Stevenson blasts costs of energy

By Gary Deluca
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Adai Stevenson at a press conference in the Student Center Mississippi room Friday evening. The character journalist was the target of many questions during the conference.

Stevenson, speaking to about 20 people, said the energy crisis is not one of supply, but one of "price and monopoly."

"This country is, more than any other country on earth, at the mercy of the cartel," Stevenson said. Since last year's Arab-Israeli conflict, oil exporting nations, led by the Arabs, have banded together to raise prices to their current high levels.

When asked what congress and the President can do to combat the cartel, Stevenson said, "They could pass my bill." His proposed Export Act would give the President authority to directly negotiate with oil exporters concerning prices.

He called for economic retaliation against the Arabs if they fail to cooperate with U.S. oil needs.

Another possible solution is strict control of domestic supplies and prices. Stevenson said the U.S. depends on domestic sources for 85 per cent of its oil.

Stevenson said the country also needs a federal gas and oil corporation to "give the oil companies competition and keep them honest." He said support in Congress for such a corporation "still has a long way to go."

He added that "much will depend on this election. It's up to the people to elect people that will represent them and not the oil companies."

Stevenson said a "big vote is needed for democratic candidates to serve as a counterweight to a cartel that has been able to gain the past six years of misrule."

He criticized the administrations of Richard Nixon and Gerald Ford, saying that in the past six years the national debt has risen to unacceptable heights.

Nixon-Ford policies have led to the high unemployment rate, Stevenson said. He explained that every time unemployment goes up one per cent it costs the nation 25,000 jobs.

Turning to other issues, Stevenson said he feels Nelson Rockefeller will be confirmed for the vice presidency but Stevenson wanted to withhold judgement "until all the facts are in."

A spokesman for Simon's Republican opponent, Val Oshel of Harrisburg, disclaimed any connection with the document, said it was a bad reflection on the Oshel campaign and termed it "hitting the bell."

Wayne DeLap, Simon chairman, wrote letters Thursday to the FBI and the watchdog Fair Campaign Practices Committee requesting an immediate and thorough investigation.

According to DeLap, the pamphlet violates a federal law that requires campaign material carry the names of the individuals sponsoring it.

Some of the pamphlets were mailed Thursday from Carbondale. The Oshel spokesmen said others have been mailed from Washington and West Franklin.

Simon had no comment on the publication. DeLap said all of the charges in the pamphlet were false.

Landlord dispute sparks council to license all city rental property

By Dave Iba
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Due to a series of disputes with one landlord, the city has drafted a blanket rental registration ordinance covering all rental properties, according to Barrett Rockman, owner of Rockman Realty Co.

For years the city has licensed "rooming houses," dwellings containing three or more unrelated persons. Rockman consistently has refused to have his properties registered.

"The real purpose of licensing procedure as it now stands is harrassment," Rockman observed. "I'm not protesting licensing itself, I just can't see the difference between a house and a rooming house."

City Hall has taken Rockman to circuit court four times, and each time the court has dismissed the city's citation due to lack of solid evidence. Rockman explained Friday. His firm leases out 20 houses on the northwest side of Carbondale.

The city does not license houses rented by families, Rockman noted. Because inspectors must approve houses prior to licensing, the city apparently places greater concern for safety on unrelated persons rather than families, he pointed out.

The city inspects houses to keep track of students, assuming students would run down properties, Rockman said. However, according to a Housing and Urban Development (HUD) study, the northwest side experienced a 50 per cent reduction in code violations over a one year period after students moved into the neighborhood, Rockman said.

In August, the city zoned students out of the northwest side, Rockman said. Students, he said, were "blamed for the decay that took 30 years to make." The city has zoned 80 per cent of Carbondale land areas for family life-styles, Rockman noted. This forces students into a ghetto north of campus, he said.

