were ordered not to recruit on Moratorium Day and not to take part in the event itself. This order was issued to all recruiting teams of all branches of the service, according to Fredericks.

Enrollments have fallen off since President Nixon started withdrawals from Vietnam, Fredericks said. He said they would probably pick up as the United States disengages in Vietnam.

Marketing course will bring executives to the classroom

By John O. Tompkins

Slides, pictures, television microphones and a telephone will be instrumental in bringing the marketing practice into the classroom next quarter, according to James E. Moore, IE instructor in marketing.

Moore said, "The primary responsibility of the educator is to do all in his power to prepare the student for the real world." Following this principle, he said he plans to bring the executives of various firms into the classroom on the telephone and

Dance group is presenting new repertory

The Southern Repertory Dance Company is featuring a totally new program this season with "Parks," "No Exit," and "Zodiac" to be performed Saturday at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 3 p.m.

The shows are free, although donations are accepted, convocation credit will be given.

All three dances are creations of W. Grant Gray, co-director of SRDC along with Elleva Davidson. Gray describes his works as "light and enlightening, except for "No Exit," which is a gut grabber."

"Parks" is a satire on the good feeling that people get from parks," said Gray. "The dance portrays people who neglect the subsurface realities of parks — the rapes, drugs and murder.

"No Exit" is a theater piece done in movement (with no dialogue) on Jean Paul Sartre's play by the same name," said Gray.

"Zodiac" is an interpretive dance work done to the rock music of the group, Zodiac, with accompanying slide projections.

Girl done in by drink

OLDHAM, LANCASHIRE, England (AP) — Jacqueline Kemp, 17, admitted having had 10 pints of beer, five bottles of champagne perny (pear cider) and "a lot more to drink" on the day she shouted at a policeman. She was fined 2 pounds (4.80 dollars) for using obscene language.
Pass-fail system expanding

by Elunda Kelly

The pass-fail system at SIU, which was set up last year in the Colleges of Liberal Arts and Sciences on a two-year experimental basis, is now offered in approximately 25 departments.

Since the system first became available in fall of 1968, over 350 students have taken courses under pass-fail, said D.E. Christensen, assistant dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. All the students in L.A.S., with a 3.25 grade point average or higher may take courses under the pass-fail option.

Students in other academic areas must have the consent of their dean as well as a 3.25 GPA. Only designated courses in each department may be elected for pass-fail.

A maximum of 16 hours, with no more than eight in any other department, may be taken on this grading system. Pass credit may be applied to electives only and cannot be used toward General Studies, major, or minor requirements. If a student changes his major to one in which he has received pass credit, such credit, with the department's consent, will be counted toward the major but will not affect the student's GPA in his major. A student should indicate his decision to enroll in a pass-fail at preregistration. He must fill out a pass-fail option card, bearing his adviser's approval, before registering for a course for a course under this system.

Dropping or adding a pass-fail course involves a regular program change. The deadline for such changes is the last day each quarter for dropping a course without a letter grade. A course taken for letter grade credit may not be repeated for pass-fail, but a course taken on pass-fail may be repeated for a letter grade.

Courses failed under the experimental system will have no effect other than appearing on the student's transcript, said Christensen. No unofficial withdrawals (AI) will be allowed under this option. A student who enrolls in a pass-fail class without an official withdrawal will receive an E. If he processes an official withdrawal, he will receive a WF or withdraw-pasing or WF (withdraw-failing) depending upon the grade he is earning at the time of withdrawal.

Any student with pass-fail courses may be on the Dean's List as long as he has passed twelve hours during the quarter and has the required GPA. Pass credits of a student whose GPA falls below 3.25 will still be counted toward graduation.

Successfully completed pass-fail courses on the 300 and 400-level will be counted toward the 64 semester hours required by the university for graduation. Although courses taken to meet GS requirements may not be taken on pass-fail, a student may enroll in certain GS courses for elective hours after he has completed the GS requirements.

Students taking a course on pass-fail will be expected to complete the same assignments given to students taking the course for a letter grade. A record is kept of the letter grades students taking courses on pass-fail would have received had they taken the courses for regular credit, said Christensen. So far, the majority of these grades have been good. Christensen remarked that these results indicate general attitudes of the students.

Police school graduates 24

Twenty-four law enforcement officers will be graduated from SIU's four-week basic police training institute Thursday.

The program, conducted by the Division of Technical and Adult Education, deals with professional and professionally-related subjects including civil rights, criminal law, techniques and mechanics of arrest and control of crowds and mob action.

Classes are taught by members of the SIU faculty and personnel from the Illinois State Police, Federal Bureau of Investigation and the U.S. Treasury Department.

