2 Students Die in Head-on Crash

Wednesday Is Deadline for Draft Forms

The registrar's Office has issued a reminder to campus draft registrants that Wednesday is the deadline for returning the Selective Service request forms.

In an effort to define the terms and conditions of information to be sent, the registrar has set the following policies:

There currently are four situations in which local boards are to receive information if a student is interested in being considered for a student deferment on the undergraduate level.

1. Notice of acceptance at the time the student is accepted for admission.
2. A notice at the start of the school year of satisfactory pursuit of a full-time course of instruction. This includes progress, on schedule, towards the degree, and an indication of the expected date of graduation.
3. Notice at the end of the first quarter of completion of the academic year, and class rank.
4. Notice of a change in status because of reduction to part-time attendance, interruption of attendance, or graduation.

Full-time enrollment for undergraduate students means a minimum of 12 quarter hours registered for and completed during a quarter. Should a student register for sufficient hours but then withdraw from either officially or unofficially, from courses whose total hours exceed his hours completed below 12, he is not then satisfactorily pursuing a full-time program.

The registrar explained that a student is not only required to be in full attendance, but that he must also be making progress toward the degree. The standard full-

While living in Superior, Wis., where her husband taught at Wisconsin State College, Mrs. Pitkin was president of the League of Women Voters. She directed its campaign to make city the 500th in the United States to adopt the council-manager form of government.

She was a member of the American Association of University Women and the Business and Professional Women's Association and was a past president of the Carbondale chapters of both. She also was a member of the BPW state board and other club activities.

She also was a member of the First Methodist Church in Carbondale and a member and president of the Carbondale Altrusa Club.

In 1960 she was first runnerup in Illinois for secretary of the year honored in 1961, she was honored by the SIU chapter of AAW as the "outstanding troubleshooter supervisor," and has been chosen secretary of the year and career woman of the year in Carbondale.

Recently the AAUW created a scholarship in her honor.

Other Driver Is Killed in Collision

Two SIU students and another man died as a result of a two-car head-on collision Sunday on Illinois near Mount Carmel, about 100 miles northeast of Carbondale in Wabash County.

Robert H. Groff, 20, of Grayville and Harold R. Allen, 31, of Mount Carmel, driver of the car driven by Groff, were killed instantly, Groff was a junior, majoring in accounting at SIU.

Martha A. Miller, 20 of Alto Pass, an SIU freshman, was in the car driven by Groff and was also an SIU student.

Groff's parents were passengers in the car. His mother, Rebecca, 43, is in serious condition at a hospital in Evansville, Groff's father, Herschel, 44, is in serious condition at the Wabash Memorial Hospital, Mount Carmel.

A passenger in the Allen car is in critical condition at the Mount Carmel hospital. Groff was driving a 1965 model car and Allen a 1958 station wagon.

Groff is survived by two brothers, an SIU freshman, and David, at home; one sister, Catherine, of Grayville, and grandparents, also of Grayville.

Funeral services for Groff will be at 3 p.m. Wednesday in the Sturm Funeral Home, Gananoque. Burial will be in Oak Grove Cemetery, Grayville.

Walker Funeral Home, Carbondale, reported that funeral arrangements for Miss Miller are incomplete.

The three deaths in the one accident were among 20 holiday traffic deaths which was reported through late Monday.

In addition, one death in an automobile mishap and two drownings unrelated to boating were reported.

State Police said they were encouraged because the number of traffic deaths had dropped off in the state Monday, compared to the earlier hours of the holiday. However, they pointed out that the toll still was a head of the 14 killed during the same three-day period a year ago.

Play at Lincoln's Assassination
To Be Revived by SIU Troupe

The Southern Players will include six performances of the play Abraham Lincoln was watching when he was assassinated in their Lincolnland Drama Festival at New Salem State Park this summer.

The play, Tom Taylor's comedy, "Our American Cousin," will be presented as it was performed in Ford's Theater in Washington, D.C., April 14, 1865, when Lincoln was killed.

It will alternate with performances of E. P. Comley's "Prologue to Glory," during the festival which will run from July 26 to Aug. 21.

In addition, the SIU company will participate in the Springfield Festival of the Arts, performing--for the first time anywhere—a new Lincoln play written by a graduate of the SIU Department of Theater, Louis Catron of Springfield.

The play, entitled "Lincoln at Springfield: November 1858," will open Aug. 16 for a three-day run.

Southern first presented the Civil War play at New Salem in the summers of 1925 and 1958, according to Archibald McLeod, chairman of the Department of Theater. Last summer a one-man run was so successful that the department and the State Department of Conservation decided to make the production an annual attraction so that other Lincoln plays from time to time, McLeod said.