According to the present housing ordinance, a rooming house is "any dwelling or any part of a dwelling containing one or more rooms or units in which space is rented by the owner or

Past performance in politics, says Hoffman, is main theme

By Martha Sanford

"You can promise people the moon but you have to get things done," Sherman Hoffman said. Hoffman, a candidate for Jackson County sheriff, feels his greatest campaign pitch is the work he's done in office.

"I'm a doer. I've brought more improvements in my one term than any number of promises," he said.

Since his election in 1970, Hoffman has been involved in the enforcement of state laws and conditions and initiating a record check system, which was kept up to date and available 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

The county is also now under a zoned patrol system and the deputies have a merit system. The merit system takes most of the politics out of the deputies' jobs and provides some job security, said Hoffman.

The primary issue in this year's sheriff's race, Hoffman said, is continued improvement. "I can promise to improve enforcement. I think I have the experience and I also have to realize there won't be as many things to improve this time," Hoffman said.

He also said the budget for the sheriff's department is controlled by the County Board. The budget for this year, which expired June 15, is $211,515. Hoffman said he believes the budget for next year, which expires June 15, will be handled by other coroner and marshal. Saying the latter have to do much different work, Hoffman said, "Doing the job is always more important. That's the best cam­aigning you can do," he said.

Of course he takes every opportunity to have people on the street. Around election time I always have law enforcement and protection, he said. "People know it and me, I'll be elected, but it sure makes you feel good."

White has programs he wants established for the Sheriff's Department including: A junior deputy sheriff program for youths ages 16-18 to provide youths with an understanding of law enforcement and its careers, education program for interested county schools and classes in safety and relevant aspects of law, and temporary sub-stations in rural villages for a shorter time for patrols.

He also wants crime prevention programs to be initiated in protecting themselves and their homes. The sheriff's office to all of Jackson County, and a highly educated and trained law enforcement staff.

"I want to get more involved in law enforcement. I have my own thoughts on what I want to do. Service is what it's all about," White said.

White, a native of Anna, was placed in charge of the Police-Community Relations Program after the 1970 riots at SIU. He has conducted in-service training courses for fellow policemen in matters of enforcement areas.

In 1971, he received an Associate Degree in Law Enforcement from SIU and currently he is completing studies for a degree in Administration of Justice.

Stan Fraser, 22, Republican candidate for Jackson County Clerk, made some serious charges in a recent interview about the condition of the clerk's office and outlined why he feels he should be elected.

"Let me tell you how bad it is," Fraser, an SIU student, said, referring to the county clerk's office. He then launched into a lengthy discussion of the problems he feels the office is facing under the direction of incumbent Democrat Robert Harrell.

Harrell was appointed to office last June following the resignation of Bell. For he is not a duly elected official, Fraser says, "Harrell is more porportioned to the people, and not to his constituents."

"In fact, it would be a revelation to you that a $27,000 microfilm was purchased to preserve and store Jackson County records and the sheriff's outreach program. When it was purchased, "Harrell has been an advocate for county citizens one that machine," Fraser said.

Fraser, a Jackson County native who majored in government at SIU, says he already has been approached by people trying to buy his support. A man from a firm competing with one that prints the county fiscals said, "I'm here to buy your support," but if he would refused to make it in the first place a Republican, according to Fraser.

Fraser said he turned him down.

Fraser looks at this as an example of the type of corruption that has developed in the county. He says that this situation can be attributed to the lack of competitive bidding for the county printing contracts.

Fraser also said if elected he would vigorously go after those involved in any voting fraud. He cited the failure of the clerk's office to remove the names of deceased voters from the county election rolls as an example of the clerk's legal responsibility. He added, "Under the mobile ballot box system today, the rolls are full of 'cemetery, residents.'