SIU radio station WSTP plans to resume broadcasts soon

By Dana Brinkley

Tentative plans are now being made to put SIU's radio station, WSTP-FM, back on the air after the station was ordered off the air by the Federal Communications Commission.

John Lathrop, general manager, and Jerry Phelps, assistant general manager, said WSTP was ordered off by the FCC because its frequency was too low for an FM station under FCC standards.

The station operated last spring and several weeks this quarter, Phelps said, that the station will try to get back into operation by winter quarter on an AM frequency.

He will perform works by French composers of the Baroque period and several of his own compositions as well as an improvisation on a submitted theme.

For 36 years Langlais has been professor of organ at the Schola Cantorum in Paris. He also has taught organ, counterpoint and composition at the National Institute of Young Blind in Paris.

In July of last year he received the Legion of Honor from the French government.

Efficiency is increased at SIU Health Service

By Theresa Taylor

The new policy of making appointments at the health service has helped to level off the doctors' loads and provide more time for each patient, said Dr. Walter Clarke, health service director.

"The intent of the new policy is to give more personal care and better care," he said.

Dr. Clarke said that students can alleviate the problem by understanding the reason for the appointments and co-operating with the health service.

He added that the change was made primarily to save students from waiting in line up to three hours to be seen by a physician.

According to Dr. Clarke appointments are made in two categories. The short-term appointments are for illnesses of an acute nature. Disorders that require immediate attention are seen the same day the complaint is made.

Block and Bridle Club schedules a 'real rodeo'

The first annual SIU Block and Bridle Club rodeo will be held at 1 p.m. Nov. 2 at E. T. Simonds' rodeo arena. The rodeo will be supported by the Murdiale Shopping Center on the Ramada Inn.

Admission will be $5 for adults and $2 for students.

Individuals from Southern Illinois will compete in events including steer riding, calf roping, goat roping, ribbon roping and barrel racing.

"Anyone — male or female — may compete in the rodeo," said Clyde Dumphy, president of the SIU Block and Bridle Club. "However, competitors should furnish their own horses.

"There will be an entry fee for each event from which prize money will be taken. Those interested in participating in the rodeo can apply anytime before the particular event takes place, at the arena, on the day of the rodeo.

Prizes will be awarded on the jackpot system to first, second and third place finishers in each event. The amount of prize money available will depend on the number of entries.

Money will then be split 50 per cent, 30 per cent, and 20 per cent, respectively, by the top three finishers. Entry fees are as follows: steer riding $3, barrel racing $4, calf roping $3, ribbon roping $1, goat tying $1.

A grand entry by horses and riders will start off the afternoon activities in true rodeo style," said Chris Stone, co-chairman of the rodeo.

Five-time world champion calf roper, Sam German, rodeo consultant and manager of the Simonds farm, will exhibit his skills.

Trick horses, featured during a break in the competitive events, will make the rodeo complete.

"We've had competitive events in the past, but they were just fun and games for the Block and Bridle Club. This year, though, we've gone all out to make this what we can classify as a 'real rodeo,'" Stone said.

3 on state, national committees

Three SIU representatives received positions on state and national committees at a convention of the Illinois Council for Exceptional Children in Chicago last week.

Richard Nopar, a graduate student from Skokie, was elected the Illinois representative to the national Student Council for Exceptional Children (SCSEC). Vivian Pollock, a senior from West Frankfort, will represent SIU in the state SCSEC.

Marvin Cox, a speaker at the convention, was appointed to a committee to set up a statewide program for emotionally disturbed children. Out is the director of the experimental day school.

SIU sent 62 SCSEC members to the convention held last week.

Hard training makes stars of two SIU runners

By Bob Richards
Staff Writer

Pride, dedication and a will to win have membuat Oscar Moore and Alan Robinson to become two of the top distance runners in collegiate ranks this year. Running has become a way of life for Robinson and Moore, who do their thing twice a day, seven days a week.

Each morning before many students awake, Alan and Oscar as well as the other team members have put in eight miles of roadwork before classes. This overtraining is supplemented each afternoon with speed and repetitive training consisting of 440's on the track, 1,000's on the cross country course or hill work on SIU's rugged practice course near the University farms. Head coach Lew Hartog feels this formula provides his runners with a daily dose of both quantity and quality training.

Moore, came to SIU in 1965 destined to be one of this school's great runners. A native of White Plains, N.Y., he ran cross country through his senior year of high school to earn his school's monogram. From there he served in the Marines, running the obstacle course daily to keep himself in shape. Following his stint in the service he spent eight months running with the Pioneer Track Club of New York competing in long distance races.