The Civil War drama tells the story of young Lincoln, dramatizing events that took place in his short life after the New Salem village now stands. Reviewers have called this play "one of the finest of our biographical dramas."

"Our American Cousin" will be presented with authentic costumes and scenery of a century ago, McLeod said.

This play had one of the longest runs in the theater. It was said. It opened in New York in 1865 and had performed for more than a thousand times when President Lincoln went to see it.

Dates for "Our American Cousin" performances are July 27 and 29, Aug. 3, 5, 10 and 12. "Prologue to Glory" will be scheduled for July 28 and Aug. 2, 4, 6, 7, 9, 11, 13, 14, 19, 20 and 21. All performances will begin at 8 p.m. and will be given in the Kelso Hollow Theater in the state park.

Students from nine colleges and universities, as well as a number of teachers, have been accepted as members of the 1966 summer company. Fourteen of the 25 are from SIU, and others come from New York, Louisiana, Missouri, Pennsylvania, Colorado, Kansas, Wisconsin and Oklahoma.

The foundation was established in 1918 by Louis Comford Tiffany, painter, decorator, craftsman and creator of Tiffany Favrile Glass.

Fink, who has been awarded a John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation fellowship, will leave early in June for several months' study of print and drawing collections in England, France, Italy and Scandinavia. He will be accompanied by his family.

Students' Draft Status Outlined

time load is 16 quarter hours in order to earn 192 hours in 12 quarters, whereas 12 quarter hours is the minimum full-time load. A student who is meeting only the minimal requirements is not making any progress on schedule.

In order to satisfy the "progress on schedule" requirement, the registrar has set the following policy:

By the end of the third quarter of attendance, a student must have accumulated a total of 42 hours of acceptable credit to have satisfactorily completed his first year. A total of 90 hours at the end of the sixth quarter and 138 hours at the end of the ninth quarter completes the second year and third years respectively. By the end of the 12th quarter of attendance, a student must have accumulated a total of 192 hours of acceptable credit, and should be graduating.

For Selective Service purposes, a student must be registered in his first calendar year to complete a year's study. Thus, a student may take smaller class loads and, by attending class on a part-time basis, continue to be progressing on schedule.

Finally, the Selective Service rules regarding class rank must be met in order to qualify for student deferment. Using the above accumulated hour cut off points, students continuing their first year must rank within the upper half of their class.

Students completing their second and third years must rank within the upper two-thirds and three-fourths of their classes if they wish to qualify for student deferment.

A graduating student who wishes to be deferred in order to attend graduate school must have graduated within the upper quarter of his class. Information is to be sent to Selective Service boards only at the request of the student. The Registrar's Office will presume that if the form is not returned, the student wants all available information sent to his board.

A student who does not want information sent to local Selective Service boards must so indicate on his request form and make certain that the registrar is notified.

COMMENTS...
Mrs. Minnie Mae Pitkin is dead.

It was almost as difficult to measure the impact of her loss to the University as it was to measure the sadness her death has brought to literally thousands of people both on and off campus.

Long and distinguished service to the University will not be detailed here. She was, in every sense, SIU's greatest chieftain and, because of her devotion to the University she helped to build, her loss has been severe.

Thousands of students passed through the University during her more than 30 years here and every one of them knew about "Minnie Mae." The real pity is that they didn't know her personally.

Mrs. Pitkin was a kind and gentle and generous person. Her door was always open, and if you knew her personally, she was the first person you thought of turning to when a problem arose. For the people who did not say that to anyone turned to her for aid if it was within her power to help.

To those of us who turned to her often, she was a guide no matter how tressisome our problem nor how heavy her own load. She encouraged us. She gave us hope. She was advisor, counselor and confidant.

But most important of all was the trust and devoted friend. Our loss is incalculable.
I Have A Concern...

By Morris Ernst

It is high time that we come to a new definition of civil disobedience. Our Constitution lies not in the First Amendment—which guarantees freedom of speech, press, and of the people to assemble. The speaking and buccaneer nation, we have had our share of violence—long before the Knights of Labor arose in the wake of the turbulence of the 1929 depression, in all but 24 of the 210 nations on our continent. There is a great void in the literacy and communication that our society is supposed to have. By conflict of ideas cannot be used as an implement of change. We have violent outbreaks of heads of state in Africa every six months.

The absence of literacy demands dictatorships, although there can be a middle ground, even under Hitler, between literacy and dictatorship. We now literate many people are unwilling to rely on debate and reason, and often appeal to the educational policy called civil disobedience to dramatize graft in life and liberty.