"I think the best way for the county clerk to close down his office after working for only two hours during the day is a return to the position of a dedicated employee of the county," he said. It also culled from a list of candidates who need his services, Fraser said.
Russell campaigns on coroner record

By Michael Harris

Democrat candidate Louis R. Russell has centered his campaign on experience for Jackson County coroner. He was appointed Deputy Coroner in 1964 by former Jackson County coroner Richard Hall. He held that position for eight years, which includes almost a full year when he served as acting coroner when Hall was ill.

Russell, 53, has been a barber in Murphysboro for 30 years. He is running against independent Earl B. Summers, the Republican incumbent in the upcoming Nov. 5 elections.

Among Russell, the easiest part of the coroner's job is keeping the records. He said his hardest task is notifying the next of kin after a person dies.

"In some cases there isn't any next of kin, so you have to find a lead on someone who can identify the body, usually a public official. Though it gets frustrating at times, I've worked with the longest it ever took was six hours."

Some of the issues in Russell's campaign platform are training sessions and an actual practicum experience for the deputy coroner in working with the coroner. Russell says where the doctor cannot give the cause of death and the coroner is under a great deal of pressure. Russell noted the use of a rotating call list for perspective jurors so that experienced jurors for inquests are readily available.

"As a full time Coroner, I'd be on call 24 hours a day, and could be reached at a shop during the day or home during the night," Russell said.

"The prime issue in a judicial race, according to C. Robert Hall, is the man running for office. "

As a Republican candidate for Jackson County resident Circuit Court judge, says he feels the social issues go no further than the candidates background and characteristics.

"Background and character, History. Hall said past include legal education, experience and character, as a factor in choosing the man himself, his honesty is more important."

"A man is but a total of his past experiences. "These have an effect in his role in the court and is also in his being a judge, "Hall said.

As a coroner candidate, Russell outlined his background beginning with his education at the University of Illinois. After graduating from law school, Hall, a Cardenlade native, returned to his home where he has practiced law for the past 23 years.

During that time, he handled cases for defendants and plaintiffs and served for seven years as an assistant to the Illinois Attorney General.

"The real question is which man would do the job better," Hall said. "I feel I'm better qualified to serve."

When asked if he feels at a disadvantage because of his opponents past judicial experience, Hall said. "My opponent's experience has only been (more or less) the same as the common man's. I've been trying to do it my best for public service."

"I am not a total of his past experience, "These have an effect in his role in the court and is also in his being a judge, "Hall said."

Consolidate all care tax money through less duplication of services, providing funding for needed road repairs and bringing professional road care to township roads—these are the reasons why Jackson County residents should vote ‘Yes’ to number 143 in the Nov. 5 election and pass the unit road referendum.

Each of the 16 township commissioners are elected and each collects the road tax for his township. By consolidating the 16 townships under one title, county highway superintendent salaries for each township supervisor will be saved.

Also, if the referendum is adopted, the superintendent will be responsible for upkeep of all the roads in Jackson county, 733 miles, and one road crew will be utilized for road repairs.

The reduction of road crews from 17 to one will lead to greater efficiency and less duplication. Five road crews will be utilized instead of the current 10. The county workers will be needed by his department later on.

Under the new system, the county highway budget and the unit district budget will be kept separate. Work time will be charged to the county budget for county roads and the unit district for township roads. The same equipment will be used for both county and township roads.

Critics of the proposed consolidation claim the loss of local control will mean that township roads will be neglected and the county will charge township areas to receive all the funds and attention.

Currently, many township roads and roads bridges face neglect because individual townships simply lack the funds to make the extensive repairs needed. During the last safety inspection, 37 township bridges were found unsafe for school buses.

State law specifies all roads receive equal treatment except in cases of heavy traffic or safety hazards. The consolidated district will allow all needed repairs to be made on bridges because funds can be used collectively in regions unable to meet safety standards.

Under the consolidated system, professional road care will be brought to the township level since law requires the highway superintendent to also be a professional engineer. Accordingly, actual work will be increased in the county system far more than ‘local control’ now allows. The county can assume the roads in the populated areas will receive all the funds and attention.

