Temperature Cracks the 100-Mark

Just in case you hadn't noticed, it was hot in Carbondale this past weekend.

The official Carbondale weather station recorded a temperature of 102 degrees Saturday. This is 10 degrees cooler than the record high for the day, which was in 1924.

A spokesman for the SIU Climatology Laboratory said that Sunday was the fifth straight day of 90-degree-plus temperatures. He felt safe in predicting that the temperature would go over the 90-degree mark again Monday.

Sunday the temperature was a cool (?) 94 degrees, but for once no one seemed to notice that there had been a drop of almost 10 degrees in the temperature.

If one can believe forecasters, this is just the start of something hot. Edward M. Brooks, former St. Louis University geophysicist, recently predicted that this area will be unusual

Red Activity Darkens Marine Victory

Viet Road System Nearly Destroyed

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A group of U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese soldiers attempting to ambush them in the Da Nang area Saturday and came out of the skirmish without a casualty, a U.S. spokesman announced.

The spokesman said the Leathernecks had broken the trap on patrol, killed two, wounded one and captured six of the Red garrison.

But coupled with that news was another that South Viet Nam’s land transportation system has been virtually knocked out by a massive Viet Cong attack.

At one point on the main north-south road artery, heavy railroad ties protrude grotesquely from the blacktop highway, where there had been surely buried. Twisted rails are attached to some of them.

They pose a formidable, almost impenetrable barrier to traffic, and serve as the double purpose of a roadblock by the nearby north-south railway.

Along major and minor highways to the east, west, north and south of this point alone, Viet Cong outposts set up as they stretch the length and breadth of Viet Nam.

Inland Vietnamese cities are in a state of economic crisis, and they are reachable only by air or byLexered convoy.

The Marine action near Da Nang, an air center 380 miles southeast of Saigon, was one of many that surged in and around the port city. It was fought by air and by ground units, including a mortar barrage against one government outpost.

The spokesman said the guerrillas initiated six actions within the last 24 hours, and at least 21 Viet Cong dead. Most of this total, however, lacked confirmation by body count.

U.S. and South Vietnamese soldiers had stepped up their harassment activities around Saigon over the weekend.

The spokesman said the guerrillas opened fire on the road between Saigon and Long Tan, a Viet Cong area, and the men who were killed were confirmed by another government source.

More stories on Page 5.

Chekhov, Turgeniev Films at 8 Tonight

Two Russian films will be presented at 8 tonight in the Morris Library Auditorium. The two, “Anna” based on a story by Ivan Turgeniev, and “Anya,” based on a work of Anton Chekhov.

The films are in Russian, with English subtitles. Admission is free and the program is open to the public.

Environmental TV

Gus Bode

Education TV Here to Mark Its 5th Year

Educational television broadcasting will go soon celebrate a birthday, Sept. 13 will mark the fifth year of operation for WSH-TV (Channel 8) and the fifth year of bringing instructional television courses to the many classrooms in Southern Illinois.

Instructional television offers 21 courses in the areas of language arts, French, social studies, mathematics, science and art. More than 30,000 pre-college-level students in 115 area school districts benefit from this program.

The school districts in the program comprise the Southern Illinois Instructional Television Association, which joins with Southern in providing televised instruction.

Area Instructional programs offer direct and supplemental instruction in area schools and are half of the total operations of WSH-TV.

Carl Plontz, coordinator of instructional TV at Southern, said televised teaching up to a point and is a “renewal” and “Exploring Our Language.”

“Where on Earth” is a geographic program. The language program is part of a language arts class for intermediate grades.

Area Instructional programs offer direct and supplemental instruction in area schools and are half of the total operations of WSH-TV.

Four PHOSHERS—Members of Jackson County 4-H Clubs modeled clothing they made for themselves in a Bonn Auction. Among them were (left to right) Jeannette Parnell, Mary Jane Parker, Nancy Sue Parker and Louise Dailey. Miss Dailey and Miss Parnell are from Murphysboro and the Parker sisters are from Carbondale. Miss Dailey will represent Jackson County at the State Fair next month.

(Photograph by Jim Swifftord)

Courage, Quick Thinking

SIU Premed Student Tries Unsuccessfully To Revive Man Stricken With Heart Attack

A Southern Illinois University premedical student tried unsuccessfully to revive a man early Sunday morning.

Richard Nopar, a freshman from Skokie, displayed unusual courage and quick thinking when he came to the aid of the victim and the victim’s companion, officials said.

Nopar said he was leaving a friend’s house on Southern University Avenue and had called a taxi because of the rain. When the cab arrived, Carl Davis of Jonesboro, who had been in the taxi and asked Nopar for help.

He complained of pains in his leg. At the same time he told Nopar that his friend was a several blocks away and that he thought he was the man out.

Nopar said he immediately examined the man’s leg and found no broken bones. At the same time he asked the taxi driver to call for an ambulance.

The driver then took Nopar and Davis to a spot east of U.S. 51, about 150 feet south of Grand Avenue. Nopar said the man, identified as Melvin Morris, 38, of Lack Creek, appeared to be dead, but he administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and massaged the man’s heart in an effort to revive him.

The man said he worked almost 20 minutes over the man, who was then taken to a hospital, where he was pronounced dead. Cause of death was listed as a heart attack.

Nopar estimated that the man had been dead approximately five minutes when he arrived. He said that he knew what he had previously successfully rejuvinated a man in Chicago who suffered a stroke and arrested at an accident scene. He said that he had medical books and is familiar with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. Nopar hopes to become a medical doctor.