During much of my half-century as a newsmaker, I have been called on to defend free speech and the right of assemblage. The great rights are now imperiled by what I term uncivil disobedience.

Civil disobedience is the greatest outrage of our time, a way of our society that lags behind the society and people of some of their desires. In its varied form the protest violates a law waiting for a suit, through a policeman, to make an arrest preparatory to a re-examination of the facts and the law in a court of law. But now under the dishonor and shabby distortion of the concept of civil disobedience, people are to be made to avoid the legal process, for crime—sitting on law for the right to retest a law or to be used as an implement of our wishes at the bar, I have happily been called on to defend free speech. The absences of literacy defendants freedom of speech.

Geometric Painting Displayed; Artist Corrects Eye’s Distortion

By Michael Nauer

Shapes and forms appear different in the eyes of Gerald Cross. They appear the way they are.

Traditional art distorts the shapes of forms to present them as they are perceived by the eye. When man looks at a set of railroad tracks, they are not parallel, but rather converge at some point in infinity. Likewise, a cube does not have lines parallel and perpendicular to each other when recorded on a plane by a phonograph.

Cross, a graduate assistant in art, maintains that because of perspective, pictures of solids are not numerically correct.

His recent exhibit in the Mitchell Gallery in the Home Economics Building was an adventure in form, color and design.

Cross, who considers himself a geometric painter, said all of his works spring from an arithmetic consideration. "All of my paintings are based on three dimensional figures, that is, platonic solids.

Cross begins his paintings with a different approach than most of his contemporaries. Rather than "formalizing an idea" and creating it as he paints, Cross works out the entire idea beforehand.

"I work out the entire idea on a grid and paper before I begin painting. It's like designing a building," he said. Cross began painting about 10 years ago. He shifted to architecture, but finally came back to art.

Before he begins to put oil on canvas, he knows exactly what the finished work will look like. "For this, I have to follow my notes and graphs closely."

Cross said he does not use color according to any formula. "Color is suggested to me as I get going," he said.

Before studying architecture, Cross did many paintings of the land, oil wells, etc., in Oklahoma. "All of my work was a literal reproduction of what I was painting," he said.

I am doing what has always fascinated me and I guess that's important," he said. "Like all other artists, I have to do it my way."

Mrs. Pitkin: Friend and Aide to All at SIU

By Frank Messersmith

It is not evident in the youthful, happy sounds of the students.

It is not noticeable in the quiet world of Thompson Woods and the empty campus classrooms and labs.

Nor is there any indication in the routine activities necessary to the existence of the SIU education complex.

Following the death of Mrs. Pitkin's memory, and it was a rarity indeed when she could not enlighten anyone seeking information about SIU.

Aside from her knowledge, her genuine interest and willingness to take time out of her busy schedule to help anyone was enough to make her much appreciated.

It is indeed a loss that the kind lady with the sparkling eyes and the bubbling personality is no longer with us—and Southern is indeed a little bit less.

During her years at SIU, Mrs. Pitkin watched Southern grow from a teacher's college confined to a city block, with less than 3,000 enrollment to an institution with world wide operations and an enrollment of over 20,000.

Past events, individuals, setbacks and accomplishments were all catalogued in Mrs. Pitkin's memory, and it was a rarity indeed when she could not enlighten anyone seeking information about SIU.

MRS. MINNIE MAE PITKIN

The president, four vice presidents and other administrators and educators knew whom to call on in an emergency—Mrs. Pitkin.

Along with all her activities, Mrs. Pitkin was an exuberant Saluki sports fan. She rarely missed accompanying her husband to the football and basketball games, even when her back bothered her so badly that it took her half­ hour to climb the steps to her seat in the Arena.

Mrs. Pitkin, who always had her auburn hair braided and wrapped on top of her head, was a native Texan, and earned her bachelor of arts degree in chemistry from the Texas State College for Women.

Following her graduation, "Minnie Mae" taught chemistry for six years on the staff of McMurray College in Athelone, Texas. Later she received her master of science degree from the University of Colorado and did further work at the University of Illinois and the University of California.

Mr. and Mrs. Pitkin were married in 1930, and moved to Superior, Wis., where he taught school for the next 14 years. The couple moved to SIU in 1945, where he joined the SIU faculty.

Mrs. Pitkin joined the President's Office staff on a temporary basis and stayed on to become an institution herself.

She was a recording secretary, historian and the person to see for any information relating to the past, present and future of SIU.

Her office, a small room adjacent to the president's private office, was a world of buzzer telephones, stacks of material for the attention of President Morris, bundles of incoming and outgoing mail and various information sheets, telephone conferences, receptions, new building dedications, railroad and flight schedules. Anything else that might have been important to the president.