In addition, the county unit district will not bring about any raise in taxes. With the new system, taxes will be the same, or less, than the road tax levy for 1974, with further reductions possible once the system is established. Road equipment currently owned by the townships will be appraised and sold to the county with the money being credited exclusively to the township road fund.

County residents will pay less taxes but will receive required funding for road repairs. In addition, the consolidated system requires a more professional maintenance organization and services will not be as likely to be duplicated.

For these reasons, vote ‘Yes’ to number 143 in the Nov. 5 election.

Toward becoming an open government

By Jon Kartman Student Writer

If Congress adopts the proposal to experiment for one year with five TV and radio coverage in legislature, the move would be one of the most refreshing ones to come out of Washington for many years.

A congressional committee, headed by Sen. Lee Metcalf (D-Mont.) and Rep. Jack Brooks (D-Texas), recommended the proposal for public exhibition coverage of floor proceedings of both houses and the coverage be made available to commercial and public broadcasters.

“Congress should exercise no control over the selection of materials for broadcast use,” the committee report stated, adding that the cameras be placed as unobtrusively as possible.

The report concluded saying, “Clearly, at this moment in our nation’s history, the people’s right to know and-to-know must be given additional, adequate coverage so that the people can keep informed.”

We must never forget that government in secrecy gives us Vietnam and Watergate. If Congress can help lift the dark shroud that still surrounds part of our government, perhaps future Vietnam and Watergates can be avoided.
Clinic to offer breast cancer exams

By Nancy Landis

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"Beginning Monday, the Carbondale clinic will begin x-raying Southern Illinois women with a special x-ray machine, which detects breast cancer."

According to Dr. Wilson Scott, director of the department of radiology at the clinic and at Doctor's Memorial Hospital, the first and only machine in Southern Illinois. The next closest machine is in Springfield. The x-ray technology will cost $65,000 and will take about 30 minutes, Scott said. Three weeks of advance appointments have already been made.

The only way to decrease mortality of breast cancer is to find it early while it's very small and before it has a chance to spread; "Scott said. This system of x-rayography is one of the best ways of reducing the case death rate from breast cancer."

He said cancer occurs most often, in women over 35, in women with a family history of cancer or in women who have previous breast cancer.

In making a xerography exam, Scott said a female x-ray technician will have a patient sit at a table with the patient's chest exposed on a special x-ray plate. Each breast is x-rayed and the plate is inserted into the xerography processor. A blue image is produced on paper, which gives the technician an idea of the breast's fine detail, he said.

Cancers have characteristic shapes and sizes, and can be detected by comparing images of both breasts. Scott said the xerography machine is a direct outgrowth from the Xerox Corp. He said the American Cancer Society, Jackson County Chapter gave the clinic a grant a year ago to purchase the machine and a physician to use the machine and money for the first cost of leasing it.

The Cancer society has been trying to encourage women to examine their breasts carefully, Scott said, so that they can start treatment as early as possible.

Scott said one out of every 15 women gets breast cancer, and added that recent publicity of breast cancer in Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Rockefeller "has awakened women to the fact that breast cancer is a killer."

Xerography tests will be open to women over 35, or by the patient's recommendation by doctors, but will not exclude women without family doctors, Scott said.

Senator Ken Buzbee:
Instead of making promises he couldn't keep, he kept the promises he made.

One of the reasons Ken Buzbee managed to do what he said he'd do is that he didn't promise to change the world overnight.

Instead he said he was hard, full-time to be an effective independent State Senator. How did he do? Well, here's the record. Make up your own mind:

Here's What Buzbee Promised:
1. Ken Buzbee promised to disclose his personal income, his campaign contributions and expenditures, and fight hard for a state law which would require all legislation to be the same.
2. Ken Buzbee promised to tackle the tough issues as well as the easy ones.
3. Ken Buzbee promised to be responsive to the requests of the people of Southern Illinois.
4. Ken Buzbee promised to be an effective voice for Southern Illinois even as a freshman senator in a minority party.
5. Ken Buzbee promised to be an independent Democrat, listening to all sides but voting his conscience.