Morris and Davis were hitchhiking to Anna on U.S. 51 when they caught a ride from the rain. Hard trees and shrubs off the highway, Davis woke up around half an hour later, the coroner’s report said, and was unable to arouse Morris. He then started back to town along University Avenue after making the attempt to obtain help.

Nopar immediately came to his aid.
SIU Students Learn and Earn Under Alton Firm's Program

Earn money for college! Gain valuable experience! Find out if you are suited for the world of business!

That sounds like an advertisement for some big chance to start on your own in the business world. Doing something like selling can openers or shoes or that good old standby, Christmas cards.

Well, this year it's legitimate. What's more, the program is being sponsored by business firms and colleges and universities throughout the United States. Southern, along with several other schools in the Midwest, sponsors such a program with Alton, Ill.

Under the program students work for a term and then go to school for a term. Howard T. Reed, who has returned to campus for the summer after working in Alton last spring term, said he feels that the disadvantage of taking longer to get through school is far outweighed by the experience he gained.

Reed, who will be a senior at the end of this term, said the program will add about a year to the time required to get a degree. "My courses seem to have more meaning for me now that I have worked a term," he said.

Qualifications for applicants are that they have finished their first year of school at Southern, that they have a grade point of 3.0 or better, and that they be in good standing with the University.

In the three years that the program has been in operation, more than 50 students have taken part. There is no limit to the number of terms that can be worked, or to the amount of time you take to finish school.

Reed said the first job that the students are given is in the production control department. While working there they check the quality of the paper manufactured by the company. If it does not meet specifications, they must call the department head responsible, or other steps to decide what to do with the paper.

Reed said this is good first experience, because it gets the workers in contact with most of the departments in the plant at one time or another.

After one or two terms in production control, students are often assigned to jobs that are in some way connected with their major in school.

This does not mean that only business majors and engineers are working under the program.

"There was a zoology major and a music major working with me last spring," Reed said.

Reed, whose major is personnel management, said students in other majors often take the program to find out whether or not they might be suited to the business world.

"Sometimes they decide to change their major or their field of interest," he said.

The Alton Box Board Co. manufactures various grades of paper from wood chips, newsprint, and cardboard. Their products are used for packaging products such as cereal and beer.

Students interested in the program, and who meet the qualifications, may find out more about it by contacting Harold L. Reents, at the Student Work Office.

9 in Agricultural Industries Work, Learn in Summer Jobs

Nine agricultural industries students are holding summer jobs with various agricultural agencies under a work experience-learning program sponsored by the Farmers Home Administration, the Illinois Crop Reporting Service, a meat-packing company and FS Services, Inc., an Illinois Farm Bureau affiliate.

All are enrolled in a summer term special studies course in agricultural industries. They receive prevailing wages for their work from the cooperating agencies. Besides the-on-the-job supervision they face an oral examination and a written term paper on their work experience before receiving college credit, Wills said.

Kern, Bent and Keyser all have summer positions with Farmers Home Administration in Rochelle.

Serving in summer appointments with the Illinois Crop Reporting Service are Boschek, Helmkamp and Zeller.

Marcotte is employed by the Independent Packing Co. of St. Louis.

Oxford and Kepp have positions in Illinois with county Farm Bureau supply affiliates of FS Services, Inc.

Today's Weather

Partly cloudy and little temperature change expected with a high of 83 to 90 degrees. According to the SIU Climatology Laboratory, the records for today are a high of 110, set in 1930, and a low of 45, set in 1962.

15¢ burgers
air conditioned comfort
"Who could ask for more?"

HOward T. Reed

Moo and Cackle

Published in the Department of Agriculture daily except Sunday and Wednesday throughout the year. Located on the campus of Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, Carbondale, Illinois, 62901. Published on Tuesdays and Fridays of each week for the fall term, the spring term, and the summer term. The opinions expressed in the columns of this paper do not necessarily reflect the views of the administration of any department.

The Board of Trustees reserves the right to refuse to publish any advertisements, articles or pictures that may be contrary to the best interests of the University, or that may be considered improper, or not of a student nature. This publication was entered as second-class matter at the post office at Carbondale, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879, and the post office at Carbondale, Ill. Postmaster, Cancellation of second-class postage permit applica in the Department of Agriculture, Carbondale, Ill.
Possible Diet Enricher

Indian Studies Fungi
As Source of Protein

Devinder S. Chahal, in one of the members of the Department of the University, has discovered that the protein in fungi is a potential source of protein. Since woodpulp and do not contain protein, Chahal, in his research, has found that the protein-laden fungus, when supplemented with inorganic carbohydrates, is capable of growing on woodpulp. This fungus could be grown on woodpulp and used as a source of protein for the production of vegetable protein. Chahal, in his research, has found that the fungus is tasteless and odorless, and forms pellets or flour in the growth culture. He has explained, "These are harvested and dried, and can be mixed with other foods to enrich the protein content."

Chahal is on leave from his post as assistant professor on the faculty of the Punjab Agricultural University in Ludhiana, India. He has visited the United States Department of Agriculture in Washington, D.C., and is to receive additional training in mycology (the study of fungi) to teach graduate students. Chahal explained, "There was a need to study the fungus that can be grown on woodpulp and used as a source of protein."

Chahal, who holds a master's degree in botany from the Punjab University, Chandigarh, has written six mycology papers that have been published in scientific journals. He has been invited to visit the United States Department of Agriculture in Washington, D.C., and is to receive additional training in mycology (the study of fungi) to teach graduate students. Chahal explained, "This fungus is tasteless and odorless, and forms pellets or flour in the growth culture."