Hailing from Sydney, Australia, Alan is one of six foreigners on the cross country roster this fall.

"I enjoy running because I can see improvement through hard work," reflects the tall, soft spoken Robinson. "I began running just before I was 16 because I wanted to find a sport I was good at," he continued.

Both runners comment on the pleasure running can bring besides the pain so many observers associate with the sport.

"In the morning," Moore relates, "I sometimes race rabbits down the path. One time I even saw a fox." Robinson agreed, that being able to run out in the open offers a break.

Oscar, who has come back this year to nearly full strength following an operation on a severely damaged Achilles tendon has drawn praise from coach Hartog.

"Oscar is the most dedicated person I have been associated with here," Hartog says. Moore was told by doctors he would never run again but through gradual training he has regained his ability as a strong runner.

Alan also has been battled by a separation of the sheath and the tendon in his left achilles and still wears a heat pad on it. Hartog comments, "Alan is a great competitor as well as an outstanding person. He has great talent and drives himself hard.

Through puddles, up steep hills and down straightaways, Moore and Robinson have tied for first in three of SIU's five cross country meets this fall setting records in the process. Alan was also the winner in the other two.

This running together has prevented any individual rivalry from developing between themselves as well as the rest of the team. "We are trying to run as a group not as individuals," states Moore.

Oscar and Alan have almost opposite running styles. Moore has what coach Hartog calls a perfect style adding, "It's beautiful, an almost fluid motion." In contrast Hartog calls Robinson's style more choppy and rough but smiling says, "I really can't complain about the results."

Both runners as well as all team members are anticipating the remainder of this years schedule which includes four major invitational meets as well as one dual. SIU hopes in the NCAA meet Nov. 24 are high according to Hartog who rates Robinson a solid candidate to win the meet adding that both Alan and Moore should make the top ten.

Alan, a math major, tentatively plans to continue in graduate school upon graduating in June. He may then go into teaching either in the United States or in Australia. Oscar, living with his wife Angela off campus will graduate this December with an Outdoor Recreation degree. He too plans to attend graduate school and then stay in the Midwest doing community recreation work.

Both runners agree that there is no ceiling on their goals for this year. It is the SIU cross country season for both men at SIU.

Will to win

SIU's pride resides in the combination of Alan Robinson (foreground) and Oscar Moore as they showed their cool down following their dual meet, record-setting performance against Western Illinois. Robinson is unbeaten this year; Moore has tied him three times. (Photo by Jim Summer)

The Salukis stand a good chance of losing Saturday’s homecoming football game with East Carolina University at McAndrew Stadium.

If four sophomores can handle the extra line duties.

If quarterback Jim McKay can again adequately replace injured Barclay Allen.

If sophomore tackle Mark Colvin can hold out for the four weeks the Salukis face.

If Bob Hasberry, leader in yards gained rushing, can again do his thing.

Junior guard Dick Smith broke his foot Monday on a simple agility drill and is lost for the season. Left tackle Earl Collins suffered a bad ankle sprain against Indiana State last weekend, and will miss the 12:30 p.m. kickoff and game this week.

Sophomore Nate Stable will fill the left tackle position. Bob Moritz taking over the duties of Collins in the other tackle slot.

The split end position will be filled by either sophomore Steve Washington or junior Eric King, who has been in the safety slot.

Senior Terry Cochran will be moved from left tackle to take over the tackle position on defense. He is the only true starter of the line with junior Ted Schoch centering the lineup.

Pilling in for Barclay Allen who was injured in the Lamar Tech game two weeks ago in Jim McKay, McCoy was designated as outstanding player of the day in last Saturday’s 29-7 romp over Illinois State. McCoy has passed for 118 yards thus far this season.

The defense must make some adjustments this week to handle East Carolina’s single wing attack, the only one in existence among the major college schools. As Coach Dick Towers puts it, “The defensive burden will...

Frost gridman hurt

Guy Goodman, a member of the Saluki freshman football team, suffered a severe neck injury in Wednesday’s practice, according to freshman coach Mark Bolick.

The coach said Goodman was originally taken to the St. John’s Hospital in Springfield, where doctors feared he may have had a broken neck. He was flown to St. John’s Hospital in Jacksonville, where it was determined that the neck was not broken, Bolick said.

Bolick said Goodman would return to Carbondale today but probably will be unable to play for the rest of the season.

THEIR PIRATE’S RECORD is by no means indicative of their ability. They are 0-4 on the season, but that is partially, if not entirely, due to the caliber of teams they have played. Their losses, none of them entirely one-sided, have been to East Carolina, Temple, LSU, Tech, the Citadel, Furman University, William and Mary, George Washington Davidson, and Virginia Military Institute.