The recorded secretarial duties Mrs. Pitkin assumed, many times kept her working at the office after the 5 p.m. closing hour, and even continued much of her supposedly free weekend time.

MORRIS EULOGIZES

Minnie Mae Pitkin

President Delyte W. Morris issued the following statement following the death of Mrs. Minnie Mae Pitkin:

"The loss of Mrs. Pitkin to the University cannot be measured because she placed no limit on her services to students, faculty members and coworkers.

"The University will sorely miss her services, but even more, her friends will miss her shining presence and example.

"She epitomized the kind of dedicated, unselfish devotion to the University that is so generally demonstrated in this University."
Spacecraft Is Moonbound To Soft Landing Thursday

By The Associated Press

Despite some difficulty with a sensory antenna that failed to deploy, the U.S. attempt at getting a soft-landing surveyor craft on the moon got under way successfully.

The 2,194-pound, Atlas-Centaur-powered space vehicle was launched on schedule at 9:41 a.m. (CDT) Monday from Cape Kennedy.

The spacecraft, equipped with cameras to survey the moon surface, is scheduled to make the quarter-million-mile trip in 63 hours traveling at 24,000 plus miles an hour. Touchdown is scheduled for about 1:50 a.m. Thursday.

Launch officials said that difficulty with one of the two guidance antennas may upset the planned soft landing but they expressed optimism. They said the craft was on target and all other systems were functioning well early Monday.

The spacecraft was originally planned to land at the Ocean of Storms but officials could not determine where the craft would actually touch down until some mid-flight correction maneuvers were attempted.

The failure of the antenna makes maneuvering much more difficult and could possibly prevent the planned soft landing.

This launch triggered a two-propped re-entry of the U.S. into the space race. On Wednesday astronauts Thomas P. Stafford and Eugene A. Cernan will make another attempt at the twice-proposed Gemini 9 space walk and rendezvous in orbit mission.

Soviet scientists succeeded in making a soft landing with their Luna 9 craft last February. This attempt is the first for the U.S. to achieve a soft landing on the moon, which would lay the groundwork for a manned flight expected within the next three years.

Forty minutes after launch the spacecraft "locked on" to one of its reference points, the sun, to steer the course of flight, and a second sensor locked onto the star Canopus. Communications and transmissions back to earth are made with the two omni-directional antennas which are mounted on 5-foot rotating armatures. Both of these antennas are now inoperative, since the craft is spinning, to achieve perfect maneuverability, officials explained.

Memorial Holiday Tell Nears Mark

By the Associated Press

The nation's traffic death toll for a Memorial Day weekend nears a record Monday and the National Safety Council predicted more than 540 persons will be killed on the highways.

As the holiday came to a close, 460 persons lost their lives in traffic during the 72-hour period which began at 5 p.m. local time Friday. In other accidents, drownings and burns brought mishaps caused 31 deaths.

The record for highway fatalities over a three-day Memorial Day period is 474, set last year. The National Safety Council said this weekend's death rate is similar to the Fourth of July weekend last year when 547 lives were lost on the nation's roads.

32 ReportedSlain in Nigerian Strike

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) - The Daily Times said Monday 32 persons were killed in weekend demonstrations against Nigeria's military regime in the northern city of Kano.

An undetermined number were injured in the demonstrations which brought a "total warning" from the military that martial law might be imposed in disturbances. Any additional death penalty could be given to those inciting the violence.

The military governor, Maj. Gen. J. T. U. Ayigui-Irons, said the demonstrations were sparked by "some Nigerians in collusion with certain foreign elements."

SAIQON, South Viet Nam (AP) - A Buddhist monk burned himself to death in Saigon Monday, the fifth suicide reported in two days in protest against the military regime.

Leaflets blasted President Johnson and other leaders, accusing them in effect of making money out of the war.

The leaflets accused the United States of "prolonging this exterminating war in Viet Nam" and of blood-thirsty acts and were circulated outside the compound of the Buddhist Institute where the 17-year-old monk had set fire to his robes.

"Who profits in this exterminating war in Viet Nam by his own actions and his own deeds?" the leaflets asked.

They followed the names of Johnson, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam.

Earlier Monday, a Buddhist monk burned himself to death in Da Lat and a Buddhist girl reportedly had to have cut veins and died in that same resort town 13 miles north of Saigon. But a later report said the girl survived. This could not be confirmed.

A Buddhist nun and a womanburned themselves to death Sunday.

Thich Tam Chau, chairman of the powerful Buddhist Institute, warned of more suicides unless Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, a major general, steps down and lets a civilian government take over.