Wagon Troupe Gets
Show on the Road

The Carbondale Show Wagons will present an engagement in Murphysboro today for the benefit of several out-of-town appearances. The wagon has been appearing in local schools and neighborhoods under the direction of the Carbondale Park District. It was designed and built by the SIU Department of Recreation and Outdoor Education. The shows will be staged at 9:30 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. on the Lincoln School grounds in Murphysboro.

Joan Baez Sings
On TV Tonight

An hour of singing with Joan Baez, Sonny Terry and the Mississippi Highwaymen, will be played on "Art and Man" at 7:30 p.m. today on WSUI-TV. Other programs:

Job Interviews Set This Week
With IBM, Swift, Donnelley Co.

International Business Machines will send a representative to the St. Louis office to campus Thursday to interview students. The students interested in interviewing with these organizations should contact the Placement Service in Anthony Hall as soon as possible.

Activities

Arabic Class, Films Today

The Summer Programming Board will meet at 3:30 p.m. in Room D of the University Center. Arabic lessons offered by the Organization of Arab Students will begin at 6 p.m. in Room 102 of the Home Economics Building. The Department of Foreign Languages Russian Institute will sponsor a film at 8 p.m. in Morris Library Auditorium.

noon Pilot" will be the children's movie shown at 8:30 p.m. on the lawn at Southern Hills.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

by Bartok will be played, by 6 p.m.

Music in the Air, by 7:30 p.m.

for the production of vegetable protein. "The fungus is tasteless and odorless, and forms pellets or flour in the growth culture," he explained, "These are harvested and dried, and can be mixed with other foods to enrich the protein content."

Chahal is on leave from his post as assistant professor on the faculty of the Punjab Agricultural University, Ludhiana, India. "The proposal was to send a representative to the United States Department of Agriculture in Washington, D.C., and is to receive additional training in mycology (the study of fungi) to teach graduate students," Chahal explained, "There was a need to study the fungus that can be grown on woodpulp and used as a source of protein."

Chahal, who holds a master's degree in botany from the Punjab University, Chandigarh, has written six mycology papers that have been published in scientific journals. He has been invited to visit the United States Department of Agriculture in Washington, D.C., and is to receive additional training in mycology (the study of fungi) to teach graduate students. Chahal explained, "This fungus is tasteless and odorless, and forms pellets or flour in the growth culture."

Wagon Troupe Gets
Show on the Road

The Carbondale Show Wagons will present an engagement in Murphysboro today for the benefit of several out-of-town appearances. The wagon has been appearing in local schools and neighborhoods under the direction of the Carbondale Park District. It was designed and built by the SIU Department of Recreation and Outdoor Education. The shows will be staged at 9:30 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. on the Lincoln School grounds in Murphysboro.

Talent includes SIU Gymnast Dale Hart, folk singer Dave Boucher, banton twirler Cathy Nash and instrumental ensembles.

WHAT'S NEW: A demonstration of igloo building in the Canadian North.

Music in the Air, by 8 p.m.

FORUM, by 11 p.m.

Moonlight Serenade, by Midnight.

EXPLORATION OF BAROQUE MUSIC

An exploration of the music of the Baroque period will be presented by "This Is Baroque" at 8:30 tonight on WSIU Radio.

Exploration of Baroque Music,
U.N. News on Radio Tonight

The Department of Foreign Languages Russian Institute will sponsor a film at 8 p.m. in Morris Library Auditorium.

noon Pilot" will be the children's movie shown at 8:30 p.m. on the lawn at Southern Hills.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

by Bartok will be played, by 6 p.m.

Music in the Air, by 7:30 p.m.

for the production of vegetable protein. "The fungus is tasteless and odorless, and forms pellets or flour in the growth culture," he explained, "These are harvested and dried, and can be mixed with other foods to enrich the protein content."

Chahal is on leave from his post as assistant professor on the faculty of the Punjab Agricultural University, Ludhiana, India. "The proposal was to send a representative to the United States Department of Agriculture in Washington, D.C., and is to receive additional training in mycology (the study of fungi) to teach graduate students," Chahal explained, "There was a need to study the fungus that can be grown on woodpulp and used as a source of protein."

Chahal, who holds a master's degree in botany from the Punjab University, Chandigarh, has written six mycology papers that have been published in scientific journals. He has been invited to visit the United States Department of Agriculture in Washington, D.C., and is to receive additional training in mycology (the study of fungi) to teach graduate students. Chahal explained, "This fungus is tasteless and odorless, and forms pellets or flour in the growth culture."

Wagon Troupe Gets
Show on the Road

The Carbondale Show Wagons will present an engagement in Murphysboro today for the benefit of several out-of-town appearances. The wagon has been appearing in local schools and neighborhoods under the direction of the Carbondale Park District. It was designed and built by the SIU Department of Recreation and Outdoor Education. The shows will be staged at 9:30 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. on the Lincoln School grounds in Murphysboro.

Talent includes SIU Gymnast Dale Hart, folk singer Dave Boucher, banton twirler Cathy Nash and instrumental ensembles.

WHAT'S NEW: A demonstration of igloo building in the Canadian North.

Music in the Air, by 8 p.m.

FORUM, by 11 p.m.

Moonlight Serenade, by Midnight.