Here's What Buzbee Did:
Ken Buzbee has made public his income tax return and has receipts of all campaign contributions over $50.00 and campaign expenditures. He worked hard to pass the new election law which is one of the strongest in the nation.

Ken Buzbee is in a long-term fight for full funding of the Southern Illinois Supplemental-Freeway System, more money for SIU, reorganization of the Southern Illinois coal industry, while preserving our environment, and a state department for senior citizens. He hasn't yet won all these fights, but then he didn't promise to win all the time.

Ken Buzbee answered over 15,000 requests from his district office and made regular visits to every county in the district. He listens.

Ken Buzbee got 20 of the 30 bills which he sponsored in his very first session passed into law. He won the "Outstanding Freshman Senator" Award from the IEA.

Ken Buzbee was ranked 6th out of 58 senators by the Independent Voters of Illinois. Always, he was his own man.

Keep a Full-Time Senator in the Senate. He worked hard. He got results. He'll do it again.

Carbondale Jaycees seek members

By Nancy Lands Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Joe Moore, acting president of the Carbondale Jaycees, said that Jaycees are looking for members, 18 to 35, who are interested in community action and self-development.

"We are in a reorganization period," Moore said. He said membership has fallen recently and the Jaycees are trying to recruit new members.

Moore said he hopes to have 75 new members by Nov. 25, when the Jaycees will have a social for new members.

Election of new officers is scheduled for Dec. 12. Moore said. The Jaycees will sell Christmas trees for the third consecutive year, beginning the first weekend in December, he said. Proceeds will go to community activities.

Among area groups sponsored by the Carbondale Jaycees during the last two years, Jaycees Field-a fast pitch softball field under construction at Evergreen Park.

Moore said Jaycees have spent $30,000 to $50,000 on the softball field, and light for the field are being installed now, he said.

Too much for kids

Play aims at wrong audience

By Michael Hawley Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The purpose of children's theater is to entertain the children's minds and to entertain.

And Lenny Gordon had hoped to entertain the children as far as they can be freed" with his adaptation of "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown."

Judging from children's reactions to the show, however, their minds were not freed nor entertained. "A Sidewalk Post-Musical and Deeply Symbolic Departure for You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," with its spastic dancing fakers, quadrupedal mayhem and improvised dialogue was just too much for them, and occasionally, myself, to handle.

Throughout the show's beginning, the children displayed very little visual and audio stimuli was enough to keep them interested, even if they had no idea what was going on. But you could only look through a kaleidoscope for so long before your eyes became dim and your ears dull.

But what the show should be criticized for is on one hand deserve praise or another. Performed by a company of trained dancers, the whole thing was a beautiful exercise filled in moments of relative quietness, the type that are your dream of amphetamine-like nervousness, without any resulting sense of frustration or excitement in the production.

Local Lions plan pancake feast

By Nancy Lands Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Carbondale Lions Club will host its 12th annual Pancake Days fund raising projects Nov. 2 and 3 in a checkerboard tent by the IC depot.

According to George H. Jessop Lions Club treasurer. Pancake Days will be held between 6 a.m. and 4 p.m. Nov. 2 and 8 a.m. and 1 p.m. Nov. 3. He said pancakes, sausage, milk and coffee will be served.

Tickets are $1.50 for adults and $2.50 for children 10 and under. Banquet style blind persons may be served free.

Jessop said he expects proceeds from Pancake Days will be around $2.00, which will be donated to charity and the community.

During the past 10 years the Lions Club has spent $22,700, including $1,014 in glasses for underprivileged children, $2,700 for other activities aiding the blind, $2,700 for the YMCA and $9,200 for other community projects, he said.