The wave of protests against the military rule continued fighting went on in the jungles and mountains of South Viet Nam.

The U.S., 25th Division chased about 1,000 North Vietnamese regulars through the central highlands west of Pleiku near the Cambodian border after reporting 227 of the enemy killed in three days of fighting. American casualties were minimal.

The Vietnamese army claimed it killed 160 Viet Cong in a battle south of Da Nang, a center of the North's campaign to push beyond the 160-mile Viet Cong outposts this year, until he sent a strong force of troops last week to put down the rebellion. This would be one of the heaviest engagements between the Vietnamese army and the South Vietnamese armed forces.

Students Vent Exam Tension

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A protest by students opposing the university's decision to raise tuition and fees for the first time in 11 years was held Monday at Emory University.

About 45 minutes they unleashed tensions and inhibitions which might be building up before final examinations by pummeling each other with various forms of student property while a Dixieland band played "St. James Infirmary."

Organized by the editorial staff of the Phoenix, the campus magazine, the protest opened with Dean of Women Bonnie Strickland and Dean of Men Jerry Miller reading a statement which said:

"We, the students of Emory University, protest and will continue to protest the raise and the fees imposed by the Board of Trustees."
U.S. Pays Tribute to War Dead

By The Associated Press

The nation honored its war dead Monday with ceremonies and parades across the country to commemorate V-E Day.

President Johnson placed a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National Cemetery, and in a speech paid special tribute to men killed in the cold war since 1945 from Greece to Viet Nam.

"These men represent all those Americans who have risked their lives in the peace-building efforts since 1945," Johnson said. "And those Americans are there for a very solemn and meaningful purpose: to symbolize the freedom and the hope of the men and women who have died for freedom elsewhere."

Johnson Deplores Protest Suicides Of Viet Buddhists

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson deplored the protest suicides of Buddhists in South Viet Nam and warned that representative government cannot be built on the extermination of a whole nation unless the people "keep their internal conflicts and divisions within bounds."

Shortly before the President spoke, sources in Sai Gon reported that a young Buddhist monk had thrown himself off a roof and died Monday.

A Memorial Day speech delivered at the War Memorial, Johnson expressed belief that progress is being made in Viet Nam toward "a government that will increasingly reflect the will of its citizenry," he added: "It is tragic, in the present turmoil, that some choose acts of desperation to express their political beliefs."

"This unnecessary loss of life only obscures the progress that is being made toward a constitutional government, which only clouds the sacrifice of millions of men who have already made the cause of independence and political hope in South Viet Nam."

NATO Command Prepares To Leave Base in France

PARIS (AP) — When Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers Europe — SHAPE — leaves for French soil some time before next April it will mean an exodus of 9,000 persons.

SHAPE, first headed by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower after the North Atlantic treaty was signed in 1949, is situated just west of Paris in a temporary, rambling building.

Working there are 600 officers and 2,300 enlisted men from 14 countries — the United States, France, Britain, West Germany, Norway, Denmark, Belgium, Holland, Portugal, Luxembourg, Turkey, Canada, Greece and Italy.

The 15th member, Iceland, has no military forces and is not represented.

There are 430 civilians, about 80 per cent French. Many are involved with support operations, such as secretarial work, bus driving and maintenance jobs.

Dependent of the non-French military staff total about 6,000 and some live in SHAPE Village, which has 400 apartments. SHAPE Village also has a school for 1,800 French children.

President Charles de Gaulle has said he will withdraw the 7,000 remaining French officers from SHAPE by July 1. But French sources have said certain other French military and civilian personnel will be permitted to remain to help keep SHAPE operating and assist in moving when the time comes.

A timetable for the move may be blocked out for review by the ministerial meeting in Brussels.

Beside SHAPE headquarters near Paris, there is a secret underground command post designed to withstand atomic attack and continue to function in case of war. SHAPE officials will not discuss details.

Boy Survives Fall, 12,000-Volt Shock

NEW YORK (AP) — Eleven-year-old Ronnie Perez, who fell 30 feet to the tracks on the Island Rail Road freight yard and whose clothing and hair caught fire when he hit a high tension wire on the way down, sent this word to his rescuer:

"Please say 'thank you' to him for me."

Ronnie, listed as in critical condition but expected to live, suffered most of his burn on the left side in the accident Sunday. A policeman said Perez was walking across the railroad overpass in Brooklyn when he reached down with a steel rod and touched the power line. Werner said there was a thud, a flash and the boy seemed to be striking the power line as he plummeted to the tracks.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The mob of banner-waving youths surges into the street, shouting antigovernment and, at times, anti-Japanese slogans. The shrill sounds of whistles help to guide and control the movement of the demonstrators. Some of the whistles are held by young Buddhists in their gray, brown, yellow or orange robes. Others are used by men dressed in the campaign-type hats of World War I, blue shorts and blue, khaki or gray shirts adorned with various emblems.