EXPLORATION OF BAROQUE MUSIC

An exploration of the music of the Baroque period will be presented by "This Is Baroque" at 8:30 tonight on WSIU Radio.

Exploration of Baroque Music,
U.N. News on Radio Tonight

The Department of Foreign Languages Russian Institute will sponsor a film at 8 p.m. in Morris Library Auditorium.

noon Pilot" will be the children's movie shown at 8:30 p.m. on the lawn at Southern Hills.
Half Staff at Double Wage?

By Robert M. Hutchins

A preponderance of evidence suggests that the American university is a combination of profit mill, center of research and home-sawy province. It is now a university in name only. As Jules Sauretsogt has written in his screed by Jules Sauvageot, "Bureaucracy," the place is a shudder that came from the customers. Daily, I asked Miss Amanda, clapping her hands, "Go ahead!" said with a shudder that came from the customers. Daily, I asked Miss Amanda, clapping her hands, "Go ahead!"

"Stamp out navels!" It was my good friend, Miss Amanda, national commander of the "Commiersat," the super patriotic stamping-out society. And the story is, several laces of her tennis shoes were quarreling with outrage. "My shoe makes me have gone too far this time!" she cried. "Look at this!" With that she drew forth from her reticule a newspaper photograph of Miss Glynn, a fashion model. Miss Glynn's shirt had clearly shrunk in the wash, inflicting with acute gaspats at the microscope. And her belly button glittered! The reason for this phenomenon, said the caption, was that Miss Glynn was modeling the latest fashion accessory, a $350 diamond "navel pin.

Good heavens, I said with a shudder that came from the customers. Daily, I asked Miss Amanda, clapping her hands, "Go ahead!"

"Stamp out navels!" It was my good friend, Miss Amanda, national commander of the "Commiersat," the super patriotic stamping-out society. And the story is, several laces of her tennis shoes were quarreling with outrage. "My shoe makes me have gone too far this time!" she cried. "Look at this!" With that she drew forth from her reticule a newspaper photograph of Miss Glynn, a fashion model. Miss Glynn's shirt had clearly shrunk in the wash, inflicting with acute gaspats at the microscope. And her belly button glittered! The reason for this phenomenon, said the caption, was that Miss Glynn was modeling the latest fashion accessory, a $350 diamond "navel pin.

Good heavens, I said with a shudder that came from the customers. Daily, I asked Miss Amanda, clapping her hands, "Go ahead!"

"Stamp out navels!" It was my good friend, Miss Amanda, national commander of the "Commiersat," the super patriotic stamping-out society. And the story is, several laces of her tennis shoes were quarreling with outrage. "My shoe makes me have gone too far this time!" she cried. "Look at this!" With that she drew forth from her reticule a newspaper photograph of Miss Glynn, a fashion model. Miss Glynn's shirt had clearly shrunk in the wash, inflicting with acute gaspats at the microscope. And her belly button glittered! The reason for this phenomenon, said the caption, was that Miss Glynn was modeling the latest fashion accessory, a $350 diamond "navel pin.

Good heavens, I said with a shudder that came from the customers. Daily, I asked Miss Amanda, clapping her hands, "Go ahead!"

"Stamp out navels!" It was my good friend, Miss Amanda, national commander of the "Commiersat," the super patriotic stamping-out society. And the story is, several laces of her tennis shoes were quarreling with outrage. "My shoe makes me have gone too far this time!" she cried. "Look at this!" With that she drew forth from her reticule a newspaper photograph of Miss Glynn, a fashion model. Miss Glynn's shirt had clearly shrunk in the wash, inflicting with acute gaspats at the microscope. And her belly button glittered! The reason for this phenomenon, said the caption, was that Miss Glynn was modeling the latest fashion accessory, a $350 diamond "navel pin.

Good heavens, I said with a shudder that came from the customers. Daily, I asked Miss Amanda, clapping her hands, "Go ahead!"

"Stamp out navels!" It was my good friend, Miss Amanda, national commander of the "Commiersat," the super patriotic stamping-out society. And the story is, several laces of her tennis shoes were quarreling with outrage. "My shoe makes me have gone too far this time!" she cried. "Look at this!" With that she drew forth from her reticule a newspaper photograph of Miss Glynn, a fashion model. Miss Glynn's shirt had clearly shrunk in the wash, inflicting with acute gaspats at the microscope. And her belly button glittered! The reason for this phenomenon, said the caption, was that Miss Glynn was modeling the latest fashion accessory, a $350 diamond "navel pin.

Good heavens, I said with a shudder that came from the customers. Daily, I asked Miss Amanda, clapping her hands, "Go ahead!"

"Stamp out navels!" It was my good friend, Miss Amanda, national commander of the "Commiersat," the super patriotic stamping-out society. And the story is, several laces of her tennis shoes were quarreling with outrage. "My shoe makes me have gone too far this time!" she cried. "Look at this!" With that she drew forth from her reticule a newspaper photograph of Miss Glynn, a fashion model. Miss Glynn's shirt had clearly shrunk in the wash, inflicting with acute gaspats at the microscope. And her belly button glittered! The reason for this phenomenon, said the caption, was that Miss Glynn was modeling the latest fashion accessory, a $350 diamond "navel pin.

Good heavens, I said with a shudder that came from the customers. Daily, I asked Miss Amanda, clapping her hands, "Go ahead!"