"We provide glasses for the needy children in Carbondale," he said.

The school nurse finds students who need glasses, but whose families cannot afford them, and sends the students to Jerry Levemisler, a Carbondale ophthalmologist. The Lions Club pays for the glasses, he said.

The Lions Club also donates to the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness, Leader Dog. Hadley School for the Blind in St. Louis, the District Eye-Care Bank and Illinois Camp Lions, Jessop said.

Lions Club sponsors Carbondale with Fourth of July fireworks, he said.

University departments to stimulate interest in Explorer Troops sponsorship.

Sanders, professor in Human Resources Rehabilitation, said the proposed program is a "big step" from the days of hand-making and wood-cutting.

"The Explorers are now open to males and females and, with the increased age range among the Explorers are in college," Sanders said.

There is a complete overlap now in membership of a post. We might have people in high school, prep school and college.

"With this proposed program we will have posts on careers which are oriented for pre-vocational or avocational interest groups," he said.

"A young person will be able to join to get a professional, or he or she might like to be in," Sanders said.

Sanders said the program will help the University recruit possible students.

"From the University's point of view this is a good source for recruiting potential undergraduate students," Sanders said.

Sanders said a survey was conducted in area schools to explore interest. "We ran a survey last year in the area of ninth, tenth, and eleventh grades. We asked the young people to give us their top three choices from a list of 100 vocations.

These surveys were put through the computer to show what young people were interested in what vocations. As a result we are now approaching various departments and selecting those of these 'interest' posts.

"I might add that President Lesar has been very favorable to this and he has appointed James Jacob, of the School of Technical Careers, to the institutional representative for the program," Sanders said.

"Already we have gotten some commitments from people in aviation technology and foreign language to sponsor posts. Aviation technology has a list of over 150 people who expressed interest in that field as a vocation," he said.

Sanders said interest in Explorers and scouting has declined in the last few years. The post has just sampled 4,000 young people and he is optimistic about the programs attraction for new members.

"I am hopeful this program and other interest posts in local industry and business will be established. These programs are much more on the line and they attract young people to the Explorers," Sanders said.

Road consolidation an election issue

By Robert Mau
Student Writer

Should a unit road district replace the 36 township roads which exist in Jackson County? Voters will answer this question when it appears on the ballot in the general election on Nov. 8.

The proposed unit road district would consolidate all the township roads in the county into one district, separate from the county highway system.

Under the proposed system, each township elects its own road commissioner who is a legal voter and a resident of the township. But he does not need any road working experience.

If the proposed unit road district is passed, the system would be supervised by the county superintendent of highways, who is required by state law to be a professional engineer and has passed a state examination to be licensed by the county board.

Bill Murray, resident of highways for Jackson County, said funds for the township roads would have to be kept separate from county road funds. However, under the proposed system, the county would levy taxes for the township roads instead of the individual townships.

The tax rate under the proposed system would total 21.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation. This rate would include 18.5 cents for road tax and five cents for a "new bridge" tax.

The proposed unit tax is lower than the present road tax rates in seven townships including Carbondale Township, which has a rate of 24.2 cents per $100 assessed valuation, and Murphysboro Township, which has a rate of 26 cents.

The tax rates would increase in six townships and remain the same in three.

Munson said his work crew would have to be increased if the unit district is approved. There is presently 14 full-time workers and seven more would be needed. Munson said. Some of the workers could possibly be former township road workers, he added.

Under state law, Munson, who was hired for a six-year term in April, 1973, would supervise the unit road district as part of his job as county highway supervisor. He said his salary would not be increased.

Wrestlers seeking reversal of record

By Ron Sutton

Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

For the second time in his life, Saluki wrestling coach Lon Long was associated with a loser last year. A barrage of injuries and one case of personal family conflicts destroyed a once talented looking squad and sank the SIU team with a 6-12-1 record.