The latter are the so-called Buddhist Boy Scouts, members of a militant arm of the Buddhist organization and in fact neither boys nor scouts. Most of them appear to be in their middle or late 20s, some younger but some look even older, wise and hardened in the ways of demonstrations in the streets.

Despite the war and other trials, Viet Nam has a regular Boy Scout organization that is affiliated with the international scouting movement. These youngsters engage in the activities of scouts—everywhere, except for restrictions on extended outings because of dangers from the Viet Cong. They are not associated with any of the political movements or street demonstrations.

The "Buddhist Boy Scouts," as they call themselves, are something else. Working with the monks who take part in street demonstrations, they serve as cadres for the motley crowds that collect when the banners are taken into the streets.

Membership in the Buddhist scout movement seems to be loosely defined; there are no hard rules or requisites for belonging. There also are no accurate estimates of their number. The total appears to be relatively small, but as with many militant groups, relatively effective.

Holiday Weather

Sunny But Frosty

By the Associated Press

Memorial Day was frosty and windy in a large section of the nation, especially the northern U.S., where temperatures in some places were 10 degrees below normal. The wind was at times even strong enough to bend the grass.

The Great Lakes were rough and choppy, with wind-chill factors making the water a bit farther out than usual for safe boating.

For Women Only

By Ed Rapetti

One of the oldest precepts concerning coeducational universities is that the women are there just to recruit husbands.

Assuming that this is true (who are we to argue with half a million college men), we made up the following brief test to give the ladies an idea of what their chances are of snaring a spouse.

The questions are based on exhaustive, nonscientific observations made haphazardly over the past few years in studying both sexes of the species known as Homo Sapiens Collegius.

1. When I play cards, chess, billiards, etc., with a fellow 1: (a) lose intentionally; (b) try to beat his brains out and (usually win); (c) lose, but not intentionally.
2. When on a swimming date 1: (a) tell the lifeguard that he can relax because you have someone to look out for; (b) tell the lifeguard to look out for your date because he swims like a rock; (c) ignore the lifeguard.
3. When dining out 1: (a) order the least expensive item on the menu and whisper to your date, "I don't want you to spend a lot of money on my account"; (b) order, without hesitation, lobster tails, filet mignon or whatever expensive, exotic foods strike my fancy; (c) ask my date what he is going to have, then order something in the same price range.
4. When I am at a party 1: (a) stay close to my date and hardly ever mix; (b) make it my business to dance at least once with every guy there no matter what my date thinks; (c) spend most of the time with my date but will dance and converse with others.
5. If my steady wants a "night out with the boys" 1: (a) let him go whenever he wants to; (b) insist that I must be allowed a "night out with the girls"; (c) let him go, but establish a one nigth a week arrangement so that I can plan to study, do laundry, etc., on that particular night.

Answers
As with all the other questions the "C" choice marks you as A likely candidate for matrimony. If you answered with "A" your man will discover sooner or later that you are merely patronizing him and this will score a tremendous blow to his ego.

The "B" choice is devastatingly mortal in any boy/ girl relationship. Beating a man in his own game will lose him for you every time. Being politely stupid but willing to learn is always the best approach if it is honest. If eventually you do beat your man at cards, or whatever, he'll think it is because he is such a great teacher. The ego remains intact.

Same goes for this question: choice "A" is obviously patronizing. "B" is obviously out of the question. "C" is the best choice because all men hate to have their dates even LOOK at a lifeguard.

Again, "C" is the best choice because it flatters the male without injuring his pride or his pocketbook.

4. "C" again. Most men like to date girls who are good mixers but will remember whom they came to the party with. Girls who have to be sure they meet and greet everyone there, or hang on to their date like a leech, are taboo.

5. This is a question that causes gray hair among all men, married or unmarried, young and old. The "A" response, although it seems like the best choice to a man's way of thinking, is not really the best. After a while the man will think you either don't care what he does or that you are doing things on the sly while he's out.

Choice "B" is a real trouble maker. Girls who insist on this type of arrangement usually wind up without the man, or if he's still around, he doesn't go out with the fellows any more. The reason is that a group of fellows out whooping it up usually have a few drinks or shoot pool, etc. But girls out unescorted are usually considered "fair game" to unattached males. If you don't want to be fair game don't insist on a night out if he wants one.

Choice "C" is probably the best because it will give you an opportunity to do things you otherwise wouldn't have. If the fellow takes you out regularly there really isn't any reason why you should insist on going out by yourself.