"Stamp out navels!" It was my good friend, Miss Amanda, national commander of the "Commiersat," the super patriotic stamping-out society. And the story is, several laces of her tennis shoes were quarreling with outrage. "My shoe makes me have gone too far this time!" she cried. "Look at this!" With that she drew forth from her reticule a newspaper photograph of Miss Glynn, a fashion model. Miss Glynn's shirt had clearly shrunk in the wash, inflicting with acute gaspats at the microscope. And her belly button glittered! The reason for this phenomenon, said the caption, was that Miss Glynn was modeling the latest fashion accessory, a $350 diamond "navel pin.

Good heavens, I said with a shudder that came from the customers. Daily, I asked Miss Amanda, clapping her hands, "Go ahead!"

"Stamp out navels!" It was my good friend, Miss Amanda, national commander of the "Commiersat," the super patriotic stamping-out society. And the story is, several laces of her tennis shoes were quarreling with outrage. "My shoe makes me have gone too far this time!" she cried. "Look at this!" With that she drew forth from her reticule a newspaper photograph of Miss Glynn, a fashion model. Miss Glynn's shirt had clearly shrunk in the wash, inflicting with acute gaspats at the microscope. And her belly button glittered! The reason for this phenomenon, said the caption, was that Miss Glynn was modeling the latest fashion accessory, a $350 diamond "navel pin.

Good heavens, I said with a shudder that came from the customers. Daily, I asked Miss Amanda, clapping her hands, "Go ahead!"

"Stamp out navels!" It was my good friend, Miss Amanda, national commander of the "Commiersat," the super patriotic stamping-out society. And the story is, several laces of her tennis shoes were quarreling with outrage. "My shoe makes me have gone too far this time!" she cried. "Look at this!" With that she drew forth from her reticule a newspaper photograph of Miss Glynn, a fashion model. Miss Glynn's shirt had clearly shrunk in the wash, inflicting with acute gaspats at the microscope. And her belly button glittered! The reason for this phenomenon, said the caption, was that Miss Glynn was modeling the latest fashion accessory, a $350 diamond "navel pin.

Good heavens, I said with a shudder that came from the customers. Daily, I asked Miss Amanda, clapping her hands, "Go ahead!"

"Stamp out navels!" It was my good friend, Miss Amanda, national commander of the "Commiersat," the super patriotic stamping-out society. And the story is, several laces of her tennis shoes were quarreling with outrage. "My shoe makes me have gone too far this time!" she cried. "Look at this!" With that she drew forth from her reticule a newspaper photograph of Miss Glynn, a fashion model. Miss Glynn's shirt had clearly shrunk in the wash, inflicting with acute gaspats at the microscope. And her belly button glittered! The reason for this phenomenon, said the caption, was that Miss Glynn was modeling the latest fashion accessory, a $350 diamond "navel pin."
A Week of War: A Week of Grief

By George W. Cornell

NEW YORK (AP) — One week, and many were led to believe, the interminable loss struck home.

The world went on generally unchanged. But after one summer of the imponderable loyalties of pain, things were not the same.

From those personal voids came the voices. "He was doing his duty," his wife said. "We expected him to do his duty." He was concerned he would die. He had "made plans." One week, and a litany of deprivation.

The national week "one" is happening every week. Each week, like a mirage in the desert, leaves last week's pattern of words Monday with its separations, its lodgments. On the final day of the week, it goes on. Now total­ly total.

Older women and bereaved widows and bemoaned parents. It meant that Stephen H. Phillips, 23, of Springfield, Mo., would never see the child his wife had given him while he was at war.

"I don't pretend that Viet Nam was a safe place, but he was willing to go," said his brother, W. A. Phillip­pins. An Army sergeant, he had been in for two years.

In Lincoln, Neb., friends called Richard Lansing Zichok, 20, by the nickname "Zippy." Orphaned in the first week of the year, he was early lone­itudinal, but worked stubbornly to let it defeat him. He "had many plans for the future," said a former schoolmate.

"He wanted to become a teacher and wrestling coach," said Meyer. So did Lance Zichok.

"It would be delusional for me to think that I could make a stretch of duty in Viet Nam and then return home. It usually isn't, relatively, in that kind of conflict today.

But it isn't small to the specific individuals.

Last week, it was 20, often it has been higher. It also held 17, 18, 21, 25. A week, it goes on, now totaling 529.

A week before and afterward, it left last week's pattern of grief. A week here, a week there, its separations, its reactions in the Dominican Republic, in Viet Nam, in Los Angeles, in Minneapolis, in Providence, R.I., and in Tacoma, Wash.

"I have been very apprehensive," said a former student in Tacoma, Wash. "One thing that I don't like fighting." When Zichek won't make that ambi­tition of Marines, and planned to have a daughter at home in Tacoma, Wash, when sent to Viet Nam 41 days ago.

His wife, after getting word that he would not come back, said in strained English, "I don't like fighting." When Zichek, David Lee Ross, 21, of Santa Clara, Calif., had finished high school while home town before joining the Marines, and planned to become a highway patrolman, after his enlistment was over.

He had only a few days before he would have completed his seven-month service. His father, Robert A. Ross, of Beverly Hills, Calif., said, "I am very bitter about it. If it's a war, that's one thing. But this putting men in a few at a time is terrible."

For Warrant Officer Donald R. Seagard, death came shortly before he was to finish a stretch of duty in Viet Nam. He was due to come home in November," said his wife, Betty, of New Albany, Ind. The couple had—and now she alone has—two young daugh­ters.