Perhaps because of the sudden turnaround, Long is hesitant to become too optimistic about his squad's chances this season, but the fact remains that he has six experienced grapplers returning to lead the way. "Last year we had a good deal of talent, but we had some unfortunate things happen that you can't help too much," Long remarked Thursday. "With all the injuries, it was like a junkyard, going for the missing parts for each meet."

What I felt was a talented team never got it together. They took things well last year, though, and if they came back well last year, they came back really well this year."

Leading the reconstruction program should be lettermen Joe Goldsmith (118-120), Clyde Ruffin (145), Fred Hoef (134), Tim McSorley (158-167), Mark Weisner (167-177) and Jay Friedrich (177-190). Goldsmith, Ruffin and Friedrich are juniors, and Ruffin and Hoef are sophomores.

Two others that should help considerably are 138-pound sophomore Mike Haywood, who sat out last season with personal problems, and returning sophomore Tim Mayday (187).

Sophomore Dennis Ideran (130-141) is the first candidate for the injury list. Ideran hurt his knee and had it operated on in June, but either the physician missed something or the damage was more serious than was first believed.

The new crop of recruits is rather small in number, but designed to take over immediately. "We had what you would call a recruiting year that will provide help for us," Long phrased it. "We lost men at 118, 134, 190 and heavyweight, so we picked up two

LUMS, a 134, two 190's and a heavyweight."

The freshmen prospects include Mike Pichonker of Verrion, Ill., and Dennis Lewis of Vornolton, Ind., at 118; Dale Eggert of Lobernyville, Ind., at 134; Marvin Martin of Roscoe, Ill., and Tim Swoboda of Manhattan, Wis., at 190, and Pittsburg native Ken Karkowski at heavyweight.

"They seem to be moving along with pretty good dispatch," Long said. "They'll help us."

The only transfer student in Long's plans is Esao Hashimoto, who came to Carbondale last fall from Hachimote, Japan. Hashimoto is vying for the 134-pound spot.

Out of that nucleus, Long feels he has seven grapplers who can qualify for the nationals. Weisen won the Eastern qualifiers last year, but was later hurt in a dual meet at Oklahoma and had to forfege the nationals.

"These guys are hand-picked "hard cases."

Long said. "By that I mean a guy that is so stubborn that if you are going to fight him, you better kill him, or he is going to fight you every day until he beats you."

"The fellows on the team feel that they hadn't made their best input last year," Long continued. "If everybody sets his goal high enough and works at it, it takes care of the team success."

"If they're back-for-leather types, we won't lose much."

The grapplers open their season Nov. 30 at Champaign in the Illinois Invitational. Although no team standings will be compiled, 40 schools have been invited to send individuals.

Long plans to send all his freshmen and "probably everybody that can walk" in what he views as a farandole of the state high school championships. On Dec. 4, the Salukis meet Navy to kick off a grueling schedule that peaks with the Eastern Qualifying Feb. 22.

"It's a long way from high school to college, but it's a real long way from high school to that schedule," Long remarked. "It's the only way you can learn to sharpen up, draw a little quicker and shoot a little faster."

"Let's start over"
No Jazz, Hawthorne now with Suns

By Dave Wieczorek
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Homecoming is traditionally the one weekend set aside for alumni to go back to their alma mater and see old friends and attend all the festive events. One alumna who won't make it back to SIU this year, however, is former basketball star Nate Hawthorne.

The reason behind Hawthorne's erstwhile absence is that Hawthorne is entering his second year in the NBA and spends most of his time on the court traveling.

Hawthorne, who played his rookie season for the Los Angeles Lakers, went to the New Orleans Jazz in the expansion draft this year. His move was due to a trade manipulated by Sun's general manager Jerry Colangelo.

"I played in the Southern California Summer Pro League this past summer," Hawthorne said in a phone interview Wednesday afternoon. "Some of us went on tour to Japan for 11 days and Hawaii for another four days. The coach of this summer league team happened to be Colangelo. He impressed with my play so he traded for me.