Scoring: 10 points for "A" response, 5 for "B", and 20 points for "C". "C" is the best choice if you scored 70 and 100 you're probably engaged or will be before long. Between 40 and 70 you could stand some improvement before you scare them all away. Below 40, if you don't change your ways you might as well plan to be a career girl... unless you find a man that's a mouse.

National Flag Bank Dedicated During Memorial Ceremonies

The National Memorial Flag Bank at Woodlawn Cemetery was dedicated during Memorial Day ceremonies Monday observing the centennial of the beginning of Memorial Day in Carbondale.

While there are many claimants to the first Memorial Day, John W. Allen, Southern Illinois historian, told the crowd at the observance that as far as he could find, "we have the oldest community-wide veteran - participating Memorial Day in history."

Congressman Kenneth Gray, who spoke at a luncheon Monday honoring participants in the centennial observance, is presently working toward passage of a bill to declare Carbondale as the official site of the first Memorial Day.

During Monday's observance three Carbondale youths re-enacted the decoration of a Civil War soldier's grave by his wife and two sons. According to records, a scene such as this took place near Crab Orchard Cemetery in April of 1866, giving three Civil War veterans who witnessed it the inspiration to organize the first formal Memorial Day observance.

Dedication of the flag bank was by the Rev. Ernest C. Klein, a "Green Beret" chaplain with the 12th Special Forces, of Huntington, Ind.

The flag bank came into being earlier this year when the widow of a World War I veteran, Mrs. Burrell Smith of Carbondale, expressed a desire for a proper and dignified way to use the flag which had draped her husband's coffin.

Earlier in the day a parade through Carbondale featured color guards from the Army, Air Force, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard, and marching units of the National Guard, reserve units, the SNU AFROTC drill team and veterans' organizations.

As afternoon and evening performance of "Epilogue to Glory," presented at the theater in the new Communications Building.

HEART STUDY - Sam Silas (left), former football great at SIU and now defensive tackle for the St. Louis Cardinals, examines data with Ronald G. Knowlton, assistant professor of physical education. Silas has taken part in tests made by Knowlton in his study of the heart.

Strength, Efficiency of Heart Studied in Project at Southern

A thorough study of the strength and efficiency of the human heart is being conducted at SIU under the direction of Ronald G. Knowlton, assistant professor of physical education.

The study is conducted in the Physical Education Research Laboratory, considered one of the finest in the country.

In studying the heart, measuring its strength in the focal point of Knowlton's experiments. Under carefully controlled conditions, small changes in the rate and force of the heartbeat are detected and recorded. This allows heart comparisons which have proven very accurate.

The research is centered around what is called a ballistocardiograph, an oscillating table on which a person is supported nearly without friction on a column of mercury.

There are now only eight of these air-supported, ultra-low-frequency models in operation in the nation.

The instrument measures the most minute movement of the body which results from the contraction of the heart. These movements are amplified and recorded by the ballistocardiograph.

The subjects are usually tested early in the morning, before breakfast, in order that no stimulants may affect the heart condition, Knowlton said.

The person is weighed, dressed in casual clothes, and a known amount of exercise is performed. Measurements are then taken on the ballistocardiograph, with the subject completely relaxed. This is followed by alternate work and more measurements.

Although athletes are the most frequent test subjects, Knowlton's study also involves other age groups.

Athletes are used mainly to test the validity of the experiments," he said. "We plan to deal with all age groups."

"The study of the heart in this manner comes at a time when new theories are rapidly emerging concerning age and the heart," Knowlton explained. "Some experts in the field of physical fitness now feel that age is no barrier to the strength and efficiency of the heart. An increasing number of doctors now recommend such exercise as long jogs for those with weak heart conditions."

Salukis Knock Pittsburgh U.

In Weekend Power Games

The baseball Salukis turned in their strongest hitting performance of the season Saturday, when they defeated the University of Pittsburgh two games at Pittsburgh, 10-1 and 11-1.

The second game was marred by rain, and only five innings could be completed.

In the first game, Du- keland, SIU's "A" pitcher, held Duquesne to three hits for one game, walked one and struck out four.

Jerry Evans drove in two runs, and Bob Bernstein had a double and a home run. In the second game, SIU's Bill Liskey took over the pitching duties, and Silsky hurled a five-player, 11-inning game of the season.

Liskey hurled a five-player, walked one and struck out seven.

Russ Keene led the Salukis in hitting during the "A" game, with a .500 average, a double and a home run.

Other outstanding hitters in this series were Steve Kelle, who had a two-run double, and Bob Collins, who had two hits in SIU's seven-inning first game.