Daniel Joseph Bennett, 19, grew up in a Navy family. He and his two brothers displayed keen interest in the career of their father, Lt. Cmdr. Harry H. Bennett, R.N., of Beverly Hills, Calif. But Daniel, for all his early enthusiasm for Sea Scout­ing and Scouting, had decided he would study medicine after winding up his service as a Marine hospital corpsman. His high academic record indi­cated a promising future in that field.

"He wanted to do his duty," his father said. "Then he wanted to go to college and make more men." He did his duty. The rest must be abandoned.

Johnson to Discuss New Steps With Congressional Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson will confer with congressional leaders, both Democrats and Republicans, at the national governors conference warred with Monday evening. It was a stretch of duty in Viet Nam, the conference. "We think about Viet Nam, but the President's actions in the Dominican Republic and Viet Nam." He said.

As chairman of the Demo­cratic governors' conference, Gov. John B. Connally of Texas expressed the concern that the President's actions in Viet Nam be supported by the conference.

Johnson's plan was an­nounced after the President conferred for about three hours with his top advisers on Viet Nam and other topics.

"This will be prior to any final decisions or conclusions that the President might make," press secretary Bill D. Moyers said.

But a White House source said the President is moving closer to determining what the administration will do. Within 24 hours, this official said, Johnson probably would have worked out in his own mind the details he will discuss with congressional leaders.

Johnson's week was over. The rest must be abandoned.

How to stick to your budget, and have money left over for other things

Shop Egyptian ads.

'I KNOW, I KNOW . . . BUT IF ANYBODY EVER IS GOING TO FILL THEM, YOU ARE THE MAN!'

Aggressive and effective sales promotion that will win you new business. Watch them; you'll see the results you need to succeed.

Ambassador Goldberg Sworn In WASHINGTON (AP) — Arthur J. Goldberg took office Monday as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, dedicating himself to a quest to move "inch by inchaginizing inch" to world peace. That mission, said in the true memorial to the late Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, who Goldberg suc­ceeds. "There is simply no alt­ernative in a nuclear age to world peace through the rule of law," Goldberg said.

Armistice Is Not Peace at Panmunjom

Truce Zone Meetings Are Tense, Frustrating, Monotonous

(Today is the 12th anniversary of the signing of the Korean armistice agreement. Al Lira, an SLU student majoring in journalism, served two years in the Army in Korea and covered for Voice of the United Nations Command radio more than a dozen meetings of the United Nations North Korean negotiators following incidents in which the truce was violated. Here are some of his recollections.)

By Al Lira

Three U.S. enlisted men, bound for an observation point on a South Korean hill, bounced along a dusty Korean road in a Jeep in August, 1963. Their trip came to a halt in a shower of grenades that bounced off the command car. Two of the North Koreans were killed and the third critically wounded.

The grenades were thrown by four North Korean soldiers who had sneaked into South Korea and had beside a road six miles from the Joint Security Area near the demilitarized zone at Panmunjom. Instead of returning to their own lines, the North Koreans headed south, where they were quickly challenged by U.S. troops and South Korean police.

In the fight that followed two of the North Koreans were killed and two escaped. A few hours later the fugitives were surrounded and committed suicide rather than face capture.

It was the 176th meeting since the armistice was signed July 27, 1953. Approximately 100 persons were on hand for the meeting, almost all military men. The grim U.N. delegation arrived by helicopter from Seoul, the North Koreans by automobile from across Freedom Bridge that connects the divided country.

Gen. Cloud delivered a blistering attack on the Communists. The Communists replied, in essence, “You have deliberately murdered some of your personnel in a scheme serving your political purposes.”

For more than six hours the heated debate was waged across the conference table in the uncomfortable hut that served as a conference room. Finally the session broke up. Nothing had been resolved.

In fact, nothing much had been resolved at any of the 176 meetings, nor in those that have taken place since that time. But such is the nature of the Korean Armistice. It is tenuous at best. In 12 years, the communists have not permitted a single issue to be resolved.

U.S. military personnel live in the Joint Security area about one-half mile from the 4,374-yard-wide demilitarized zone that cuts across Korea at the 38th parallel. In mid-winter it is bitterly cold and desolate. In the summer it is uncomfortably hot, but nature adds an incongruous touch, with lovely wildflowers and game, which roam the area undisturbed by the not-to-frequent outbursts of violence instigated by the North Koreans.

The U.N. patrols and their North Korean counterparts can see each other across the zone, but there are no exchanges. Even when parties from both sides enter the zone to care for their buildings at Panmunjom there is no exchange.

Panmunjom is located right at the center of the demilitarized zone. Even when a meeting of the commission is going on the North Koreans are technically in their country and the U.N. negotiators in South Korea, for the line runs right through the center of the bus.

The meetings are conducted in strict formality in an atmosphere of iciness, without benefit of a chairman or an agenda. All proceedings are translated into three languages—English, Korean and Chinese.

Soldiers obviously do not relish duty in the Joint Security Area—there's nothing to do there. The hours are long and boring.

Like the meetings, time also drags.
London Newspaper Praises U.S. Track and Field Team

It isn't often that an American can read a sign that talks in his language and find anything but criticism of his country. But even on the campus press on occasion will give credit where credit is due.

In the July 15th edition of London's Observer a news article referred to the U.S. track and field team as "...the world's most remarkable collection of the muscular art-mocracies...

It was regarded as the upcoming U.S. versus U.S.S.R. track meet at Kiev, July 31-Aug. 1. The Observer said the U.S. team "...seems set for a battle comparable with the Warsaw Pact and the maintenance of its unbeaten record..."