Hawthorne's best performance in the summer league was 37 points and he was "in the zone basically every game."

"I'm glad to be in Phoenix," Hawthorne said, commenting on the trade. "New Orleans had 17 players who played last year plus free agents and rookies. They had more than 35 players meaning more than half would be cut."

"I think that I couldn't make the team, but here at Phoenix there was only one guard who was cut out of the mix. The main thing was getting a place where I thought I could play."

The weather is pretty nice here," the Mt. Vernon native added.

Hawthorne did not see much playing time last year sitting behind such stars as Jerry West, Gail Goodrich and Jim Price. He's a little more optimistic this year.

"I think I'll get more playing time this year. I had a real good camp and played in our first two games," the Suns had played only two games at the time of this interview. He explained that some pretty good talent is still playing before him.

"I think it's a matter of time before I'm the number three guard. For three or four years Hawthorne thrived with fans and his amazing jumping ability and three-point shooting. When he was hot, fall-away jumpers ripped the cords with shots coming from deep in the corner and the top of the key.

"I'm a foot and four inches guard. finished his career at SIU as the school's tenth leading scorer on the all-time list. His senior year, Hawthorne played both forward and guard and averaged 13.3 points per game and 5.7 rebounds. Hawthorne is still trying to make the adjustment from the Lake system to Phoenix's system but found it wasn't too hard adjusting from college ball to professional.

"It seems to me like I've played better as a pro than in college. It's more free than in the pros. It also helps to play with guys who make you play better. You have to play better if you're going to make money here."

The Suns were 30-52 last year and Hawthorne made a slight prediction for this season.

"I think we can do better than last year but for sure we can't play better than last year."

"We're in a new division but we're young and can keep injuries to a minimum, this will be an advantage.

"He was asked if the American Basketball Association has approached him with any offers. He's talked with a man with a head scout for the Lakers and several ABA teams, including the Utah Stars and he said he would give me some help if things didn't work out in the NBA. He said he's a little better league. I've talked with ABA players and they think the NBA is better, especially when it comes to playoffs and accommodations for the teams when traveling."

Hawthorne would not confirm the amount of his salary but did say, "I'm making more money last year but it will take a little time before I start earning what I really want."

Although, he won't have a chance to see the basketball Salukis play this year, he had some good news from around the NBA concerning All-American candidate Joe C. Metweater.

"I've heard coaches and scouts discussing Joe and they like him. They think he can play in the NBA. I'd say things look pretty good for him. He'll probably go high in the draft."

Tailback Vic Major will get his first start of the year Saturday when the Salukis take on the Indians from Arkansas State. Game time for the homecoming game is 1 p.m.

Major, a freshman from Bilocx, Miss., will start in place of the injured Joe Laws. Against Temple, Major ran a kickoff back 97 yards. Major has seen limited action so far this year, gaining 31 yards on four carries.

"Arkansas State is just as good if not better than Northern Illinois," Saluki coach Doug Weaver remarked. Northern defeated SIU last week, 17-7.

"The Indians, 5-2, lead the series with SIU 11-9-1. The last time the ABA teams met in 1971, the Salukis handled the Indians a 21-14 defeat to snap an Arkansas St. 21-game unbeaten streak."

Last week Arkansas State lost a 10-4 decision to Lamar, to all but kill their hopes of taking the NCA, though. It's a conference crown.

"Arkansas State is a veteran offensive line team," said Weaver. The Indians have 22 players who have earned two or more varsity letters. The Indians will be led by Steve Banks or James Flynn at quarterback. When Burks is not calling signals, he switches to tailback to give the Indians a double passing threat.

Freshman fullback Hugh Fletcher will not set aside Saturday's game, it was announced late Friday afternoon. Fletcher, who suffered a bruised calf in Wednesday's practice, will be replaced by Lawrence Boyd.