The Salukis played their final game of the season with Duquesne University on Saturday at Pittsburgh, winning 9-0, for a 27-1 season record.
Charlotte West Heads WRA

Over 1,000 Coeds Participate in Program

By Bob Reinecke

Charlotte West neither talks nor acts like Donald Boydston or Abe Mazurek. She is a woman first and foremost in common with both. She heads major sports program at SIU.

As the director and adviser of the Southern Intramural Association, the organization that coordinates women's sports activities at Southern, Miss West is responsible for directing the intramural and extramural activities for women.

And this is no simple task, since more than a thousand girls are active in the 100 sports offered at Southern. She is one of the nation's best college players, she is one of the nation's best scholars, she is one of the nation's best college players, she is one of the nation's best students.

"It's always a big challenge for us," West said. "We have many of the athletes who are the best in the nation, and we have to keep them interested in the activities.

"But the WRA doesn't have a budget, it's all voluntary. We have to rely on the dedication of the men's team, to give us a fair share of their time.

Summer Work for Varsity

Tennis Tournament Circuit Calls

Sprengelmeier, a sophomore from Dubuque, Iowa, is the younger member of a brother team, Roy and Hub, that played in the top positions for the Salukis last year. Hub, also a sophomore, was recruited by Coach Dick LeFevre in Mexico, the Philippines, as well as Johnny Yang, who will also be competing in the tournament circuit.

The three Salukis in the Midwest will be Mike Sprengelmeier, the Saluki’s No. 1 man, Jose Villaret, who follows Sprengelmeier, and Johnny Yang, who plays in the No. 3 position for Southern Illinois University.

Some of the other major events in the Midwest are the Western Association tennis championships in Minneapolis, Minn., and the national clay court championships in Milwaukee, Wis.

Then the circuit followers travel east in July for the Eastern Regional Invitational Tournament in Longwood, Mass.

In August, the Newport, R.I., Invitational Tournament is a big attraction, along with the Eastern Grass Court Championships in South Orange, N.J.

Other events in the East include the Pennsylvania Junior Grass Championships in Harrisburg, and the Baltimore, Md., Invitational Tennis Tournament.

In September, the summer circuit is wrapped up in Fort Hills, N.Y., where the national tennis championships are sponsored by the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association.

Wreck-Marred ‘500’ Won by Graham Hill

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Graham Hill, 30-year-old Londoner, won the 500 mile Memorial Day auto race Monday on his first attempt, a feat that had not been accomplished by a rookie at the old Speedway since 1927.

Hill was 1962 world road racing champion. The defending world and Indianapolis champ, Jimmy Clark of Scotland, finished second.

Only six cars were running at the finish of the worst race for wrecks and engine failures in the track history. The lowest previous number of survivors was eight in 1951.

A blazing pileup of 16 cars stopped the 30th annual 500-mile race moments after it started. Only one driver and six spectators were hurt, none seriously.

The 24 cars remaining undamaged restarted the race in carrier flames. In burning cars were extinguished and the debris cleared from the 2/1-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway track. The 16 cars were the most ever involved in one smashup at the track.

A. J. Foyt, winner of the 1960 and 1961 races, suffered a cut finger and bruised left knee. He was treated and cleared to drive relief for another car, if needed.

The other cars were treated for minor hurts caused when wheels flying from one of the cars hurtled into Grandstand B.

Cars involved in the smashup included those driven by Don Branson, Billy Foster, Gary Conner and Mel Kenney.

Other events in the East include the Pennsylvania Grass Championships in Harrisburg, and the Baltimore, Md., Invitational Tennis Tournament.

In September, the summer circuit is wrapped up in Fort Hills, N.Y., where the national tennis championships are sponsored by the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association.

Don’t just sit there, Wallace-Middendorp.

Make a noise. Or drink Sprite, the noisy soft drink.

What did you do when Joe (Boscar) Brinnapalz kicked off the football field? Just because he flipped six out of five of his majors? What did you do, Wallace-Middendorp? And when the school newspaper’s editors resigned in protest because The Chancellors wouldn’t allow the publication of certain salacious portions of “Night in a Dormitory” — are you just sat, didn’t you? You’ve made a mockery of your life, Wallace-Middendorp. You’re a vegetable, Wallace-Middendorp. Take a stand. Make a noise! Or drink a, er, soft drink. One fine bottle of Sprite and you’ll have a crowd of excited people.

Hallie, the noisy hockey player, echoes the thought of the noisy people. Let it tear, tingling acrobatic infest the crowd with excitement. Do some things, Wallace-Middendorp. Do these things, that Smoke generation is going to hire you!