Though the American team won handily last year, beating the Russians at Los Angeles by a score of 139 to 97, this year's team won't be up to snuff, according to the Observer, because of the NCAA-IAU-DAA dispute. The paper said that besides competing in a strange environment the U.S. team might have some difficulties because the athlete association fund has kept the U.S. from fielding its best-possible team.

The Russians are having their problems, too, according to the Observer. Bazzil Korokov, the chief national coach, has been under fire from the Soviet press since the poor showing of the Russian team in the Olympic Games at Tokyo last October.

Korokov has been criticized for not having used any foreign or younger athletes in competition at Tokyo. The Russian coach relied on his tried and true men with poor results. The Observer speculated that it would not have made very much difference in the outcome even if Korokov had used his younger competitors.

The Observer predicts that the Soviet coach, rather than start from scratch with a new, young team, will mix his vets and youngsters to compromise his position.

As far as the woman competitors are concerned, the Observer leaned toward Russian dominance in such departments, but indicated that last year the American women lost out by only 1 point in their Russian counterparts.

Son Born to Wife Of Coach Shroyer

Shrco football coach Don Shroyer is a father again. A son, Christopher Martin, was born at 4:12 p.m. Monday in Doctors Hospital, Carbondale.

The infant, who weighed 7 lbs. 12 oz., is the third child for the Shroyers. They have a daughter, Gail, 13, and a son, Doug, 10.

Daly Clean

AIR CONDITIONED

self-service laundry

BIG 12 lbs. washers

WASH 20c. PER LOAD

CARPET & UPHOLSTERY

CENTER

214 W. FREEMAN ST.

FRESH FROM THE FIELD...

- PEACHES
- MELONS
- APPLE CIDER

McGUIRE'S FRUIT FARM

8 M. SOUTH ON Rt. 51

DAILY EGYPTIAN CLASSIFIED ADS

The classified advertising rate is five cents ($.05) per word. Minimum charge $1.00 payable in advance of publishing deadlines.

Advertising copy deadlines are noon two days prior to publication date. All copy must be received by the Daily Egyptian office by noon on Friday.

The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to reject any advertising copy.

FOR RENT

FOR SALE

2 month old black and white female puppy. Reward offered for return. Call Steve at 453-3674.

1960 TR3, 3 tps, wire wheels. Very nice. $446 or 684-4490.

1969 Harley Davidson XLCH, NICE Cruiser, gold and maroon paint, chrome exhaust, Rallie studded seat, Truelight, lights, etc. $750.00. Cal 549-1296. Interested persons only. No lookers.

1964 175cc. Cushman, Overland. Cash or trade. Call 7-94335 in Carbondale.

SERVICES OFFERED

Safety First Driver's Training

Call 584-2400 or 473-9876

Serving all Southern Illinois

FOR RENT

Amen to Salukis

Parsons' Sermon:
The THE FIRST SALUKI RUN IN 20 INNINGS WAS SCORED BY LEE MCMAY IN THE THIRD INNING OF SUNDAY'S GAME.

Parsons Scores Sweep Four SIU Weekend Losses Include No-Hitter Shared by Two Pitchers

It's back to the batting practice cages for the Salukis and on the basis of their hitting performances last weekend at Parsons College, most of them could use a couple of extra swings in the big cage.

The Salukis lost all four games to the league leaders, but what was even worse, they could score but four runs in the four games.

In Saturday's first game, the Salukis started on the wrong foot, Friday night when they lost a 3-2 decision with four errors figuring in all of Parsons' runs, but things got worse Saturday. The Salukis were shut out 3 to 0 in games 2 and 6-0.

In Saturday's first game, Westrum to Pilot

NEW YORK Mets

NEW YORK (AP) - Westrum will be interim manager of the New York Mets while Castle Stengel's on his high mounds, the National League club announced Monday.

Westrum, Met coach, was Stengel's choice to take over during his absence—expected to last several weeks.

Stengel suffered a fractured left hip Sunday morning and is due for surgery.

Meanwhile, Stengel, one of baseball's most storied characters, lay in his hospital bed in rigid traction and wracked with pain.

Jones Writes Article

Joe H. Jones, associate professor of Physics, is author of an article in the current issue of the professional journal, Soil Science.

The article reports on a laboratory study of the movement of septic tank effluents through sands, Harvey Amen and Paul Zahn combined to hold Southern hitless. Jim Kacor went the route in the second game and held Southern hitless until Mike Stackford singled in the seventh for the lone Saluki hit. Meanwhile Parsons' bats were hot as the 100 degree weather. Parsons jumped off on to a five-run lead off Stackford in the first inning of the first game and coasted to the victory.

Leatherhead George Pohsell Parsons scoreless until the third inning, of the second game, before the Wildcats nicked him for a run. However, Poe, weakened in the fourth and the Wildcats scored two runs off him in that inning and added three more insurance runs in the fifth.

In Sunday's game, which the Salukis lost 6-2, Parsons again jumped off to a big lead. The Wildcats scored six runs off Mike Lyle in the first inning and that was the game. Centerfielder Nick Solis finally broke the scoring drought that had reached 20 innings by angling home Lee Mcroy in the third. Solis also had another run-producing single in the seventh.

"We just didn't hit," said Coach Rich (itchy) Jones, who was obviously unhappy about the outcome of the series, but more so about the attitude of some of his players.

Southern, in last place with a 6-14 record, will try to get back on the winning this side this weekend when St. Louis University comes here for another four-game series.

Bus Trip Planned To 'Student Prince'

A bus will leave the University Center at 4 p.m., Saturday for a student excursion to the St. Louis Municipal Opera to see "The Student Prince." Written by Sigmund Romberg, "The Student Prince" is one of the all-time classics of the musical stage. It takes place in Heidelberg, Germany, where a student King-to-be romances an innkeeper's daughter. The production includes such songs as "Serenade," "Golden Days," "The Drinking Song," and "Deep in My Heart."

The stars include William Lewis, Patricia Welting, and Richard Torigi.

A $3 fee covers transportation and the ticket. All students planning to go must sign the list in the Student Activities Center before noon Friday.

SOUND UNITS

For your parties, beach parties, dances, weddings, scholarship events, and concerts, rent a complete public address system now...

Mayfield Sound Service
Call 457-4663 or Write Box 308
Nancy Twinkle, Billy Jester’s found love at the Colorado Inn.

In a recent story on non-discriminatory practices at SIU, reference was made to three all-Negro social groups on campus.

According to Lee J. Chenoweth, supervisor of Small Group Housing, Alpha Phi Alpha, one of the predominantly Negro fraternities at Southern, has in its active body a white member who was pledged springterm.

Professional and sparkling Nancy Twinkle, Billy Jester’s found love at the Colorado Inn. The excellent costumes and the hero rugged.

"You’ve got to hand it to Little Mary Sunshine," and to the rest of the cast for a professional and sparkling performance of this musical.

"Little Mary Sunshine" played Thursday through Sunday evening in Muckelroy Auditorium and delighted the audience with the many gestures and mannerisms reminiscent of an earlier era when the heroine was infinitely pure and the hero rugged.

"Little Mary Sunshine" poked good-natured fun at early operettas and in doing so displayed a professional touch in the singing and acting.

The setting for this popular musical was the Colorado Inn, high in the Rocky Mountains. The Inn was designed by Robert Fevola, graduate student in the Department of Theatre, who ingeniously designed the revolving front of the Inn and placed the orchestra, directed by Gordon Chadwick, graduate assistant in the Department of Music, twelve feet above the stage on the balcony of the Inn.

Three performances stood above the others—those of Mary Jo Smith, Barry Bloom and Joanna Hogan. Miss Smith, last summer’s Eliza in “My Fair Lady,” was the perfect picture of the innocent maiden who smiled through all her troubles. The nervous young corporal, Billy Jester, was played to perfection by Barry Bloom, a student from North East Missouri State Teachers College. Bloom’s singing and acting was displayed well and his comical actions received much laughter from the audience.

The third outstanding performance was by Joanna Hogan, theater major, who was cast as Mme. Ernestine Von Liebedich, a marionette opera star from Vienna, who found love at the Colorado Inn. Joanna Bray’s portrayal as Nancy Twinkle, Billy Jester’s off-and-on lady friend, came to life when she sang and enacted “Mass Iliari.”

Robert Guy portrayed “Big Jim” Warrington, the rugged hero and captain of the U.S. Forest Rangers. Miss Smith and Guy proclaimed their love for each other in the “Colorado Love Call,” blending their rich voices.

The rest of the cast did a good job of portraying the menor characters, especially the many gestures of the young ladies from Eastchester Finishing School who carried on coquettishly with the young Forest Ranger. The Rangers made a vivid picture as they marched into Muckelroy Auditorium, singing their Forest Ranger song.

The excellent costumes helped to give this musical a professional touch.

In the climax the cast all wave miniature American flags under a shower of confetti, Wallace Sterling, stage director, expertly handled “Little Mary Sunshine,” as evident in the audience’s applause, especially when Miss Smith was presented with a bouquet of red roses, a fine tribute to an enjoyable performance.

Shop With

Daily Egyptian Advertisers

TURNED DOWN? FOR AUTO INSURANCE

See Us For “Full Coverage”
Auto & Home Screwor INSURANCE
Financial Responsibility Filings
EASY PAYMENT PLANS
3,6 or 12 Months
FINANCIAL RESPONSIBILITY
POLICIES
FRANKLIN INSURANCE AGENCY
705 S. Illinois Ave.
Phone 457-4461

Cosmetologists Workshop
Will Offer Free Haircuts Friday

Registration for one section of the 11th annual School of Advanced Cosmetology which opened Monday showed an enrollment of 60 for first, second, and third year courses.

This ten-day workshop is sponsored by SIU’s Division of Technical and Adult Education and the Illinois Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.

Subjects to be covered in the workshop include laboratory work in the chemistry of cosmetics, styling, color.

Integration Exists

In Alpha Phi Alpha

sixty women will be given haircuts on Friday, students, faculty, and staff members will be accepted.

Appointment for cutting may be made by calling Mrs. Nancy Vale at the Technical and Adult Education Office, 453-3301.

Photo Contest

Open to Students

A summer photographic display will be held in the University Center Magnolia Lounge on Wednesday and Thursday.

Any SIU student or campus workshop participant may enter. Mounted pictures with names, home town, title, and other pertinent information may be turned in to the Student Activities Office before Tuesday.

The photographic contest is sponsored by the Department of Printing and Photography and the Student Activities Office.

Daily Egyptian Classified ads pack a big wallop.

Just one dollar places a classified ad of 20 words into a whopping big audience...well over 20,000 people during the regular school year. A giant summer audience too. It stands to reason that if you have something to buy, sell, rent or trade—from automobiles to houses to part time typing—your best bet is to advertise in the Daily Egyptian. Count on quick, efficient results though...these classified ads pack a big wallop.